THE GOMEL MASSACRE

Details of the Attack on Jews
In Northwest Russia.

THEIR COURAGE WAS ASTONISHING

Even the Women Fought—Part of the Time the Jews Were Assaulted
by Both Soldiers and Mob—Wholesale Executions May Follow Resistance to the Soldiers.

The Jewish Morning Journal of New York recently printed the following letter about the Gomel massacre of Jews in northwest Russia from its special correspondent at Warsaw:

"It all began on Friday (Sept. 11) with a quarrel between a Jewish shopkeeper and a Christian woman who refused to pay for a herring. The attack on the Jews was renewed on Sept. 14. It soon transpired that the riot of Friday was only a kind of rehearsal for the real 'pogrom,' which took place on the 14th and 15th. Now, the streets of Gomel were drenched with blood, and the rioters this time were not peasants, but the strongly built little Russian railroad laborers, 500 in number. The Jews defended themselves as valiantly as on Friday, with whatever weapons they could get hold of. The police worked earnestly and diligently to quell the disorder, but were powerless against the savage mob. In ordinary times there are plenty of soldiers in Gomel, but at this time of the year they were still in their summer camps and could not reach the town the first day of the riot.

"The Jews telegraphed to the governor of Mohilev for assistance and received a reply that he was indisposed and could not start for Gomel on that day, but he requested the chief of police to aid the Jews. The chief carried out the order faithfully, and he himself shot to death two Russians, but he was powerless to restore order. Five Jews were killed the first day, and but for the gallant fight put up by the Jews the number of killed would be much larger. The strength and courage displayed by these people, who are generally taunted for cowardice, were something astonishing. Even women fought. The physical agility and the correctness of their aim were not at all those of a race of cringing peddlers.

"The riot became worse on the 15th, but the Jews still stood their ground. The governor arrived that day. The peasants from the surrounding country began to gather on receipt of the news that the Jews were being robbed at Gomel, and many came with the intention of revenging Friday's defeat. The Jews were prepared and had armed men stationed on all the roads leading into Gomel.

"The soldiers arrived in the forenoon, and their first act to restore order was an attempt to disperse the Jews. The latter replied that they could not trust their lives to the soldiers for fear of a repetition of the Kishineff atrocities. They insisted that the attacking rioters should be dispersed first. The soldiers insisted and fired on the Jews. The latter returned the fire, and they were soon attacked from both sides—that is, by the soldiers and by the rioters.

"In the meantime the news of the riot reached Minsk, and fifty well armed young Jews from that city hastened to the rescue of their distressed brethren in Gomel. But they were betrayed by an agent provocateur, or government spy, who was among them and were arrested on their arrival at the railroad depot of Gomel.

"The riot ended on the third day. Ten Jews and eight Christians were killed (the figures of the government Messenger are false), and the number of seriously wounded is very large. Among the dead is also young Kohnovsk, aged twenty-two, who enjoyed an excellent reputation.

"The city is practically destroyed. Houses are demolished and shops emptied of all their contents. Several synagogues were destroyed, and the town looks as if a great conflagration had taken place there.

"But there is something worse in store for the Jews of Gomel. The city was even before the outbreak under a mild form of martial law, owing to the labor troubles which took place there recently, and the Jews who resisted the soldiers were told that they would be tried before a military court, which means that they may be sentenced to death."

We Are Not.

Some individual has addressed to this paper a postal card upon which is written the following:

"I notice by last week's Review that you are supporting Colonel Frank Lowden for the office of governor. Now what's the matter with the present governor, that he shouldn't be given another term?"

The Review is not "supporting" any man for governor of this state for the reason that no man has been nominated for that office to succeed the present chief executive.

Mr. Lowden has announced his candidacy and it is no more than proper that the people should know something about the man who aspires to the chief office within their gift.

After the convention next summer

this paper will give its opinion as to who it deems best qualified to be governor.

"What's the matter with the present chief executive?" We are not political physicians or surgeons, and cannot diagnose the ailment.

Something He Forgot.

In the course of a speech at Cairo Governor Yates boldly declared that there is one man in Illinois—meaning himself—who cannot be driven or bullied by the so-called trust press of Chicago. Less than six months ago the so-called trust press of Chicago made him sign the municipal ownership bill which he had denounced as corrupt and revolutionary. Mr. Yates should have taken his nerve tonic sooner.

The Woodmen will hold an adjourned meeting Saturday night, Oct. 24, to receive the report on another ball and to make arrangements for a social affair of some kind.

A grand concert by Oak Park young people is being arranged for to be held soon. Dr. Wood secured the company which is a guarantee that it will be worth attending. Watch for the announcements.

The town commissioners met last Monday afternoon to act on the petition for a drainage system south of the village. Before acting on same a number of those who had signed for the system requested their names taken off. There were so many taken from the petition that it failed to represent the required majority and hence the petition was rejected. We believe it was a grave mistake by the land owners as the village will proceed to condemn land if necessary to obtain an outlet for their drainage.

School Notes.

During Miss Lachner's absence last week the under classes of the high school were conducted by the pupils of the Junior and Senior classes.

Laboratory work in zoology is now drawing to a close and special topics are being assigned.

An electric bell has been installed in the hall to give the recess and dismissal signals.

The new Laboratory equipment makes it possible to perform nearly every experiment in the Laboratory Guide.

A handsome certificate has arrived from the University of Illinois showing our accredited relation with that institution and has been framed and placed on the wall in the assembly room.

The school library now contains between three and four hundred volumes and has been rearranged for constant use.

Two telegraph instruments have been added to the high school equipment and it is proposed to put in an experimental line between some of the rooms.

Miss Lachner who has been assistant principal in our high school resigned her position last week and the improvement has been made by securing the services of Miss Millard who was hired but could not teach when the school opened.

HOMES FOR THE POOR.

John Hazeltine's Plan to Start a Colony in Montana.

EXPECTS TO ESTABLISH A TOWN.

Syracuse Philanthropist Without Means Tells of His Scheme to Relieve the Distress of Families in Need and Willing to Work—Hopes to Lead About 1,000 Persons to the West Next Spring.

At the head of a colony of 300 families, or 1,000 persons, John Hazeltine will start next spring from Syracuse, N. Y., for Montana to take up government farms and establish a town, says the New York Evening World.

Hazeltine is poor, uneducated, a day laborer and a most successful philanthropist. For nine years he has fed the hungry, clothed the naked and provided for the needy widows and orphans in Syracuse to the number of 5,000 families.

Necessarily through his long years of grappling with the knotty problem of how to live and bring up and educate a large family of children on nothing a year, with sickness and hard times and slack work as side issues, Hazeltine has become something of a social economist. He knows nothing of its theories, but the hard sense of bringing needy people and opportunity together appeals to him, and out of this he has evolved the idea of starting a colony.

Away out in the wilds of Montana, where there are thousands of acres of government land crying out to be cultivated, Hazeltine means to take his army of poor people, who are crying out for something to cultivate. The rest, he thinks, is easy.

"From now until spring," he says, "we will be making preparations, and when March opens we will be there ready for the spring work on the land. I have a list of 800 heads of families who are poor, hardworking, often in need and out of work and who have a day by day struggle to keep alive.

"The men are able-bodied and willing to work, but they are not skilled workmen. They have large families, and their kind of work is irregular and overcrowded in the city. Out of this number, I think, 300 families, or about a thousand people, will be glad to get a chance to improve their condition. I have many applicants already, and more are coming in daily.

"Not only men with families, but single men and single women, can join us, but every man, woman or child must mean business and start with the idea of making the most of their opportunities in the new country. There must be no drones and no adventurers. We are serious and have no time to waste.

"I have been thinking of this for a long time, but I never could see just how to do it before. Two years ago, however, four families, friends of mine, borrowed money for carfare and went out to Montana to experiment. They took up government claims. One of the men, John Wilson, has kept me posted. In these two years, he writes, they have cleared most of their land, built their homes, have a pair of horses each, some cows, pigs and poultry, paid their passage money, and he, Wilson, has saved $300. The others, he says, have as much or more.

"Now, if these four families can do as much why can't 300 or more? There are obstacles to be overcome and a lot of planning as to detail, but I've seen harder things done, and we're going to do this. We will go in immigrant trains and as cheaply as we can and be comfortable. Our locality is far north of Butte, and if things go as we have planned we shall establish a town on that site and open up the lands. The railroads will make rates easy."

Hazeltine's relief work has become a conspicuous feature of Syracuse life and one of the most useful. With the beginning of cold weather every fall all the down town tradesmen and members of professions expect to turn in and help out with contributions of money, coal, provisions and clothing, in the proper distribution of which he is implicitly trusted. A storeroom, and headquarters and means of delivery are now furnished to him free of cost. Hazeltine gets nothing for this service. His work has brought him into public notice, and he was appointed superintendent of the municipal lodging house, which he served through the term of the last Democratic city administration. His colonization scheme has attracted wide attention, and he has received applications from men who want to join the party from as far east as Brooklyn and as far west as St. Louis.

William, the 18 year old son of Ed Golding, of Wauconda was found insane by the County court and was taken to Elgin.

Golding is a well known ball player and he played in the Wauconda team at the Libertyville Fair. Whether or not he received an injury or became overheated in that game is not known but soon afterward he began to show evidences of mental derangement. It grew until it became necessary to watch him constantly. He realized his condition and said he wanted to go Elgin for treatment.

Wants Keppler's $2,500.

Wednesday morning papers were filed at Waukegan in a suit for slander, the complainant being Miss Maude Etinger and the defendant William Keppler. Both reside near Wauconda and are well known in the western part of the county.

The young woman alleges that Keppler called her vile names and defamed her character and that she thinks about $2,500 would ease her feelings on the matter.

The complainant furnished a bond of $5,000 to prosecute the case and it is said that it will prove a very exciting and sensational one when it comes up in the Circuit court.

