Dance at Plum Grove on Saturday night. A good time, good orchestra and good order. Tickets only 25 cents.

Henry Biere will sell his crops, farming implements and stock at public auction next Monday. See posters.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Seip attended the funeral of the former's sister, Mrs. Herman Weidenhoefer, in Chicago on Tuesday.

It may be alright to place the railroads into the hands of politicians, but we doubt whether it would be a wise thing to do after all.

Palatine is to have a foot ball team this year if the present plans are carried out. Prof. Newton is a foot ball enthusiast and will train the boys. If enough can be got together to form a team.

Harvest supper by the Ladies' Aid society in the Methodist church next Friday evening. Come and see the parlors since they have been recarpeted and repainted, and at the same time get a good old fashioned meal.

Next Sunday at the M. E. church will be observed Old Folks day and the Epworth League is arranging for the reception to be given the old folks at the morning service. Invitations are to be sent the old folks and the sermon will be appropriate for the occasion.

The series of entertainments being arranged by the Epworth League will be a big success if the present outlook counts for anything. Many have signed for season tickets and the entertainments are going to prove a drawing card. Season tickets for reserved seats are $1.50.

Western Star, democratic candidate for the state senate, and John Hess, candidate for congress, spoke in Battermann's hall last Saturday night to a fair-sized crowd. Both speakers were given good attention in their addresses. The Palatine Military band helped to attract a crowd.

Married, at the home of the bride's parents in Muskegon, Mich., Thursday, September 22, James Baker of Palatine to Miss Ada May Badgely. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. His many Palatine friends wish for James and his bride a long, happy wedded life.

The social given by the Relief Corps in Odd Fellows hall last Friday evening was attended by a big crowd and the ladies outdone themselves in entertaining. Each one was given a fine luncheon and games of various kinds were enjoyed. The affair placed the ladies cupboard full of cups, saucers and plates. They will hold another social soon to complete their line of cooking and eating utensils.

Joe McCrate, who formerly acted as telegraph operator here, will return to work here Monday as baggageman. Mr. Meston, the present operator, will take Mr. McCrate's position in the Chicago office and we understand Alfred Hanns, our present efficient baggageman, will take another position with the company, probably at carpenter work.

W. A. Putnam has sold his property in Palatine to Bert Bennett. Mr. Bennett proposes to stay in this place for a few years to give his boys a chance to get an education. A good school is a great benefit to any town.

Laying of Corner Stone.
The corner stone of the Arlington Heights St. John's church will be laid Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There will be speaking in German and English, choir singing and singing by the congregation, accompanied by the Palatine Military band. Bring your German song books.

Let all be supplied with change to make up the biggest collection ever levied at such an occasion in this vicinity. Let everybody turn out and show our new sister congregation that we are deeply interested in their noble work. Everybody is kindly invited to attend and join in the praise of God.

EXPECTING TOO MUCH.
People Who do the Least to Make the World Pleasant, Look for Most Sunshine.

"One great cause for disappointment and unhappiness in this world is in the fact that we expect too much of our fellow-men," is a statement made by a noted minister. That is true. We expect our neighbor to be full of kindness when we are (and may have cause to be) full of bitterness. If we desire a favor of a friend, we never stop to think if we ever granted them one or if it is in their power to grant such request. If we are moving along nicely, we expect everybody to be doing the same, never dreaming that our fortunate circumstances may be at the expense of some other friend or neighbor. From experience we have found that there is a mountain of sorrow and bitterness in this world, and he who has little or none of it is very apt to forget what burdens other people have to carry.

In this village, which we call home, there is not enough of that trait known as friendship and brotherly love. There is too much of that "I am holier than thou" feeling. We should not expect too much of others, and unless you have granted favors to others, and unless you have granted favors you have no right to expect them. As Henry W. Beecher has said: "If you have not sympathized with others when their sunshine has departed, do not look for sympathy when your own sky is overcast."

If we would do with others as we wish to be done by, our community would be better off in more ways than one. The other day we heard a citizen remark that "Mr. — was a cold, unsympathizing, selfish individual."

After a few questions we found that the citizen had made no effort to get acquainted with his neighbor. He had never put himself out of the way to find out what the man was, but expected too much from him. He admitted that he had never approached the neighbor in a spirit of friendliness, still his opinion was formed on surface indications. There is too much of that sentiment right here in Barrington.

Trust Hits Rockefeller.

The residents of the village of Rockefeller, in Lake county, are opposed to trusts. A cigar factory was located there some time ago and promised to help the town. The octopus has that factory in its coils and a correspondent there writes as follows:

"A very forcible illustration of the practical workings of the trusts is furnished in the conditions of those families who moved out to this place to find employment in the cigar factory and who are now stranded here, out of work and out of money. All over this grand free country of ours today are thousands of families of working people who are thus left helpless because some combine of moneyed-men have bought up or driven to the wall some small concern kept up by individual enterprise and capital where they were formerly employed. Any system of business or combination of capital that interferes with individual enterprise or the profitable investment of small sums of money by the man of moderate means is unfair, unamerican and tyrannical. It has no place in this country. It savors too strongly to one man government of European tyranny and is but a modern modified form of the wrongs and oppressions the people suffered in the dark ages. Down with the trusts."

The Itaska correspondent of Palatine Enterprise says: "The reveries of a bachelor are as nothing to the solemn thoughts of the family man when he begins to feel the chills playing tag up his spine and the price of coal gives him something not unlike nervous prostration of the wallet."

CROPS BEST IN YEARS.

The Illinois Corn Crop This Year Will be a Bumper.

Farmers in General Have Much Cause for Rejoicing.

The farmer is now looking for his dividend of the prosperity that has been sweeping over the country. Last year the crops suffered from lack of rain and was nearly all destroyed. The outlook this year was not very encouraging during the spring and summer, and it was feared that the grain and corn would drown. Here is a report that was compiled by the board of agriculture:

That the soil is yielding an abundant return to the husbandman this season is everywhere apparent. The latest monthly report shows the average condition of corn on Sept. 1 to have been 84.3 as compared with 86.5 on Aug. 1, 1902; 51.7 on Sept. 1, 1901; 80.6 at the corresponding date in 1900 and a ten year average of 78.3. The average condition at harvest of winter and spring wheat combined was 80, against 82.8 last year, 69.6 in 1900 and a ten year average of 78.9, while the average condition of oats when harvested was 87.2, against 72.1 last year, 82.9 in 1900 and a ten year average of 79.7.

From these averages it is figured out that the total yield of spring and winter wheat will be 610,611,000 bushels. This total indicated wheat harvest has been exceeded only three times in the past—in 1891, when the harvest aggregated 611,780,000 bushels; in 1898, when it was 675,148,705 bushels, and last year, when it was 748,530,000 bushels.

The report on oats, which is practically the harvest report, indicates a crop of 868,227,000 bushels, compared with last year's harvest of 736,808,724 bushels.

But corn is the bumper crop this year. The current indications are for a crop of 2,495,061,000 bushels. Though the indications are reported to be a trifle less favorable than were shown by the August report, the prospects are that the crop will break all previous records. Considerable areas of corn are already "in the shock," and the entire crop is now so far advanced as to be beyond the harm of cold weather.

While the figures of the agricultural department are measurably speculative, they are nearly enough correct to show that when "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock" our granaries, corncribs, storehouses and elevators will be bulging with a wealth of grain such as has never before been produced in a single year in this or any other country.

Political Notes.

A. J. Raymond of Wauconda is circulating a petition in which he announces himself an independent candidate for the office of county treasurer in opposition to the regular nominee, L. C. Price, also of Wauconda. Lewis Chamberlain of Waukegan has filed his petition in county court, asking to be placed on the ticket as an independent candidate for sheriff.

Some people have not the brains to distinguish between blind, hit-or-miss partisanship and republicanism. They don't seem to know that republicanism stands for truth and right, for liberty of speech and personal opinion. But such was the conception of republicanism, and to carry out those democratic principles the party was organized. There was no trickery in early republicanism, neither should it be tolerated now. To continue its power the party must stand out in the open, fearless of criticism, says the Elgin News.

Philip Knopf, nominee for congress in the 7th district, has had prepared a map of the district, which is being generally circulated among farmers and others.

Senator Len Small introduced Governor Yates to the assembled crowd at Kankakee as a man "not afraid to do his duty and one unmindful of criticism." The Honorable Len could not have shot further from the truth had he tried many times. If Yates is not afraid to do his duty his first act would be to remove this same Honorable Len from the board of trustees of the asylum. His mindfulness of criticism is shown in his wish to have the five per cent levy abolished.—Elgin Advocate.

In the days of Lincoln and Douglass the candidates were nominated by the people and enlightened the masses by logical argument on the political issues of the day; but now the fashions have changed; the politicians parcel the offices among themselves and aim to befuddle the minds of the people as much as possible with liquor and tobacco and keep them as blind as possible. There are no real issues between the aspirants, except the jobs, and the successful ones are always the best fellows, without distinction of party. It is difficult and dangerous for an honest man to enter politics now days, for even if he is successful the temptation to corruption are greater than most men can withstand and after they are laid on the shelf, like Billy Mason, they will divulge the shameful secrets which horrify the uninitiated.—Palatine Register.

There is now considerable discussion as to which nominee on the Lake county republican ticket will poll the largest vote. If popularity counts for anything Albert L. Hendee will lead the ticket.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
Stands Firm on His Policy to Control Trusts by Federal Law.

That the president holds certain ideas concerning combinations of capital, which is not accepted by many republicans, is true, and that he is in line with the majority of the people of the country, without regard to politics. He is of the opinion that such exercise of power must come sooner or later, and the sooner the better for the masses. The president's opinion is outlined in the following:

"Conspiracies by which necessities of life are made dear must always rank among the great crimes that goad the masses to madness. Yet legitimate enterprise, of course, is to be encouraged always. If the power of wealth can be kept within proper bounds by federal and state laws and by the natural workings of trade competitions, the people have nothing to fear from it and it has nothing to fear from the people. If, however, the laws are too weak or the public officers are too complaisant to enforce the laws, grasping wealth in widespread conspiracy is doomed to go down weltering in its own greed. An extortionate meat trust, an unmerciful railway trust or any other great combine which opposes the people is a powerful teacher of socialism and must fall before the revolution produced by its own teachings if in no other way. It can readily be believed that such vast sums of corporate wealth as have for the foundation of their activities injustices of tariff schedules or of railroad rebates or of combines controlling production and markets are now placing themselves at once on the defensive and in opposition to the retention of power of public officials who attack their methods."

President Roosevelt in making such a decided stand against harmful combines is taking the only course to avert the storm of socialism which oppressive trusts are bound to evoke. There is no running away from this issue.

The Country Telephone Line.

The farmers between Barrington and Langenheim, along the "Cuba" road, have placed telephones in their homes and can now say with the poetess, Maud Spratt:

We've all got these telephones nailed up again the wall,
When supper's through and milkin' done we give our friends a call,
Or if we feel like visitin' at any time 'day,
Ring up some good old neighbor and say what we've got to say.

We can chat about the weather or the crops or price of meat;
Whose new 'taters are the biggest or about good things to eat.
When the women get to givin' their receipts, it's mighty fine;
You can almost taste the good things bein' made along the line.

