VOL. 17. NO. 43.

BARRINGTON, ILL., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1902.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

PALATINE HAPPENINGS.

Events Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Lecture Monday night.
Hirn's cattle sale Saturday.
Foot ball Saturday afternoon.
Last registration day next Tuesday.
Robt. Baxter was in Milwaukee over Sunday.
Hutchins Hart was able to go to work Saturday.
Arthur Knigge has been enjoying a vacation this week.

James Moorhouse is studying veterinary surgery in Chicago.

The Concordia society made over $200 at their bazaar last week.

Mrs. Bertha Luck returned to her home in Des Moines, Ia., Saturday.

Henry Pahlman was confined to the house by illness the first of the week.

Don't forget the lecture Monday night. Violin and concertina music.

Reserved seat tickets for entertainment course for sale at Mosser's drug store.

Big auction on the Kroucke farm, 2 1/2 miles south-west of Palatine, next Tuesday.

Mrs. M. Blum and daughter, Mrs. J. Handleman, visited friends here Thursday.

Miss Elnora Arps sang before the Woman's club at Arlington Heights last Wednesday.

Ben Wilson has moved into the Muffat house, opposite his stable, so as to be nearer his business.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Wilson will spend the winter in New York city with their daughter Dollie.

On account of a rush of news before going to press the school notes were crowded out. They will appear next week.

Will Hanns and two fellow-students at Evanston visited here over Sunday. Will is playing on the Northwestern University foot ball team.

The Woman Relief Corps will give a penny social in Batterman's hall in the first week of December. They evidently believe in encouraging matrimony, as the admission fee is 10 cents, or two for 5 cents.

Kersting, photographer, next door to Schoppe's, is still giving that elegant, hand-painted easel, nicely framed, with every dozen pictures, only for a short time. Do not miss them. See them at Palatine gallery, open every Sunday.

Joe McCrate, the new baggageman at this station, was severely burned on the face and hands last Friday. He attempted to start up a fire in the depot stove with the aid of kerosene and the oil exploded while he was poking the stove.

The Epworth League made nearly $25 at their social at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Wood last Friday evening. The experiences were interesting and the luncheon very good. The committee feel well paid for their efforts in arranging the affair.

A republican mass meeting will be held in Batterman's hall on Saturday evening. Lewis J. Pierson and Prof. A. J. Nightingale will make addresses in English and W. H. Tatge will deliver an address in German. Everybody invited, ladies included.

Kersting, the popular Palatine photographer, has 25 years practical experience in the best galleries in Chicago, also manufacturer of photo buttons, hand-painted easels, photos on watch dials, watch charms. See elegant samples at gallery, open Sunday from 9 to 5 o'clock. All work guaranteed.

The first of the series of entertainments in the Methodist church will be given next Monday night, when Major E. H. Cooper will give his celebrated illustrated lecture on the "Cliff Dwellers." This is a grand entertainment and should be greeted by a big house. Enough season tickets have been sold to guarantee the payment of $15 for each entertainment.

The school in district No. 13, known as the Meissner district had a "flag raising" last Monday. A new flag had been purchased by the trustees and the occasion of raising it was made an eventful one. The school house has received many new repairs, a new fence encloses the grounds and several trees have been planted. Miss Florence M. Keeney of Chicago has been retained as teacher in the school, giving satisfaction in her work last year. The patrons are taking the right kind of an interest in their school.

Turkey for Thanksgiving dinner is going to be a luxury, both on account of the scarcity and price. This conclusion is reached by buyers who have made a canvass of the country districts. It is estimated the turkey crop will be one-half smaller than last year, and that prices on the Chicago market around Thanksgiving time when the fowl is most in demand, will be about two cents a pound higher than a year ago. At the present time 13 1/2 cents a pound is being bid for car lots, and many sales are as high as 14 cents. This is an unheard of price at this time of the year.

Palatine 17, Bellevue 0.

Palatine won its first foot ball game of the season on Nason's field Saturday. The Bellevues of Chicago were their opponents and were defeated by a score of 17 to 0.

Palatine did some brilliant defensive work and Ray Smith and Herbert Filbert did great work in carrying the ball. The new men in the game showed up well, and aside from a few errors, played like veterans. The line men made good openings for gains and the ball was kept on the move.

The boys were encouraged by a good sized crowd who came out to witness the contest. The team will line up against Irving Park tomorrow and a hot contest is expected, as the Park boys expect to win. So does Palatine.

The line up:

Palatine. Irving Park.
A. Godknecht. C. H. Jensen
W. Danielson. F. Klicka
R. Sutherland. H. Thomas
C. Paddock. E. Danke
F. E. Newton. H. Gager
H. Schraeder. L. Wilcox
G. Matthei. A. Jones
R. Beutler. D. Tompkins
H. Filbert. V. Loucks
A. G. Smith. C. A. Jensen

Palatine Board Proceedings.

The village board met in special session last Friday night to confer with the promoters of the Northern Illinois Traction Co. The officials proved to be gentlemen who were willing to concede anything reasonable to the village. The company consents to keep the streets over which they travel in good condition between the rails and one foot outside the outside rails. They consented to put in a double track as a matter of convenience to vehicles passing them easily, and prevent side tracks in the village. They will make an offer later to light the village with electricity. One passenger train must run over the tracks each way at least every two hours. They insist on a fifty-year franchise, as they claim that such a time must be given in order to finance the company, bonds for a shorter period being unsalable. This last feature is the only one that was a serious question with the board, and no doubt an agreement will be reached. Bond for $10,000 will be given by the company. The work must begin in one year and be completed inside of three years.

OPPOSED BY EDUCATORS

Prof. Nightingale Is Criticized by Leading Educational Journal.

"Intelligence" Voices the Sentiments of Cook County Teachers.

Considerable opposition has been filed by the teachers and friends of the public schools, of Cook county to Prof. Nightingale, republican nominee for superintendent of schools. The following article, which was lately published in "Intelligence," a leading educational weekly edited by Prof. E. O. Vaile of Oak Park, has been handed us and republication requested.

The article is headed "Consider Your Vote." The political sentiments of Mr. Vaile's publication has always been radically republican, and has wielded great influence, therefore the tone of the article is quite interesting. Prof. Vaile was formerly a principal in the Chicago schools, and is competent to speak. We quote in part:

"Mr. Bright, with as splendid a record for efficient and conscientious service as any county superintendent ever had, was dropped from the republican ticket without the slightest regard for the good of the schools, simply because the politicians knew they could not use him, and a man was put in his place whom the politicians knew they could control.

"We are sorry to have to oppose Mr. Nightingale. He is a pleasant gentleman, and those who know him only incidentally see no fault in him. He will preside in the county superintendent's office with sweetness and gentleness that will make it perfectly safe to bet that he will maintain his hold on that plum for a long time to come. But those who know him well know that he lacks the elements of sincerity, earnestness, faithfulness and soundness which are of first importance in any man who presumes to stand at the head of any system of schools.

"His record as superintendent of high schools of Chicago should have been enough in itself to impel the politicians to turn a deaf ear to his entreaties and seek a truer man. As a superintendent he trifled with his duty. Any one who mingles with the principals and teachers of the high schools of Chicago cannot be in doubt as to their conviction of the man's unworthiness as superintendent.

"Is it just to the children of the county schools to put such a man into an office where it is easy to pose before the great public as an ardent educator and where the temptation is strong to dally with duty and to forget the obligations of rightness and efficiency in behalf of the humble and helpless? If personally and professionally he were worthy of the office, the fact of his being put on a ticket by as reckless a 'gang' as ever disgraced the name Republican, might not warrant efforts to defeat him. But the two causes together, in our judgment, make plain the duty of every earnest friend of the schools and the children of the county.

"No man whispers a word against the sterling character of Prof. George C. Howard, the democratic nominee. He has been faithful to every trust and responsibility. He is not a shirk, or a trimmer, or a masquerader. It is true he was put on the ticket by a set of political bosses as unworthy as those who put up Mr. Nightingale. But he took no interest in running another man out who had filled the office with exceptional fidelity and force, and against whom there was no good ground of opposition. Mr. Howard has given no reason for suspecting that he is a man with whom politicians or publishers or any other interest can make an unholy alliance. In all these respects, and they are vital, he has a decided advantage over Mr. Nightingale.

"Mr. Howard holds the chair of Modern Romance Languages in the University of Chicago. Since 1885 he has been identified with the schools of Cook county. The fundamental question between these two men is one of manhood, fitness and professional conduct. If our advice is followed the teachers of Cook county on Nov. 4, whichever way the general vote goes, will demonstrate that they are a distinct political force, and must be reckoned with by any party or any individual that attempts to make the school interests of the county subordinate to party or personal interests."

Laid to Rest.

Funeral of Emil W. Naeher Marked by Impressive Ceremonies.

Sunday afternoon the body of Emil W. Naeher was borne to its final rest in Evergreen cemetery. The cortege accompanying the remains was a large one, showing the high esteem in which deceased was held by those who knew him in life; the strong bond of brotherly love of the organizations of which he was a valued member.

Short services were held at the family home on Grove avenue at 1 o'clock, and there the family and members of the Odd Fellow and Knights of the Globe lodges, and Volunteer Fire Department gazed for the last time on face of him who had so suddenly been summoned to the eternal home.

The body reposed in a beautiful, black broadcloth covered casket embellished with emblems of Odd Fellowship wrought in silver. The body was clothed in the regalia of the Odd Fellow lodge.

At 1:45 the remains under escort of the Knights of the Globe and Odd Fellows, was removed to Salem church where Rev. J. G. Fidler preached an eloquent discourse in German and pronounced a most affecting eulogy in English. Rev. Fidler took for the foundation of his remarks the following, found in St. Mark, xiii, 33-37:

"Take ye heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is.

"Watch ye therefore; for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockcrow, or in the morning: 'Lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping.

"And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch."

Miss Luella Plagge presided at the organ and music was rendered by the choir and two quartets—Misses Laura Boehmer, Esther Lageschulte, Messrs. Jno. L. Meiners and Fred Grabenkort. A male quartet—Messrs. A. G. Gieske, F. H. Plagge, Geo. Stiefenhofer and Geo. Lageschulte.

At the conclusion of the service the casket and the numerous floral offerings were taken in charge by the Odd Fellows. The procession to the cemetery was in charge of William Shales, Conductor of Barrington lodge, as marshal. The Knights of the Globe; visiting Odd Fellows from Wauconda, Cary, Dundee, Carpentersville and Elgin, Barrington lodge, 856. The rich regalia of the Odd Fellows and large number of men in line representing the orders of which deceased was a member, made the most imposing funeral witnessed in Barrington for a number of years.

At the cemetery a large concourse of people had assembled to witness the ceremonies according to the ritual of the I.O.O.F. Major General J. P. Elliott of Chicago, P.C.P. and ex-department commander of Patriarchs Militant, Ills. I.O.O.F., conducted the beautiful and impressive service, Geo. Spinner, R. S. N. G. of Barrington Lodge acting as chaplain. The brethren deposited the sprigs of evergreen into the narrow home as did also the K. O. G., the last response was given and farewell said o'er the mortal part of him whom we will, if true to the teachings of Odd Fellowship, meet in the Eternal home.

ANOTHER PROMISE

From Edward Warren Stees to Construct an Electric Railway.

Again we hear that the much-talked of north and south railway connecting Wauconda, Barrington and Elgin is to be constructed in the near future as a part of the Chicago, Elgin & Waukegan line. Incorporation papers of the company was filed in the office of the recorder of Lake county Friday. The project is financed by a trust company of Chicago of which Henry L. Turner is the head. Incorporation papers have been filed in all counties through which the line will run—Cook, Kane, DuPage, Will and Lake, and the charter has been granted. It is said by Mr. Stees, the chief promoter, that "construction of the Barrington-Wauconda branch will be started at once."

The incorporation papers state the route of the road to be as follows: From Waukegan to Fox Lake, thence to Wauconda and Barrington, to Elgin. As predicted by The Review last spring, the line will form a part of the Chicago, Aurora & Joliet Electric system, connecting at Elgin.