COMPLETE VICTORY FOR UNITED STATES

Claims for Territory in Alaska Conceded by the International Boundary Commission—Canadians Regard Decision with Much Disfavor.

WHAT AMERICA GAINS BY THE COMMISSION'S FINDING

Recognition by Great Britain of its right to:

The land of the Alaskan "panhandle" for ten marine leagues, or about 34½ statute miles from the coast line from the north side of Portland canal, the present southern terminus, to Mount St. Elias, the northern end of the "panhandle," the boundary to follow the configuration of the coast, and not to be drawn from headland to headland.

About 20,700 square miles of territory instead of a small fraction of that area.

Continued control of the many important bays and inlets throughout the 600 miles of coast from Mount St. Elias to Portland canal.

Much valuable mineral land, and the fisheries along the coast.

Supremacy in the Northern Pacific ocean.

Canada was stirred into a tumult by the official announcement that the administration of Bengal in 1757. All financial engagements entered into with the Mogol emperors were overlooked, and Hastings, as governor general, replenished by extortion the company's exchequer, until his rapacious policy forced Mussulman sovereigns under British control.

The traders themselves were then deprived of their monopoly in favor of the crown. Gold being discovered in Mysore, England annexed that territory and conquered the immense wealth of Nepal, Assam and Arakam. Native mutinies were suppressed, principalities in rebellion or without heirs annexed to the federation, and in 1877 Queen Victoria was proclaimed empress of India.

We turn to South Africa. In 1869 Kimberley and its diamonds attracted the attention of British merchants. As a quarrel divided Boers and Kaffirs, England intervened under the auspices of Cecil Rhodes and the Transvaal was annexed to Cape Colony in 1876. At the price of much blood on Majuba Hill Gladstone granted self-government to that republic.

Thus magnanimity followed defeat. But Rhodes kept the Dutch out of his chartered territory, while auriferous discoveries attracted into the Rand a most powerful British element. Aris-not alleviated. The reform leaders refused arbitration. War was declared in October, 1899.

The resistance of 20,000 Boers against 200,000 British soldiers "staggered humanity," but after a struggle of two years and a half the gold country was annexed under King Edward's crown, and the initiative of shopkeepers in another conquest is consigned to history.

It would appear, however, as if John Bull for once was to be deprived of his time-honored privilege of controlling any new fields of wealth within his reach. The Alaskan arbitration tribunal has virtually conceded the claim of Uncle Sam that the boundary follows the sea coast, and Canadian papers now tax Lord Alverstone with having made up his mind in advance in favor of the United States.

The contention that the frontier should run in a parallel line jumping from one headland to another and thus awarding the bays and inlets to the Dominion is rejected, and such gateways to the gold fields as Skagway and Dena and Pyramid Harbor are not to pass out of American control.

When one of the richest auriferous districts in the world revealed itself along the Yukon and transformed the

WHERE CLAIM LIES.

The heavier dotted lines show boundary line claimed by the United States, while the lighter dotted line that of England. The portraits are those of American and Englishmen who sat in the tribunal at London that decided and agreed the American contention was just.

Alaskan boundary tribunal had rendered a decision giving a sweeping victory to the United States. The denial to Canada of even a single port for the Klondike gold fields roused the wrath of the entire Dominion, and annexation to the United States was urged by many as a relief from Great Britain's repeated repudiations of Canada's interests.

Dispatches from various points throughout the Dominion indicated that the Alaskan defeat had inspired general rage against the mother country, and this was emphatically expressed by leaders of all parties.

Among the most incisive utterances were those of Mr. Gourelay, member of parliament from Nova Scotia, who said that "all the United States have to do is to make a claim for Canada and they will get it by boastfulness and dishonest effort. The last two generations of Englishmen are degenerates and cowards."

British Columbian officials regarded the decision as another instance where Canadian interests were sacrificed on the Moloch altar of "diplomatic arrangements for the benefit of Great Britain."

J. Israel Tarte, who speaks at all times with the voice of all the French Canadians in the Dominion, declared that if it were true that Canada had been given no port there was a strong likelihood the nation would not accept the decision, no matter what the outcome might be.

LONG HISTORY OF SUCCESS.

How Vast Portions of the Earth Have Become British.

When Austerlitz avenged the loss of a French fleet at Trafalgar and placed the coalition at Napoleon's mercy, Pitt exclaimed, "Oh! my country," and died. On hearing of this supreme triumph the great emperor remarked, "Yes; a country of shopkeepers."

England still resents the definition, because truth engenders hatred, but her prosperous history of imperialism talks shop in every chapter.

With Clive's victory in India, a corporation of British merchants, guided by sordid selfishness, was granted the tocracy and Stock Exchange in London grasped the financial meaning of imperialism and urged the uitlanders to claim political rights from the Boers and conquer the mining fields. The Jameson raid in open violation of international law failed to seize Pretoria. Kruger's generosity spared the raiders, but the extreme tension was Artistic Workmanship in Glass.

One of the greatest artistic marvels of the world is to be seen in the museum at Harvard university. This curiosity consists of hundreds of specimens of flowers and plants formed of glass, but with such exquisite fidelity to nature that they appear to be real, every tint and marking, every tiniest detail, being faithfully reproduced. They are made by a secret process, the artists being a father and son in Germany, who, it is said, may let their secret die with them! As an instance of the wonderful workmanship it may be mentioned that the very hairs which appear on the stems on certain plants are reproduced on the glass imitations.

The roads of the New York Central Lines, over which run hourly trains, occupy the natural highway between the East and West. A water level for one thousand miles between Chicago and New York, along the shore of Lake Erie and Lake Michigan, through the Mohawk Valley and beside the Hudson River. A route level and straight, and offering comforts and conveniences unsurpassed.

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

Three sons were born to a Kentucky farmer a few days ago and he has named them, his wife acquiescing, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, in honor of the three states in which his wife has lived.

The agricultural department is now developing in the South a system of "one man farms." These are small areas of land in the pine woods, upon which a system of farming is being developed of such a nature as to appeal directly to the class of farmers who must necessarily handle such land.

The Two Captains

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

Then my lord withdrew to his little dungeon of a cabin, and the two captains went on deck to pace a while and smoke after their morning repast.
Dreadful as was the state of Lord Fitzgibbon it was not to last much longer, for in the morning watch a sail right ahead was reported by the man on the lookout. Grindal knew his duty. The captain was not yet turned out. The boatswain stepped below and knocked Pope's cabin door.
"Hallo!" roared Pope.
"A sail right ahead, sir," answered Grindal.

"Trim sail," cried Pope, "and keep your friend right under your flying jibboom-end."

"Ay, ay, sir."

The boatswain returned on deck,
and in a very few minutes Captain Pope stood by his side with his brilliant telescope at his eye.
"She shall take my lord," said
Pope, aloud, but to himself. "Grindal, we want to make nothing out of our course; get studdingsail-booms rigged out and the sails set, and load Long Tom with a blank cartridge; he must be brought to a stand."

A little while after the gun was fired the stranger swung her foretopsail with a reel of her whole shape
that made you think of a man staggering to a blow on the shoulder. The Earl strode up to Pope and said:
"Do you intend to speak that vessel, sir?"

"I hope, my lord, to transfer you to her," answered Pope, lifting his hat and making a low bow.

"But, Captain Pope, she is sailing
into the Atlantic."

"She shall tell us her destination," exclaimed Pope with an engaging smile. And while he spoke the Gypsy floated abreast of the little brigantine, whose name, writ large upon her stern, was the Catesby of Sunderland.

A tall man stood near the taffrail,

the brigantine, and Crystal was returning to the brig.

Pope saw the Earl go up to the long man, and some gesticulation and pointing followed. The Earl seemed exhorting and endeavoring to persuade, and for twenty minutes this went on, the brigantine's fore-topsail remaining aback; then Pope, dropping his glass, burst into a roar of laughter.

"I'll be hanged," he cried to Crystal,
"if that yellow skipper isn't sticking her straight off to New York after all."

CHAPTER XII.

The Julia Morton.

The pirate brig Gypsy duly arrived on the grounds where Pope proposed to cruise while he waited for the Madre de Dios to leave into sight. A man was stationed throughout the day and throughout the night, if the weather was clear, on the fore-topgal-lant yard, and reported every sail he described. Whenever a sail was sighted a course was shaped for her, but the chase was promptly abandoned when it was seen she was not the ship the pirates waited for.

They had been cruising three days.
In these times they had trimmed sail
for a few distant ships which did not turn out to be what they wanted. A fourth morning broke. Crystal was in charge and Pope walked the planks
by his side. On high, seated upon the fore-topgallant yard, with a ship's glass slung on his back was the figure of a seaman. His white breeches shook with the flight of the wind. His left hand grasped the tie, and with continuous slow motions of the head, hungry with the passions
of the expectant heart-sickened pirate,
he sunk his frowning gaze into the distant sea-line.

Then he sung down loud and clear,
"Sail ho!"

"Where away?" instantly shouted
Pope.

Pope. He took another long look, in the midst of which a flash of fire glanced like lightning of storm at the schooner's bow, and the ball struck
the brig's quarter.

"Crystal," yelled Pope, "hoist the black flag; we'll chance it!"

In a minute the sinister rag of the rover went soaring to the main royal masthead, the helm was put down,
the yards were braced sharp up, and the brig with quivering leeches lay waiting for the schooner, at whose main-topmast head was now blowing
the black flag of the pirate.

When the brig's men saw that square of sable bunting, stirless as a painting in the wind, they roared,
they shouted, they screamed; they went mad with excitement, and springing upon the bulwark rails cheered
the on-coming stranger with extravagant demonstration of arm and cap.

"Gods, what would I give to exchange this butterbox for yonder
beauty," groaned Pope.

When the schooner had measured
a space within a quarter of a mile,
she shortened sail with magical celerity, put her helm hard down, and with flattened-in sheets drove alongside of the brig.

