Don't Go to Bed Early.
The Palatine Register is very much put out at the management of the C. & N. W. Ry. because the 6:15 train south-bound does not stop there. Listen to Mr. Paddock's song:
"The inadvisability of letting the Minnesota mail pass through Palatine as if the town was only a way station or 100-acre farm was proven Monday evening, when the Barrington theater train got no farther north than Desplaines. Orders were given to stop a freight train to take 'farm hands' as it were to Chicago, but even that engineer failed to heed the signal and the third-class train didn't stop to inquire whether we had any live stock to put on their palace cars, or if it was only passengers. The railroad company may think we are only a collection of farmers, but it is time they were finding out that we can travel after dark and don't go to bed with the chickens."

Stopped for the Judge.
M. C. McIntosh was called to Barron county, Wisconsin, last Friday. He remained there Saturday and decided to reach home Sunday morning. Mc. was up against a hard proposition. The only way out of the Turtle Lake region was to catch the "Twilight Limited" that runs from Duluth to Minneapolis, and that flyer went through Turtle Lake station like a streak of lightning. The agent told Mc. there was no use asking for concession from the superintendent.

"Well," said Mc. "Just wire the superintendent that Judge McIntosh, of Illinois, desires the Twilight Limited to stop up at this station."
The agent sent the request and the order came back, "train will stop for Judge McIntosh."

Mr. McIntosh reached home on the Northwestern limited Sunday morning—owing to his being a judge.

Sees Peril in Wealth.

Hon. William J. Calhoun, of Chicago, in an address before the Marquette club of that city, said among many other good things: "The enervating influences of wealth were calculated to break down the character of a nation and rob it of valor. But it is the underlying principles of valor—the spirit of self-sacrifice that prompts men to offer their lives for humanity, their God and their country—that hold for the world the chief attractiveness of valor," he said.

"The enervating influences of wealth are calculated to break down the character of a people; vice, evil and corruption are calculated to break down the character of a nation and rob it of valor," he continued. "When a people will not fight and fight hard for the maintenance of national principles and in defense of its institutions it is not because the nation lacks men or means, but because the right spirit from which valor springs has been lost."

"When the corrupting influences of wealth and the milder of corruption spread over the social and political life of a community valor will vanish. No nation ever achieved lasting triumph or won a permanent station in history unless it was valorous."

"Whenever a man forgets the responsibilities of citizenship he is helping to break down the valor of the nation. Whenever the city council, the state legislature, the congress or an individual in office invites suspicion or lowers the dignity of official duties help is being given to the breaking down of national valor."

"The increasing responsibilities and broadening problems that result from the growing prosperity of the nation make it manifest that there is a greater demand now than ever before for valor in the American people."

FAILED TO NOMINATE.

Anti-Saloon Caucus Decides Upon Course of Political Action.

Select No Candidates—Petition For Submission of Issue.

The call issued last Friday for a meeting of "those friendly to the cause of temperance" to assemble in the village hall Monday evening to nominate an anti-saloon ticket to be voted for at the coming spring election attracted about 50 people, the majority of whom it must be said were not there because they were in sympathy with the movement, but because they wished to see what the anti people proposed to do in a matter which has been agitated pro and con for some weeks past.

There is no doubt but what the signers of the call intended to place in nomination a ticket when they started out, and just why they did not do so is explained in several ways.

The meeting was called to order by Frank Dohmeyer, Rev. W. H. Tuttle was chosen chairman and F. L. Waterman secretary. Mr. Dohmeyer stated the object of the meeting. It developed that there was a difference of opinion as to whether the time was ripe to nominate a straight no-license ticket, or to ask that the question be submitted. M. B. McIntosh was in favor of proceeding to name candidates for president, clerk and trustees, while J. E. Heise was of the opinion that the proper proceeding was to have the proposition license or no-license submitted to the voters on the ticket named by the caucus to be held tomorrow evening.

Harvey Harnden and Delos Church expressed ideas on the question, as did Messrs. Dohmeyer and F. J. Alverson. President Lamey, of the present board of trustees, was asked for an opinion and gave it frankly.

After some discussion a resolution was passed to the effect that a petition be prepared and presented to the village clerk, requesting that the following proposition be placed upon the ballot to be voted at the village election: "For license. Against license."

The meeting then adjourned. The action of the meeting will accomplish the desired result, that is it will place the voters on record and give them an opportunity to keep hidden their preference for candidates.

It has been said that the sense of the meeting was influenced by the presence of so many who were supposed to be opposed to its object.

The Review is of the opinion that such statement is wrong, and had the anti people proceeded to nominate a ticket, they would have found some 30 or 35 of those present there not to vote but simply out of curiosity. That the question should and will be submitted there is no doubt. What the result will be is merely conjecture. The little white ballot will record the verdict and a majority will rule.

The Caucus Tomorrow Night.

No little interest is manifested in the caucus to be held tomorrow, Saturday evening, at the village hall, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for village officers.

The officials to be chosen this spring are president of the board, clerk and three trustees to succeed Trustees John Robertson, William Grunau and William Peters.

It is announced that President Lamey is a candidate for re-election, as is also Clerk Bennett, seeking a third term. There may be opposition to these officers, but on the eve of the convention little is heard of candidates to oppose them. The field is free, and dark horses may be trotted out at any moment.

Trustees Robertson, Grunau and Peters, are not seeking further honors and decline to allow their names to go before the caucus. The officials have served a number of terms, and are perfectly willing that the glory, honors and salary be settled upon others. As officials, they have at all times carried forward work assigned them in a manner which they determined was best for the village.

There are a number of candidates mentioned for the board, among whom are Silas Robertson, Frank Gieske, F. L. Waterman, J. E. Heise, F. H. Freye, Thomas Creet, H. D. A. Grebe, L. F. Schroeder and others. There is no dearth of material.

The caucus promises to be largely attended and interesting from start to finish.

Alarm at Lake Forest.

"You are plague-bound by scarlet fever," was practically the announcement again made to citizens of Lake

Forest Thursday by the health department of the north-shore town in a printed circular, and the cheerful news was added that the quarantine would be extended again until April 11.

The reason for the carefully-prepared presentation of the health board's view of the situation is found in the hostile attitude which most of the citizens have taken in declaring that the disease which has entered the community is not scarlet fever but a light malignant Philippine fever or "itch," which has been spread through the northern towns by Fort Sheridan soldiers recently returned from the Philippines. An infectious fever, said to be the same as the disease the Lake Forest health board has branded as scarlet fever, is claiming victims in almost every town from Highland Park to Waukegan, where it is reported that there are 130 cases.

In Libertyville, Waukegan, Highland Park and Lake Bluff, where, as in Lake Forest, the disease is light in form but tenacious, the diagnosis is generally "German measles," or "Philippine itch," and the general opinion shared by many medical authorities—outside of Lake Forest—is that it was caught from soldiers off duty.

Meanwhile the town is in a sad plight. Churches and schools are still closed by order of the board, and so strict are the regulations and so fearful have outsiders become of visiting the town that business has been practically killed. Lake Forest college, with its various affiliations, is taking a longer "vacation" than usual—though not at the command of the local health department.

Following is the latest notice, which nearly forbids social intercourse among the citizens: "Persons having business to transact in stores or shops of the town will please finish their errands as speedily as possible in order to avoid gatherings."

LABOR REWARDED.

L. T. Hoy, of Woodstock, will Get a Fat Federal Job.

Luman T. Hoy, one of the main cogs in the "Hopkins-Yates-Lorimer machine" so termed, and secretary of the republican state central committee, has been recommended by Senator Hopkins for the position of sub-treasurer at Chicago, a job which he has been after for almost eight years, but failed to receive because of opposition by Chicago bankers.

As a politician there are few, if any, in this state who can outshine Luman T. Hoy. He has always trotted in the "A" class and in county, district and state politics has occupied the enviable position of aid to senators, governors, judges and leaders. Perhaps to him Senator Hopkins owes his election to the senate, Mr. Hoy managing his campaign. Judge Donnelly owes his elevation to the bench to L. T. Hoy, and many other officials count their success from the day Mr. Hoy took them under his protecting wing.

He has worked diligently for the appointment which at last Senator Hopkins says he shall have if the present sub-treasurer, Mr. Williams, has to be fired bodily.

If to the victors belong the spoils is still recognized by the party as a principal article of faith, then L. T. Hoy is entitled to any office Senator Hopkins can secure for him.

McHenry county republicans, that is a certain element, generally get what they go after, and are to be congratulated on being near the throne.

Fight for the Mayoralty.

Waukegan is in the throes of a municipal campaign which promises to be the hottest ever witnessed in that city. William Bullock, republican candidate for mayor, is charged by the Sun with having secured his nomination "by the most notorious political methods," meaning by that that the primaries were packed and machine tactics employed.

The democrats have nominated ex-Mayor Pearce, who, while mayor of the city, gave a good administration, the only charge against him being that "the city was run wide open."

Both nominees are men of ability, and the result will be that a heavy vote will be polled. The city is not sure ground for either party, both republicans and democrats having carried it in the past. It is said that the republicans are badly split up and a faction will knife Mr. Bullock, but his strong personality and hosts of friends among the young democrats of the city is expected to offset defection in his own party.

MORGAN IS BULLISH ON COUNTRY'S FUTURE

Great Financier Declares the Outlook is Most Promising With Prospects for Continuation.

New York dispatch: J. Pierpont Morgan in an interview unequivocally declared himself to be a bull on the country and its future.

"As for the general situation you may state emphatically and unequivocally," said Mr. Morgan, "that it is most promising, with the country unqualifiedly prosperous. Summing the situation up, not only is there prosperity everywhere, but the promises are of a continuation of that prosperity for a long time to come."

"It seems to me that the general pessimistic talk indulged in not alone in foreign but in local circles is in no sense justified by the facts. It may be true, as some of the captious critics declare, that there are in the market many undigested securities, but ought not the character of these securities to be taken into consideration in a broad or comprehensive view of the situation?"

"To my mind and in my judgment these new securities are essentially sound and stable, and those who have them are in no wise alarmed because of their holdings."

