PALATINE HAPPENINGS.

Events Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Mrs. R. L. Gibbs is sick.

R. M. Putnam was confined to the house Tuesday.

Mrs. R. M. Putnam has been quite sick since last week.

Dr. Cyrus Draper of Arlington Heights was in town Monday.

Harry Hutchinson will sell out and move away from Palatine soon.

The republican primary election will be held at the village hall next Monday.

Mrs. Ann Lytle of Austin visited her sister, Mrs. D. West, the first of the week.

We understand that Mr. Rice will build a residence on his land at Glendale within a short time.

Chas. Orvitt of Chicago came out in his automobile Wednesday to visit Palatine acquaintances.

Charles Julian, Jr., went to Indianapolis Wednesday to visit with relatives and will return next week.

"The Deestric Skule" will be given in Arlington Heights by the Palatine people within a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Henry Freise has been sick with pneumonia this week, but we understand she is getting along nicely.

Charles W. Farr and Maude L. Cookingham were married in Chicago April 24. The Review offers congratulations.

Alfred Hanns was elected assistant marshal of the fire department at the regular meeting of the company Monday night.

R. H. Lytle recently purchased a residence and several acres of land at Libertyville, and will go there to reside after next September.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will hold their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Floyd Gibbs on Wednesday afternoon, May 7.

John Hinn will sell a car-load of cattle at auction on his farm next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. He always has good sales and sells the right kind of cattle.

At an auction advertised to take place at Schaumburg last Monday, not a single bid was made on the articles to be sold. We didn't print the bills or advertise the sale.

The village board met in special session Wednesday night and granted dram shop licenses to Henry Mundhenk, Henry Knigge, Melvin Fox, Peter Hartlett and Christian Rappolt.

A "Tom Thumb" wedding will be given in Battermann's hall on Friday evening, May 9. About forty little people, between the ages of four and seven, will take part. Everybody go. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

A number of residences are to be built in Palatine this summer. Chas. Lytle expects to build on his lot opposite Mrs. Cooper's place and we hear that two other residences will be erected soon. Palatine is growing again.

The Methodist congregation will join with St. Paul's congregation at the latter church in celebrating the third anniversary of the organization of the Young Peoples' society. Rev. Holmes and Rev. Bower of Elmhurst will address the meeting. All are welcome.

Have you noticed that the Review has had the best news in of late, as usual? For instance: We told that John Gainer will build, Flury's corner was sold, Hitzman would occupy more room, water extensions would be made, etc. We get the news the same week it occurs. Watch and see.

The following ticket is the only one in the field to be voted on in the republican primary election to be held Monday. State convention; delegate, M. Reynolds; alternate, H. F. Andermann. County convention; delegates, A. G. Sutherland and Henry Herschlag; alternates, C. E. Julian and Roy L. Peck. Congressional convention; delegates; H. C. Matthei and A. G. Smith; alternates, H. C. Grebe and Wm. V. Harz. Senatorial convention; C. E. Julian and H. F. Anderman; alternates, A. G. Sutherland and Henry Herschlag.

Standing room was at a premium in Battermann's hall last Friday night, when the "Deestric Skule" was presented under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. From the time that Schoolmaster R. L. Peck entered the room to the dropping of the curtain the audience was in continual laughter. The staging of the play was first-class and was a good reproduction of the old-time school. The characters were dressed to suit the occasion and the costumes alone were a source of much amusement to the audience. The forenoon session was made up of classes and the readin', ritin' and 'rithmetic was ridiculously funny. The afternoon session was a closing day program and the way that the essays were read, the declamations given and the songs sung was a treat. One ludicrous part succeeded another and the long program was finished with the spectators still eager for more. The program was finished by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." The parts were too many to make special mention, although a number deserve it. The ladies took in about $80 and feel well paid for their effort and are grateful to those who took part in the play.

Mrs. Dorothea Stroker.

Mrs. Dorothea Stroker died at her home in Palatine Monday morning, April 28, 1902, after a week's illness of pneumonia. Dorothea was born in the Province of Brandenburg, Germany, December 26, 1838. She came to America with her parents and settled in Schaumburg. She was married in the latter place to Henry Stroker May 18, 1862, and they went to Chicago to reside and in 1876 they came to Palatine. Mr. Stroker died April 26, 1879. Four sons and five daughters were born, two sons, George of Palatine and Herman of Chicago, survive, and three daughters, Bertha, Anna and Mrs. Will Ost. Aside from the children, the deceased leaves three brothers and three sisters to mourn her departure.

Mrs. Stroker was an active worker in St. Paul's church of this place, of which she was a member and was a worker in the Aid society of that church and also in the Attenheim Aid society in Chicago. She was a kind, affectionate mother and her sympathies were always with the unfortunate, who often were made mindful of her generosity. She has not been well since the death of her son Louis a month ago, and when she was taken ill Sunday, April 20, she grew rapidly worse, and notwithstanding the efforts to save her life, she passed away Monday morning.

The funeral services were held at the home Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister preaching a touching funeral sermon. He spoke of the many virtues of the deceased and the sad breaking up of the home caused by her departure. Many beautiful floral tributes were placed about the casket. The remains were laid to rest beside the husband and children in Hillside cemetery. The children have the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

Rural Free Delivery.

Rural delivery has come to stay. By its fruits it has demonstrated not only its usefulness, but its indispensability. No improvement of the public service ever attempted by the government has been so immediately and so universally successful. It has delivered the mails at the home of the farmers, put them in daily touch with the outer world, given them daily papers, market reports, weather signals, registered letters, postal orders and stamps by mail. It is the first real effort every made to put the farmer on something like an equal footing with his neighbors in the cities and towns, so far as the postal service is concerned.

Appreciate Assistance.

The publisher cannot give all the news, except he receives assistance from the public, hence if the public is interested in having a good, live, reliable newspaper in its midst, each one should take it upon himself to give to the publisher bits of news that come to his knowledge, always remembering to give nothing but facts and not to be ambitious to see in your local paper about your neighbor or his family that which you would not want to see about yourself or family. Thus you will materially aid the publisher of your own town paper, raise the moral standard of the community in which you live, and send out to the world the impression that you live in a good, pure and desirable community. So we find the relations between publisher and public are, or should be, mutual.

WANTED—Man to take care of two cows, two horses, garden and make himself useful on country place.

GEORGE R. LYON AGAIN

Nominated to Represent Eighth District in the Legislature.

A. K. Stearns Meets Defeat at the Hands of Combine He Formed.

It was a great convention. The Waukegan Sun says "it was longest convention ever held in county," and having no measurements of the previous conventions for comparison, we shall not dispute the statement. In fact the convention was too "long" for A. K. Stearns, editor of the Sun, who was a candidate for legislative honors. The "great body of republican voters throughout Lake county," who, according to Mr. Stearns, had during the campaign "received him with open arms and given him words of encouragement," evidently forgot him when they selected delegates to go to the peaceful village where is located the county poor farm, fair grounds, a macaroni factory, many pretty homes and 900 of the best citizens of Lake county, and nominate a representative to enter the assembly hall at Springfield. Mr. Stearns was in the convention hall and close to his Waukegan supporters, but when the gong rang after a warming up spurt the gentleman cast an imploring look upon his lieutenants, heaved a sigh and arrived at the conclusion that his political obituary was about to be written.

To be plain about the matter A. K. Stearns was not "in it" from the time the delegates reached Libertyville to announcement of the result of the 7th ballot, only as a plaything for the 2nd, 3rd and 5th district of Waukegan delegates assisted by the towns Libertyville, Wauconda and Shields. There was not a Stearns delegate on the floor of the convention hall but recognized that the man who, two years ago claimed to have been defeated for the post of honor by underhanded methods, was not the choice of the convention. Still that faction was, content to remain outside the Lyon preserves and trot with any candidate but the winner.

The convention was interesting and at times exciting, and was, no doubt, the most stubbornly contested in the history of the party in Lake county.

H. Cook of Shields gagged his delegation and was a prominent figure whom the convention told to "sit down" every time he got up. W. A. Dean of Libertyville, headed a "rump" caucus choice of delegates, which by a narrow margin of votes were given seats in the convention. These gentlemen and Messrs. Coon and Wilmot of Waukegan, furnished the motions and registered the kicks for the editor of the Sun.

Wm. Hallowell of Waukegan took care of the interests of Mr. Lyon.

There were a few sharp reproofs merited ones, from the chairman who ruled fair and well, while Justice VanDeusen of Waukegan, sergeant at arms, banished a blackthorne and commanded peace.

Work of the Convention.

The convention was called to order in the village hall, Libertyville, at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, by R. D. Wynn of the central committee.

Schuyler Coe of Highland Park was chosen as temporary chairman and E. J. Sablin of Antioch, secretary. On motion the following representatives of the press were named as assistant secretaries: Frank Just, Libertyville Independent; W. J. Smith, Waukegan Sun; F. H. West, Waukegan Gazette; C. H. Morrison, Barrington Review.

On call of the roll 193 delegates reported present, contesting delegations being announced from Shields, first district, Libertyville, and Deerfield second district. A committee on credentials, consisting of one member from each district except those showing contests, was named as follows:

Benton, H. Ferry; Newport, James Pollock; Antioch, D. Williams; Grant, J. Dalsel; Avon, E. B. Neville; Warren, O. Whitmore; Waukegan, Eckstrand, Wilnot, Wynn, Hallowell and Sampson; Shields, 2nd., E. Bartle; Fremont, Wm. Lusk; Wauconda, C. Schendorf; Cuba, Miles T. Lamey; Elia, H. L. Prehm; Vernon, S. T. Foote; West Deerfield, A. S. Antes; Deerfield 1st., — Holmes; Deerfield 3rd., F. A. Greenslade.

The committee went into executive session in the basement of the building and the only comment necessary is to say that it wasn't a prayer meeting.

The committee submitted majority and minority reports, the minority report being presented by M. T. Lamey and majority report by W. H. Wilnot. The latter reported all delegations entitled to recognition except Libertyville and Deerfield 2nd. A lively fight was taken up and the majority report adopted by a vote of 91 to 90, thus seating the Dean delegation from Libertyville adding 12 votes to the Stearns column.

The committee on resolutions reported that the nominee as representative be uninstructed as to choice of Lake county republicans for United States senator. No reference was made to the state administration.

The temporary organization was made permanent and the convention proceeded to ballot for representative the informal ballot resulting

Lyon	87
Stearns	65
Montgomery	21
Mason	13
Rice	7

193

Necessary to choice 97.

This showing put Mr. Stearns out of the race as a winner and gave signs of Palmer Montgomery of Highland Park being a winner if Mr. Lyon's forces should show signs of desertion. The first formal ballot:

Lyon	91
Stearns	65
Montgomery	23
Mason	12

The second ballot showed the Rice vote, for the time being, was paroled to Mason and Stearns.

