The Oak Park Concert company was greeted by a large audience at the Methodist church last Friday night. The company is a church choir under the direction of Mr. George C. Spelman. The choir is composed of young people and they presented a good program. Mr. Spelman made a decidedly favorable impression with his rich baritone singing. He has an exceptionally good voice and is well trained. He sang several difficult selections in a pleasing manner and graciously responded to hearty encores. Mrs. Ray Wilson added much to the program with two readings and encores. The concert ended with a chorus by the company, "The Last Chord," which was well rendered.

Saloon licenses were granted to the old stands except Schenning's, who has moved to Lake Zurich.

Attorney W. E. Shira notified the board that unless they did something with the sewer, within a short time that he would commence suit for damages in behalf of clients south of the village. Trustees Keulber and Comfort were appointed to confer with the parties and ascertain what was expected of the board.

Danielson-Cooley.

Married, Wednesday, November 4, 1903, at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. A. Z. Zimmer, by Rev. D. J. Holmes, D. D., Mr. Frank Arthur Cooley, of Thompson, Iowa, and Miss Agnes Barbara Danielson, of Palatine. Though a family wedding it was largely attended and warm congratulations were showered upon the happy couple, both of whom are special favorites with Palatine and Arlington Heights people. Numerous and costly presents will often remind the young Iowa housekeepers of the friends and love they have left behind them in the Prairie state. Palatine is famous for its beautiful and accomplished women, but few of them excel the bride of this week, or have more friends. We all part with her with sincere regret, though thankful that the prize has been won by a young man of worth, enterprise and high character. The groom was formerly a resident of Arlington Heights. The couple left for St. Paul on their wedding trip and go from there to their home in Iowa.

"I saw the clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on
And mingled into one.
I knew those clouds were blest
They moved so swiftly to the west."

CAMPAIGN ASSESSMENTS.

Elgin News Condemns the Practice in An Editorial.

The 110 employees of the Pontiac reformatory have been assessed $6,000 for the benefit of Governor Yates' campaign fund. Each must pay $50, the first installment of $15 to be paid Nov. 1, the second Dec. 1, and the remaining $20 March 1.—Chicago paper.

The News looks upon the above in view of Governor Yates' speeches as almost incredible. If true and made with the governor's consent or even knowledge he should be forced, by public indignation, out of the race. Here is a chance for another union and a good one. A chance for the employees of the state institutions to protect themselves against a practice worse than highway robbery. Let them band together and refuse to pay one dollar of their just wages.

The public conscience of this state is being aroused. The people will no longer tolerate "holdups" in public office. Besides the spectacle of the employe of the people to look after the important interests of the state laboring for months in his own behalf is not particularly pleasing. It is neither honest nor honorable.—Elgin News.

Endorse L. P. Hanna.

The Lake County Bar association has addressed a letter to the republican central committee endorsing L. P. Hanna of Waukegan, for states' attorney to fill the unexpired term of the late S. D. Talcott. Mr. Hanna was the law partner of Mr. Talcott and familiar with the detail work of the office, and the selection is, without doubt, the best that could be made.

Elsewhere in this issue can be found a notice of the special election for states' attorney to be held Dec. 10.

Funeral of S. D. Talcott.

All that was mortal of States' Attorney Talcott was laid to rest in Woodlawn cemetery, Waukegan, last Saturday afternoon. Services were held at Christ Episcopal church and was attended by a large concourse of friends of deceased. The services were in charge of the Knight Templar commandry and were very beautiful and impressive.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS.

New York City Goes Democratic by Plurality of Nearly 70,000.

Ohio, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Iowa Still Loyal to the Grand Old Parsy.

Elections held last Tuesday show in some instances, a change in sentiment among the voters, but in only two or three states has the result any bearing on the great campaign which will engage the attention of the people in 1904. The elections show that the silver element of the democratic party has given up its fallacy, decided to stop the worship of false gods and get into the old time band wagon.