SYNDICATE MANAGER IS LODGED IN JAIL

Operator of Alleged Get-Rich-Quick Concern is Held for Fraudulent Use of Mails.

St. Joseph, Mich., dispatch: Nay Mickels, state manager of the Michigan Investment syndicate, alleged get-rich-quick concern, which was conducted on the mail order plan, with headquarters in Benton Harbor, Mich., has been arrested, charged with using mails with fraudulent purposes.

Mickels was arraigned before United States Inspector W. F. Harvey and was held in $1,000 bail for examination April 16.

Mickels has been doing business in Benton Harbor since Dec. 1 last, selling by mail, securities, lands, whisky, abstracts and whatever else he could dispose of. The specific charge upon which Mickels was arrested, is based on letters to James Cobb of Ohio, purporting to effect the exchange of certain Chicago property on Morgan street for 600 acres of Tennessee or Kentucky land, over which it is alleged Mickels has no control. The officers say they think Mickels is one of a gang that is engaged in the same business all over the country.

The parents insist that the shooting was accidental, but the lad's friends who knew his temper declare he committed suicide.

COUNT RESENTS DEWEY'S WORDS

German Naval Expert Utters Criticism of the American Fleet.

COULD SMASH WHOLE OUTFIT

Kaiser's First Squadron Declared to Be Superior to American Navy, Which is Designated a Heterogeneous Assemblage of Ancient Vessels.

Berlin cablegram: Despite the fact that the Kaiser and the officials of the German foreign office have expressed their satisfaction with Admiral Dewey's explanation to President Roosevelt of his remarks on the German navy, the papers continue to print scathing criticisms of the Admiral. A sensational attack on the United States navy by Count von Reventlow, one of the foremost naval experts in Germany, was published in the Tageblatt.

Could Smash Dewey.

The Count prefaces his criticism with the declaration that the German navy "could smash Dewey's heterogeneous assemblage which has not a single modern armored cruiser." Germany's first squadron, he says, is homogeneous and always ready for instant service, while the American navy is a disorganized, disordered array of ancient vessels.

The maneuvers of the United States navy the Count regards as "generally childish," and as "always resulting in defeats of the hostile fleets, the naval commanders, therefore, gaining large newspaper glory."

Poor Opinion of Gunners.

Count von Reventlow's article is also characterized by a fierce attack on the marksmanship of the American gunners, that of the West Indian fleet being called especially poor. The Count calls the morale of the American navy extremely low, "as indicated by the numerous desertions." The navy, he says further, is woefully deficient in the number of its officers, especially in officers of more than ordinary ability, and he declares his belief that the "United States will some day have a fine navy fleet, but she has not one yet."

The criticism of Count von Reventlow created a sensation here. It is the fiercest of all the recently published attacks.

Will Not Protest.

The officials at the foreign office have dropped all idea of making a protest to the United States government regarding Admiral Dewey's comments. The Admiral's explanations were regarded as eminently satisfactory by Baron von Sternberg, and no communication on the subject has passed between the foreign office and the German embassy at Washington, because the officials here, from the beginning, felt certain that if Admiral Dewey had been correctly reported, the government of the United States would do everything proper on its own initiative, without any reminder from here.

SEIZE THE BAGGAGE OF A DUKE

New York Merchants Say Manchester Gave Them Worthless Check.

New York dispatch: A writ of attachment to cover an alleged debt of $225 was served against the twenty-five pieces of baggage belonging to the duke and duchess of Manchester, who recently arrived from Palm Beach. The writ was procured by a Fifth avenue firm of dealers in antiques. The merchants allege that the duke purchased a shield several months ago, giving in payment his check for £45 on a London bank, which was subsequently returned marked "no funds." A similar attachment was served by a local firm of jewelers on the last visit of the duke and duchess to New York. The duchess was Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati before marriage.

MUST COMPLY WITH STATE LAW

Foreign Corporations in Indiana Have Not Paid the Fee.

Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: The secretary of state will start special deputies out in the state to find foreign corporations that are doing business in Indiana without the authority gained in complying with the foreign corporation law.

The recent general assembly appropriated a sum to be used in enforcing the law. The secretary of state says there are at least 1,000 foreign corporations doing business in Indiana without authority because they have not paid the foreign incorporation fee required by law.

Just a Way They Have. "Queer thing about physicians," remarked the Norwood philosopher. "What's queer about them?" asked the denizen of Mt. Auburn. "They make their money by practicing," replied the N. p., "and about the time they become so skillful that they don't have to practice any more, they retire."

Lost Opportunity. "No, my boy," said the Cumminsville sage, "it wasn't Solomon who said that he could tell when a man had gone to grass by his seedy appearance. Solomon was a great remarker of remarks, but there were some things he forgot to say until it was everlastingly too late."

Mrs. Laura L. Barnes, Washington, D. C., Ladies Auxiliary to Burnside Post, No. 4, G. A. R., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"In diseases that come to women only, as a rule, the doctor is called in, sometimes several doctors, but still matters go from bad to worse; but I have never known of a case of female weakness which was not helped when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used faithfully. For young women who are subject to headaches, backache, irregular or painful periods, and nervous attacks due to the severe strain on the system by some organic trouble, and for women of advanced years in the most trying time of life, it serves to correct every trouble and restore a healthy action of all organs of the body."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a household reliance in my home, and I would not be without it. In all my experience with this medicine, which covers years, I have found nothing to equal it and always recommend it."—MRS. LAURA L. BARNES, 607 Second St., N. E., Washington, D. C.—$5.00 per bottle if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

RICH PACKER PASSES AWAY

Gustavus F. Swift Dies From Hemorrhage Caused by an Operation.

ESTATE VALUED AT $20,000,000

Son of Poor Parents, He Got His Start
By Peddling Meat in His New England Home and Builds Up a Great Fortune.

Gustavus Franklin Swift, millionaire packer, financier and philanthropist, whose name is familiar in almost every country of the world, died at his home, 4848 Ellis avenue, Chicago,
of hemorrhage caused by an operation.
Mr. Swift was 64 years old.

His death was sudden and unexpected, and while he had been sick for some time he felt strong until the moment the hemorrhage seized him. Ten minutes later he was lifeless. All the members of his family were at his bedside with the exception of Herbert L.
Swift, who, thinking his father on the

GUSTAVUS F. SWIFT

road to quick recovery, left for New York the evening before.

Was a Millionaire.
Mr. Swift's fortune is estimated at $20,000,000 and the sale of Swift &
Co., of which he was the president,
amounted last year to more than $200-000,000. This vast wealth is the outcome of a single cow, bought, butchered and peddled by a barefooted boy
at Sandwich, Cape Cod, nearly fifty years ago.

From this start he rose to the eminent position which he held in the commercial world. From one beef which netted him $30 to products which represented hundreds of millions of dollars.

Parents Were Poor.
Gustavus Franklin Swift was born
June 24, 1839, at Sandwich, Cape Cod.
His parents were poor and he had to work for his living at an early age.
He went to school at Sandwich and at Brighton, but his school days were not of long duration. At the age of 14 he was employed by a butcher at Sandwich, working for him nearly a year. His salary was little more than $1 a week.

His First Venture.
He conceived the idea of being a butcher himself and put the idea into action almost immediately. He went out into the country and purchased a fat cow. This he butchered, quartered and cut up into steaks, pieces for boiling and roasting. Then with a cart he started out to peddle the meat to his friends. He went from house to house and quickly disposed of the entire beef. This netted him quite a profit and he bought another cow, disposing of it in the same way.
A day or so later he bought a hog. His pork went as quickly as did his steaks
and his roasts. Then he began buying bunches of cattle and selling them
"on foot." He also bought hogs in the same manner and drove them through the country, disposing of them to the farmers at a profit.

Had Many Interests.
Mr. Swift also controlled a large number of other industries throughout the United States. One of these is Kingston Plan Is Abandoned.

Kingston, Jamaica, cablegram: Definite abandonment of the proposed reciprocity treaty with the United States was announced by the Governor, Sir Arthur Hemming, in answer to questions in the legislature.

Organizes Hired Girls.
Pittsburg, Pa., dispatch: Organizer T. H. Flynn of the American Federation of Labor has succeeded in establishing a local union composed of girls working in private residences

the Northern Packing and Provision company, which does a great deal
toward supplying the New England states. The company has offices at Newark, Worcester and Springfield.
This company deals largely in hogs.
He also controlled the Merwin Packing company, White, Peavy & Dexter, Libby, McNeal & Libby and the Western Meat company of San Francisco.

Owned Stock Yards.
He owned the stock yards at St.
Louis, St. Paul, St. Joseph, Brighton and Fort Worth. The new plant which was installed at Fort Worth and opened Nov. 8 last is worth in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. Besides these he controlled the Consumers'
Cotton Oil company of Texas, the Cotton Oil refinery of Memphis, Tenn., and the Mixed Fertilizer company of Augusta, Ga.

Southern Fertilizer.
He was one of the first to realize that the thing which the Southern soil needed was the mixed fertilizer. Chemical tests proved to him that this fertilizer was the very thing to renovate the well nigh ruined soil in many parts of the South. Consequently the plant was established at Atlanta and more than 250,000 tons were sold to the state of Georgia last year.

Possessed Vast Ranches.
He also owned a large number of ranches, the Childers ranch of Texas
being one of the largest. In the Dakotas and in Colorado are other vast ranches, and still more are in Indian Territory and Oklahoma. His sheep feeding stations in Kansas are the largest in the country. The one at Solomon City is said to be the biggest of all.

SISTERS SMASH TWO SALOONS
Kansas Girls Brook No Interference
When Seeking Brother.

Winfield, Kas., dispatch: The two daughters of John Osborne of this city, armed with pistols and hatchets,
while in search of their brother, Ed
Osborne, smashed down doors and destroyed other property at two saloons.
They first visited Arthur Schmidt's place in North Main street and, being refused admittance, battered down the front door. The bartender attempted to draw his revolver, when the sisters promptly covered him with their pistols and he dropped down behind the counter. Before leaving the place they smashed a number of bottles and glasses. At another place nearby they smashed a large front window when refused admittance. They were not arrested.