The plans contemplate the completion of the entire 60 miles of road inside of a year, and that part between Barrington and Wauconda—ten miles—is to be built this winter. Steam power is to be used temporarily on this branch.

Public Sales.

Wm. Peters, the popular auctioneer, has been engaged to conduct the following sales:

ROLLING STOCK IN SHORT SUPPLY

Railroads Are Embarrassed by Lack of Cars in Which to Haul Freight.

NOT ENOUGH ENGINES IN WEST

Builders Are Behind in Orders for Locomotives and Traffic Is Delayed on That Account—Lines Can Handle Hard-coal Rush.

Increased anxiety over the car shortage is evident among western railroad officials. This condition has prevailed for some time and has been most embarrassing to lines farther east. At times, however, the western roads have been so situated that a more plentiful supply of cars would have been very acceptable. With the coming of the fall traffic in grain and the natural increase in shipments of live stock to be expected at this season the need of cars has been more keenly felt. The northwestern lines are getting the full effect of the rush of small grain to market and several weeks ago the principal lines in that quarter were complaining of inability to move the freight as promptly as they demanded.

Not Enough Engines.

The trouble with the western lines is not so much the lack of cars as it is the lack of a proportionate number of locomotives to handle what they have. During the last year and a half there has been an enormous increase in the number of freight cars in use on the roads centering at Chicago. There has been as large an increase in the number of effective locomotives as the builders could turn out, but the motive power men have been outstripped by the car men in the race. It is believed by those conversant with the situation that the orders for locomotives now in the hands of the builders will remedy this condition.

Some anxiety has been felt over the prospects of a great rush of hard coal for delivery through the middle west on the resumption of work in the east, but the roads are confident they can take care of this trade as fast as the coal lines can turn it over.

Traffic Increases.

Lines extending from Chicago directly west and to the southwest report that the freight traffic has been very largely increased during the last month, though the season for heavy shipments of corn has not yet arrived. Live stock and small grain have been in excess of expectations and the condition of the fattening pens and stock farms of that section are believed by railroad men to portend the same heavy shipments of cattle for several months.

One effect of the demand for motive power and general freight handling equipment has been that western roads are becoming the best equipped in the country in this regard, and when the cars and locomotives now in the shops and under contract are put into service this will be vastly improved.

LOSES $7,000 WORTH OF GEMS

Woman Leaves Valuables on Bank Counter at Duluth, Minn.

Duluth, Minn., dispatch: Seven thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and other precious stones were stolen from the counter in the First National bank building. The victim was Mrs. T. D. Merrill, a prominent society woman and wife of the senior member of the firm of Merrill & Bing, timber men. Mrs. Merrill had just come from the safety deposit vaults, where she drew out the jewels and laid them down, then leaving the building. Upon discovering her loss she hastened back, but the jewels had disappeared. The police say there is no clew to the thief.

Train Manned by Americans Accidentally Kills a Native.

Bisbee, Ariz., special: Two Mexicans were run over by a train at Agua Prieta, across the international line from Douglas, Ariz. One was killed and the other badly injured. The train men were immediately arrested and placed in the Mexican jail. Excitement is intense at Douglas. Supt. Morgan persuaded a party of railroad men not to cross the line and liberate the Americans.

Big Hotel Fire.

Jamestown, N. Y., dispatch: The Grand hotel at Point Chautauqua, one of the largest and finest hotels around Chautauqua lake, was burned to the ground, together with the amusement hall and summer cottage owned by the hotel company. The loss will be fully $200,000.

Ends Family Troubles.

Belvidere, Ill., dispatch: Oscar R. Beers, a needle expert and the brother of Philo M. Beers, the wealthy Bridgeport (Conn.) needle manufacturer, shot himself. Domestic troubles are said to have been the cause.

Wreck a Saloon.

Longford, Kan., special: Two hundred people wrecked the building in which Riseman's saloon was conducted, smashed twenty cases of beer and ten kegs of whisky and tarred and feathered a woman inmate.

MOVE TO DISMISS DRAINAGE SUIT

Federal Supreme Court Is Asked to Take Case From Calendar.

CHARGE DILATORY TACTICS

Two Years Have Elapsed Since Matter Was First Brought Up—Attorneys for Defense Claim Unnecessary Delay on Part of the Prosecution.

Chicago, Ill., special: The United States Supreme Court has granted leave to the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago to file a motion to dismiss the complaint of the state of Missouri for want of prosecution. The motion will be filed on Nov. 10, and if the Attorney General of Missouri does not then show cause why it should not be acted upon the case begun against the sanitary district for polluting the waters of the Mississippi river with Chicago sewage will be dismissed.

The bill of complaint against the sanitary district and the state of Illinois was filed with the Supreme Court Jan. 22, 1900, nearly two years ago. Proof of service of subpoenas was filed Jan. 29, 1900. The demurrer to the bill was argued Nov. 12 and 13, 1900, and overruled Jan. 23, 1901. Separate answers were filed the same day and on May 27, 1901, a demurrer to the fourth paragraph of the supplemental bill was sustained by the court.

Unreasonable Delay.

An entire term of court has elapsed since this action and no effort has been made by the complainant to further prosecute or to sustain the bill by testimony of any kind. The attorneys for the state of Illinois and the sanitary district in their notice represent that the burden of proof is on the complainant and they will ask for dismissal of the case because it is a constant menace to the respondents and has a tendency to create doubt and mistrust as to the utility and success of the great sanitary canal which has been constructed, and necessarily retards the improvements of the same, and also because the sanitary district has been subjected to great expense in the preparation for the trial and that expense must continue until it is definitely determined whether there is to be a trial of the issues of fact.

The motion to dismiss was signed by Attorney General Hamlin for Illinois, James Todd, John G. Drennan, and William M. Springer for the sanitary district. Mr. Springer gave the notice and the court granted leave to file.

This apparently ends the complaint of the state of Missouri against the drainage canal.

No Pollution in Water.

"I think that this is probably the last we shall hear of this affair," said Sanitary Trustee Frank Wenter. "The people of St. Louis must by this time have perceived that they are in no danger from Chicago sewage."

"The last we heard of the case was last fall, when tests of water at the mouth of the Illinois river were made simultaneously by chemists in our employ and by chemists employed by the Missouri authorities. We got no intimation of the result of the Missouri tests, but our own showed that there was no pollution, and, of course, the same thing must have been found by the St. Louisans. The drainage canal never affected the Mississippi, and that the people at the other end of the ditch at last realize this is evidenced by the Supreme court's action."

STORMS DAMAGE APPLE CROP

Blow Down Thousands of Bushels in Michigan Fruit Belt.

St. Joseph, Mich., special: It has been conservatively estimated that Berrien county will produce 400,000 bushels of apples this year, the largest crop in the history of this region. Reports received from various parts of the county show that thousands of bushels of apples and a portion of the pear crop have been blown from the trees by the high gales of the last week. It is estimated that 75,000 bushels have been blown down during the season, representing a loss to the growers of $30,000.

DISCOVERS COUNTERFEIT BILL

Treasury Department Gives Warning of Bogus $10 Note.

Washington dispatch: The treasury department has detected a new counterfeit ten-dollar United States note of the series of 1901. This counterfeit is a lithographic reproduction of two pieces of paper, between which silk threads have been distributed. At first glance the note is deceptive, but it will not bear examination. The portraits of Clarke and Lewis and the picture of the buffalo are blurred and scratched. All the lathework is very bad.

Fine Barns Burn.

Joliet, Ill., special: Fire broke out in the large barns at the country place of Harlow N. Higginbotham, three miles east of this city, and they were destroyed. The barns were considered the finest in Will county.

Veteran Actor Dies.

New York dispatch: Edmond H. Lay, an old-time actor, is dead at Bellevue hospital from general debility. Lay, who was 73 years old, was born in Virginia.

BRITISH TO SEND INDIAN TROOPS

Re-enforcements Under Gen. Manning Go to Aid Col. Swayne.

MAD MULLAH HAS 40,000 MEN

Former Officer of Austro-Hungarian Army Is an Ally of Fanatic—Belief That Whole Country Must Be Conquered Before Peace Reigns.

The British government has decided to send Indian troops to Somaliland to assist in suppressing the Mad Mullah.

When questioned on the subject of British reverse in Somaliland, the Foreign Under Secretary, Lord Cranborne, had little to add to the facts already known. He said General Manning arrived at Aden and that the government placed at his disposal a battalion of Indian troops to aid the protectorate's forces. If these troops were not sufficient, more would be forthcoming.

Must Conquer All.

Lord Cranborne said that Colonel Swayne's retreat would probably necessitate much more prolonged operation and a larger force than anticipated.

It is believed that the Mad Mullah now has between 30,000 and 40,000 men. Colonel Swayne's re-enforcements do not number more than 4,000.

Alfred Pease, M. P., and other travelers who have been in Somaliland, say that it is now necessary to conquer the whole country, as the Mullah is certain to be re-enforced by all the petty Sultans. The natives will make even the ports on the coast untenable unless the country is effectively occupied.

Austrian Aids Mullah.

The British Vice Consul at Berbera, Somaliland, in cabling to the foreign office at London the substance of the later dispatch which he had received from Colonel Swayne, commander of the British force operating against the Mad Mullah, referred to the Mullah being in communication with "Kail Inger," in the direction of the Webbe river. He apparently meant "Karl Inger," the former officer of the Austro-Hungarian army, who has several times been mentioned in connection with the Mullah's movements in Somaliland.

General W. H. Manning started from London for Somaliland some days ago in consequence of bad news from there, and will hasten the dispatch of re-enforcements from Berbera.

WEALTHY FARMER IS MISSING

Relatives of John Rosebro Believe He Is Held for a Ransom.

Sturgis, Mich., special: John Rosebro, aged 50 years, a wealthy farmer living near Buchanan, has been missing since Oct. 13. On that day he appeared at the Buchanan bank and drew currency to the amount of $1,000 and also took a large amount of notes which he had left with the bank for safekeeping. He said he intended buying stock. All trace since then has been lost. Rosebro stands high in the community and his family think that he has been kidnaped and that a large sum of money will be asked for his release.

WIDOW OF GREEK IS FOUND DEAD

Surroundings Show She Had Engaged In a Struggle With Assailant.

CRAZY MAN IS SUSPECTED

Peddler Discovers the Body and Gives the Alarm Summoning the Police, Who Advance Theories and Arrest Acquaintance of the Woman.

Mrs. Cella Nicholls, widow of a Greek who died in the old country two years ago, struggled with an intruder in her apartments on the second floor of 231 West Randolph street, Chicago, until killed by a crushing blow on the head from some blunt instrument. A peddler called at the flat, which was occupied alone by the woman, saw the body lying on the floor, fully clothed, and the feet propped against the bed. He hurriedly departed.

Another peddler was confronted by the same sight and excitedly summoned the proprietor of the second-hand store on the first floor, John Johnson, who notified the police.

Blame Insane Man.

The skull crushed in by a blow from behind, showed how the woman had died. Long and deep gashes on the right side of the head, two on the face and the little finger of the left hand almost severed, showed the ferocity of the murderer, while the presence of all the property of the woman intact, including her money, dismissed the theory of robbery as the motive.

With robbery excluded, the police still absolutely ignorant of the identity of the murderer, suspect that Mrs. Nicholls was assaulted by an insane man, who had been persecuting her with his attentions and whose suit she had repeatedly rejected. He is Thos. Barry, released a month ago from Dunning insane asylum. Until last July he lived with his wife in the apartments occupied by Mrs. Nicholls.

Another Theory.

In July Barry assaulted both his wife and Mrs. Nicholls, and was locked up at the Desplaines street station, where he became insane, resulting in his commitment to the asylum. On his release his wife refused to have further to do with him, and he turned his attention to Mrs. Nicholls.