Lyon	93
Stearns	66
Montgomery	21
Mason	13

The third ballot showed no change from the vote recorded on the second. On the fourth ballot Lyon lost 2, Stearns 13, Montgomery gained 15 and Mason's vote remained 13. The fifth ballot brought Rice back into the field the vote being divided as follows:

Lyon	91
Stearns	39
Montgomery	32
Mason	21
Rice	10

When the roll was called for the sixth ballot the Stearns forces were badly scattered and his lieutenants endeavored to stop the stampede to Montgomery and Mason, but without success. Mr. Rice was withdrawn as a candidate and his support presented to Montgomery.

Lyon	92
Stearns	27
Montgomery	46
Mason	28

The seventh ballot was the one for which the Lyon men were waiting. A combination of the Stearns, Mason and Montgomery forces which controlled 101 votes, was attempted but Wauconda deserted the combine and cast its 7 votes for Geo. R. Lyon thus insuring his nomination. The last ballot:

Lyon	98
Montgomery	43
Mason	28
Stearns	24

When the result was announced the Lyon delegates went wild. Justice VanDeusen howled for "order in the court," but as none of the delegates or spectators feared a fine for contempt, it was some moments before order was restored. Mr. Cook, of Shields, who had led a Stearns battery during the engagement, tumbled, as gracefully as possible, into the Lyon band wagon by offering a motion that the nomination of Hon. Geo. R. Lyon be made unanimous. It was carried with a cheer for Lyon.

It was a clean, well fought battle, and the supporters of Mr. Lyon have just cause to feel elated at the result. As before stated, A. K. Stearns could not have been nominated in that convention as Palmer Montgomery was in position to receive the Lyon support which Mr. Stearns had no means of attracting. Cuba and Elia never wavered in their support of Lyon.

Convention Notes.

The attendance was large. Every candidate for a county office at the coming fall election was there laying wires.

Congressman A. J. Hopkins, candidate for United States senator was in attendance and addressed the convention. He made no allusion to the senatorship.

After the fifth ballot Mr. Stearns packed his boom and sent it to Waukegan by freight. It is said the boom will be embalmed and buried beneath the corner stone of the Carnegie public library.

Fred Kirschner of this township was selected as a delegate to the state convention and member of the county central committee. Miles T. Lamey was chosen a delegate to the congressional convention and George J. Hager to the senatorial convention.

A. J. Raymond of Wauconda goes as a delegate to the state convention and Arthur Cook to the congressional.

H. L. Prehm of Lake Zurich was appointed to a place on the county central committee.

WEEK'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Business Transacted by the House and Senate in the National Capital.

PAY TRIBUTES TO THEIR DEAD

House Holds Memorial Services for Representatives Stokes of South Carolina and Crump of Michigan—Senator Carmack Discusses Philippine Policy.

Thursday, April 24.

Just before adjournment of the senate Mr. Rawlins concluded his speech in opposition to the Philippine government bill.

The senate passed several unobjectionable measures of minor importance and a large number of private pension bills. Seventy-eight private pension bills were passed, as was one to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon in Washington to be used for a hall of records and making an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the purpose. A resolution was adopted directing the secretary of war to send to the senate all department reports regarding the Bufington-Crozier gun carriage. The usual executive session preceded adjournment.

The oleomargarine bill was sent to conference by the house after agreeing to the senate amendment with some modifications suggested by the agricultural committee. The opponents of the measure offered a number of amendments, the principal one of which was designed to place renovated butter on the same footing with oleomargarine, but they were overwhelmingly voted down. The latter part of the day was devoted to the agricultural appropriation bill, which carries $5,158,570. Mr. Fox (Miss.) made an exhaustive speech in defense of the suffrage clause of the Mississippi constitution.

Friday, April 25.

Mr. McCumber, chairman of the Senate committee on manufactures, spoke at length on his bill "to prevent the adulteration, misbranding and imitations of food, beverages, candies, drugs and condiments." He declared the extent of the adulteration and misbranding of food products was appalling. He enumerated many of the frauds in food products which were being foisted upon the public and declared the time had come for Congress to act, as the instances he had cited were crimes against the retail merchant and consumer alike. The amount of deleterious food products placed upon the market each year, Mr. McCumber said, was valued at fully $1,170,000,000, while the total amount of adulterated food products each year was nearly $4,000,000,000. He expressed the belief, based upon evidence taken by his committee, that manufacturers and dealers generally would not object to the enactment of the bill, inasmuch as it would put them all upon a uniform business basis. Mr. Carmack occupied the rest of the day with a speech on the Philippine government bill.

In the house one hundred and forty-five private pension bills were passed, including bills to pension the widow of General William Ludlow at $50 a month and the widow of "Parson" Brownlow of Tennessee at $30 a month. The remainder of the day was devoted to general debate on the agricultural appropriation bill. Mr. Lessler (N. Y.) discussed the necessity for a new postoffice at New York, Mr. Cochran (Mo.) the trust question and H. C. Smith (Mich.) "good roads." The conference report on the Chinese exclusion bill (a disagreement) was made by Mr. Hitt (Ill.). The house insisted upon its disagreement and the bill was sent back to conference, the same conferees being appointed.

Saturday, April 26.

Mr. Carmack completed the speech on the Philippine government bill which he began in the senate Friday. He continued his caustic criticism of the administration's policy and the ultimate end to which, he said, it would lead, concluding by expressing the hope that the administration would turn from its "bloody gospel of the strenuous life" to the paths of peace.

"If the carpet-bag government you propose to establish in the Philippines," he cried, "is not a thousand times better than that which you established in your own country after the civil war, Lord God have mercy upon the people of those islands." Mr. Carmack referred to the cable reports from Manila that Gen. Smith had acknowledged he had given orders to make Samar a howling wilderness and to kill all over 10, as horrible beyond the description of words. The program, he said, was to practice unheard-of barbarities in the slaughter of the inhabitants and to have the torch complete the work of slaughter. "When the land is without a home and the country without a people the word

Big Fire Loss at New Albany. New Albany, Ind., dispatch: S. W. Newburger and Sons' dry goods store was destroyed by fire. Loss, $65,000. Another fire two hours earlier destroyed the box department of the Ohio Window Glass Company.

'pacified' will be written upon the tombstones of the province of Samar." Mr. Jones, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, reported favorably the resolution providing for an investigation by the committee on relations with Cuba of the alleged control of the Cuban sugar crop and sugar lands in Cuba, and it was adopted. A resolution offered by Mr. Proctor was passed directing the secretary of war to send the senate a statement of the number of disappearing gun carriages under contract, a list of the bids for the construction of such carriages, the total cost of the carriages, where they are mounted and where it is proposed to mount those under construction. The usual executive session preceded adjournment.

After devoting an hour to the passage of bills by unanimous consent, public business was suspended in the house, and for the remainder of the afternoon tributes to the memories of Representative Stokes of South Carolina and Representative Crump of Michigan were listened to.

Monday, April 28.

The house amendments to the oleomargarine bill were accepted by the senate, thus passing it. The conference report on the Chinese exclusion bill was also adopted. Consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill was begun, but not concluded. Mr. Simmons spoke at length in opposition to the Philippine government bill. Mr. Harris presented the following telegram he had received from the Kansas Millers' association: "Kansas millers, on account of foreign discriminations, with the best wheat in the world at their door, are not producing over one-third of their full capacity. Unless your committee on foreign relations can give us relief through reciprocal concessions, placing our millers on an equal basis with foreign mills, many of our mills will be shut down indefinitely, and some of them will be forced to the wall. In our distress we look to our senators for relief." The telegram was referred to the committee on foreign relations. There was no executive session, adjournment being taken at 5:10 p. m.

Slow progress was made in the house with the agricultural appropriation bill, only twenty-five of the forty-nine pages being disposed of. During the debate Mr. Curtis (Kan.) made a brief but fervid defense of General Funston against the criticism to which he had been subjected. If another had accomplished what General Funston did, he said, the Democrats would have made him their candidate for President. Mr. Feely (Ill.) submitted some remarks in support of the contention that the laws of neutrality were being violated by this government in allowing the shipment of mules and horses to South Africa for use by the British in the war against the Boer republics. He said public sentiment in the United States favored the cause of the Boers, and insisted that neither secretly nor openly should this government extend aid to the British. Mr. Feely and Mr. Gillett (Mass.) clashed upon the interpretation of that part of the treaty of Washington which binds the United States and Great Britain as to what constitutes war materials. The conferences report on the Chinese exclusion bill was agreed to.

Tuesday, April 29.

The senate devoted the day to discussion of the Philippine civil government bill.

Under a special order which allowed three hours' debate, but which cut off all opportunity of amendment, the omnibus building bill, which will distribute $17,405,450 among 174 cities, was passed in the house. As the bill covers into the treasury $1,535,000, the total amount carried by the bill is reduced to that extent. The bill provides for seventy-seven new buildings and sites already purchased, seventeen buildings on donated sites and fifty-eight increases in appropriations for buildings already authorized. It also provides for the purchase of sixteen sites. The majority for the bill was so overwhelming that only nine members backed a demand for the yeas and nays on the passage of the bill. There was some criticism of the method by which it was proposed to pass the bill without opportunity for amendment, which Mr. Mercer, chairman of the committee, answered by stating that if the bill had been subject to amendment the appropriation carried by it would have been increased to $60,000,000. The consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill was resumed, but only seven pages was disposed of.

FORMER CABINET MEMBER IS DEAD

J. Sterling Morton, Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Passes Away.

ADVOCATE OF TREE PLANTING

Was the Founder of Arbor Day, and His Efforts in That Direction Resulted in the Bare Western Prairies Being Covered with Forests.

J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture under President Cleveland and founder of Arbor day, died at the home of his son, Mark Morton, at Lake Forest, Ill. He had just rounded out his seventieth year. At the bedside were his three sons, Paul Morton, second vice president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway company, and Joy and Mark Morton, of Joy Morton & Co., with their families.

Mr. Morton had been in poor health for more than a year. The death of his youngest son, Carl Morton, at Waukegan, last January, was a great blow to him, and it is said that he never recovered from it.

His serious illness dated from last November, when he contracted a severe cold as he was speaking at the stock show in Chicago. The cold ran into an attack of grip, and Mr. Morton was in a hospital for some time. After a partial recovery he went, early in March, to the City of Mexico.

During his stay in the southern country a disease of the bronchial arteries developed, and he returned North. Three weeks ago Mr. Morton

J. STERLING MORTON. was taken to Lake Forest in the hope of securing the services of a specialist. The condition of his throat again became aggravated and a week ago he suffered an attack of apoplexy. His death was due, immediately, however, to an inflammation of the bronchial arteries.

Since his retirement as secretary of agriculture in 1897 Mr. Morton had remained in private life, but had been a strong influence in both state and national politics. He was a staunch member of the gold wing of the Democratic party and refused to follow the lead of William Jennings Bryan and the Chicago and Kansas City platforms. After returning to his Nebraska home from Washington he established a weekly paper called the Conservative, in which he discussed the politics of the day and current events. This paper had a wide circulation, and with it Mr. Morton supported McKinley for president in both his campaigns. The achievement of which Mr. Morton was proudest was his founding of Arbor day, which is observed each year on April 22 throughout the country with the planting of trees. It has converted vast stretches of barren Western prairies into spots of beauty and comfort. Since its start in Nebraska in 1872, it is said that more than 13,000,000 trees have been planted in that state alone. His constant motto was, "Plant trees."