A tall man whose beard shook like smoke at his chin, who was draped in a short yellow coat under which his long legs descended into a pair of sea-boots, hailed in good English but with a foreign accent:

"Ho! the brig ahoy! What brig
are you?"

"We're the pirate brig Gypsy, of
and from London, cruising for a ship,"
Pope bawled, in answer to the hail.
"What schooner is that?"

"We are the pirate schooner Julia Morton of Liverpool, but now from Cadiz, like yourselves cruising for a ship," was the reply, in good English whose articulation carried a foreign accent.

"Will you come aboard of me and have a yarn, and taste of my brig's hospitality?" shouted Pope, "or shall I go on board of you?"

The tall man raised his hand as though asking for a moment to consider, he then addressed a man dark as a mulatto, probably the mate of the schooner; a minute later he called out "Brig, ahoy! I will go on board of you," on which Pope lifted his hat and flourished it.

"Cadiz!" said Pope to Crystal, while they stood together in the gangway waiting for the arrival of the captain of the schooner, "on a cruise for a ship! Smite me, John, if I like it!"
"Bring half the crew aboard under pretense of entertaining them, clap
'em under, then foul the schooner and take her," said Crystal.

Pope scowled in thought with folded arms, but made no answer.
The schooner lowered a handsome boat. Twelve men entered her, and then the captain, he of the beard and the boots, sprang from the reel of the gangway into her sternsheets. In a few flashes of oar the boat was alongside the Gypsy.

The captain of the schooner climbed over the brig's side, and a number of his men followed him. All were armed. Pope extended his hand to the bearded pirate, and inquired his name.

"Captain Bland," he answered, with a countenance of religious repose and in the voice of one who reads at a grave-side.

"Are you straight from London?"
said he, after looking hard at Crystal, and then round at the little ship
whose character was abundantly proclaimed to his satisfaction by the readiness with which the brig's crew and his own men had fraternized, one or two of them indeed having been old shipmates, so that it was "Why,
damn me, Tom!" and "Why, blast
me, William!"

"Straight," answered Pope. "And you're from Cadiz!"

"Hail!" replied Captain Bland, in solemn delivery.

"Was there ever a ship left that port," inquired Captain Pope, "before you sailed, named the Madre de Dios?"

(To be continued.)

Law of "Treasure Trove."

Not long ago 6,775 English silver pennies, which some man had hoarded up for his own benefit in times when pennies were silver, were sold to the public at auction in London, realizing $500 for the national treasury.
This money was dug up by some laborers at Colchester while laying the foundations of a building. The crown stepped in and seized the find,
but it rewarded the finders, and a few rare coins in the collection were sent to the British museum. When the hoard was found the price of these silver pennies went down in all the coin collector's markets. This strange and not particularly reasonable law
of "treasure trove" has extended from England to France, Germany, Spain and Denmark. If any one finds hidden treasure and conceals it for his own use he is liable to fine and imprisonment. It used to be a hanging matter.

Food for Infants.

All infants over 7 months old artificially fed in the Nursery and Child's hospital, New York, during the past four months were given stronger food, especially stale bread soaked in boiling water until thoroughly softened, when the water was poured off and a cup of milk added and this boiled for three or four minutes. After being sweetened and cooled sufficiently it is fed to the baby. At first a teaspoonful once a day is given, but as the infant becomes accustomed to it the amount is increased, so that at the end of ten days it is receiving one to two or three ounces daily. It is given between the regular bottle hours, and never more than half an ounce at a time. If curds appear in the stools or if it disagrees it is discontinued.

low her to have company, Josephine Florence Beltz of Shipman, aged 13, left home with a 32-year-old man.
George Miller, a member of a prominent family. Mrs. Beltz informed the Alton police of the disappearance of her daughter, and requested them to arrest Miller. Before the instructions were received Miller had left the city and, hiring a team at an Alton livery stable, was driven to Madison, where he left the girl. The young man who drove for Miller informed the police and Mrs. Beltz went to Madison, and through the offices of the Alton chief of police she was enabled to recover

Miller had induced her to leave home because her mother would not allow

men. She announced her intention of leaving home again at her next oppor-

Robs His Benefactor.

Dr. J. L. Steadman, a dentist of East St. Louis, mourns the departure of a friend, and also the loss of some gold and dental instruments. Dr.
Steadman says a young man came to him and stated that he was in hard luck. He said that he knew Steadman when he attended school. Steadman, on the strength of the pretended acquaintance, gave him a place to sleep in his office and paid for his meals at a neighboring restaurant. When the dentist called at his office the young man had disappeared. Later he found a note in a drawer informing him that his new friend was still in hard luck
and that he needed the articles which he had taken.

Assault Is Charged.

Dr. A. C. McGuire, a prominent dentist of Murphysboro, was placed under arrest, charged with an assault to murder. His trial is delayed pending the result of the injuries which it is alleged he inflicted on L. Rindelman, a prominent southern Illinois man. Details of the assault are conflicting, as is also the cause of the difficulty. The wounds on Rindelman were made by a small pair of scissors, and are considered serious, if not fatal.

BRONZE STATUE TO LINCOLN

Monument to Great Emancipator to Be Dedicated at Pana Oct. 29.

The heroic bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln recently erected at the Rosemond Grove cemetery, Pana, through the generosity of Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Kitchell gives promise of becoming one of the most famous statues of the "Great Emancipator," and by many is considered the most real and lifelike. It is by Charles James Mulligan, the Chicago sculptor, and represents Lincoln at the zenith of enthusiasm in the delivery of the closing lines of the Gettysburg address. The statue is erected on a pedestal of rough granite on the crest of the hill
at Rosemond Grove cemetery, one of the prettiest natural spots in cen-

in it that they stop the cars to make personal investigation. The full-blown buds are not so numerous as they were in the spring, but there are a great many more than other trees in the same orchard contained. The tree also has a record for being the heaviest bearer in the orchard.

Brothers Are Hurt.

Two sons of William H. Bohm, a

CHILD'S DEATH IS DUE TO PLAY

Overexertion Brings on Hemorrhage, Which Proves Fatal.

The body of Amanda J. Thompson, aged 8 years, was shipped from East St. Louis to Sparta for burial. The child died quite suddenly at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Petty. She had been playing in the yard with a number of other children for about an hour, when she suddenly stopped
and stated that she was very tired.
In a moment she began to cough, and a little later a hemorrhage followed.
Mrs. Petty sent for a physician, but before he could arrive the child died.
It is believed that the death was the result of overexertion in the games.

Pope bawled in answer to the hail.

and a very little seaman in a yellow sou'west cap, clung and wriggled like a monkey at the end of the long tiller. A few sailors looked on from the forecastle.

"Brig ahoy!" sings out the tall
man. "What brig are you, and why did you fire at me?"

"To bring you to," answers Pope.
"We are the brig Gypsy, of and from London, and I'm going to put a gentleman aboard ye."

"Stop," shouts the tall man. "We don't want no gentlemen aboard us.
There's no accommodation for passengers 'ere." And he sings out to his men, "Lee forebrace," and immediately
after, "I wish you a good voyage, gentlemen."

"Hold!" roared Pope, in a voice that arrested the motions of the brigant-ine's seaman, as though they had been paralyzed. "If you touch a brace, or attempt to proceed before I have put a gentleman on board of you, by—
and here he swore most horribly—
"I will go on firing into you until I sink you."

"Captain Pope," exclaimed the Earl,
"you are aggravating my misfortunes
by sending me to New York. I have made my personal safety of great value to you; why will not you hand
me over to a ship that is homeward bound?"

"The brigantine will do that for you,
my lord," answered Pope. "We place
the most perfect confidence in Earl Fitzgibbons' honor."

So saying he motioned, not without courtesy, but with very intelligible significance, to the gangway, under which the brig's boat lay rippling and bobbing with four men in her, while Crystall waited at the head of the short ladder. Pope preceded the Earl and Crystal descended into the boat.

"I wish your lordship farewell,"
said Pope. "A happy voyage and a safe return."

He spoke without a smile. Nobody could have seemed more in earnest. The Earl coldly bowed his head and with much caution and serious grasping of the man-ropes, put his legs over the side, and without disaster, though the swell sank and rose
the little craft, gained the stern sheets. Crystal then put off and in a minute or two the Earl was on board

Ordinance No. 3 (New Series.)

AN ORDINANCE.

Providing for the construction of an extension of the connected system of water mains and supply pipes with the necessary hydrants and appliances on Garfield Street and on Appleby Street, in the Village of Barrington, County of Lake, State of Illinois.

Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington:

SECTION 1. That an extension to the connected system of water mains and supply pipes be constructed and laid as follows: Commencing and connecting with the line of pipe in Main Street, at a point 20 feet east of the west line of Garfield Avenue on said Main Street; thence extending north on a line 20 feet east of the west line of Garfield Avenue to a point 20 feet south of the north line of Appleby Street; thence west on Appleby Street 20 feet from the north line of said Appleby Street to the intersection of Harrison Street, in the Village of Barrington, County of Lake, and State of Illinois.

All said water mains and pipes shall have connections extending to all the street lines of the above mentioned streets at intersecting streets, and all said pipes and mains shall have junctions where said pipes intersect each other.

The internal diameter of said water mains for all of the lines as above described shall be four inches, the lower surface of said water pipes shall be laid not less than five feet below the surface of the street and must bear evenly upon the trench in which they are laid. The pipe used shall be the best quality of cast iron, and each length must be 12 feet exclusive of the bell and must have been tested at the foundry to a hydrostatic pressure of 300 pounds to the square inch, certificates of such test shall be furnished to the Board of Local Improvements for all pipes furnished for the system. The pipes must be of a uniform thickness and cast on end and must have been immersed in a bath of Dr. Scott's Patent Coal Tar Varnish.