But owing to Mrs. Nicholls' manner of life some doubts exist that Barry killed her, there being a possibility that she was the victim of a chance acquaintance. The condition of the body when found indicated that death had occurred twelve hours before.

Visits the Woman.

The woman was seen last alive by William Bockman, fireman at Douglas Park, who is in custody at the Desplaines street police station as a witness. He called at her rooms at 6 p. m. Monday, and, according to the statement he has made, left at 6:30 his duties requiring his presence at the park at night. The woman was then in good spirits, according to his statement.

A remark repeatedly made to Bockman by Mrs. Nicholls is regarded by the police as indicating an old acquaintance as the murderer. It was: "Some time I'll be found murdered, and you will be blamed for it, because you are here so much."

MUST NOT SHOW PARTISANSHIP

Springfield Postmaster Advised to Avoid Political Meetings.

Washington dispatch: Acting Postmaster General Wynne has notified Postmaster L. S. Wheeler at Springfield, Ill., that it would be inappropriate for him to preside at a political meeting. Postmaster Wheeler wrote to the department and also to the civil service commission, asking if he would be disregarding the rules to take such part in the political campaign, and while it would not be so regarded it was considered advisable that postmasters should confine their political efforts to their individual work and not bring their official positions into prominence by presiding either at conventions or public meetings of a partisan character.

GEN. GRANT'S WIDOW IS FEEBLE

Advanced Age Renders Her Chances of Recovery Doubtful.

Washington dispatch: Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, widow of President Ulysses S. Grant, is very ill here, and her family and friends are greatly worried, as her advanced age of seventy-seven makes recovery doubtful. She has been quite feeble since she left here early in summer for Coburg, Canada, although she gained while away. Mrs. Grant, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, returned to Washington in a special car.

"Have you traveled far?" asked Clarence.

"Shipmate, this old hulk is about on her last cruise," said a feeble, husky voice.

"It is Ralston—Glum Ralston!" roared Gid. "Where ye been, Glum? Tell me where ye been!"

"I am sick—starving—dying!" the ex-sailor moaned.

Clarence hurried him to his house, where a warm supper was hastily prepared for him.

"Have you seen Paul Miller or heard from him since you came upon us in the pass?" was one of the first questions propounded by Clarence.

"Yes," he answered. "Last I saw of him he was on an iceberg sailin' out t' sea, and his only fellow-passenger was a polar bear."

It will be essential at this point to return to Paul Miller, whom we left on an iceberg floating out to sea. The swelling flood and tossing cakes of ice between the drifting floe and shore made it utterly impossible for him to reach land. The sharp growl of the monster above indicated that a crisis was coming, which would determine the rights of ownership to the mountain of ice.

Through all his misfortunes Paul had managed to retain his presence of mind and his rifle. He executed a skillful flank movement, and, scaling a shelf, was several feet above the bear and not over twenty paces away, prepared for an assault. With nerves as steady as if engaging in the most ordinary sport, he leveled his rifle at the side of the monster's head. When sure of his aim he pulled the trigger. There followed a sharp report and the bear dropped on his haunches, his nose in the air.

Paul cocked his rifle and fired a second shot at the beast's head. It fell on the ice and after a few spasmodic kicks lay still. He sent a third into the back of its head, but it was wholly unnecessary, for the other bullets had done the work.

With his knife he removed the skin from the animal, and, climbing as high as he dared, hung it upon one of those spires of ice, in the hope some sealing schooner or whaling ship might see it and send a boat to his relief. When night came he lay down on the snow and ice, and, notwithstanding his perilous situation, actually slept.

He was awakened soon after dawn by the sound of voices near.

"What say ye now?" one seemed to say to another.

"I say now," was the answer. "If he be there find him."

"Sure, man, ye canna say as a bear will peel his own skin from his back."

"Weel, there's a stiffener," returned another voice.

Paul rose and mechanically laid his hand on the rifle at his side. Only a few hours before he was wishing he had not shot the bear, and that it had destroyed him instead of he shooting it, but now that his life might probably be in danger, it grew suddenly very sweet.

He raised his head a trifle higher and listened intently at the voices.

"Push alongside and let a lad go ashore," said another voice.

Then he plainly heard the splashing of paddles in the water. He crept along on hand and knees, holding his rifle in one hand and a cocked revolver in the other.

Then he raised his head just a little and saw a large canoe in which were half a score of dark-skinned Indians. Surprise and curiosity overcame any fear he might entertain of his visitors, and he arose and gazed about on the sea and shore. The glance filled him with wonder and surprise. The shore was lined with green trees, and afar off he saw a mountain towering so high its peak pierced the light blue clouds.

He saw chimneys to houses from which the pale blue smoke was issuing, mingling with the atmosphere. It was a brisk little village with men, women and children in it, but what brought peace to his troubled mind and relieved all fear was the little white church, with its spire, on the hillside.

"There he is! There he is!" cried a young man in the canoe, pointing at Paul. "Ho, my brother, you ride on a strange boat!"

"Who are you?" asked Paul.

"The Metlakahla," was the answer.

He tried to think where he had heard the name before, but was unable to recollect it. He was asked to come down to their canoe. They tossed a rope to him, which he made fast to one of the great cakes of ice, and slid down to the boat. The tall chief stood up to catch him, and as he dropped into his arms said:

"My brother, you are safe. You have had a very dangerous ride."

"It is not so weel, that boot ye ride upon," put in another Indian, with a strong Scotch accent. The men with the paddles at once propelled the canoe away from the ice floe, and it glided out into the bay, straight for the village of Metlakahla. The island was given by the United States to a scanty tribe of British American Indians whom an old Scotch missionary had converted from utter savagery into a civilized and God-fearing people.

When the canoe touched the shore Paul saw an elderly white man in the throng. He was dressed in the garb of civilization, and his long, white hair and beard gave him a patriarchal appearance. His face was grave and kind.

"My son, a kind Providence has wonderfully preserved you. We will go to church to return thanks for your great deliverance, and then we will hear your story."

After songs and prayers Paul was taken to the home of the patriarch, where he fared sumptuously, after which he narrated his strange adventures to the good old missionary.

"So you are another, my son, who has come to dig gold from the earth in the frozen north." Then, taking the arm of the youth, he led him from the house, and, pointing to that great old mountain, which, grim and gray, towered into the skies, and with his eyes wildly dilating, said:

"In mockery, at the grim gateway of Alaska, towers that mountain of gold upon which no white man dares lay his finger."

Paul gazed at him in amazement, and began to wonder if he had not got among a race of madmen.

"How was the gold discovered?" he asked.

"It's not discovered save by the Indians and perhaps one other than yourself. But come in and I will tell you what other white man than yourself knows of the island and the mountain of gold."

When they were seated in the cozy parsonage the old missionary proceeded to tell Paul the story, but they were interrupted by the arrival of some Indians with a prisoner. The story told by Father Duncan we have heard before from the lips of Clum Ralston. No sooner did Father Duncan see the captive than he said:

"It is one of the two sailors who did away with the poor captain."

When Paul saw the prisoner he exclaimed:

"Great Heaven! It is one of the men who captured the old hermit in the cavern!"

CHAPTER VIII.

Laura's Departure.

While the many stirring events were transpiring in Alaska, poor Laura Bush was living a life of doubt, mingled with hope and despair, at Fresno, California. Not a line had she received from Paul since the letter came that he was robbed and wounded. Was he dead or was he still alive, struggling to regain what he had lost?

It began to be whispered over the town that Laura Bush was losing her reason. Theodore Lackland was shocked and grieved at the thought, for in his selfish way he loved her madly. He would have given worlds to possess this matchless beauty, who had wholly captivated his soul.

At this time a most remarkable event transpired—an event that was more a surprise to Laura than any else. A bachelor uncle living in Wyoming died and left her twelve thousand dollars—all he possessed.

"This will enable me to procure an outfit and go in search of Paul," said Laura to Mrs. Miller. The widow unfolded her in her arms and begged her to abandon such a mad design.

In vain she wept, prayed and pleaded with her. Laura was so impressed with the conviction that she must go. She had her way. Buying her outfit and securing the service of a faithful, trusty man who had worked for her father, she prepared for the journey.

She had made her last trip to San Francisco and returned late one day, a short time before her departure. On reaching Fresno she started from the depot to walk home. It was so late the sun had set, and the shadows of evening began to creep over the landscape. She heard footsteps at her side and Lackland's voice said:

"Miss Bush, I have heard a rumor that you are going to start for Alaska."

"I shall."

He walked on in silence for a moment, while his pale face wore a pensive, sad expression, and his eyes were upon the ground. His determination to conquer made him selfish and scheming. At last he said:

"Laura, you do not understand me. I am a true friend to you; you may not believe it, but I am. That other time my passion was hot. I was wrong, perhaps, in denouncing the man you loved, but surely you will forgive me."

She answered that she was taught she must forgive in order to be forgiven. As a drowning man clutches at a straw, he grasped at something in her words, and was encouraged to add:

"Laura, if you would let me sympathize with you in this loss, I would freely mingle my tears with yours. Oh, if you would only let me be a brother—more than a brother—"

"Silence, Mr. Lackland," she quickly interrupted. "I will hear no more from you. Here I am at home; good-night."

She darted into the house, quickly closing the door after her and leaving him standing out in the cold, dark street. For a moment he stood gazing upon the door which had closed upon the being he loved, and then turned slowly about, his thin, white lips compressed, and his fingers closed firmly as if he had the lockjaw.

As he boarded the midnight train for San Francisco he murmured, half audibly:

"Something desperate must be done. I shall now play my last trump card."

Meanwhile Laura was completing arrangements for an early departure. Ben Holton, her father's faithful domestic, was the only person she engaged to go with her. A party was forming at Seattle, and thither she went with all her supplies. Mrs. Miller accompanied her that far.

Here they found another brave woman—Kate Willis—ready to brave the dangers of the Klondyke. She was forty years of age, large, strong, and had determined to go to Juneau or Dawson City to start a laundry.

The vessel pushed off, and Mrs. Miller stood on the dock waving her handkerchief at the brave girl until distance mingled her form with the others, and then burst into tears.

Theodore Lackland was a deep schemer, and when he separated from Laura Kean he had by no means abandoned hope of winning her.

While on his way to San Francisco he was continually saying:

"So she is going herself to search for her lover! Is Paul dead—really dead? May it not be only a mistake after all? He is missing, that is sure, but the young fellow has more lives than a cat. I wish to Heaven I knew that he was—"

He started, and, shuddering, began to think how degenerated he had grown. Then he leaned back in his seat and closed his eyes, while the great train, like a flying vulcan, rushed on in the darkness until the city of Oakland was reached. He went aboard the ferry, and was transferred to San Francisco, and, leaping into a carriage, was driven to a certain hotel, where he secured a room.

It was nearly daylight by this time, but notwithstanding he had slept none during the night, he summoned a messenger, wrote a note, and, sealing it, dispatched the boy.

Two hours had passed, and the sun was shining through the window, when there came a light tap at his door, and he opened it.

Before him stood a smooth-shaved man with hair that was once sandy, but so bleached with gray it was a roan. His nose and eyes were prominent, and his face narrow, cheeks red and steel-gray eyes twinkled with something deep and devilish. The newcomer was a peculiarly nervous man who had a strange habit of craning his neck and bowing his head like an eccentric burlesque comedian.

After assuring himself he was not being watched, he closed the door softly and in a voice that was softness itself asked:

"You sent for me," and craned his neck like a choked rooster trying to swallow a morsel too large for its throat.

"Yes, Capt. Fairweather, I want to talk with you. When does another ship sail for Juneau?"

The captain, who was well up in marine intelligence, said:

"There is the 'President' sails from Seattle in three weeks, and the 'Occident' leaves here a few days sooner."

"Will they both arrive about the same time?"

"Yes, the 'Occident' a little ahead of the 'President,' as she is the fastest boat."

"That is just as I want it. Now, captain, you secured men for me before to do some work in the Klondyke—"

Again the captain craned his neck, choked and bowed, then cautiously glanced about the room to see if he was observed before answering:

"They got in trouble there."

