

PALATINE HAPPENINGS.

Events Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Board meeting Monday night. Music and magic at the Methodist church tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lincoln are visiting relatives at Langenheim.

John Hirn will sell a car load of cattle on his farm Saturday at 9 o'clock.

The Relief Corps is making big arrangements for their bazaar next Friday night.

The first carload of hard coal came to town the first of the week and was soon disposed of.

The Ladies' Aid society cleared over $40 at their apron and handkerchief bazaar in the Methodist church Friday night. A very good oyster supper was served.

Bert Pierce was home from Cincinnati from Saturday night until Sunday afternoon. He likes his position at Cincinnati very well. Mrs. Pierce will visit him next Saturday.

Palatine won the last game of the season by defeating the Bankers' Athletic club of Chicago by a score of 17 to 6. Palatine won by swift work through the opponent's line.

Mr. Popp and son were both seriously injured the first of the week. The boy fell from a corn shredder and was badly hurt. His father started for a doctor and fell off his horse and broke his arm.

The young people held a dance in Woodmen hall Wednesday night, which was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all present. The Schroeder-Bergman orchestra rendered first-class music.

The Palatine Athletic club gave a ladies' prize clinic party on Tuesday night and the club rooms were well filled with the members and their lady friends. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

C. E. Julian went to Elgin Wednesday to see his sister, who has been suffering for several weeks from a swollen limb and the doctors decided that the leg must be amputated to save her life. Mrs. Julian has been in Elgin the past two weeks nursing the invalid.

Columbia District Court, No. 405, Court of Honor, initiated two new members last Saturday night. The new drill team did the work and it was a pretty ceremony that was gone through with. After the work a nice luncheon was served by Mrs. Bergman. About forty members were present.

The Palatine Republican club elected the following officers last Tuesday night: A. G. Sutherland, president; C. D. Taylor, 1st vice-pres.; R. Moser, 2nd vice-pres.; A. G. Smith, secretary; I. O. Clay, treasurer; central committee, E. Beutler sr., Wm. Harz, Herman Dieker, C. W. Ost, Chas. B. Morris, H. C. Matthei, James Freeman, Wm. Wilson, H. P. K. Bicknase, Conrad Schroeder, A. R. Baldwin, H. F. Anderman, Henry Sinnet, Henry Engelking, G. H. Arps, H. Bruhns.

662,180 Woodmen.

Head Clerk Hawes, of the Modern Woodmen at Rock Island, has issued the membership statement for November, this being the first issue since September, as no assessment was levied in October. The circular shows that the total of the membership in good standing August 31 was 659,109, who carried insurance to the amount of $1,154,313,500. The total number in good standing October 31 was 662,180, with certificates outstanding, adoptions not reported to the head office numbering 5,500. While the growth of the society is not as rapid as in the past, it is slowly but surely nearing the million mark.

Palatine Wins Again.

Palatine defeated a picked team gotten up by the Irving Park Athletic team on the local gridiron last Saturday by a score of 12 to 10. It was the closest contest ever seen on the old field and a big crowd of spectators cheered Palatine to victory. Irving Park got the first touchdown by a fumble, recovered by one of their own side who carried it over for a score. Palatine sent Sutherland through the line for its first score and R. Smith kicked goal. The visitors scored again by end runs and line bucking and Palatine scored again by hard work on the same tactics. In the last eight minutes of play Palatine took a wonderful brace and by tricks and end runs made long gains. They were within fifteen yards of another score when the game ended.

Don't Miss It.

The W. R. C. will give a Country Fair and Penny Mite Social in Batterman's hall, Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 5. There will be a fancy doll Colonial, Japanese booth, tea and coffee room, fortune teller and a rummage sale will take place. You can have your shoes shined, find out your height and weight. Now this is your chance to secure articles for Christmas presents. Remember the date—December 5, at Batterman's hall. Admission 10c for one and 25c for two.

BETTER MILK HANDLING.

Better Cows First Requirement and Then Perfect Cleanliness.

The efforts made by science to eliminate the bacteria from milk so that it could keep longer and be supplied to consumers in as pure a form as possible, all tend toward helping the dairyman in his work and making a better living. Our best creameries are now producing better butter because of the care in handling the milk, and our dairymen are realizing more for their product which is thus scientifically handled than was ever the case when careless methods were in vogue. Every farmer has before him the problem of producing milk of high quality which will keep, and milk which has the proper proportions of butter fat, casein, albumen and water, says a writer in the American Cultivator.

Better cows are the first requirement to improve the quality of the milk, and then handling the milk in a scientific manner is necessary. This is to be interpreted in other words as "cleanliness." Every effort must be made to keep the cows clean, and to house them in good, sanitary barns. All milking utensils must be sterilized. Germs of decay which sour the milk are to be found in unclean utensils and in the air and water of the stable.

The milk pail should have a strainer over the top, made of several thicknesses of cheesecloth, and then as the milk is obtained all foreign matter will be separated from it. The milk should be cooled immediately after milking, but it must be understood that this merely checks the growth of bacteria, and does not destroy them. If later the temperature of the milk is raised the germs will begin to multiply rapidly.

A freight train on the Wisconsin Central was derailed at the railroad crossing at Des Plaines early this (Friday) morning. Nine cars were derailed and the engine turned over on its side, delaying traffic for several hours. It is reported that the engineer was asleep. The fireman is not expected to live. The engineer received bruises about the head and face, but will recover.

BARRINGTON MUST PAY

The Property Damage Claim of A. W. Meyer and Mrs. Parker.

The Judgment and Costs Bring the Total to the Neat Sum of $1600.

The village of Barrington will have to pay the Meyer-Parker claim for damages and a bill of costs. That was the decision of the Appellate court.

This may be an item of news to some of our people but not to those who have kept watch of the case and taken interest enough in the matter to look up decisions of the Appellate and Supreme courts in cases of like character.

When the village trustees began a determined fight against the payment of damages claimed, it was predicted that in the end the plaintiffs would win for the simple reason that their demand was just. From the foundation of the earth the law has held that no individual nor corporation was justified in damaging property without being held accountable for such damage. But the trustees scoffed at this interpretation of the law, and although defeated by the decision of Judge Donnelly, continued to fight the case and pile costs upon the $1200 judgment, taking it to the Appellate court.

When the trustees were considering the question of an appeal many tax payers said "settle and save further costs." The Review attempted to shed light on the matter by citing decisions in cases of like character. The opinion of Justice Magruder of the Supreme court, which we now republish, ought to have proved a pointer for the trustees. It was as follows:

"A substantial damaging of property for public purpose is a taking of such property for public purpose, and under our state constitution a state cannot take private property for public use except upon condition of rendering just compensation. What a state cannot do a municipal corporation created by the state cannot do. If my property is taken or damaged by municipal action it is a mere mockery to tell me with owl-like gravity that it is done in the exercise of the municipal power. It does the taking or damaging of property without due process of law within the prohibition of the fourteenth amendment. When the municipal power is exercised by taking, destroying or damaging private property those who are benefited by the exercise of that power ought to pay damages to the citizen who suffers."

Not satisfied with the decision of Judge Donnelly the village board, by unanimous vote, passed a resolution instructing Village Attorney Robertson to prepare an appeal. The case was heard at Ottawa last summer and the finding of the lower court sustained in every point. Again was the board advised by citizens who pay the taxes; by the president of that body and by this paper, to stop the matter and settle the claim. But the disposition to battle in a lost cause was still prominent in the board and again they voted and instructed Acting Attorney Redmond to take the case to the Supreme court. He made an attempt to carry the case forward but as predicted, was unsuccessful for the court refusing to entertain his motion and issue a certificate for the reason there was not enough involved and the decision of the circuit court was good law.

Perhaps now the village trustees can see the folly of their position. At the start the damage to the properties of Mr. Meyer and Mrs. Parker could have been settled for a small amount. Now in addition to the $1200 judgment a bill of costs, nearly $400, has been tacked on.

The trustees danced and the village pays the fiddler. It is always best to let well enough alone.

Lorimer in Control.

A Chicago legislator said Tuesday that Lorimer was beginning to pull the strings a little tighter in Cook county on the speakership fight. "It will come pretty soon that when a man opposes Lorimer he will be read out of the republican party," he said. "I am willing to be read out on that basis. No man can tell me how to vote on that proposition. The legislative part of this government is just as important as the executive or judicial and I resent any interference with my duties as a legislator by any man or clique, as any judge on the bench has a similar right to do when any one attempts to dictate to him."

"The speakership fight is rapidly approaching a crisis," said another Cook county man. "When the forced alignment comes the state administration will say to Congressman Hopkins: 'We have stood by you as long as we are bound to do. Pull your men from the Sherman forces and help us organize and we win; otherwise you don't.'" The intensity and warmth of the fight are increasing daily and unless the prediction of the state men is true that the fight will be practically over in a week then the battle over the organization of the legislature is likely to be the bitterest in recent years. The independents are watching the trend of events carefully and unless the state of Sherman forces show unexpected strength soon new faces may appear under the calcium for the several offices at the disposal of the legislature.

Consumer Pays the Freight.

Close on the heels of the 10 per cent advance in railroad wages an advance of freight rates all over the country is in contemplation—sufficient to cover the increase in wages twice over. The general mass of consumers are, it seems, to "pay the freight" for everybody. They are now paying $1 per ton more for coal than last year—before it is ever decided whether coal miners' wages shall be advanced at all. They are to pay twice as much in freight rates as will cover the 10 per cent rise in railroad wages. And the general mass of consumers include the wage-earners, who will feel the further rise in the cost of living more quickly than any other class.

CONGRESS WILL DO LITTLE.

Tariff Reform to be Ignored—No Anti-Trust Legislation.

As the leaders in congress assemble in Washington it is becoming more and more apparent that there is no disposition on their part to interfere with the Dingley tariff act. They will not only let it alone during the forthcoming session, but throughout the life of the fifty-eighth congress. They talk in a mincing manner about trusts and the desirability of enacting amendments to the Sherman act that will increase the power of the government in dealing with industrial combinations, but are not sure that they can accomplish anything along this line during the short space of life left to the fifty-seventh congress. One legislator, who has served more than a quarter of a century in the house, explained how trust legislation may be enacted, as follows:

"If we do not encounter difficulties, if there are no fights in the committees or in either house we will get some sort of a trust bill through. If there is a fight, however, I don't see how we can succeed."

In other words, if the majority party in congress is of one mind as to the character and scope of the amendment that will be reported from the committees on judiciary they will pass; otherwise they are likely to fail for lack of time. In view of the fact that it is expected that upward of 200 anti-trust bills will be introduced in the senate and house during the first days of the forth-coming session, and the author of each of these bills believes that he has presented the best solution of the problem, it is not difficult to foresee that there will be a great deal of dissatisfaction with the final conclusions of the committee on judiciary.

Some of the president's friends profess to believe that an anti-trust bill of Attorney General Knox's ideas will be passed before the session closes. This belief is not shared by leading republican members of congress. They have no doubt that the house will act as promptly as it can under its rules, but are in grave doubts as to what the senate will do. They recall that the senate was given an opportunity to pass an anti-trust bill which previously had passed the house two years ago and failed to take advantage of it. The bill was reported from Senator Hoar's committee, but never received a hearing upon the floor. It is believed that the same powerful influences that strangled that measure will do as much for the president's bill next winter.

