The Jubilee Singers were greeted by a crowded house at the Methodist church last Wednesday night, and the big audience enjoyed the entertainment immensely. Every number rendered was enthusiastically received, and the singers seemed to imbibe the spirit of the audience and sang with vim. They are a combination that it is impossible to excel. The singing of the quartet was especially fine and the pianist proved a marvel in his few selections. The concert was a fine finish to the course of entertainments. The committee came out a little ahead on the course.

Notice is hereby given that these boys will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law if these offenses are repeated. ALBERT S. OLMS, President Board of Trustees, Palatine, Ill., April 23, 1903.

For the Public Good.

No citizen of Illinois should fail to mark the significance of the fact that the action taken by the 97 members of the house when Speaker Miller's lawless use of the gavel was resented and rebuked was wholly nonpartisan. This union of men of both parties for a good and necessary purpose establishes a very valuable precedent. Never again will a presiding officer at Springfield dare to override the will of the majority with such boldness. Boss Lorimer in his arrogance deemed it impossible for republicans and democrats to do so desirable and manly a thing as to act in harmony for the good of the state, says the Daily News.

There has been no real partisanship in any act of the present legislature since the election of Senator Hopkins. It would be absurd and harmful to maintain party lines in that assembly on nonpartisan questions. Every friend of good government must rejoice that the revolt of last week showed democrat and republican, independent and prohibitionist, standing shoulder to shoulder and all alike winning honor by overthrowing lawlessness. Nonpartisan action on that occasion has made it comparatively easy to take similar action in the future when occasion shall arise.

Last Thursday was a great day for the citizens of Illinois because it was a bad day for the bosses.

Representative Wm. Desmond has succeeded in having his bill relating to the administration of estates, as heretofore outlined in the press, pass the house and senate at Springfield, and all it now lacks is the signature of Governor Yates and it will become a law after July 1. Probate judges are very much interested in this bill and they, in common with the people in general of the state, will commend Mr. Desmond for his untiring efforts in securing the passage of this measure. Although a new member of the house and belonging to the minority party therein, Mr. Desmond has demonstrated that he has influence with that body, which recognizes in him a gentleman of unquestioned integrity and marked ability, and because of his long experience on the board of supervisors, a valuable and useful legislator, whose vote and influence are always recorded for measures in the interests of the people.

BRIBERY CHARGE FALSE

Legislative Investigating Committee Finds No Attempt Was Made to Bribe Speaker Miller.

Editor Hinman Denounced For Charges Made in Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Illinois house of representatives declared yesterday a unanimous vote that no one had made any real attempt to bribe Speaker Miller in the interest of the Mueller bill and at the same time denounced George W. Hinman, editor and publisher of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, the Lorimer organ, for making baseless charges.

The house took this action when, by a vote of 138 to 0, it adopted the report of the special boodle investigating committee.

The findings of the committee exonerate from wrong-doing all persons involved in the investigation and show that the evidence did not establish any "real" attempt corruptly to influence the action of the speaker of the house. As for George W. Hinman who was cited to appear before the bar of the house to explain his boodle editorials, in which he charged that money had been paid to members of the legislature in consideration of their efforts in behalf of the Mueller street car bill, the committee says that there was "no reasonable or substantial ground for the editorial so far as we have been able to discover." The opinion is further vouchsafed that remarks attributed to the members by Mr. Hinman, "were unworthy of notice."

The action of the legislature sounds the death knell of a score or more of politicians who for several years have undertaken to build and maintain bass rule in this state. The testimony of several members of the house, to the effect that "certain matters were decided upon when Mr. Lorimer selected the speaker of the house, last December," shows plainly that such men as undertake to dominate the legislature by gag rule are unfit to have charge of the administration of state affairs. The legislature is to be congratulated on the vote taken Thursday. By its action it served notice on the bosses that they are without honor in Illinois.

84TH ANNIVERSARY

Of Odd Fellowship in America Observed by Local Lodge.

In compliance with the proclamation issued by Grand Master Harris of the grand lodge of I. O. O. F., Illinois, calling upon members of that order to properly observe the founding of the order in America, Barrington Lodge No. 856 attended the Methodist Episcopal church in a body Sunday evening and listened to an interesting address by Rev. W. H. Tuttle, who as a member of the order, was qualified to speak of its works.

The tribute paid to Odd Fellowship by the speaker was unstinted, and the address one which will be remembered by all who listened to it.

There was no long-drawn out statistics, but a terse outline of the charitable, fraternal and other objects for which the order is noted, and which has attracted to its membership thousands of the men of not only America but of the civilized world.

An order which for 84 years has continued to prosper until its lodges are to be found in every land, must have a sure foundation. Its principles are erected upon Divine teachings, and will continue to advance so long as Friendship, Truth and Love are the covenants of the order.

The text of Rev. Tuttle's discourse was "Brotherly Love." "Do unto others as you would that others should do unto you." His reference to the beautiful example of Jonathan and the Samaritan told much of the objects of the order. He referred to the closer union between secret orders and the church, and said it was an omen for the betterment of humanity.

"All men cannot be brought into a fraternity that has as its basis some peculiar ritual or strange ceremonies, but we may hope that 'Man to man the world o'er shall brethren be for a' that.' This unity can only be reached by practical efforts to help and uplift the fallen. In such efforts Odd Fellowship is engaged.

"The world's great need is more friendship, love and truth. This old earth would blossom into an Eden in a generation if all men possessed the spirit of the good Samaritan. But with $1,000,000,000 a year being spent in this country for liquor, $500,000,000 for jails and penitentiaries and millions for war, all because men are not friends, there comes the need for this great fraternity, with its efforts to ameliorate the sorrows of mankind. If the preachers would come down out of the steeple and go with the Christ among the people there would be no enmity between lodges and churches."

Dram-shop keepers are charging the village board of trustees with acting in bad faith on the 10 o'clock closing ordinance. A committee representing the saloonkeepers waited upon the board at a regular meeting held last winter, and asked that the privilege be granted them to keep their places of business open until 11 o'clock at night instead of 10 o'clock as the new ordinance provides. Every trustee voted in favor of the request. The village clerk says that while such a resolution was passed there was a string attached to it. The saloons were granted the privilege and could do so providing the police magistrate, or some one else, did not make complaint. It seems to be up to the saloonkeepers to watch the police magistrate and not the village board. At least the police magistrate holds the string, according to Clerk Bennett's view of the matter.

OBITUARY.

Henry A. Schaefer.

As stated in last week's Review Mr. Henry August Schaefer, Sr., passed away peacefully on Thursday evening, April 23. He was born at Sonneborn, Germany, April 21, 1840, so that the span of his life covered two days more than 63 years. When he came to this country in 1870 with his wife and children, he settled on a farm near Wauconda. Later he moved to a farm south of Barrington, and up to his death he always resided in the vicinity of this village. About one year ago, owing to feebleness induced by sickness, he retired from the farm and settled down in the old homestead of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Homuth, about half a mile north of this village. He was, however, not permitted to enjoy much of the fruits of his labor. His constitution became constantly weaker, and about the beginning of March he had to take to his bed permanently. Since then he suffered a great deal, but with much patience and resignation. He was tenderly cared for by his wife and children. When his 63d birthday came around a week ago last Tuesday it was pleasantly remembered by the children and proved a source of great joy to him. Deceased was a member of the Salem United Evangelical church (formerly Zion Evangelical church) since 1871. He was a good neighbor, a faithful church member, a loving husband and father and a conscientious citizen. Besides his widow, five sons and seven daughters survive him. The funeral service last Sunday afternoon was largely attended, conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. G. Fidler. The remains were placed in Evergreen cemetery amid the balmy breezes and the smiling sunshine of spring, the budding trees and blooming crocuses, betokening for him a glorious resurrection.