When an accident has happened or anybody's sick,
We can 'phone right to the doctor and get him double-quick,
Or ring up a neighbor woman, just as good as any nurse,
And get some simple remedy before they can get worse.

We're like one great big family, united by the 'phone;
When there is trouble at the neighbor's or death hovers round home
We can just know how they are farin' can hear at any hour;
Can send our heartfelt sympathy or give help when in our power.

And when we're hogs a feedin' or cat-tle gettin' fat,
We can watch the markets closer and can know just where we are at.
While our horses is a restin' we can stay right here at home,
Ring up Central, call the buyers, and sell 'em through the 'phone.

POWERS AGAINST AMERICA'S NOTE

Plan to Arrange an Identical Reply to Representations Regarding Jews.

LITTLE CHANCE OF AGREEMENT

Doubt is Expressed as to Ability of Governments to Get Together and Form a Joint Answer That Will Be Satisfactory to All.

Vienna cablegram: The powers signatory of the Berlin treaty are endeavoring to arrange an identical reply to the note of Secretary of State Hay concerning the treatment of Jews in Roumania. Austria, which has excellent relations with Roumania, is especially energetic in this direction.

According to the present arrangements, the Vienna and Berlin Cabinets have decided to decline the American proposition. Although their answers will be couched in very courteous terms, the United States will be given to understand that only the signatories of the treaty have the right to give decisions or take action on the question of the treatment of foreigners in Roumania.

Doubt Ability to Agree.

It is doubtful in initiated circles whether a joint answer can be arrived at, although Germany, Russia and Austria desire it.

Neither Austria nor Russia is willing to support the appeal made by the United States in behalf of the Jews of Roumania. It is admitted that the treatment of the Roumanian Jews infringes the treaty of Berlin of 1878, but it is only one of numerous cases in which this treaty has been violated without the signatories protesting.

Press is Hostile.

The conservative and clerical press of Berlin is hostile in its attitude to the American note concerning the Jews in Roumania, but the indications are that the government will not commit itself to a course of action calculated to frustrate the objects of the American initiative. The Cologne Gazette prints an inspired Berlin communication, in which it is observed that the Roumanians have not got a good case. It admits that the object of the Roumanians is to get rid of their Jews, but is convinced that this object will not be achieved by a policy of chicanery such as the American circular criticizes.

Put Clamps on Money.

Other European states are as averse as is America to the immigration of destitute aliens. The various charitable funds at the disposal of Jewish communities cannot undertake to cope with a social problem of such magnitude. Thus the friends of the Jews find themselves reduced to the necessity of putting pressure on the Roumanian government by the influence they are able to exert on the money markets of the world, on the good will of which Roumania is peculiarly dependent in view of the position of her finances. The dispatch concludes by strongly urging the Roumanians to deal with the Jewish problem so as to remove the present grievances of the Jews and obviate the recurrence of unwelcome incidents such as the American circular.

Home for Consumptives.

The Myron Stratton home is called in honor of the memory of Stratton's father, an Indian who taught his son the trade of carpenter. In it the consumptives of Colorado, the poor, the disabled and the aged may find a home.

Years ago, when Stratton, fever stricken and without money, came to Colorado and was cared for by Tabor, then a millionaire, the idea of such a home came to him. Three years ago, while in Europe, Stratton, made a multi-millionaire by the gold ledge he discovered in 1891, became seriously ill and for three months was in a hospital. Then he planned to establish a home in Colorado Springs and worked out the details of his plans, which he embodied in his will.

Money to Revert to State.

The will appoints Carl S. Chamberlain of Brooklyn, D. H. Rice of Colorado Springs and Tyson S. Dynes as executors, and the instrument is dated Aug. 5, 1902. The executors are ordered to dispose of all his holdings, properties, moneys, and credits, with a few exceptions, and from the money realized to set aside $1,000,000 for the erection of the buildings.

The will states that in case any portion of the will is invalidated by any contest that may be brought, such part of the estate that is affected is to be given to the state of Colorado for the maintenance of its public charitable institutions.

Safeguards Institution.

The objects of the Myron Stratton home are specified to be "the erection of the home for persons physically unable to earn their livelihood, whether through advanced age, physical debility or otherwise are handicapped."

The will expressly shuts out all those who by reason of disease, indecency or insanity would imperil the health and happiness of other inmates. The inmates are to be selected by the board of trustees from residents of El Paso county, in which Colorado Springs is located, after which residents of the state may be received.

The will further provides that the active management be left to a board of trustees and that proper inspection of the institution be made under the law. The accounts of the home shall be supervised by the district court or a board of inspectors, to be provided for in the laws of the institution.

In order to insure the maintenance of the Myron Stratton home Mr. Stratton instructed that the balance of the estate, not utilized in the establishment of the institution, be reinvested in good interest paying securities, the income of which is to be turned over to the trustees to be used according to their discretion in keeping up the home.

Other Bequests.

The will of Mr. Stratton gives the family homestead to Carl S. Chamberlain of Brooklyn, N. Y. The will gives E. W. Hamlin of Jeffersonville, Ind., $50,000; to a nephew, Harry B. Hamlin, $50,000; to Mrs. Jennie Cobb Stratton of San Jose, Cal., $50,000; to Mary Cobb Smith, a niece, $50,000; to Mrs. Lillian Skelton of St. Louis, $50,000; to Elma P. Chamberlain, Brooklyn, N. Y., $50,000; to Mrs. Clair Marie Baldack, $50,000; to C. S. Chamberlain, Brooklyn, N. Y., $50,000.

The will further provides that $10,000 be left to B. C. Logan of Indianapolis, Ind., and to the trustees of the Colorado school for the deaf and blind in Colorado Springs $25,000 is given, to be expended in bettering the condition of the present school buildings.

LEOPOLD SPURNS HIS DAUGHTER

King Quarrels With Princess Stephanie Beside Dead Queen's Coffin.

SEES BODY AFTER SHE LEAVES

Disagreement is Due to the Fact That She Married Count Lonyay Against Her Parents' Wishes, Incurring Lasting Hatred of Her Father.

Spa, Belgium, cable: King Leopold, who was in France when his wife died, arrived here and found his daughter, the Princess Stephanie, at the royal palace, where she had arrived to attend the funeral of her mother, Marie Henrietta, queen of the Belgians, who died on Friday. The king not only refused to speak to his daughter, but ordered her to leave the palace.

The princess consequently left Spa suddenly. She rode to the station in a hired carriage and amid demonstrations of sympathy from the people, took a train for Brussels.

Refuses to Meet Daughter.

There are various versions of the quarrel at Spa between King Leopold and Princess Stephanie, the most reliable of which was to the effect that the princess was in the death chamber when his majesty arrived at the palace. He refused to enter until she had left the room. Princess Clementine, the king's third daughter, came and took Princess Stephanie away. King Leopold then entered the death chamber and prayed before the coffin for twenty-five minutes. The news of the quarrel between the king and the princess spread rapidly.

Opposes Her Marriage.

Princess Stephanie is the second daughter of the late Queen Marie Henrietta and King Leopold. She married the only son of the emperor of Austria in 1881 and was left a widow in 1889. She was married the second time in 1900 to Elmer, count of Lonyay. This latter marriage was against the wishes of King Leopold, who refused to permit it to be legalized. He has been bitter against his daughter, and courts friendly to that of Belgium have declined to receive the princess.

The body of the queen was placed in a coffin, and the king arrived too late to see it. The services to-day were imposing. Afterwards the body was immediately taken to Laeken, accompanied by the king, Princess Clementine and Prince Albert, the heir presumptive. The official funeral services will probably be held at Brussels on September 27.

EXPLOSION FOLLOWS A FIRE

Peculiar Accident in Mills at Joliet Causes Serious Loss.

Joliet, Ill., special: In the mills of the Great Western Cereal company a nail in one of the grinders started a blaze. The fire found its way up the chutes to the upper rooms, where a terrific explosion occurred. Portions of the roof were blown 100 feet and the windows and doors demolished. No one was injured. An automatic fire apparatus flooded the building and the fire was extinguished. The loss, it is estimated, will approximate $5,000.

Your back may ache like a toothache or sudden twitches and twinges of backache pain make life a misery. Perhaps you have nervous spells, are weak, tired-out, depressed. There is a cure for all of this and for every trouble of the bladder and kidneys. Read this case and note it tells how well the cure was tested:

Charles Lindgren, sealer of freight cars on the L. S. & M. S. R. R., La Porte, Ind., says: "I have greater faith in Doan's Kidney Pills to-day than I had in the fall of 1897 when I began taking them and made a public statement of the result. At that time I had suffered with lameness and soreness of the back, which was so excruciating that I could scarcely turn in bed, and Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured this trouble. I am always ready to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills personally to anyone requiring a kidney remedy. After a lapse of three years I make this statement, which shows my undoubted faith in the preparation."

CHAPTER II.

There was a cloud hanging over the distant mountain peak, and occasionally the low muttering of far-off thunder could be heard, but it did not disturb the young pleasure seekers, who had come out from Fresno, California, to have a good time. One tall, graceful girl whose golden hair and deep blue eyes would have attracted any beholder, was standing in the shadow of a tree, whither she had wandered alone. She took very little interest in the sports of her youthful companions, no more youthful, however, than herself. As she strolled under the shades of the pines her pale blue parasol half concealed a face that was exquisite in its loveliness.

"Oh, Laura, why are you alone?" asked a pretty, dark-eyed girl leaning on the arm of her lover as she passed. "There are plenty of young fellows who would be glad to take Paul's place. Shall I tell them they can?"

"Thank you, Nellie; I do not want them," while a faint smile flitted over her face.

At this moment another couple passed where the three stood, their faces half hidden behind a pink umbrella. Nellie, smiling, said:

"There goes Clarence and Nellie Bush. People say they are to be married in the spring and start for the Klondike."

Laura sighed and her little friend went on. The gaze of Laura Kean was now riveted on Clarence Berry and Ethel Bush. The rumor that they were going to that strange, far-off northern country awakened in her mind a new interest in them. Ethel Bush was one of her dearest friends, and Clarence and Paul had been boys together.

As Clarence and Ethel sat in the shade of a tree, they built anew their air castles amid the glaciers and icebergs of the frozen north.

"I hope I don't intrude," said a sweet, silver-voiced voice, and, looking up, they beheld their friend Laura Kean standing near, a smile on her pretty face. "My excuse for coming is to discuss your intended journey to the Klondike. I have heard you are going in the early spring."

"We have so decided," Clarence Berry answered.

"And if agreeable I have decided to accompany you."

Ethel Bush was delighted, and declared if they could find a preacher in Alaska the wedding would be celebrated in the frozen north. The three sat on the green and planned and talked with increasing enthusiasm, and Laura, with her pretty face beaming with happiness, arose, left the lovers to themselves, while she strolled down the grove, that her mind might conjure up her lover's joy and surprise at meeting her in those faraway regions.

Unconsciously she strolled deep into the wood and was lost to the sight of her friends, when a footstep near caused her to start in surprise if she alarm. Before her stood a young man of twenty-eight, with a pale cast of countenance and keen blue eye. He was of a figure that might have been called handsome, but to Laura Kean he was repulsive. She gave him a glance and gasped:

"Mr. Lackland!"