Arriving senators and representatives are confident in predicting that even if trust and tariff legislation fail there will be no extra session of the fifty-eighth congress. They are sure that the president will not call that body into session before the time for its regular meeting one year from December.

Farm For Sale at Auction.

The John Schoppe farm containing 97½ acres of land situated in the town of Palatine, three miles east of Barrington, will be sold at public auction for cash, on the premises, Saturday, December 13, 1902, at 11 o'clock a.m. sharp. The property will be sold free of all incumbrances, and abstract furnished.

CATTLE KINGS IN PRETTY MESS

Widows of Soldiers Are Paid to Make False Entries of Homesteads.

INDUCE THEM TO SIGN PAPERS

Agents Secure Signatures to Documents Claiming Actual Residence on Lands, Knowing That They Are Fraudulent—Many Caught in Trap.

The United States grand jury in session at Omaha is likely to indict hundreds of soldiers' widows for perjury in connection with the wholesale stealing of government lands by cattlemen. It is the old story of the cattle baron of the West and his efforts to keep out the small cattle raiser and the settler, who comes West with the purpose of "homesteading" a farm for himself.

Scheme of Cattle Kings.
A new tack has been taken by these cattle kings. Instead of the usual way of running a long line of wire fences across the government domain, they have hit upon the plan of inducing the widows of Union soldiers to take up homesteads and sell their claims to the cattle raisers. It sounded all right, but when it is taken into consideration that in order to make a filing on public lands it becomes necessary to make oath that such lands are for the exclusive use of the applicant, it then became necessary for the applicant to commit perjury to make the filing.

Far-Reaching Frauds.
Soldiers' widows were selected to take up the claims because of the clause in the United States laws which permits them to make the necessary entries without living on the property. Now, these widows are being taken before the United States grand jury to tell what they know of the matter. And also the land agents, cattlemen, and others are being summoned to appear before the same tribunal. The magnitude of these frauds can scarcely be estimated.

Many Illegal Entries.
On Nov. 18, 1902, forty-three widows made entry at the Rushville (Neb.) land office. There are five land offices in Nebraska where entries may be made. While every one of these entries is not illegal, yet the vast majority of them are. The frauds have been in operation for eighteen months, and it is said that during the first fifteen days of November alone fully 500 fraudulent entries were made in Nebraska.

Prey on Women.
The modus operandi is the same in all cases. After the widow of a Union soldier is found, she is approached with an offer from a "land syndicate" to go to Nebraska, make an entry at a land office, sign several papers, receive $75 and all expenses, and return to her home. At the end of five years she is to receive another $75 and to deed the property to the syndicate.

SEEK TO RECOVER GREAT FORTUNE

Minor Stockholders of Central Pacific Sue for Vast Sum.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL CONTRACTS

Demand $100,000,000 From the Estate of Collis P. Huntington, Which They Claim Was Diverted by Means of Construction Companies.

More than $100,000,000 is demanded from the estate of Collis P. Huntington and the men who were his partners in the early days of the Central Pacific railroad in a suit brought in behalf of the remaining minor stockholders of the Central Pacific Railroad company of California through Robert Cutting. In his suit are charges of collusion, exaggeration of expenses and fraud on the part of Mr. Huntington, Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins.

Alleged Shrewd Work.
It is charged that these four men so manipulated the finances and construction of the Central Pacific, now a part of the Southern Pacific system, that out of $163,000,000 expended in building and equipping the road more than $100,000,000 found its way into their own pockets.

The present stage of the litigation is directed against the estate of Collis P. Huntington, in the $70,000,000 of which, it is alleged, are many millions which rightfully belong to the old stockholders. The executors have ordered to show cause Dec. 2 before Surrogate Fitzgerald at New York why they should not give an accounting of the funds of the estate.

Seeks to Recover Profit.
Another suit has been filed in the Supreme court for the recovery of the $100,000,000 of alleged illegitimate profit made in the construction of the railroad. Walter Morehead, an English barrister, now a resident of this country, is one of the complainants in both actions.

Maxwell Evarts, attorney for the Southern Pacific and for the Huntington estate, and Charles H. Tweed, head of the executors, both declined to make any answer to the charges. Those charges are in effect that the "big four" conspired to defraud the minor stockholders for their own profit. It is alleged that they organized construction and contracting companies, to which valuable concessions were given at exorbitant rates.

Serious Allegations.
It is further charged that "through agents, dummies and accomplices, Huntington and his associates delivered to themselves the whole or greater part of $30,000,000 of United States bonds, and of the bonds and capital stock of the Central Pacific Railroad company to the total value of $163,000,000 in pretended payment to the companies aforesaid."

Mr. Cutting quotes from the report of the United States commission appointed to investigate similar charges made by stockholders in 1884, as follows:

"It is clearly established that these four men were at all times equally interested in the results of these construction and other contracts, and that whether the formal relations of partners existed between them or not it was understood and agreed between them that they should share equally in all the profits of the enterprise."

HALF MILLION FIRE AT ASHLAND

Two Men Lose Their Lives in Burning of Ore Docks.

Ashland, Wis., dispatch: The Wisconsin Central ore docks burned here, causing a loss of two lives and about $500,000 in property. Twenty persons, including firemen and business men, who aided in fighting the flames, were injured. The loss is covered by insurance. The fire broke out in the Central ore docks and spread rapidly. About thirty workmen who were on the dock when the fire started were cut off from land. They made for the outer end of the dock and were nearly overtaken by the flames when a tug went to their relief.

DIPLOMAT'S SON USES A REVOLVER

Godfrey Hunter, Jr., Slays a Former Resident of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

TAKES PLACE IN GUATEMALA

Mob Surrounds United States Legation and Demands the Life of the "Gringo"—Story of the Events That Precede the Killing.

Washington, D. C., special: United States Consul McNally has telegraphed the State Department that Godfrey Hunter, Jr., son of Dr. Godfrey Hunter of Kentucky, United States minister to Guatemala, shot and killed an American named Fitzpatrick, who formerly lived at Grand Rapids, Mich. After firing four shots young Hunter took refuge in the United States legation at Guatemala City, where, by virtue of the fact that he is a minor diplomatic attache and a member of the minister's family, he is immune from arrest, although the legation was immediately after the shooting surrounded by a mob of citizens shouting for the life of the "gringo." Before turning Hunter over to the Guatemala authorities or taking any other action the department is making an investigation to ascertain the facts.

Events Preceding Killing.
The killing is the climax of a series of more or less turbulent events at the legation in Guatemala City ever since Dr. Hunter, ex-representative in Congress, former politician and man of affairs in Kentucky, became the diplomatic representative of the United States there. Less than a week ago the State Department announced that the doctor had resigned his post with its salary of $10,000 because of attacks waged against him by political enemies in the United States and enemies in Guatemala. So bitter had been this feeling that Dr. Hunter's friends have been apprehensive for his safety. He engaged in railroad speculation in Guatemala. This was one charge brought against him, with the statement that he used the legation as an office in which to pay off his employees.

Big Board Bill.
It was alleged that after Mme. Barrios, wife of the deposed president of Guatemala, had sought shelter from revolutionists under the roof of the United States legation, Dr. Hunter presented her with a bill of $2,500 for board. The State Department sifted all the charges. Enemies of Dr. Hunter assert that he was far more loyal to Guatemala than to the United States.

Young Hunter had many enemies in Guatemala, and several months ago it was reported that he had been compelled to leave the country as a result of trouble with a woman. It was expected he would return home with his father when he relinquished his post. He was employed in the legation as a copyist, which probably was his salvation in this trouble, for otherwise he might have instantly been arrested. The actions of the government in this emergency are reported to be thoroughly displeasing to the populace, which may in consequence throw off all restraint.

Charged With Being a Spy.
Fitzgerald is said to have been a spy in the service of Guatemala. An American named Richards, who was deported from Guatemala two years ago after having been imprisoned, brought charges of neglect of official duty against Minister Hunter. He made a written statement that Fitzgerald and another American, Pennypacker, were employed by the government to spy on Americans and learn their business, and that Fitzgerald was responsible for several Americans being deported from Guatemala, as was Richards himself. Richards declared that when he was deported Fitzgerald followed him to New Orleans and dogged his movements for a long time in an endeavor to learn what steps Richards contemplated taking for securing justice. Fitzgerald was a member of the filibustering expedition against Honduras, which was made up of rough riders from Missouri and which went to pieces when the federal authorities seized its arms in New Orleans. This expedition had for its object the unseating of President Sierra of Honduras and the elevation of Gen. Vasquez.

HOLD UP TRAIN IN DAVENPORT

Express Car Is Blown to Pieces With Dynamite and Gang Loots Safe.

COVER ENGINEMEN WITH GUNS

Three Robbers Climb Into Cab and Hold Crew at Bay With Revolvers While Their Companions Help Themselves to the Plunder.

Davenport, Ia., dispatch: The fast Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train No. 11 was held up two miles west of Davenport by a gang composed of from twelve to fifteen men.

The express car was blown to pieces with dynamite, and the gang, after securing the contents of the express safes, fled.

The train was stopped as it was slowing up for a crossing inside the city limits, within a mile and a half of the center of the city.

The robbers swung a red lantern at the crossing, causing the engineer to stop entirely instead of going on.

Display Revolvers.
Three men suddenly sprang into the cab, two of them coming over the tender and showing revolvers into the faces of the engineer and firemen.

As soon as the train came to a standstill part of the robbers stood guard over the passenger coaches, preventing any interference, while the rest forced the engineer to start on.

They cut off the express car and hauled it nearly two miles down the track, and then ran it on the side track at Dale station.

Use Dynamite.
The trainmen were held at the point of revolvers while two men blew open the express car with dynamite and proceeded to wreck the safes.

The two explosions that wrecked the car were heard all over Davenport, but it was a long time before the cause was known.

It was at first thought some of the trainmen had been killed, but no one was injured.

Secure Much Booty.
How much was secured is not known, but it is known that the company was carrying a large amount.

Train No. 11 is the through train that left Chicago at 6:05 p. m. It is split in this city, part being sent on to Kansas City over that division of the Rock Island road. The train was due in Kansas City at 9:30 a. m.

The train is the Colorado Springs express, consisting of a combination baggage and express car, two day coaches, two chair cars and two sleeping cars, which run through to Denver.

The train reached Davenport late and was in this city nearly half an hour, being made up, and it left this city on time at 11:43.

Dispatcher Sounds Alarm.
No notice of the holdup was received in this city until the train dispatcher failed to locate the train at a junction where it is always reported. He sent out messages asking about it. Within a few minutes word was received from a telegraph station near the scene of the holdup giving notice that the robbery had been accomplished. Within a short time the train crew, who had fled from the coaches, ran up to the station and reported.

Police on the Trail.
The police of this city were notified at once and a big squad was rushed to the scene at once on a special engine. They are now following the trail of the robbers.

It is believed the robbers, after committing the crime and securing the booty, at once returned to this city.

The entire police force of the city is at work on the case.

PIGEON FANCIER SHOTS A BOY

Bullet From His Rifle Kills Bird and Ends Life of Lad.