The return of Maryland and Kentucky to the democratic column has a particular significance to leaders of the republican party, and there is now talk of opposition to President Roosevelt for renomination, several leading members of the party in the east and south favor Senator Hanna of Ohio.

While a republican victory in Ohio was a foregone conclusion the great plurality—over 125,000—piled up for the republican ticket—was a surprise to Senator Hanna who managed the campaign.

The republican vote in Iowa was not as large as predicted and considerably less than the vote given McKinley three years ago. Iowa, however, is by no means a doubtful state.

The election of George B. McClellan mayor of Greater New York gives the democrats a leverage in that state, but it does not signify that the state will go democratic in the national battle next year.

The Chicago Daily News, in commenting upon the result in general, says: "A hasty analysis of the vote seems to substantiate the claim of the Cleveland democrats that Bryan sentiment continues to recede and that the Cleveland wing of the party alone is making gains. Evidently there is to be expected now a determined effort to make the ex-president once more the democratic nominee."

Swinging 'Round the Circle.

Governor Yates began his invasion of Northern and Northwestern Illinois Nov. 4. His first trip provided for speeches at Galesburg, Rock Island, Sterling, Dixon, DeKalb, Belvidere, possibly Rockford and Freeport. He will rest and look after state affairs next week.

Governor Yates has begun a heavy draft upon his campaign fund. The use of a private car in his northern trip of six days is only a small item.

His campaign workers at Springfield are getting out 300,000 copies of his "trust press" speech. The printing of these 300,000 copies, envelopes, stamps and the directing of the envelopes, will cost the governor close to $10,000.

WAUCONDA MENTION.

Mrs. Harrison returned home Monday after a week's visit with relatives at Woodstock.

Mrs. Grosvenor, of Oak Park, spent Saturday with relatives and friends in our village and vicinity.

G. C. Roberts went to Chicago Wednesday to complete his optical course. This will require about three weeks and then he will be a full-fledged optician and ready to attend to the wants of all those afflicted with failing eyesight.

Our village is now without a meat market, owing to the closing of the shop by W. W. Welch, who has accepted a position in a market at Barrington. While this will leave us without meat for a time, we do not think that it will be long before another butcher opens a shop for us.

Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, Mr. Arthur Powers, of Wauconda, and Miss Avis Cooke, also of this place, were united in marriage by Rev. A. J. Whipple, at the M. E. parsonage, at Waukegan, John P. Blanck acting as best man and Miss Della Hammond taking the part of bridesmaid. The young couple remained in Waukegan Tuesday and went to Chicago Wednesday. On Thursday they returned to our village and in the evening a reception was given them at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooke. We join their many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Narrower Country Roads.

It has occurred to a number of our citizens, and the matter is being pretty generally discussed, that the country highways could and should be reduced from 60 to 40 feet in width. In some counties land owners are petitioning the highway commissioners to reduce the width of the roads. There is considerable space on each side of the traveled highway which now grows up to weeds, is unsightly and might well be added to the farming lands on either side of the road. The narrower roadway could then be improved to better advantage, and kept in better condition. In Iroquois county the matter has been brought by petition before the highway commissioners.—Nunda Herald.

SAY LAW IS INVALID.

Constitutional Lawyers Say Game Law is Levied Illegally.

Some 50,000 or 60,000 owners of shotguns who have been giving involuntary aid and comfort to the campaign of Governor Yates through the medium of the game protection fund will be surprised to know that their dollars have been exacted of them under an unconstitutional statute.

For four months the new game law has been in effect and for four months the revenue derived from it has been utilized as a political asset by the Yates faction of the republican party. Thousands of dollars have been paid out to political workers under the theory that their services were necessary to the enforcement of the game law. Now, however, comes the announcement that some of the best lawyers in the state have decided that the act is in contravention of the constitution; that the license fee exacted under it cannot be collected in law, and that an attempt to impose the penalties under it will be resisted in the courts.