MAY THROW OUT 200,000 MEN
Strike of the Structural Iron Workers
Likely to Spread.

New York dispatch: According to the officers of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, there is a possibility that the strike of structural ironworkers
against the American Bridge Company
may eventually throw 200,000 persons out of employment throughout the country. President Frank Buchanan said: "We will fight until we win.
There is a possibility of 200,000 people
being involved if the strikes are continued. This we do not want."

School Superintendent Is Arrested.
Estherville, Iowa, dispatch: Prof.
Edwin Dukes, superintendent of public schools, has been arrested on a charge of assault and battery made by W. H. Foote for injuring his son Clare, who was a pupil under the superintendent.

Archbishop Katzer Ill.
Fond du Lac, Wis., dispatch: Archbishop Katzer of Milwaukee is at St.
Agnes' hospital on account of ill health. His condition is not what would be considered serious, yet he feels that he needs recuperating.

Sells Race Horse.
London cable: R. V. Siever has sold his famous race horse, Sceptre,
to W. A. H. Bass of the Tenth Hussars.
Mr. Siever refused a bid of $15,000 for the horse from W. K. Vanderbilt

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Measures Under Consideration in the Capitol at Springfield.

DARROW SCORES THE COURTS

Declares Workingmen Must Protect Themselves From Men Who Are on the Bench to Serve Their Former or Prospective Clients.

"The workingmen must protect themselves from men who are on the bench to serve their former clients or
their prospective ones," said Clarence
S. Darrow in the course of a heated debate in the house.

The measure under consideration was Chipperfield's bill to prohibit the issuance of injunctions in labor controversies without notice to and hearing of the persons (union men) proposed to be enjoined. Mr. Sherman had offered as an amendment for insertion after the clause requiring such notice the following words: "For good cause any court may otherwise order."

"I am willing," Mr. Sherman said,
"to go a long way in trying to remedy
the evil that has come from the indiscriminate use of the writ of injunction,
but the bill asks us to go too far. In its present form, it cuts both ways,
and might be productive of great injury to either the employer or the employee. There are occasions when to give notice of an application for an injunction would defeat the purpose of the injunction. In its present form
I regard the bill as dangerous to the personal and property rights of laboring men and employers. I insist that the bill be made less sweeping."

"This bill," said Mr. Darrow in answer, "is mild in comparison with the viciousness of the injunction practice
which has grown up among the courts.
The practice has become a shame and a disgrace to the state and to the nation. I have seen this practice grow until it has become a menace to liberty and property as well. The workingmen have seen the menace, and they realize that in order to prevent further invasion of human liberty they must declare war on this practice. They see the time approaching when the lives and property of the poorer people will be absolutely under the dictation and control of men who have come to the bench from the law office
of a corporation or who are getting ready to leave the bench to step into such an office. They must protect themselves from men who are on the
bench to serve their former clients or
their prospective ones."

"There is one thing which appears to have been overlooked by the gentleman," said Mr. Bundy in reply.
"This bill does not correct the evil of which he complains. It does not even touch it. These abuses do not exist in the state courts of Illinois. The trouble lies in the federal courts, and this legislature is without power to remedy it. All the abuse has been in the United States' courts."

Libel Bill Is Beaten.
The Farnum libel bill failed to pass
after Senators Rees and Fowler had spoken against it as an unwise attempt to curb the freedom of the press
and Senators Humphrey and Dunlap had spoken for it. The bill received only 17 votes to 22 against it. Senator Humphrey gave notice of a motion to reconsider.

Police Commission.
The Evans bill of the senate, providing that cities of more than 5,000
and less than 50,000 may, by vote, have their police and fire departments managed under a board of commissioners,
passed the house by a vote of 118 to 1.
The act provides for a measure of civil service in the management of fire and police departments.

Uniform Text-Books.
The three house bills upon the subject of uniform text-books have been incorporated into one measure, which will be reported as a committee bill
from the house education committee.
The committee bill affects the state exclusive of Cook county, and provides for the selection of books by a commission composed of six members appointed by the governor and the state superintendent of public instruction. The free text-book feature of one of the bills has been eliminated.

Referendum Vote.
The resolution for submission to vote of a constitutional amendment
establishing the initiative and referendum has been acted on favorably by the house judiciary committee. The resolution, however, has been amended. The amendments provide in substance that a majority of all the votes cast at the election at which the proposition is submitted must favor the resolution before affirmative action may be taken, and that a law adopted by direct vote of the people shall be of no greater force than one

Railway Clerks Organize.
The Cairo branch of the order of railway clerks held a meeting and twenty new members were added to the list, making an entire membership of over forty. The Cairo branch includes the railroad clerks of Cairo, Mounds and Bird's Point, Mo., and at the three places there are 150 eligible to membership, nearly all of whom will join the order. The Cairo branch will be formally instituted April 19,
when a delegation of 100 clerks from St. Louis will arrive in the ceremonies.

passed by the legislature, and that the legislature shall have power to record an act adopted by the people.

Angers the Democrats.
The bill reconstructing the fourth Supreme Court district in order to make it Republican in complexion passed the senate. It will be a law when signed by the governor. Its passage threw the Democratic side into bad temper. Senator Stringer objected when Senator Berry asked unanimous consent for its consideration. The rules were suspended by a party vote, 33 to 13, and it was put upon its passing. Senators Meehan and Fowler said there was no demand for a change in the boundaries of the district, except to make a Republican district in which Justice Carter, who sits on the Supreme bench from that district, may be re-elected. No Republican took the pains to talk for the bill. It passed by a party vote, 34 to 13.

State Architect.
Senator Humphrey and Senator
Fowler clashed in the judiciary committee over the bill for repeal of the law creating the office of state architect. Chairman Humphrey would not let it come up without a written report of a subcommittee of which Senator Fowler was chairman. Both talked so loud nobody could make out what either said. The discussion accomplished nothing.

The house judiciary committee ordered a favorable report on a bill to give the state architect, in addition to his salary, "necessary traveling expenses when engaged in the superintendence and construction of work for state institutions and all of the actual and necessary expenses incurred by him in the preparation of plans and specifications."

Country Members Control.
Republican house leaders are backing Representative Lindly in his refusal to force action on the Mueller
bill. They figure apparently that no good could result from hasty consideration and that under no circumstances could the Mueller bill be reported to the house before Thursday. Adjournment will be taken Thursday until the following Wednesday. House bills on second reading have been made special orders. The first of these is the Erickson bill to increase salaries of members of the general assembly from $1,000 to $2,000. The next is the Wilkerson Chicago new charter resolution. This measure failed to secure more than sixty-eight out of necessary 102 votes in the house last week and comes up again on a motion to reconsider the Schlegelhauf amendment to cut the senatorial representation of Cook county to seventeen districts. This is the so-called "ripper" amendment. The third special order is the convict labor bill, which is on order of third reading and which probably will be passed without serious opposition. The present arrangement is to continue all special order business until next week which is not completed this week.

The house plan seems to contemplate the blockade of all undesirable bills with special orders. The lobby has it that the Erickson salary bill
and the Wilkerson Chicago new charter resolution will be killed and that no street railway enabling bill will be passed this session. There is a strong sentiment here against municipal ownership in any form. It is pointed out by many members that there is nothing to prevent the city of Chicago from extending street railway leases
twenty years under the horse and dummy act and inserting provision in these leases making them terminable
by the city upon adoption by the legislature of a bill providing for municipal ownership.

Only three members were present
when the senate convened Monday night and there was less than a quorum in the house. By unanimous consent Representative Lurten's bill to compel street railway companies to equip their cars with vestibules and Mr. Farley's bill to regulate the manufacture of explosives were read and advanced to second reading.

Good Roads.
A bill recently introduced in the house by Representative Curtis to "authorize the improvement of highways and streets and to provide for the cost thereof" is a good roads feature borrowed from Indiana that may enable residents of the country to enjoy a privilege much desired. By the terms of the bill the people of any township, upon the petition of fifteen resident property owners, may have the question of building hard roads
and issuing bonds to pay therefor submitted to the voters of the township,
the bonds to draw not to exceed 4 1/2 per cent. Under the present road law the township can vote a tax each year on the building of roads, but cannot issue bonds. Under the present law a township would be ten or fifteen years building the roads it needs by the annual tax plan and the first roads built would be pretty well worn out by the time the last ones were completed. By building the roads at one time the people could have the use of them and pay for them in installments, and advocates of the measure argue that the use of the roads is certainly worth more than the interest on the bonds.

Teachers' Examinations.
Superintendent of Schools R. L.
Lowry of Upper Alton announces the following dates for examination for teachers' certificates. Upper Alton,
April 11; Edwardsville, April 25;
Highland, May 6; Granite City, May 30.

Housemaids Organize.
The kitchen and house girls of Decatur will organize a union for mutual protection and regulation of wages.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

FORMER PRIEST DOES PENANCE

Deserts His Family and Goes Into Retirement in Canada.

Rev. C. LaFontaine, a former Catholic priest, 75 years old, who had been excommunicated by the church, is believed to be in a monastery in Eastern Canada, doing penance. His deserted family lives in St. Anne, near Kankakee, and some of his relatives believe he is being detained against his will.
Father LaFontaine abjured the Catholic church after hearing the ex-Catholic priest, Father Chiniquy. He was ordained as a Presbyterian minister,
and then became a storekeeper in St.
Anne. He married, became rich and was the father of two daughters.
Three months ago he left home and met a Canadian nephew in Chicago,
who invited him to take a trip through Quebec. L. Blanchette, a son-in-law of the missing man, living at St. Anne,
has received a letter from the ex-priest, inclosing one to his wife. Beyond stating that the writer had entered a Catholic refuge, no clue was given as to the old man's whereabouts.

BIG FOUR TO REDUCE MOUNTAIN

Large Hill Is to Be Used to Fill in Right of Way.