New York special: August Lauber, 7 years old, was killed near his home in Brooklyn by Peter Bumhoff, a pigeon fancier. Lauber, with some playmates, was on the roof of a barn reading, when Bumhoff discovered a "coaxer" among his pigeons. Procuring a rifle he fired at the strange bird, which was endeavoring to lead away his pets. The rifle ball passed through the pigeon and sped on to the adjoining building, where the children were poring over their studies in the open air, unknown to the man who fired the shot. Lauber was sitting near the edge of the roof. The bullet struck and killed him instantly, his body falling to the street twenty-five feet below. Bumhoff was horrified at the result of his marksmanship. He was arrested on a charge of homicide.

TERRIFIC RAINFALL IN TEXAS

Rice Fields and Oil Region Sustain Losses From Storm.

Beaumont, Tex., special: This section of the state experienced a terrific rainfall. The rain began at 1 o'clock in the morning and continued steadily until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when there was a depth of three feet of water in some of the business streets. The stocks of many merchants were ruined and the losses will amount to many thousands of dollars. In the oil field the damage will amount probably to $20,000. At Raywood 300 feet of the Southern Pacific track was washed out.

The Klondyke Gold Mystery.

CHAPTER XII.

"D'ye know him?" Kate asked.

"Yes, I have seen him."

"Ye know no good o' him, I be bound, and I'm one as is not slow in expressin' my mind about such cattle."

"Don't, Kate, I beseech you."

All the while the marble white face of Theodore was unmoved.

"Is this your hand-bag, Laura?" he asked, picking up the pretty, white bag where the porter had left it.

"Yes."

"Let me carry it to the hotel for you. This good woman will assist you. Come, there is but one hotel in the place, and there is no missing it. It is a long way from the landing, with no cable line."

In a maze the unfortunate Laura was led from the landing back toward the hotel. She had left home, hoping to be rid of her persecutor, and found him waiting at the landing for her. She longed to know, and yet dreaded to ask him why he had come to Alaska. Her heart told her he was on his way to the Klondyke, and she felt a strange dread of him.

On reaching the hotel, which was a miserable affair made of boards and but roughly finished, she ordered a room and was taken to it. Kate was assigned a miserable little apartment near the kitchen, where she could smell the beef roasting and hear the cooks quarreling.

Laura had not been long in her apartment when there came a tap at her door, and a boy with tangled, red hair entered and said:

"Ef yer please, mum, thar's a feller downstairs who gin me this keard fer ye, an' says he'd like ter chin yea a bit."

Laura took the small, neat card from the dirty hand of the boy and, glancing at it, read the name of Theodore Lackland. Should she see him? She knew the interview must come. In fact she wished for it on her own account, so why not have it at once, understand each other and have it over with?

She told the boy that she would see the stranger at once, and he bowed his red head and retired from the apartment. She nervously prepared for the coming interview.

There came a light rap at the door.

"Come in," she said.

The door opened and Theodore Lackland entered the apartment. There was an insidious smile on his face, as he said:

"You did not expect to meet me, did you?"

"Certainly did not," she answered, her eyes growing round with astonishment.

"I hope my appearance did not cause any unpleasant shock to your nerves, and now that it is over I trust you will be glad to have a friend in this strange, wild land."

There was a short pause, after which he went on:

"I will be frank with you, Miss Kean. I came that I might be near you."

"I am capable of taking care of myself," she answered.

"But while I concede all that, I reasoned that you were coming to a land beset by many dangers, and could not feel comfortable in the thought that you were alone. I had leisure and means, and consequently why not devote them to your service? Oh, Laura," and he drew his chair a little nearer to her. "I know you spurn me. I know you believe me to be a deceitful hypocrite, but I am not so bad as you think. I am your friend—your best friend if you will only permit me—"

"I cannot."

"You have mistaken me all along."

"Perhaps at times I have, but I know you now."

"Laura, will you listen to me a moment—just one moment?"

"Yes, I will have to do so, as I have no other choice."

His voice regained its calmness, but his manner was still agitated.

"I may serve you even yet," he said. "I have done you much wrong—I know that—and him, too. I did you and him a wrong, knowing I would repeat it to the last hour of my life, but I was driven to it; I had no power to resist it—I mastered me then; it masters me now."

Theodore had risen and took a step nearer.

"Laura," he said, and his voice fell to a broken whisper, "I love you so I can see you the wife of another if he can make you more happy than I. Do you believe there can be an unselfish love? I know it, and I swear that if you can be more happy as the wife of Paul Miller, then I will go with you all over the world to find Paul Miller, and if he be living will find him and give him to you."

His words had produced a profound effect on Laura, and she could only gaze on him in wonder. Overwhelmed by the ardent manner of the man, she was speechless and dumbfounded. When she could regain her voice she said:

"Heaven forgive me, Mr. Lackland, if I have done you injustice."

"I freely forgive you. It is so difficult for us to understand each other that we are continually blundering and making mistakes. But now that my motives are plain, now that you see how unselfish I am, I hope you will trust me implicitly. You may think you have money sufficient to push this search and may be mistaken; all I ask of you is that you allow me to furnish the funds you need. You shall not lack means to find Paul."

The man watched with anxious eyes the face of the girl to read the impression his great generosity would make.

It was favorable, and his delight at the discovery was almost diabolical.

"Thank you, Laura. You have made me supremely happy by accepting my favor. I will endeavor to find Paul for you. We will go together, and do all that can be done to find him."

He bowed and went out. She bowed her face in her hands and wept.

"My heart misgives me," she sobbed. "He talks fair and seems honest, but something within keeps saying: 'Trust him not!'"

Ben Holton, who had remained behind to look after her heavier luggage, arrived at the hotel, and went to consult with his mistress about some missing packages. On his way to her room he met Lackland, and was much astounded to see a man whom he thought in Fresno that he was half inclined to think himself mistaken.

"I say, Miss Laura, was a feller in here a minit ago?" he asked.

"Yes."

"He looked just like Lackland."

"It was Lackland."

"Well, Miss Laura, I jist be dodgasted if he's here for any good. He's after grub stakes, ye kin depend on et. Look out for him."

She then told her faithful employe the proposition he had made, and old Ben listened carefully to her, and at the conclusion said:

"I'll bet my head for a football that it's a salted mine he's a-plantin'. Don't ye bite at his bait, Miss Laura; don't ye bite."

Laura was more distressed after the departure of Ben Holton than before. She began to realize how utterly helpless she was.

There was quite a change in the expression on Lackland's face after he left Laura's room. All the benevolence and unselfish concern for the girl's welfare gave way to a look of selfishness, and he chuckled in triumph.

"I will have her yet. She will be wholly in my power. A few weeks more, another turn of the cards and the game is mine."

At a low groggery in the town he found his two employes, Ben Allen and Horsa Cummins.

"Well, how are you faring?" asked Lackland.

"Dry!" growled Cummins.

"Come, Cummins, you remember the obligation imposed on you when you were employed—you were not to drink."

"Yes, but that makes me dry," said Cummins, with a wink.

"Now, you have both been here before, have you not?"

"Yes."

"Do you know where to procure good outfits?"

"Right here is the best place in Alaska," declared Cummins.

"How much will a first-class outfit cost?"

Cummins reflected a moment and said:

"Well, I think it will take about two thousand dollars."

Without returning a word his employer counted out the money and told him to go and procure it at once.

Cummins and Davis set out, and next morning reported that all had been secured.

"It is well," declared the shrewd Mr. Lackland. "Be prepared to go whenever I give the word."

"We'll be ready."

When his hirelings had gone Lackland went to the hotel and sent up his card to Miss Laura Kean. She admitted him, and he asked:

"Miss Kean, when are you going to cross the pass and start for the Klondyke?"

"As soon as I can. I want to go with the first train."

"There are some gentlemen ready to start in the morning."

"Then I can get ready. I will go with them," she declared.

"Would you like my services in securing you an outfit?"

"Yes, yes; if you can, secure me an outfit at once."

"I'll do so. I would as soon start myself to-morrow as any other time. You will want Indian porters for your luggage and a sled and dogs for yourself. Have Ben Holton pack up all your effects and be ready," and he left.

Ben Holton was only a stupid fellow, but he declared he did not like the arrangements at all, and smelled a greathouse mouse somewhere. Nevertheless, Ben went to work packing up the goods and preparing for the journey.

Laura took her place on the sled, and the Esquimaux with big snow shoes came to strap her in and draw the robes and furs over her.

"Are you strapped in securely?" Lackland asked Laura.

"Yes."

"Do you think you will be comfortable?"

"I know I shall."

They were soon in the midst of a driving snowstorm, and Kate Willis declared that she "just knew that child would freeze."

They halted before reaching the summit and camped. Tents had been brought and every precaution was taken to provide for the comfort of Laura Kean. She and Kate were housed in a tent warmed by a gasoline stove, which made it quite comfortable.

Next day they resumed their march, crossed the summit and began the descent.

Lackland was often seen talking with one of the Indians, who spoke English fairly well, and was a big, burly, villainous-looking fellow. One day two men came to their camp. They held long and earnest conferences, and when they went away that night the man named Ben Allen went with them. It is perhaps needless to inform the reader that the two men were Morris and Ned Padgett, who brought the information that Paul and the old hermit were prisoners in the cavern.

"It is lucky I learned of his capture," thought Lackland. "Curse him, why isn't he dead? For over a year he has been lost in the forest and thought to be dead; now, why isn't he dead?"

Lackland little dreamed that the very tools he was using were willing to betray him if they could make more out of it, and that they were trying by bribes and threats to extort from the prisoners in the cavern the secret of the cached treasure.

After Ben left the party to fulfil his orders they camped three weeks in the valley.

Laura inquired why they delayed so long, but Lackland had abundant excuses, and assured her they would go on before winter set in in earnest. Already lowering clouds had hung over the valley and covered it with snow.

They broke camp and were moving slowly toward the Yukon, when a dog was discovered coming toward them. Beyond a doubt it was the property of some of the Klondykers. Horsa Cummins discovered a strip of tanned skin about its neck and called the attention of Lackland to it.

He quickly removed it and read:

"We are in the forest out of food and starving. Follow on the trail at once and find us. Paul Miller and Companion."

The bit of tanned skin dropped from the trembling hand of Theodore Lackland. He pressed his hand to his forehead and groaned.

"What is it, boss?" asked Cummins.

"Go into camp. We must start at once to find some men who are starving."

When they went into camp, after taking care to see that Laura was made comfortable, he took one man and three Indians and started on the back trail made by the dog. All the while he was thinking:

"Paul Miller and one companion. Who can that companion be?"

CHAPTER XIII.

Clarence Berry and the Metlakhtlans.

Clarence Berry and his brave little wife Ethel continued to heap up their golden treasure day by day, but they had not forgotten their unfortunate friend, Paul Miller. One evening, as they sat in their shanty, before the great, blazing fire, they received the usual visitors, Long Dick and Gid Myers.

"Say, ef ye want t' see d' worst old gecesers ye ever clapped yer lamps upon, ye want t' go down d' camp," began Dick.

"Dun know, but it looks mighty t'me like it was some starved-out Egyptian mummies az had been resurrected from de pyramids."