"How do you know?"

"Morris wrote that Belcher was shot and in the hands of the miners, who might lynch him," and Capt. Fairweather placed his hands about his neck, as if the very thought gave him pain.

"Has he given away anything?" asked Lackland, with some little uneasiness.

"No. He will die before he does that."

"Very well. Fairweather, have you heard of the fate of this young fellow who is causing so much trouble?"

"No."

"The girl says he lives."

"Bah!"

"Well, the impression is so strong that she has determined to set out for Alaska to find him, and sails in the 'President' for Seattle."

"It will be a fool's journey, I know full well; he can't be alive."

"Well, I have made up my mind to go to Alaska myself."

UNIQUE ACTION OF THE TIDE

Reversible Waterfall at St. John, New Brunswick, Canada.

We have reversible vests, reversible windmills, and all sorts of reversibles nowadays, but St. John, in New Brunswick, Canada, has the only reversible waterfall in the world. In the morning there is a fall downstream of 15 feet, but in the afternoon the water runs upstream and falls over the other way. This phenomenon is caused by the strength of the wonderful tides of the Bay of Fundy, which meet and overcome the water from a river 450 miles long, which empties into the harbor of St. John through a narrow gorge less than 500 feet wide. There is a suspension bridge over the gorge where this daily marvel occurs, and hundreds of people go to see it. At half-tide the water is smooth over the dam and vessels go up and down in safety. The tides of the bay of Fundy are the heaviest in the world. If you are ever in New Brunswick and it's time for the tide to come in you want to make for the bluffs if you are not fond of the water.

Vessels come into St. John harbor and when the tide goes out the water runs clear out from under them and they settle down upon the gravel bottom of the slips. Wagons are then driven alongside and cargo is transferred direct. It is an odd spectacle to see schooners sitting up high and dry, with no water near them, looking as though the only way for them to get to sea would be to fly. Some writer has remarked that water makes an astonishing difference in the appearance of a river, and it certainly does make a big change in the looks of the St. John water front.

ILLINOIS BOARD OF PARDONS.

Sentence of Wade Hampton Reduced from Forty to Fourteen Years.

Gov. Yates, on recommendation of the state board of pardons, commuted from forty years to fourteen years the sentence of Wade Hampton, colored, who was sent to the penitentiary from Alexander county on a charge of murder. Evidence was produced before the board which showed that the party who was killed was advancing upon Hampton, and Hampton was retreating when his foot struck a large club, which he immediately stooped down and took hold. His assailant then started to retreat and as Hampton raised up he struck his assailant a blow which resulted in his death. Since he has been in prison he has earned considerable money, and with that has aided in the care of four children, whose mother died a short time before he was sent to prison.

Miners' Levy.

The 10 per cent levy by the national order of United Mine Workers of America on all wages of members of the order for relief of the Eastern strikers, amounted to $374 for two weeks at the Lebanon mine.

Dies of Heart Disease.

Dr. J. B. Humphrey, a former resident of Cairo, died in Chicago of heart disease. He was a druggist at Cairo during the war, afterward selling out to Barclay Bros.

Farmer Attempts Performance Worthy of the Ring.

A farmer living a few miles west of Springfield attempted the difficult feat of driving two horses hitched to a light buggy, while leading a third and driving a small flock of sheep before him. An injudicious crack of the whip at a critical moment frightened the team, which started to run. The lead horse balked at the same moment and the sheep took fright at the noise, and there were few dull moments in the neighborhood for some time. When the dust cleared away the harness was broken, the lead horse had disappeared and the sheep were scattered. With the assistance of some small boys the damage was repaired and the missing animals recovered.

Thomas B. Bryan Celebrates Double Anniversary at Chicago.

Thomas B. Bryan, who celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his arrival in Chicago, and his own seventy-fourth birthday recently, has been a prominent figure in Chicago's growth and prosperity for the past generation. He came prominently before the public as one of the foremost promoters of the Columbian Exposition. Lincoln and Douglas were warm friends of Mr. Bryan, and he is the only survivor of the twelve Chicagoans who accompanied the remains of the great emancipator to Springfield. He was born in Virginia, of distinguished parents, and graduated in the Harvard law school.

To Build Short Route.

The Illinois Central railroad will build a track from a point at or near Groves, best known as "Dailey," to Sand Ridge. Articles of incorporation were issued at Springfield. The incorporators are J. C. Welling, A. P. Humburg, F. G. Tan Deussen, F. L. Delay and David Fentress. The new track will cut several miles off the present route to Gale and Thebes, via Murphysboro.

Chickenpox and Smallpox.

Health Officer W. R. Smith has recommended to the city authorities that Alton physicians report to him all cases suspected of being chickenpox, as much expense has been incurred in the past by cases pronounced chickenpox, which afterward developed into smallpox. The health officer will examine all so-called chickenpox cases to prevent exposure of the public to smallpox.

Mine Changes Hands.

The coal mine located at Carpenter, together with real estate and coal interests, owned by the Backs Coal Company, has been purchased by Blotvogel Bros. of Worden, who will operate the same hereafter. The mine is a new one, having been in operation only a short time, and is located on the Wabash railroad.

Veterans Elect Officers.

The annual reunion of the 77th regiment, Illinois volunteer infantry, was held at Peoria. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the choice of the following: President, Jesse Sawyer; vice president, D. L. Murphy; secretary and treasurer, C. T. Hurd.

Offers Light Plant.

An electrical equipment company in Chicago has offered to furnish the city of Alton with a municipal lighting plant, at a cost of $35,000, capable of supplying 200 arc lights. It is proposed to bond the city to the full amount allowed by law.

Boy Drowns in Cistern.

Raymond Dare, the 6-year-old son of "Doc" Dare of Mount Vernon, was drowned by falling into a cistern at the home of a neighbor.

Suffers Broken Leg.

James Price, a traveling man from Decatur, fell from a street car at Decatur and one of his legs was broken.

Collision Is Fatal.

Tony Haven of Hillsboro, who was taking a car of poultry east on the Big Four railroad, was killed in a collision at the Wabash river bridge near Terre Haute. He leaves a widow and five children.

New Lodge of Elks.

Mount Vernon is to have an Elk lodge. A petition containing forty-one names has been sent to the grand exalted ruler of the order for a dispensation to organize a lodge.

Young Blood in Good Templars Wins Decided Victory.

The salaries of all officers of the Good Templars have been abolished. The Illinois grand lodge of Good Templars has been in session at Chicago. The young blood in the order won a victory, which had been a bone of contention for twenty-five years, and it is expected that the order will again gain its former prosperity in the state. The constitution of the order in the state was adopted in 1855, but the supreme lodge of the country adopted a new constitution in 1867. This became international in character, and was agreed to by all the states except Illinois. Old rules, under which the organization in this state was conducted, are said by the members to be narrow, and the order decreased in membership. The new constitution provides for an associate membership, a grand electoral superintendent, a vice chancellor and abolishes the salaries of all officers. E. W. Chafin, who is superintendent of the Washingtonian home, is much pleased with the work. "We will soon get the Good Templars back in their old standing," said he. "In a short time there will be 25,000 members in the state."

Building Association Law.

A recent decision of the Illinois Supreme Court is causing a great amount of work to the secretaries of the many building and loan associations throughout the state. The decision is to the effect that all mortgages on homesteads held by these concerns that were acknowledged before a stockholder of the company are null and void, and, as this was almost generally the case, the secretaries are getting new mortgages. The secretary of the Centralia Building and Loan Association filed for record all mortgages held by the association and the recorder's fees for the work amounted to $235.

Corn Carnival Awards.

In the award of premiums at the Peoria Corn Carnival the blue ribbon went to William Wallace for model horses, for high-stepping single drivers and also in the runabout class. J. B. Burrows took second prize. G. L. Veeth got blue ribbon for 4-year-old stallion. In the pony class Eloise Brownback took first; Poindexter Downing second. For the best pair of Kentucky bread there were thirty-two entries. Mrs. M. C. Worsham of Prairie Hall took first prize, Mrs. I. J. Calvert second. Mrs. Jas. Glore of Decatur was awarded first prize for the best loaf of wheat bread.

GETS HIGH HONOR.

The accompanying portrait represents Mrs. E. C. Lambert, who was elected vice president at large by the recent convention of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Strawberries in October.

Mrs. George Schmidt of Melville has a strawberry patch that, is bearing its second crop this season. The berries are perfectly formed, have a sweet taste and are numerous. Some of the Alton horticulturists believe that by propagating the species of berry which has borne a late crop two crops of strawberries may be had every year. Mrs. Schmidt ascribes the second crop to the favorable season, good location and the good quality of the vines she planted. The plants bore abundantly in the regular strawberry season.

Loses an Arm.

Archie Hammond, a 16-year-old lad in the employ of the Adams Express Company, attempted to board a Southern freight train in the yards at Centralia and was thrown under the wheels. His right arm was crushed, making amputation near the shoulder necessary.

Teaches Girls to Sew.

Industrial work is now taught in the colored schools of Cairo. Miss Cooper, one of the new teachers, who is a graduate of the Tuskegee school, teaches the girls how to sew and to fit dresses.

Clay County Assessment.

The total amount of personal property assessed in Clay county is $401,385; total of lands, $1,094,581; lots, $239,802; railroads, $278,951; grand total, $2,114,719.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1902

Two weeks from next Tuesday will occur the state and county elections. Never in the history of this state has there been so little interest shown in politics. General Apathy has taken a firm hold on the voters and the party leaders are in a state uncertainty. It is an off year and all sort of surprises are apt to turn up.

Samuel Schwartz, according to the Waukegan Sun, is a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor of Waukegan. Samuel says: "If the people of Waukegan think I am capable to fill the office of mayor I'd like to show them what I can do for them. I don't want the office if I have to buy my way into it and I'll not spend a cent to get the honor." That is all necessary to say, Samuel. The honor will go to the other fellow.

The demand for tariff revision is growing stronger every day. It is not confined to any party. Speaker Henderson of the House of Representatives declined a renomination in his Iowa district, which he had represented for many years, because the republicans of that district were not united on the tariff question. The dissatisfaction finds expression in the strongest republican states of the northwest and even the high protectionists of Massachusetts and Connecticut have expressed their opinion that many of the tariff schedules must be revised. Tariff reform is an issue upon which all elements of the national democracy can unite. Tariff for revenue only will be the issue of the campaign of 1904.

Senator Mason spoke to a large and enthusiastic republican mass meeting at South Bend, Indiana, Monday evening, and among other things said: "I believe that this nation never intended to bind itself to the constitution so that it could not take care of itself. The question of trusts is indeed a great one and we have a man who is not afraid to take up the question and study it in a capable manner. President Roosevelt showed his position when he took up the coal strike, and if congress follows the suggestions of the president there is hope that trusts will not ruin this country of ours. Congress has the power to regulate trusts and will do so." The people of this country hope that Senator Mason speaks the truth. If congress does not take decisive action on the trust question the party responsible will be wiped out of existence.

The story has gained circulation that Senator William E. Mason has made a deal with the democrats and would stump the state in the interest of that party asking in return support of democratic members of the legislature in his fight for reelection. Senator Mason refutes the story though it is not necessary that he should do so. Mr. Mason has some marked peculiarities as a party man, but he is by no means a blockhead. He has been a shining light in the republican party of this state and nation for years and knows much about politics. Any bargain such as was rumored would have to be absolutely secret. Its purpose would be destroyed by publicity. Senator Mason is too old a campaigner to make such a mistake. It is not best for the people to believe all of the silly stuff sent out by the news bureaus of the two political parties, as the larger part of it is false and misleading. Use judgement in politics as in business matters. As a rule the political writer is the most monumental liar doing business in this country.