All the pipes shall be subject to inspection before being laid and when completed the entire system shall be subject to a final test of a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch, such test to be made at the expense of the contractor, and the special castings shall be subject to the same requirements as the pipes.

The trenches shall be open at the indicated and in no instance shall the depth be less than will permit covering the pipe of five feet.

Each length of pipe shall be cleared of dirt before being laid and the hub and end of each pipe shall be wiped before being laid and shall be evenly driven with a sledge hammer so as to have a uniform space of one and one-half inches for lead in 4 inch pipe. The lead must be of good quality, free from excessive dross when over heated. All joints must be filled at one pouring.

The lead must be driven until thoroughly compacted, and when the joint is finished the lead face shall be flush.
The trenches must be filled closely upon the laying of the pipe. The first earth must be compacted to the elevation of the axis of the pipe and the balance filled by shovels or by team and scraper, care being used not to throw stones into the trench of sufficient size to injure the pipe. The residue of the earth shall be heaped up over the trench in anticipation of settling. Open ends of pipe in place shall be plugged and stopped up during the night or when the work is not in progress.
Where the streets are gravelled the gravel shall be thrown on one side and the earth on the opposite side of the trench, and when the back filling is done the gravel shall be placed on top in such a manner as to permit the street to be left in as good condition as it was before, when the full settlement of earth shall have taken place.
All cross walks shall be replaced, if disturbed, after the pipe is laid and be left in as good condition as it was before.

The hydrants must be of the best quality and guaranteed to stand the test of 150 pounds to the square inch, each hydrant to have 2 1/2 inch nozzles. The parts must operate with freedom and the working parts are to be made of brass or bronze metal of a durable quality. The free water way shall be of a capacity of at least 15 per cent greater than the combined area of the nozzles of the hydrants and shall be made (the hydrants) of a length to permit a five foot covering of the pipe connection. The parts of the hydrants must be easy of access and admissible of a minimum cost for repairs. Hydrants shall be the same as those used in present system.

The drip must operate freely and certainly. The hydrants must open to the left. The nozzles shall be of the same thread as those used in the City of Chicago.
The contractor shall furnish four keys and keep all hydrants in repair for one year after the acceptance of the work, provided the damage, if any, is created by any defect in manufacture or before the same were set in place.
The hydrants shall be placed as indicated by the superintendent or by the Board of Local Improvements and they shall be placed on a pocket of coarse gravel so as to permit of rapid drip.
The valves shall be made of first-class material equivalent to the Eddy valve. It shall be of double disc gate pattern with brass mounted hub and nut and shall open by turning to the left. The valve must be subjected to a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch. All valves must be uniformly set on the proper lines of cross streets and no variations therefrom of greater than one foot will be permitted.
The valve boxes shall be of cast iron, extensible and of suitable pattern for five inch internal diameter and sufficient for extension to a cover of five feet. Each valve must be provided with a box.
Sec. 2. The work above provided for in this ordinance shall be done under the direction, inspection and supervision of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Barrington, and it shall be done in strict accordance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 3. The improvement described herein shall be made and the whole cost thereof, including the sum of $51.00 costs, shall be paid for by special assessment in accordance with an act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled, "An Act Concerning Local Improvements," approved June 17, 1897, and the amendments thereto. The said sum of $51.00 shall be applied toward the costs of making and collecting such assessment in accordance with the provisions of Section 94 of said Act and said Amended Act.

Sec. 4. The Village Attorney shall be and is hereby directed to file a petition in the County Court of Lake County, Illinois, in the name of the Village of Barrington, praying that steps be taken to levy a special assessment for the said improvement in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and in the manner prescribed by law.

Sec. 5. This ordinance is passed in accordance with the recommendation and estimate submitted to the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington by the Board of Local Improvements of said Village, said recommendation of said Board of Local Improvements, to-

RARE WHISTLER PICTURES.

William E. Curtis, the Chicago Record-Herald's correspondent, writing from London about the late James McNeill Whistler says: "After the death of the American artist not long ago his house and studios on the Chelsea embankment were found filled with portraits, sketches, etchings and other works which his friends knew nothing about, and they are said to include several examples superior to any that he ever exhibited. They have been inherited by Miss Rosalind B. Philip, his sister-in-law, executrix and only heir at law, for he was a widower without children. His estate was appraised at $52,000. Among these newly discovered works is a remarkable portrait of George Vanderbilt, which evidently was painted several years ago, but it has never been exhibited or discussed. Why Mr. Whistler should have retained it in seclusion has not been explained. Perhaps Mr. Vanderbilt can throw some light on the subject, but he has not done so, or perhaps it did not suit the artist, who was always very critical of his own work. There are several other equally mysterious portraits, all of them fine examples of Whistler's peculiar style. Those who have seen them declare that they are the best work he ever did."

"Whistler's friends in England want to make an exhibition of these works as an evidence of his greatness and as a rebuke to the Royal academy, which refused to elect him a member, but Mr. Freer of Detroit, Mich., who was one of Whistler's most devoted friends and owns about seventy of his pictures, has taken possession of his artistic effects and is packing them for shipment to the United States, where they will be exhibited at Boston next winter under the auspices of the Copley society. This arrangement causes much disappointment and chagrin in London, where it was expected that the first exhibition would be given. There is a story in circulation, which I cannot verify, that the collection will remain permanently in the United States as a monument to Whistler and be located either in New York or Boston. The matter lies with Mr. Freer, but he is not ready, even if he is able, to talk definitely on the subject.

YACHT AMERICA MAY RACE.

Famous Cup Winner May Sail Across the Ocean in Lipton Cup Contest.

According to Butler Ames, owner of the famous old schooner yacht America, winner of the cup that bears her name, the boat is very likely to be started in the transatlantic race next May, for which Sir Thomas Lipton has offered a $5,000 cup, says a Boston special to the New York Times.

"The America is staunch and sound today, and I have no hesitation in saying that I believe she can sail across the Atlantic next summer if necessary without mishap," said Butler Ames.

"It is too soon to say anything positively, because the whole thing has been hardly considered yet," added Paul Butler, "but I know of no reason that would make it impossible for the America to enter the race if it is to be free for all, as announced."

The America is at present out of commission, tied up at Chelsea bridge, in Boston, but she is staunch and sound and could easily be put in condition.

WHITE HOUSE GUARDS.

Giant Detective and Big Policeman to Watch For Cranks.

Besides the two or three secret service men, uniformed policemen and civilian guards always on duty in the executive offices at Washington a detective in plain clothes has been assigned to the waiting room, says the New York World. He is a giant and is expected to make short work of cranks, for whom it is his particular duty to watch.

A six foot policeman in uniform now stays very close to the north door of the White House, where most of the cranks call.

New Fuse For the Navy.
The navy department has recently placed a contract with a Pittsburg man for the manufacture of 50,000 fuses for shells, says the Philadelphia Press. This fuse, or exploding device, was invented and developed by J. B. Semple of Pittsburg. It is arranged so that the shell cannot be exploded by an accidental fall of even fifty feet, yet when fired from the gun the fuse becomes "armed" and is then so sensitive that the shell will burst on striking light resistance, such as a rope or the branch of a tree.

On Hallowe'en.
Not all the elves that sport and throng
This night do wickedly misguide
Peer souls, and wear despite and wrong;
A pixie silver winged does ride
The singing breezes all night long
And halts where somber sorrows bide.

World sickened men he touches; lo,
They grasp the boon their pitiless
Fate has withheld; their dead souls glow
With fires of heaven born eagerness,
And in a dawn of dreams they know
All fame and praise and ripe success.
'Tis Hallow eve, when comes the gentle
sprite,
And heavy hearts rest deep, rest deep to-night.

And loveless maids that pine alone,
Pale brows, whom love shall never seek,
Throb with a pure delight unknown,
For strong, for tender voices speak—
My sweet, they whisper, and my own:
And life was dear where life was bleak.

And little hapless children, born
To sin and foul faced poverty,
Dream of a belmy rosy morn
And run and wanton far and free
Through waving grass and rustling corn
And wonder that such joy can be.
'Tis Hallow eve, when comes the kindly
sprite,
Oh numbered hearts, sleep soft, sleep soft tonight!

UNCOOKED FOOD FEAST

Elementary Pabulum Advocates
Enjoy a Novel Dinner.

TO COOKS AND STOVES, FAREWELL

A Ten Course Dinner in New York, including Twenty-seven Dishes, Prepared Without the Aid of a Fire—Eugene C. Christian, Physical Culturist, the Host—Nut Dishes a Feature—Sun Cooked Corn, Etc.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases, and rich sauces are worse than even heaping several meats upon each other.—Pliny.

Probably the most unique dinner ever held in the United States was enjoyed in New York by a large number of guests recently at the invitation of Eugene C. Christian. Mr. Christian, president of the Physical Culture Association of America, is well known as an advocate of correct living. He believes that most of the ills that flesh is heir to are the direct result of faulty diet, a diet in which predominate meats and heavy pastries and which are other foods frequently overcooked, and the aforementioned dinner was held to demonstrate the feasibility of living on uncooked or elementary foods, thus solving the problem of emancipating the housewife from the evils of the cook stove. In the entire ten courses, consisting of no less than twenty-seven dishes, not a single dish was cooked in or on a stove, and not a vestige of meat or pastry appeared. Notwithstanding these features, all present found rare enjoyment in the repast and averred that their hunger had been entirely appeased.

Many of the women, who, like the majority of housekeepers, had suffered for years the bondage of the kitchen and had experimented with cooks galore, vowed unhesitatingly that their season of servitude was now ended and that henceforth they would by following in the path blazed by Mr. Christian enjoy a glorious freedom never even dreamed of by housekeepers of the past. Then, too, the health of their families, the elementary foodists believe, will improve vastly through the introduction of the new dietary system, thus awarding them a double reward.