The Big Four must make an extensive fill in the vicinity of Wanda in building its short line from Hillsboro to Mitchell. It has been found necessary in crossing Indian creek and the Illinois Terminal railroad to build a 35-foot embankment for a distance of nearly two miles, the embankment to be 36 feet across at the crown. All railroads to be crossed by the Big Four short line will be crossed overhead. To make this big fill to carry the tracks overhead it will be necessary to use many hundreds of thousands of yards of earth. A large hill near Wanda will be bought by the Big Four and the earth will be taken from
it. The hill is known locally as a "mountain" because of its great height, and the railroad improvement will remove an interesting landmark in that vicinity, as it is believed the greater part of the hill will be needed to make the necessary fill.

To Protect Rights.

The owners of the land along the line of the new Frisco railroad in Montgomery county met and organized to protect their interests in the coal rights and the matter of disposing of these interests to the best advantage. Sumner Barry was elected president and E. C. Richards secretary, and the following executive committee was selected: Sumner Barry, E. C. Richards, William Atterbury, George Monroe, Arthur Greene, Amos Barry and James Hope. All the land in a strip one and one-half miles wide and three miles long is to be included in the proposed syndicate.
The strip begins one and one-half miles south of Hillsboro.

Denounces Bachelors.

Vicar General Hickey, rector of the church of the Immaculate Conception
at Springfield, addressed a congregation numbering 700 people in his church on "The Sacrament of Matrimony." The speaker declared against the state of bachelorhood, saying that the man remaining single is of no benefit to mankind. Only those males whose employment would suffer
thereby were exempted in the denunciation. The address is the most radical utterance of Father Hickey
since the beginning of his pastorate
twenty years ago.

Dedication Date.

The dedication of the new Methodist Episcopal church at East Alton will take place April 19. The church
cost $2,500 and is the opening of a new field. Rev. M. H. Ewers of Alton, Rev. Dr. F. M. Van Tresse of Lebanon and Rev. C. L. Peterson of Alton will participate in the dedicatory exercises.

Champion Woman Bowler.

Miss Louise Westenberg wrested
the championship of Springfield for lady bowlers from Mrs. Erhardt Mueller in a match game. Miss Westen-berger's high score was 205 pins, which topped the former record by two pins.

Pays for Folly.

J. C. Watson of De Soto, Watson county, was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary by the federal court at Springfield because he took a check for $4.50 from a letter addressed to another man with a name similar to his.

Passes Century Mark.

Mrs. Nellie Dale, an Alton colored woman, claims to be 103 years of age,
and claims also to have the proof
necessary to substantiate her claim.

Farmers' Telephone Line.

Another farmers' telephone line is being constructed in Liberty prairie, running north, by Manager McKee of the Central Union at Alton. Quite a number of prominent farmers are subscribers and many more will go on after the line is in operation.

To Build Interurban Lines.

The work of securing sufficient amount of funds for building interurban lines in and out of Quincy is being pushed with satisfactory progress
in neighboring towns and villages.

APPLE GROWERS ELECT CHIEFS

F. N. Black of Clayton Is President and J. Handy Secretary.

The Mississippi Valley Apple Growers' association held its fifth annual meeting at Quincy, and there was an unusually large attendance of orchardists from Illinois and Missouri. The retiring president, Henry C. Cupp of Fall Creek, delivered his annual address and declined re-election. Daniel Shank of Clayton read an interesting paper on "The Orchard," and Henry Nuerdoffer of Quincy had an instructive paper on fertilization. The fruit growers reported that the peach crop
would be a failure; that the cherries
would be uncertain, but that the outlook for apples was very promising. S.
N. Black of Clayton was elected president and James Handy of Quincy
secretary-treasurer of the association.
It was voted to incorporate as an ele-mosynary society.

GOOD CHANCE FOR COAL MINE

Indications Point to Another Shaft
Being Sunk at Nashville.

The prospects for another coal mine
in Nashville are exceptionally bright at present. Col. Louis Krughoff, cashier of the First national bank, will soon begin the drilling for coal on his land at the outskirts of the city. Several years ago local citizens prospected for natural gas, but were unable to secure a practical supply. At that time it was noted that coal was underlying, but the thickness of the vein and other particulars were not obtained, and the prospecting for coal
was not undergone, owing to the failure of the previous project. If the vein underlying the land warrants it a shaft will be sunk. The location of the proposed mine is at the intersection of the Louisville and Nashville and Illinois Southern railroads.

IS FARMERS' CHIEFTAIN.

H. G. Easterly of Carbondale at the last session of the executive committee of the Illinois state farmers' institute was elected president for the ensuing year. Mr. Easterly has been long recognized as a state leader. He is 45 years of age and was elected congressional director in 1899,

twice re-elected and elected vice president in 1902.

New Coal Mine.

A coal mine is to be opened at Farmersville, in the north part of Montgomery county. A company has been organized for the purpose with a capital stock of $10,000. The mine will be located on the Jackson Witt
farm, on the Illinois Central railroad,
about one-quarter mile from Farmers-ville. The officers of the new company are: Tees Helen, president;
William Graham, secretary, and C. H.
Nobbe, treasurer.

Mother Has Son Arrested.

Mrs. Mary Byers caused the arrest of her 14-year-old son at Alton because she feared the boy would fulfill a threat to kill her. Mrs. Byers said that she was unable to control the boy and that in her efforts to do so she had incurred his enmity. The boy said that he refused to give all his earnings to his mother, and claimed that fact was responsible for his arrest.

To Deepen River.

Chief Engineer Woerman and a corps of government surveyors and draughtsmen visited Beardstown to take the exterior level of the river and surrounding country five miles on each side. The survey is being made with a view to making a 14-foot channel in the Illinois and Desplaines rivers, for which the government has appropriated $200,000.

Fix Miners' Scale.

The operators and miners' joint convention met at Peoria. The convention officers stated at the adjournment of the session that all four of the questions over which there was a serious difference—the delivery of powder,
room turning, hours for drivers and taking out of slate—were satisfactorily adjusted.

More Pay for Miners' Officers.

The miners of the seventh subdistrict of district No. 12, in convention
at Murphysboro, increased the salaries of the president and secretary-treasurer 12 1/2 and 100 per cent, respectively. The joint convention of miners and operators was organized and are endeavoring to reach an agreement on the scale of wages for miners in the 7th subdistrict. An elaborate entertainment and banquet was given the operators by the miners. Forty-one operators and 102 miners delegates are attending the convention.

Perpetual Motion Achieved Again.

According to information coming from Texas, perpetual motion has been achieved again, and it is announced that the wonderful machine will be exhibited at the world's fair in St. Louis.

It is curious that the solvers of this long puzzling problem—and there are several of them every year—always live in out of the way places far from the usual haunts of applied science. There is always a certain vagueness in the descriptions sent out by local correspondents, owing doubtless to their unfamiliarity with scientific terminology. In this instance, however, the chronicler has explained just why the inventive youth has succeeded where all others failed. The point is that "he has been able to overcome the 'dead level' which has floored all his predecessors in this field of research and experiment."

This "dead center" has skulked like a skeleton in many an inventor's closet. At the door of that closet they have laid their failures. It is gratifying, therefore, to learn that the arch enemy of perpetual motion has at last been conquered.

This new Texas wizard has also solved the further problem which science has claimed never would be solved—of drawing force from the machine. He claims that he has produced 100 revolutions a minute from his test machine, which is constructed of wood, and he is now making plans for a new machine to run at 200 revolutions a minute and develop fifty horsepower. When one remembers the Keely motor, it is not surprising to read that "a gentleman," when he saw the machine running, offered $10,000 for a half interest in it. The Keely motor ran in the inventor's laboratory, but not by sympathetic vibrations, and it did not furnish perpetual motion. These turning wheels in Texas may not be what they seem.

Decreasing Size of Families.

William E. Curtis, staff correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, has taken the trouble to compile from the twelfth census reports a table regarding the decreasing average in the size of families in the several sections of the country. Here is the table:

Average size of family.	1880.		1900.
	1880.	1900.	1880.	1900.
New England	4.8	4.6	4.9	4.4
New York	4.8	4.4	5.1	4.8
Pennsylvania	5.1	4.8	5.2	5.0
South Atlantic states	5.2	5.0	5.0	4.4
Ohio	5.1	4.4	5.1	4.4
Indiana	5.0	4.4	5.2	4.7
Illinois	5.2	4.7	4.9	4.4
Michigan	4.9	4.4	5.2	4.9
Wisconsin	5.2	4.9	5.2	5.1
Minnesota	5.2	4.9	5.2	4.6
Iowa	5.2	4.6	5.4	4.7
Missouri	5.4	4.7	4.3	4.9
North Dakota	4.3	4.8	5.1	4.8
South Dakota	4.3	4.8	5.1	4.8
Nebraska	5.1	4.8	5.0	4.6
Kansas	5.1	4.8	5.0	4.6

According to these figures, the decrease in ten years in New England was two-tenths of 1 per cent, in New York five-tenths, in Pennsylvania three-tenths, in Ohio six-tenths, in Indiana seven-tenths, in Illinois five-tenths, in Michigan five-tenths, in Wisconsin three-tenths, in Iowa six-tenths, in Missouri seven-tenths and in Kansas four-tenths.

As this reckoning includes all races, it has no value with regard to relative size of the families of long establishment in the country and those of later immigration, though it indicates a steady decrease in the size of American families and undoubtedly applies more to the native stock than to the late importations. While this decrease may perhaps not be sufficiently alarming to warrant the fear of "race suicide" and the ultimate extinction of the American stock, it denotes a tendency which may well be taken into serious account in the contemplation of the future destiny of the American nation and people.

Young Plants

In connection with the Colorado miners' strike it is perhaps not out of place to notice that one company found it necessary to maintain a low scale of wages because it had issued $13,000,000 of stocks and bonds on a $2,000,000 investment and was trying to pay interest and dividends. That's the usual way.

A young men's debating society in Massachusetts is going to discuss the proposition "that unmarried women over thirty years of age should be taxed for the support of the unmarried men." How are they to establish the fact that the ladies have reached the taxable age?