EVIDENCE IN ANDREWS CASE

F. C. Pingree, the President, Gives Testimony Against Cashier.

Detroit (Mich.) dispatch: Frank C. Pingree, president of the wrecked City Savings Bank, was called to the witness stand at the examination of Frank C. and Henry R. Andrews, vice president and cashier of the bank, who are charged with causing its ruin. Pingree testified that last July the directors discovered that the bank was holding some of Frank C. Andrews' paper which they had not approved. Pingree said that he talked the discovery over with Frank C. Andrews and told him that if the bank was going to be robbed he (Pingree) did not want to have anything to do with it and would resign. "Andrews," said Pingree, "said he would not take the presidency if I would resign. He added that if I resigned he would and if I wanted the bank to go down all I had to do was to resign."

After a heated argument Andrews finally agreed to sell his real estate and straighten out the affairs. Pingree said that Andrews told him they could sell the City Savings Bank by fall, as there were two banks that wanted to buy it.

DEATH AND INJURY IN TRAIN WRECK

Four Die and Twenty-Three Are Hurt in Santa Fe Accident.

CARS TURNED INTO KINDLING

Rails Spread While Train Is Rounding a Curve, the Passengers Being Pinned Beneath the Pile of Broken Timbers and Twisted Steel.

Four persons were killed and twenty-three were injured, eight seriously, in the wrecking of the California limited on the Santa Fe road near Medill, Mo.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by spreading of the rails as the train was rounding a curve.

Three cars were thrown into the ditch, forming a great heap of broken timbers and twisted metal in which were pinned suffering travelers to the number of nearly thirty.

The dead: Rufus Buster, C. C. Fairbanks, 5-year-old son of Henry C. Gates, I. Wertheimer.

The following injured are in the hospital at Fort Madison: O. F. Griffin, Hills, Emil Eitel, Tenney S. French, W. W. Thomas, J. F. Davis, William H. Thompson, W. J. Runkle, Henry C. Gates, Mrs. Henry C. Gates, daughter of Mrs. Gates, Miss Johann Platter, George Weeks, Charles Markell, Max Heinrich, Charles Sargent.

The others injured continued on their journey. The dead were taken to Fort Madison.

The train was over an hour late. It ran through Wyconda at the rate of sixty miles an hour, and is said to have been going at about the same speed when it struck a curve near Cama Switch.

The smoker, dining car and forward bore the brunt of the fall, and in these most of the casualties occurred. The two cars were smashed into kindling wood.

The trainmen, assisted by unhurt passengers and neighboring farmers, at once set to work trying to extricate the injured and the bodies of the dead. The conductor went to a nearby farmhouse and telephoned to Fort Madison, from which place a relief train with physicians was sent out as quickly as possible.

Mr. Wertheimer, one of the killed, was accompanied by his wife and two children, and was on his way from Australia to Germany.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN FLAG

Despite agitation for a change, the arrangement of stars in the blue field of the American flag will remain as it is if prominent officers of local patriotic associations have their way. These have expressed their disapproval of the idea of Representative J. F. Shafroth of Colorado as embodied in his bill introduced in congress, on the grounds that it is too formal and would lack permanency. In this design the thirteen original states form a circle around a star made up of smaller stars, each representing a

William H. Carson, past commander of E. B. Wolcott post, No. 1, "nor should the stars in the flag. The design before congress is too set, and that of the Philadelphia man would cause the states last admitted to occupy positions at the end of the tail, so to speak. There is plenty of room in the field for all new states according to the present arrangement, and the design should not be changed."

Mrs. Thomas H. Brown, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said: "We love our flag state, while the territories stand waiting admission to the larger star.

The composite flag proposed by Harry Vanetti Vogt of Philadelphia, is also condemned. It is said that the arrangement would give certain states a preference over others in point of position.

"The stars in the blue field of the heavens are not arranged according to a geometrical design," said Dr. Wilson because it is as it is, and no change could compensate for the loss of those characteristics which have endeared it to us.

"I favor the present arrangement," said Mrs. Charles Catlin, president of the Daughters of the War of 1812, "and would not express a preference for any design until I saw that we could no longer retain the flag as it is."—Indianapolis News.

The Great Manufacturing States.

It is a somewhat curious fact that the seven states which stood first in 1890 in the value of manufactured products stand first again in 1900, and in exactly the same order. First of all comes New York; second, Pennsylvania; third, Illinois; fourth, Massachusetts; fifth, Ohio; sixth, New Jersey; and seventh, Missouri. Illinois is third in population, as in manufacturing product. In that respect it occupies a normal position. Its output per unit of population is $261, compared with New York's $299, Pennsylvania's $291 and New Jersey's $324. The output per unit is affected by the character of the business carried on. New Jersey is the home of the silk manufacturing industry of the United States. It is partly owing to the manufacture of this expensive product that New Jersey, in one respect, outranks Illinois.

Queer Japanese Marriage Custom.

Wild geese are considered the best examples of conjugal felicity in the animal world; thus the groom sends the bride a pair of these birds, and she in turn presents them to her parents. To further emphasize the matter, the groom brings another pair to the wedding, and they roost in the room during the ceremony. Their conduct is watched with care, for they must not struggle to escape during the proceedings. Fortunately the bridegroom who cannot secure these geese alive and must be content to substitute toy imitations of the birds, for then he has no anxiety lest the wild propensity assert itself during the marriage rites, and thus prove an ill omen to the household.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Chinese Dinner in Tokio.

One of the sensations of the season is the dinners given at the Imperial Chinese legation in Tokio. The present minister seems to be remarkably hospitable. His thoughtful conception is to make his guests acquainted with the mysteries of Chinese cooking, while at the same time giving them an abundance of Occidental dishes. The celebrated bird's nest soup, shark's fins, crystal dumpling and almond tea, all make their appearance, and the numerous courses of a particularly recherché banquet are served in prettily shaped and richly chased silver vessels, one for each guest, and a different set for every course.

A study of a recent menu will convey an idea of the variety and rarity of the viands: (1) Bird's nest soup. (2) Shark's fin. (3) Minced fish and salad. (4) White fungus. (5) Stewed ducks. (6) Fillet of roast beef. (7) Chinese minced pie. (8) Seaweed soup. (9) Fried fish. (10) Fried chicken. (11) Pate de foie gras. (12) Shrimps and pea. (13) Stuffed mushrooms. (14) Roast turkey and ham. (15) Chinese crystal dumpling. (16) Almond tea. (17) Plum pudding. (18) Almond cream baskets.

Wedded Under License Nine Years Old.

Jacob Groff, a faithful lover of sixty-two years, was married at Mayton, W. Va., a few days ago to Miss Rebecca Gleisburry, three years his senior, the "girl" for whom he had waited for forty years. Nine years ago he secured the marriage license, but the bride elect refused to wed him then. He folded the license, put it away, and waited until she should be ready. His persistence and faithfulness finally won, and she agreed to become his bride. The minister, the Rev. D. S. Thomas, hesitated when he saw the date upon the license, but when he was told the circumstances he married them under the license nine years old.

BOOK REVIEWING DONE BY GIRLS

Interesting Fragments of Conversation Heard in a Street Car.

Sat two girls in a street car. They were bright eyed and rosy cheeked. They were not over 18 nor under 16. They were passing their opinions on literary products and authors, past and present. Fragments of these opinions floated through the car when its wheels became quiet to let off or take on a passenger. Here are a few samples of what they said:

"Don't you like Kipling?"

"Oh, I think he's too dear for anything! What was that he wrote about plain—plain—"

"Plain Sails from the Riels."

"Yes; it reminded me so much of that new book—'High and Fly'—"

"You mean 'High and Dry,' don't you?"

"Oh, yes, to be sure. How stupid of me! Let me see—who was it wrote it?"

"Washington Irving."

"So it was; I believe he was a bachelor."

"How do you like Shakespeare?"

"Oh, isn't he a stunning writer?"

"Perfectly divine! What have you read of his?"

"Oh, I've never read anything by Shakespeare. Have you?"

"Of course not, but I think he's great just the same. By the way, how do you like Laura Jean Libbey?"

"Say, isn't she simply exquisite?"

"Too good to talk about!"

"Doesn't she describe love to perfection?"

"Oh, I could die reading her books."

At this point the car stopped opposite the statehouse and the two literary critics passed out still gurgling over the merits of their respective favorites.—Ohio State Journal.

THE VALUE OF TOTAL ABSTENTION

Old Question Relative to Use of Intoxicants and Longevity.

After declining a polite invitation of a bibulous nature from a friend with whom he was conversing in the lobby of the Ebbitt, Hon. Rice Pierce, the popular congressman from Tennessee, made the remarkable statement that not in the course of his entire life had he allowed a drop of malt or alcoholic liquor to pass his lips.

Anybody who knows Mr. Pierce would put implicit credence in his words. In answer to a reporter's question Mr. Pierce said: "I never took any pledge to abstain from drinking intoxicants. I don't know that I deserve any special credit for refraining, for I really never had the least desire to know the taste of spirits. Nearly all my friends are moderately given to the use of liquor and I have no prejudice on the question. It is simply a life-long observance."

Though there may be nothing in the doctrine of heredity, it is a little curious to know that Mr. Pierce's father was also a total abstainer and that he lived to the ripe old age of 89.

On the other hand his grandfather took three fairly good-sized drinks a day, with the greatest system and regularity, and he lived to be 96. Thus it would seem there is no iron-clad rule as to the relations between the use of intoxicants and longevity.

Hotel Keeper's Rapacity.

A United States senator went to Atlantic City a week or so ago for a few days' stay. He took a room at one of the American plan hotels, agreeing to pay $8 a day for his meals and room. The next morning after he arrived he was seized with an attack of rheumatic gout. The doctor he called told him he must eat nothing but bread and milk. He stayed at the hotel for five days, and ate bread and milk three times a day, touching nothing on the elaborate menus. On the sixth day he sent for his bill. This is the way it came: "To room and board, five days at $8, $40. To fifteen dishes bread and milk, at 25 cents, $3.75." "But," expostulated the senator, "I ate none of the meals. You shouldn't charge me for the bread and milk." The clerk silently pointed to the line, "Dishes not on the regular bill of fare are charged extra," and the senator says he will make it cost them $1,000 by the time he has told all his friends to keep away.—Washington Letter.

Mathematical Facility.

In one of the public schools recently, according to a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, a number of small pupils were busily engaged in working problems in multiplication, with more or less satisfactory results.

After a time the teacher noticed one little fellow who seemed most unhappy. His cheeks were flushed, his hair tumbled and tears were very near the surface. The teacher said, in a kindly tone:

"Well, John, what is the matter?"

"Oh, dear, I wish I was a rabbit!" replied the boy.

"A rabbit!" exclaimed the teacher in astonishment. "Why on earth would you like to be a rabbit?"

"Well, my papa says they multiply so fast!"—Youth's Companion.

Mixed on His Vowels.