The menu placed before Mr. Christian's guests was as novel as it was interesting and was as follows:

Cream of Corn.
Unfried Wafers.
Ripe Olives. Celery.
Tomato Salad.
Stuffed Peppers. Blanched Almonds.
Masqueraded Cereal Dates. Whipped Cream.
Sun Cooked Corn.
Pecan Meats. Brazil Nuts.
Eggnog. Unfried Bread.
Sweet Butter.
Fruit and Nut Medley.
Ginger Pudding. Whipped Cream.
Turkish Fuli Figs.
Spanish Persimmons. Pignolias.
Cream Cheese. Date Butter.
Unfried Fruit Wafers.
Ice Cream. Nut Fruit Cake.
Cereal Wafers.

The dishes were chosen with due regard to their combining qualities, and, in spite of their large number, no discomfort was caused. The cream of corn was served in cups and was made by extracting the juice from fresh green corn and combining it with milk and the proper seasoning. The unfried wafers and the unfried bread were distinct innovations even to those folk that considered themselves somewhat experienced in uncooked food affairs. On being questioned, Mr. Christian stated that they had been placed in a cabinet lined with electric lights, giving a temperature of about 140 degrees F., and dried. This process gives the wafers and bread a peculiar whiteness.

The sun cooked corn was cut from the cob about two weeks before the dinner and dried out of doors. To prepare it for use it was soaked in milk.

On a page of the menu was a quatrain expressing sentiments distinctly appropriate for the occasion. It read:

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends, we may live without books,
And civilized man may now live without cooks.

—Apologies to Owen Meredith.

In a speech Host Christian stated that the dinner was but one of a series that he purposed giving. He thus hopes to spread further the gospel of elementary foodism. By a series of exhaustive experiments he has demonstrated that uncooked food, the food "that grows in the sunshine, among the breezes and the green trees," is man's natural food, and he is of the opinion that the closer we adhere to nature and her simplicity just so much further will we have advanced toward the solving of the all important food question and its relation to health.

Among the guests were several men and women having rank as authorities on dietetic matters. Albert and Dr. W. R. C. Latson, publisher and editor respectively of a well known health magazine, were among the speakers and expressed interest and delight at the unqualified success of the dinner.

One of the women, who is an advocate of elementary foods, told of the envy her comparatively care free life had aroused among her sister housewives. A neighbor recently said to her: "Why is it that your home life is so simple? You do not even have a cook, and yet you yourself never seem overburdened with work."

"Well," was the reply, "for breakfast I eat a bunch of grapes, and my husband, drinks a quart of milk."

THE DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. The Draught cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.

Morgan, Ark., May 25, 1901.
I cannot recommend The Draught too highly. I keep it in my house all the time and have used it for the last ten years. I never gave my children any other laxative. I think I could never be able to work without it on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicine is all that keeps me up.

Trusts as Confidence Games.

When the green-goods man sells to the countryman enough rubbish to fill a carpet-bag with the understanding that it is counterfeit money good enough to fool the public it is a case of a clever rascal swindling a stupid rascal. When a gold brick changes hands the conditions are much the same, since the inference is that the brick has been stolen somewhere. The law puts swindlers of this sort in stripes and prison cells.

When, however, trust promoters gather up a few manufacturing plants which have made their owners wealthy or which at least look imposing from a distance, paying huge prices for them in bonds of a new company, issuing preferred and common stock of the face value of millions of dollars and by means of prospectuses and other forms of romantic fiction inducing the public to buy the stock, the game is not called a confidence game.

The federal and state governments must take hold of this matter firmly. There are good trusts and there are trusts that are little short of infamous. Publicity and punishment for crimes committed by imposing confidence men who utter green goods in million-dollar lots must be applied for the protection of the public and for the preservation of old-fashioned honesty in the business world.

VIEWS OF HONORABLES.

London's Artillery Company Will Act as Missionary in England.

The Honorable Artillery Company of London were highly pleased with their visit to Washington and were especially delighted with their reception by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House, says the New York Times.

They speak enthusiastically of the generous hospitality that has been shown them and promise to proclaim in England the wonderful experiences of their trip. One of the Honorables said before leaving the Arlington for Niagara Falls:

"Coming over on the steamer we were torn with conflicting feelings. We did not know how you people would receive us. Some of us honestly believed that our reception by all except the Boston Ancients would be courteous, but lacking in cordiality. When I heard the cheer that greeted us upon landing in Boston you could have knocked me down with a feather.

"All doubts were removed. We were literally taken off our feet by the hospitable Bostonians, and we haven't had time to collect ourselves since.

"The people here are more cordial than any we have ever met. There seems to be nothing you can't do for us. I think I can speak for our entire company when I say that we have never so thoroughly enjoyed anything and that the visit to America has been a revelation.

"To me, at least, and I know it is the same with a large number of our fellows, the experiences of this trip have completely changed our ideas of America and Americans.

"The people of England don't realize what you people are over here. But every member of the Honorable Company will be a missionary in the best sense of the word and endeavor to correct the false impressions that exist."

Indiana Farm's Odd Freak.

Kosciusko county, in the far northern end of the state of Indiana, recently furnished a rival for Brown county's earthquake farm, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. W. S. Blatchley, state geologist, received a letter from Joshua Leffel, living on a farm near Silver Lake, stating that he had a two acre pasture that had some of the tendencies of an electric battery. By tapping the foot on the ground or by striking the surface with a stick startling sounds are produced. "One can hear a peculiar crackling noise," he says. "It resembles the sound produced by the breaking of ice. Again, there may be a snapping sound like that produced by throwing salt on a hot stove. The noise is so distinct that it may be heard from one to three rods away." According to Leffel, the strangest freak of the pasture is that one may receive a shock as if from a galvanic battery by simply touching the hand upon the ground.

COTTON'S BRAVE STAND

How American Admiral Saved Beirut From a Massacre.

NO BLANK CARTRIDGES FOR HIM.

Commander of American Squadron Told the Vail's Messenger That He Had "No Plans," but Pointed to Guns and Men Ready to Land—Sultan Saw Pointed Argument of Bayonets and Removed the Turkish Governor.

United States Admiral Cotton's masterly tactics saved a most critical situation in Beirut, Syria, three days after his arrival, preventing a general massacre of native Christians and securing against imminent peril the lives, property and honor of American citizens as well as of many Europeans, writes the New York World's special correspondent.

A great armed mob of Mohammedans had attacked one of the Christian quarters, shooting, stabbing, hacking, mutilating, looting and destroying. The military were called out, but did not oppose the mob, their coreligionists, with much zeal. A general panic ensued, and people fled to Lebanon in large numbers.

The foreign consuls sent a committee to Admiral Cotton to ask him to be ready to land men to quell the riot. This committee was most courteously received, but the admiral could make no official statement or promise. He was there primarily to protect American life and property. His next concern would be British life and property and then the lives of Europeans and, if possible, their property.

The committee was invited on deck to see his preparations for an emergency. They saw 500 marines under arms, five field guns ready to be sent ashore, steam launches all around the Brooklyn and the San Francisco, with steam up, ready for instant service.

A strong guard of marines and a corps of signalmen had already been sent to protect the United States consulate and from the roof of that building to keep the ships informed of developments. Officers had been sent ashore to ascertain the exact state of affairs and to make all needed plans and preparations for prompt action.

The Syrian Protestant college, which stands on a commanding height, was chosen as the base of operations. Points were selected for landing the troops and positions for the guns. All night the warships' searchlights played upon the town, while steam launches patrolled the shore.

On Monday morning, Sept. 14, the vali (Turkish governor) sent a messenger to ascertain Admiral Cotton's plans.

The admiral "had no plans." Well, what might be his intentions? He had "no intentions."

But what answer shall the messenger take to the governor?

The messenger was asked if he had observed anything in particular as he crossed the deck of the Brooklyn. He had observed.

"Then," said the admiral, "tell his excellency exactly what you have seen and allow me to add that there are no blank cartridges in this outfit."

Some attempts to restore order were made on shore that day. It was officially admitted that seventeen persons had been killed in Sunday's riot. Private estimates give a higher figure, and a few more murders occurred on Monday and the following night. But word came that Nazim Pasha, wali of Damascus, was on his way to Beirut with full powers to supersede Rashid Pasha. Many had been the consular and ambassadorial representations before as to the necessity of removing Rashid Pasha, but it was remarkable what point was lent to these arguments in the view of the sultan by the vision of 500 American bayonets and an admiral who has no use for blank cartridges.

Freak of Cards in Whist.

Dr. Samuel Long of New Brunswick, president of the New Jersey Whist association, tells of a remarkable whist hand which was dealt in the rooms of the Elizabeth Whist club recently, says the New York Times. The game was ordinary straight whist. Mr. Hibbard shuffled the cards thoroughly, an old pack, and handed them to E. K. Grant, who passed them to Hibbard's partner, Mr. Stearns, to cut. After being cut they were dealt as follows: Ace of diamonds, trump card, all the diamonds in Grant's hand, all the clubs in Stearns' hand, all spades except seven spot in Dr. Samuel Long's hand, with seven of hearts; all hearts except seven spot in Hibbard's hand, with seven of spades. It is said that several witnesses stand ready to back the story.

A Featherless Broiler.

Charles Robinson of Phillipsburg, near Morristown, N. J., has the latest thing in the way of freaks. His freak is a young pullet about six months old without a sign of feathers or hair on its body, says the New York Times. The chicken's skin is smooth and velvety to the touch and is dark yellow in color. Aside from the fact that the chicken has no feathers it is otherwise normal. Mr. Robinson says he is now considering the advisability of breeding from this chick. His idea is that he may be able to produce featherless broilers, which would have a more ready sale than the other kind, upon which the housewives spend hours in the plucking of pin feathers.