It is intimated that Baron de Rothschild, like Mr. Rockefeller, would be willing to give a fabulous sum for a good, healthy digestive apparatus. This is one of the penalties that rich men often pay. When the luxuries are within their reach, they cannot enjoy them.

This much may be said of the course in journalism which is to be established at Syracuse university—it won't do any harm, even if it doesn't do any good.

It is announced that there is to be no woman's building at the St. Louis exposition. Perhaps it is just as well. The chances are that if the women had a building they wouldn't stay in it.

A statistical professor in the University of Chicago declares that "Chicago is the second largest Bohemian city in the world, the third Swedish, the third Norwegian, the fourth Polish, the fifth German (New York being the fourth)." In all there are some forty foreign languages, including the English language.

Although the United States arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., has been destroyed by fire, it may be of interest to some of our European friends to know that we have another at Springfield, Mass., which is in excellent working order.

Despite the low price some people put on marriage, it may be observed from the court records of recent breach of promise suits that the price of broken hearts is mounting steadily.

Whether or not Dr. Parkhurst succeeds in establishing his ideal newspaper, his proposition has been a great boon to the paraphraser.

Carnegie libraries have lately been rejected by the voters of two communities in New York state—at Mamaroneck, in Westchester, and at Frankfort, in Herkimer county. The people in both these towns say they want good roads more than they want books. Roads no less than books are not merely an adjunct, but a foundation of civilization. Having refused the books, it is only to be hoped that the good people of Mamaroneck and Frankfort will make it their serious business to provide themselves with good roads.

"Always strive to gain the confidence of your customer," is the advice given by one of the speakers at the opening session of the annual convention of the American Milliners' association. Apparently most of the milliners do this, and, judging from some of the creations in headgear they turn out, not a few of them abuse this confidence.

Near Monacaqua Station, Pa., a small boy took a tablecloth from a basket of provisions he was carrying and with it flagged a train which was in danger of running into several tons of debris on the track. Possibly the engineer thought a new meal station had been established on the line.

A Kansas City youth stole a pair of shoes because he needed them to wear to a dance and was arrested, convicted and sent to jail. Do the inconsiderate authorities of that town expect a man to go to a dance barefooted?

It is said that Miss Helen Gould receives 1,300 letters a week, but with an income of $500,000 a year she can afford to hire some one to read them for her.

The Ohio river has within the past week been more than ten miles wide in places, but in less than six months the boatmen will be complaining because there is no water in the old thing. Some rivers are just as inconsistent as some people.

The police commissioner of New York has issued an order calculated to stop policemen from helping themselves to peanuts, candy, bananas, etc., displayed by street vendors. What does the commissioner think the police force is for anyway?

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Tired Out

"I was very poorly and could hardly get about the house. I was tired out all the time. Then I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it only took two bottles to make me feel perfectly well."—Mrs. N. S. Swinney, Princeton, Mo.

Tired when you go to bed, tired when you get up, tired all the time. Why? Your blood is impure, that's the reason. You are living on the border line of nerve exhaustion. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and be quickly cured.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows all about this grand old family medicine. Follow his advice and you will be satisfied.

Animals That Delight to Play.
In animals the faculty of amusement awakes very early. Our four footed friends seem to be aware of this and make it a part of their parental duties to amuse their young. A ferret will play with her kittens, a cat with hers, a dog with her puppies. A mare will play with her foal, though the writer has never seen a cow try to amuse her calf nor any birds their young. If their mothers do not amuse them, the young ones invent games of their own.—London Tit-Bits.

The Coldness of Space.
Away out in space is a cold so intense that we fairly fall to grasp its meaning. Perhaps 300 or 400 degrees below the freezing point of water, some philosophers think, are the dark recesses beyond our atmosphere. And night and day, summer and winter, this insatiable space is robbing us of our heat and fighting with demoniac power to reduce our globe to its own bitter chill.

STEADY ATMOSPHERE.

A Prime Requisite For the Study of Planet Surfaces.

Astronomical science is divided naturally into two parts, that pertaining to the stellar universe and that pertaining to our own immediate family of planets. The latter are the only bodies in the heavens of which we are aware that at all resemble our earth, and they are all, comparatively speaking, our near neighbors and have, therefore, a much more personal and popular interest than the stellar universe at large. The study of their relative motions was virtually completed during the last century, so that at the present time the astronomy of the planets is confined chiefly to a study of their dimensions and surface conditions.

For this study there is one paramount requisite, and that is a steady atmosphere. With a good atmosphere important results may be obtained even with a small telescope of only five or six inches diameter; but without such an atmosphere the very largest telescope will be of no avail. This is not the case in other departments of astronomy; for many kinds of observations on the stellar universe the quality of the atmosphere is of little account, provided only that it is cloudless and transparent; but for the planetary and lunar astronomy a steady atmosphere is the fundamental requisite. To understand what is meant by a steady atmosphere we have only to look at some object across a hot stove or along the line of a railroad track upon a summer day. There is a shimmer in the air, a wavering motion, with which we are all more or less familiar. This wavering is always present in our atmosphere, although we usually cannot see it; but when we magnify the image of a planet in a telescope 1,000 times we magnify the atmospheric tremors in the same proportion, and they are then not only conspicuous, but they interfere very seriously with our observations.

In some parts of the world the atmosphere is much more steady than in others, and it is evidently a matter of the highest importance for the astronomer interested in planetary research to find where these places are situated. To illustrate the importance of this matter I may say that situated in one of these favored spots I saw night after night with a five inch and even with a four inch lens planetary markings and details that I have never seen even with the largest telescope in Cambridge.—W. H. Pickering in Century.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.
Lightning clouds are seldom more than 700 yards from the earth. Although Jupiter is 1,337 times bigger than the earth it is only 300 times heavier.
All the blood in a man's body passes through his heart once in every two minutes.
The average straight ahead motion of the stars is now put at twenty-one miles a second.

The utmost distance from cloud to earth crossed by a lightning flash is about four miles.

Microscopes which ordinarily magnify 11,000 times have their power increased to 16,000 diameters by immersing the lens in vaseline oil.

A polished metallic surface is always positively electrified with regard to an unpolished surface. Sticky substances and those that give off dust are always positive.

Bismarck as a Court Officer.
It was while a student at Berlin or a little later that Bismarck served for a few months as court officer. An oft told story of that time will bear repetition here: A witness annoyed Bismarck so much that at last he lost all patience and threatened to throw the man out. Then the judge interferred.

"The court will itself attend to all the throwing out that is done here," said the magistrate, and the taking of testimony proceeded. Later the witness again became obstreperous. Bismarck jumped up in a rage, but, bethinking himself in time, turned his indignation into a humorous channel. "Sir," he yelled, "if you don't behave yourself I shall have his honor the judge throw you out of this courtroom with his own hands!"

Cannel Coal and "Jet."
Cannel coal is a variety of bituminous coal which burns with great freedom, the flame of it affording considerable light. It was called "candle coal" by the English people who first used it, as it often served as a substitute for candles. The name became corrupted to "cannel" and has so remained. It is more compact than ordinary bituminous coal, and it can be wrought in a lathe and polished. A certain variety of it found in Yorkshire, England, is manufactured into a kind of jewelry known as jet.

Still a Victim.

Dr. D. B. Freeman, of New York, is looking after his business interests in our village.

Harry Graham, of Barrington, was a Sunday visitor here.

Messrs. E. L. Harrison and Mr. Roberts, of Chicago, spent Sunday with the former's mother and sister in our village.

George Hapke and family, who have been occupying the rooms above the watchmaker's shop, have removed into the rooms in the Peter Nimsgearn residence recently vacated by Dr. Dawson.

Perle Pratt, who has been employed as manager of the Remington Typewriter Company's establishment at Davenport, Ia., has resigned his position and returned to his home in our village preparatory to starting for the Black Hills, S. Dak., where he expects to secure employment.

Edward Martin, of Barrington, was a Sunday visitor here and vicinity.

Harry O. Van Hart transacted business in the city Wednesday.

Chester Golding, who is attending school at Beloit, Wis., is spending a week's vacation with his parents in our village.

Mrs. J. W. Torrance, of Chicago, was a pleasant caller in our village the first of the week.

President Komp, of Kenosha, Wis., is looking after our bank during the absence of Cashier Van Hart.

John Golding was a Libertyville visitor Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The village lot upon which the old hotel formerly stood is now undergoing a change for the better. Monday morning a force of men were put to work clearing away the old landmark. The work will be pushed and the land leveled, sodded, and trees set out. After this is completed, Wauconda will be possessed of a park seldom equalled.

An "Old Hen" percheesa party was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cooke last Friday evening. Two prizes were awarded, one to the winner and one to the loser. Miss Avis Cooke was the champion of the evening, and was presented with a fine "china" cup and saucer. Mrs. M. A. Price was awarded the booby prize, which was a pair of cast-iron twins. Refreshments were served and a pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent. The ladies have arranged for weekly percheesa parties in the future.

"One of my horses was badly kicked on the hip," writes F. P. Lane, Minneapolis, Minn., "and the flesh torn away from the bone, but Cole's Veterinary Carbolicase soon healed it as sound as ever without a scar." Guaranteed to cure without scars. 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

A Story with a Moral.

Here is the latest story of the man who is too stingy to take his home paper: A man who was too economical to take this paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees, and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into a cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket the wife ran, upset a four gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In the hurry she dropped a $7 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man; the dog broke up eleven sitting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of four fine shirts.—Kansas City Journal.

Woodmen Picnic.

The convention of the Modern Woodmen Picnic association of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin was held in Janesville yesterday and at that time the date was fixed for the annual picnic which is to be held in the Bower City early in June, and the place for holding the next annual picnic was chosen. The Woodmen picnic in this section is one of the great events of the summer season, and the Janesville camps will see that

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Theford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Theford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Theford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.
I have used Theford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

THE GROWING KINDS OF farming save the growing of gold might temporarily be abandoned. The formation and growth are due to mechanical and chemical action. As in the case of the animal or vegetable the gold has existed in some other state before assuming its present form. Waters which percolate through the earth's crust are said to contain substances from which gold is formed. Thus gold, like the animal and vegetable, must have water in order to thrive. The gold in the water is deposited when it meets the proper precipitant. The precipitant may be an earth current of electricity, some vegetable growth or chemical in the rocks. It has been claimed that the nuggets found in placers are the formations from the waters that percolate through the gravels, and are not from decomposed quartz, as generally supposed. Those who so contend cite the fact that in the center of nuggets can be often found a small grain of iron sand. This was the nucleus around which the earth current of electricity created or deposited in electroplating. During long ages this influence was at work causing the gold to form around the little grain of iron ore and then grow to become a bright, shining nugget of gold much larger and purer than any ever found in the veins of ore.