He was a short, corpulent, important looking man and as he walked down the aisle in the church in which he was a much respected and honored member he seemed fairly to radiate self-love and self-approval. He stopped a few paces from pew No. 5 to allow his matronly-looking wife and three stunning-looking and blooming daughters to precede him, when to his disgust and amazement he discovered that it was already filled to overflowing with some strangers. Hastening to the back of the church, where the negligent ushers were engaged in an animated conversation concerning the spring styles, he demanded in a voice filled with indignation and ire: "Who's occupying my pew?"

Aged, crippled from injuries sustained in a mine accident years ago, and in an almost helpless condition, Joseph Fletcher of Springfield has been deserted by his wife and two sons, Fred C. Fletcher aged 20, and Louis W., aged 16 years. The trio left for parts unknown taking with them half the savings of a lifetime. The only reason assigned for their leaving is because the father expostulated against Fred's devotion to church work. The old man says he appreciates the fact that he was cross and irritable at times, but he holds his physical sufferings are accountable for these tendencies, and he declares he has always tried to restrain his feelings in this direction.

Ashton has been appointed assistant surgeon of Quincy naval reserves with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade.

About two hundred employers of union labor held a meeting at Quincy for the purpose of organizing an employers' association. In Justice Allen's court at Quincy Otto Roth was fined $25 and costs for keeping his saloon open on Sunday.

A gang of men has started the erection of a telegraph line along the right of way of the Decatur and Springfield extension of the Indianapolis, Decatur and Western road. Gravel for grading is being distributed along the line and Mr. Wildeson, the superintendent of construction, thinks that the road will be ready for trains about May 15. The great difficulty in the way of the road is the opposition of the Illinois Central to the laying of the necessary crossing east of the city. The point of that crossing is guarded night and day.

ALTON S. SHERMAN, (Mayor of Chicago half a century ago, who recently celebrated his ninety-first birthday.)

Alton S. Sherman, Chicago's oldest living mayor, who has made his home at Waukegan since 1856, recently celebrated the ninety-first anniversary of his birth, and, as has been customary for several years he gave his family a reunion dinner. The infirmities of age are now beaming upon him, and the aged man, while still able to be about and ride out in pleasant weather, is deaf and almost blind. Of the twenty-two different mayors of Chicago, only seven are living. Mr. Sherman is the oldest.

The Carlinville Telephone company has closed a contract with the Montgomery County Telephone company whereby all the subscribers of the Litchfield exchange will have free connection with the Hillsboro and Butler exchanges of the Montgomery County Telephone company.

It has been decided to call a convention of all commissioned officers in the militia to be held in Chicago on Flag day, June 14. At this meeting a constitution and by-laws for the new national guard association will be adopted and members of its executive council appointed.

C. A. Tippey, residing near Fredonia, upon reaching Carbondale found that he had been robbed of over $200 after boarding an Illinois Central train at Murphysboro. No clue to the pickpocket has been secured.

T. W. Thompson, one of the prominent fruit growers of Southern Illinois, is dangerously ill at his home in Carbondale. Jeanette Garner, colored, sued the city of Newton for $1,000 damages for an injury received in stumbling on a defective sidewalk and the jury gave her a judgment for $20.

Illustrated Journalism in the Chinese Empire

With other western innovations, illustrated journalism has invaded the Celestial Empire. Here is a recent news illustration from the Shanghai Tong Wen Ou Pao. It depicts, as the Chinese text attached to it states, the arrival at the imperial palace in Peking of many young Manchu girls.

These girls come to present themselves to the Dowager Empress as candidates for the post of court lady or imperial concubine.

The Dowager Empress' first task, on her return to Peking, was the reconstitution of the Emperor's harem, which forms also his body guard. It is largely through the ladies of the harem that the remarkable old Empress Dowager is kept informed of what little may go on in the mind of the nominal sovereign, Kwang-Su, and is thus enabled to maintain her influence over him. She is the real ruler of the empire.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1902

The gravediggers of Chicago have a grievance. Grievances among gravediggers are not so uncommon that these would call for particular notice were it not for the fact that the discontent in this instance is with the conditions of employment rather than with humanity itself. No man under present regulations is allowed to dig more than four graves a day. As the price for each grave is but 50 cents, this clearly limits earnings to a meager $2. Furthermore, there has appeared a tendency among the Chicago employers of these worthy workmen to make them rely more and more upon tips from the mourners and gratuities from those who manage funerals. Complaint has been followed by no improvement in their condition, so now the gravediggers have about decided to form a union. Here, however, they have come into a quandary. It has been impossible so far to decide whether their organization should be admitted to the Federation of Labor or to the Council of the Building Trades.

It is now asserted that the brigands who realized about $70,000 from the Stone transaction are planning to kidnap an American consul, in which they hope to make a still larger haul. They must take us for an "easy mark." It would appear that this country had contributed quite sufficiently to these highwaymen, who, it is generally understood, are Macedonian revolutionists. It ought now to be somebody else's turn to contribute to the revolutionary campaign fund. Possibly when the United States has collected the Stone ransom from Turkey and Turkish troops come around to collect it from Bulgaria this Macedonian "graft" will not look so profitable and easy as it does now.

According to the last census, Canada's experience with the divorce evil has as yet been comparatively slight. The returns show that the province of Quebec has only thirty-one males, and twenty-seven females whose marriage ties have been broken by the courts. Ontario has 111 males and 118 females. The Northwest Territories have 9 and 10 respectively, Manitoba 18 and 17, Prince Edward Island 5 and 9, Nova Scotia 49 and 42, New Brunswick 35 and 45, British Columbia 52 and 37, almost entirely in Yale and Caribou, and Yukon 28 and 18. In these last two provinces the proportion is much the highest, and this is attributed by the Canadians to the large influx of Americans in search of gold. Montreal has only three divorced men and eight divorced women, a remarkable record, and Toronto has, but fourteen of the one and sixteen of the other.

The quarterly bulletin issued by the New York state labor department covering the last three months of 1901 contains some timely information which may be of interest to the country at large. It shows that there was comparatively little idleness in the trades and occupations covered by reports, a considerable gain in average wages and few labor troubles of a serious kind. There was notable activity in the building trades of New York city, where the estimated cost of buildings for which plans were filed during the quarter was about $31,000,000 against $22,000,000 a year before. If the conditions in the Empire State and the metropolis may be taken as a fair gauge of those prevailing generally throughout the country, it would seem that the labor situation is highly encouraging.

The rule of law that when a person accused of murder does not go on the stand as a witness in his own behalf the fact is not to be interpreted as suspicious is all right in theory, but it sometimes works differently in practice. It seems to have weighed heavily against the accused in the Patrick case in New York.

Constantinople is the only city in Europe where they view with alarm a crowd of American tourists. In all other cities they are a joy to the tradesmen, a boon to the hotel keepers and a "good thing" for the sharks generally.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor is the champion pingpong player of New York. How proud the original John Jacob would have been if he had foreseen the great honor to be conferred upon his house!

The spring racing season having opened, those sportively inclined gentlemen who neglected to contribute sufficiently to the bookmakers last fall may now repair the omission.

The people of Wyoming appear to be firmly committed to the notion that when a hanging is announced there is no good reason for postponement.

More Work Than Play.
"Does she play whist?"
"No. She makes the worst work of it you ever saw."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A WONDERFUL ESCAPE.

Terrible Experience of a Hunter With an Indian Band.

One of the most remarkable instances of the escape of a white man from the Indians was that of John Colter, a famous hunter and trapper. On the day in question he and his companion were surrounded by 600 savage warriors. The companion was instantly killed, and Colter was captured. His foes had no intention of saving his life, however. They wanted the sport of putting him to the torture or at least of playing with him as a cat plays with a mouse. The chief asked him if he could run. He said, "Not much."

He was released and told to save his life if he could.

Colter darted away at high speed, and most of the 600 savages set off after him. There was a plain before him five miles wide, bounded on the far side by a river fringed with trees. Colter had always been famous as a runner, and his practice now stood him in good stead. He made straight across the plain for the stream, and the yells of his pursuers lent him wings. His foes had removed every shred of clothing from his body, and the plain was covered with prickly pears, so that his unprotected feet were lacerated at every stride.

Half way across the plain he glanced back and saw that only a few Indians were following him. Again he ran on and soon realized that one of his pursuers was nearing him. He redoubled his efforts, and blood gushed from his nostrils and flowed down over his breast.

The fringe of trees was near, but a hasty backward look showed him the pursuing brave close upon him, with spear raised. Moved by a sudden impulse, Colter stopped, turned and faced the savage with outstretched arms.

The Indian was so taken aback at this unexpected movement that he stumbled and fell! This was Colter's opportunity. He ran back, seized the spear and, pinning his antagonist to the ground, ran on.

Other savages came on, fiercer than before at the death of their comrade, but Colter reached the trees, plunged into their midst and then into the river and swam to a pile of driftwood that had lodged. He dived beneath it and stuck his head up between two logs covered with smaller timbers and brush.

The Indians came up and searched for several hours, but failed to find him. Again and again they walked over the driftwood. Luckily they did not fire it, as he feared they would. At last they went away. Then Colter swam out and fled through the forest.

Seven days he went on, living on roots and berries, with no clothing, until at last he reached a trading post on the Bighorn river. He never fully recovered from the effects of this terrible experience.—Youth's Companion.

His Bank Signature.

A case for a handwriting expert was noticed at one of the downtown banks the other day. A treasurer of one of the many charitable organizations of this city had received a check to be devoted to that certain charity, and he was desirous of acknowledging it, but could not read the signature. He took the check to the bank on which it was drawn and questioned one of the clerks as to the signature and was told that it was genuine, but could not get the desired information. It was next taken to the paying teller, who also declared that it was genuine, but even he could not make out who it was and had to consult the card catalogue. There was not the slightest resemblance between the signature to the check and the real name.—New York Post.

The "Bad" Boys.

The "bad" boys are often the best boys in the neighborhood. All they want is a chance to do something. Don't expect healthy, active boys to want to be tied up in books and so called improving occupations continually. If boys are not given good ideas to work upon, such as they always get in kindergartens, manual training and other up to date schools, they are sure to be in harmful mischief, because boys with vim and "get there" in them are bound to be busy. Give them tools and materials to work with; encourage them to make sleds, carts, boats and various kinds of playthings. Don't ever give a "bad" boy up. Give him something to do.

Vanished Interest.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you think that women ought to be prevented from voting?"
"Certainly not."
"Wouldn't you try to stop me if I tried to go to the polls?"
"Not for an instant."
"Well, then, what in the world is the use of wanting to vote?"—Washington Star.

From Bad to Worse.

Myer—I believe we will follow the same occupation in the next world that we do here on earth.

Gyer—Get out! What would plumbers do in a place where the water pipes couldn't freeze, even if there was any water?—Chicago News.

Some of Them "Out."

"Is the jury still out?" asked the attorney for the defendant of Judge Wayback.

"I guess some of 'em is," replied the judge sagely. "They've bin playin' poker for the past three hours."—Ohio State Journal.

Lucky Girl.

Mr. Cropper (after the fox hunt)—Were you in at the death?
Miss Annie Seed—Well, rather. My poor old grandfather left me a quarter of a million.—Philadelphia Press.