The Waukegan Gazette is not going behind the fence to inform the republican voters of the Eighth district its opinion of A. K. Stearns as an independent legislative candidate. It says: "For the benefit of the unknowning this paper informs the voters of this district that Independent Stearns has stated that he would not be bound by a republican caucus and vote for Hopkins. His campaign is conducted on lines of prejudice, deceit and egotism and as a matter of fact the republicans of Waukegan and Lake county have repeatedly dishonored him. Personally he never had any political strength, simply being a harmless plaything for people who wanted political excitement. If he gets over two hundred votes he will bob up serenely as a sacrifice in some 'noble cause' in the future."

That is, to use a slang phrase, "hot stuff." The Gazette seems especially sore on Mr. Stearns because he would not agree to support Mr. Hopkins for the senate. Is it for that reason Mr. Stearns was defeated in the Libertyville convention? If it is some of the stories circulated by Senator Mason, relative to the action of that convention, must be accepted as true. If A. K. Stearns had promised to support the candidacy of Mr. Hopkins would the Gazette have overlooked his "egotism, and deceit" and favored him for the position he covets?

The Congress of Americanists.

The meeting in New York of the thirteenth annual congress of the Society of Americanists brings together a notable group of scholars and savants. Though the society has for its purpose the study of the archaeology, ethnology and early history of America, this is the first time that its congress has ever been held in the United States. It was founded in Paris by the Duke de Loubat, who furnished the first funds for the association, as he is providing those necessary for the thirteenth congress. He and some men living in France were interested in the pre-Columbian history of both Americas and in the theories regarding the peopling of the new world. In order further to encourage research in these and kindred subjects pertaining to America a society was organized under the name La Societe Americaine de France. "This association," as said in a recent issue of the American Museum Journal, "flourished to such a degree that its members conceived the idea of assembling an international congress of Americanists to meet in Nancy, France, in 1875. The meeting at Nancy was attended by representatives of various countries, and statutes were adopted which established the broader organization on a firm basis." Sessions of the congress have been held since 1875 at Luxembourg, Brussels, Paris, Madrid, Copenhagen, Berlin, Turin, Huelva, Stockholm, Mexico and the last time at Paris in 1900, when it was voted that the thirteenth congress should be held at New York in 1902 under the presidency of Morris K. Jesup and with the Duke de Loubat as vice president. The latter, as well as some other distinguished Americanists, arrived in this country some days ago.

The proceedings of the congress are not likely to furnish as engrossing newspaper "copy" as those of some sessions of our congress that meets in Washington or perhaps of the British parliament or the Hungarian diet, but to the studious and thoughtful they will be full of interest and are sure to add much to the store of our knowledge of the early history, ethnology and archaeology of this hemisphere, concerning which there are yet many things to learn.

People Without a Country.

According to a recent decision of the United States circuit court, sitting in New York, a Porto Rican is, like Philip Nolan, "a man without a country," though, unlike Nolan, he has done nothing to deserve such a fate. In the case before the court the Porto Rican seeking domicile and citizenship in the United States was a woman, but the question of sex was not involved, and the ruling would apply with equal force to a man.

The woman came with the intention of entering New York, where she has relatives ready to welcome her. The immigration authorities objected to her coming on the ground that circumstances made her an undesirable addition to the population, and as an alien they barred her out. The relatives contested the decision, denying that she is an alien. The court has decided against the "citizen of Porto Rico," holding that, although subject to the government of the United States and owing no allegiance to any foreign potentate or government whatever, she is still an alien, and under the provisions of the immigration laws she is an undesirable alien and must keep out.

Whatever may be the merits of the case as to the desirability of this particular applicant for admission, the principle involved is one which should receive speedy congressional action. As matters now stand there is no way by which Porto Ricans can attain the status of citizens of the United States, although the way is wide open to immigrants from any part of Europe or Africa, which has never been under the sovereignty of the United States, as Porto Rico now is. Manifestly we have no right to deprive them of a country altogether, and if they want to come from the island to the mainland they should be free to do so. Perhaps the simplest way out of the difficulty would be to make Porto Rico a territory under a special act which should fully define its relations to the Union.

Because he could not please everybody the mayor of St. Emiland, France, was driven to suicide. It's different over here. In this country "his honor" rarely feels that he is doing a good job unless he is displeasing about two-thirds of the people two-thirds of the time.

It is worthy of note that the new commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic is a native of Ireland. Well, Irishmen are usually pretty good fighters, and General Stewart was no exception to this rule.

J. Pierpont Morgan's house in London is No. 13. Evidently Mr. Morgan is not superstitious, nor does he appear to be unlucky.

The attention of the opponents of football is called to the fact that a girl has been killed while roller skating.

It seems as if it might be economy to have government ownership of the New York Stock Exchange.

The Lesson of the Coal Strike.

Now that the threatened coal famine has been averted by the resumption of mining in the anthracite fields, under an agreement between the mine workers and the mine operators and coal carriers, it is to be hoped that the costly lesson taught by the great strike may be wisely enforced, to the end that there may be no recurrence of the well nigh intolerable conditions that have for the past few months prevailed not only in the region directly affected, but in every center of population and industry throughout the country.

The principal lesson taught by the conflict which has been waged with such persistency and vigor since last May is the necessity of some system of arbitration the findings of which can be made binding on both parties, particularly where great public interests are involved. Had the operators been willing at the outset to submit to arbitrators the demands of the miners' union, doing in the beginning substantially what they agreed to do after five months of opposition, there would have been no coal strike, thus saving to themselves millions of dollars, preventing the suffering and disorders in the coalfields and relieving the public of a vast amount of annoyance and distress. They insisted, however, that there was "nothing to arbitrate" and that the public had no concern in the matter other than to submit tamely to the inconvenience and expense of a shortage of fuel. From this position the operators finally receded, though they held tenaciously to it until the rising tide of public indignation, awakened by the danger of a disastrous coal famine, compelled them to change their tone.

Without reference to the justice of their cause or otherwise, it must be admitted that the miners' union put up a remarkably strong and effective fight against a powerful and resourceful opponent. This it was able to do largely through the assistance of organized labor throughout the country. As the miners freely offered to arbitrate the matters involved, the public was largely in sympathy with them, a factor not unimportant in the struggle.

Quite apart from the merits of the issue between the employers and the employed in the present arbitration is the public insistence that it has rights in the premises and that these rights must be respected. It cannot permit a quarrel between capital and labor, whatever its cause or merits, to bring about a stringency, much less a famine, in any public necessity.

If the commission which President Roosevelt has appointed shall be able to adjust the questions brought before it with fairness and justice, and if its finding shall be accepted in good faith by both parties, it will be a most salutary object lesson in the arbitration of the differences between labor and capital and do more for the betterment of economic conditions in this country than years of academic discussion.

The bisected college course suggested by President Butler of Columbia university apparently does not commend itself to some of the college presidents. President Faunce of Brown puts the argument against it rather pungently when he says that the great colleges are not prepared to halve the value of their A. B. degree. He is inclined to think that our institutions of the higher learning will divide into two classes—those which sacrifice the college partially or wholly to the professional or technical school, and those which stand more strongly than ever for the humanistic element in education.

Lady Henry Somerset, who is here as the representative of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Great Britain, says that fifteen years ago the arrests for drunkenness in England averaged four men to one woman, but that now the average is three women to one man. If this is correct, the W. C. T. U. has a large field for missionary work among its own sex, to say nothing of the men.

According to a late cablegram, Mr. Schwab is improving down in the Italian lake region. Considering the assurances given at the time of his departure that there was nothing the matter with him, the frequent bulletins regarding the state of Mr. Schwab's health are somewhat confusing.

Another Molineux trial is on in New York. As it has only been four years since somebody poisoned Mrs. Adams, the crime of which Molineux is accused, it seems possible that he will either be executed or set free before he dies of old age.

It is announced that the St. Louis exposition will be a Midway-less affair. This may possibly be taken in Chicago as something of a reflection upon a certain big event pulled off about nine years ago in the latter city.

While Signor Mascagni objects to American musicians playing in his orchestra, it cannot be learned that he has yet protested against American dollars getting into his cash box.

In England they are giving away accident policies with each package of cigarettes sold. What is really needed is a straight life policy.

Gray?

"My hair was falling out and turning gray very fast. But your Hair Vigor stopped the falling and restored the natural color."—Mrs. E. Z. Benomme, Cohoes, N. Y.

It's impossible for you not to look old, with the color of seventy years in your hair! Perhaps you are seventy, and you like your gray hair! If not, use Ayer's Hair Vigor. In less than a month your gray hair will have all the dark, rich color of youth.

was witnessed by a large concourse of relative and friends.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white lousine silk, trimmed with pearls and lace, and carried bridal roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Anna Meyer of Lake Zurich, was dressed in white silk mull and carried white carnations, Miss Louise Lauerman of Chicago was dressed in blue silk mull and carried lilies of the valley, Miss Vera Geary of Wauconda was dressed in pink silk and carried lilies of the valley. The groomsmen were Messrs. Geo. Zimmer and Albert Stahl of Long Grove and Frank Meyer of Lake Zurich. After the ceremony all repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Zimmer. The wedding feast was served in the Union hall building and dancing was indulged in during the afternoon and evening. The wedding dance, however, did not commence until 7 o'clock, opening with a wedding march by bride and groom, followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen. At 12 o'clock was the supper march, led by the bride and groom. At 3:30 o'clock in the morning the dance was concluded by grand closing march. Music was furnished by Hurtle & Smith of Chicago and was fine. The affair was one of enjoyment to all and many beautiful presents were received.

Miss Emma has always lived with her parents at Long Grove, is the last daughter to leave home and is loved by her many friends for her noble and genial qualities. The groom is a man of sterling worth and sure to make his way in life. He held a good position in Chicago, where he is employed by the Pettibone, Sawtell Printing Co. After a short visit with their relatives they will make their future home in Chicago, and we extend to them our best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and liver troubles that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual costiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, dispondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25c size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At H. T. Abbott's.

SERVANTS IN JAPAN

A LAND WHERE DOMESTIC SERVICE IS CONSIDERED AN HONOR.

The "Boys" That Wait on Table in Hotels and How They Work. Household Servants That Are Equal in Birth to Their Masters.

They have some curious notions about servants in Japan. Instead of its being considered a disgrace to go into domestic service in that country it is an honor, writes Mr. Douglas Sladen.

Jinrikisha boys and grooms may not have the honor of being servants at all, but are tradesmen, which is the lowest thing of all in Japan—short of being an eta, or member of the class of outcasts. Grooms are excluded as a betting, gambling, cheating lot (the Japanese think it impossible for a groom to be honest) and the rickshaw boys as rough people without any manners.

There are two classes of servants; personal and kitchen. Kitchen servants need have no knowledge of etiquette. They are sometimes rough creatures from the country, no better than rickshaw boys. They are dull, contented drudges, but Cook San (Mr. Cook) is held in a very different estimation. In a small household he does the catering and keeps the accounts as well as superintends the ridiculous little bird's nest of charcoal ash which cooks the meals in Japan.

The personal servants show a humility to their employers which would paralyze an Englishman with any sense of humor, and their masters assume an etiquette air of command. But from every one else these servants expect a considerable amount of politeness.

Hotel servants are male and female. Hotels for Europeans generally have men housemaids as well as men waiters and call them all "boys."

To go to a Japanese hotel for the first time is like going to a farce. It is impossible to keep serious. In the dining room you are surrounded by pantomime imps dressed in indigo cotton doublets and hose, who run about shoeless and are called "boys" and look like boys until the day they die. Half of them know no English except the numbers. Each has a number to himself, and each dish on the menu has a number, even down to the potatoes.

"No. 5," you say if you are new to it, "I'll have some 2, and I'll take some 7 and 9 with it, please." He catches some numbers and brings them, but you would have a far better chance of getting what you want if you simply said 2, 7, 9.

You can hardly hear yourself speak for the scruff, scruff across the floor. You think it is lucky they don't wear boots. At very grand hotels they wear blue serge suits like ship's stewards and had imitations of foreign shoes, and they don't run, and then they don't wait so well, because it is not natural for a Japanese "boy" not to run.