"Where are they from?"

"Metlakhtla."

"Where is that?"

"An island far away across the mountains."

Clarence opened his book again, and, casting a casual glance over the pages, remarked that he did not see what they had to do with the peace of the miners of the Klondyke. Gid was about to speak when his friend began:

"That's where yer off yer trolley, Clarence. They come without recommendation, but they spin mighty strange yarns, and old Glum he put this thing and that thing together and say they got some information."

OUR SOIL RICH IN GEMS.

Where American Precious Stones Have Been Found by Miners.

The report of the geological survey, just compiled for 1901, shows that during that year there were mined in the United States precious stones to the value of about $300,000. When talking about rare and beautiful gems one's thoughts naturally revert to South Africa or the orient or the mountains of Asia or Europe, or perhaps to South America, but one is not likely to think of our own land yielding them; but the fact is, that no insignificant value in gems is taken from the soil right here at home. The report of the geological survey shows that during that year we mined in the United States precious stones to the value of about $300,000.

Diamonds represent only $100 of this amount, but the fact that they are found at all gives encouragement to the hope that paying fields of them may some time be found. Last year one diamond was found in Lee county, Georgia, where diamonds were not before known to exist. New Mexico furnished $118,000 in turquoises, and these have been placed on the market. Montana gave us $90,000 in sapphires, which come next. They come from Fergus county. Granite country is now being explored for fancy colored sapphires, that give evidence of being there in paying quantities. Fine and extensive rhodolite garnet deposits are found in Macon county, North Carolina. Many dark green, blue and yellow beryls, as well as amethysts and emeralds, were found in that state. There is hardly a state of the Union in which there is not some trace of precious stones and it appears not at all unlikely that before many years we may be competing with the old world in furnishing gems.

IS HURT BY FREIGHT ELEVATOR

Clerk Has Jaw Broken and Is Cut and Bruised.

Edward D. Cressey, a clerk in the hardware establishment of J. L. Hudson at Springfield, was dangerously injured by the freight elevator in the store. His jaw was broken in two places and he was badly cut and bruised about the head. Mr. Cressey was on the second floor when someone called to him from below, and looked down the elevator shaft just as the machine began to ascend. He was caught between the descending counter-weight and the safety bar. The fact that he bar was partially fractured and gave way easily saved the man's life.

New Levee Near Alton.

Civil engineers are at work surveying for a levee which is to be built this winter in the bottoms between Alton and St. Louis to protect several hundred acres of fertile land from devastation by or from the annual overflows of Cahokia creek. The starting point of the levee will be near Peter's station on the Illinois Central, and will extend northward clear through the lands of the Seiter farm, a distance of about seven miles. It will be built back about 100 feet from the banks of the creek, and will be made high and wide, so as to insure durability.

Home for Children.

The children's home was formally opened at Cairo and received its first charges. The home is a bright, cheerful building and is under the efficient management of Miss Mamie Dickey as matron. NATIONAL AMISH CONVENTION

Sessions Held at Pekin.

The national apostolic convention of the New Amish church held its sessions at Pekin. There were 900 delegates present from various parts of the United States, Germany, France and Canada. The sessions were conducted with the greatest secrecy, none being admitted to the church except those who were known to be members. Those of the New Amish faith are bitterly opposed to publicity of their proceedings in church or convention, and also comments upon their peculiar religious beliefs. The report is that some of the members were reprimanded for having speculated in land in Missouri and Mississippi, the board of elders arguing that it was simply a form of gambling. Several years ago the church conducted an insurance department on the mutual plan, but during the last year it was dropped. Since then the members have been insuring their buildings in the regular companies. At the convention it was decided to again engage in the fire insurance business on the mutual plan, and all members were instructed to cancel the policies now held by them and insure in the church association. None of the members are permitted to take out life insurance policies.

Jurists' Portraits.

Another lot of portraits of distinguished jurists which are to adorn the walls of the United States courtroom in the government building at Springfield, has been hung. They are from the brush of Frank M. Pebbles of Chicago, and are of Chief Justice Marshall and Justices John M. Harlan and John McLean of the supreme court and Circuit Judge Walter G. Gresham. A portrait of Judge David Davis was also hung to take the place of the one received some time ago which did not come up to the standard set by the committee.

Typhoid Epidemic.

The village of Sherman, eight miles north of Springfield on the Chicago & Alton railroad, is experiencing an epidemic of typhoid fever. Eighteen cases in or very near the village are now under treatment. In one family the disease has been present in one member or another for the past five months. The epidemic is ascribed to the great amount of fresh dirt that has been handled in the vicinity of the village during the wet weather of the past summer.

Park Booms Suburb.

That part of Springfield lying west of Walnut street and south of Lawrence avenue has much the appearance of a boom town in Oklahoma just at present. The opening of Washington park in that quarter of the city has proved a great stimulus to building, and, though a few years ago this neighborhood was considered just a little outside the pale of possibility, it is now becoming one of the prettiest residential quarters.

Throws Beer on Man.

Willie Pitt, a ward of the juvenile court at Springfield, is in trouble again, having assaulted a peaceful citizen of the north part of the city by throwing the contents of a bucket of beer over his person and clothes. Willie is but 14 years of age, and has proven himself a sore trial to the authorities. He will probably be treated as an incorrigible.

Disinherits Son.

The will of the late Mrs. Margaret Tex of Velma has been filed for probate in the county court. She bequeaths $5 to her son, Mathias Tex, and the residue of her property she divides equally among her other four children, Mrs. Maggie Brendley, Joseph Tex, Henry Tex and Mary Tex. Joseph Tex is named as executor of the will. The estate is valued at $30,000.

Boy Cyclist is Hurt.

While riding a bicycle on North Sixth street at Springfield Carl Lenox, son of John Lenox, collided with a carriage and received severe injuries. The cabman was urging his horses at a pretty hard gait and did not halt to ascertain the extent of the damage he had done. Two wheels of the vehicle passed over the boy, one of them inflicting a bad gash in the scalp.

Wins Audubon Prize.

Miss Mildred Dixon, daughter of ex-Mayor Joseph Dixon of North Alton, has won, for the fifth time, the gold honor badge offered by the Illinois Audubon society for the best letter on the subject of birds, and published in the official paper of the society, the Wayside.

Branch Bank Cashiers.

W. R. Borders of the bank of Sparta has appointed the following cashiers for the branch banks which he has established in the county: Evansville, W. A. Campbell; Prairie du Rocher, E. S. Needles; Steelville, P. N. Holm.

Coal-Hoisting Record.

The coal hoisting record for a single day of eight hours was broken at Taylorville by the Christian county coal company's employes. The day's output was thirty-eight cars, or 1,405 tons.

GIVES $2,000 TO THE FRIENDLESS

Springfield Institution.

Philemon Stout of Ball township, Sangamon county, has added to the endowment fund of the Springfield Home for the Friendless the sum of $2,000. The gift was made to Edward D. Keys, treasurer of the home. Mr. Stout was one of the administrators of the estate of the late Thomas Strawbridge, whose munificence laid the foundation for the present sound financial condition of the home, and it was largely due to his management that the Strawbridge fund realized such a handsome sum for the institution. The gift comes just now at a good time, an additional building at the home increasing the fixed expenses.

YOUNGEST ENGINEER ON ROAD

William Sullivan, Aged 22, Has Run on the Northwestern.

William Sullivan of Rockford, aged 22, is the youngest engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, and perhaps the youngest in the country. He passed the examination and is now running a freight engine. Sullivan entered the employ of the railroad as a fireman at the age of 17. He was made one of the firemen on the fast mail run between Chicago and Clinton, Ia. In his examination for promotion Sullivan stood 98. His markings were finished in the afternoon and that night he was sent out on his first run. Engineer Sullivan is the son of Patrick Sullivan, a member of the Rockford police force, who himself was a locomotive engineer at 24.

Missionaries Unite.

A permanent organization of the various church missionary societies in Decatur was effected by the selection of Mrs. A. W. Couldice of Grace church as president, Mrs. S. H. Bowyer of the Baptist church, Mrs. Sue Odor of the church of Christ and Mrs. Daniel File of the Cumberland Presbyterian church vice presidents, Mrs. George W. Battles of the Congregational church secretary, Mrs. Anna E. Murphy of the Presbyterian church treasurer.

Bee Keepers Elect Officers.

At a meeting of the Illinois State Bee Keepers' association held in the state house at Springfield officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Miss L. C. Kennedy, Curran, president; S. N. Black of Clayton, S. F. Crim of Dawson, George P. Poindester of Keno and P. J. England of Fancy Prairie, vice presidents; James A. Stone, R. R. No. 4, Springfield, secretary; Charles Becker of Pleasant Plains, treasurer.

Chance for Factory.

A fund is being raised among the citizens of Carlyle for the purpose of the old public school building. The purpose is to buy the building and hold it in reserve for a donation to some factory. Negotiations are now in progress for the establishment of an overall factory which will give employment to 400 persons. Henry Blanke, one of the leading merchants in the city, is conducting the negotiations.

Death of Intelligent Dog.

The Big Four flyer killed the valuable trained dog belonging to James Chessen, Sr., of Alton, at a crossing near the Chessen home. The dog was well known about Alton and in the past furnished a great deal of amusement for the people generally by its antics and trained performances. The dog could do all but talk.

Old Folks Celebrate.

Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan of Quincy celebrated the 91st anniversary of her birth. All of the guests present were past 70 years of age, and Mrs. Gertrude Clowes, aged 93 years, was the oldest present.

After County Seat.

A strenuous and systematic effort is being made to change the county seat of Piatt county from Monticello to Bement. A mass meeting was held at the Bement town hall at which Joseph Bodman was elected chairman, A. L. Wilkinson secretary and Thomas Lamb, Jr., treasurer.

Band Saw Severs Hand.

Hary Wilkins, an employe of McGrue & Powell's planing mill at Springfield lost a hand in an encounter with a band saw.

 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1902

In another part of this paper will be found an article in which the plans of the next Congress are outlined. It states that no move will be made to reform the tariff or advance any anti-trust legislation. That will surprise no one but the man who was foolish enough to believe in the late campaign tales or promises.

While it is true that Illinois would like to have "Uncle" Joe Cannon for speaker let it not be understood that the farmers are neglecting their corn husking or the workmen are taking a day off each week to devise ways and means to get him there or to worry over his prospects or lack of prospects.

Shall the people or the politicians organize the next session of the Illinois legislature? The spectacle of a handful of politicians holding weekly meetings in Chicago and laying plans to control the legislature and to put forward such legislation as best suits their purposes is nothing less than disgraceful and an insult to the intelligence of the people.

The Waukegan Sun, in an editorial headed "Hands Off, Governor!" says: "The effort of Governor Yates, by aid of his friends, to control the legislative branches of the state, is condemned by all thinking people. Gov. Yates has his entire stock of ability strained to the breaking point in looking after the executive part of this great state's affairs for which he was elected. He will serve the people of the state better by keeping out of the fight to organize the senate and legislature to suit himself and some of his renegade republican friends."