The Blush.

From the purely artistic point of view the power to blush is one of the most requisite and commendable of physical endowments. Old men are past blushing; very young children, idiots and the lower animals cannot blush; but it appears that some tribes still on the outskirts of barbarism preserve the faculty to an astonishing degree.

The blush is a grace of life, a mark of vitality and of youthfulness. It betokens a great cerebral sensibility seconded by a perfectly sensitive skin. By a sort of instinct for personal defense at the slightest attack—a word or a mere glance—there is a gush of energy. I say energy, and not emotion. The heart beats no faster, but a signal from the brain sends a rush of all the spare blood to the skin, and, owing to the congestion of the small blood vessels, an extraordinary glow spreads over the face to the tips of the ear, to the roots of the hair, to the throat, sometimes even to the top of the bosom.

Darwin saw the back of a young girl blush and declares that in certain circumstances blushing may suffuse the whole body. It is as though the mind were hanging a curtain before the body to assert its right of precedence.—La Claviere, "The Art of Life."

Killing a Baby.

When Frank R. Stockton had planned out his book of Pomonas' travels and was about ready to write it, he resided in Philadelphia. He had a business appointment with his dentist, an old friend, one day, when the following incident, told by himself, occurred:

"While in the chair I got to talking with this friend about my new book. I told him I had serious thoughts of killing that baby. He was much interested. We talked over the advisability of doing this, and, while he was not quite convinced, he in the main agreed with me. I had been finished with and, clasping his hand, went into the waiting room on my way out. This waiting room was filled with women.

"As I passed through the door I heard him call, 'Then you have positively decided to kill that baby?' 'Positively,' I replied.

"You should have seen the women stare. It was not until I got well out in the hallway that I realized what they must of course have been thinking."

Milnes' Hospitable Menagerie.

W. Gordon McCabe says that when Monckton Milnes, the poet, aspired to grasp the social literary scepter falling from the withered hands of Rogers he gathered around his breakfast table in Pall Mall men of the most diverse personalities, creeds and tastes. In fact, the chief requirement for securing an invitation to these breakfasts, which soon became the talk of London, seems to have been that the guest must be a lion of some sort. Men of such pronounced differences as Count d'Orsay, the elegant dandy; the rugged Thomas Carlyle, Sydney Smith, the brilliant wit, and Coniop Thirlwall, the grave historian, sat there side by side, and had Buffalo Bill burst upon the town in those days Mr. McCabe thinks he, too, would undoubtedly have rubbed elbows in Milnes' hospitable menagerie with Tom Macaulay and Aubrey de Vere.

What a Widow Is.

It was a Sunday school class, and the teacher believed in asking questions to see how clearly the scholars understood their lessons. The widow of Ham was the subject, and the teacher thought she would be quickly answered when she asked, "What is a widow?" There was a silence until she nodded to the small boy at her left and said, "You know what a widow is, don't you?" for she knew the boy's mother was one.

"Yes'm," he answered; "it's a lady what takes in washing."

Enlightening the Minister.

"We are going to have pie for dinner," said Bobby to the minister.

"Indeed!" laughed the clergyman, amused at the little boy's artlessness.

"And what kind of pie, Bobby?"

"It's a new kind. Ma was talking this morning about pa bringing you to dinner so often, and pa said he didn't care what she thought, and ma said she'd make him eat humble pie before the day was over, and I suppose we're going to have it for dinner."

Light For All Its Weight.

"I thought all the toasts tonight were to be of a light and amusing nature?"

"They are."

"But you have Binks down for a topic that is decidedly heavy and serious."

"Of course. If there is anything funnier than Binks trying to tackle a great principle that he doesn't fully understand, I don't know what it is."—Chicago Post.

Ostrich Plumes.

All the black and white plumes come from the male ostrich, the gray from the female. The feathers are not plucked out, as you might imagine, but are clipped off with a sharp knife, leaving the end of the quill in the flesh, where it remains for two or three months, until it "dies," when it is pulled out with forceps.

His Lucrative Business.

"Wanted—For a lucrative business, a partner who must be a practical locksmith." This advertisement appeared in a Budapest paper recently. The advertiser is now in jail, the police having discovered that the lucrative business referred to was burglary.

Smart Child.

"You never saw my hands as dirty as yours," said a mother to her little girl.
"No, but grandmother did," was the reply.—Motherhood.

Political Notes.

The Eighth Senatorial district comprising the counties of Boone, Lake and McHenry held its convention at McHenry, Monday, afternoon and nominated George R. Lyon of Lake county and E. D. Shurtleff of McHenry county as representatives. The convention instructed for A. J. Hopkins for U. S. senator.

Chicago and Cook county is arrayed against the country districts in the battle for United States Senator. The press of the big city, with the exception of the Inter-Ocean, which is controlled by the Lorimer wing of the republican party, favor a Chicago man. The Daily News, (Ind. Rep.) has the following regarding the situation:

"For the first time since the creation of the republican party that organization in Illinois is planning to give both the United States senatorships to the country districts. The head conspirator is a party boss of Chicago. It is right that Chicago should have one of the senatorships, Chicago is the second city of the United States. It is the fifth city of the world. It has nearly half the population of the state. Its needs in the way of legislation are very great. That it ought to have a senator has been the steady conviction of the republican party of Illinois ever since its birth. Who is William Lorimer, boss, that he should be granted the privilege of changing this policy for his own selfish ends? If it be true that there is no republican in Chicago sufficiently able and distinguished to hold the office of United States senator then let the office go elsewhere. But is this true? Assuredly not. It is on record that Lorimer himself once tried to grab the office and was driven off by the universal outcry of the republicans. His present attitude seems to show that he will let no Chicagoan be elected senator, if he can prevent it, unless he himself shall be given the prize which he covets. The senatorship is Chicago's due. It will be conceded cheerfully by the state at large if the republicans ask for it."

The democrats of Lake county will meet in convention at the village hall in Libertyville, Thursday, May 15, for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the state, congressional and senatorial conventions, and to perfect organization of the county central committee. Wauconda township is entitled to 3 delegates, Elia 4 and Cuba 2.

Lake county, which is claimed by Senator Mason to be his home (for political purposes) selected a candidate for the legislature who was tied and bound by instructions for Hopkins though Mason had connected Waukegan with the river and harbor bill, the senator must have good eyes to see anything like a boom for him.

Luther Laffin Mills, the eloquent Chicago lawyer and orator, has entered the race for the United States senatorship and in the matter of fitness and ability makes the other candidates look like a crowd of small boys up an alley playing marbles, says an exchange.

Democratic County Convention.

Democratic voters of Lake county are hereby requested to elect delegates to the Democratic County convention to be held in the town hall in the village of Libertyville, Thursday, May 15, 1902, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to elect 6 delegates to the state convention at Springfield, June 17; twelve delegates to the congressional convention when called; 22 delegates to the 10th district senatorial convention when called; to take steps for the nomination of a democratic county ticket to be voted for in November, and perfect the organization of the county central committee.

The basis of representation in said convention will be one delegate for each 25 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for Bryan and Stevenson in 1900.

The several townships are advised to hold their town caucuses on or before May 14, at the usual place for holding such meetings.

By order of Democratic County Central Committee.

HENRY M. COBURN, Chairman.

Some of the happiest and most ideal homes where peace, contentment and harmony dwell have been the abodes of poor people. No rich carpets covered the floors, no costly paintings were on the walls, and there were no pianos, no works of art; but they were contented minds and unselfish and devoted lives. Each member of the family contributed as much as possible to the happiness of all, endeavoring to compensate by kindness and intelligence for the poverty of their surroundings.

The Woodmen and Royal Neighbors play at the Oakland hall last Saturday evening, although given for a second time, was largely attended and highly enjoyed. The receipts goes to the two lodges' general funds, and amounted to about $26.

Wm. Tekampe of Waukegan spent Sunday and Monday with friends and relatives in our village.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Golding returned to our village last Friday and expect to spend the summer here. Mr. Golding has just completed his course at the C. C. D. S. of Chicago and is now a full-fledged dentist. He will practice here for a few months and no doubt will be kept busy, as he has proven himself a thoroughly competent man by the work he has done during the past year, and we wish for him the best of success.

The county convention at Libertyville last Saturday proved a very exciting event, and although the Wauconda delegation consisted of seven, it cast the deciding vote and broke the deadlock which give George R. Lyon the nomination after the 7th ballot. A. K. Stearns had their solid support from the beginning up to the 6th ballot, and not until his support from the other towns had weakened nearly one-half, did Wauconda then shift to Mr. Lyon, who received 98 votes.

Judge Carter and the Constables.

The following timely and fitting editorial appeared in the Chicago News Saturday evening:

"Such facts as have just been brought to light by Judge Carter in his investigation of the Cook county constables go far to reveal the cause of the recent scandals growing out of misconduct on the part of certain officers of this sort. Judge Carter finds that out of the total number of constables now serving the bonds of forty are worthless. In six cases the bonds bear names which have been forged. In addition twelve constables have dropped completely out of sight and cannot be accounted for. Three more have simply quit their positions without taking the trouble to inform the proper authorities. * * * There are by far too many constables in Cook county and they are both improperly selected and endowed with too much arbitrary authority. Many of them eke out their incomes by promoting the schemes of collection sharks and extorting money from the helpless and ignorant. There are worthy men in the list who try to discharge their duties honestly and do not hire themselves out to promote extortion and blackmail, but the whole system tends to irresponsibility and blackmail."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean flies at its masthead the following: "The only paper in Chicago that dares to print the news." Of course there is not an intelligent man, woman or child who believes any such assertion. If the wording of that boast was changed to read "The only paper in Chicago that prints news manufactured to suit the demands of its publisher" there would be a whole lot of truth in the statement. During the present squabble for legislative candidates throughout the state the I. O. has printed that part of the news favorable to its candidates. It has failed to give anything but one side of the situation and that highly colored to suit its own views. For example, The Lake county republican convention endorsed no candidate for U. S. senator or was any reference made to the state administration, and the Inter-Ocean representative was aware of the fact. If reports from other sections of the state as published in the I. O. are as badly garbled as the report from this county the patrons of George Wheeler Hinman's paper are not reading reliable information.

Whooping Cough.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops.—JESSIE PINKEY HALL, Springville, Ala. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

An American Nabob.

A Remarkable Story of Love, Gold and Adventure.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBORNE

"And then—he always stopped at this point, as though what further vengeance the gods of retaliation would inflict depended on circumstances, only that it was his full design she should feel the bitterness of death and desertion that had wrung his heart and turned it to stone.

Fedora was under some species of spell.

She even knew not herself what it meant.

This remarkable man interested her—he seemed to arouse some half-slumbering memory that came as might a vague dream—a memory that must have been pleasant, for it had an intoxicating effect.

The strangeness of the sensation aroused her curiosity; she could not tell why she was drawn so irresistibly toward this black-bearded American nabob, who had set the gossips of London agog, whose name was on every lip, and of whom she had even heard the captain proudly mention more than once at the table as "my friend the Marquis." Nor did she make any strong effort at resistance—just as one is caught by a swift current and drawn on so rapidly that the senses grow confused.