Will Enlarge Fort Sheridan.

Officials of the war department have practically completed the preliminary arrangements for the purchase of 110 acres of land for extending the fort at Fort Sheridan, so as to accommodate several additional regiments. The fort at this point will be enlarged and drill ground be established, so as to improve the rifle practice for troops stationed at this camp. An appropriation of $80,000 was authorized by the last congress for the enlargement of the camp, the extension of the rifle range, the erection of additional barracks, and the accommodation of at least one additional regiment.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Measures Under Consideration in the Capitol at Springfield.

ALL DENY CHARGES OF BRIBERY

Men Accused by Editor Hinman of Having Knowledge of Corruption in Connection With Mueller Bill Explain to the Legislative Committee.

The committee investigating the charges that bribery had taken place in connection with the Mueller bill called the men named by Editor Hinman. Col. Bliss, attorney for the Chicago City Railway, denied all knowledge of corruption. Representative Mitchell stated that he called at the traction company's office to help a friend secure a position, while Clerk Barnes said to sought to get employment for his brother. Mr. Nohe told the investigators that a jocular remark he had made to Hinman was taken seriously and used in connection with the charges.

Increases Salaries.

After numerous roll calls and verifications the bill increasing the salary of the members of the general assembly from $1,000 to $2,000 was passed by a vote of 26 to 23. On the first roll call Senator Gardner voted against the bill and the friends of the measure had almost given up hope when he changed his vote to aye and cast the deciding vote.

Although bitterly attacked as a measure really intended to kill civil service in Illinois the McKenzie civil service bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 37 to 4. It bears the number of the house civil service bill, which was sent to the senate, and will now go to the house for concurrence in the "amendments" made by the senate.

Grain Speculation.

Senator Fowler called up his bill to prohibit speculating in grain and other products and on roll call it failed to pass.

Senator Fowler obtained unanimous consent to introduce a bill limiting the expenses of the state architect's office to 1 per cent of the improvement, exclusive of the annual salary of the state architect. In his effort to have the bill advanced to second reading without reference Senator Fowler was opposed by Senator Clark.

Senator Fowler charged the judiciary committee with refusing to grant him a hearing on his bill to abolish the office of state architect, which is now pending in that committee. It required a roll call to settle the matter, and the bill, by a vote of 19 to 10, was referred to the judiciary committee.

Factory Bill.

The house bill providing for eight additional factory inspectors and increasing the salary of the chief inspector from $1,500 to $2,000 was sent to third reading after Senator Berry had made a determined effort to amend it so as to provide for four new inspectors and a salary of $1,800 per annum for the chief inspector.

Senator Meehan's bill amending the local improvements act in cities from 30,000 to 50,000 by making it possible to make local improvements without the consent of a majority of the abutting property owners was passed.

Child Labor.

The child labor bill was reported from the house and Senator Clark asked that it be sent to second reading without reference. Senator Walter objected, but on roll call Senator Clark's motion prevailed by a vote of 26 to 11.

Appointments by Governor.

The senate received a message from Gov. Yates transmitting the appointments of Andrew Gillespie as justice of the peace in the town of Calumet to succeed J. W. Beech and John McGillen of Chicago as trustee of the industrial home for the blind to succeed William Barclay, resigned.

Miller Explains.

In the house there was solicitation on the part of many members regarding bills in which they were interested and the speaker was besieged with requests for recognition for the calling up of bills. At length he made the following announcement:

"I have been informed that the impression is existing in the house that it is the intention of the chair to adjourn this house under the gavel tomorrow evening. The chair has not thought of such a thing at all."

Among the minor bills passed are the following:

Mr. Hardin's—To permit cities to elect assistant supervisors on the basis of population fixed by a local census.

Mr. Wheeler's—Regarding free employment agencies.

Heffernan's—Appropriating $10,000

Wilson's—Appropriating $30,000 to purchase a pine forest in Ogle county for a forest reserve and public park.

Hinman Tells His Story.

George W. Hinman, editor of the Inter Ocean, appeared before the house investigating committee and gave information regarding the facts on which was based an editorial headed "Boodle" which was published in the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Mr. Hinman gave the committee a detailed account of all matters which had come to his knowledge regarding efforts to induce members of the house to support the Mueller traction bill. He related statements made to him by several persons as to what had been said to them in this connection by individuals understood to represent the traction interests.

He told of remarks made by the representatives of the Eastern stockholders; of visits of certain persons to the office of an attorney said to be acting for one of the street car companies. He reported to the committee statements made to him by several persons tending to support the allegations in the editorial.

Mr. Hinman was closely questioned by members of the committee as to the main points in his statement. Mr. Hinman was before the committee for several hours.

He will appear before the house in answer to the citation served on him and will then repeat his statement if the house so desires after hearing the report of the committee.

The investigating committee met in the ordinary in the Leland hotel with all members present. The session was held behind closed doors, no one but the members of the committee, the official stenographer, and the witnesses—one at a time—being admitted.

The first person called before the inquirers was Harry Anderson, clerk to Speaker Miller. According to the story current in the hotel during the evening, Mr. Anderson's statement related to George B. Albert. Albert is an insurance man from Iowa, and has been here watching the progress of certain bills relating to the insurance business. Anderson and Albert are acquainted. Speaker Miller told the committee Friday night that Anderson had told him of overhearing a conversation about the traction bills in the house one day recently.

One of these men said to the other, according to Anderson's story, as related to him by Albert: "It would be cheaper to buy the speaker." Albert is registered at the Silas hotel. The committee issued a subpoena for him.

Albert was found and taken before the committee. Before appearing before the committee he said he had heard a remark such as is indicated in the rumors, but he declined to give details in advance of testifying before the committee.

When Mr. Hinman and his counsel entered the committee room Chairman Rinaker explained to them that objections had been made by some members of the committee to Mr. Hinman's being represented by counsel. Judge Wing and Mr. Aldrich argued in reply to this that Mr. Hinman was entitled to be represented by counsel at such an investigation. Then Mr. Hinman and his lawyers were asked to retire while the committee discussed the question.

When they were recalled some time later it was announced that Mr. Hinman's counsel would be permitted to remain, but that his stenographer would have to retire. The stenographer retired.

Then the main subject was taken up. Mr. Rinaker and Mr. Bundy, who were the chief spokesmen in the proceedings, said that what the house wanted was information as to the facts alleged in the "Boodle" editorial. Mr. Hinman replied he was ready to make a statement of everything he knew or had heard in connection with the whole subject.

Mr. Rinaker and Mr. Bundy objected to a general statement. They said what the committee wanted was specific information as to what facts Mr. Hinman might have to warrant the statement in the editorial that money had been used to influence the passage of the Mueller bill.

Messrs. Aldrich and Wing argued in reply that the editorial should be considered as a whole, and that a general statement by Mr. Hinman, giving all facts and information in his possession, should be made by him and received by the committee.

There was considerable debate over this point, and finally Messrs. Rinaker and Bundy consented to allow Mr. Hinman to make a full statement. Then it was proposed that Mr. Hinman take an oath not to disclose any of the proceedings in the committee room. This Mr. Hinman refused to do. There was more talk over this question, and at last the committee consented to receive Mr. Hinman's statement without the sworn injunction of secrecy.