THE FEMINE FIB.

A Judicious Blend of Black, White, Gray and Chinese Lies.

A distinguished preacher once divided lies into "black lies, white lies, gray lies and Chinese lies." The feminine fib is generally a judicious blend of the white lie and the Chinese lie. For the benefit of those who have never graduated in the special mendacity tripos it may be explained that a Chinese lie is, as a rule, purely ornamental, being of the nature of embroidery, which is intended to add beauty and color to the plain object on which it is used as trimming.

The Chinese lie is prompted by the very highest and noblest of motives—namely, a desire to give pleasure to others, many a plain, dull fact being served up and made quite tasty and appetizing by a little judicious garniture of Chinese—er—embroidery. Directed into the proper channel, a Chinese liar becomes a skillful writer of fiction and turns her gift to profitable account. But the everyday feminine amateur, who has not this outlet for her tarradiddle talent, turns her attention to the afternoon tea table and adds a spice to whatever gossip is going by a gentle peppering of fibs.

Unfortunately this gift of imagination is often accompanied by a defective memory, whereas to make a good—er—prevaricator nothing is so essential as a good memory. Without this the employer of the Chinese method is almost certain to get found out sooner or later—generally sooner—and then she has the mortification of finding that her little efforts to please quite fail in their effect. And not only that; but, what is more trying still, she even finds that when from lack of material for fictional purposes she does for once serve up the cold, ungarished truth her hearers have so got in the habit of disbelieving her that her plain statement is received with incredulity. That is why any one who aims at distinction in the fibbing world must carefully cultivate a good memory and so follow the Golden Rule to avoid being found out.—Modern Society.

A Lost Fee.

Dr. Hunter, the famous English physician, invariably received very large fees for his services. On one occasion when he was asked by a lady the amount of his fee he informed her that he made an invariable practice of never fixing its amount. "Very well, sir," the patient promptly answered, "if you cannot fix it I am sure I can't." And, to the doctor's consternation, she walked out of the room without paying him a penny.

MRS. HAROLD STAGG.

CHAPTER XIX.

Twenty-four hours later Emma and her husband were in the train on the way to Chicago. Harold, though still by no means enlightened to his own satisfaction as to the exact meaning of the dialogue which had taken place in his niece's parlor, was, nevertheless, very well pleased at her determination to accept the presidency. Nevertheless, he had not been able to explain to himself how he or Emma had been of assistance to Eleanor in making up her mind or why it had been necessary for them to visit her. There was, obviously, some mystery which Emma appeared to understand, the solution of which was for some reason withheld from him. Moreover, his wife, contrary to expectation, had seemed eager to avoid further discussion of the matter when they were alone together; so much so that she had neglected to call his attention to the fact that she had prophesied that there was a man at the bottom of it. The only further reference made to it by Eleanor had been a promise made by her on the way to the station, whither she accompanied them, to write full particulars of the inauguration ceremonies, the date for which would be fixed as soon as her letter of acceptance of the office had been sent to the trustees.

Five minutes after the train was under way, however, Emma, who had been sitting lost in contemplation, sighed, and with a sympathizing shake of the head, said:

"Poor child! I am sorry for her." As she spoke she cast an interrogative glance at Harold, who answered, somewhat doggedly, "What is the matter now, Cherub?"

"Nothing is the matter; but when a girl is in love with a man it is always hard to give him up. For once in her life Eleanor, however, seems to have acted with discretion."

"Do you mean that she was in love with that man she mentioned, Prof. Struthers?"

"Why, certainly, dear." "Why didn't she say so, then?"

"She did, as plainly as it was possible for her to do, considering that she was not going to marry him."

"I suppose that she decided not to accept him because she did not love him," Harold said. "To tell the truth, though, I was pretty well in the dark all through."

"I saw that you were, dear, and I was rather thankful, for a word of the wrong sort from your lips might have spoiled everything?"

"How do you mean?" "If you had given her any encouragement I am afraid she would have married him."

"I thought you were anxious to have her married."

"So I was—to the right man. But this would never do."

"Why not? This Prof. Struthers is a very decent fellow, and a very able one from all accounts. His invention is already very successful, and he is sure to be rich, and I understand that he has taken out patents for the introduction of electricity as a motive power in moving railroad trains. He is a rising man, I should say, and if Eleanor is in love with him, I think she had better have married him, even if she were obliged to give up her presidency in order to do so."

"It is a little late now," said Emma, majestically. "You should have said so at the time."

"But I tell you I had no idea she was in love with him."

"That was not my fault." "Pshaw! It's an outrage, Cherub. You oughtn't to have let her do it."

Emma coughed uneasily. "I don't mean that she was desperately in love with him. Of course if she had been she would have accepted him very likely, without asking us anything about it. What I mean is that she liked him just well enough, so that, others things being equal, she would have married him. But they weren't equal, and she knew it. He wanted her to give up her position."

"Of course he did. Any man would; and if he had given up his own in order to marry her he would have been a fool. Well, as I said at the time, women are beyond me. Apparently, I am in the position of having advised her to accept the presidency at the cost of her affections."

Emma pursed her lips disdainfully. "As I said before, if she were to marry him, and they were to live out here, it might not have been such a very bad idea if Eleanor had been seriously bent on it; out if she had come to live in New York, he would have been a white elephant on our hands. He knows nobody; in fact, they neither of them know anybody now. What would they have done?"

"Died from sheer lack of companionship in a city of over a million inhabitants. Cherub, you are superb!"

"Laugh if you like, Harold. I am right. She is very much better off as she is. People have got used to thinking of her as a blue stocking and it will be rather a feather in her cap to be known as president of a college, even if she is described in the newspapers as 'Lady President.' But to marry a man who is wrapped up in batteries, and whom no one ever heard of before he invented this machine, or whatever it is, would be neither one thing or another. Unless I were to take them in hand and push them hard, they would have no chance of getting on; and I doubt very much if everything I could do would be sufficient, though it is possible that the great interest which there is in electricity at the moment might save them from falling flat. But I am thankful that I have not got to try."

CHAPTER XX.

Harold was silent for some moments. "I am not sure, Cherub," he said, "that I shall not write Eleanor a letter, telling her that I did not understand the real facts."

"What facts will you tell her you did not understand?" "That she loves that man, of course."

"She will scarcely thank you for that, my dear. Girls do not care to have it said to them that they are in love with men whom they have refused."

"But you said she admitted it." "What I said was that any one could have told she was in love with him. She never said so, in words, of course."

Harold squirmed in his chair disgustedly, and spreading out with a jerk the newspaper which he had just bought, he said:

"If people expect others to give them good advice, they should speak out plainly, instead of beating about the bush. I believe in calling a spade a spade."

Thereupon he relapsed into dignified silence behind the expanse of newspaper, which Emma did not see fit to interrupt until the train stopped for refreshments, an hour or so later.

The Staggs, after visiting Chicago, went to several other cities, so that it was over a fortnight from the date of their departure from Clavering before they reached home. As Emma ran her eye over the packet of letters awaiting them on the hall table, she exclaimed:

"Here's one from Eleanor! I suppose the inauguration must have taken place."

Harold, who was removing his overcoat, heard her gasp a moment after, and looking up, perceived that her eyes were greedily devouring the contents of an open letter with an expression of horror.

"What is it?" he asked. "All I can say is she is a perfect fool!"

"Who is?" "Your precious niece, Eleanor Baldwin."

"What has she done now?" he said, as he approached his wife and looked over her shoulder. "I say, who authorized you to open my letter?"

"Don't be foolish, Harold. Take your old letter. I might have known I couldn't trust her. Why didn't I stay until the ceremony was over?"

"The ceremony? Why, is Eleanor married?" he asked, as he received the letter from her hand.

"The inauguration ceremony, goose."

Harold went into the library, and seating himself near the window to catch the waning afternoon light, read as follows:

"Dear Uncle Harold:—You will think me a regular Reuben, I dare say. 'Unstable as water thou shalt not excel.' Well, I have no wish to excel after this in anything but the homely duties that belong to a purely domestic life. I have told him that I would marry him, Uncle Harold. Prof. Struthers I mean. I thought when you were here, that I was settled in my mind that it was best to give him up; but after you and Aunt Emma were gone I felt so miserable that I went up to my room and had a good cry, and then I knew that I had been trying to deceive myself. There is no use in disguising it, dear Uncle Harold. I love William Struthers and he loves me; and I have written to tell him that I will marry him as soon as he wishes. One of us must give up, and I cannot let him, can I?"

At this point in the letter Harold paused and gave vent to an explosive: "Hooray! Of course she can't let him!" Whereupon he glanced triumphantly at Emma, who, seated, and rocking herself nervously in a little gilt rocking chair, was watching him read. The letter continued:

"I could not bear to have him give up the position which he holds in order to gratify my ambition, so the only way is for me to give up everything for his sake. I did not believe that I could ever do it for any man, but love is a wonderful persuader, dear Uncle Harold."

"I do hope that you and dear Aunt Emma will not feel very badly. I am sure that you will love my husband when you know him, and I am confident that, when you think the matter over, you will agree that, great as was the honor I am renouncing here, true love ought not to be gainsaid for any honor in the world."

Again Harold paused and ejaculated: "Hooray! That girl is a trump!" "Have you finished?" Emma asked, icily.

"Not quite, Cherub. Listen to the last page."