The points made against the law are that it undertakes to classify the hunters of the state by making a distinction between those who own and those who do not own land, and between the owners of farm lands and the owners of lands not used for farming purposes; that it grants to the lessees and tenants on farm lands privileges which are denied to other persons, and that it exempts the children of farm land owners from the operation of the statute.

The law fixes the license fee for non-resident hunters at $15 and for resident hunters at $1, together with the fee of the clerk who issues the document. The section then provides that the owner or owners of farm land, their children or tenants shall have the right to hunt and kill game on their farm lands without procuring such resident license.

At the time this latter proviso was under consideration in the house of representatives it was pointed out that it undertook to make unlawful distinction in the matter of who should or should not hunt, and it was generally agreed that it was illegal. But the contrary members refused to support the bill unless this provision was in it, and the friends of the measure were compelled to accept it.

New Use for the Weed.

Two years ago last June Wolf, of Ridgefield, Ind., was struck by lightning while sitting in the door of his farmhouse. From that time until last Sunday he had not been able to utter a sound. Some of the best specialists in the state are said to have been consulted and to have passed the opinion that Wolf was afflicted with permanent paralysis of the vocal organs.

Wolf reports that he dreamed Saturday night that if he took a chew of tobacco he would be able to speak again. A few hours after he had taken the tobacco Sunday he was able to make slight vocal sounds. He continued chewing and he was soon able to talk.

TAMMANY RULES
NEW YORK CITY

McClellan Defeats Low for Mayor by Handsome Plurality.

BITTER BLOW TO TOM JOHNSON

Myron T. Herrick Is Elected Governor of Ohio by the Largest Majority in Forty Years—Hanna Will Be Next Senator.

Tammany elected George B. McClellan mayor of New York City by 61,414 plurality. This makes him a man to be reckoned with in national politics. It presages the downfall of David B. Hill, a united delegation for Grover Cleveland in the national convention of 1904, and the rehabilitation of Tammany as one of the controlling forces in the national council of the Democratic party.

Brooklyn, on which the fusion hopes were centered, gave McClellan a plurality of 6,000.

Devery polled 2,471 votes. His campaign cost $50,000.

The legislature will be Republican by an increased majority, the Republicans gaining heavily in the state.

The legislature will be Republican by a majority of 83 or more on joint ballot, or double that of any for a number of years.

Iowa. A. B. Cummins did not run quite as well in Iowa as he did two years ago. He is re-elected by 64,000 plurality, against $3,154 in 1901. The legislature is still strongly Republican, although the Democrats claim they have made substantial gains.

Massachusetts. Gov. John L. Bates is re-elected governor by a plurality of 35,000, a loss of 2,000 over last year. Boston went Democratic by 18,000, a gain of 5,000. The legislature is Republican two to one.

TRADE VOLUME
HOLDS ITS OWN

Business at Chicago Shows Up Well in Comparison With 1902.

MANUFACTURERS ARE BEHIND

Great Efforts Are Being Made to Fill Old Orders and Bring New Contracts Up to Date—Farm Products Command Good Prices.

Chicago, dispatch: Dun's Review of Chicago Trade, published by R. G. Dun & Co., says:

"Although the curtailment of production in finished iron and a partial strike of packing house workers for more wages has created a disturbing feeling, but little appreciable reaction appears in the aggregate volume of current business. Freight traffic shows no falling away. The distribution of merchandise through wholesale and leading retail channels compares favorably with a year ago, and there are larger dealings at the banks and in foodstuffs. Weather conditions have favored the progress of seeding and farm work, and the marketing of crops adds to a wider circulation of money throughout the interior. The prices of agricultural products maintain unusual firmness.

Hum of Industry.

"In the manufacturing branches there is ample employment on old orders and new contracts come forward as freely as looked for. A short shutdown for repairs in one department of a large steel plant is fully offset by the reopening of another. Pig iron is easier in price and supplies, and the buying included a large number of moderate quantities, the heaviest consumers being out of the market. The demand for rails disclosed few large specifications, but there is good general buying of structural forms. Many undertakings are planned in railroad extensions and other construction work involving unusual expenditures, but the execution of these is hindered owing to the prevailing high cost of necessary materials and labor.