That a great majority of all deaths occur between 1 and 8 o'clock in the morning was shown by the record presented to the British nation by Dr. Hay.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST IN CONVENTION

Members Gather by Thousands in Detroit and Listen to Reports Showing Remarkable Growth of Church—Able Ministers Fill Pulpits of Michigan City.

(Special Correspondence.)

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about the religious people who prefer to be called by the simple name of Christians, or Disciples of Christ is their rapid growth. During the fiscal year 1902-03 there have been received into their ranks 101,789 additions, more than four-fifths of these by conversion. There has been a larger gain in Bible school work than for years and 125 new congregations have been organized. The Disciples are especially organized in 1847 for world-wide missionary education and evangelization and has therefore, missions in both home and foreign lands. Its fields are United States, Jamaica, Porto Rico, Mexico and India. Its national headquarters are at Indianapolis. It has in thirty-seven states about 18,000 auxiliaries, with a membership of 37,000, fifty young ladies' circles, 416 mission bands, 1,940 Junior Societies of Christian Endeavor, and 226 Intermediate Societies. It publishes monthly the "Missionary Tidings" with a circulation of 12,000, and the "Junior Builders," a paper for little folks. It is entirely independent of the other missionary organizations of the church, appointing and sending out its own missionaries and raising and expending its own money. Last year its receipts were $139,000, besides several thousands raised for state development. It sustains wholly, or in part 119 missionary pastors, evangelists and teachers in the United States; it has forty-three missionaries and associate missionaries, beside native helpers in India; sixteen in Jamaica; eleven in Mexico; two in Porto Rico. To the three fields last mentioned, six new workers have just sailed. Its forms of work in foreign fields are preaching, village work, hospital, school, orphanage, colportage and leper. It had the honor of opening the first Protestant orphanage in Porto Rico. A unique feature of its work, is the provision it has made for teaching the Bible in connection with the state universities. Last year, in three of these, Michigan, Virginia and Kansas, 400 young men and women received special Bible instruction.

Mrs. N. E. Atkinson, of Indianapolis, the president, pleaded for a great advance. They must engage more women in the work, for their present assessment of 10 cents was by no means adequate for the work undertaken. The church had passed its childhood, she said, and its wealth must come forth. The report on literature was presented by Mrs. Effie Cunningham, Indianapolis, and that of the Young People, by Mrs. Pounds. Miss Lackey of Doeghur, India, interested a large audience

W. T. Moore, M. D., L.L.D.
Preacher, editor and lecturer, Bible College of the University of Missouri.

In the old theme of children's work in that country.

At night W. M. Forest of Calcutta addressed an audience that crowded every part of the big church. Not by extent abroad meant to lose what they had at home, he contended. He pictured the vastness of the field, while districts numbering three and four million having only three or four missionaries.

Committee reports followed and on Saturday there was a vast gathering to hear Dr. Tyrell of St. Louis in the "Twentieth Century Crusaders" and Senator Oliver W. Stewart on "The Greatest Governmental Problem." Detroit pulpits were occupied by Christian ministers on Sunday and in the afternoon three great communion services were held amid deep solemnity.

Foreign Christian Missionary Society began its sessions. It is one of the youngest but one of the most vigorous in this country. It has just closed the best year's work of its twenty-eight years' history. The receipts ran above $200,000 and the gains over the previous year were the largest in any one year since the organization of the society in 1875. More churches, Sunday schools and individuals have given than ever before. One signal success has followed another in quick succession. One gift of $6,000 was received, another of $5,000 and a number of $2,000 and $1,000 each. It seems the society has reached the era of large giving.

A band of three missionaries has been sent to the strange and exclusive land of Tibet. They are Dr. A. L. Shelton and wife of Kansas and Dr. Susie C. Rijnhart of Canada. Some years ago Dr. Rijnhart and her husband explored a part of that land. Her husband lost his life in the attempt. This is the first church to send missionaries to that land. And it is the only nation on earth not heretofore entered by some church missionary board. This step is strategic and heroic and has sent a thrill of enthusiasm through the whole denomination. It is significant that this church is the first to enter the last unoccupied field of the world with missionaries. A number of new missionaries have also been sent to Japan and China and Laos, Luzon, P. I. A number also in preparation to go out next year, according to the able and sacrificing president, A. McLean, as you go to press.

Like the Foreign the American Christian Missionary Society presented a fine report through its hard working secretary, Brother Benjamin F. Smith. The fifty-third annual report of the Corresponding Secretary American Christian Missionary Society.

National Convention at Detroit states that among those who entered into rest during the past year were T. D. Garvin of California, J. H. Lockwood, Ohio; E. F. Mahon, Indiana, and Charles P. Williamson of Virginia. The board has supported 339 missionaries, a gain of 65 over last year, work being done in every state, in Canada, Manitoba, the Maritime Provinces and Porto Rico. Those received into the churches by confession of faith and baptism number 6,951, while 7,863 others joined the membership. If we add to this the work done by the State Boards of Missions, we have the grand total of missionaries employed, 598; additions to the churches by missionary effort, 25,490; churches organized and reorganized, 193; amount raised for home missions, $244,967.47. The total receipts of the society for all purposes the past year was $102,246.10, a gain of $19,315.17 over last year. A total of 2,060 churches made offerings to the home missionary work.

The society calls attention to its publications—"The American Home Missionary," a monthly magazine; "Our Home Field" and a long list of tracts and leaflets giving information upon the work of home missions. One of the most encouraging features of the year's work is the growth of sentiment in favor of Boys and Girls' Rally Day for America, which comes the Lord's Day before Thanksgiving, and the Home Board sends 50 per cent of the net proceeds back to the state from whence the money comes. A fine exercise has been prepared by George B. Ranshaw and James H. Fillmore, which is sent free of cost to all schools ordering it. Last year there was a gain of $2,249 in the income from Boys and Girls' Rally Day, and it is confidently expected that no less than $15,000 will be received from this source this year.

The report then reviews the mission work in all the various states and territories of the country. In 1873 the total amount raised for missions, state and national, was $4,159.84; in 1883 the amount reached $105,219.24; in 1893 it was $229,795.13; in 1903 the grand total is $645,110.10. This includes money raised for home and foreign missionary work. The board received $26,000 last year on the annuity plan.

Rev. F. D. Power.
Garfield Memorial Church, Washington.

The board reports that it has ten named memorial funds of $5,000 each. In the name of each fund a missionary is supported, doing missionary work in the various cities of the United States. Twenty churches and three individuals have volunteered to support their "own home missionaries" during the coming year.

ADAM IN HIS FIRST HOME.

When Expelled From Eden He Found Refuge From a Storm in a Tent.

One of the old legends of the Talmud, assuming to be authentic—although the proofs of authenticity are nowhere to be found—relates that Adam on his expulsion from paradise encountered a cutting, north wind, against which his scant girdle of fig leaves proved poor protection. As he wistfully cast his eyes over the desolate plain of Shinar he perceived at a great distance a dead thorn bush. Running thither he crouched behind it and while still shivering he saw a wild ass come by. And Adam cried to the beast to lie down alongside and keep him warm.

But the beast spake out ("for asses sometimes spake in those days as since," saith the commentator), and derided him for not having a warm coat of fur. Whereupon Adam waxed wroth and slew the ass with a piece of the thorn tree, and, with teeth and nails stripping off the ass' coat, wrapped it around himself. But toward noon, the sun growing hot and a scorching wind arising, Adam conceived the happy thought of hanging the skin over the bush and reposing in the shade thereof. It was done, the tent was invented and civilization began.

For a Bad Back.

Sabra, Montana, Oct. 19th.—A great many men in this neighborhood used to complain of pains in the back, but now scarcely one can be found who has any such trouble.

Mr. Gottlieb Mull is largely responsible for the improvement for it was he, who first of all found the remedy for this Backache. He has recommended it to all his friends and neighbors, and in every case it has had wonderful success.

Mr. Mill says:—"For many years I had been troubled with my kidneys and pains in the small of my back. I tried many medicines but did not derive any benefit until last fall, when I bought a dozen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using them a few days I began to improve, my back quit aching and I felt better and stronger all around. "I will keep them in the house right along for in my opinion they are the best medicine in the market to-day, and if my back should bother me again, I will use nothing else."

Hold Gen. Macdonald Guiltless. Six "commissioners" who went to Ceylon to investigate the charges laid against the late Gen. Sir Hector Macdonald, who committed suicide under sensational circumstances in Paris a few months ago, have made their report. They declare that the suggestions of crimes were prompted by some of Sir Hector's enemies through spite. Upon oath it is asserted that the accusations against him were absolutely groundless. The commission was sent to Ceylon by the late soldier's friends in Scotland and some of them had known him intimately since boyhood.

OCTOBER TRADE IS SATISFACTORY

Increased Activity Is Shown in the Distribution of Merchandise.

GAIN IN MOVEMENT OF FREIGHT

Railroad Managers Are Kept Busy Supplying Cars for Traffic on Their Lines, the Eastbound Shipments Showing Increase in Farm Products.

Chicago, Ill., special: Dun's Review, issued by R. G. Dun & Co., the mercantile agency, says:

"Under the stimulus of seasonable weather conditions farm work progresses satisfactorily, and reports indicate some increased activity in the distribution of goods and in manufactures. October buying is of a gratifying volume, and, while this is most apparent in the leading retail lines, the jobbing sections are also doing a fair house trade, and make large shipments of dry goods, furniture and carpets, clothing and foot wear.

Railroad Business.

"Freight tonnage both East and West gained momentum, and railroad managers find the movement of general merchandise the greatest hitherto experienced. Eastbound shipments exceed a year ago in farm products, and there is also much diversion of food stuffs for export by way of the gulf outlets. Receipts of iron ore, coal and lumber by lake are heavier than a month ago, and vessel charters are in good request, with rates firm and profitable. No indications are noted of overproduction among the important local industries, but much work has accumulated which cannot be completed for months to come, particularly in rails, structural iron and railroad equipment.