"I have written to the trustees to tell them why I have decided to decline the presidency of the college; and it seems best to me—to William also—that the wedding should take place as soon as possible. I have decided, too, that I should like to be married here, from the college where the last five years of my life have been passed. In asking your permission for this I am not unmindful that you will be sure to wish to have me married from your own house; and such would have been my wish, too, except that by being married here I can give pleasure to a large number of the students who are dear to me, and who could not possibly come to New York. Moreover, if I were married from your house a simple wedding would be almost out of the question, and neither William nor I would like a fashionable ceremony. But if you would prefer it otherwise, we shall give up our own preferences. And now, dear Uncle Harold, let me thank you from the bottom of my heart, and thank Aunt Emma, too, for all the love and kindness you have lavished on me—love and kindness greater than which you could not have shown to any child. Indeed, I feel myself to be your child, and it is with the assurance that you feel similarly toward me that I sign myself

Your loving ELEANOR."

Harold folded up the letter with a beaming expression, but tears in his voice restrained him from speaking for a few moments; then he said, happily:

"What do you think of that?" "I am not trying to think of it," Emma replied in a sepulchral tone. "I suppose you will aid and abet her, as usual?"

"To the extent of telegraphing her my congratulations and high approval of everything she has decided upon, if that is aiding and abetting," he answered, seating himself at his desk and searching for a blank.

"She will probably be married before a justice of the peace," groaned Emma.

"Nonsense. What if she is?" "No proper ceremony; no suitable dress; no invitations; no wedding-cake, I dare say," she murmured, as she rocked herself to and fro.

"You can send her a wedding cake, you know," hazarded Harold.

"Some women would be thankful to be free from the bother of it all," she continued, without regard to his remark; "but there is a right way and a wrong way of doing everything. And," she added, with a dreary sigh, "if there is a wrong way, Eleanor always chooses it. Of course, she can do as she sees fit, and of course, when she comes to New York I shall have to do what I can for her, Harold, because she is your niece; but it is perfectly certain that she and I are fated never to agree on any possible subject—never—never—never!"

"Poor Cherub!" her husband answered, with genuine commiseration, looking up from the telegram he was composing, for he was touched by the melancholy in her voice. "And yet I know," he continued, "that as soon as she comes here, there is nothing you will not do to make her comfortable and happy."

"I suppose I shall be just fool enough," she answered, with mournful emphasis.

For some minutes she rocked herself with folded arms, while Harold wrote and rewrote his telegram.

"Harold," she said, finally. "Well, dear?"

"I have been thinking what we shall give them for a wedding present. They will probably get very little silver, and I think we had better give them spoons and forks. It may take some time to have them marked properly, so the sooner I order them the better."

"Just the thing, I should say," he replied, as he rose from the table, and he stooped to kiss her, exclaiming with proud fondness: "There is no equal to you, Cherub, in the whole world."

Emma received his embrace with pleased complacency. Then she looked up at him and said, before reading the telegram he had dropped in her lap:

"Do you know, Harold, I sometimes think that if I had not married you, you might have done something very foolish."

The End.

AN ODD, ODD FELLOW.

Paid to Learn the Signs and Was Kicked Down Stairs.

"Of all the mean swindles I ever observed," said an Odd Fellow, "the meanest was one down in Texas a couple of years ago. I was living there at that time, and one of my neighbors was a little German saloon-keeper. He wanted to join our order the worst way, but he didn't like putting up the initiation fee."

"One day while the little fellow was dealing out beer in his place a seedy-looking individual entered and asked him if he was an Odd Fellow. The saloon man said he wasn't, and then the seedy-looking chap offered to tell him of all the inner workings of the order for $5."

"You look like a pretty good fellow," said the visitor, "and as long as I don't attend lodge meetings very much any more, I'll give you the grip and all of the secret passwords, so that you can attend the next session held here."

"The saloonkeeper put up the five, and the seedy-looking man explained a queer grip to him and told him of all sorts of queer motions to make with his hands as soon as he entered the lodge hall."

"Well, on our next meeting night up came the little German. When the doorkeeper stopped him he grabbed his hand and began going through all sorts of antics. Then he put his thumbs to his ears and began wiggling his fingers."

"At this stage in the proceedings the doorkeeper threw him down stairs. When he learned how he had been swindled he swore out a 'John Doe' warrant for the arrest of the man who taught him the 'signs,' but that individual never appeared in town again."

A Spotless Character.

Prospective Employer—You don't drink? Applicant—No, sir. "Don't gamble?" "No, sir." "Don't smoke?" "No, sir." "Wouldn't touch the filthy weed, eh?" "No, sir." "Never swear?" "Never, sir."

"Consider it a vile habit, I suppose?" "Yes, sir."

"Well, I guess I'll try somebody else. I wouldn't feel quite comfortable if I had a coachman so much better than I am myself."

Fatal Misunderstanding. "Ah! Good morning, Mr. Editor," said the rural looking visitor briskly, entering the sanctum. "I've brought you in some nice spring poultry, which I—"

"Get out! Get out! Take it away!" exclaimed the busy editor, savagely. "I don't want it! Haven't any room for it."

The rural-appearing visitor hurried out, looking scared. The society reporter got his breath and gasped: "Wh-wh-wh-what's this? No room for spring poultry?"

"Poultry! Great Heavens!" and the editor got up and tore his hair. "I thought he said poetry."

Judging by the Job.

A man was taken on as a laborer in one of the large shipbuilding yards on the Clyde. The first job he had to do was to carry some rather heavy planks. He had been about an hour carrying them, when he went up to the foreman and said:

"Did Ah tell you ma name whin Ah started?" "Aye," said the foreman. "You said it was Tamson."

"Oh, that's a' richt," replied the man, looking over at the pile of planks he had yet to carry. "Ah wis wunnerin' if you thoct Ah said it was Samson."

The Dawn of Hope.

"Yes," said the chronic invalid, "for over a year I have been up against this strange malady without being able to obtain the slightest relief. But now I feel confident that I shall be a well man within three short weeks."

"Trying a new remedy, eh?" queried his friend. "Not me," replied the c. i., "but the doctors have succeeded in separating me from my last dollar, so there is no further inducement to prolong the agony."

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Conscientious.

"Yes, sir, that's one of our most gifted humorists. And yet, sir, he didn't make a single joke about the late George Washington on the occasion of his latest birthday anniversary."

"Indeed?" "That's right. Ah, he's conscientious when it comes to making jokes. It took him two days and a half to find out that he couldn't think of a new one."

Almost the Same Thing.

Did you ever know of an instance in which the office sought the man? asked an argumentative friend of Assistant District Attorney Osborne.

"Well, I don't recall such an incident just now," said the attorney, "but I have known of cases in which an officer has sought a man industriously. It is only a difference of one letter."—New York Times.

"Kidney Colds" Nothing will "lay you up," "play you out," "put you to bed" quicker than a kidney cold.

Thousands feel the first effect of colds in the kidneys; backache, rheumatic pains, urinary disorders, retention of the urine, infrequent and too frequent urinary discharges tell of kidneys out of order.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney ills from common backache to dangerous diabetes.

A. T. Ritenour, owner of the wood yard at 125 East Cork street, Winchester, Va., says: "Ever since I had the grippe I have been a sufferer from kidney troubles, which made themselves apparent in racking pains through the region of the kidneys and across the small of my back. The pains were always severe, and sometimes so sharp and biting that they compelled me to take to my bed. The kidney secretions furnished further evidence of disorders. They were off color, irregular, and painful of passage. Added to this there was an annoying weakness."

"The newspaper advertisements of Doan's Kidney Pills attracted my attention, and I procured a box of that remedy at Franck Baker & Sons' drug store. The relief I experienced was magical. The pills lifted me from my bed of sickness, placed me on my feet, and made me a well man. I can work as well as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills, I believe, saved my life. They are a great remedy to stop kidney troubles resulting from colds."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Ritenour will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

The Foolish Virgins.

Bishop Potter is amusing his friends with an account of a recent visit he paid to a Sunday school class presided over by a staid young clergyman. The Bishop was asked to question the children so that he might be edified by their knowledge of matters Biblical. As a starter he said to a little girl whose face beamed with intelligence, "Who were the foolish virgins, my dear?"

"Them as didn't get married!" was the prompt and emphatic answer.—New York Times.

YOUNG LIFE GONE OUT.

Miss Alice Hawley, a Lady Beloved by All, Passes to Eternal Rest.

Late last Saturday afternoon the sad intelligence reached Barrington of the passing from life work of one of the most highly esteemed young women; one whose lovely traits of character and affectionate nature had won the admiration of every one with whom she became acquainted. Miss Alice Hawley, eldest daughter of E. E. Hawley of this village, departed for the beautiful home beyond, Saturday afternoon, March 28, at the home of her uncle, W. J. Harrower of Chicago. Her illness was of short duration, typhoid pneumonia being the cause of her demise.

For nine years past Alice Hawley had filled the high place of teacher in the public schools of Chicago and her life was one of deep earnestness in her chosen sphere. She was idolized by the scholars in her department, and loved by her superiors.

Alice Hawley was born in Barrington, February 27, 1875. Here she spent the happy days of childhood and first years of beautiful womanhood. She graduated from our village school and fitted herself for a teacher. Here 12 years ago she united with the Baptist church, and continued her membership to the moment of her call to the better life. Although a member of her uncle's household in Chicago for ten years past, the ties of her father's home in this village remained strong and unsevered. To all members of her home she was a true daughter and sister. To her companions of childhood and girlhood days she was always the same honest, considerate friend. Her taking away cast a deep gloom over this community and caused deep sorrow in homes both in Chicago and Barrington, where she was always an honored and esteemed guest. To the father, to the second mother whom she dearly loved as her own, to her brother Glenn, sister Bernice and little half brothers, her loss is a terrible blow which only the Father above can lighten. To the afflicted ones we offer our deepest sympathy.

The remains were brought here on the noon train Monday and taken to the family home on Grove avenue. At 1:30 in the afternoon the casket was transferred to the Baptist church, where in the presence of an assembly which completely filled that edifice, impressive services were held conducted by Rev. C. Henry of Plano, pastor of the church when deceased became a member, assisted by J. C. Garth resident pastor. Mr. Henry paid a high tribute to the departed loved one and in closing said: "Let us not think that Alice is dead. While she has gone from us yet she lives. Everything about us speak of her; these very walls tell of her deeds and her beautiful life. Alice Hawley never lived more truly than she does at this moment."