Factories Are Busy.

"Machinery and hardware factories are kept quite busy, some of the latter working hard to overtake old business. Car builders are on overtime to comply with urgent calls of various roads for additional freight equipment, and the new bookings engage capacity well into next year. Furniture and wood-working branches report less local demand, but are doing well on requirement of outside buyers. Mercantile collections make a satisfactory showing, and the number of reported failures for the Chicago district does not exceed same week of 1902.

"Grain shipments for six days, including 2,757,336 bushels of corn, aggregate 5,550,740 bushels, and are almost 29 per cent over the previous week and fully double those of a year ago. The general demand has been fair and prices well sustained compared with closing a week ago. Live stock receipts, 324,528 head, are slightly over the corresponding week of 1902. Sheep advanced 15 cents per hundred weight. Choice beefs declined 15 cents and hogs closed weak with 50 cents loss. Dealings in provisions showed best on domestic buying, and closing quotations were unchanged in ribs, 5 cents higher in lard and 3 1/2 cents better in pork. Receipts increased in cheese 10 per cent, seeds 11 sheep and oats 14, broom corn 19, barley 20, cattle and butter 30, dressed beef 36, flour 40, hides 43, corn 66 and lard 88. Decreases are hogs 22 per cent, wheat 23, rye 50 and wool 69.

JURY FINDS SAM PARKS
GUILTY OF EXTORTION

Agree That He Forced Contractors to Give Him $500 to Be Allowed to Continue Work.

New York dispatch: Samuel J. Parks, walking delegate of House-smiths and Bridgemen's union, local No. 2, was again convicted of extortion in the Court of General Sessions. It took the jurymen just twelve minutes, in which time they took two ballots, to agree that Parks had extorted $500 from the Tiffany studios, a firm of contractors, under threat of keeping them from continuing work on buildings last January.

It was shown at the trial that Parks had obtained the $500 as an "initiation fee" when the house-smiths and bridgemen were on strike on three of the Tiffany contracts in this city. Parks claimed that this money was a fine levied by his labor union. Later the fact developed that Parks had been disloyal to his union, inasmuch as he permitted the Tiffany firm to employ nonunion men on jobs after having received the $500.

This accusation was not denied by the defendant or his counsel during the trial, but it was contended that Parks had given the money to the treasurer of his organization, and that the entire transaction was a business deal, which, instead of being a crime, afforded considerable business advantages to the firm which paid the money.

Counsel for Parks endeavored to introduce certificates as to the prisoner's delicate state of health, but Judge Newberger refused to admit them.

UNION REPUDIATES SAM PARKS

Conservatives Take Control and Will Oust Old Leader.

New York special: Sam Parks, the convicted walking delegate of the House-smiths' and Bridgemen's union, was in a measure repudiated by his own union, local No. 2. It remained for his arch-enemy, Buchanan, to give him the telling blow. He told the union it should be ashamed of its blind obedience to the commands of a criminal; told the men they were the shame of organized labor of this country and concluded by pointing out to them that the only possible outlook for peace and work was in accepting the arbitration plan. When Buchanan had finished the conservative element was in absolute control and at the next meeting, it was announced, charges will be preferred against Parks and McCarthy, their conviction warranting the penalty of dismissal from the union.

Human Chain Rescues Woman.

St. Louis, Mo., special: E. P. Henderson of the steamer Mississippi was bidding his wife good-by when she lost her balance and fell into the river. Henderson sprang after her and managed to keep her above the surface until a policeman, watchman and a negro formed a human chain and rescued them.

Football Hurt Causes Death.

South Bend, Ind., dispatch: John Haughton, Jr., 14 years old, died from blood poison resulting from an injury sustained while playing football.