Theodore Lackland had followed Laura to this picnic and into this wood with a set purpose in his heart. He was wealthy, a young man of good family and reputed ability, but a man of firm and fixed purposes. To accomplish an end he would go to almost any limit. He had known Paul Miller long before he set off for the Klondike and hated him because he loved Laura Kean. Why should this beautiful girl, the only woman whom he had ever loved, prefer this rude, penniless country boy to himself?

Mr. Lackland failed to realize what so many have in this life—that it is the soul that attracts and not the face and figure. There is no freemasonry so subtle as the freemasonry of the soul.

"I am pleased to see you happy, Miss Kean," he said. "There has always been something wrong with me, and while others are happy I am sad."

"Surely it is a morbid fancy," said Laura. The light was dying out in her eyes. She made one quick downward look at the path, as if wishing to pass him. He observed her glance and said:

"No, no, Laura, wait a moment; I have something of great importance to say to you, which I must say now."

"I have just been told that you have decided to go to Alaska in the spring." He looked earnestly into the girl's glowing face, and added, with deliberation:

"Laura, there are reasons why you should not undertake such a journey."

"What reasons?"

"A million natural obstacles are in the way."

"If Ethel Bush can go, why not I?"

He did not answer immediately, but stood at the side of the path carelessly kicking the leaves with the toe of his boot. At last he answered:

"Laura, if your love had been a great love, you must have read my secret, just as I have read yours. In a low tone he continued: 'Long ago I knew that you loved, or thought you loved Paul Miller. I saw it before he did—even before you realized it.'"

The red glow covered her cheeks more deeply than before. She was silent, and he was tramping nervously backward and forward. Then he went on rapidly in a tone of irritation. "Laura, I understand you. It is not for a rude man like this Alaskan miner to do so." Then in an eager voice he said: "Dearest, I bring you a love undreamed of among such low creatures."

"Low creatures!" she hissed, almost breathlessly.

His cheeks quivered; his lips trembled; his voice swelled, while his nervous fingers were riveted to his palm. He approached her and took her hand. She seemed benumbed by the feeling. She stood as one transfixed, a slow paralysis of surprise taking hold of her faculties. But at his touch her senses regained their mastery. She flung away his hand. Her breast heaved. In a voice charged with indignation she said:

"So this is what you mean! I understand you at last!"

Theodore Lackland fell back a pace.

"Laura, hear me—hear me again."

But she had found her voice at last.

"Sir, you have outraged my feelings as much as if I was at this moment Paul Miller's wife!"

Theodore Lackland felt his self-control rapidly slipping away, and in the height of his passion said:

"You shall never marry Paul Miller, Laura Kean! I swear it! I hold your fate and his in my hand, and have more ways of crushing you than you imagine. Be sensible; recall your insulting words, and do not throw yourself away on that impetuous ne'er-do-well—a hulking brute, made for a pick-a-ax and shovel!"

"Enough!" she cried. "I would rather marry a plow-boy than such a gentleman as you!"

Face to face, eye to eye, with panting breath and scornful looks, there they stood for one moment; then Laura, without a word, swung about and walked away to where her friends were preparing to return to town.

The features of Theodore Lackland underwent a frightful change. The gathering thunder cloud was not more black than his face. He raised his clenched fist to heaven and cursed his rival, heedless of the rolling thunder and on-coming storm.

"It is a long way to the Klondike," he finally muttered, while the smile of a devil flitted over his face; "but, great as the distance is, he will feel my power, and so shall she."

A heavy peal of thunder and the falling of rain roused him to the fact that the little excursion had all gone, leaving him alone in the wood and storm. He hurried to where his horse and buggy were, and, leaping in, drove furiously to town. He took the train that night to San Francisco and spent a whole day in consultation with two ill-favored looking men.

In a few weeks Laura had forgotten the unpleasant scene with the wealthy Mr. Lackland. She was busy preparing for the journey in the spring.

It was the last of February, and on the next day Laura was to draw her money from the savings bank and put it in the hands of a friend to secure her a passage and outfit for the Klondike. Late in the afternoon she saw a great crowd of men on the street talking in an excited manner, and a moment later Mr. O'Bourne, the butcher, came running toward her, wringing his hands.

"What is the matter, Mr. O'Bourne?" she asked.

"We are ruined, Miss Kean; we are ruined. The savings bank has failed; can't pay a cent!"

She grew dizzy and clutched at the door for support. Quickly all her bright dreams of surprising her lover vanished.

Mrs. Miller consoled her with the assurance that the loss would be made up by the great fortune Paul was taking from the Klondike. A few days later she learned that the bank had been wrecked by Mr. Tom Harris, the cashier, speculating on San Francisco Board of Trade. Later came the whisper that Harris had fled to avoid arrest, but before going had confessed his crime, and said that he was induced by Mr. Lackland to speculate. He went on the wrong side of the market and was ruined.

The evening post brought Laura a letter. It was addressed in the well-beloved hand of Paul Miller. But there was something in the chirography to alarm her. It was in a scrawling, feeble hand, and with many misgivings she broke the seal and glanced at the contents. Then, with face ashen white, she shrieked:

"Wounded, robbed, ruined!" and fell senseless to the floor.

Ethel Bush, learning of her friend's trouble, hastened to see Laura, who sank so rapidly under the double blow that she was confined to her bed.

Ethel tried to console her.

"Don't worry, dear. We shall soon be with Paul, and if I find him I will nurse him back to health, and Clarence will defend him if he is attacked until he is able to defend himself."

"Will you take a message to him from me, Ethel?"

"Yes, dear, a thousand."

"Warn him, Ethel; warn him!"

"Of whom or what shall I warn him, dear?"

"Of Theodore Lackland. He is our evil genius."

"I fear you wrong Mr. Lackland."

"No, no; he threatened me last autumn when we were up the valley to the picnic. I forgot it at the time, but it is all very fresh and vivid to my mind now."

Ethel remained with her for over two hours and spoke encouragingly, then left, urging her to recover her strength and spirits in time for the wedding.

For downright luck and pluck the bridal trip of Clarence Berry was without parallel. On the day he and sweet

Ethel Bush were married they were poor in everything but luck, pluck and faith in their future. Their worldly possessions consisted of just enough to pay their passage to San Francisco, thence to Juneau, and on to Forty-Mile Camp, and provide themselves with the necessary stores for a year.

On the 15th they were married at the pretty little church in Fresno, and their friends in great numbers gathered about them to congratulate them and bid them a tearful adieu.

Next day the bride and groom took their departure for San Francisco. Laura imprinted a kiss on the young bride's lips and whispered:

"Give it to him! Oh, I wish I could go with you!"

They went to San Francisco, where they met the remainder of their party bound for the Klondike. Among the party was a tall young fellow named Dick Ronald, from Seattle, who from his height soon acquired the sobriquet of Long Dick. There were half a dozen other men, some young and some middle-aged, but Ethel was the only lady in the party bound for the frozen north.

The voyage and journey to Juneau was made without any unusual discomfort, but from that on it became perilous and every mile marked with danger.

They engaged some Indians as guides and an Esquimaux with the euphonious name of Umstich, which Long Dick translated for convenience into "Hemstitch."

Umstich was engaged as a sort of general superintendent of the dogs and sleds, of which they had several to convey themselves and packs across the bleak, white deserts, the dog being the only animal capable of making those journeys in all weather.

The accommodations for the young bride were poor, but Clarence did the very best he could for her. They carried a stove and tent, and every night the latter was pitched in some spot where the snow was hard. Beds of boughs were made, and Ethel was wrapped in furs until there was little chance for her to suffer from cold. She rode all the way from Juneau to the mining camp well muffled in bearskin robes and furs, strapped on a sled or boat as the case might be, and while this method of travel was much better than walking, the uncertainty of her position made it anything but comfortable.

CHAPTER III.

Paul's Discovery.

It is essential at this point in our story to return to the Klondike. It is again night, and the little camp on the densely wooded stream is wild with excitement and confusion. Men were hurrying to and fro and giving utterance to angry exclamations. Among the most excited was our old friend Gid Myers. Gid had a rope in his hand, and was gesticulating wildly toward a cabin that had been erected on the banks of the stream, around which stood four or five men with rifles in their hands.

No wonder the gold-diggers were excited. A terrible crime had been committed in their little community. It was the first that had ever been known on the Klondike, and these hardy frontiersmen felt like wreaking vengeance upon the perpetrators.

"I tell ye, boys, we ought to make a holy example o' that precious rascal in yonder shanty. We have found gold here by the million o' dollars, an' when we thought we had an honest community four thieves pounce upon us, rob one o' us, an' almost kill him. Now let's hang the feller Crack Lash wounded."

"Wait, boys," cautioned Glum Ralston, who had listened to the harangue of Gid Myers. "This chap what got a little more lead in his skin than he calkerlated on ain't goin' t' git away. I tell ye that robbery warn't done by accident. It warn't planned in a minute neither—"

"Now yer shoutin', comrade," put in a grizzled veteran.

DAMAGE DONE BY LOCUSTS.

Seventeen-Year Specimens Have Begun Their Work.

The 17-year locusts are beginning to show what real damage they can do. When they first appeared in numbers in parts of Maryland a few weeks ago the farmers charged them with but very little damage; now the residents' tune has changed, and all about you can hear them saying: "The locusts are ruining my shade and fruit trees." According to the farmers, the greatest damage being done by the locusts is to the limbs of trees. After the locust emerges from the ground it at once makes for the body of the tree, and sticks upon it until ready to emerge from its shell, which is exactly the shape of the insect, legs and all. The shell breaks lengthwise of the locust, from the middle of the back to the head. Out of this opening the locust comes forth as white as a sheet. It immediately begins to crawl to the trunk of a tree. It is not long before it begins to get darker in color, until within a few hours it becomes almost black, with the exception of the body and the eyes, which remain a reddish brown. As soon as they turn dark they proceed to the extreme ends of the trees where they do the damage. The female's sting kills the branches. Chickens, dogs and sparrows are making short work of the insects when they come in contact with them. The crops in the fields have not suffered as yet.

Birds Fly and Sing.

Besides the skylark a number of other birds sing as they fly. Among these are the titlark, woodlark, water peepet, sedge warbler, willow warbler and whin chat.

State Happenings Succinctly Told by Our Special Correspondents

THREAT BY A WATER COMPANY.

Demands Must Be Complied With or It Will Shut Down.

A serious situation confronts the city council of Carbondale. On September 18 Supt. Sockman, on behalf of the president of the Carbondale waterworks company, filed a notice with City Clerk Caldwell to be presented to the council that unless the council pass their bill of $3,000, which is a claim for the use of thirty-seven fire hydrants, used from July 1, 1901, to July 1, 1902, the company would shut down both the electric light and waterworks plants. It is a matter of record that no contract has ever been made between the city and company acceptable to both, and the present threat will only intensify a feeling that will be of no benefit to the city. The sewerage system will be completed by Nov. 1, but will be absolutely useless if the threats made are carried into effect.

D. A. R. PRESIDENT.

Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, wife of the senior United States senator from Indiana, and president general of the MRS. CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, daughters of the American Revolution, has accepted an invitation to attend the state convention of the society, which will be held at Springfield in October.

Negro Slayer May Escape.