A TRUE STORY.

by L. H. E.
 At the end of a graveled path leading to the bluff, Miss Howell leaned against a tree and asked, "Where in all the world, Lieut., have you seen a more beautiful sight than Lake Michigan in the moonlight?"

For answer came Lieut. Shipman's voice, seemingly near: "Dear girl, I love you. I am to go South to Fort-ress Monroe and want you to be with me. Tell me, will you be my wife? Do you care for me?"

"If you love me as I love you," began the unseen girl.

Miss Howell fairly choked in surprise, then gave a school-girlish giggle and ran up the path. She had recognized the voice of her especial friend, Flora de Costa, and well understood.

Florence was such a flirt!

But Lieut. McKenzie was troubled. Was Shipman in earnest this time or was he following his usual methods of love-making, practiced before at many shrines?

Miss Howell having disappeared, he walked slowly back to the dancing hall—thinking of Shipman and his ways.

Only temporarily farewells were exchanged that night. A week later a party of chaperoned young ladies went down from Waukegan to Sheridan to a farewell hop at the officers' mess.

Miss Howell had been dancing with Capt. Gunigold and was waiting for him at the top of the stairs leading to the dining-room, while he, half-way down, was calling to the popular little Chinaman, sipping punch, to come that way, when she saw the Captain throw himself in front of a man ascending the stairs.

"McKenzie, go back! Heavens! What are you doing?"

A determined look came into the younger officer's eyes.

Capt., it's irregular, but—I—he—well, it's this way. Shipman recently became engaged to Miss de Costa. Orders came for him to start South tomorrow night and he was to see her here this evening, being on duty, he cannot come. I, too, am on duty, but nearer the mess, so come to bring the message to her. Capt. may I fulfill my errand?"

Army rules are rigid. Officers and men on duty are to remain at their posts.

Capt. Gunigold hesitated, shrugged his shoulders and turned to call loudly: "Hurry up—whu—see," whispering, "three minutes."

Miss Howell had heard, and spoke quickly as McKenzie came towards her: "Lieutenant McKinzie, tell Lieutenant Shipman that Miss de Costa was married last night to Mr. Lowe of Chicago. She had been engaged for two years."

For once was an army officer foiled in the game of love-making.

Lieutenant McKenzie, scarcely comprehending, stood in silence and was reminded by the Captain to hurry.

He passed noisily down the steps, gruffly saying, "Thanks, Capt."

(THE END.)

The Management of Wives.

The management of husbands is one of the stock questions of discussion at the women's clubs and congresses, but so far as known it is no nearer solution than it was in the benighted days before women's clubs came to enlighten and delight the world. Men, whether at their clubs or elsewhere, rarely discuss the management of wives. This may be due to the fact that they never manage them or possibly to the further fact that, as no two women are alike, a different method is necessary in each individual case, and therefore no system covering a sufficient number of cases to make a basis for discussion could be devised.

However, an experiment in the management of wives is being tried in one of our new possessions which at least has the merit and virtue of novelty whether or not it brings practical results. Here is the case: One Sugimura, a Japanese, living at Waiakala, in Hawaii, was thoroughly in love with his wife. He was also a lover of truth. The Sugimura household was recently rent with internal dissension, growing out of jealousies and misunderstandings. The husband believed that his spouse had told him untruths. He therefore wrote her a sweet little note, inclosing his little finger, which he had neatly cut off with a meat ax. He told her that she had been guilty of ten lies; that he had ten fingers and would cut one off each day until she promised not to tell falsehoods any more.

The reply of Mrs. Sugimura is not recorded nor the number of fingers sacrificed up to this writing. Husbands who contemplate the adoption of this plan for the management of their wives would perhaps do well to await the receipt of further Hawaiian advice.

Land Speculators and Irrigation.

The somewhat disgusting discovery has been made by Mr. Newell, hydrographer of the United States geological survey, who is in charge of the plans for the inauguration of the irrigation project approved at the last session of congress, that speculators have pre-empted much of the land to be reclaimed. Nine-tenths of it is public domain, and in anticipation of its reclamation by irrigation speculators have hastened to secure it under the homestead law. This will not, of course, exempt them from paying the cost of irrigation, about $10 an acre, in ten annual payments, but it will enable them to hold the property and dispose of it at a round profit, thanks to the government's improvement.

Mr. Newell sees no way at present to prevent this exploitation of a national improvement for private gain, but hopes that the clause permitting the secretary of the interior to fix the size of homesteads in the reclaimed district at forty, sixty, eighty or 100 acres may compel these speculators to disgorge much of their holdings acquired under the 160 acre homestead allotment.

While the government will not lose anything by this flood of speculators, the beneficent purpose of the law is likely to be seriously interfered with. Many prospective settlers will be unable to secure the benefits without submitting to the squeezing process at the hands of the speculators. The matter is one to which the coming congress should give early attention.

The fact may not be generally known that Uncle Sam is in the chrysanthemum business and that his exhibits in this line are something altogether gorgeous and almost unique. The chrysanthemum show which the secretary of agriculture has been giving in Washington has even excited the envy and admiration of the Japanese colony there, who allow that they never saw anything more beautiful at home. The specimens which have been grown under the direction of the agricultural department's experts rival the rarest of their kind in the world. Whether or not the raising of chrysanthemums is of any practical value to the science of agriculture, it is gratifying to know that the department is producing the best in the market.

The $15,000 verdict against a New York musical magazine for having described a reputable composer and orchestra leader as a plagiarist whose repertory is stone dead would seem to show that there are limits beyond which it is not safe for a musical journal to go, even where the victim of this sort of criticism has not seen fit to advertise in the columns of a musical publication which resorts to such methods.

The Brooklyn boy who traversed by rail 6,000 miles on 16 cents is probably not much interested in the nationalization of railroads. He found that he could get along very comfortably and economically under private ownership.

Possibly the new cruisers of our navy will not be able to get into battle as quickly as some of the more speedy war vessels of other countries, but it is expected that they will stay longer.

General De Wet found it comparatively easy to dodge a few hundred British generals, but when it came to eluding the ever watchful publisher he failed dismally.

TRIVIAL, YET POTENT.

The Tyranny of the Small and the Helplessness of Mankind.

The "tyranny of littleness" is the cruel despotism not of one master, but of a multitude of small ones. Witness the ironclad away which any sovereign ruler of the kitchen may wield over a helpless household. What happiness or misery is bestowed lightly by one who turns a toaster or brews a pot of coffee!

We are all slaves to milliners and tailors. The milkman holds us helpless in his clutches. The chore man orders us about. The maid of all work beckons, and we follow. We bow and scrape before the haughty plumber.

We who would strike down monarchs and measure swords with ministers of finance, what sorry figures we cut in the community if slighted by the laundrymen! We scarce can hold our own against a surly railway porter, and it is but by the courtesy of Master Boots that we emerge from our hotel apartment. And who shall stand before the overwhelming power vested in an offended waiter? We cannot even mount a trolley car if the conductor and motorman choose to ignore us.

The man who rules the Stock Exchange cannot rest at night because an infant's voice banishes dreams. He is a victim to the insect world. Who will abolish the tyranny of flies and of mosquitoes?

Behold the tyranny of horses, dogs and cats, to which the great majority of mortals submit without a murmur. What master is as exacting as a tight shoe or a torturing collar? A parrot or a pet canary can sadly try men's souls! Yes, "things are in the saddle and ride mankind."

Who will do justice to the tyranny of the depraved inanimate taskmasters? A diamond necklace changes the history of empires. A courtier's cloak may pave the way to royal favor. A glove, a handkerchief, a glass slipper, what things to conjure with! Slaves of the lamp! Slaves of the ring!

Ah, the supremacy of trivial things, that one real tyranny to which we all bow down! Is there no hope that we may some day throw off the heavy yoke? Well is it for us to meditate upon this vital problem which touches each so closely. And as we meditate we may grow wise enough to break some of the multitudinous shackles that hold us spiritless and helpless in the power of the arch tyrant, "Little Things."—Caroline Ticknor in Brandur Magazine.

FLAG LANGUAGE.

The black flag is a sign of piracy.

To "strike the flag" is to lower the colors in submission.

Dipping the flag is lowering it slightly and hoisting it again to salute a vessel or fort.

The yellow flag shows a vessel to be in quarantine or is a sign of a contagious disease.

A "flag of truce" is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for parley or consultation.

The red flag in our service is a mark of danger and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging her powder.

A flag at half mast means mourning. Fishing and other vessels return with the flag at half mast to announce the loss or death of some of their crew.

Flags are used as the symbol of rank and command, the officers using them being called "flag officers." Such flags are square to distinguish them from other banners.

The white flag is a sign of peace. After a battle parties from both sides often go out to the field to rescue the wounded or bury the dead under the protection of the white flag.

If the president of the United States goes aboard, the American flag is carried in the bow of his barge or hoisted at the mast of the vessel on board of which he is.—New Education.

Didn't Want Too Much.

A Lone Star State man tells the following story of a negro baptizing in Texas:

An old negro preacher did the honors, and the candidate for baptism was a coal black negro woman. The preacher led his victim far out into the stream, where she could be thoroughly immersed, and at the auspicious moment he cried in a loud voice:

"Be stiddy, sister, be stiddy, and you'll cum up whitah den snow!" "Oh, parson," she exclaimed, "dat's askin' too much; a cream colour'll do!"—New York Times.

March of Refinement.

"Now that I think of it," remarked the passenger with the skullcap, "there used to be a little place on this line they called Kiss Station, but it must be something else now. I haven't heard the conductor call it out."

"We're pretty close to it, I think," replied the passenger with the goatee. "But it isn't Kiss Station any more. They've changed the name, but retained the idea. It's now—" "Happy Junction!" bawled out the conductor as the train slackened its speed for the next stop.—Chicago Tribune.

Proud.

"I want you to understand, sir, that my pride forbids me to accept anything from you after I marry your daughter."

"How are you going to live?" "Well, I thought you might make some kind of a settlement beforehand."—Life.

The Good Time Coming.

"Jerry," said Fleharty, "phwat is the manin' of this worrud 'millinnium?'" "It manes that glad time a-comin'," said Jerry, "whin ivery man will be his own boss an' shtuck on his job."—Indianapolis News.

Coughs

"My wife had a deep-seated cough for three years. I purchased two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, large size, and it cured her completely."
 J. H. Burge, Macon, Ga.

Probably you know of cough medicines that relieve little coughs, all coughs, except deep ones! The medicine that has been curing the worst of deep coughs for sixty years is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

This is his second visit here and he reports good success, securing twenty members and expects to have twice as many at the time of organization in January. The order rests on a firm foundation, starting with a scaling policy and reserve fund plan and also provides for accident. The supreme officers and incorporators are prominent men of the county and as soon as incorporated the supreme lodge will be located at Waukegan.

The funeral of John Meyer, sr., of Fremont, who died at his home on Friday, November 21, at the advanced age of 86 years, was held from the Catholic church in our village Monday at 11 o'clock a. m., Rev. Father O'Neil officiating, after which the remains were interred in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery. Mr. Meyer was one of the oldest settlers of the town of Fremont and was known and respected by the entire community. He had been troubled with rheumatism for several years but was able to drive about until a few months ago when he was taken down with dropsy, which finally caused his death. He leaves a wife, two daughters—Mrs. Jacob Thiess of Mendota, Ill., and Mrs. Peter Beier of Arlington Heights—and one son, Peter Meyer of Fremont and many other relatives, to whom we extend our sympathy.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.
J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cared by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

FLAGS ON THE CAPITOL.