Then Mr. Hinman read a statement which he had prepared setting forth all the information he had with regard to efforts made to secure support for the Mueller bill.

The Belleville city council has instructed City Treasurer Bender to pay off bonds of the city of the issue of 1889, from 1 to 10, amounting to $10,000. These bonds will cease to draw interest after April 30.

Remarkable Nerve Exhibited by Cigarette Fiend at Edwardsville.

Frank Charles, the young man shot in the face by one of a posse that captured him near Wanda and took him to Edwardsville, is still in a critical condition at the County hospital. He gives his age as 19, and his home as Mobile, Ala. He is the nerviest patient ever treated at the hospital, and, despite his terrible injuries, is lively and cheerful. Although the greater portion of his chin and a part of his tongue and throat were shot off, he smokes cigarettes and attempts to talk to visitors. His companion, who ejected the officers, has not been captured, although bloodhounds were used on his trail shortly after his escape. THE LION'S WHELP

A Story of Cromwell's Time

BY AMELIA E. BARR

Author of "The Bow of Orange Ribbon," "I, Thou and the Other One," "The Maid of Maiden Lane," Etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by Dodd, Mead & Company. All rights reserved.)

Neville had asked to be called early, and before daybreak he came into the parlor ready for his journey. Some broiled beef, a manchet of white bread and a black jar of spiced ale, stirred with a rosemary branch, was waiting for him; and Mrs. Swaffham and Jane sat at his side while he eat and drank.

Soon Neville's horse came clattering to the door. He clasped Jane's hand as it hung by her side, and they walked thus to the threshold. Snow was falling; the steps were white with it, and the east wind blew it gently in their faces. Mrs. Swaffham laughed and drew her shawl over her head, and Neville laughed also, and with a cheerful word, leaped to his saddle, his dark figure growing more and more phantom-like through the dim dawn and the white veil of the snow. At the gate he wheeled his horse, and, saluting them, vanished into the gray obscurity, which made all things as if they were not.

"He did not say much of the Cromwells. I'll warrant they will forget you in their rising state."

"Far away from it. Mary and Frances sent me many good words, and they are very persuasive with me to come to London and share their state."

"You cannot go just yet, Jane. Your father is opposed to it, until Gen. Cromwell returns there. Then, if it so please God we shall all go—at least for a season."

Then the mother and daughter separated, and Jane went to her friend's room. She was languidly brushing out her long black hair, and Jane tried to kiss a smile into her melancholy face. And as she lifted her head, she had a momentary glance at a beautiful miniature lying upon the dressing table. The face was that of a youth with flowing locks and a falling collar of lace. In that same moment, Matilda moved her ribbons and kerchief in a hurried way, contriving in so doing to cover the picture.

"Oh, Jane, Jane! In truth, I am a sheaves, serving the men and women with meat and drink. He tied his horse at the gate and went to her side, and oh, how fair and sweet he found her! Never had she looked, never had any woman looked in his eyes so entrancing. The charm of the quiet moon was over all; there was no noise, indeed rather a pastoral melancholy with a gentle ripple of talk threading it about plowing and sowing and rural affairs.

In a short time the men and women scattered to their work, and Cluny, turning his bright face to Jane's, took both her hands in his and said with eager delight:

"Dear Jane! Darling Jane! Oh, how I love you!"

The words came without intent. But the heart is a ready scholar when love teaches, and as they slowly passed through the fields of yellow fullness, finding their happy way among the standing sheaves, Jane heard and understood that heavenly tale which Cluny knew so well how to tell her.

Not until they reached Swaffham did they remember that they two were not the whole round world. But words of care and wonder and eager inquiry about war, and rumor of war, soon broke the heavenly trance of feeling in which they had found an hour of Paradise.

So the blissful truce was over, and Jane and Cluny were part of the weary, warring, working world again. Cluny knew nothing which could allay fear. He had just come from London.

"And what of the General's family?" asked Mrs. Swaffham; "are they not afraid?"

"They are concerned and anxious, but not fearful. Indeed, the old Lady Cromwell astonished me beyond words. She smiled at the panic in the city, and said 'it is the beginning of triumph. I have seen, I have heard. Rest on my assurance, and until triumph comes, retire to Him who is a sure hiding place.' And the light of her aged face was wonderful. It is the substance of the thing we hope a battle—but the road into England was clear.

Cromwell himself had gone northward to Perth, and on the second of August he took possession of that city, but while entered it was told that Charles Stuart, with fourteen thousand men, had suddenly left Stirling and was marching towards England. Charles had taken the western road by Carlisle, and it was thought he would make for London. He went at a flying speed past York, Nottingham, Coventry, until he reached the borders of Shropshire. At Shrewsbury he found the gates shut against him and his men were so disheartened that the king turned westward to Worcester, a city reported to be loyal, where he was received with every show of honor and affection.

Meanwhile Cromwell was following Charles with a steady swiftness that had something fateful in it. This was to be the last battle of the civil war, and Cromwell knew it. There was in his soul, even at Perth, the assurance of victory, and as he passed through the towns and villages of England, men would not be restrained. They threw down the sickle and the spade in the field, the hammer in the forge, the plane at the bench, and catching hold of the stirrups of the riders, ran with them to the halting place. So, with his ten thousand troops augmented to thirty thousand, he reached Warwick, and making his headquarters at the pretty village of Keynton near by, he gave his men time to draw breath and called a council of war.

Cromwell sat at the upper end of a long table. A rough map of the country around Worcester lay before him, and Harrison, Lambert, Israel Swaffham and Lord Evesham were his companions. There were two tall candles on the table, and their light shone on the face of Cromwell. At that moment it was full of melancholy, but he saw in an instant the entrance of Neville, and with an almost imperceptible movement commanded his approach.

Neville laid the letters of which he was the bearer before Cromwell, and his large hand immediately covered them. "Is all well?" he asked—and reading the answer in the youth's face, added, "I thank God! What then of the city?"

"Its panic is beyond describing," answered Neville. "Parliament is beside itself. But London is manifestly with the Commonwealth, and every man in it is looking to you and to the army for protection. Some, indeed, I met who had lost heart, and who thought it better that Charles Stuart should come back than that England should become a graveyard fighting him."

"Such men are suckled slaves," said Lambert. "I would hang them without word or warrant for it."

"Yea," said Cromwell, "for Freedom is dead in them. From here there are two courses open to us, a right one and a wrong one. What say you, Lambert?"

"I say it were well to turn our noses to London, and to let the rogues know we are coming."

"What is your thought, Harrison?"

"Worcester is well defended," he answered musingly. "It has Wales behind it. We cannot fight Charles Stuart till we compass the city, and to do that we must be on both sides of the river."

"Fight him," said Lord Evesham, "better now than later."

"Fight him! That, I tell you, is my mind also," said Cromwell striking the table with his clenched hand. "Some may judge otherwise, but I think while we hold Charles Stuart safe, London is safe also. God has chosen this battlefield for us, as He chose Dunbar. But there must be no slackness. The work is to be thorough, and not to do over again. The nation wishes it so. I know it. The plain truth is—we will march straight on Worcester; we will cut off Charles Stuart from all hope of London; we will fight him from both sides of the river, and bring this matter of the Stuarts to an end."