A Japanese "boy" has one good quality. Though he cannot understand English, before you have been in the house three days he will know your tastes, and if you like the breast of a chicken better than the leg you will get it, and you will have your steak to look purple or burned under when it is cut, as you prefer.

If he saw you using a teaspoon after your wife, he would very likely bring you a used teaspoon with your next morning's tea. His motto is that there is no accounting for the madness of foreigners and the forms it will take.

But your bedroom boy is a very different person. He has intelligence and often a fair command of English.

There is nothing that a Japanese room boy cannot do. I would trust him to mend my watch. I have tried him on such varied problems as luring a frightened canary back to its cage, fishing up a small coin that had fallen through a crack in the floor and mending the lock of a portmanteau. One of them even said that he could take in a felt hat which I gave him so large for him that his ears did not stop it.

The Japanese like their hats to rest upon their ears. They can mend your clothes or put a button on and are handier than sailors. They expect you to show them all your purchases and always tell you how much more or how much less you ought to have paid.

In the transient life of a hotel you see the farcical side of Japanese servants. The pristine and sentimental side you only get in a private family, where the servants, like the pages of the middle ages, may be equal in birth to their masters, but willing to do service in his household because he is a famous poet or noble or man of science, so as to gather the crumbs of education which fall from his table.—Exchange.

Economy.

Fudge—Yes, Spinks has a splendid system of economy.

Judge—How so?

"He goes to work and lays aside money for something he doesn't need."

"No economy in that."

"Isn't there? Well, by the time he has the money saved he always finds out he doesn't want the thing—and then the money is saved."—Baltimore Herald.

An Annoying Insinuation.

"I don't suppose he meant anything unkind," said the young woman, "but it was a very startling coincidence."

"What do you mean?"

"Just before Harold and I got married his friends persuaded him to join a 'don't worry' club."—Washington Star.

One of the worst things that can happen a young man is to get the notion that he can't have a good time without wasting his money.—Atchison Globe.

MEN WHO DELIVER MAIL.

Heart Tragedies That Line the Route of Letter Carriers.

"Tell you a story? Why, yes, I might tell a good many stories if that was in my line." The letter carrier blew a pearly wreath of smoke upward and flicked the dead ash from his cigar, says the Denver News. "Let me see. There's an old lady on my route down in Alabama who sits knitting the live-long day, by the front room window. Every morning and afternoon when I whistle at the door of her next door neighbor she lays down her knitting and peers with a tired, eager face out of that window until I go by. She's got a boy somewhere out west. He doesn't write to her twice a year, yet twice each day the whole year through she sits there, with that anxious look, waiting, waiting, waiting. I feel a twitch at my own heart every time I pass by and see the look of expectancy fade into disappointment. Sometimes I'd give $50 to be able to stop and give her five lines from that good for nothing boy of hers for whom she's eating out her heart."

"That reminds me," said a younger man who heard the letter carrier's story, "of a pretty baby on my route in a Louisiana city. She's a dainty tot about four or maybe five years old. She has blue gray eyes like a wood violet that look a fellow straight to the heart. Some little girls can do that after they are older. This tot's mamma died six months ago, and for a month afterward she used to come tripping down the walk to meet me with a little white note in her hand, and, looking me to the heart out of those big trusting eyes, she would say, 'Mr. Postman, won't you please take this letter to my mamma in heaven?' I used to take the dainty missive from the wee pink hand. I couldn't tell her how far away her mamma was. One day she came without a letter, and there was pain in the great, sweet eyes. 'Mr. Postman, baby wants a letter from mamma. Please, Mr. Postman, tell my mamma me wants some letters too.' And, boys, every day for a week I had to pass that baby with the pain in the gray blue eyes, and I wondered the angels did not find some way somehow to make her baby heart understand."

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

Water in which mignonette has been placed should be changed often, since it quickly becomes foul.

The best use to make of old bones is to break them up and bury them near the roots of fruit trees and grapevines.

By sowing nitrate of soda in small quantities in showery weather under trees a most beautiful verdure will be obtained.

It is not a good plan to fill an old orchard with young trees. The soil is too much exhausted by the growth of the former occupants.

Geraniums bloom most satisfactorily when grown in comparatively small pots and soil which is termed rich, but not rank with excessive manure.

Stir, spade, rake and pulverize soil thoroughly before planting or sowing. The importance of this work cannot be overestimated if you desire fine blossoms.

Geraniums that have been used for summer bloomers will not flower again until the late spring months. Plants for winter blooming should be grown especially for this purpose.

Care of Puppies.

Puppies after weaning will keep strong and healthy and will grow fast if fed only on fresh buttermilk and corn bread, with soup instead of the buttermilk twice a week, till they are five or six months old. Do not feed them sweet milk. Keep the puppies where they can get plenty of exercise. Do not crowd them. Arrange their kennels so that they can go in and out of their sleeping quarters. If fed in the same vessels, some dogs get more than their share of food and lose their manners also. Fasten a number of chains where they eat at such distances that no one can reach the other: then feed in individual pans. Give little medicine and plenty of exercise, and you will then have strong, healthy dogs. An hour's run every day in the year in the fields and woods, weather permitting, is essential to good health.

Get a True Focus.

A habit of looking at things from a distorted angle, of focusing the vision on things that depress and suggest unhappiness and misery, is a destroyer of happiness and success. A man who goes about with a funeral face, thinking "hard times," fearing "dull seasons," disaster, panic and failure wherever his interests center, is never a happy man, rarely a successful one.

Pessimism is a destructive force in men's lives, just as optimism is a constructive agency.—Success.

Immune.

"My" exclaimed the old lady who was taking her first trolley ride. "I should think it would be mighty dangerous workin' on these cars all the time. Ain't you 'feared of the 'lectricity strikin' you?"

"No'm," he replied as he took her nickel and neglected to ring it up on the register. "You see, I'm not a good conductor."—Philadelphia Press.

COL. CODY ("BUFFALO BILL") REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

Col. William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill"), who is reported seriously ill in South Dakota, has been for thirty years the most famous army scout, guide and plainsman of the west, and is to-day one of the best known characters in the country. He was born in Iowa about sixty-eight years ago, and at the age of ten was on the plains of western Kansas. His first Indian fight was at the age of 11, when, as a guide for Albert Sidney Johnston's army, he won laurels against the "Dog Soldier" Indians. He served in the civil war with the Kansas Jayhawkers, and subsequently has been employed as scout and guide for the army in the various Indian wars. He went on the stage in 1868, and since then has exhibited his "Wild West Show" throughout the civilized world.

at Columbia, Mo., for attempted jury bribing, has been a conspicuous figure in the affairs of St. Louis for a generation. He began life as a blacksmith in a small way, added shop after shop, secured contracts for shoeing the street railway horses in the old days, and by easy steps became the representative of the railways before the municipal assembly and the legislature. His son, James J., represented the first district in Congress for two terms. Colonel Butler has never held public office.

"Mother" Jones is Idolized by Anthracite Coal Workers.

A prominent figure in the coal miners' troubles of the past few months is "Mother" Jones, the earnest friend of the striking operatives. much for the miners' cause by her vivid portrayal of the wrongs which they have suffered.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN FRANCE

American Ideas and Methods Are Being Introduced.

The people who rebel against the closing of the Catholic schools and the sending of their children to the public schools are those who know absolutely nothing about the latter. They think they will have tuition to pay for. Now, in many public schools here even the schoolbooks are provided, and great facilities are given to bright scholars in the way of scholarships whereby they may continue their education in the higher schools. Ignorant parents, and there are many such in countries like Brittany, imagine that the government will teach their children to be atheists. It is needless to say that parents will have as much freedom in bringing up their children in any religion they please as in America, says a correspondent in the Brooklyn Eagle.

The French authorities have an eye on the American systems of public education and copy them as far as they are able, taking into consideration the idiosyncrasies of their people. During the republic untold sums of money have been spent for the building and the establishing of public schools, for the organization of libraries, for the running of night schools, and after all that trouble and expense if there are people who, like the Bretons, refuse progress and enlightenment, ought not the government compel them to obey? It is like holding the nose of a sick child to force it to swallow a medicine which will save its life.

BALKED ON RED FLANNEL

Georgia Man Tells His Troubles to Chicago Newspaper.

Being from down in Georgia, where conditions are different from what they are in this climate and acting on the advice and by the orders of Abby, my wife, I write on a matter of deep concern to Abby and me. My question is this: When ought a fellow who works out of doors to put on flannel underwear in Chicago? My wife is plum scared for fear I'll get sick if I don't wear flannel. She says every man up here wears flannel. I wore them one day. They done like to made me fall from grace that day. I never could have believed such a devil was in them red things. I was clean dumbstruck silly with their action. Talk about 1,000 tongues to sing! I needed 1,000 hands to scratch! I yanked them off that night and betwixt us as man to man I cursed them. Then I told Abby: "I reckon we had best light out for Georgia if I have to wear such truck." She let me alone for a week, then she got started and it's no use; I reckon I done got to wear them pesky things. I wish you all would put it in the paper that a man doesn't need flannel until long after Christmas. This will soothe her worry and put off trouble for me and the Lord knows what might happen before Christmas comes, though I must say I like this town first-rate and would hate to leave it—Letter to Chicago News.

Queer Building in Maine.

They do things oddly in the Pine Tree state sometimes. In the outskirts of the shipbuilding city of Bath I saw recently the front wall under the roof of a comparatively new house torn out and the bow of a 24-foot boat protruding. A long distance from the water the owner had passed the winter building the boat in his attic; knocked out the front of his house to remove it to the yard, and then transported it by skids to the Kennebec river, says the Boston Post. And on the same trip in the elongated township of Phippsburg my driver pointed out an isolated house, a modern structure built by its owner personally and entirely inclosing his smaller and more ancient house. The inner one he and his family occupied during the constructing of the new one and then demolished it and ejected "the remains" through the new windows.

Up or Down?

Even teachers sometimes have a sense of humor. One to whom that gift has not been denied teaches in an up-town school, says the New York Times.

Not long ago she was struggling with a class in geography. "What is a compass?" she asked a wide-eyed child, who promptly answered, with the confident air of one who knows:

"A compass is an interment for finding directions."

The teacher gasped, but John was not detained, as were the others who answered incorrectly. For, as she smilingly remarked:

"Tradition would uphold him in his belief that at certain stages of man's development an interment is necessary to find the direction in which he is going."

MONEY QUARREL LEADS TO MURDER

W. C. Turner Kills Millionaire and Business Partner at New York.

ON HAND TO SETTLE SHORTAGE

Meeting Is Held to Straighten Company's Affairs, at Which the Slayer Answers Request for Check With Shots From His Revolver.

New York dispatch: William C. Turner, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., shot and killed William J. Mallard, of 3 West One Hundred and First street and Albert Hamilton of Pittsburg and then committed suicide in the law offices of Borough President Cantor and former Assistant District Attorney John F. McIntyre, in the Wall street district.

The shooting was done in the presence of J. J. Adams, a partner of Mr. Cantor and Mr. McIntyre, Lawyer Leventritt, who represented Turner, and Maurice Goodman, who is associated with the firm of Cantor, McIntyre & Adams.

Turner was a cousin of Governor Odell, a brother-in-law of Dan Stuart, the famous Texas sport and "gun fighter," was formerly a Texan and was a dead shot.

Kills a Millionaire.

Mr. Hamilton was a millionaire glass manufacturer, who bought out the business of his slayer. He was prominent with his wife in the social circles of Pittsburg.

Mr. Mallard was a purchaser of Turner's business. He leaves a widow and two children, and was formerly a resident of Atlanta, Ga., where he was prominent in political and social circles.

Turner killed the two men and himself because they accused him of stealing money from the Climax Bottling and Manufacturing Company. It is believed that Turner intended to kill both President Cantor and John F. McIntyre, but they happened to be absent from the office.

Agrees to Settle.

Turner was president and treasurer of the Climax Bottling and Manufacturing Company until last April, when he was succeeded by Mr. Hamilton. Mallard was secretary of the concern. An examination of the books, according to Mallard and Hamilton, showed that Turner was $5,100 short in his accounts.