If Harry Riley, the negro who killed Eugene Cooley in a fight at Spaulding a few weeks ago, is not indicted by the present grand jury there is a possibility of his escaping punishment. The danger that threatens the prosecution is the disappearance of witnesses. All of the witnesses are Southern negroes, who were brought north some time ago by the Illinois Central railroad, and there is every reason to believe that as soon as cold weather sets in they will return to the South and nothing more will be heard of them.

Improves Roadbed.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad company has distributed 400 cars of material along the line of the Jacksonville-St. Louis road, recently acquired by the Burlington system. The roadbed will be put in condition to stand the heavy coal traffic the Burlington expects to carry from the Northwestern trade. Hundreds of tons of Virginia coal is now being brought to Centralia over the Southern and delivered to the Burlington for Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Pipe Fiend and Forger.

A man who is a physical wreck and who positively refuses to give his name is under arrest in Alton, charged with passing a forged check at the Empire house. The check was made payable to Oscar Mayfield, and bore a signature purporting to be that of A. H. Hasting of Upper Alton. The man begs for morphine constantly and says he is a morphine fiend. He is a good penman and is evidently a man of education.

Escape Taxation.

John Elble, chairman of the Madison county board of review, says there is something radically wrong about the matter of taxing Alton people. That while there ought to be fully 3,000 taxpayers in Alton the assessor's books show only 700 and that many people who own valuable property are not listed at all, especially if they own only personal property.

Heirs to English Estate.

Mrs. Rosetta M. Nathan, wife of Justice B. Nathan, Alton's "marrying squire," is in receipt of papers notifying her that the chancery court of London, England, had taken up the estate of her grandfather and that the division would be made in a short time. The estate is valued at $240,000, and there are eight heirs, Mrs. Nathan and her daughter being two of them.

Secures Flouring Mill.

The Salem Business Men's association has closed a contract with W. A. Gaddis of Mount Sterling, Ill., for the location of a large flouring mill at Salem. The plant will be on East Main street, near First creek, and work on the building will begin just as soon as material can be procured.

Pension Examiner.

Dr. J. J. Fyke of Odin has been appointed a member of the Marion county board of pensions, to succeed Dr. A. J. Hays, resigned.

LEITERS RETAIN COAL LANDS

Weaver Company Acquires Property in Franklin County.

It was reported that Joseph and Levi Z. Leiter had sold all of their holdings in Franklin county to the Weaver Coal and Coke company. It is now learned, however, that the Leiters only sold the said company the experimental ovens that had been erected in Chicago. The Weaver Coal and Coke company, however, has purchased much land in Franklin county and is now, through other parties, optioning a great deal more. Parties who have inside information still claim that Mr. Leiter will build the town of Ziegler and construct the railroad to Benton.

Claim Long Deferred.

W. G. Lytle of Alton has arrived home from Chattanooga, where he attended the convention of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen. Lytle was injured seven years ago in a railroad accident, and from the effect of the injury he has become totally disabled. He had a claim against the brotherhood for full disability insurance, which was deferred in payment four years and has at last been settled, Lytle having established his claim.

County Clerks to Organize.

Ben Rich, recorder of Sangamon county, has received notice that the recorders and county clerks of Illinois are planning to form an organization in Springfield. He has been requested to find suitable rooms in which to hold the initial meeting. A large number of the recorders and clerks of the state have already expressed their intention of joining the organization.

Weds Brigadier General's Son.

At the home of the bride's parents in Springfield Miss Mary Jessamine Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Green, and Kennie Weber Barkley, son of Brigadier General James H. Barkley, were married by the Rev. A. M. Hall. The wedding was a great surprise. The groom is connected with the Springfield police department.

'Phone Competition.

The Independent Telephone company, which has toll stations in nearly every town in central Illinois, will operate an exchange at Taylorville. The company's line is now being run from Stonington to Taylorville and the system will be installed at once. The Central Union Telephone company already has an exchange at Taylorville.

City Employees' Union.

Fourteen of the street workers and city employees of Centralia have secured a charter from the American Federation of Labor and have organized a union of their own. All city employees not elected by the people are eligible to become members, and hereafter all the city departments will be conducted strictly on union rules.

Lease Water Plant.

The city council of Jacksonville has passed a water ordinance, which will lease the present water plant for thirty years to F. W. Mayhew and others of Chicago. The lessees agree to lay a pipe line to the Illinois river, twenty miles away, and use drive wells as a source of supply.

Randolph's Debt.

The annual report of the financial condition of Randolph county shows a total floating indebtedness of $45,780.51. There is no bonded debt. The tax rate for the coming year was fixed at 75 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of property.

Mexican Veteran Dies.

Elihu Bandy, aged 77 years, is dead at Springfield. Mr. Bandy was a veteran of both the Mexican and civil wars. He was a native of Washington county, this state, and had been a resident of Springfield for twenty-five years.

Centralia Pioneer Dies.

Richard Allen, aged 79, died at his home in Centralia. He came to this country from Birmingham, England, in 1848, and was a resident of Centralia since 1856, being an expert machinist in the Illinois Central shops.

Civil Service Exams.

The United States civil service commission announces that on Oct. 18 an examination of applicants for positions of postoffice clerks and carriers will be held in Cairo.

High Wages.

The demand for labor occasioned by the immense crop of apples has raised wages in Flora and vicinity until $1.50 per day is paid for ordinary work.

Movable Schoolhouse.

A movable schoolhouse of two rooms is advocated for the relief of the crowded condition of the rooms in certain large school buildings in Decatur. Parents of children object to transfers to distant and objectionable buildings. Mandamus proceedings have been instituted.

Equal Suffrage.

The annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association will be held at Jacksonville October 9 and 10.

REED DESERVES TO SUCCEED

Endures Hardships in Order to Get an Education.

After driving 175 miles over dusty roads in a buggy, sleeping by night in hay mows along the route, and saving the dollars he would have spent had he traveled on the railroad, Nelson Frank Reed, who started from his father's farm near Reed, Ill., on the Mississippi river, arrived in Evanston and presented himself at Northwestern university in search for an education. When he arrived at the end of his arduous journey he was tired from his long drive, and both of his horses were lame, but he still had left sufficient determination to set out immediately in the search for work to earn funds to enable him to pay his way through college during the winter. Reed's scheme of travel is unique and savors of pioneer days. He worked his horses in relays, driving one for half a day and leading it the other half, while its mate took a turn at drawing the ambitious young student. Reed's best record for a forenoon was thirty-six miles. Romance played its part in the story of the long drive, making it thirty miles longer, for he went out of his way to visit Anna Wister, a farmer's daughter, living fifteen miles west of his home, before starting for college.

Peculiar Claim Against State.

The state commission of claims is now hearing a peculiar case. The claimants are two farmers of Adams county, who allege that their orchards were ruined by the spraying of their trees by E. G. Green, assistant state entomologist and state horticultural expert. Mr. Green sprayed the trees with an emulsion composed of kerosene and water, and the farmers claimed that their trees were ruined thereby. Frank G. Belt sues for $3,000 damages, while William A. Wallace places his damages at $6,000. The spraying was done to kill the San Jose scale.

Orphans' Home Officers Elected.

The session of the pastoral conference of the Evangelical church which was held at Nashville was largely devoted to the orphans' home. It was voted to enlarge the buildings. The following directors were elected: President, Rev. Kraeger of Centralia; vice president, Rev. Stoercker of Adelleville; treasurer, Rev. Meier of Covington; secretary, Rev. Kleiman of New Athens.

To Dedicate Courthouse.

Christian county's new courthouse building at Taylorville will be dedicated Tuesday, September 30. The building is located in the center of the public square and cost $125,000. The dedicatory exercises will be opened with prayer by Rev. H. L. Winburne, pastor of the Baptist church. The address of welcome will be delivered by Hon. R. A. Gray. The dedication speech will be delivered by Hon. J. C. McBride.

Farmers' Institute.

The annual institute of the Christian County Farmers' Institute association will be held at Morrisville October 15, 16 and 17. The officers of the association are: President, R. J. Stone; vice president, Laban Yoder; secretary, C. D. Simpson, Palmer; treasurer, E. A. Vandever. The address of welcome will be delivered by S. W. Culp and the response by R. J. Stone.

Arc Lights Reduced.

The cost of the incandescent arc lights for street use has been reduced by the Alton railway gas and electric company from $90 to $50 a year. The city council received complaints because of the change of the form of arc lights on the streets, and it was then announced by the company that the price had been voluntarily reduced by the company to $50 a year on each lamp.

Considerate to Pioneer.

Judge Humphrey of the Federal court at Springfield has issued an order removing Edward Smith from the Sangamon county jail to the Vermilion county jail at Danville, where the prisoner formerly resided. Some time ago Smith, with four other colored men, was convicted of jury frauds at Cairo and was sentenced to serve nine months in jail. Since his confinement Smith's health has failed. The order of removal was made that he might have the attention of friends and relatives who reside in Danville.

Senator Cullom is not going to fight Senator Mason. The senior senator never did like fighting air, even if it was the hot kind.

Doubtless the full dinner pail as an issue is attractive, but the party that can pledge the full coal hod will get the voters this year.

The Oshkosh, Wis., Northwestern (rep.) says: "The tariff must be revised," and adds: "The pressure of public opinion is becoming so strong that it would be folly on the part of the republican party to longer ignore it."

We gather from the report of the state board of charities that the staff of the Kankakee asylum is composed entirely of saints ripe for immediate translation. The ecclesiastical calendars will have to be revised in order to let these new instances of beautification have proper recognition.

According to a report of the Chicago police department the fall crop of hold-ups and burglaries is caused by the cool weather. In other words, Chicagoans are going forth with a lead pipe and Smith & Weston revolver to secure funds with which to purchase a supply of coal.

The Harvard Herald has an idea that the Lake county democrats will have a hard time to elect their county ticket this fall. There is no chance for argument on that question. The republicans of Lake county are solid to a man in support of the county ticket, but there may be a split on representative. Lake is not a democratic county.

One of the striking things shown by the last census is the remarkable increase of tenant farming. The percentage of farms operated by tenants showed a considerable increase by the census of 1890. For the whole country, this percentage has increased in the last ten years nearly twice as fast as the percentage of population of the nation, four times that of the purely agricultural population, and twice that of the farms operated by their owners. The owners have taken up their homes in the cities and villages and are living easy on the income of their farms.

Mme. Baker addressed the Dress-makers' association at Chicago last Friday and gave that class of women the following good advice: "Get married. Get married early. Don't wait until you are old and withered before you allow some man to know you well enough to call you by your first name. If you are going in business for yourself marry a man who is employed in such a way that he can materially aid you in building up your patronage. Avoid the man who expects to make his living by becoming your errand boy, if he does anything at all. Avoid cocktails and champagne. Avoid the wily salesman who wishes to sell you goods and takes you to the theatre so that he may charge you $10 too much in his bill. Keep yourself young. Go to church. Don't think that because you are a dressmaker you cannot be a Christian."