Little Doubt It Contains One-Third World's Population.

Some doubt has been thrown by recent travelers upon the correctness of the accepted notion that China is a land of teeming population. It has been asserted that the human hives along the seaboard and the great rivers of China ought not to be taken as a basis for estimates; that in those parts of the empire which lie off the main routes of traffic (the natural and artificial water courses), the population of China is comparatively thin. A census recently taken by the Peking government for the purpose of assessing taxes to meet the indemnity payments seems, however, to prove the accuracy of the older estimates. The census shows that the eighteen provinces of China proper contain 407,737,305 inhabitants; that Manchuria has 8,500,000, and Mongolia, Tibet and Chinese Turkestan a little over 10,000,000. The total population of the empire is 426,447,325, according to this enumeration. The absolute reliability of Asiatic statistics is questioned; nevertheless, the agreement of the results of the census with the accepted estimates is so close as to invite confidence. The statement that the Chinese empire contains one-third of the human race will hereafter be regarded more than ever as an approximate truth.

His Belief.

"Bread is the staff of life," remarked the man with the quotation habit. "Perhaps it is," rejoined the skeptical person, "but that doesn't justify a man in making his existence one continuous loaf."

OMAHA LISTENS TO PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Makes a Notable Address on the Labor Situation.

URGES HONESTY AND FAIRNESS

Employers Must Meet the Workers in the Proper Spirit in Order to Get Results—Recommends Strike Commission Report to All.

Omaha dispatch: "In the long run and as a whole we are going to go up or down together," said President Roosevelt in the course of a remarkable speech at the Coliseum. Omaha is threatened with an industrial strike and the president had been asked to say something bearing on this subject.

He urged above all honesty and common sense in dealings between capital and labor. The capitalist must not look down in arrogance upon the laborer; neither must the latter look up with envy and hatred to the capitalist. Each needs the other. Both must stand or fall together, so they must meet on a common plane and be honest with each other.

Class Hatred.

He excoriated the man who excites class hatred, saying he was the curse of the community and the worst enemy of the class for which he presumes to speak. The president said he had faith in the men and women of the country that they would approach these problems in the proper spirit and settle them as they had settled other great problems—in the only fair and sensible way. Ten thousand persons applauded the sentiments.

The meeting marked the end of a at any matter from the other's standpoint, with a freedom on the one hand from the contemptible arrogance which looks down upon the man of less means, and on the other from the no less contemptible envy, jealousy and rancor which hates another because he is better off. Each quality is the complement of the other, the supplement of the other, and in point of baseness there is not the weight of the finger to choose between them.

Determine Our Own Fate.

"Look at the report signed by those men; look at it in the spirit in which they wrote it, and if you can only make yourselves, make the community approach the problems of to-day in the spirit that these men, your fellows, showed in approaching the great problem of yesterday, any problem or problems will be solved."

"Any man who tries to excite class hatred, sectional hate, hate of creeds, any kind of hatred in our community, though he may affect to do it in the interest of the class he is addressing, is in the long run with absolute certainty that class' own worst enemy. In the long run and as a whole we are going to go up or go down together. Of course, there will be individual exceptions, small local exceptions, exceptions in kind, exceptions in place, but as a whole if the commonwealth prospers some measure of the prosperity comes to all of us. If it is not prosperity, then the adversity, though it may be unequally upon us, will weigh more or less upon all. It lies upon ourselves to determine our own fate."

Places Responsibility.

"I cannot too often say that the wisest law, the best administration of the law can do naught more than give us a fair field in which to work out that fate afloat. If as individuals or as a community we mar our future by our own folly, let us remember that it is upon ourselves that the responsibility must rest."

"My fellow citizens, men and women of Omaha, let me close in expressing the abounding confidence I have that you of this city, that you of this state, will in the end work out your trying day. The tour of Nebraska had been made in the face of sandstorms and rain. The president received a remarkable ovation here. He was escorted through the city by a regiment of soldiers and battalions of cadets from the two universities to the Omaha club, where he was the guest of honor at a banquet, covers being laid for ninety. After the banquet the party was escorted to the Coliseum, which was packed to its capacity.

CORNERED!

Still, he is a nasty little customer and may hold out for some time.

Tribute to Grant.

In opening his speech Mr. Roosevelt paid a brief tribute to the memory of Gen. U. S. Grant. Reverting to industrial conditions in Omaha, he said: "If I might give a word of advice to Omaha, I should like to see your daily press publish in full the concluding portion of the report of the anthracite coal strike commission signed by all the members thereof, by those in a special sense the champion of the wage-worker and by those in a special sense identified with capital, organized or unorganized; because, men and women of Omaha, those people did not speak first as capitalist or as laborer, did not speak first as judge, as army man, as church man, but they spoke, all of them, unanimously signed that report, all of them, as American citizens, anxious to see right and justice prevail."

Honesty Is Necessary.

"No one quality will get us out of any difficulty. We need more than one; we need a good many. We need, as I said, the power of each man's honesty trying to look at the problem from his fellow's standpoint. 'Capitalist and wage-earner alike should honestly endeavor each to look fate afloat, because I hold you to be, in a peculiar sense, typical of all that is best in the American character. I believe in you with all my heart."

"The able, fearless, unscrupulous man who is not guided by the moral law is a curse to be hunted down like the civic wild beast, and his ability, and his courage, whether in business, in politics, or anywhere else, only serve to make him more dangerous and a greater curse. We must have courage, we must have honesty, but with them both, and guiding them both, we must have the saving grace of common sense."

SLAYING IS IN SELF DEFENSE

Jury in Breen Murder Trial at Davenport, Ia., Acquits Prisoner.

Davenport, Iowa, special: After a trial lasting ten days a jury declared that Dan Breen; one of the best known steamboat mates on the Mississippi river, acted in self-defense last July when he killed Charles Taggart and son, alias Christopher and Ellsworth Leonidas on the steamer Dubuque. The verdict saves Breen from indictment for a double murder and relieves the Diamond Jo Steamboat Company from the payment of $15,000 damages for which it had been sued.

Monarchists Lose.

Madrid cablegram: Returns from general election show large Republican gains. In Madrid the Republicans received 28,000 votes, against 16,000 received by the Monarchists; in Barcelona they received 18,500, while all the others put together received but 6,000.

TWO FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Carbondale Men Are Given Long Terms of Imprisonment.

Carbondale, Ill., dispatch: Charles Brown and Willie Skinner were found guilty of the murder of W. C. Smith, whom they killed at Kilkinnon's Landing last August. Brown was sentenced to forty years in the penitentiary and Skinner to fourteen. The judge set aside Skinner's sentence, as he is but 19 years of age, and the youth was sent to the Pontiac reformatory.

BIG FIRE LOSS AT COLUMBUS, O.

Business Houses Suffer Damage to the Extent of $600,000.

CAPTAIN LEWIS IS CREMATED

Leader of Engine Company Is Crushed by Falling Walls—Lodger Is Saved From Death Through the Efforts of the Firemen.

Columbus, Ohio, special: The business portion of Columbus was swept by a fire which entirely destroyed the Brunson and Union Clothing Company buildings and a number of small structures, and damaged the St. Nicholas hotel, causing a total loss of more than $600,000. A falling wall killed Captain Daniel Lewis of engine company No. 11, and his body was burned to a crisp.