What It Means When They Are Flying at Half Mast.

The flying of flags over the capitol at half mast is regulated by the strictest rules. Whenever these flags are seen floating half way down the mast it is a sure indication that a vice president, senator or representative is lying dead or that the action is taken in response to a presidential proclamation ordering the flags on public buildings at half mast in respect to the memory of some prominent official of the government who has passed away.

When the sergeant at arms of the senate or house of representatives learns of the death of a member of either of those bodies, he at once orders that the flags over the senate chamber or hall of representatives be half masted. This is often done before the houses of congress themselves are officially notified of the death. A good deal of discretion is exercised in the manner of placing the news of a death of this kind officially before the senate or the house. Upon such an announcement it is customary for the houses to adjourn in respect to the deceased senator or representative, and in order that the current business may not be stopped early in the day the announcement is generally made just before the houses are ready to conclude their day's work.

Officers of the senate and house when they fly the flags at half mast in response to a proclamation by the president regard their action as one of courtesy, as they do not recognize the power of the president to order congress to do anything except to assemble in extraordinary session. They have always responded to the requests of such proclamations. It would be a nice question, if one could imagine that it could ever be raised, to know to what extent the president's authority would allow him to order flags at half mast on the capitol. While his authority would not extend over the employees of the senate and house, yet the capitol itself for many years was in fact controlled exclusively by him so far as the care of the building is concerned, and the superintendent of the building is today appointed by him without confirmatory action on the part of the senate.

As a matter of fact, the capitol has for years been under the direct control of the committees on appropriations of the two houses of congress, but that control has been accorded them by the failure of the president to give any orders to the architect or more lately to the superintendent of the capitol. If he should order that official to fly flags over the capitol at half mast and the order should be disobeyed, he would have power to dismiss him and appoint some one else in his place without the concurrence of either branch of congress, except so far as the appropriation for the official's salary would be involved. These are practically moot questions, but they occasionally form interesting subjects for fireside talks when flags are half masted in response to presidential proclamations.—Washington Star.

Thumb Nail Pictures.

In collections, centuries old, to be seen in both China and Japan are specimens of the most remarkable drawings in the world, pictures of all kinds drawn with the thumb nail. The nails of the thumbs on the left hands of the artists of these are allowed to grow to an enormous length, sometimes to a foot or eighteen inches, and are then pared down to a pen shaped point. Dipping this oddly constructed pen in beautiful vermilion or sky blue ink, the only kinds of ink used in these sacred thumb nail drawings, the artist gracefully outlines his work. Occasionally the bold touches from the studio of a master in this department of "high art" are life size and are sketched by a few sweeps of the artist's arm. Like other pictures and sketches of the orient, these sacred thumb nail pictures are mounted and rolled up like scrolls.

Some Words.

According to the late Richard A. Proctor, says the London Chronicle, the phrase "I guess," to English ears so ridiculous, is really identical with the old expression, "I wis," meaning "I know." The word "guess" has changed its meaning entirely in England, but has partly preserved it in America, where of course the native says "I guess" when he is more or less in a state of certainty. There are many other examples of words that have played fast and loose with "g" and "w," such as "guardian" and "warden," "guard" and "ward," "guichet" and "wicket."

A Conscience Jar.

"Did you ever stop to think, my love," said Mr. Micawber, gazing at his plate of lobster salad, "that the things we love most in this life are the very things that never agree with us?" "Will you be so kind, Micawber," said Mrs. Micawber, straightening up, "as to tell me whether you are speaking of the salad or of me, sir?"

CONCERNING CALENDARS.

Some Interesting Ones Date as Far Back as the Fourth Century.

Among the Greeks and Romans almanacs or calendars were not written for the general public, but were preserved as part of the esoteric learning of the priests, whom the people had to consult not only for the dates of the festivals, but for the proper times when various legal proceedings might be instituted. About 300 B. C., however, one Encius Flavius, secretary to Appius Claudius, stole these secrets by repeated applications to the priests and collated the information so gained. It was really publishing an almanac when, as Livy relates, Flavius exhibited the tasts on white tables around the forum. From this time similar tablets containing the calendar, the festivals, astronomical phenomena and sometimes allusions to historical events became quite common. They have been dug up in Pompeii and elsewhere.

There are also extant Christian calendars dating as far back as the fourth century, which give the names of the saints and other religious information.

One of the most famous of the calendars of the middle ages is that compiled by Petrus of Dacia in A. D. 1300. A manuscript copy is preserved in the Savilian library at Oxford. The Symbolical Man or Man of Signs (Homo Signorum), still a common feature in almanacs, appears in this book, not, it is conjectured, for the first time, as it seems to have been a survival from the time of Ptolemy's "Almagest," a collection of classic observations and problems relating to geometry and astronomy.

The first printed almanac was the "Pro Pluribus Annis," issued at Vienna in 1457 by an astronomer named Purbach. The earliest known almanac devoted expressly to the year of issue was published by Rabelais in 1533.

Thenceforth the ephemeral yearly character of the publication came to be definitely recognized by almanac makers. Nostradamus set the fashion of incorporating predictions of coming events into almanacs, a fashion that has continued to this day in all purely astrological brochures of this sort despite intermittent efforts to suppress it by royal authority in France and elsewhere.—Era.

WEATHER PROPHETS.

Blow out a candle, and if the wick continues long to smolder look for bad weather. If it goes out quickly, the weather will be fair.

The twelve days after Christmas indicate the weather for the following year. Each day in order shows the weather for one month.

When it begins to snow, notice the size of the flakes. If they are very fine, the storm will be a long one; if large, the storm will soon be over.

If the chickens come out while it rains, it is a sign that the storm is to be a long one. If they stand around under the shed, the storm will be short.

When the cattle lie down as soon as they are turned out to pasture in the morning, it is because they feel a rheumatic weariness in their bones, and you can look for rain soon.

When you see the sun drawing water at night, know that it will rain on the morrow. The sun is said to be drawing water when its rays can be seen shining through rifts in distant clouds.

Brain Strain.

A French investigator has come to the conclusion that the brains of military men give out most quickly. He states that out of every 100,000 men of the army or naval profession 199 are hopeless lunatics. Of the liberal professions artists are the first to succumb to the brain strain, next the lawyers, followed at some distance by doctors, clergy, literary men and civil servants. Striking an average of this group, 177 go mad to each 100,000.—London Express.

"No," replied Tommy innocently, but another teacher standing by laughed.—London Answers.

DEWEY A MAN OF STRENGTH.

Remarkable Feat Credited to Hero of Spanish-American War.

Though Admiral Dewey is universally known to be hale and hearty, hardly anyone gives him credit for possessing the great personal strength with which he is gifted. One of the Spanish-American war veterans, who had called but lost the power of walking, called on him at his Washington home not long ago and found the admiral standing on the front steps. Dewey invited him in, but the disabled man looked doubtfully at the steps, seeing which the admiral reached into the carriage, picked him up bodily and carried him up the steps and into the drawing room, where he placed his burden in the easiest chair at hand.

Ancient Metallurgy.

A recently published report of a French savant shows that the Chaldeans and Babylonians were possessed of considerable metallurgical skill. A Babylonian statuette was found to consist of a copper alloy containing 79.5 per cent of copper, 1.25 per cent of tin, and 0.8 per cent of iron. A statuette from Chaldean, estimated to be 2,200 years old, was composed of nearly pure copper containing only a slight proportion of iron, whereas another Chaldean statuette, some 400 years older, consisted mainly of an alloy of four parts of copper with one part of lead and a trace of sulphur.

A HEAVYWEIGHT LEGISLATOR.

James Banks of Carroll county is the heaviest lawmaker in the state of Virginia. When he had taken the oath as a member of the House of Delegates he went to the seat assigned him, but was unable to get his 360 pounds of avoirdupois into the space reserved. A special seat had to be arranged for him in one of the aisles. Mr. Banks is a mountaineer, about

A Roosevelt Family Name.

The President answered that "the name Quentin is used as an old family name, coming from a French Huguenot refugee who came to this county over two centuries ago."

SNAKE CATCHES A QUAIL.

Hunters Shoot Rattler With a Bird in Its Mouth.

A hunting party which went out after quail yesterday returned to the city last night, with a unique trophy in the way of a very large rattlesnake. The hunters vouch for a remarkable story in connection with the killing of the snake. They say that the reptile was found with a quail in its mouth.

The party stopped near a field, which seemed to hold good promise of game, and the horse being hitched, the three went out into the woods to hunt for quail. There was only one dog for the party, a pointer, that soon flushed a covey. Dr. Dancy managed to get two on the rise, and he was then attracted by an exclamation made by Mr. Drysdale, who said that he had almost stepped on a snake.

The two together made an investigation and found a big rattler in the very spot in which the birds had risen. The rattler was fired at and killed. In his mouth, the hunters say, the snake held a quail, which was still fluttering with life, though the shot had also struck the bird and it soon afterward died.—Florida Times-Union and Citizen.

Mrs. Hildebrandt's Discovery.

Lake Sarah, Minn., Nov. 24th.—Mrs. Hildebrandt of this place claims to have discovered a complete cure for Rheumatism and numerous people can testify that as Mrs. Hildebrandt had the terrible affliction and is now a well woman, she appears to have good grounds for her claim. Mrs. Hildebrandt speaks of her cure as follows:

"I had the Rheumatism in my arms so bad that I could not sleep at night. I was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and before I had taken two boxes I was much better. When I had taken four boxes I was completely cured."

It is only fair to state that others have made the same discovery as Mrs. Hildebrandt and that for Rheumatism and other diseases arising from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills are recognized as the one sure and permanent cure.

A Cat's Long Captivity.

Strange noises coming apparently from a supposed solid brick foundation in the northern corner of the new post-office building have been puzzling workers upon the structure for the past six weeks. Yesterday the mystery was solved by the removal of a portion of the foundation and the discovery of a black and white cat secreted in a space barely large enough to permit of the entrance of its body. As a layer of rock was removed the cat leaped out and three workmen who stood about fell back in surprise. For six weeks the cat had been lying in the little space. No one knows upon what it had existed, as the workmen were unable to find any food in the small enclosure. Day after day peculiar sounds were heard about the foundation stone and workmen had become superstitious, refusing to work about the stone. Finally the foreman decided to clear up the mystery and ordered a huge stone removed. Then the cat, almost starved, leaped out and made its escape.—Chicago News.

MINE DISPUTE NEARS AN END

Operators and Workers May Settle Differences Among Themselves.

NEW MOVE IS A BIG SURPRISE

Wayne MacVeagh is given credit for bringing about the much hoped for situation after a conference with J. Pierpont Morgan at New York.

Negotiations for a direct settlement of the questions at issue between the coal operators and miners have been started at Scranton, Pa.

A meeting was held of attorneys for the operators and the mine workers, and it was agreed to suggest to the strike commissioners the advisability of adjourning until Wednesday, Dec. 3. This will give time for a thorough discussion of plans for a settlement, and, if they fall through, give time for completing the wage tables upon which the coal companies' office forces are now working.