There is much truth in an article contributed to the Chicago Tribune by Helen Olnfield, on the subject "Study Your Husband's Whims." There would be more domestic happiness if the suggestions given in the article were carried out. Among other things it says: "Read the history of the successful men of today, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred the man who stands at the head of his profession, the man who has gone from poverty to wealth, or has been elected to seats on public bodies, and is first and foremost in local and general popular favor, is the man who has had a strong, capable woman behind him pushing him onward and upward. A wife is a dead weight who has to be carried, and now, when the race of life is so hard and the competition so keen, no man so handicapped is going to win. Any woman who can stay home and who does not have to go out and battle with fate for bread ought to thank heaven for her blessing, and cling to it. But there is no other profession on earth that needs such a vast technical knowledge nor such broad training as the profession of wife and mother. The woman makes the atmosphere of the home. If she is gay and bright—a happy philosopher who takes life as she finds it and makes the best of things—there is sunshine in that home, and everybody goes out of it full of hope and strength and courage; but if she is querulous and complaining, she is the wet blanket that chills enthusiasm and kills effort."

A Nation of Newspaper Readers.

That we are a nation of newspaper readers is abundantly proved, if proof were needed, by a late bulletin of the twelfth census. According to this, there are 18,226 newspapers and periodicals of all kinds in the United States, an increase of 22.3 per cent from the census of 1890. Of these 2,226 are dailies, 12,979 weeklies and 1,817 monthlies. The character of the different publications is as follows:

News, politics, etc.	14,857
Religion	932
Commercial and trade papers, etc.	710
Agricultural	307
General literature, including magazines	239
Education and history	239
Fraternal organizations	209
College and school periodicals	139
Medicine and surgery	111
Society, art, music, etc.	88
Law	62

The increase in the circulation of all classes of newspapers has kept almost even pace with the growth of the city population of the country, being 22.3 per cent for all publications and 20.7 for population. The average number of inhabitants for each daily newspaper has been about the same during the last twenty years. In 1880 there were 4,443 inhabitants for every daily, in 1890 4,224 and in 1900 4,170.

During the decade from 1890 to 1900 the increase in publications devoted to special subjects was checked, while those devoted to news, politics and general reading made a decided relative advance. This is accounted for by the fact that the newspapers, particularly the larger daily papers with their immense Sunday editions, have invaded about every field of knowledge and activity, and the publications devoted to special subjects have had to yield.

The following table shows the increase in the number and circulation of daily newspapers during the last half century:

	Number of dailies.	Total circulation, copies.
1850.....	254	758,454
1860.....	287	1,478,435
1870.....	374	2,601,547
1880.....	671	3,596,355
1890.....	837	5,387,138
1900.....	2,226	15,102,156

There has also been an enormous increase in the circulation of monthlies, which is undoubtedly owing to the low price magazines. The number of monthlies in 1900 was 1,817 and the circulation 39,519,897. The previous census in 1890 reported 1,734 publications and a circulation of 19,624,038.

The figures are significant and on the whole gratifying as showing the increase in the dissemination of information among the people.

Northward the star of empire seems to be taking its course. A score of years ago when settlers were pouring into North Dakota the conservative people of the east insisted that that section was too far north and too cold to be considered as a place wherein to build homes. Now thousands of settlers are pouring into Manitoba and British Columbia and pressing even farther north. Already the Canadian government is seriously considering the construction of a railroad to Hudson bay. It is stated that good wheat growing and general farming land extends that far. And after Hudson bay what next? Unless the little pole searchers bestir themselves they may be surprised upon finally discovering it that the enterprising American farmer has preceded them and is using the pole as a hitching post for his live stock.

A recent report of the United States geological survey on the hydrography of the southern Appalachian mountain region calls attention to the wasteful methods of lumbering practiced there and the prevalence of forest fires as a serious menace to the unusual abundant and valuable water supply of the southern Appalachian mountains. These two causes combined have in many places so denuded the soil on the mountain sides as to hasten its removal by heavy rains and have thus not only increased the danger from floods, but also rendered the flows of many streams smaller in the dry season and more violent in their changes, thus lessening their value for power purposes. While this is a matter largely of local interest, it applies to many sections of the country and emphasizes the necessity of forest preservation.

The English government seems to be strictly keeping faith with the Boers in the matter of returning to South Africa the prisoners sent away during the war. Nearly half of them have already been repatriated, all of whom have taken the oath of allegiance, as all are expected to do. The disinclination on the part of a number of them so to do is said to be gradually disappearing with every vessel which leaves with comrades bound for "home, sweet home."

The report that Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock III. is to be quite different from her predecessors is an intimation that Designer Fife has struck a new note in yacht construction.

The only financial crisis that the sultan of Turkey fears is a dun accompanied by a stiff ultimatum and a fleet of warships.

Even President Palma's most bitter political enemies cannot accuse him of enjoying a sinecure.

FREAK ADORNMENTS.

Strange Household Ornaments That May Be Seen in England.

Many are the strange household and garden adornments scattered up and down the English countryside. In a Sussex village is part of a garden paling made wholly out of the swords of swordfishes. The lady who owns the garden got the strange paling from her brother, who had originally sported it in the tropics.

Near Leeds is a summer house made wholly of buttons of every imaginable kind, and in the same county is a room the walls of which are adorned entirely by the ribbons of cigars, nearly 20,000 of these being represented. From garret to basement in the large house of a Leeds mineral water manufacturer is a gigantic scrapbook, every notable theatrical poster of the last twenty years being pasted on the walls.

A north country banker living near Wakefield has a great dining room the whole of the walls of which are the wooden and iron doors of eminent castles and historic buildings, and at Liscard, in Cheshire, is a room that contains hundreds of picture frames made of every imaginable substance, from leather to tigers' bones, one frame being placed within another according to size so that the whole surface is covered with frames.

In Liverpool is a room—that of a dentist whose grandfather occupied the same premises—that contains many mirrors and pictures the frames of which are made entirely of sharks' teeth. Near Birmingham a manufacturer has a study that is lined, even to the roof, with nothing but chains of various thicknesses and padlocks of different sizes.—Pearson's.

DON'T GET TOO FULL.

A Lesson That May Be Learned From the Habits of the Bees.

"Don't stir up a beehive unless you know it is a rich one," said an apiarist to a visitor at his bee farm.

"I think that I would leave them alone altogether," was the reply. "They have too angry a buzz about them to win my confidence."

"You are not used to them, that's all," said the bee man. "For example, these hives are full of honey, and if I puff a little smoke into the doors so as to sort of suffocate the sentries I can topple a hive over, handle the bees like so many beans, clean the honeycombs and carry them off. The bees won't harm me." And, to prove his words, the speaker performed his experiment and came back to his friend with a smile and several heavy combs of honey.

"If those hives had been nearly empty," said the apiarist, "I would have been lucky to have escaped with my life. The tenants of a poor hive sting to kill."

"That's strange," said the visitor. "I should think that they would defend their hives with especial jealousy, and the more they have the hotter they would fight."

"The reason is," said the bee man, "that when alarmed the bees fly to their storehouse and gorge themselves. When full of honey, a bee can't bend its body and sting."

"Which should be a lesson to us," said the other. "Don't get too full."—New York Tribune.

A Punctual Bird.

What tempts the little humming bird that we see in our gardens to travel every spring from near the equator to as far north as the arctic circle, leaving behind him, as he does, for a season, many tropical delights? He is the only one of many humming birds that pluckily leaves the land of gayly colored birds to go into voluntary exile in the north, east of the Mississippi. How it stirs the imagination to picture the solitary, tiny migrant, a mere atom of bird life, moving above the range of human sight through the vast dome of the sky! Borne swiftly onward by rapidly vibrating little wings, he covers the thousands of miles between his winter home and his summer one by easy stages and arrives at his chosen destination, weather permitting, at approximately the same date year after year.—Country Life in America.

The Woman and Her Face.

Once upon a time a woman had a quarrel with her features because they made ugly faces at her when she looked in the glass. She scolded and scolded, but it all did no good.

Finally she sat in front of her mirror, and with rouge, powder and black pencil went deliberately to work to show her face how wrong it was and succeeded.

After a time she smiled a smile of intense satisfaction, and her face smiled pleasantly back at her.

Moral.—It is better to make up than to continue differences.—New York Herald.

Mrs. Pratt—Is she? I never met her.

Mrs. Meekins—Perfect! I told her today I was ashamed of myself because I never had returned her call, and she said, very politely, you know, that I needn't worry myself; that I could keep it as long as I pleased.—Boston Transcript.

THE WOODCOCK.

Where Does It Hide During the Molting Season?

It is during the months of August and September that the mystery of the woodcock's life begins. This is the molting season, when the bird changes its plumage before beginning its journey southward. At this time it leaves the swamps. Where does it go? That is a question which has never yet received a satisfactory answer; although each sportsman and naturalist has his own opinion, and many fine spun theories have been advanced. Some say that the birds move toward the north, some that they seek the mountain tops, coming into the swamps to feed only after nightfall; some that they seek the cornfields, and there have been many other such theories.

Probably the truth lies in a mean of all these statements. I think it probable that the birds know the loss of their feathers renders them to a certain extent helpless and more exposed to the attacks of their natural enemies, and they therefore leave the more open swamps and hide in the densest and most tangled thickets. It is certain that they scatter, for at this season single birds are found in the most unusual and unexpected places.

Years ago when shooting in Dutchess county, N. Y., I knew one or two swamps, which we called molting swamps, where in August we were sure to find a limited number of birds. These swamps were overgrown with rank marsh grass and were full of patches of wild rose and sweetbrier. If we killed the birds which we found there, we were sure in a week or ten days to find their places filled by about the same number.—Outing.

MILITARY DISPLAY.

An Amusing Bit of Routine in a New York Hotel.

There is no better place to mark the increasing love of military display and maneuvers than the lobby of a large hotel. The colored help in particular are great soldiers. In one of the Broadway hotels uptown the colored hall-men are changed at noon. Things were quiet in the lobby at that hotel today, for the clerks and bookkeepers were deep in their books, and the loungers were all sitting peacefully on the sofas when the steady tramp, tramp of what sounded like a regiment of infantry broke the stillness.

The regiment consisted of six colored hallmen in blue and brass, with an especially resplendent mulatto in a more gorgeous uniform walking at the head of the procession, says the New York correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette. He lined his six men in front of a bench before the desk, looked them over sharply to see that they were "eyes front" and hissed "Attention!" Then as he clapped his hands once the six men hinged their legs simultaneously and drooped into their seats like a row of wooden soldiers.

The mulatto wiped his brow with a highly perfumed handkerchief, glanced at the head clerk for approval and as the first man responded with a jerk to the cry of "Front!" went to the main doorway to look at the sunlight of Broadway with the air of a successful major general. The whole performance was excruciatingly funny, but I am sure that mulatto would have committed assault and battery on any one who dared to laugh.

The Wax Insect.

Trees afford the birthplace and cradle of the wax insect, scientifically called Cossus pela. In the early spring the bark of the boughs and twigs becomes covered with brown pea shaped scales, which can be easily detached and which, when opened, reveal the flowery looking mass of minute animals, whose movements can just be detected by the naked eye. In May and June, however, the scales are found to contain a swarm of brown creatures with six legs and two antennae each. Some of the scales also contain the white bag or cocoon of a small black beetle, which, if left undisturbed, burrows into and consumes the scales. The Chinese say that this beetle eats the little wax insects, and it appears certainly the case that where the parasite is most abundant the scales fetch a lower price in the market.—Chambers' Journal.

All in the Family.