General Tone Is Good.

"Hardware of all kinds is somewhat difficult to obtain, supplies being low and the current buying excellent for the interior and lasting longer than expected. Furniture-makers are well filled with orders for domestic and foreign consumption. Hard woods are not readily available to meet the needs of manufacturers, and the continued scarcity holds prices to a high average. Lumber for railroad and building purposes is freely bought, country shipments showing the best aggregate, and although new building operations in the city disclose some contraction, local needs are of fair volume and the yards well employed.

Grain and Live Stock.

"Grain shipments for six days, including 3,922,447 bushels of corn, aggregate over 6,274,395 bushels and are 8 per cent over the previous week. The wheat market presented the most interest, owing to stronger buying and the scarcity of that cereal. Corn operations were on a large scale and sales of futures were influenced by growing supplies. Compared with closing prices of a week ago, wheat advanced 2 1/2 cents, and corn and oats each declined three-eighths of a cent. Live stock receipts, 310,503 head, are 4 per cent under the corresponding week of 1902. Buying of cattle and sheep showed less vigor early in the week, but later improved, and closed

Hog Prices Advance.

"Arrivals of desirable hogs had a sharp falling off, and on spirited bidding values were quickly advanced 50 cents. Provisions were in fair demand, principally for domestic account, but while pork gained 30 cents, declines appear—in ribs, 25 cents and lard, 17 cents. Receipts increased—in sheep 1 per cent, wheat 3, corn and oats 5, flour 15, butter 17, dressed beef 25, hides 45, broom corn 50 and barley and seeds 80. Decreases are: In cheese 2 per cent, cattle 4, hogs 10, wool 24, rye and lard 25.

New York dispatch: Edward H. Harriman has made peace with the Gould-Rockefeller combination in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Mr. Harriman is now identified with the Erie combination, is in full accord with Mr. Morgan in the Northern Securities deal and, with Mr. Rockefeller, will conduct the policy of the $100,000,000 Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

He notified John Donlan, the superintendent, of his dismissal Oct. 8 and said that the charity would be under the care of a night watchman and a caretaker until it was "deemed advisable to resume building and grading operations."

They have churches in every state in the union except two, and while their membership is largely in the country towns and rural districts, the gains in the larger cities have been excellent during the last decade. In seventeen of the large cities where ten years ago they had only seventy-seven churches and 20,983 members they now have 159 churches and 49,811 members, showing a gain in membership of 1.38 per cent in a decade. A net gain of 30,000 communicants for the past year brings the membership of the church up to 1,236,377. They claim their rapid increase is due to the fact that they plead for a restoration of New Testament teaching, faith and practice and the realization of Christian union. Though an American church they have quite a strong representation in foreign countries, some 50,000 being in British dominions.

They have eighteen colleges in the United States with over two million dollars of endowment, 6,500 students, 900 of them preparing for the ministry. In the eighty years of their existence as a brotherhood they have reached the point of contributing $750,000 for various missionary interests apart from their regularly organized agencies. Over $300,000 were contributed during this year to their schools and other benevolences.

The Disciples of Christ are weak in Detroit, having but one church affiliated with their missionary work. This convention is purely for co-operation in broad evangelistic work at home and abroad, whether through educational, industrial or ministerial channels. They seem to believe in the strong helping the weak, for they came to Detroit in thousands and made a great impression upon the city. Among the interesting things in the Foreign Christian Missionary Society's exhibit was Ganesh, or Ganfati, the elephant god worshiped by the Bengali shopkeepers as the god of wisdom.

Baltimore, Md., special: A copy of the first encyclical of Pius X, addressed to "The patriarchs, primates, archbishops, bishops and other ordinaries in peace and communion with the apostolic see" throughout the world, has reached Baltimore. Its tone is of a character to strengthen the impression that Pius X will go down in history as a "religious" pope.

The encyclical dwells on his reluctance to accept the high office, deplores the growing irreligion of the age, which he characterizes as a terrible and deep-rooted malady, and announces that his program is to rest on all things in Christ. His holiness says that "every effort and every artifice is used to destroy utterly the memory and the knowledge of God" but predicts "the triumph of the Lord."

"Who can help being appalled and afflicted," he asks, "when he beholds in the midst of a progress in civilization justly extolled the greater part of mankind fighting among themselves so savagely as to make it seem as though strife were universal?"

Commenting on the present conflict between labor and capital, he declares that peace can come only with God. "The way to Christ," he says, "is through the church."

He refers at length to the education of priests, warns against the snares of the so-called higher criticism, urges

TIP WAS A GOOD ONE.

But Not the Kind the "Boys" Were Looking For.

"I've a great tip on the races," cried Crasher as he approached a group of sports he knew, who were comfortably stretched about a table in the cafe of a Broadway hotel. "If you follow it, there isn't the remotest chance of your losing."

The company waited breathlessly for more particulars, and wanted the details at once; they treated him to champagne and good cigars, forcing them on him despite his protests, promised him liberal commissions on their prospective winnings, and eagerly awaited the while the specifications in regard to the forthcoming coup.

"Well, boys," finally said Crasher, "it all comes from my wife, who has a very wise head on her shoulders, you must know. She told me to-day never to play the races, and then I couldn't possibly lose. Now, if that isn't a great tip, I don't know what is. Better follow it, boys."

He was in danger of being mobbed, but made a successful dash for the street, and profound silence hung over that erstwhile merry group like a pall.

—New York Times.

In Russia 2,810 men in every million are annually called into the army; in Germany 4,120; in France 5,620. To get so large a number of Frenchmen weaklings have to be taken. This makes the mortality in the French army three and a half times that of the German army.

What do you think of Mrs. Austin's New Dress?

TRUE, BUT NOT BIBLICAL.

Many Proverbs Credited to the Good Book Which Are Not in It.

There are scores of wise saws, all containing more or less of truth, which are almost universally supposed to be in the Bible which cannot be found in its pages. One of the chief of these sentences is: "He tempers the wind to the short lamb." You would search the Bible pretty thoroughly before you would find that sentence in it. Where you would find it would be in Sterne's "Sentimental Journey."

Sterne gets a good deal of praise for the origination of this sentence, but it was originated, as a matter of fact, before he was born. In a collection of French proverbs published in 1594 we find, "Dieu mesure le vent a la brebis tondu." That convicts Sterne of plagiarism.

"In the midst of life we are in death"—everybody thinks that is in the Bible. It isn't, though; it is the burial service.

"That he who runs may read." This is another sentence supposed, wrongly, to be Biblical. It is not Biblical, though the Bible has something very like it—namely, "That he may run that readeth."

"Proned to sin as the sparks fly upward." The Bible nowhere contains those words.

"A nation shall be born in a day." The nearest thing to that in the good book is, "Shall a nation be born at once?"

Has a Mixed Family.

A yellow terrier of St. Joseph, Mo., is raising a much mixed family. The terrier had three pups, but two of them died. She at once adopted a pig and a lamb in their places. She seems not to make the slightest distinction between her natural and her adopted children.

A man in Palmer, Mass., is dead of chronic poisoning from arsenic in the colors upon the wall paper of his sitting room.

ÉPOILED CHILDREN

Usually Make Sickly Men and Women

The "spoiled child" usually makes a weak, sickly man or woman because such a youngster has its own way about diet and eats and drinks things that are unfitted for any stomach and sickness results.

"I was always a delicate, spoiled child and my parents used to let me drink coffee because I would cry for it," says a Georgia young woman. "When I entered school my nervousness increased and my parents thought it was due to my going to school, so they took me out again. But I did not get any better and my headaches got worse and weakened me so that I was unfit for any duty. Sometimes I would go a whole day without any other nourishment than a cup of coffee."

"Last spring I had a bad attack of the Grippe and when I recovered I found that coffee nauseated me so I could not drink it and even a few swallows would cause a terrible burning in my stomach. It was at this time that a friend who had been much benefited by the use of Postum suggested that I try this food drink. I found it simply delicious and have used it ever since and the results speak for themselves. I have gained 12 pounds and my nerves are as steady as any one's."

"I consider myself well and strong and I make it a point now to take a cup of Postum with a cracker or two as soon as I come home from school in the afternoon. Postum with crackers or a biscuit makes my luncheon. It certainly saved my life for I know coffee would have killed me in time had I continued drinking it."

"I have a young girl friend, a stenographer, who declares nothing strengthens and refreshes her like Postum and she has a little oil stove in her office and makes a cup of Postum at noon. I have recommended this wonderful beverage to many of my friends who know what it has done for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Corey Makes a Correction.

Workmen at Homestead, Pa., have a story to the effect that Mr. Corey, the new president of the steel trust, began his industrial career pushing a wheelbarrow, in one of Carnegie's steel works; that he did as much work as any two of the other men, thereby laying a foundation for the advancement which culminated in his present eminence, and that he was paid $1 a day for this unusual exertion. Mr. Corey declares that this story is not strictly correct. "I was only 16 years old then," he says, "and probably did less work than an other employe similarly engaged. It is also a mistake that I started in at $1 a day. It was not as much as that."

Author of Popular Recitation.

Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," is a native of Indiana and now lives in a cozy cottage at LaJolla, Cal. She has recently completed a novel, "Briarban," the scene of which is located in northern Indiana, which will soon be issued from the press.

At present there are employed on the Panama canal construction 1,500 laborers and foremen, 45 physicians, and 160 civil engineers. They were employed by the canal company, but are being paid by the United States. The daily expense of the construction amounts to about $5,000.

Hereditarily it is a tyrannical creditor, nevertheless if it has given you anything that stands in the way of your success—if you are naturally talkative, naturally prodigal, naturally dull—you may, by sheer force of character and strength of will, outgrow hereditary's endowments.

Faces Difficult Task.