A number of thrilling rescues attended the fire, Phillip Nation, a grocer, being saved by the firemen in his apartments on the fourth floor of the Brunson building. Nation displayed the greatest coolness while waiting for his rescuers to get an extension ladder to him, though the flames were rapidly burning the floor under his feet.

Wind Fans Flames.

The fire started in the Brunson building, on the west side of High street, just north of Long, and its progress was southward, the flames being fanned by a brisk wind from the basement under Bott Bros. saloon. The fire smoldered for half an hour, and the firemen thought they had it about under control, when the flames suddenly burst out on an upper floor and began to make rapid headway.

South of the Brunson building was a narrow two-story building occupied by Munsey & Co.'s Palace barber shop and furnishings store, with the Union Clothing Company building, a five-story brick, with stone front, occupying the corner. The Courtwright building, occupied by Bott Bros. billiard and pool manufacturing establishment, was immediately back of the Union on Long street, and was connected with the Brunson. The Whatshire, a small hotel, occupied the corner at Long and Walls streets.

Fire Spreads.

The flames, after gutting the Brunson, spread to the buildings south. The Union was completely destroyed and the Courtwright and Whatshire buildings gutted. When the flames got under headway in the Union, with its five floors stocked with clothing, it became a veritable furnace; the heat cracking plate-glass windows across the street.

The Sheldon Dry Goods company, on the opposite corner south, was endangered, the building being several times on fire, but was saved without wetting the stock, the only damage, if any, to the latter being caused by smoke.

Wall Falls.

The north wall of the Brunson fell on the rear part of the storeroom occupied by Lynas Bros., wholesale grocers, in the Mithoff building, wrecking it and causing great damage to the stock.

The fire in the Nicholas building on the next block south started in the basement of Kirby & Co.'s 10-cent store. Flaming embers were showered on all the buildings to the south and it is supposed one of these fell through a grating in the rear of the store into the basement. This fire smoldered for many hours, the flames being practically confined to Kirby & Co.'s store. The damage to the adjoining stores was caused chiefly by smoke and water.

Rescue by Firemen.

One of the thrilling features of the fire was the rescue of Philip S. Nation, a lodger, from a room enveloped in flames on the fourth floor of the Brunson building. It was supposed that all the occupants of the building had been gotten out, but Mr. Nation, it appears, was overlooked.

The water tower was playing a stream into the flaming front of the building, when the figure of a man in underclothes suddenly appeared at a window on the fourth floor, raised the sash and waved his hand. A shout of horror went up from the crowd, as rescue seemed out of question. The firemen, however, quickly started to raise an extension ladder. Several times the man ran back into the room and returned with an armful of clothes which he threw to the street.

Is Crushed to Death.

Just as the top of the ladder touched the window sill, he appeared wearing a derby hat and before the firemen could reach him started to climb down. When he reached the ground he was in a state of collapse. Capt. Daniel Lewis of engine company No. 11, who was killed, was caught by a falling wall while carrying a hose into the palace barber shop. Two companions had just emerged from the building, and Chief Lauer called to Lewis, but too late. His body is supposed to have been cremated in the ruins.

Travelers Elect Officers.

Bloomington, Illinois, special: The fourteenth annual convention of the Travelers' Protective association of Illinois chose Springfield as the next meeting place and elected these officers: President, F. Cromwell Sat at the Table.

wretched girl, this morning. I have been dreaming of calamities and my speech is too small for my heart. Very soon this lucky Cromwell family will coax you to London to see all their glory, and I shall be left in de Wick with no better company than a clock; for my father speaks to me about once an hour, and the Chaplain not at all, unless to reprove me."

"But you shall come to London also."

"Do you think so ill of me as to believe I would leave my father in the loneliness of de Wick?" And she stood up and kissed her friend, and in a little while they went downstairs together, and Matilda had some boiled milk and bread and a slice of venison. Then she asked Mrs. Swaffham to let her have a coach to go home in.

Mrs. Swaffham kissed her for answer, and they sent her away with such confidence of good-will and coming happiness that the girl almost believed days might be hers in the future as full of joy as days in the past had been.

After this visit it was cold winter weather, and Cluny Neville came no more until the pale windy spring was over the land. And this visit was so short that Mrs. Swaffham, who had gone to Ely, did not see him at all. For he merely rested while a fresh horse was prepared for him, eating a little bread and meat almost from Jane's hand as he waited. Yet in that half hour's stress and hurry, love overleaped a space that had not been taken without it; for as he stood with one hand on his saddle, ready to leap into it, Jane trembling and pale at his side, he saw unshed tears in her eyes and felt the unspoken love on her lips, and as he clasped her hand his heart sprang to his tongue, and he said with a passionate tenderness:

"Farewell, Jane! Darling Jane!"—then, afraid of his own temerity, he was away ere he could see the wonder and joy called into her face by the sweet familiar words.

When he came again, it was harvest time; the reapers were in the wheat-fields, and as he neared Swaffham he saw Jane standing among the bound

The Lewis and Clark Exposition.

So much attention is being given to the St. Louis exposition that perhaps few people realize that work has already been begun on another great fair in the west. The site for the exposition in commemoration of the Lewis and Clark expedition, which Portland, Ore., has undertaken to hold in 1905, is now being cleared and made ready. Gangs of workmen were put on the ground a few weeks ago and have put up what is jocosely spoken of as the first exposition building, a tool shed of unpainted pine lumber ten feet square. As the grounds lie at present they include bare hillside, a dense growth of scrub trees and underbrush and a good sized lake.

The early date of the St. Louis world's fair has naturally cut down the appropriations of the neighboring states for the Portland exhibition. However, the coast will profit in one way by the Mississippi valley's display, as a good many exhibits will be taken bodily from St. Louis to Portland.

It will take some "tall hustling" to put up a set of exposition buildings from bare ground before the date of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Lewis and Clark expedition, but expositions have been postponed before now. Most of them have been, in fact. The landing of Columbus was celebrated 401 years after it occurred, and the one hundredth anniversary of the Louisiana purchase will have passed fully a year before the fair commemorating it is opened. Portland can be pardoned even if her celebration comes a trifle late.

Another Labor Experiment.

The National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., is trying a new labor experiment, which will be watched with considerable interest by the employers of large numbers of employees.

There is no question of unionism or nonunionism involved in the proposition, the only object being to create a means by which the employee can come into closer contact with his employer through a representative than is now possible in establishments where the number of employees runs up into the thousands. For this purpose a labor department has been created in the National Cash Register company's shops, and to that department all disputes are referred for settlement. If an employee thinks that he has been ill treated by his foreman, for instance, or that he has any other cause of complaint of whatever nature, he can take it at once to the labor department. There it will be investigated and considered with a full knowledge of all the conditions surrounding the business and governing its operation in and out of the workshops. By this means it is hoped to avoid the results of personal differences between units, and unintentional injustices, are to be guarded against and rectified.

The idea of providing the facilities for more intimate relations between the employer and the employed would seem to be a good one and ought to work to the advantage of both.

Governor Pennypacker has approved a bill passed by the Pennsylvania legislature fixing a minimum salary of $35 a month for schoolteachers. This will prove a necessary check on niggardly school trustees, who are sometimes found in the Keystone State as well as elsewhere. A good teacher is worth good wages, and only good teachers should be employed even in rural school districts, where it is not infrequently the custom to pay them the smallest possible wages. This is by no means only true of Pennsylvania, and this law might well be applied to other commonwealths.