They were discussing the factors which make for success in the world, when the knowing young man said:

"There's nothing like force of character, old man. Now, there's Jones. Sure to make his way in the world. Has a will of his own, you know."

"But Brown has something better in his favor."

"What's that?"

"A will of his uncle."—Stray Stories.

Legal Points.

"So he got out an injunction against your company," we say pityingly. "Why didn't you forestall him by getting an injunction to prevent the issuance of his injunction?"

"I couldn't. You see, he was slick enough to get out an injunction against my getting out an injunction against his injunction!"—Baltimore Herald.

Small in a Double Sense.

"After all," remarked Smithers, yawning, "it is a small world."

"It has to be," snapped Smuthers, "to match some of the people in it."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

WAUCONDA.

H. T. Fuller was a Chicago visitor Monday.

J. F. Grosvenor of Chicago is spending a week's vacation with relatives and friends in our village.

Mrs. Phil Maiman and son Edward of Waukegan are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. H. Maiman.

Frank Roney went to Iowa Wednesday to buy a car-load of cattle, which he will dispose of to farmers in this vicinity.

Miss May Daily returned from Waukegan Friday, having taken a teacher's examination and received a certificate.

The street lamps are now lighted every evening since Sunday night, the lantern that was hung at the corner of Mill and Main streets failed to give sufficient light for traffic.

Chester Golding started for Beloit Tuesday morning, where he will attend school at the Beloit college. He finished the 11th year in our school last year and we are pleased to see him push forward for higher education.

Miss Gertrude Sullivan of Waukegan, who has been teaching at Roseville school for the past two weeks, has exchanged schools with Miss Myrtle Murray and will teach the Dady school two miles west of Waukegan, while Miss Murray will have a more convenient school at Roseville.

A. C. Stoxen and family will move to a farm near Huntley next week, where Mr. Stoxen has rented a farm, having sold his place in our village to Mr. Bacon. Mr. and Mrs. Stoxen have been residents here for several years and their many friends are loth to see them depart, and we extend our best wishes for their future welfare and prosperity.

Confirmation was held at Fremont Centre and Volo Catholic churches on Wednesday, where Bishop Muldoon confirmed a class of 78 at the former and 60 at the latter place. The bishop arrived at Grayslake at St. Paul depot at 8:45, where he was met and conveyed by carriage to St. Mary's church at Fremont Centre. The day was stormy and very disagreeable and the roads muddy, but, despite all, the church was well filled when mass began at 10:30. Father Ursachek of Chesterton, Ind., sang the mass and Father Louis Meech of Valparaiso, Ind., acted as deacon, while Father Thiele of Whiting, Ind., brother of Father Thiele, the resident pastor, acted as sub-deacon. The ceremony was very impressive and the bishop delivered an address both before and after the confirmation, instructing the class in their duties as Catholics and imploring them to follow the right path. Confirmation at Volo was held at 3 o'clock p. m. This is the first confirmation at these parishes since 1895.

Messrs. John Golding, L. C. Price, Arthur Cooke and H. E. Maiman attended a game dinner at Muerkes Bros. hotel at Fox Lake Tuesday, in response to an invitation extended to the county officers and friends. About 75 guests were present. Dinner was served at 12:30 and the following was the menu:

Shell clams	Fish	Game
Soup	Potatoes	Bread
Wine	Coffee	Milk
Cigars	Fruit	Sugar

After dinner several toasts were proposed and drank, concluding with the election of referee and time-keeper for the badger fight. At 2 p. m. the badger fight was pulled off and L. C. Price held the honor of referee and certainly deserves due credit for the able manner in which he rendered his decisions.

HOW THE INDIANS VOTE.

They Are Very Deliberate and Then Have a Simple Method.

The Chickasaw Indians cast their vote differently from the way the white man does it. They meet the day before the election, and none but Chickasaws by blood is allowed to vote. No white man or intermarried citizens have the right of suffrage. They go off to themselves and have a powwow. They decide for whom they will vote after considering the matter for twenty-four hours.

The polling place is quite unlike that of the white man. There is a great sheet of paper, white, yellow or brown as the case may be, about three feet square. Upon this sheet of paper are a vast number of cross lines, regularly ruled off with a pencil. Then down one side of the sheet of paper are placed the names of all candidates for office, beginning with the candidates for governor and running on down to precinct officers. At the top of the sheet are the number of blank spaces that will be required for the names of the voters. The judges of election sit by and pass on those entitled to vote, and there is a certainty that no illegal votes are cast.

The Indian is thoroughly deliberate. He takes his time when it comes to voting. He proceeds to the polling place, looks carefully over the poll sheet, and if he is ready to cast his ballot he calls out his name, and the clerk records it on the sheet. Then the clerk reads off the names of the candidates for governor. The voter deliberates awhile, calls out the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote, his vote is recorded, and the names of the candidates for the next office are called out, and so on through the list, till all the offices represented are voted for.

Thus it is that every voter knows exactly how every other voter has cast his ballot, and there are no remarks, no suggestions and no quarrels over differences of opinion.

POSTAL STATISTICS.

The number of pieces of matter of all kinds mailed increased from 500,000 in 1790 to 7,424,390,329 in 1901.

The first year's issue of postal cards, 1873, numbered 31,004,000, while in 1901 659,614,800 were issued.

In 1865 money orders to the amount of $1,360,122 were issued, while in 1901 the total amounted to $274,546,067.

In 1853, the year in which stamped envelopes were first issued, 5,000,000 were used, while in 1901 the total was 772,839,000.

The registry system was started in 1855, and in that year the registered pieces numbered 629,322. In 1901 they numbered 20,814,501.

From June 30, 1847, to June 30, 1851, 4,603,200 postage stamps were issued, while in the single year 1901 4,329,273,696 stamps were used by the people of the United States.

In 1789 there were only seventy-five postoffices established, the length of the post routes being 2,275 miles and the gross revenue of the department being only $7,510. The expenditures were $7,560.

There were in 1901 76,594 postoffices in operation, 511,808 miles of post routes, 466,146,050 miles of mail service performed. The gross revenues of the department were $111,631,193, the expenditures $115,039,607.

The Old Lady and the Incubator.

An old lady visiting an exhibition went to see some incubators which were on show and, complaining of the expense of keeping fowls, said that if they were cheaper she would buy an egg hatching machine. After she had asked various questions the gentleman in attendance proceeded to show her the drawers in which were deposited the eggs in different stages. On these the old lady looked in astonishment. "What!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Do you use eggs?" "Certainly," was the attendant's astonished answer. "Well," said she, "I consider it a perfect swindle to pick the pockets of honest, hardworking folks by selling them those frauds! Why, anybody can hatch chickens with eggs! I can do it myself!"—London Globe.

Marvelous Medicine.

A patent medicine vendor in a country village was dilating to a crowd upon the wonderful efficiency of his iron bitters.

"Why," said he, "Steve Jenkins had only taken the bitters one week when he was shoved into the prison for murder, and what does Steve do but open a vein in his arm and take iron enough out of his blood to make a crowbar, with which he pried the doors open and let himself out. Fact!"

PROTECTED CRUISER, DES MOINES. LAUNCHED AT QUINCY, MASS.

The new protected cruiser Des Moines, named in honor of the capital city of Iowa, was launched at Quincy, Mass., Sept. 20, in the presence of Gov. Cummins and a large party of Iowa and Des Moines officials.

Miss Elsie Macomber of Des Moines, with Gov. Cummins of Iowa and Mayor Brenton of Des Moines standing by her side, smashed the traditional bottle of champagne against the steel prow of the cruiser, while Miss Clara N. Carleton of Haverhill, Mass., cut the ropes which held the last keel block and started the ship down the ways.

At a given signal Miss Carleton cut the rope which held this piece of timber with a hatchet made from the iron and mahogany used in the construction of the ship.

Scarcely had the rope been cut when Miss Macomber dashed the bottle of champagne against the steel bow with the words: "I christen thee Des Moines."

The big vessel hesitated but a few moments and then started down the ways. The plunge into the river was made gracefully and was hailed by a deafening roar of cheers.

The Cruiser Des Moines.

The development of the new navy of the United States is illustrated by the protected cruiser Des Moines. The Des Moines is the best type of a sheathed and coppered cruiser that has been produced. Capable of remaining in service for an unusually long period without loss of speed, and of making long voyages without recasting, she is to be strongly armed with modern rapid-fire guns using smokeless powder, will be equipped with a system of wireless telegraphy, and will be thoroughly up-to-date in every respect.

The Des Moines is one of six cruisers authorized by act of congress on March 3, 1899, designed chiefly for foreign service. She is intended as a commerce protector rather than for naval warfare, and is, therefore, constructed to make long cruises with economy and comfort and something better than average speed, and at the same time she will be prepared to hold her own in a fight with anything of her own size.

The contract for the Des Moines was awarded to the Fore River Company, December 14, 1899, and the keel was laid eight months later. The contract calls for a speed of sixteen and a half knots, which is considerably less than that demanded in the case of the Raleigh class, which is composed of cruisers of about the same displacement. But although the Raleigh made 19 knots on her trial she is unable to average better than 15 knots on long voyages, and that with an extravagant use of fuel, while the Des Moines can maintain her full speed indefinitely without straining her engines or wasting fuel, and would, therefore, come out ahead in a long race. To carry the comparison one step further, the Raleigh's engines require 10,000 indicated horse power, while the Des Moines requires but 4,700, which means that she will carry less than one-half the weight of propelling machinery.

The new cruiser is 308 feet over all, and has a load waterline length of 292 feet, an extreme breadth of 44 feet, and a mean draught of 16 feet nine inches. Her displacement with two-thirds stores on her trial trip will be 3,200 tons, and her full load displacement will be about 3,500 tons. She has twin screws, vertical triple expansion, four cylinder engines, and six water tube boilers. Her normal coal supply is estimated at 467 and her bunker capacity 700 tons, or enough to carry her 2,600 miles at full speed, or about 10,000 at a "jog trot" of ten knots an hour. She will have 800 square feet of grate surface under her boilers, and the top of the stacks will be 70 feet above the grates.

In the building of the Des Moines the latest methods of ship construction were employed. The steel hull was built complete, and holes were cut line, the first contact of the water will cause this so-called obturating material to swell and automatically close the leak. This belt is slightly over two feet thick and is estimated to contain 6,720 cubic feet, or over two tons of corn-pith compressed into square briquettes.

The new cruiser will use only smokeless powder and will carry a main battery of 10 five-inch breech-loading rapid-fire guns, and a secondary battery of eight six-pounder and two one-for gun ports and other necessary openings. The lower half of the hull was sheathed with planks of Georgia pine, each plank being bent and cut away to fit precisely to the steel skin of the ship, and then fastened in place with bronze bolts.

Although she is unarmored, the Des Moines has a turtleback deck, which starts from below the waterline and furnishes some protection for the engines and magazines, since the slopes are made of two-inch nickel steel, from which shots of moderate weight would be likely to glance off with comparatively little harm. A hundred watertight compartments are provided, so that the ship shall keep afloat even though some of them are flooded with water. Furthermore, the Des Moines is provided with a protective belt of corn-pith cellulose so that if the hull is penetrated by a shot at the water-pounder rapid fire guns, besides four Colt automatic machine guns. Her complement of men is 30 officers and 263 men and her contract price is $1,065,000. She will carry nine boats, ranging in size from a 30-foot steam launch to an 18-foot dingy.