What more natural than that she should ask him to call, either during her usual hour for receiving, or later when the captain might be at home to enjoy a cigar with him as they compared notes on adventurous travels in the jungles and forests of Africa and America.

The Marquis promised to take advantage of the first opportunity; then others came up and their tete-a-tete was broken.

CHAPTER XVII

Spinning the Web.

Some weeks had passed. All along the line the Marquis found himself in a condition to report progress.

Mazette had removed to cozy lodgings in a respectable neighborhood, and encouraged by the appreciation of this unknown but wealthy patron, she had set to work most diligently upon the task given her.

With nourishing food, and hope filling her heart, the future appeared very-bred, and she soon began to appear like the cheery Mazette of old.

More work followed—M. Duval sounded her praises aloud, and there were those who already thought it the thing to follow in the footsteps of the latest lion, so that Mazette's future seemed assured.

Then one day there was a knock at the door of her studio, for success had enabled her to have a workroom such as she had longed to possess, so, these many years.

Upon opening the door the little miniature painter saw a tall, heavily-bearded gentleman, whose air was somewhat foreign.

She straightway began to tremble, under the conviction that this must be her illustrious patron to whom she owed so much; for, he it known, M. Duval had been artfully prevailed upon to give as elaborate a description of the noble Marquis as lay in his power.

When her visitor spoke his voice was deep and reassuring; and there seemed to be some rare quality about it that almost startled little Mazette, arousing ill-defined and hazy memories of the past which she could not whip into any concrete form, try as she might.

When the Marquis offered his hand at leaving she was a little confused by the warmth of his clasp and the eagerness with which he promised to drop in again and see how the work progressed.

When the Marquis left the modest little studio he was surprised at the glow of generous feeling that came over him.

"God bless the brave little woman—it does a man good to even bask in her presence. Here, at least, is no deception such as stalks abroad in society's circles—she had only good words for her fellow creatures. At least let me be grateful for the privilege of being able to secure her future. This holy desire for her good may in a measure offset the still fierce passion for revenge. At least it gives me joy, an experience I had never hoped to feel again."

His other plans were maturing. Evidently the Marquis was in no hurry—neither is the satiated cat when she has caught a mouse that she cannot devour.

Livermore's losses at the gaming tables were not all—indeed, it seemed as though circumstances had taken a Spanish delight in combining to smite this son of fortune at a time when he could not find a means of resistance.

The several companies controlling South African mines in which Livermore had investments, and which had been paying good dividends, were bought up by some new combination, backed by unlimited capital, and there was a grave suspicion that the small shareholders were about to be frozen out in a way perfectly legitimate yet shockingly cruel.

And there were others, too.

Really, the doughty captain was passing through an experience that promised to make an old man of him if long continued.

Twice the Marquis had called upon Fedora, and on each occasion exerted himself to fascinate as he had never before done in all his life.

Affairs were in this state, and the Marquis could see the possible tragic outcome of his systematic assault all along the line, unless his nerve failed, or something occurred to break the stern resolution by which he had bound himself.

A few more visits, he believed, would complete the fascination of Fedora—harassed by accumulating debts and made foolish by his troubles, it might be readily assumed that the captain would be anything but an amiable companion these days, and the couple, never having had a genuine love for each other, would drift further apart.

This would be his opportunity—the glitter of his unlimited wealth, together with the strange hold he had upon Fedora, by reason of her old-time love, though she herself might not know the real cause—these two combined should tempt her to leave the falling fortunes of the captain and seek happiness with the man who controlled her will.

It was a fiendish revenge, and many times the marquis cursed himself for entertaining it; yet the memory of his dreadful sufferings drove him back again with renewed zeal to pick up the threads of fate where he had dropped them and go on with feverish eagerness.

It was only when he thought of Mazette that he winced and grew confused—not for worlds would he ever have her know what wicked thoughts struggled with his better nature, and usually gained the mastery.

One day the marquis, still pursuing the one object of his presence in London at this unfashionable season of the year, dropped in at the establishment of Captain Livermore, resolved to play his cards to advantage, since a crisis was near.

His quick eye noted signs of confusion, and he knew disaster had at last fallen upon the captain, who must seek a cheaper home—yes, evidently a move was contemplated—his sturdy blows were beginning to tell, and he should feel a glow of satisfaction in the region of his heart.

The occasion would be propitious for his master stroke—surely he should be able to win her consent—what had she to consider but a ruined home and a husband whom she had wedded while loving another?

He offered her unlimited wealth, beyond the dream of the human mind, love, and all the attractions the world can bestow.

Yes, she would yield—he knew how weak her nature was—had she not shown it when throwing him over for fortune's smiles?—she had no anchor such as the safeguard of a husband's love would throw around her—he felt assured of this as he did of anything in his whole life.

When the marquis entered the house it was with the confident air of one who has abundant faith to believe in the positive success awaiting him—not over-confidence such as loses battles, but the quiet assurance that springs from a thorough knowledge of the powers he controls.

It chanced, however, that there was one thing he had not counted on, a matter that might seem of small consequence, and yet which must burst upon him with appalling force.

As he sat and waited sounds of a commotion were heard, such as caused the marquis to start, turn deadly pale and tremble as he had never done when bodily danger menaced him—then through the open door came dashing two little tots, one a golden-haired angel of three, the other a sturdy, black-eyed English lad of four—across the floor they scampered, straight to where the American nabob sat gripping the sides of his chair, and with the assurance some children possess, forthwith climbed directly upon his knees and took possession.

At that moment the fort was nearer being carried by assault than since the day its steel buttressed walls had been first barricaded against the forces of sentiment and the hotter passions that come from above; for up to this hour this stern man, bent upon righting his wrongs of the past, had never once suspected that Fedora was a mother, and the knowledge came upon him like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

It would be almost impossible to adequately measure the surprise and consternation that overwhelmed the marquis as he sat there and felt the chubby arms of Fedora's little darlings about his neck.

It was wonderful what an influence this new and astounding element had upon him—he was quite disarmed—those chubby hands upon his face, the little cooing voice, as trusting eyes looked up into his own, exclaiming: "Dodo love oo"—a man must have colder blood in his veins than the marquis to endure this and at the same moment plan destruction to the little maiden's parents.

In that short time he saw a great light, such as had never dawned on him before.

True, it might die out again, overwhelmed by the darkness of passion's sway; but the influence of his association with those innocents would have a decided bearing upon his future.

Thus Fedora found them when she came in, and greatly she marveled at the sudden fancy her little darlings had taken for the mysterious marquis.

Of course, their nurse was summoned and they were banished from the scene; but the retreat was conducted with much reluctance, especially on the part of Miss Dorothy, who seemed to have conceived a great fancy for the marquis.

Thus, the visit that he had intended should be so dramatic, and lead to a crisis, was of an altogether different nature. And he came away without, by act or word, having advanced the desperate scheme which had so filled his mind on crossing that home portal.

It was not remorse—the time had not come for that; but while the kisses of that innocent little prattler were yet warm upon his cheek he could not strike the terrible blow that would possibly blight her mother's future happiness.

Not being in the humor to enjoy social intercourse with his fellows, he avoided those who would have sought his company, and spent the evening strolling along Oxford street and High Holborn, watching the crowds, smoking innumerable cigars and wrestling with his thoughts.

As the hour grew later he found himself quite a distance from his hotel, beyond St. Paul's, and even on the border of the Whitechapel district of unenviable fame as one of the most notorious slum districts of the modern Babylon.

It was a weary distance to his hotel, and the marquis naturally looked around for a cab.

Luck seemed to favor him, for the voice of an eager Jehu hailed from behind.

The four-wheeler was one of the night-hawk variety, much the worse for wear, but to a shipwrecked sailor any port in a storm is good enough; so the marquis, with a laugh, bundled himself inside and sang out his orders.

He might not have been so easy in his mind had he known that a couple of fellows swung themselves, one up with the driver on his seat, and the other behind the growler.

A MATUTINAL COMEDY.

Intoxicated Young Men the Actors and a Street Car the Stage.

There seems to be no end of funny incidents on surface cars. One happened the other day on a Third Avenue electric car that approximates pretty close to taking the palm.

It was near the dawn of a new day, when early birds are generally supposed to be in quest for vagrant and inconsiderate worms. It was raining great guns. Two young men in an advanced condition of inebriety got on a car, the rules of the railroad company in such cases providing to the contrary notwithstanding.

They got on at different streets, so of course their drunkenness was not the result of protracted mutual conviviality. Again, one was in full evening dress and wore a hat of modern make and style. The other was dressed like a tramp—a seeming "Weary Willie" just come into town from his rural travels, and wearing a slouch hat in the last stage of dilapidation.

Pretty soon both men were sound asleep, with heads bent forward and resting on their knees. Shortly the dude's hat fell off his head and then the tramp's followed suit. A sympathetic passenger picked them up and put the silk hat on the tramp's head and vice versa. He then gave the tramp a shake and told him he had reached his street. The bell was rung and he was helped to the rear platform and off the car and there left to enjoy the hygienic benefits of a cold shower bath.

Two or three blocks further on the dude with the tramp's hat on his head was submitted to the same Pluvian process of sobering up. The sequel is left to the reader's imagination, says the New York Times. Of course, the conductor was an important factor in this rare matutinal comedy.

Hunting for the Colonel.

An army surgeon recently returned from service in the Philippines tells a new story, which is one of the best that has come from our new possessions. He says a soldier was serving in a regiment whose colonel was very much averse to leaving the comforts of a city and who had pulled enough to get himself assigned to special duty in Manila, which had caused his absence from his regiment for several months. In the meantime a portion of that particular command got into a mix-up with some stray insurgents, and incidentally the soldier referred to had an eye shot out. He put in some time in the hospital, and when convalescent was turned loose for a walk. As he strolled down the street he met a friend, who, seeing the bandage which hid the cavity, asked him, "What happened to your eye?" The soldier's other eye twinkled, and with true "doughty" wit he replied: "I wore that eye out up-country looking for that blooming colonel of mine on the firing line."

Novel Eskimo Wrestling.

Next to gambling the Eskimo men like to wrestle. The usual way of doing this is a test of strength rather than skill. The wrestlers sit down on the floor, or in any convenient place, side by side, and face in opposite directions, say with right elbows touching. Then they lock arms and each strives to straighten out the other's arms.

CONDEMNED IN MISSOURI AND CONFISCATED IN NEW YORK.

Judge Clarke of St. Louis has convicted and fined heavily a number of grocers for selling baking powders containing alum.

The week before the Health Department of New York seized a quantity of stuff being sold for baking powder which they found was made from alum mixed with ground rock, and dumped it into the river.

The Health Authorities are thus taking effective means to prevent the introduction into our markets of injurious substitutes in place of wholesome baking powders.

As alum costs only two cents a pound, there is a great temptation for those manufacturers who make substitutes and imitation goods, to use it. Alum baking powders can be detected by the health authorities by chemical analysis, but the ordinary housekeeper, whose assistance in protecting the health of the people is important, cannot make a chemical examination. She may easily know the alum powders, however, from the fact that they are sold at from ten to twenty cents for a pound can, or that some prize—like a spoon or glass, or piece of crockery, or wooden ware—is given with the powder as an inducement.