From all accounts the fears that Minister Wu was called home to have his head chopped off or to undergo some harrowing experiences with boiling oil do not appear to have been well founded. Possibly American popularity is not so fatal to a Chinese statesman after all.

The great number of immigrants arriving in New York and the many Americans who are rushing to Europe for a vacation are offered as evidence of American prosperity, though the two movements are in decidedly strong contrast.

The bill in the British parliament to appropriate several million pounds to deepen the Thames river meets much opposition, the principal ground being that such a thing was never done before, don't you know.

Report says that young Mr. Rockefeller has been distributing gold and silver coin among the poor in Mexico. Doubtless the poor Mexicans can understand his coin better than they can his kind words.

On the "Retired List."

Notwithstanding the obstacles which trusts and combinations are said to place in the way of the advancement of honest industry, some people still manage to lay up enough of this world's goods to provide for the inevitable "rainy day."

The Massachusetts bureau of labor statistics has recently made an investigation of the persons who put "retired" after their names in the city directory. According to the bureau's last bulletin, there are in the Bay State 23,121 men and 17,659 women who have retired from industry with a competence. These fortunate old men and women seem to be distributed pretty generally among the various vocations, including many which are generally considered unprofitable. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the table is that it is headed by farmers. There are 3,460 farmers who are now drawing their support from property acquired during a life of industry. This speaks well for New England farms, though the farmer is doubtless satisfied with a less sum of money than the dweller in even a small city. Second on the list are the merchants, of whom there are 3,204. After the merchants come, curiously enough, the men of the building trades.

Doubtless Massachusetts is a fairly representative state as regards the distribution of the prizes of "retirement" among the various professions and businesses of its citizens. If anything, the showing would probably be less favorable to the farmer than in the majority of states.

An Ohio judge suggests that the laws be so amended that a state official shall interpose a defense in every divorce action where the defendant neglects to make an appearance. His idea doubtless is to prevent the collusion of the parties and the obtaining of divorces without sufficient cause. However, it should be remembered that the individual who interferes with family disputes is pretty apt to regret it sooner or later, and if the state did the same thing it might also have cause for regret.

It is asserted by the Philadelphia Press that the structural weakness of the Maine's turrets is the fault of the department designs. It may not be impertinent to ask how many more of our costly war vessels are being built from similar designs.

A correspondent asks, "What does Easter signify?" It is generally agreed that one of the things it signifies is that a man with a wife and one or more daughters is dead broke for the next two months.

The German naval officers insist that the ships of the American navy are heterogeneous. Well, there's this comfort—the "men behind the guns" can hit erogeneous or anything else they aim at.

There seems to be no doubt that Shamrock III. is fast. But that was the chief end in view when they built her. We are, however, relying on the Reliance to be just a little faster.

The flying machines and the automobiles continue to do their full share of the work in the race suicide business.

Working hard, spending little and saving all you can will beat any of the get rich quick schemes so far invented.

Chicago is certainly a cosmopolitan city. It elected a native American mayor, a Polish city attorney, a German city treasurer, an Irish city clerk and Hinky Dink for alderman.

The discovery of another 200,000,000 ton bed of anthracite in Pennsylvania gives promise that the nation's coal supply is not likely to run short in our day and generation.

Our Trade With Canada.

Despite the fact that we have our little tiffs with our neighbors across the northern border and are just now quite at odds with them over the Alaskan boundary line, the Canadians continue to buy our goods in increasing amounts. The statistical statement of Canadian commerce, just received by the treasury bureau of statistics in Washington, covering the commerce of the seven months ending with January, 1903, shows that Canada imported from the United States during that time $67,000,000 worth of merchandise against $32,000,000 worth from the United Kingdom and $21,000,000 worth from all other parts of the world. In other words, the United States supplied 56 per cent of the imports of Canada in the seven months ending with January last, the United Kingdom supplied 27 per cent and the remaining portions of the world 17 per cent.

This large importation from the United States by Canada is especially interesting in view of the fact that the Canadian tariff permits the introduction of products from the United Kingdom on payment of only two-thirds the duty which goods from other parts of the world, including the United States, must pay. This reduction in tariff on goods from the United Kingdom as against goods from other parts of the world was begun some four years ago, and the reduction on British goods increased until it reached 83.13 per cent. Yet in spite of this fact the United States supplies to Canada twice as much merchandise as does the United Kingdom. Evidently the Canadians know a good thing when they see it and, though continuing loyal to the British crown, reserve the privilege of trading where they can do so the most advantageously. A good many of them are getting their eyes open to the fact that it would be to their commercial advantage at least to become a part of the United States.

Popular Election of Senators.

Illinois is the latest state to be added to the list of those whose legislatures have pronounced in favor of choosing United States senators by direct vote of the people. The Illinois house of representatives adopted by viva voce vote without debate the senate joint resolution calling for popular election of United States senators. The people of the state had already given strong expression to their wish through a referendum vote, and the general assembly merely took obedient action.

Ten or twelve state legislatures have already passed similar resolutions, and still others are favorably considering the question. If two-thirds of the states should make a demand, congress would be required by the constitution to call a convention for the purpose of submitting constitutional amendments to the states. Before this happens, however, the United States senate will doubtless yield and agree with the lower house to a direct submission of the desired amendment to the states without the complication of a convention. Whether wise or otherwise, there is apparently a growing desire on the part of the people to choose

As to the effect of the recent decision of the federal circuit court of appeals in the merger case on railroad prosperity and the stock market generally, efforts are being made in some quarters to make it appear that the outcome will be a return to the days of free for all fighting in the railroad and financial world. If this is the result, it cannot reasonably be charged to the Securities decision. It will be due simply to the fact that the interests involved prefer to fight unless they can live in peace on terms which the courts have held to be illegal. It is ridiculous to say that there is but one way of conserving peace, that method being the elimination of competition in defiance of law.

It appears that the unfriendly attitude of King Menelek toward the French is the result of a loss of $320,000 which was invested for him by a Frenchman. The Abyssinian monarch apparently doesn't understand that the Goddess of Commerce does not discriminate between crowned heads and commoners.

There is said to be a millionaire in Springfield, Mass., who works as a day laborer. It must be a whole lot of fun to work as a day laborer when you feel that you can draw your check for a million or so and have it honored at the bank.

Home Duties

The real heroines of every day are in our homes. Frequently, however, it is a mistaken and useless heroism.

Women seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. How much harder the daily tasks become when some derangement of the female organs makes every movement painful and keeps the nervous system unstrung? Irritability takes the place of happiness and amiability; and weakness and suffering takes the place of health and strength. As long as they can drag themselves around, women continue to work and perform their household duties. They have been led to believe that suffering is necessary because they are women. What a mistake!

The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will banish pain and restore happiness. Don't resort to strong stimulants or narcotics when this great strengthening, healing remedy for women is always within reach.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. No man will see your letter. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has had. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

For proof read the symptoms, suffering and cure recited in the following letters:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express to you the great benefit I have derived from your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My trouble was female weakness in its worst form and I was in a very bad condition. I could not perform my household duties, my back ached, I was extremely nervous, and I could not eat or sleep, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. My husband spent hundreds of dollars to get me well, and all the medicine that the doctors prescribed failed to do me any good; I resorted to an operation which the physician said was necessary to restore me to health, but I suffered more after it than I did before; I had hemorrhages of the womb that nothing could seem to stop.