John F. McIntyre was engaged by Mallard and Hamilton to force Turner to make a settlement. The accused man made a proposition to settle on a basis of $2,700. This was agreed to, and an engagement was made to settle up.

Turner insisted that Mr. McIntyre should be present at the conclusion of the negotiations. He was very bitter against the former district attorney, who had threatened him frequently with criminal proceedings. Mr. McIntyre, however, evaded the engagement.

Asks For Check.

Turner was greatly excited and controlled himself with difficulty. Everything went along smoothly until the time came for Turner to produce the $2,700 check. He was slow to do this. The papers were scattered around the table awaiting signatures when Mr. Leventritt said:

"Well, Mr. Turner, you might as well deliver the check."

Turner glared at the lawyer and at the men on the opposite side of the table.

"You have the check with you, I suppose?" asked Mr. Leventritt.

"Oh, yes," replied Turner, "I've got it with me, all right."

Saying this, he got up, left his chair, walked to the side of the room, and turned his back on the men at the table. When he faced them again he had a revolver in his hand.

Quick and Sure Shot.

"I'll kill you, you —," he said to Mallard.

The men at the table were paralyzed with fright. Before Mallard could get out of the way two bullets were in his body.

Hamilton had made no move to escape. He sat gazing at the body of Mallard on the floor. Turner fired one shot at him and killed him instantly. Then he placed the muzzle of the revolver to the side of his own head and blew out his brains.

The shooting did not occupy more than half a minute.

Mr. Adams, Mr. Goodman and Mr. Leventritt ran out of the office with white faces, meeting a throng of clerks and other tenants who had been attracted by the sound of the shots.

On Turner's body were found another revolver, fully loaded, and a certified check for $2,700.

The instantaneous effect which St. Jacobs Oil produces is a part of its half a century record." St. Jacobs Oil is sold in 25 cts. and 50 cts. sizes by all druggists. The words "Acts like Magic," "Conquers Pain," which have been used in connection with St. Jacobs Oil for more than 50 years are wonderfully and truly descriptive.

Writhing of a Snake Story.

The mother of a 2-year-old boy at Nashville, Ind., found the baby playing with a snake the other day. When the reptile was driven away it carried with it a ring which it had taken from the child's finger. This is recorded to preserve the truth. A few years hence the story will get around that the snake stole the baby and carefully deposited the ring in the mother's hand as a keepsake.

INVENTOR OF THE BATON.

Lully Was the First to Use It and It Caused His Death.

The inventor of the baton has been discovered. According to the investigations of a Frenchman the credit belongs to Lully, the composer, who eventually had cause to regret his invention.

Before he adopted the baton conductors were in the habit of pounding on the floor with their feet or clapping their hands to mark the time. Lully found it wearisome to keep his foot constantly in motion and so used a stick to strike the floor and beat time. He used a pole six feet long.

One day he brought down the pole with such force that it struck his foot and made a deep wound. He paid no attention to the matter. The wound grew worse and ultimately caused his death.

After his time conductors tried more and more to improve the baton and it was ultimately brought to its present form.

Our consul general at Paris reports that for the American woman there was purchased in France during 1901 dress goods, buttons and trimmings, feathers, flowers and millinery, jewelry and precious stones, corsets and gloves, to the value of $8,400,000, says Ainslee's Magazine. This represents only what was bought for, not by her. She doubtlessly personally purchased enough to more than double the sum named. Add to this the importations from an individual purchased in other countries, gems and furs from Russia, laces from Italy and Belgium, linen from Ireland—another million and a quarter surely—and we find that to clothe and beautify the American woman there was spent in Europe during 1901 more than $18,000,000.

TRouble BEGINS.

Trouble begins with the first backache. Backache comes in many forms—sudden twinges of pain, sharp stitches, slow, exhaustive aches.

Most backache pains are kidney pains.

The kidneys fail to perform the duties nature intends them to do and the warning of trouble comes through the back.

Neglect the kidney warning, grave complications will surely follow.

Urinary disorders, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, are the downward steps of neglected kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every kidney and bladder sickness and the cure lasts. Read this proof of it:

Mrs. Adam Guntle, residing at 701 South Plum St., Crawfordsville, Ind., says: "I made a public statement in 1897, saying that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured a member of our family after he had suffered for years with a weak back and kidney troubles. He took three boxes of this remedy and was completely cured. Now three years have elapsed since I made this statement and I am only too pleased to reindorse it. I have also used Doan's Kidney Pills myself, obtaining the best results. I have recommended this remedy to my friends and neighbors as one which can always be depended upon."

A FREE TRIAL of this great Kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Guntle will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

Bad Advice.

"We will show the impudent public," asserts the first magnate, "that we will not be dictated to."

"Certainly we will," agrees the second magnate. "I believe the time has come for us to reassert the famous statement of Commodore Vanderbilt concerning the public."

"No, no," says the first magnate, who is a timid but far-seeing person. "That would never do. If the public were well, we shall say condemned—if it were condemned, then it would not have to pay anything for its fuel."

"Glad to See So Many Here."

This is another joke on the minister, and the scene was in Moyamensing prison. It was a Sunday morning, when the minister was about to address the inmates of the prison with the stereotyped expression: "I am glad to see so many here to-day." What the prisoners thought it is not necessary to say.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

ARKANSAS MOB BURNS NEGRO AT THE STAKE

Broke Promise to Await Coming of Judge, Who Agreed to Grant Immediate Trial.

Forrest City, Ark., special: Charles Young, the negro charged with assaulting and afterwards murdering Mrs. Ed Lewis, white, was burned at the stake by a mob of infuriated citizens. The mob now is seeking another negro implicated, and he is promised the same fate.

Sheriff Williams used every effort to save the prisoner's life, and telephoned Judge Hutton of this district, who promised to give immediate trial for the negro.

The leaders of the mob had given the sheriff positive pledges that they would await the trial and take no violent measures. A mob marched to the county jail, and after having been refused the keys by Deputy Sheriff Murphy until Sheriff Williams could be acquainted with their demands, the mob, not waiting for Sheriff Williams' arrival, forcibly took the keys from Murphy, and, breaking in the jail door with sledgehammers, took the prisoner from his cell.

The mob took the negro to a point half a mile east of town, bound him, piled wood around him, and set fire to it. The negro begged piteously for his life. In a short time he expired.

INSURANCE AND TRUST COMPANIES COMBINE

Prudential to Control Fidelity, Which Is to Increase Capital Stock to $3,000,000.

New York special: Announcement is made of a big financial deal in New York. The Fidelity Trust company will hereafter control the big and wealthy Prudential Insurance company and at the same time the Prudential interests will be dominant factors in the affairs of the trust company.

The Fidelity is to increase its capital stock from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000. It will have a surplus of $13,000,000, besides undivided profits. The Prudential company will take enough of the new stock at $750 a share to give it control of the Fidelity, and the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York will increase its present holdings to such an extent that it will materially increase its business with the Fidelity. It is announced officially that the Prudential will dominate the Fidelity Trust. The foregoing details of the deal were made public in a statement by United States Senator John F. Dryden, president of the Prudential, and Uzal H. McCarter, president of the Fidelity.

GREAT COAL COMBINE FORMING IN INDIANA

Bituminous Mines to Be Consolidated in the Near Future With Capital of $25,000,000.

Terre Haute, Ind., special: A company with a capital of $25,000,000, to own all the bituminous coal mines of Indiana, in all probability will be organized next month, and the negotiations for the properties which have been under way during the summer are near completion.

This attempted consolidation is different from the plan formulated last spring. In the former attempt to buy the properties a number of Indiana operators were acting as sponsors for the project, but this time outsiders are back of the scheme, Chicago and New York capital being interested.

The capital is to be divided equally in preferred and common stock. John K. Seifert of Chicago, A. M. Ogle of Indianapolis and James H. McClelland of Clay county have been representing the syndicate negotiating with the Indiana operators.

CATTLE SHOW AT KANSAS CITY

Fifteen States Contribute Many Hundreds of Entries.

Kansas City, Mo., special: The annual American royal cattle show opened at the stock yards pavilion here. Hundreds of entries from fifteen different states are on exhibition, together with prize winners from British and Scotch shows. The Sabine breeders and Angora goat breeders have a huge tent close to the cattle show and there several hundred fine grades of Berkshire, Poland China and Jersey Durocs are being shown. Many sheep men are here to see the show this year and decide whether they want admission for next year and the horsemen are talking about the possibilities of a show of draft horses. The Iowa Agricultural college sent a class of fifty in practical agriculture to attend the show.

MONKEY IN THE SURF.

Little Animal Enjoys His First Dip in Salt Water.

The spectacle of a monkey bather was one of the rather unusual sights at this resort the other day. The animal was the property of Frank Hubin, who has a store next the States avenue baths, and the idea of giving the animal an ocean bath was suggested by a little girl, who timidly approached Mr. Hubin the other day and asked if she might take one of the "cute little things a-swimmin'." Mr. Hubin acted on the suggestion and in a short time he procured some material and had one of the young ladies of the place make the monkey a tiny bathing suit. It was soon done, and the monkey toggled off in the new garb. He was taken to the water, but no amount of coaxing could induce the little fellow to take a dip. He was picked up by his owner and carried out into the surf and then dropped. He was shocked at first, but soon got over his fright and liked the water so well that he did not want to leave when his master did, and had to be carried out. He caused considerable fun for the bathers by his peculiar antics while in the water.—Atlantic City Correspondence Baltimore American.

A Cure for Rheumatism.

Bridgeport, Wash., Oct. 20th.—Rheumatism and kidney trouble seem to be the prevailing ailments in this territory and particularly in Douglas county.

A remarkable and plainly sure cure has, however, recently been introduced.

It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills and although but a short time on the market, it has already worked many wonderful cures. One of the most striking of these is that of Mr. John Higgins, who for a long time suffered with rheumatism and kidney trouble. The pains of these diseases had combined to make his life very miserable indeed, and he could get nothing to do him any good till he heard of this new remedy. He tells his experience with it in these words:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done more for my rheumatism and kidney trouble than anything else I have ever used. There is more virtue in them than in any other medicine and I will always highly recommend them to all of my friends."

What a Shoe Man Says.

Women with large feet should bear one or two things in mind. One is that if they are big women they have no right to expect to have very small feet. A woman of 5 feet 6 inches high is entitled to a foot 9 1-2 inches long, and it might be a little longer without making her feel that the world was coming to an end. Another thing the large-footed sister should recollect is that when she squeezes her foot into a shoe too small for her she does not disguise its size, states the Shoe and Leather Gazette. On the contrary, she makes this more apparent. The foot spreads in its overtight covering and lumps out in the wrong place and stretches the shoe out of shape in no time at all.

No Need for Money.

Standing at the corner of Thirty-sixth street and Broadway one warm evening was a stolid-looking man. He was gazing intently at the windows of the recently opened branch of the Eastern Trust company. After looking over the large letters, he spoke right up—apparently unconscious of the fact that he had a listener—reading from the lettered windows: "Capital one million; surplus one million; interest allowed on deposits." Sure, and what do they want deposits for with all that money?—New York Times.

CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

[To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.]

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."

Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y., writes: The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Pe-ru-na is all you claim for it, and cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble."—David F. Wilber.

Pe-ru-na a Preventive and Cure for Colds.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Pastime Boating Club," writes:

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter."

"Last winter I was advised to try Pe-ru-na, and within five days the cold was broken up, and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

Henry Kirmse and L. Krahn are decorating and painting Odd Fellows hall. The hall will be ready for occupancy the first week in November.

The Chicago & Northwestern Co. is putting substantial improvements about the depot here in the shape of concrete walks. Next season the company will provide us a new depot—we hope.

The old Lakeside hotel and bar room at Wauconda is closed for the first time in many years. Henry Schendorf, who has conducted the place for some years, finds farming more to his liking and abandoned business in the village.