The services were concluded at the grave when the casket covered with a wealth of floral offerings emblematic of the new life was consigned to the earth in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and loving friends.

Liposky-Schneider Wedding.
The marriage of Miss Bessie Schneider, of Chicago, and Samuel Liposky, of Barrington, occurred Sunday, March 29, at Apollo hall, Blue Island avenue, Chicago.

A large gathering of friends were present to witness the ceremony, which was according to the Hebrew ritual and presented a pretty and unique scene.

The bride was given away by her sister, Mrs. Schneider, and was led to the groom supported by near relatives, while he received her surrounded by those closely related to him.

A red canopy of rich materials hung over the bridal party, and the service ended with the breaking of the communion cup, from which bride and groom had drank.

The bride was attired in a gown of white organdie over white silk, and wore a long bride's veil. She carried a huge bouquet of white roses.

Proceeding and following the ceremony dancing was enjoyed and the wedding supper served was bounteous and appetizing.

Several Barrington friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Liposky will make their home in this village, and the congratulations of friends are extended to them.

84TH ANNIVERSARY
Of Odd Fellowship in America Occurs April 26—Local Lodge Will Observe It.

The fraternity of Odd Fellows has proved itself to be an association suited to these times, and adapted to the interests of those who are impressed with the objects which it teaches. Its practical workings are seen and admired by the world, and its growth is almost unparalleled in the history of organizations.

The tree of Odd Fellowship was planted in American soil 84 years ago, but years and years ago it flourished in England. Its aim is to bind men together in a common brotherhood;

the mystic emblem, the three links and three letters F. L. T., meaning Friendship, Love and Truth.

With the thousands of brothers within the jurisdiction of Illinois, Barrington Lodge will on Sunday, April 26, commemorate the founding of the order in this country by attending divine service at the M. E. church in the evening, when Rev. W. H. Tuttle will deliver an address.

The following proclamation has been issued by Charles S. Harris, Grand Master:

WHEREAS, Grand Sire John B. Goodwin, in accordance with usage and the resolution of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, has issued a proclamation enjoining upon all grand and subordinate bodies of the order to commemorate the eighty-fourth anniversary of our order by suitable exercises to us as individuals and as an order, and has designated the twenty-sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and three (it being Sunday, the 25th or 27th day of April, as may be selected), as the day for such observance; and, whereas, it is customary for all subordinate and Rebekah Lodges in the jurisdiction of Illinois to observe the anniversary proclamation of the Grand Sire; and, whereas, the great Order of Odd Fellows in this jurisdiction has abundant reason to be thankful to the Supreme Ruler of the universe, and to be thankful for the life, the growth and the accomplishments of this great order, especially in this jurisdiction;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Charles S. Harris, Grand Master, by virtue of the authority vested in me, do hereby set apart the 26th day of April, 1903 (or, it being Sunday, the 25th or 27th day of April, as may be selected), as the day for the commemoration of the eighty-fourth anniversary of our order. I do hereby enjoin upon all subordinate and Rebekah Lodges in this state to commemorate said day by suitable exercises and by public thanksgiving to God for His manifold mercies to us and to our order.

Done at the city of Galesburg, this 17th day of March, A. D. nineteen hundred and three, and in the eighty-fourth year of our order.

CHAS. S. HARRIS,
Grand Master.

WOODMEN IN CONVENTION.

Camps of Lake County Represented at Grayslake Wednesday.

Modern Woodmen of America, belonging to camps in Lake county, held a county convention at Grayslake Wednesday, to select delegates to the state convention to meet in Bloomington, May 6, and transact other important business.

The following camps were represented: Antioch, Barrington, Deerfield, Grayslake, Gunnee, Hainesville, Highwood, Ivanhoe, Lake Villa, Libertyville, North Chicago, Prairie View, Waukegan.

J. C. James, Jr., of Antioch, was elected chairman, and A. McMillen, of Grayslake, secretary.

A committee on credentials, consisting of W. H. Wilmot of Waukegan, M. T. Lamey of Barrington, and W. E. Miller of Libertyville, was appointed.

A committee of one from each camp was chosen to recommend delegates to state camp, after which the delegates adjourned to partake of an elegant repast at Gardner's.

On continuance of the session, C. T. Heydecker, of Waukegan, was chosen to head the state delegation, the other delegates selected being W. E. Miller of Libertyville, D. F. Lamey of Barrington, and W. H. Anderson of North Chicago.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The head camp at St. Paul authorized the appointment of a committee to submit a plan for the readjustment of rates in the M. W. A., and,

Whereas, In pursuance of said authority so granted the said committee on readjustment submitted a plan in February, 1902, which plan has been discussed by the membership and a vote taken thereon by the local camps. Therefore,

Be it resolved, That this Lake county convention of camps instructs its delegates to the state camp to oppose the said committee's plan, and to use all honorable means to secure the election of delegates to the head camp, who will also oppose the adoption of any plan embracing a step-rate feature.

C. T. Heydecker, of Lake Camp No. 174, was indorsed as candidate for the office of Head Consul of the order, and delegates to the state camp instructed to use every honorable means to further his candidacy, and continue to labor in his behalf to secure his election.

Eighty-one delegates were in the convention, representing a membership of 2,000.

North Chicago was selected as the place for holding the next county convention. Barrington Camp was represented by W. B. Shields, J. F. Hollister, M. T. Lamey, F. A. Cady and D. F. Lamey.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION

Of the Officers of Barrington Lodge, No. 856 I. O. O. F.

Odd Fellows' hall was the scene of impressive ceremony and also genuine pleasure yesterday evening, the occasion being the installation of the officers elect of Barrington Lodge.

There has been public installations given by civic societies in this village in the past but none has been more largely attended, none has offered a more pleasing program than that of last evening. Although an invited affair it was unlike some previous entertainments in that respect, confined to "certain ones," but invitations were scattered as broadcast as the charity and friendship of the order.

Noble Grand M. C. McIntosh opened the lodge, Sears' Barrington orchestra furnishing the musical number. Deputy Grand Master Edward Magee requested admittance as representative of the Grand Lodge, and delivered his message. Then acting as grand marshal Deputy Magee escorted to place Maj. J. P. Ellacott, ex-department commander Patriarchs Militant of Illinois, delegated as installing officer, who brought as aids Past Grand C. M. Babcock of Chicago; Past Grand Cain of Azusa, California lodge, and Past Grand Sexauer of Evanston lodge, who obligated the following officers:

Noble Grand—L. B. Fox.
Vice-Grand—W. B. Shales.
Secretary—L. H. Bennett.
Treasurer—Silas Robertson.
Conductor—J. F. Hollister.
Warden—S. J. Palmer.
R. S. N. G.—Robert Bennett.
R. S. V. G.—Glenn R. Hawley.
L. S. V. G.—Roy Meyers.
R. S. S.—Edward Groff.
L. S. S.—William Voss.
Chaplain—Otto Rieke.
I. G.—Ray Cannon.
O. G.—C. H. Morrison.

At the conclusion of the installation Major Ellacott delivered a lengthy address on Odd Fellowship, after which he presented the retiring noble grand, M. C. McIntosh, with a costly Past Grand collar, a gift of the lodge.

Then came the entertainment program. The musical numbers by Sears' orchestra were of a high order and generously encored. Mrs. Spunner won merited praise by an excellent reading, which marked that lady as an entertainer of ability.

The piano duet by Misses Alta Powers and Reulah Otis was most acceptably given and highly appreciated.

Miss Sadie Blackes gave a violin solo, which won for her deserved praise.

Miss Isabelle Gordon surprised the assembly by giving a reading which captivated every man, woman and child who listened to her story of the lodge goat. She was recalled and gave a second humorous reading, which added to her popularity with the audience.

Miss Lulu Nicolai's solo work was one of the most enjoyable numbers on the program. She has a beautiful soprano voice, well trained and in perfect control well adapted to the selection, "Fleeting Days." "L. H. Bennett in a baritone solo, "Ivy Green," an old English ballad, received merited indorsement, while the duet, "A. B. C.," by Miss Nicolai and Mr. Bennett deserved the encore it received. Walter N. Sears' concert solo, in which he was accompanied by J. I. Sears on piano, showed Mr. Sears to be a concert performer of merit.

C. M. Babcock's short, but well put together address, was a pleasing and instructive number. As was also the impromptu talk by Bro. Sexaur.

Refreshments followed the program, and the affair throughout was one which reflects great credit on the talent participating and Barrington Lodge.

Pity Shots Didn't Hit Him.

Tuesday afternoon a Hungarian employed in the foundry at the Highlands, visited the cottage occupied by Richard Strobach, which is located north of the foundry buildings. He made himself too numerous when Mrs. Strobach ordered him from the door yard. Instead of going he pushed his way into the kitchen and closed the door behind him. Mrs. Strobach became alarmed and retreated to an adjoining bedroom. The Hun followed and attempted to force the door. Mrs. Strobach picked up a revolver lying on the dresser, and fired through the partly open door. The shot grazed the intruder's hat and lodged in a picture frame in the kitchen.

The Hun threw up his hands, turned and fled. Mrs. Strobach did not lose her nerve but sent a shot following him. It is to be regretted that the bullets did not lodge in his dirty hide. He was ordered to leave the Highlands immediately and it is fortunate for him that he obeyed.

Miss Anna Bauman has rented the room over the Walthausen building, upstairs, and will be ready for business April 13, in ladies' tailoring and dressmaking.

Time works many changes. Four years ago Billy Pierce, the Belvidere attorney, known by everybody, was the most uncompromising of democrats in this senatorial district and manager of Johnnie Donnelly's political fortunes. The republicans of Boone county and of the city of Belvidere suffered the most malignant abuse at the hands of Billy. Now those same much-abused gentlemen have nominated Billy for mayor of their pretty little city. Who would have believed it.