As the people continue to realize the importance of this subject and consumers insist on having baking powder of established name and character, and as the health authorities continue their vigorous crusades, the alum danger will, it is hoped, finally be driven from our homes.

UNCLE JOE CANNON'S LITTLE JOKE

Illinois Statesman Takes a Rap at the Ways and Means Committee.

In the rooms occupied by the committee on ways and means of the house, of which Uncle Joe Cannon of Illinois is chairman, there is a long table around which the members gather when the committee is in session. It takes up considerable space and its corners are very pointed. The other day a member rushed in hurriedly and in endeavoring to execute a loop about the table collided good and hard with one of these sharp corners.

All that he said was not taken down, as it was too warm to be made a matter of record. As he went limping into the adjoining room he asked Chairman Cannon "why the deuce he did not dispose of that darned table"—or words to that effect—and get another with round corners.

"Well," remarked "Uncle Joe," shifting his unlighted cigar to the westward corner of his mouth, "I have been thinking of it for some time and I believe I'll send it over to the committee on ways and means. Those fellows over there are experts on turning sharp corners."

An Honest Man's Opinion.

Vermont, Mo., April 28th.—If what Mr. J. S. Tillery of this place says is true—and none who know him doubt his honesty—the new remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills is a wonderful medicine indeed. Mr. Tillery says:

"I had Kidney and Liver Trouble for years. I had used many medicines but could get nothing to cure me.

"I heard of a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills and began a treatment with the result that I was very soon on the mend.

"I kept on using the pills and am now entirely better. I honestly do believe that they are the greatest remedy the world has ever seen.

"I am always willing to help a good thing and I cannot say too much for one that helped me so much.

"If I didn't know that Dodd's Kidney Pills would do all that is claimed for them I wouldn't say a word of praise for them."

AS THE WORLD REVOLVES

WILL RECLAIM MILES OF SWAMP

Marshes in Northern Minnesota to Be Turned Into Fine Farming Land.

A great deal of northern Minnesota is about as flat as a floor. Over a wide area east of the Red River Valley the water partings between the streams are scarcely perceptible. Many of the streams meander in tortuous courses sluggishly over the prairie and lose themselves finally in big marshes. Some of the rivers, as shown on the maps, appear suddenly to terminate just as rivers are marked on maps of deserts where the streams are lost in the sands.

A number of these large marshes are not far from the Red River Valley. It is proposed to dig some long ditches to lead the waters of these now sodden and worthless lands into the valley. The Lost River ditch will be four miles long, and will drain 22,000 acres of swamps; the Badger ditch will be eight and a half miles long, draining 5,300 acres; the New Solum ditch will be four miles long, draining 1,000 acres; the Goodhope ditch, five miles in length, will also drain an important area.

The total cost of these four ditches is estimated at $26,500, and they will turn 30,000 acres of swamp lands into the richest of fields and meadows, adding most appreciably to the productive area of the state and improving the health conditions in that part of the country.

FOUNDED WORTHY ORGANIZATION

twenty-five years ago was the scene of the founding of the Young Woman's Christian Association, was present at the silver anniversary of the organization. Mrs. Groves has been made an honorary life member by the society. It was at a gathering of not more than half a dozen Chicago women that the idea of the society had its birth. Mrs. E. G. Clark was made the first president. The society developed rapidly until now it is one of the largest organizations of young women in the country.

Attorney Jerome's Fun.

District Attorney Jerome, as is well known, did not take a very active part in the recent case in which Miss Florence Burns played a prominent part, says the New York Times. When the news was brought to him, after the woman's release by the coroner, that she had accepted an offer to appear in comic opera, his reply, given in his characteristic and effective drawl, was: "Ah, I see; not going to Sing Sing; merely going to sing."

IRONING A SHIRT WAIST.

Not infrequently a young woman finds it necessary to launder a shirt waist at home for some emergency when the laundryman or the home servant cannot do it. Hence these directions for ironing the waist: To iron summer shirt waists so that they will look like new it is useful to have them starched evenly with Defiance starch, then made perfectly smooth and rolled tight in a damp cloth, to be laid away two or three hours. When ironing have a bowl of water and a clean piece of muslin beside the ironing board. Have your iron hot, but not sufficiently so to scorch, and absolutely clean. Begin by ironing the back, then the front, sides and the sleeves, followed by the neckband and the cuffs. When wrinkles appear apply the damp cloth and remove them. Always iron from the top of the waist to the bottom. If there are plaits in the front iron them downward, after first raising each one with a blunt knife, and with the edge of the iron follow every line of stitching to give it distinctness. After the shirt waist is ironed it should be well aired by the fire or in the sun before it is folded and put away, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

She Would Not be Without It Now.

Neither would thousands of others. We refer to Vogeler's Curative Compound; it does so much good and seems to reach every form of stomach trouble, that people have found that it is the one true specific. And what are stomach troubles? The easiest answer is that three-quarters of all the diseases and ailments which affect us proceed from one form or another of stomach trouble.

Indigestion is one of the worst and most prevalent forms, but Vogeler's Curative Compound cures indigestion. Here is one instance:

Mr. W. Bowell, of 34, Priory Street, Winchester, Col., writes: "I wish to state that my wife has been taking Vogeler's Curative Compound for a long time, and it is the only thing that has done her any real good for indigestion, in fact nothing would induce her to be without a bottle now."

When we stop to seriously consider the fact, that this great remedy is made from the formula of one of the most eminent living London physicians, it is no wonder that people who have happily experienced the benefit to be derived from its use, will not now be without it at any cost.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Pe-ru-na Creating a National Sensation in the Cure of Chronic Ailments of the Kidneys.

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Pe-ru-na advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Pe-ru-na."—T. H. Mars.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Pe-ru-na to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—John Vance.

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolia, Ontario, Canada, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Pe-ru-na and Manalin, and in three months I was a well man and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Pe-ru-na should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It attacks the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Pe-ru-na stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease.

Pe-ru-na cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

BUTTER MAKERS ON TOP AT LAST

Oleomargarine Bill Passes Senate and Goes to the President.

MANY CHANGES IN MEASURE

Climax of the Long Fight Against Butterine Reached After Several Conferences Between the Members of Both Branches of Congress.

The oleomargarine bill has finally passed congress and goes to the president for his approval. It is expected he will sign it. The senate accepted the house amendments to the senate bill. The measure as it leaves the capitol is not recognizable by its original authors. The dairy interests commenced an agitation several years ago to have a tax placed upon oleomargarine that would prevent its sale as butter. The house passed such a measure last session, but it failed to receive consideration in the senate. This session the oleo bill of last session was reintroduced, and again favorably reported. While pending in the house, its opponents secured a renovated butter amendment. If went to the senate in this form, where it was further amended, and after several conferences the two houses reached an agreement.

The bill, as it goes to the president, not only relates to oleo, but also to butterine, imitation, process, renovated or adulterated butter, and imitation cheese, and all other substances in the semblance of butter or cheese not made exclusively of pure and unadulterated milk and cream. It removes such imitation products from the operation of the original package decision and makes them subject to the laws of the state into which they are transported and offered for sale.

Probably the most important section is that imposing a tax of 10 cents a pound upon oleo artificially colored to look like butter of any shade of yellow. It has been repeatedly claimed that this tax will drive the oleomargarine manufacturers out of business. Oleo free from artificial coloring is taxed by the bill one-fourth of 1 cent a pound. Any person who mixes with oleo any artificial coloration that causes it to look like butter is defined by the bill to be a manufacturer and subject to the tax imposed upon manufacturers.

GENERAL SMITH ADMITS GIVING ORDERS TO KILL

Colonel Woodruff Says Age Limit Was Made Low Because Many Boys Bore Arms.

Manila cable: The court-martial which was summoned to try General Jacob H. Smith assembled Friday. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton presided. Col. Woodruff appeared as counsel for Brigadier General Smith, who pleaded not guilty. Col. Woodruff forestalled the prosecution by admitting that the majority of the accusations were true. He said that his client had issued orders to Major Waller to kill the natives and burn their homes. The country was hostile to the Americans and the General did not desire any prisoners. He had issued orders to make Samar a howling wilderness. He had ordered that all persons capable of bearing arms should be killed. The age limit was made 10 because many such boys had borne arms against the American troops. Col. Woodruff denied that any orders had been given to refuse or ask quarter.

SEVEN PRINCIPAL ROUTES.

It is a well-known fact that the C. & St. P. Ry. system offers a great many different routes between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis. Its main line between those points is especially well known as the route over which runs the famous "Pioneer Limited" and the Government Fast Mail Train.

There are six or seven other routes over a number of which are run through coaches and sleeping cars, which are almost as direct as the principal main line.

These various routes traverse the most interesting and attractive sections of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota, including the celebrated "Lake Region" of Wisconsin, and cross the Wisconsin river at the famous "Dells," where is the most picturesque scenery in the Northwest.

The main line and several others include from 150 to 300 miles of romantic and picturesque scenery along the Mississippi river. On these various lines are located the most important towns and cities in the Northwest.

Both one way and special excursion tickets between Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis are honored via any one of these direct lines.

The teachers attending the National Educational Convention at Minneapolis will appreciate and take advantage of this fact as they can have a choice of routes going and returning.

The Woman's Thursday club met at the home of Mrs. E. W. Shipman on Thursday afternoon. A nice program was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and readings. After the program an appetizing luncheon was served.

Now the village fathers have concluded that if a person cannot get enough intoxicating beverages to satisfy the appetite, between the hours of 5 a. m. and 10 p. m., he will have to go without it. That is fair. A man ought to be satisfied with 17 hours opportunity.

Some of residents are backward in cleaning up their premises. Nothing casts so much discredit upon a town as dilapidated out buildings, unclean door yards, broken down sidewalks refuse-strewn streets. Clean up. If you have not ambition enough to do so yourself, hire someone who has.

The briefs in the case of Meyer and Parker vs. The Village of Barrington, known as the Main street damage suit in which the plaintiffs secured a judgment of $1250, and which the village refused to pay, have been filed in the appellate court. A decision is not expected until late in the summer.

The village board will meet in regular monthly session Monday evening, at which time President Lamey will announce committees for the ensuing year, and appointment of treasurer and collector, marshal, night watchman, fire marshal, health officer and superintendent of water works made and confirmed.

The new railroad promoters inform us that the proposed road will be in operation this fall. Residents along the recent survey are of the opinion that the road will not be constructed this season. We don't know anything about the plans of the company excepting what is given us in a roundabout way, and Mr. Stees, the chief promoter is very careful that definite information shall not reach this office. We have an opinion, however, and that is that the proposed road will not occupy any one of the main streets in this village.

The second concert given by the Ladies' band, Wednesday evening, attracted an audience which filled the hall. The program was, in some respects, changed from that rendered at the initial entertainment, and was most acceptable. Barrington has just cause to be proud of this organization.

A gentleman writes to ask "Don't you know that poker is played in this town for money?" No, sir, we do not. Not being addicted to poker playing or other forms of gambling, we don't nose around to locate the sport. The habit is not catching in our family, and even should it reach an epidemic stage we are immune.