Thomas Ball and O. E. Fox, brother and son of Mrs. E. N. Gifford, visited at the Gifford home a week ago Sunday. They went to Lake Zurich and tempted the finny tribe. A pickerel measuring 38 inches attacked the bait put out by Mr. Fox and with the assistance of Mr. Ball the prize fish of the season was landed.

The Dalton Excavator which has dug the trenches for the water mains at Chicago Highlands, while working at Arlington Heights was the admiration of all spectators. It will cut a trench 16 inches wide from 1 to 9 feet deep, as desired, at the rate of 300 to 1000 ft. a day and does the job slicker than hand labor, which could not be secured. Richard Dalton, the inventor, who is operating the machine says he spent seven years perfecting it. As soon as he can secure financial backing he will begin to manufacture the machines of steel and place them on the market. We believe he has a bonanza, if he holds his patent.

Libertyville, which wasn't half the size of Barrington, Palatine or Arlington Heights, ten years ago has steadily pushed to the front in the scale of progress till now she is envied by all sister towns, says the Palatine Enterprise. She has electric lights, presidential postoffice, fast train service on the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and a new double track electric railroad connecting with the lake shore cities. All this has been brought about by a reasonable degree of enterprise. As regards Barrington we are not envious of the pretty and progressive village northeast of us, but we wish our business men would show the same degree of enterprise manifested by the merchants of that place. The business men of Libertyville have advanced the interests of their town by inviting industries to locate there and making it an object for them to do so. Barrington, on the contrary, is adverse to parading its advantages before the outside world. That is the difference. Advertising pays.

J. R. Moores, who lately removed here from Chicago, is preparing to establish a plant for the manufacture of glass wool, a product spun from glass, woven into sheets, cut into pads and used mainly in electric batteries, and other electric appliances. The industry is a new one and but very little glass wool had, up to a year or so ago, been manufactured in this country. An automobile manufacturing company at Indianapolis desired to procure a pad of some substance to use in batteries attached to their motors. Glass was found to be the article adapted to the work but to get it pliable that it might be woven into thin sheets, was a difficulty until Miss Hettie Jukes of Chicago, daughter of Wesley Jukes, the renowned glass blower, discovered a process. Miss Jukes interested her cousin Mr. J. R. Moores, in the work and they turned out a product which is meeting with fair demand considering the price and few uses to which it is adapted. During the coming winter Mr. Moores and Miss Jukes will manufacture only 50 or 60 pounds of the wool per month to supply an eastern firm. The machinery now in use will permit of two expert spinners turning out about four pounds of wool per day. It is as fine as silk and 20 pounds of it, before being woven into sheets, looks like a huge snow bank.

If there is an Odd Fellow in the state better posted on the work of the order his name is not recorded.

Death of August Reese.

After a protracted illness of an ailment which medical skill failed to cure, August Reese, well-known to the residents of the town of Ela and village of Barrington, was summoned to another world. His death occurred Wednesday morning, October 22, at 7 o'clock, at the family home on North Hawley street.

August Reese was born at Greissen, Hanover, Germany, October 26, 1834, and at the age of eighteen years came to America, making his home in the town of Ela, near Lake Zurich. Here he resided and conducted a farm until 1898, when he retired from active work and removed to this village. He was an honorable, industrious man and esteemed by those who had formed his acquaintance.

Mr. Reese was the father of eleven children, Henry, deceased, Mrs. Geo. Behrens and Mrs. Minnie Rieck of Chicago; Herman, Louis, Elmer, Ida, Mary, Annie, Mable and William of Barrington. The wife survives. One brother, Henry Reese, resides near Lake Zurich.

Mr. Reese was a member of St. Paul's Evangelical church and the funeral was held from that house of worship this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Alfred Menzel preaching the sermon. Short services were also held at the house. Interment was in the German cemetery.

Royal Neighbors Entertain.

Mayflower Camp R. N. A., No. 2582, held a regular meeting Monday evening and was favored with a visit by neighbors of Wauconda camp. It is said, by those competent to judge, that for genuine, unalloyed enjoyment the occasion broke all previous records made by the Neighbors or any other organization in Barrington. We are informed that the most elaborate spread of good things ever arranged on a banquet board set out in this section of earth. There was everything an epicure could wish for, and lots of it. If there is a band of ladies who understand the culinary art it is the Royal Neighbors of Mayflower camp.

The following Wauconda Neighbors were present:

Mary E. Glynn; Loretta Seymour, Jessie Seymour, Orpha Danell, Anna Golding, Myrtle Clark, Amelia Brand, Grace Cooke, Lizzie Cooke, Jennie Seymour, Mary Clark, Sarah Nicholls.

Simply Ignorance, That's All.

It is astonishing that in this age of enlightenment; this age of books, magazines and newspapers, that there are people—people who consider themselves of a high degree of intelligence—who entertain for secret societies of the higher order, only feelings of contempt and opposition. Why any man or woman of sane mind should regard Masonic, Odd Fellow and Knights of Pythias lodges as places for the inception of schemes to oppose religious thought and work, is a mystery to one who reads.

The orders mentioned have succeeded in the face of prejudice and opposition, in planting their lodges in every country on the face of the globe. Why? Because the principles which they advance have for a foundation the Holy word. This article was brought out by a remark passed at the cemetery Sunday afternoon on the occasion of a funeral service conducted by the Odd Fellows. A man, supposed to be endowed with a good sized intellect, remarked to his wife, during the rendition of the prayer, "According to that Odd Fellows must believe in God and a hereafter. I didn't think they did."

"I have always understood that the Masons and Odd Fellows gave little attention to either God or religious principle," was the wife's reply.

Friends, you were never more mistaken in your lives. No man can become a member of either of those ancient and honorable honors unless he believes in a divine power. The Holy Bible is a chief symbol of both societies. No man can be identified with the Masonic or Odd Fellow lodges and live up to the teachings without having for all humanity a deep regard. Unity of purpose makes men better.

Since the organization of the Odd Fellows lodge here it has been opposed by a certain element for the simple reason—ignorance of its principles. To set those, who allow prejudice to govern them, aright we will state that the order of Odd Fellows has been in existence 200 years. The main objects of Odd Fellowship are, to afford mutual relief and protection to its members in times of want, distress, danger or difficulty; to cultivate social relations among its members, teach them to be industrious and frugal, inculcate correct moral principles and increase, by the practice of charity, their love for their fellow men. To care for the sick and bury the dead. To protect the widow and children of a deceased brother; to bind humanity with the chain of Friendship, Love and Truth. That is Odd Fellowship. It conflicts with no duty man owes to God, home, or church.

Political Notes.

Senator Mason has decided not to be a democrat just at present and the democrats breathe easier.

Perhaps the voters of Illinois will grow enthusiastic if the politicians will show them something to get excited over.

Congressman Hopkins says that he can discover nothing in the political situation that in any way threatens his chances for election to the senate. That is about the size of it.

Republican candidates for offices in Lake county are swinging around the circuit asking support just as though there was danger of defeat. The republican candidates were elected the day of the county convention at Grayslake.

There are 438 candidates for the legislature in Illinois, says the Daily News, but there is only one Jno. Humphrey, father of the Humphrey bills. Therefore there ought to be no more than 437 candidates with even the remotest chance of getting elected.

Good, healthy, pugacious partisanship is all right. But partisanship which from the pure bigotry and malice of politics supports corrupt candidates and dangerous influences in such a situation as that now before the voters of Cook county is nothing short of criminal. Pick out the bad men in all parties and defeat them.

The educators of Cook county are strongly opposed to Mr. Nightingale, republican candidate for superintendent of schools, and will support Mr. Howland, the democratic nominee. It is charged that Superintendent Bright was defeated for renomination because he refused to put on a Lorimer collar. Mr. Bright is one of the most popular educators in the state and gave entire satisfaction as a public official. His refusal to enter ring politics showed his good judgment. Politics should have no place in educational institutions. The best qualified man should be chosen for superintendent, irrespective of party or politics.

George A. Mawman, independent candidate for the legislature in the Eighth Senatorial district, is making a canvass of the district, following in the wake of the regular candidates. Monday he invaded Zion City and entertained the Dowleites with a speech which, the papers say, made him solid in that stronghold. Politicians of the district admit that Mr. Mawman will attract a large vote, but not large enough to land the prize. Four years ago George Mawman made the race as an independent candidate and surprised the democrats by the vote he received. He lacked only 330 votes of defeating Johnnie Donnelly. Mr. Desmond, the democratic candidate is very popular in the district, but this independent vote this year is an unknown quantity.

Senator Mason opened his speech making campaign in Chicago Tuesday evening. He roasted the state administration and William Lorimer to a beautiful brown, telling the audience about some of the inside workings of the present management of the party in this state, and thanked the Lord that he was not the Lorimer kind of a republican. He asked "In what have I offended? The truth of my offense is this: William Lorimer wanted to be senator at one time and at the same time I was tickled with the same ambition. He had the machine and the money. I had nothing but the people and the votes, so I skinned him to a finish. Now he desires to give the senatorship to Kane county in order that in two years he can ask for it in Chicago and, if things are right, come out for the place himself. They charge me with intent to break the caucus. I learned the art of breaking caucuses from Lorimer. I am not a democrat but a 100 per cent republican, not a 5 per cent slush fund representative."

Installed Officers.

Lounsbury Chapter Eastern Star received its charter last week and Friday evening installed the officers elected last March when the Chapter was instituted. The installing officer was Mrs. Chester of Chicago, Grand Secretary Ills. Grand Chapter, Mrs. Hubbard, Matron of Queen Esther Chapter, Chicago, assisting. Those present from out of town were Mrs. Esther Hawley, P. W. G. P., and Mrs. John Woolver of Dundee; Mrs. Fayette, Mrs. Thomas Catlow, Mrs. Mansfield, Chicago.

The following are the officers installed:

Worthy Matron—Mrs. J. I. Sears. Worthy Patron—Fred Kirschner. A. W. M.—Mrs. Lyman Powers. Treasurer—Mrs. C. H. Kendall. Conductress—Mrs. Robert Purcell. The secretary, Mrs. Carl F. Meyer, having removed from the village, Miss Robie Brockway was appointed to fill the office. The office of Asst. Conductress, held by Mrs. Frank Robertson, removed to Colorado, was awarded to Mrs. F. E. Smith.

At the close of the ceremonies light refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed.

Barrington Y. M. C. A.

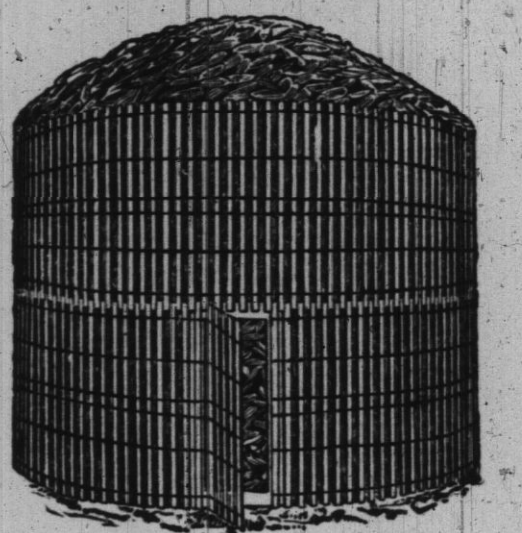

Early last summer, at the request of a number of Barrington young men, Mr. Shumacher, state organizer, came here from Chicago and organized a local branch of the Y. M. C. A. with officers as follows:

President—Albert Gieske. Vice-president—Frank Dohmeyer. Secretary—Elmer Peckham. Treasurer—M. B. McIntosh.

From a somewhat unostentatious beginning the organization has grown to a present membership of 42. The south room over Grunau's barber shop was rented with a view of occupying the north room also at a later date. The room now occupied is neatly furnished, provided with electric lights and other conveniences, for the use of the young men of the village who wish to enjoy a pleasant and profitable evening. The outlook is bright for a much larger membership. The object is a worthy one and should receive the hearty support of our citizens.