In order to prove its right to the possession of this money the government will be required to establish that the securities were bought with money secured out of the Greene-Gaynor government contracts, and, further, that this money was secured by someone in trust for Carter, who was the paymaster and inspector over the works at Savannah harbor and Cumberland sound, for which contracts were awarded in 1893.

It is admitted that this task will be difficult, but Attorney Martin Irwin of Atlanta, Ga., special assistant to the United States attorney general, has expressed hope that he will be able to make all necessary connections.

Involves Cash and Securities.

Involved in the amounts which the government is prepared to show Capt. Carter received is $50,000 in cash found in possession of Carter in 1893, as well as the securities which were turned over to Carter's attorneys by the prisoner's father-in-law, R. F. Westcott, after Carter had been sent to prison in 1897. Carter was unable to show the government authorities from what source he received the $50,000, or to show a satisfactory reason why Westcott should have given him half a million in securities.

The government's theory is that the $50,000 was a payment by Greene and Gaynor, and that the $500,000 in securities were purchased by Westcott with money paid him by Greene and Gaynor on account of Carter.

Claim Money Is Gift.

Where the fight will come, it is said, is on the question whether Westcott, now dead, secured the money through some business agreements he himself had with the indicted contractors or received it on account of Carter.

The defense probably will contend that to give his son-in-law $500,000 to assist in defending himself against the charges against him was not an unlikely act on the part of Westcott.

The Trusting Widow.

The trusting widow who gives the savings of her industry to a man whom she expects to marry in order that he may get well established in business before that joyous event will probably continue to report to the police in various cities of the country indefinitely. Along with aged parents who sign away their property to children in consideration of a verbal promise to "take care of them as long as they live," the credulous widow who turns over her purse to her suitor is entitled to such pity as is due to the credulous and the simple-minded whose ears are dull to the voices of warning.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY

Give a Most Excellent Entertainment at M. E. Church.

The supper and entertainment given by the Ladies' Aid Society at the M. E. church Tuesday evening was liberally patronized and netted the society a goodly sum.

The program was one of the most attractive and entertaining offered here for many months.

A pretty feature was the "Ribbon Drill" by sixteen girls. They were uniformed in white and carried the national colors made up of ribbons. The drill was most acceptably given and received deserved compliment. The girls were instructed in the pretty movements by Mrs. Geo. W. Spinner, who deserves credit for introducing so entertaining a feature into the program.

The solos rendered by Dr. Kendall and A. C. Schroeder were well received and added new laurels to the talent of those gentlemen.

Miss Grace Freeman gave a pleasing clarinet solo in which she showed her skill as a musician.

Mrs. Spinner was greeted with applause when she finished a rendition of "Fishin'," by Proudfit. The number was very pleasing and given in a manner which marks Mrs. Spinner as an elocutionist of merit, one whom the public appreciates. As an encore Mrs. Spinner gave "Cupid Swallowed," which called forth another encore.

The entertainment throughout was enjoyable and the supper best of good things.

Many Ate Pie.

The attendance at the Chicken Pie supper and entertainment given by Mayflower Camp, Royal Neighbors, at the village hall, last Friday evening, was not as large as at other affairs given by that organization, but it was very satisfactory to the management and a neat sum was added to the camp's treasury.

The program was greatly enjoyed as was the excellent supper served.

At the close of the entertainment a handsome regulation U. S. flag was presented to Barrington Camp, M. W. A., by the ladies. The gift came as a surprise to the Woodmen and will be cherished by them as a testimonial from their highly regarded auxiliary.

Music, recitations, short talks and dancing made up the evening's pleasure.

Extension of Water Main.

The board of local improvements has met the demand of property owners on Garfield avenue and the Bowman Dairy Company and decided to extend the water system from the intersection of West Main street and Garfield avenue to the property acquired by the Bowman Company. An ordinance setting forth the action of the board, containing the estimated cost, etc., will be found in this issue.

Improvements of this kind come high, but they are public necessities and the property owners should bear their share of the expense without protest.

A cold rainy day, two little wet feet and at least one youngster in the family has the croup that night. We have just many such days now, but croup is robbed of its terrors if there is a bottle of Cole's Cough Cure handy. Children like it and a mother who has once used it knows it is the best. Try it—it's guaranteed. 25 and 50c by all druggists.

Hours to Be Lengthened.

A movement is on foot among the members of the Fox River Employers' association whereby the working hours in Aurora and vicinity will be lengthened. Labor has been successful during the last few years in reducing the length of the working hours until men prominent in the present movement claim that business has become more or less demoralized.

The Fox River Employers' association was formed several months ago with the idea of taking emphatic steps to check what they term the never-ending demands of the unions and it is about ready to commence a crusade against union invasion.

It is said that Edison is about to put on the market a charging machine which will enable anyone of ordinary means to own and run an automobile. Hitherto it has been a godsend to the poor that they could not own an automobile. Only the rich were killed or maimed. Now it seems as if discrimination will no longer be made and the opportunity for self-destruction is to be open to all.

"LEND A HAND" GIRLS

Give Their Initial Entertainment and Attract Good Audience.

A large audience greeted the little "Lend a Hand" girls at the first entertainment given by them at the M. E. church last Friday evening. A good program was rendered, and the little ladies served refreshments to nearly a hundred people.

"Lend a Hand" is the title conferred upon the pupils in Mrs. M. C. McIntosh's Sunday school class, and to that lady is due a large share of credit for the success of the entertainment.

Miss Carrie Kingsley, Miss Amy Olcott and F. E. Lines rendered vocal solos most acceptably. Rev. W. H. Tuttle and daughter, Hattie, gave a vocal duet which won praise. Mrs. M. C. McIntosh contributed two excellent readings, which, like all of her elocutionary efforts, were most excellently given. Mrs. McIntosh has won an enviable reputation as a reader and always meets a welcome when she appears before our people.

The proceeds of the entertainment the "Lend a Hand" girls will use to start a fund to assist in the work of the M. E. Sunday school and church.

They wish to return thanks to those who assisted on the program, to the ladies who loaned pictures for the Art Gallery, and to the Review for publicity given the entertainment.

WHAT WE SEE.

But Remain in Discreet Silence and Let Others Cast the First Stone.

The editor sees fraud and hypocrisy practiced by all classes of people. He sees men smirk and smile and fawn on a fellow man, who would run a knife into him and turn it should the opportunity be presented. He sees men who claim to be upon the sanctified road to heaven, lie about their moneys and credits and cheat lone widows and orphans out of their scanty earnings. He sees men who hold their heads high in the community as officials or as public spirited citizens, scheme and plot about to get some mean advantage of a fellow citizen. He sees men lose a month's wages gambling when their families at home are suffering for the bare necessities of life. He sees men who take sacred oaths as officials and disregard and trample beneath their feet every profession and obligation implied or contained therein and give themselves over to debauchery, licentiousness and crime.

All these things the editor sees in his daily rounds and more to, and remains in discreet silence until the undeserving offender who profits by his grace is guilty of some flagrant misdeed that brings the focus of public scrutiny upon his acts and his life. The editor can see through a millstone as far as anybody else, and before you indulge in wholesale denunciation of the newspaper, first search your own record and your life and see if you be qualified to "cast the first stone."

A LOVELY AUTUMN.

The Maples Turned From Silvery Greenness Into Orange Scarlet.

Autumn is the ripest of the seasons, still there are those who shudder at its approach and feel light grief stealing over their spirits like the October haze. Poets rave over the season as it is in this part of the country, and well they may, because no more beautiful aspect ever lay open to the lover of nature than the country of Northern Illinois shows to-day.

The proud maple trees have shed their dress of perfect green for the attractive coloring of orange and scarlet. The ash trees have turned their coats to crimson. The sturdy oaks, unyielding to the winds and frosts, still struggle against the approach of winter.

The fields have been striped of the harvest but along the country roadways the grass is still green and many shrubs retain their summer foliage.

Autumn brings to the home the cheerful glow of "first fires." The old hearth that has rested the summer through with boughs and blossoms gives up its withering tenantry; the wanton and riot of the season has gone. At midday, the air is mild and soft, blue smoke lies in the hill gaps, upon the uplands, hangs in the haze with a dreamy gorgeousness of coloring. As the sun sinks, doubling his disc in the October smoke, the low south wind creeps over the tree tops and drips the leaves upon the land.

It is the season when farm auctions, surprise parties, church entertainments and such occupies the attention of the dweller in the country.

A Woman's Complexion.

It is rank foolishness to attempt to remove sallowness or greasiness of the skin by the use of cosmetics, or "local" treatment, as advocated by the beauty "doctors." The only safe and sure way that a woman can improve her complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood which can only be accomplished by keeping the liver healthy and active. The liver is the seat of disease and blood pollution. Green's August Flower acts directly on the liver, cleanses and enriches the blood, purifies the complexion. It also cures constipation, biliousness, nervousness, and induces refreshing sleep. A single bottle of August Flower has been known to cure the most pronounced and distressing cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. New trial size bottle, 25 cents; regular size, 75 cents. At H. T. Abbott's, Barrington.

We know a man in this village who attends church regular and clasps his hands so tight during prayer time that he can't get them open when the contribution box comes around.

Are you troubled with indigestion and sick-headache? Take Cole's Laxative Liver Pills and be cured. By all druggists.

THE REVIEW CHIP BASKET.

Money spent at home has a double value, says an exchange. It benefits those between whom it passes and the community as well, for much of it is inevitably spent in improvements which are in a sense public. Outside mercantile establishments are making a great campaign to wreck the country merchants, but the general public is becoming convinced that while they may get a few things cheaper than at home in the end they pay dearly for their goods from the large cities. Keep your gold at home and you may see the color of it another time.

The average cost of raising a bushel of corn in Illinois, says an exchange, is ten cents, as determined by an exhaustive line of experiments. When corn thus raised commands fifty cents a bushel, it is easy to see why good land readily sells for one hundred dollars an acre and upwards.