"I noticed one of your advertisements and wrote you for advice. I received your reply and carefully followed all instructions. I immediately began to get stronger, and in two weeks was about the house. I took eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and continued following your advice, and to-day I am a well woman. Your remedies and help are a Godsend to suffering women, and I cannot find words to thank you for what you have done for me."—Mrs. LOTTIE V. NAYLOR, 1328 N. J. Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered so much from falling of the womb and all the troubles connected with it. I doctored for years with doctors and other remedies but received only temporary relief.

"I began taking your medicine, and had not taken it long before I was feeling better. My husband said that I should keep right on taking it as long as it gave me relief from my suffering, as I could not expect to be cured by one or two bottles. I did so and am now able to be on my feet and work hard all day, and go to bed and rest at night. Thanks to your Vegetable Compound I am certainly grateful for the relief it gave me. It is the mother's great friend. I would not be without it in my house, for when I feel tired or out of sorts I take a few doses and feel all right.

"I would recommend your medicine to all tired mothers, and especially to those suffering as I was."—Mrs. R. F. CHAMBERS, Bennet, Neb.

ILLINOIS MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Farmers Take Young Buck Who Assaulted 10-Year-Old Girl from Officers.

BULLETS PIERCE VICTIM'S BODY

Leaving the Swinging Corpse, Enraged Men Make a Raid on Camp of Blacks and Start a Race War in Which Many Fall.

Thebes, Ill., special: An attack on the 10-year-old daughter of Branson Davis, a farmer, by a young negro whose name is not known, caused a lynching and race riot at the little village of Santa Fe.

The negro, it is believed, was a member of a gang of negroes working on a bridge over the Mississippi river. After he had been hanged an angry mob of farmers raided the camp at the bridge, exchanged several volleys of shots with the negroes and wounded several. None of the white men was hurt.

Mother to the Rescue. Branson Davis lives one-half mile east of Santa Fe, a small village near here. While his daughter was in the barnyard the negro spoke to her. She ran, but he seized her and her screams brought her mother to the rescue. The negro fled.

Officers were notified and were soon in pursuit. News of the assault spread among the neighboring farmers and resulted in an angry mob starting in search of the assailant. The negro was meanwhile captured and was being brought to Santa Fe, when the mob of farmers was met.

A scrimmage resulted, during which the farmers secured the negro. He confessed, but begged for mercy. Without a word the mob started with the prisoner toward the new bridge being constructed across the Mississippi, where he was hanged to an oak tree without delay. After the body had dangled in the air a few minutes it was riddled with bullets.

The officers endeavored to disperse the mob, but their efforts were unavailing. A rush was made for the colony of several hundred negroes employed on the bridge and living in tents nearby.

Blacks Open Fire. The negroes saw the mob coming and opened fire. A fusillade followed and the whites fired with such effect that many of the negroes fell. None of the mob was injured, and it was not known how seriously the negroes were wounded. The mob pressed forward, notwithstanding the steady fire, until the negroes turned and fled toward a nearby wood, taking their wounded with them.

The mob then fell upon the tents and burned them. After accomplishing a general work of destruction the mob dispersed. Extra police were sworn in and the village is under heavy guard. The excitement is intense.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE PE-RU-NA.

Dr. M. C. Gee, of San Francisco, Says: "Pe-ru-na is of Especial Benefit to Women."

ROBERT R. ROBERTS M.D.

Robert R. Roberts, M. D., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Through my own experience as well as that of many of my friends and acquaintances who have been cured or relieved of catarrh by the use of Hartman's Peruna, I can confidently recommend it to those suffering from such disorders, and have no hesitation in prescribing it to my patients."—Robert R. Roberts.

A CONSTANTLY increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their regular practice. It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession to-day. Catarrh, as every one will admit, is the cause of one-half the diseases which afflict mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of the United States.

F. H. Brand, M. D., of Mokena, Ill., uses Peruna in his practice. The following case is an example of the success he has through the use of Peruna for catarrh.

Dr. Brand says: "Mrs. C., age 28, had been a sufferer from catarrh for the past seven years; could not hear plain and had watery eyes. She came to me almost a physical wreck. She had tried the Cope-land cures and various other so-called specialists, and had derived no benefit from them. She told me she did not want to spend any more money on medicines unless I could assure her relief.

"I put her on Peruna and told her to come back in two weeks. The effects were wonderful. The catarrh look she had when I first saw her had left her and a smile adorned her face. She told me she felt a different woman, her hearing was improved and her eyes did not trouble her any more.

"This is only one case of the many I have treated with your valuable medicine."—F. H. Brand, M. D.

Catarrh may invade any organ of the body; may destroy any function of the body. It most commonly attacks the head,

MUSEUM 2,500 YEARS OLD.

Collection of Clay Tablets Is Unearthed in Upper Strata at Nippur.

A museum of the sixth century, B. C., has come into the possession of the University of Pennsylvania. The museum is not big, being contained in a large earthen jar, but the contents are very valuable from a historical point of view.

Whether the specimens were excavated or purchased is not known, but they undoubtedly represent a collection which must have been made during the time of Belshazzar, since it was found in one of the upper strata at Nippur.

The best specimen in the jar is an inscription containing the titles of Sargon I., who lived about 3500 B. C. There is a black stone votive tablet of Ur-Gur, 2700 B. C., which tells that this king built the great wall around the city of Nippur.

Then there is the terra cotta brick stamp of Bur-Sin, which is the first yet found of that king. Another tablet states that the large hall of the temple was called Emakh, and that there were twenty-four other shrines to gods in the temple besides the ones that have been found of Bel and his consort, Beltis.

After Four Months in Bed. Powersville, Ky., April 27th.—Mrs. J. J. Monson, who has been ill for over eight years, says:

"Yes, it is truly wonderful. I am 36 years of age and for the last eight years I have suffered with acute kidney trouble.

"I tried all the doctors within reach and many other medicines, but got no relief till I used that new remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was confined to my bed for four months this winter and had such a pain in my side I couldn't get a good breath. I had smothering spells, was light-headed and had given up all hope, for I didn't think I could live long.

"After I had taken a few of Dodd's Kidney Pills I began to improve and I kept on till now, as you can see, I am well.

"I have been up and doing my own work for sometime now and haven't felt pain or weakness since.

"I praise the Lord for my wonderful restoration to health and will always recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

nose and throat, but thousands upon thousands of cases of catarrh of the lungs, stomach, kidneys, bladder and other pelvic organs have been cured by Peruna.

Peruna is able to cure catarrh wherever it may be located by its direct action upon the mucous membranes. Catarrh means inflamed mucous membranes. Peruna acts at once to cleanse and invigorate the catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane no matter where it may occur in the body. Its action is the same on the mucous lining of the nose as on the mucous lining of the bowels. It cures the catarrhal inflammation wherever it may occur.

Dr. R. Robbins, Muskogee, I. T., writes: "Peruna is the best medicine I know of for a cough and to strengthen a weak stomach and to give appetite. Beside prescribing it for catarrh, I have ordered it for weak and debilitated people, and have not had a patient but said it helped him. It is an excellent medicine and it fits so many cases.

"I have a large practice, and have a chance to prescribe your Peruna. I hope you may live long to do good to the sick and suffering."

Wesley Peruna cures catarrh. The people say Peruna cures catarrh. Prominent men and women all over the United States from Maine to California do not hesitate to come out in public print to say that Peruna is what it is recommended to be, an internal, systemic catarrh remedy that cures catarrh wherever it may be located.