The Des Moines was launched from the same ways which the Fore River Company recently used in launching the seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson, the largest American sailing ship afloat.

PRESIDENT QUILTS HIS WESTERN TRIP

Abscess Forms on His Shin,
Compelling Him to Undergo an Operation.

RESULT OF TROLLEY COLLISION

Bruise Received in Accident at Plainfield Forces Mr. Roosevelt to the Hospital, Where the Sac is Empty of Its Contents.

President Roosevelt was compelled to abandon his tour through the Northwest, and to submit to a hurried operation for a rapidly developing abscess in his left leg, caused by his recent accident at Pittsfield, Mass.

After his speech at the Columbia club in Indianapolis the President suffered such pain that Dr. Lung, his physician, decided on an immediate operation. The President was driven directly from the club to the hospital, where a successful operation was performed.

The President bore the painful ordeal without flinching. At his request no anesthetic was administered except locally. Dr. George H. Oliver of Indianapolis performed the operation, under the supervision of Dr. George A. Lung.

Carried to His Train.

After the wound had been bandaged President Roosevelt was permitted to rest for several hours. Then his special train was run on a spur track near the hospital, and he was carried on board and immediately put to bed.

Sister Agnes, who had charge of the surgery where the operation on the President was performed, asserted that the President offered no complaint while the doctors were at work upon the injured leg.

"The President," she said, "was courageous in his bearing, and evinced no sign of the piercing pain he must have endured. During the operation he spoke to me several times, and upon one occasion when I dropped a bandage accidentally upon his breast and it rolled to the table beside his left hand he picked it up and returned it, remarking, 'I am pretty much of a nuisance.' He spoke to me several times during the operation, and protested against my fanning him."

"It is not gallant in me," he said, "to be fanned by a woman. I should be doing the fanning myself."

All day President Roosevelt, against the advice of his physicians, insisted on continuing with the day's speech-making.

Prevents a Panic.

Every movement was agony, but he made six speeches and remained on his feet for three hours and a half to keep the news of his illness from becoming public until after the close of the New York Stock exchange.

"Was the operation delayed by the President with the intention of preventing a crash in the stock markets?" was asked of Secretary Cortelyou.

"Yes; he did it deliberately," said Mr. Cortelyou. "We waited until the markets closed. It was all done with a purpose."

During his noontime speech before the Spanish-American war veterans President Roosevelt was noticeably ill at ease.

Suffers in Silence.

No one then suspected, however, that he was enduring intense pain for the sake of his country's securities. As the hours passed the pain increased, and only fortitude such as the President's enabled him to sit through the hour spent at lunch at the Columbia club. Then he made a brief speech from the balcony. By this time even Mr. Roosevelt realized that his illness was fast passing his endurance. He closed his speech abruptly, but with a well-turned sentence that aroused no suspicion in the minds of his hearers.

He passed immediately into one of the club's private apartments. After a few questions Dr. Lung informed the President that he must submit to an immediate operation.

WILL FIGHT THE SUGAR TRUST

Spreckels-Kern Combination to Erect a Big Factory.

Yonkers, N. Y., special: That the Spreckels-Kern sugar combination, or the Federal Sugar Refining company, is in deadly earnest in its fight against the sugar trust is evidenced by its latest move in buying 400 feet of dock frontage on the Hudson river adjoining its present holdings on the north and running to within 200 feet of the refinery of the National company. On this plot it will erect another structure nine times the size of its present building, with a capacity of 3,600 barrels of sugar per day. This will give an output of 4,000 barrels a day, almost double the capacity of the trust's Yonkers factory near by.

Children Die in Fire.

London cablegram: Four children perished in flames which destroyed several farm buildings near Dover. The district is full of hop pickers and the four children were assisting in the work when the building took fire.

Lansing, Mich., dispatch: Elbert S. Roos, the last of the Henderson-Ames company directors to receive sentence for complicity in the fraudulent state military clothing deal, was fined $2,000 by Judge Weist.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION IS SYSTEMIC CATARRH.

(Peruna is the only Systemic Catarrh Remedy known to the Medical Profession)

Mrs. Ida L. Gregory, President of the Poets and Authors Club of Colorado, President of Colorado Art Club, Director of School of Industry and Design, Vice President of Sherman Art League, is One of the Leading Club Women of Colorado.

In a recent letter from 2 Grant avenue, Denver, Colo., this prominent lady says:

"Some years ago my husband suffered from nervous prostration and advising with a friendly druggist he brought home a bottle of Peruna. His health was restored from its use, his appetite was increased and restful sleep came to him. I therefore heartily endorse Peruna, as an honest remedy worthy the good things which are said of it."—Ida L. Gregory.

Nervous prostration is so frequently associated with systemic catarrh that some doctors do not distinguish between the two. In systemic catarrh the disease has pervaded the whole system and there is a constant loss of vital fluids from the mucous membranes.

A great many people are doctoring for nervous prostration who would be immediately cured by a course of Peruna. Peruna makes clean, healthy mucous membranes. By this preservation of the fluids the weakening drain of their discharge is prevented.

The medical profession is just beginning to awaken to the fact that chronic catarrh, especially systemic catarrh, will soon produce a condition so nearly resembling nervous prostration that it is very difficult to tell one from the other. Peruna cures these cases without fail.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

EVERY CHILD BORN INTO THE WORLD with an inherited tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp, and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available, viz., THE CUTICURA TREATMENT.

Warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, gentle anointings with CUTICURA OINTMENT, to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skintortured infants and children and the comfort of worn-out, worried mothers. A single set is often sufficient to cure when the best physicians fail.

An Angelic Boy.

We saw such a beautiful and good little boy last Sunday. He had flaxen curls, a shining morning face, a wide white collar such as Rollo, that companion of our youth, used to wear, clothes cleaner than clean. He must have been going home from Sunday school. He looked as though he had rained down from heaven. An angelic boy. And he was saying to some invisible "rock" throwing boy behind the fence, "If I git hold o' you I'll clump you in the snoot."—New York Sun.

Another Viewpoint.

On one occasion when Ambassador Choate was defending a client charged with a serious offense the attorney for the plaintiff in his speech had recounted the alleged misconduct of the defendant, and impressively said:

"There is no possible excuse for such action; no one could offer any excuse."

"Why, just imagine the many excuses you could devise if you were counsel for the defendant," interrupted Mr. Choate.

Curious River Navigation.

A curious means of moving boats is employed on the river Elbe. A chain 290 miles long lies at the bottom of the stream, which is too swift to navigate in the usual way. The boats are 180 feet long and provided with 200 horse-power steam engines, which turn a drum fastened on the deck. The chain comes in over the bow, passing along in rollers to the drum, around which it is wound three times. The chain is then carried to the stern and dropped into the water,

MORMON SCION ADMITS GUILT

Grandson of Brigham Young Aids Murderer to Dispose of Woman's Body.

TRIED TO DISMEMBER CORPSE

Nerve Failed Him and He Removed Remains in a Trunk, Sending Them to Chicago, Where Accomplice Was to Claim the Baggage.

William Hooper Young confessed to the murder of Mrs. Annie Pulitzer at New York after having been absolutely identified in Bert Edwards, who was arrested in Derby, Conn. The police of Derby officially announce that Young admitted his identity and in addition to his confession, the details of which they withheld, the authorities possess a mass of circumstantial evidence.

This is Young's confession in substance:

"I am William Hooper Young. "In justice to myself I want to make this confession of the part I played in the killing of Mrs. Pulitzer, of which I am accused. I did not commit the crime alone. If I am guilty at all, it is only in part, and that not the greater part. I had an accomplice.

Woman Was Dead.

"The woman was dead when I found her. That is all I can say here. She was dead when I found her. I inflicted the wound in the abdomen, but she was dead before I did it. It was I also who put the body in the closet. And it was I who disposed of the body. "But with all my connection with the crime I solemnly protest that the woman was dead before I laid hands on her.

"Afterward we went away together. Thursday we spent in Brewster, having walked there. I do not care to say what we did after that, but I think my accomplice is in Bridgeport now."

Accuses Another.

In his confession Young claims that another accomplice actually committed the murder. Young is reported to have stated that he and Charles Simpson Eiling of Bridgeport, Conn., lured the woman to Young's flat, where Young left them for a while. On his return Young says that Eiling, who immediately fled, told him that he had killed the woman by giving her a dose of chloral hydrate in a glass of beer.

Tried to Save Friend.

Anxious to save his friend, Young said that he attempted to dismember the body, but that his nerve failed him and he subsequently removed it in a trunk. No such man as Eiling is known in Bridgeport and the police regard the confession as an effort on the part of Young to shield himself. Eiling is the name to which Young addressed the trunk to Chicago. Young says that he expected Eiling to go to Chicago and claim the trunk.

Is Terror-Stricken.

Young, ever since his arrest in the guise of a tramp, had shown signs of nervousness, but these developed into the extreme of terror when several of his former friends entered the cell and swore to his identity as the grandson of Brigham Young, the Mormon leader. Since that time his condition has grown worse, his whole body twitching spasmodically, while at frequent intervals he is seized with an acute fit of violent trembling. He perspires unduly and water literally dropped from his finger tips while he was under examination.

The thieves were in the Janesville pearl button factory at the time preparing to blow the safe and fled at the alarm, leaving behind them the money they had taken from the street car safe.

FIRE THREATENS A BIG LINER

Attorney General Knox Aids in Keeping Women in Ignorance.

New York special: The American liner St. Paul had a fierce fight with flames in midocean, but the peril was kept from all the women. Attorney General Knox, who was on board, was one of the men who was entrusted with the secret by Capt. John C. Jamison, and he aided the officers in keeping the passengers below decks. Excellent discipline prevailed and there was not a sign of panic. The fire started in the clothes room and blazed for twelve hours. The origin is unknown.

DIDN'T BUY AN AUTO.

Admiral Evans Took Disinterested Advice of a Cabby.

A story is told of how Admiral (then captain) Evans was cured of his desire for an automobile. He was riding in one of these machines with a friend in New York. After the spin through Central park had become most invigorating the captain became talkative with the chauffeur.

"You are the man I want to talk to," he remarked. "I have been thinking for some time of buying one of these flying machines for myself and I want some expert advice as to what brand of wings to purchase.

"I've driven every kind of machine that there is," returned the affable engineer, "steam, gasoline, electric, and all, and I guess I know 'em all from A to Z."

"Well, now, my man," returned the captain, warming up to the gentlemanly stealer, "if you were going to buy a machine for your own self what kind would you select?"

"Well, sir," replied the cabby, "if I was to buy one, I'd save up my money and buy a horse."

The admiral is still without an auto.

Had Crazy Spells.

West Pembroke, Me., Sept. 22.—The thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. A. L. Smith suffered with a peculiar affliction which her mother describes as follows:

"It is two years now since she was first taken with crazy spells.

"They kept on coming at intervals and I could get nothing to do her any good.

"The doctors gave me no encouragement. They all said they could not help her.

"The crazy spell would last about nine days, then she would be well about nine days, but would eat very little and was very yellow. Even the whites of her eyes were yellow.

"I heard that Dodd's Kidney Pills were a great remedy for young girls and decided to try them.