Mine Workers Agree.

The mine workers, through their representatives, have agreed with the mine owners to attempt to adjust the differences. This proposition was made on a compromise basis and there is a reasonable hope of settlement with the aid of the arbitrators.

The rough proposition, which is to form the basis of negotiations, is a 10 per cent increase in wages, a nine-hour day and trade agreements between the miners and the companies by whom they are employed. The only one of the four demands not touched upon is that of weighing coal by the legal ton.

On Delicate Ground.

While both sides have expressed a willingness to settle their differences among themselves, it is not to be construed that it carries with it the acceptance of the terms proposed. They are mentioned only as a basis from which a settlement is to be effected. It is possible the foundation already laid can be wrecked by either party holding out too strongly against some question, and thus leave the whole matter in the hands of the commissioners, who in the meantime will act as a sort of board of conciliation rather than as a board of arbitration.

One of the commissioners made the significant statement to-day: "I think it's about all over."

Comes as a Surprise.

Few persons were aware that an attempt would be made at an outside settlement until it was practically so intimated by Judge Gray, the chairman of the committee, who read a carefully prepared announcement. It is said the movement was brought about by both sides seeing that the proceedings before the commission would be interminable and in the intermingling of the lawyers for both sides, the outside proposition was broached and taken up.

It is generally believed that the operators were first to make the proposition—Wayne MacVeagh is given credit for bringing about the present situation. He went to New York after he finished cross-examining Mr. Mitchell, and held a conference with persons connected with the coal industry, among them, it is reported, J. Pierpont Morgan.

PLAN HOSPITAL FOR CRIPPLES

New York City Has 25,000 Children Afflicted With Hip Disease.

New York dispatch: Selection of crippled children in preparation for the visit of Dr. Adolph Lorenz has disclosed the fact that there probably are in New York city more than 25,000 children suffering from hip diseases which are likely to make them cripples for life unless properly treated. According to the doctors who have been selecting candidates for the clinic to be held by the Vienna surgeon, the majority of these children need hospital treatment, and this it is impossible to give, as there is no hospital where they can be received. The same ratio of cases is said to exist throughout the state and a movement has been started for the establishment of a hospital to which the legislature will be asked to contribute $100,000.

A PASTOR WHO WAS BEFRIENDED BY AN EMPEROR SAVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Rev. H. Stubenvoll, of Elkhorst, Wis., is pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's Church of that place. Rev. Stubenvoll is the possessor of two bibles presented to him by Emperor William of Germany. Upon the fly leaf of one of the bibles the Emperor has written in his own handwriting a text.

This honored pastor, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, says concerning their famous catarrh remedy, Peruna:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.
Gentlemen: "I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of me. I took Peruna and was cured. It gave me strength and courage, and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well. It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone kept Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year."—H. STUBENVOLL.

Thousands of people have catarrh who would be surprised to know it, because it has been called some other name than catarrh. The fact is catarrh is catarrh wherever located; and another fact which is of equally great importance, is that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

THE BLOOD.
The blood is life. We derive from the blood life, power, beauty and reason, as the doctors have been saying from time immemorial. A healthy body, a fresh appearance, and generally all the abilities we possess depend on that source of life. It is therefore the duty of every sensible man to keep the blood as pure and normal as possible. Nature, in its infinite wisdom, has given us a thermometer indicating the state of the blood, which appeals to our reason by giving notice of its impurity. Small eruptions of the skin, to which we scarcely pay any attention, headache, ringing noises in the ears, lassitude, sleeplessness, are generally a sign that the blood is not in its normal state, but is filled with noxious substances. These symptoms deserve our full attention. If more attention were paid to those symptoms, and steps taken to remove them, then many illnesses from which we suffer would become unknown and the human body would become stronger and healthier. Attention therefore should be paid to those warning signs, and the blood can be purified and poisonous substances removed from it by the use of Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Drops, discovered more than 60 years ago.

Athletic College Professors.
For the first time in the history of Yale university a president of that institution has entered actively into athletics. A few days ago President Arthur T. Hadley, as a member of the faculty tennis team, played against the regular Yale team. His side lost by five matches to three, but Dr. Hadley defeated his youthful antagonist. He was attired in conventional tennis costume and proved to be an adept, winning easily in straight sets. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of Yale, was not so successful and was badly winded at the close.

A Good Place.
The youthful offspring of a prominent young lawyer who has a suite of offices in the Lord's Court building, at Exchange place and William street, was called into the parlor the other day to be "showed off" to an admiring visitor as the "brightest ever." The conversation naturally drifted to his father, and the visitor asked the child: "Do you know where your father's offices are?" "Oh, yeth," said the youngster; "they're in heaven."—New York Times.

And still Another Disease.
One of the latest diseases to attract the attention of the faculty is, it seems, mysophobia. A person suffering from this complaint will even go so far as minutely to scrutinize his tumbler for finger marks, examine his serviette to make sure that it has not been used by somebody else, and often even, in advanced cases, wipe every plate put before him with his serviette.

MOB LAW PREVAILS IN HOOSIER STATE

Farmers Near Sullivan Hang a Negro Who Is Accused of Assault.

HE IS IDENTIFIED BY VICTIM

Men Armed With Guns and Revolvers Take the Prisoner From the Sheriff and Hurry Him to His Doom Before Troops Arrive.

Sullivan, Ind., dispatch: Indiana farmers, armed and angry and refusing to heed piteous appeals for mercy, lynched James Dillard in spite of the efforts of Sheriff Dudley and Gov. Durbin to protect the negro captive. The mob hanged him on a telegraph pole near John Lemon's farm, ten miles from Sullivan, in Knox county.

Previous to his execution by the mob Dillard had been identified by Mrs. Mary Davis of Sullivan county, wife of Milton Davis, and Mrs. Lemon as the man who assaulted them last Tuesday. Both women are still in a critical condition as a result of injuries inflicted by the negro.

Swear Vengeance.
The attacks on Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Lemon aroused the entire region for miles surrounding their homes. Men and boys swore to be avenged if the perpetrator could be captured. Poses were organized and the police of many towns and the sheriffs of all nearby counties were asked to join in the man-hunt.

Dillard was arrested at Lawrenceville, Ill., after a fight with the town marshal, in which the negro was shot three times. News of his capture and the suspicion that he was the assailant of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Lemon spread rapidly and at once rumors of a prospective lynching arose. In order to protect Dillard the marshal of Lawrenceville took him to Robinson, Ill. John Lemon was informed of the capture and he hurried to Robinson. He identified the prisoner as the perpetrator of the assaults in Indiana.

Await Sheriff's Return.
Sheriff Dudley of Sullivan went to Robinson, secured the prisoner and with several deputies to assist brought him to Sullivan. The sheriff made an attempt to steal into town without the knowledge of the citizens. But the angry farmers were on guard at every conceivable spot. Half a hundred determined men with revolvers in pockets or shotguns in hand awaited the sheriff's return and they discovered the sheriff the moment he reached town with the prisoner.

Sheriff Dudley and the negro, accompanied by the deputies, came back in a wagon. As Dudley drove up to the jail the members of the mob ran from hiding places and overpowered the officers. The deputies offered resistance, but were compelled to release the negro. Dillard begged for mercy. The mob beat him over the head with revolvers. Dillard was dragged into the main street of Sullivan and thrown into a wagon. The mob then followed after the wagon and he was taken to the home of Mrs. Davis, where he was identified. Then the mob started with negro for the farm of John Lemon. The mob meantime had swelled to enormous proportions.

Judge Lynch Condemns.
Soon the mob learned that the governor had ordered Captain McCoy, with Company A of the state guard, to leave Vincennes by special train and intercept the mob at some point between Carlisle and Oaktown. The leaders with the prisoner lashed their horses and drove to Lemon's home by a route that avoided the railroad.

Meanwhile the mob drove the ten miles to Lemon's, secured the identification of Dillard by Mrs. Lemon, and then started back to Sullivan. A mile from Lemon's the farmers held a council, condemned Dillard to death and, in spite of his pleas for mercy, threw a rope over a pole and jerked him into the air. When he was dead the mob dispersed.

BRINGS MANY SAILORS IN IRONS
Forty-eight of the Crew of Isla de Luzon Under Arrest.

Washington dispatch: The Isla de Luzon, one of the Spanish gunboats captured at Manila by Admiral Dewey, is en route to New York, with forty-eight of her men in irons. The vessel, which has been doing guard duty in the Philippines for about three years, started recently for New York, proceeding from Manila by way of Singapore. Advice received at the navy department indicate that on the trip to Singapore some of the machinery on the boat shifted badly, causing a panic among the crew and a mutiny. The result was the placing of forty-eight men in irons. After its capture the Luzon was repaired at Hongkong. It is said the repairs were not properly made.

PROFITS OF FISH DEALERS.
Would Seem a Good Investment for Your Surplus Capital.

A remarkable statement as to the enormous difference between the prices obtained by fishermen for their catches and those which the public have to pay for fish was given by Mr. L. W. Lyde during a lecture to the members of the Manchester Geographical Society. Mr. Lyde, who is an examiner in and teacher of geography, said that he once had a class of boys who were deeply interested in the question of railway rates for carrying mackerel. He learned afterwards that the reason for this unexplained attention was that some of the boys' fathers were fishmongers, who had special arrangements with the railway companies in regard to the rates charged to them. He made inquiries into the subject, and found that, while fishermen received £4 17s 6d per ton for mackerel, the railway company charged for its carriage from St. Ives, Cornwall, to London, £5 per ton. Then Mr. Lyde wrote to Billingsgate and inquired from the dealers what was their price for mackerel. The reply was £50 per ton wholesale and £60 a ton retail!

New Dodge in Street Begging.
Ideas count for success, even in street begging. Old tricks become tiresome through familiarity. The mendicant of the present day, if he would live well, must get something new. One of the latest dodges of the New York solicitor of alms is heroic. It first arouses the indignation of the victim, then pacifies him, and finally wins his sympathy and his money. It is worked in this way: A shabbily attired man hurries along the street, apparently unconscious of his surroundings. He exasperates, as though by chance, on to the well polished shoe of a passer-by. Before the man has time to protest the mendicant drops on his knees and, with the remnants of a well-worn handkerchief, rubs away at the soiled shoe, meanwhile pouring forth profuse apologies. Nine times out of ten he gets a dime for his politeness.

Costly Weddings for Guests.
A royal wedding is a very expensive affair, not only for those who give it, but for each guest. The presents necessarily cost the guests a great deal, for only the richest and rarest gifts can be offered to royalty. Besides a gift, each guest must leave a sum of money for every servant and attendant in his host's house. As there are numerous attendants, and each one must receive a "tip" according to his rank, a great deal of money is necessary. At the marriage of the Grand Duke and Duchess of Hess the guests left altogether £1,759 to be distributed, besides bestowing over £1,500 worth of gifts among the servants before their departure.