Dr. M. C. Gee's Experience. Dr. M. C. Gee is one of the physicians who endorse Peruna. In a letter written from 513 Jones street, San Francisco, Cal., he says:

"There is a general objection on the part of the practicing physician to advocate patent medicines. But when any one medicine cures hundreds of people, it demonstrates its own value and does not need the endorsement of the profession.

"Peruna has performed so many wonderful cures in San Francisco that I am convinced that it is a valuable remedy. I have frequently advised its use for women, as I find it insures regular and painless menstruation, cures leucorrhoea and ovarian troubles, and builds up the entire system. I also consider it one of the finest catarrh remedies I know of. I heartily endorse your medicine."—M. C. Gee, M. D.

Women are especially liable to pelvic catarrh, female weakness as it is commonly called. Especially in the first few weeks of warm weather do the disagreeable symptoms of female weakness make themselves apparent. In crisp, cold weather chronic sufferers with pelvic catarrh do not feel so persistently the debilitating effects of the drain upon the system, but at the approach of summer with its lassitude and tired feelings, the sufferer with pelvic catarrh feels the need of a strengthening tonic.

Peruna is not only the best spring tonic for such cases but if persisted in will effect a complete cure. Write for a copy of "Health and Beauty," written especially for women by Dr. Hartman. If you want to read of some cures also, write for a copy of "Facts and Faces." That will surely convince you that our claims are valid.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

VILLAGE ORDINANCES

Have Been Revised and Printed in Pamphlet Form—Many Changes Made.

Ordinances of the village of Barrington have at last been arranged and put into shape where they may be consulted and understood. The revision was made by Attorney A. J. Redmond, and the laws have been brought up-to-date and not only adopted to the wants of the village for the present but for years to come.

In revising the ordinances many are found which it seems are a little too metropolitan for a village of this population, but as they are erected according to state law governing villages they should be enforced and lived up to. If found too stringent for our people they will have to be modified.

The majority of the people of this village know but little about the ordinances made to govern them. The Review is not going to undertake to publish the 230 pages of legal phrases, but will call attention to several of the ordinances that there may be a better understanding of the same.

Section 3, page 36—The fee for an annual license for each billiard table, pool table, pigeonhole table, bagatelle table, Jenny Lind table, bowling alley (with not more than three alleys) nine or ten-pin alley, ball alley, shuffleboard, or shooting gallery, shall be $25.

Sec. 8, page 17—All persons owning, leasing, managing or having charge of any church, theater, opera house, public hall or place of amusement in the village of Barrington, shall be required to have all doors leading to or from the same hung so as to open out therefrom.

Sec. 8, pages 62-63—No person or persons licensed hereunder, to keep a dram shop, shall either by himself, his servant, agent or employee, either directly or indirectly, sell or give any intoxicating liquors to any minor, or person under the age of 21 years, nor permit any minor in or about such dram shop nor sell or give, either by himself, servant, agent or employee, any intoxicating liquor to any person who is at the time intoxicated, or to any person who is in the habit of getting intoxicated, or who is a habitual drunkard, or permit any person who is intoxicated to be in or about such dram shop or place of business. It will be news to a number of voters that the president of the village board was elected for two years, instead of one year, at the late election. The bill changing the term of office went into effect shortly before the late election.

The salary of the village clerk has been increased from $75 to $100 a year. Trustees now receive $1.50 for each meeting, regular, special or adjourned, instead of $24 a year. The president must get along on the munificent allowance of $25 per year.

Superintendent Gaggin's Opinion.

It looks now as though the Chicago Highlands association would have to be content with the present school facilities as afforded by District No. 90.

Some weeks ago the association petitioned the trustees of District No. 90 to divide the district. The Highlands association desired to take a large portion of No. 90, part of No. 28 and a part of Union District No. 4.

The petition was gotten up by Attorneys McIntosh and Bennett, who represented the matter before the boards of trustees of the districts concerned. It is said that the petition contained but few names of legal residents of the district, etc.

The argument was heard and the trustees of township 43 were adverse to a division. An appeal was taken to County Superintendent Gaggin, who throws a wet blanket over the proceedings as presented by the attorneys, his decision being as follows: "The appeal from the decision of the trustees of township 43, in regard to the formation of a new district from parts of districts 28, 90 and Union No. 4 has received attention. As the territory affected by the change lies in more than one township and the petition is addressed to but one board, the action is inconsistent with law and prohibits further consideration."

This decision is gratifying to districts 28, 90 and 4. Attorney Bennett says that Supt. Gaggin don't know what he is talking about, and that Judge Donnelly will reverse the action of the superintendent. Whether Mr. Bennett has consulted the judge and received an assurance of his action in the matter, we do not know, but Mr. Bennett seems to be very positive as to the action of the circuit court. He says, "We (that is, Attorney McIntosh and himself) have got the school trustees where we want them, and where they will have to spend some money."

It is likely the case will be bitterly contested. The petition presented by the association will need to be further fixed up before it will stand in law, that is if the state law is good authority.

At Hymen's Altar.

Last evening a pleasant event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Freye on Cook street, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Mary C., to J. F. Gieske.

The beautiful ceremony was performed shortly after 8 o'clock by Rev. J. G. Fiddler in the presence of members of the family, immediate relatives and friends.

Both parties to the contract are well and favorably known to the people of Barrington and vicinity. Mr. Gieske is an enterprising business man, being proprietor of the Barrington Steam Laundry. The lady he has chosen as a life companion has been identified with the educational interests of this village for 17 years, and won the distinction of being one of the most successful primary teachers in Cook county.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gieske wish for them a long and happy life. They will begin housekeeping at once in their conveniently arranged home, on Station street.

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Illinois Press association will be held at Cairo, May 12, 13 and 14. A most interesting program has been arranged, covering every department in the office, from the mechanical to the business, and the work of every employe, from the proprietor to the "devil." The citizens are also arranging much in a social way to make the visit there pleasant, realizing as they do the benefits to be derived from such a gathering of newspaper men. It is hoped this will be one of the largest meetings the association has held for years, and an effort is being made to increase the membership. Any one desiring to know the objects of the association will please address the secretary, J. M. Page, Democrat, Jerseyville, Ill.

THE REVIEW CHIP BASKET.

Hewed by Hackney.

It is said that a woman can hold a dozen hairpins in her mouth a great deal easier than she can hold her tongue.

Men with polished pates ought to shine in society. Some of those in Barrington do.

Seeing how deeply outraged he felt at the offered bribe, it is indeed odd that Speaker Miller did not think to inquire who was making the offer.

Frank M. West of the Waukegan Gazette goes into hysterics and howls, "What's the matter with the Barrington Review?" There is nothing the matter with 'The Review,' Mr. West. You are the one afflicted. So it is a terrible thing for a man to be an all around workman in a country print shop. How degrading! However, Frank, there are 'country papers in this district far superior to your production for news, press work and typographical appearance, and one man does the work from washing the forms to compiling copy. You are the first individual, connected with the craft, to publicly belittle the country printer.

The Chronicle says: "The net result of the traction scrap at Springfield seems to be that sundry statesmen will be kept busy detaching tin cans from their coat tails for quite a spell to come."

The report lately made by General Miles, as to condition of affairs in the Philippines, has awakened the war department. It seems that all the stories told of late about atrocities in our new possessions, were not lies but plain unvarnished truths.

The Review $1.50 a year.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers' and grandmothers' never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at H. T. Abbott's. Price 25c and 75c.