Our sister village, Libertyville, the "convention village" of Lake county, is one of the best, neatest, most enterprising in this region. It is growing rapidly in commercial importance and population. A great aid to the development of Libertyville is the independent which Frank Just has made one of the prettiest typographically and most entertaining in the county.

Assessor Fred Kirschner is preparing to make his annual visit to the homes of citizens of Cuba township. There is one thing about Mr. Kirschner's visits, he shows no partiality and calls whether invited or not. There are many who would rather he would not visit them, but Fred rejoices in keeping tab on our people and what belongs to them.

The class to graduate from Barrington school this year is composed of five young ladies and one young gentleman: Misses Nora Plagge, Mary Taylor, Rose Lageschulte, Beulah Otis, Clara Lageschulte and Mr. Alex. Boelmer. During Prof. Smith's term of service, nine years, 67 pupils have graduated from the school. This is a most excellent record.

Ed Wichman posed on the ridge board of his wagon shop, clutching a two inch cable to the end of which was attached the handsome form of Larry Donlea, who performed acrobatic feats on the roof, was an outdoor attraction Wednesday afternoon. The audience watched the performance and shuddered at the thought of what Larry would say had Ed lost control of the life line.

A gentleman here on business, Tuesday, paid a high compliment to the Dorcas society. He was invited to dinner being served by the ladies at the home of Mrs. Flora Lines. He declined because should he once enter the assembly of feminine loveliness he would forget business cares "and to get away would be impossible." The eligible girls said "the dear, kind fellow," while the married women—well they enjoy being complimented.

The board of local improvements met at the village hall on Wednesday evening. President Lamey and Trustees Plagge and Grunau were present. The purpose of the meeting was to give a public hearing to parties affected by the extension of water mains on North Hawley street, north of Liberty street. A number interested were present, but no objection was made to the specifications of proposed improvement, which calls for the laying of a 4-inch water main, 32 rods in street, with necessary hydrants. The estimate cost is $435. Board adjourned until Monday evening, May 5th.

Little Folks Make Merry.

A May party was given by a number of the boys and girls of the 6th grade of the public school, who under the leadership of Misses Jeanette Thorp, Genevieve Dolan and Fern Hutchinson, surprised Willie Grunau at the home of his parents, Thursday evening. ## PUT THEM OUT OF SIGHT

Of Orderly Citizen and Assess the Penalty to Full Limit.

Complaint has been made that disorderly persons prowl about the streets of this village late Saturday nights and early Sunday mornings, indulge in fistful encounters, and, to speak plainly, raise the devil generally. The complaint is well founded.

Our village has, in the past, been free from all such carryings on, and pedestrians were not subjected to interference or insult. Now when Saturday night comes trouble begins. A certain contingent whose highest ambition seems to be to fill up on malt extract and shy beer bottles close to the heads of peaceable citizens who happen around, has formed the habit of visiting here. We believe such a state of affairs is not conducive to the welfare of this or any other community, and that the law governing drunks and disorderly conduct should be enforced to its full limit. Don't stop to listen to the troubles of such violators but place them in the bastille until they recover sufficiently to be taken before the police magistrate and trust to that official to do the rest. Fine them every cent the law provides.

What is the use of enacting village ordinances and then not enforcing them?

An example must be made of the rowdies who visit here and the sooner they are given to understand that Barrington is not a frontier settlement and will not tolerate wild, woolly west entertainments the better.

Fred Kirschner Surprised.

Fred Kirschner first came in contact with the sunlight on April 28, 1858. Last Monday was his birth anniversary and his amiable wife invited about 75 of their friends to come and spent the evening and help him celebrate the event. Mr. Kirschner was not taken into the plans, and the surprise was complete, for when the guests assembled at their beautiful home north of town, they found Mr. Kirschner sitting on the windmill platform gazing in the skies looking for indications of rain.

After he recovered from the shock the teams were taken care of and the hosts invited their guests in the house and they were given the freedom of the premises. Cards was the favorite game of the evening, and the hours were whiled away pleasantly at that pastime.

At 11:30 a lap lunch, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cake and fruit, was served. Everyone had their appetites with them and greatly relished the repast.

Luncheon over, a new game called "African Midgets" was suggested.

This game can be played by any number, consisted of two conductors, two victims and the balance of the party represent the characters of hit or miss. Ping pong would have to take a back seat for this craze. Dr. Kendall and Wm. Peters acted as conductors, while they made victims of Mr. Kirschner and George Hager. The crowd was in an uproar from start to finish, and the hair on Messrs. Kirschner and Hager's head stood up as straight as arrows all during the game.

At one o'clock the guests took their departure, expressing their best wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Kirschner and hoping for them many happy returns of the event. The party resulted in a charming evening for all.

GONE HOME.

Mrs. Martha Page Hollister Called to Enter Into Life Eternal.

After ninety-seven years of pilgrimage on this earthly sphere Martha Page Hollister, one of the earliest pioneers of this section, passed to the beautiful land beyond the valley of shadows, Friday, April 25, from the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. S. Cowin, at Ravenswood.

Martha Page was born in Bennington, Vermont, April 7, 1805, and resided there until 1825 when she married Innis Hollister. They removed to Paulet, Vt., and made that place their home until 1844 when they joined the great army of New Englanders seeking homes on the prairies of the unsettled western country. They found a home in Cuba township on the spot now bearing their name—Hollister's Corners—two miles north of Barrington. Here they cultivated the virgin soil amid all the trials and hardships known to the pioneers of this locality; here they witnessed the passing of the Indian and his customs and the steady and rapid advance of that civilization which made their chosen state one of the brightest gems in the great federation forming this republic.

The happiness of their western primitive home remained uninterrupted until March 1869, when Mr. Hollister was called to the better world. Six children blessed the union and with these the widow continued to follow the threads of life, until later years when the children went to homes of their own. Four years ago "Grandma Hollister" as she was well known to all, left the old homestead and since then has made her home with her daughter at Ravenswood.

The surviving children are Page Hollister, residing in California; Mrs. Dorcas Clark, Mrs. Anna Harris and Mrs. D. S. Cowin, Chicago. Three great great grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren and 18 grandchildren, are descendants.

Mrs. Hollister was born during the administration of President Jefferson, and her memory was well-stored with the events illustrating the development of the country from the war of 1812 to the date of her passing away. She had witnessed the perfection of navigation by steamboat and railway, the invention of the telephone, telegraph, electric light and power appliances, in fact the scientific and industrial progress of the nineteenth century. Her life was that of an earnest, Christian woman from the days of early girlhood.

The funeral was held from the Baptist church in this village, Sunday afternoon, Rev. C. D. Mayhew conducting the service. Interment was in White cemetery close to that spot where deceased had spent the happiest years of a useful life.

The relatives of the late Mrs. Martha Page Hollister desire to thank the pastor of the Baptist church of Barrington, the choir and the many friends who so kindly and so beautifully contributed to their comfort, and helped them to bear the loss of their beloved mother and grandmother.

Granted Saloon Licenses.

The village board of trustees met Monday evening and transacted business of importance. All members were present when President Lamey called to order. The clerk read the report of Village Treasurer Robertson for the fiscal year, which showed the village had been liberal in its expenditures. The report will be out of the hands of the auditors and ready for publication soon.

It was expected that opposition to the granting of dram shop licenses at the rate of $500 a year, would be presented, but despite all the surface talk, the opposition failed to reach the council chamber. The cause for the demand of an increased license, was that the village marshal and the night watchman would ask for an increase in salary, and as several disturbances had occurred lately owing to an overindulgence in the goods sold by the saloons, it was (and still is) the consensus of opinion that the saloons should be taxed sufficient to meet the additional expense.

If members of the board favored any such a proposition they kept their ideas locked up. Trustee Grunau moved that licenses be granted at $500 for the year "with certain restrictions." The restriction (not restrictions) was "that the closing hour be 10 instead of 11 o'clock p. m."

Applications were received from G. W. Foreman, Paul Miller and Louis Jensen, to whom licenses were ordered granted.

Schutt, adjoining the postoffice where watches, jewelry and clocks may be left for repair. Will finish work same day at lowest prices. Every Tuesday I will be there in person with a selected stock.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

EDITED BY HACKNEY.

Modern life teaches us that loyalty to the divine person was necessary, and that the secret of strength was found in the relation to others, while the real purpose in life was illumined today and forever in the light of the person and messages of Christ.

The grace of forgiveness, of justification and of regeneration, the grace flowing from Calvary, was always at hand for men. No one at any period, in any generation, who called upon the Lord with sincere heart, turned away from his evil deeds and was converted to God, but was cleaned and purified.

What do men mean in these days when they say they would like to see a certain church whose only creed, was the sermon on the mount? Do they mean they would like to see a church composed only of members who lived up to the spirit of this sermon? Then it would be a church without a single member.

Nothing can atone for insincerity. Men who pose as philanthropists, but who have enriched themselves by defrauding their creditors, can cloak their dishonesty from men, but their duplicity is known to God, and the day of disclosure will come, as surely as night follows day. Sin do not come alone. If one commits one sin just to please himself, he must needs commit another to protect himself.

Every one of us should encourage and stimulate belief in his own soul; and remember that it is his supreme duty to believe in God. He should meditate on the thing improbable, and almost impossible, which God has done. He should cherish the memory of memorable deeds of grace and power—his own salvation; the conversion of the thousands. The twig of belief should become the sturdy tree of conviction.

If we are to succeed in the things that relate to the higher life we must be under discipline; hand that offends must be cut off; the habit that weakens must be given up. It is not a broad and easy way to which we are called any more than the most rugged path of knowledge is easy; it is a straight and narrow way, and calls for all those who are in earnest, who are brave, and whose faculties are keenly alive.

We are steeped in delusion. We say this is an age of philanthropy, and any contrary instances cited are ascribed to exceptionally abnormal natures. But whatever we may think, the fact remains that oppression does exist. It is imposed not by a Nero or a monster, such as we would suppose, but by men who, at their clubs, present every feature of the perfect gentleman, and who, at their homes, are model husbands and fathers.

Ours is an age when the home school is grossly neglected and the divinely ordained teachers have become recreant. Parents will not take time to train their children. Fathers overtax themselves in business, and counts it enough that they provide their children with food and raiment. Mothers, interested in outside events, allow their children to grow up as ignorant of the principles of Christianity as the savages in the South Sea islands. They leave all Christian instruction to Sunday school teachers. They farm their children out, as it were, to the church.

Y. M. C. A.
The committees from the various churches, who have the matter in charge, have arranged for a public meeting to be addressed by Mr. Shoemaker, the state organizer of the Y. M. C. A. The meeting will be held in the M. E. church, Thursday evening, May 8, and all men are cordially invited to hear him and join the movement.

Rev. E. A. Stone of Chicago will hold a Sunday school institute at the Baptist church tonight and all day tomorrow. Everyone is invited. Sunday afternoon he will conduct a meeting for mothers and every mother in Barrington is invited.

Epworth League meets Sunday evening at 6:30 at M. E. church.