Capt. Carter's Term Nearly Out.
Former Capt. O. M. Carter, whose military career suddenly terminated in the Fort Leavenworth prison with a five years' sentence against him for financial irregularities growing out of his connection with the river and harbor improvements in Savannah, is due for release from confinement early next year. Prisoners are granted a curtailment of their sentence at the rate of two months each year for good conduct. Former Capt. Carter has been a model prisoner and ten months will be deducted from his term, according to present indications.

Gen. Corbin's Recent Report.
Since the publication of Adjutant General Corbin's report it has come to be known as "the wine, women and song report." It will be remembered that Gen. Corbin discussed the tendency of young officers to get married and recommended the instruction of soldiers in music, especially urging that they be taught regimental airs and songs.

Mahomet and the Cat.
Mahomet did not give encouragement to those who ban the cat from the company of honest folk. A cat, it is said, once went to sleep on the sleeve of the prophet's robe, when the hour of prayer arrived Mahomet, so the story goes, cut away his sleeve in order that the cat should be undisturbed.

THE PINKHAM CURE

ATTRACTING GREAT ATTENTION AMONG THINKING WOMEN.

Mrs. Frances Stafford, of 243 E. 114th St., N.Y. City, adds her testimony to the hundreds of thousands on Mrs. Pinkham's files.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies were first introduced skeptics all over the country frowned upon their curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by the new discovery has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands, doubts and skepticisms have been swept away as by a mighty flood, until to-day the great good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her other medicines are doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists, physicians and thinking people.

Merit alone could win such fame; wise, therefore, is the woman who for a cure relies upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The village of Antioch is awakened to action by the excessive rates demanded in that village by insurance companies, and there is now a lively agitation of the matter of supplying the town with some sort of a water works system for fire protection. The plan most in favor is the sinking of artesian wells, the laying of mains in the principal streets and the purchase of sufficient hose to reach the greater part of the town.

Winter arrived in earnest Thanksgiving morning. The first snow of the season came in flurries Wednesday night and when the early riser went forth to count his stock of poultry he found the ground covered with a coat of the beautiful. The weather in the early morning was typical of ye oldtime Thanksgiving excepting the sleighing and skating, but by noon all signs of snow had disappeared. The weather throughout the day was conducive to feasting and everybody made the best of it.

Change in Train Service. Some time ago a committee, representing the villages of Palatine, Barrington and Arlington Heights waited upon General Manager Gardner of the Chicago & Northwestern road and presented to him a petition for a faster suburban train between those towns and the city, leaving Chicago late in the afternoon. The new time schedule which goes into effect Sunday, Dec. 1, will meet that demand.

The Janesville will leave at 5:01 as now; will make no stops between Clybourn Jct., and DesPlaines, and will make the run to Barrington in 53 minutes. A new train to Barrington leaving Chicago at 5:20, and arriving here at 6:26 will be put on.

The morning Crystal Lake train will leave here at the usual time, 7:30, and will cut out all stops beyond DesPlaines. By this arrangement the people of Barrington, Palatine and Arlington Heights are given increased service and should show their appreciation by patronizing the trains, the time of which has been arranged for their convenience.

The committee got what it asked for and its work is appreciated by the public in this section.

We are all born for a purpose. Economically the world does not "owe us a living." This is self-evident for if it was any a living, it owes it to all. If all should cease to labor all would perish. It was said in the beginning "by the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread." The man who tries to shirk his duty to his fellow men and refuses to give value for value, service for service, is a time server, a mere lumberer of the earth and has no just claim upon life and liberty.

Attractive Women.

All women sensibly desire to be attractive. Beauty is the stamp of health because it is the outward manifestation of inner purity. A healthy woman is always attractive; bright and happy. When every drop of blood in the veins is pure a beautiful flush is on the cheek. But when the blood is impure, moroseness, bad temper and a sallow complexion tells the tale of sickness all too plainly. And women today know there is no beauty without health. Wine of Cordul crows women with beauty and attractiveness by making strong and healthy those organs which make her a woman. Try Wine of Cordul and in a month your friends will hardly know you.

IN JUSTICE COURT.

Cases in Which Chicago Highlands Asscn. Is Pltff. Attract Attention.

Considerable interest was manifested by the public in matters brought before Justice Morrison last Saturday afternoon. The cases were Chicago Highlands association vs. H. Cary, and the same association against Wm. Rohrer, Wm. Gates, R. Trimble and A. Crouse, former tenants of houses on the association property. The defendants were sued for rent alleged to be due and unpaid.

The Cary case was tried first. Mr. Cary occupied, for a year, the house on the Syndicate property located at Buck's crossing, and designated as "Hotel Comstock," for which he paid a rental of $20 per month. Mr. Cary was an employe of the defunct American Malleable Castings Co., which opened the foundry at the Highlands. When that company suspended Manager Miller of the Syndicate property, ordered Mr. Cary placed on the pay roll of the Syndicate as watchman.

Mr. Cary had a claim against the syndicate for $15.00 which he desired to turn against the October rent, offering that and $5 which was refused. He was, sometime in October, given a 30 day notice to vacate. He obeyed the notice on the 7th of November.

The association then sued for $40, rent for October and November. It was clearly established that Mr. Cary had not been paid for the five nights work. Mr. Hobein, paymaster for the association, could recall paying Mr. Cary on several occasions, but he could not remember who signed the pay roll for Mr. Cary.

The court was of the opinion that the defendant had not received the $15 demanded and that he should not pay rent for the month of November as there was no lease; that he was given notice to quit and did not occupy the premises. Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $5, (the balance due on October rent) and costs of suit.

The case against Wm. Rohrer was next called and tried. In this action the defendant was sued for rent of a cottage on the Highlands property, and refused so to do until the association fulfilled an agreement to furnish him good, wholesome water for drinking and household purposes. Several witnesses testified that the water was bad and supply inadequate. When tenants protested they were told to get out. The law relative to landlord and tenant is one permitting of many constructions, the main question being the right of a tenant to recover for non-performance on part of the landlord.

There being several other cases of the same kind depending upon the one argued, the court reserved a decision until tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Briefs in the case were filed by attorneys and a list of authorities sufficient to puzzle a Supreme court judge submitted. An opinion in these cases is awaited with interest.

Casper Schmidt and wife of Elgin were guests of G. Heimerdinger and wife, over Sunday. Mr. Schmidt is a brother-in-law of Mr. Heimerdinger.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Alverson were at Janesville, Wis., Sunday to attend the tin wedding of Doctor and Mrs. G. H. Webster. Mrs. Webster is a sister of Mr. Alverson.

Lyman A. Powers has returned from his southwestern trip and appears to have benefitted by the vacation. He visited the land of the Kiowa, Seminole, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Cherokee tribes but not one of the red men attempted to take his scalp lock.

Gottlieb Heimerdinger celebrated his 70th birthday last Sunday. The best years of that gentleman's life has been spent within the confines of Barrington and he is esteemed and respected by all who know him. May his lease of life extend over another 70 years.

Fred T. Hoffman and wife departed for Spring Valley, Ill., this morning and will make that hustling little city their future home. For four years Mr. Hoffman has been an employe of The Review office in the capacity of job and ad compositor and has filled every duty required of him in an honorable and efficient manner. He returns to the old home of himself and wife and will take up work on the Spring Valley Gazette, a prominent semi-weekly publication of which he becomes part owner. We wish for Fred and his wife the full measure of prosperity and happiness in their new abiding place. They have an army of friends here who will give them a hearty welcome whenever they happen this way.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to tender our thanks to the many friends who assisted us during our late bereavement. To the orders of which our departed one was a member, and especially to the officials and employes of the Chicago & North-western R'y. company are we deeply grateful.

Stearns Gives It Up.

A. K. Stearns will not have a recount of ballots in the recent election in order to determine the possibility of him having defeated Wm. Desmond of McHenry county.

Steps for the recount were at once taken after election but a little inquiry showed the impracticability of the move so it has been dropped.

The decision to drop the matter was reached only after the discovery was made that the statute is not broad enough. It provides no recourse for a candidate to secure a recount but by the legislature. Therefore, a minority or independent candidate's chance is not one in a thousand.

The controlling crowd in the legislature is likely to consider which side the minority representative asking for a recount would be on, and providing he was not "with them," then his request would be denied.

The Stearns crowd did not go far in the matter on account of this defect in the law which showed their chances for success would be slight for the reason that the legislature is a majority-for Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Stearns is recognized as a Mason man.

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and liver troubles that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual costiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, dispondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25c size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At H. T. Abbott's, Barrington.

Remember that J. Jappa the Palatine jeweler, comes to Barrington every Tuesday and exhibits a fine assortment of watches, clocks and jewelry. All orders for repairs will be promptly attended to. Leave orders at Schutt's shoe store.

ODD FELLOWS ENTERTAIN.

Brethren from Carpentersville and Palatine Visit Barrington Lodge.

Barrington Lodge No. 856, I. O. O. F., held an interesting and profitable special meeting Monday night. The occasion was the adoption into the mysteries of that great order whose foundation rests upon Friendship, Love and Truth, of a number of candidates. The handsome new home of the local lodge presented an inviting scene and the gorgeous paraphernalia of the degree team of Century lodge, Carpentersville, selected to exemplify the impressive ritual, gave to that electric lighted assembly room a color scene seldom viewed except by those who affiliate with the orders who take their pattern from the orientals.

The attendance was large and the work watched with close interest by those who have lately entered the order as well as by those who years ago traveled the Jericho road. It was an evening of instruction and good fellowship not soon to be forgotten by those present. At the close of the work refreshments were served in the parlor.

The Carpentersville team is one of the best in this section and a credit to the order and plays an important part in the upbuilding of Century Lodge, No. 492. Bro. Sawyer, who captains that company of good fellows, is an enthusiastic Odd Fellow, as is every one who made up the delegation from our sister town, and from the date of the institution of Barrington lodge, the members of Century have taken more than ordinary interest in its development, which interest is highly appreciated.

Palatine Lodge, No. 708 was represented by G. H. Arps, R. W. Putnam, Robert Baxter and W. A. Putnam.

The following were present from Carpentersville: Messrs. O. H. and H. L. Smith, Sildard, Shelly, Revis, Matteson, Murhead, Bumsted, N. P. Rynders, Kelley, J. A. Rynders, Masters, Davidson, Livingston, Adams, Fox and Haight, and a more jolly set of men never put on the links of the order.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the Oriental degree was not conferred but will be given by O. H. Haight of Carpentersville, to the Barrington brothers soon.

There is No Royal Road To Fortune

Every person who starts out to achieve business success will find plenty of hard, uphill work on the way. Advertising, the greatest lift of all, will not make a fortune for you in a day, but if done judiciously, it will pay handsomely in the long run. Try an advertisement in

THE Review.

Money spent for continuous advertising is well invested. Sporadic expenditure means waste every time. The tenth dollar that is spent for advertising makes the first dollar more valuable. Maybe the direct returns will be very slow in coming. It often happens that way, but they will come just the same; and there's no other way in which a business man can invest money so that it will bring so much profit.

Try it and Be Convinced.

The only way that he can lose the benefit of his advertising is to stop. Even then he cannot lose it altogether, and for a long time after he has quit he will derive some trade from it. However, if he does a little bit and quits, and then advertises a little bit more and quits again he will find himself in the position of the man in the well, who climbed up one foot and dropped back two.