"After taking one box she was completely restored and she has not had one bad spell since. Of course we continued to use the pills and she used altogether five boxes last fall.

"In March I thought I saw symptoms of the spells again and I got six boxes of which she has taken four, and is in splendid health.

"Her case was certainly a remarkable one and we are very thankful to Dodd's Kidney Pills for the great good they have done my daughter."

Wit of the Shah.

When the late shah of Persia visited London some years ago the following incident occurred: "At an exhibition in London," wrote the late shah, "the picture of a donkey was shown and I asked the price of it. The director of the exhibition, a fat, white-bearded man, who gave information about the prices, told me it was £100. I remarked: 'The value of a live donkey is £5. How is it then that this, which is but the picture of an ass, is to be paid so dearly for?' The director said: 'Because it is not a source of expense, as it eats neither straw nor barley,' I replied: 'True, it is not a source of outlay, but neither will it carry a load or give one a ride.' We laughed heartily."

Do you want 16 oz. instead of 12 oz. for same money? Then buy Defiance Starch. Requires no cooking.

Might Have Been Worse.

A disposition to look on the bright side of things spares its possessor much unhappiness, but when the cheerfulness reverts upon reasoning so unsound as Mr. Dolan's there must some time come an awakening.

Mr. Dolan had lost his position at the mill, owing to his persistent habit of tardiness, and in consequence his wife was "low in her mind." But Dolan was as cheerful as ever.

"Now don't be losin' your smolies, Norah, darlin'," he said, coaxingly. "O'm out o' wurk, to be sure, but 'twas only a dollar a day Oi got. If Oi'd been gettin' two dollars our loss would be twice as bad. Kape that in mind, darlin', and not be complainin'."

The young people of the Methodist church were at the parsonage Wednesday night to meet Miss Langdon, the deaconess of Chicago, who entertained them with a description of the training, education and home life and work of a deaconess. Light refreshments were served, and they departed both pleased and profited thereby.

A number of local dealers have been taken in by residents of Chicago Highlands. Anxious to increase their sales they gave some of the new-comers unlimited credit, and now they gaze at the long column of figures, and not only weep, but swear. It is the prevailing opinion that the dealers are deserving of no sympathy. They should have known better.

The electric railway, which Edward Warren Stees of Chicago, promised to build and have in operation between Wauconda and this village by the first of October, 1902, shows little signs of life. Mr. Stees has, for the present, given up railroad constructions and is endeavoring to enlist the well-to-do citizens of Wauconda in a project to establish a bank in that village.

President Roosevelt said to a New England audience some days ago: "The first requisite of good citizenship is that the man shall do the home-ly, every-day hum-drum duties well. He has got to be a good breadwinner. He has got to take care of his wife and children. He has got to be a neighbor whom his neighbors can trust. He has got to do all those ordinary things, or he is not a good citizen."

John H. S. Lee, lately assistant state's attorney for Cook county, has been admitted as a partner in the firm of Flower, Vroman & Musgrave. Jas. M. Flower has retired and the new firm will be styled Musgrave, Vroman & Lee.

During the past ten days a series of petty depredations has stirred up the farmers residing near the syndicate property. Chickens, cans of milk and calves have been taken. Evidently somebody is arranging to spend the winter in Lake county jail.

Anna Solisky, a resident of Chicago Highlands, has returned to Cleveland, Ohio. There are a number of merchants who will remember Anna. She kept her Hungarian boarders on good victuals. They paid Anna, but Anna forgot to pay her creditors. She left a small assortment of furniture, which is held by Constable Fox on an execution.

One of our citizens has tumbled onto a scheme—a new one—to make money. It is a sort of a "get rich quick" scheme. In speaking of the matter the other evening to a friend, he asked, "What do you think of it?" The reply was not very encouraging. "You might as well try to get rich peddling spring water at a Schaumburg picnic."

The dance given by the B. S. & A. C. in Stott's hall last Friday evening was attended by about thirty-five couples. A most enjoyable time was had by those present. Music was furnished by Herm's Chicago orchestra. Among those from out of town were: Mrs. U. W. and Miss Ida Iverson of Milwaukee, Fred Trippen and Charles Kenyon of Chicago, John Dalton of Wilmette and Mrs. Walter Kennedy of Hoopston.

A Grove avenue resident tells the following, and as his reputation for truth and veracity has never been impeached, we presume it's true: "A young married lady on this side of the village informed her husband that she had received a letter from mamma, in which the parent said the doctor had advised her to take iron and strychnine as a tonic. 'How much strychnine do you think it would be safe for mamma to take, dear?' 'Well, I guess about half a pound will be sufficient to begin with,' was 'dear's' suggestion."

H. A. Harnden arrived at the 54th milestone in his journey through life last Tuesday. Mrs. Harnden decided that the occasion should be one to be remembered by her husband. So she arranged a birthday party to which members of Mr. Harnden's Sunday school class were invited. He was not let into the secret and when the party trapped into the cozy sitting room of the Harnden home, the head of the house realized it was his birthday. The evening was most pleasantly spent, there being music, conundrums, etc. Choice refreshments were served.

Next Sunday they will tell of all the good and profitable things which they have treasured up for Sunday school and Endeavor workers. One of the reports will be in English. Wallace M. France is very ill and his condition causes his friends much anxiety. Some three years ago while traveling in the East Mr. France suffered an accident, which confined him to the hospital and home for weeks. A severe fracture of the skull necessitated an operation, from the effects of which he has never entirely recovered. Again he was attacked by rheumatism and partial paralysis, from which he has suffered much of late. Mr. France was taken suddenly ill on Saturday, and Monday it was decided to take him to Sherman hospital, Elgin, where physicians are endeavoring to help his condition. It is hoped he may be restored to partial good health at least, though physicians have but small hopes of effecting a permanent cure.

Action Was Legal.

The legality of the nomination of Wm. Desmond by the democratic convention held at the Sherman house, Chicago, has been questioned by number of political leaders and lawyers.

The primary election law passed by the last legislature has the following provisions:

"Each nominating convention shall be held within the boundaries of the municipality or district for which its nominations are to be made, and at the place designated in the call."

If the foregoing applied to this, the eighth senatorial district, the nomination of Mr. Desmond, would be clearly illegal, but it does not.

The primary election law provides that in order to secure the advantages of the act, municipalities and districts must fulfill certain conditions and themselves elect that provisions of the law shall apply. This has never been done in this district.

It may be that if the case was carried to the courts, a judge might decide the matter on its merits and rule that a nomination outside the district is in itself irregular and order a new convention.

Again it is likely that the court would rule that in absence of the positive provision that the convention must be held in the district, a technicality of the kind should not interfere with an act that was, without question, the work of the regularly named delegates.

Mr. Desmond is well fitted for the place, a representative man and the choice could not be improved.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard H. Gieske.

Tuesday of this week occurred the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard H. Gieske of this city. They were married in Germany on September 23, 1852. Despite the dismal weather and drizzling rain, nearly a hundred guests responded to the invitations and helped the aged couple celebrate an event that but very few are fortunate to see. The guests arrived early in the afternoon and stayed until late in the evening, and not a dull moment passed during the time. All were there for merriment for it was a cause for rejoicing. The old people told reminiscences of olden times and the younger people enjoyed themselves with games and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Gieske acted as the sponsors for Mr. and Mrs. L. Gieske's sons (the aged couple's grandchildren) at the christening, and it touched the hearts of all. It was a beautiful scene and one not witnessed by any of the guests before.

After the impression of this ceremony had faded some, Rev. Kleinbell, pastor of the Zion's Evangelical church, made very appropriate remarks.

Vocal and instrumental music was rendered to the delight of all by Mr. Reuben Plagge, Misses Luella Plagge, Blanche Schirding and Mary Frye.

Many useful and beautiful presents were received, which shows that Mr. and Mrs. Gieske are held in high esteem by all, and The Review wishes for them many more happy years of wedded life.

Those present from out of town were: Mrs. Rosa Gieyer, Mrs. Fred Eichler, Mrs. G. Stall, Mrs. John Collins, Miss Mary Hart, Chicago; John Witt and family, Mrs. John Law, Long Grove; Wm. Antholtz and family, Glen Ellyn; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mess, Mrs. B. Mess, Miss Blanche Schirding, Palatine; Mrs. Fred Gieske and sons, Dundee; Mrs. Ida Heinrich, Oak Park; C. Zornow, Dundee; Gared Gieske, Manchester, Mich.; Miss Minnie Gieske, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Belvidere is looking for a great boom in consequence of a formation of a sewing machine trust with a capital of $30,000,000. The arrangements were made in New York and Barnabas Eldridge, the Belvidere manufacturer, will be at the head of the new concern. The trust will take in twelve of the leading manufactories of the country. The formation of one central company was made necessary, it is claimed, by the fierce competition in the business. It was decided to establish headquarters at Belvidere.—Belvidere Republican.

Residents of Roundout, or an overwhelming majority of them, are greatly incensed that a saloon was licensed by the board of supervisors, and opened Monday in Mrs. Lancaster's store building, near the St. Paul tracks, by Samuel Swartz of Waukegan. The petition presented the supervisors asking that a license be granted to conduct a saloon at Roundout was signed by a very few residents of that place, most of the signatures be obtained in Libertyville and territory west of the river. Roundout people don't want a saloon, and naturally feel indignant that it should be forced upon them by petitioners who have no interest what ever in their little town.—Libertyville Independent.

It is reported on good authority that local dealers at Huntley have over five hundred tons of hard coal stored in their ware houses, but not a bushel can be bought yet. They certainly have a bonanza.—McHenry Co. Democrat.

Dowie says he has one great object in view, that in conquering the world for God. He said the people never could be saved until the apostate churches were all destroyed. Accordingly, his mission was to destroy them all. Dowie said that he had various credentials which shows that he is the prophet referred to by Christ and all the ancient prophets. In two years there will be 5,000 houses in Zion City, to be built by the great building association now being organized. He boastfully claimed that no man ever accomplished as much as he had, excepting only Christ. He said his work was not laid out by Christ, but that it was just left for him to restore the world as he saw fit.—Waukegan Gazette.

Speaking of the late Lake county fair the Libertyville Independent says in support of President Miller: "Fact of the matter is the president of a fair association is a mere figure-head. As well hold the president of a village responsible for every irregularity that may exist therein as to blame the president of a fair association because a fair is not in every respect up to the correct standard. As to the exhibits in general, the directors are aware there is a lack of interest, and are anxious to remedy the fault. Larger premiums will not alone do it, though it will help. The officers are all men who are earnest and sincere in their endeavor to serve the people as best they can. They receive little or no remuneration for their labors and altogether too much censure."

The Elgin Packing company is receiving on an average one hundred and twenty tons of sweet corn daily. The price paid per ton is $6.00. Next week all the corn required will have been delivered. It is interesting to know that an industrious woman can husk about forty baskets a day. This beats the record of the opposite sex. All husks and corn cobs are free, providing the recipient agrees to haul them away.—Elgin News.

The engagement of Miss Flora Bollman of Dundee to Rev. H. Bertram of Woodstock has been announced. The prospective bride is a daughter of H. T. Bollman, teacher in the German Lutheran parochial school of East Dundee.—Elgin Courier.