SCHWAB BUYS COPPER MINES

Bruce Property Near Canadian Soo Passes to a Syndicate.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., special: A syndicate headed by Charles M. Schwab has purchased the properties of the Bruce Copper Mines company, limited, located at Bruce Mines, about sixty miles from the Canadian Soo. R. A. Lyon, manager of the Imperial bank in the Canadian Soo, confirmed the report to the extent that he knew that for some time past negotiations have been in progress toward this end.

HEIRESS IS HELD AS PAUPER

Coming to Claim a Fortune, She Is Stopped by Immigration Officers.

Boston, Mass., dispatch: Among a score of steerage passengers on the steamship Mayflower detained by the immigration officials was Mrs. Mary Lardner, who came from Galway to claim valuable property which she inherited from an uncle. She was practically without means when she arrived and on this account she was barred pending an investigation into her story by the inspectors.

The Two Captains

The cry thrilled through the hearts of the men, and seemed also to thrill through the heart of the brig which reeled slightly to some passing, fresher motion of air as though in her clumsy way she rejoiced. Many of the sailors sprang into the shrouds and rushed aloft. It was some time since a sail had broken the sea line, and the rascals' vision thirsted.

What was she going to turn out to be? Each ship was traveling, and heading toward each other, and therefore, shortly after the two captains had taken the altitude of the sun, there lay full and fair in the sight of the pirates, upon the blue sea right over the bows, no man-of-war, indeed, but a tall, full-bosomed ship, with painted ports, the hull sitting deep, a fine English West Indianman of about six hundred tons.

"That's what she is," cried Pope, and now he began to sing out orders.

Pope talked swiftly, communicating his intentions and plans. Meanwhile, the mass of the pirates lay concealed along the scuppers, under the bulwarks, and about the carronades. Scarce more than half a dozen figures were visible on the brig's deck.

And meanwhile the fine ship came slowly on, lightly sailing her great heights with majesty.

"She shows no guns," were Pope's last words to Crystal before he began to yell orders to his crew.

"She'll be an easy capture," was Crystal's answer.

"Stations!" roared Pope. "Port your helm. Down with that red ensign."

With his own long arms he rushed the black flag aloft, and broke it, and it streamed out inky as a funeral pall, an unequivocal assurance to the ship—an all too familiar syllable of doom in those days.

"Fire!"

The two starboard broadside carron-cut him down. The unfortunate commander of the West Indianman fell, cleft deep in the neck: his head was half off, and he dropped, a dreadful sight.

In a breath Pope had attacked the mate of the ship; the man fired, missed, and was instantly run through, and all the time this was doing Pope was roaring out encouragement to his men and bawling to the ship's seamen to fling down their arms and they should be well used.

All this while a terrible fight was being fought under the main-deck and about the forehatch. Several bodies dead or wounded lay about the planks. If Pope was animated with the strength of ten, Crystal certainly fought with the spirit and fury of five. He was engaged in murderous conflict with a gigantic seaman belonging to the Indianman when Pope and Grindal bounding from the poop came rushing forward; at sight of whom, seeing that their captain and officers were killed, two of the ship's men shouted: "Quarter! We surrender," and threw down their arms. Instantly the rest followed their example, but the raging pirates were for cutting down every man that stood before them, when Pope rushed among them shouting with twenty curses:

"Back, you dogs! They've surrendered. The ship's ours. Back, you bloodhounds! We don't want these men's lives, but their services. In with ye," he roared to the prisoners. And Crystal and Grindal helped him to drive the helpless survivors into the top-gallant forecastle, where they were secured.

CHAPTER XV.

Laura.

Accompanied by the square man, whose face splashed with blood looked terrible with it, and followed by two or three of his seamen, Pope, sword in hand, walked swiftly toward the cud-

"To my last dollar," exclaimed one of the male passengers, pointing with a lean and yellow forefinger at the pile upon the table, and the others murmured to the effect that they had removed everything from their persons. Pope, in a voice of thunder, without stirring from the side of the table, called through the cuddy door to one of the pirates, who immediately came aft. While he was ordering the man to make the heap of trinkets and watches upon the table into a parcel, Crystal, Grindal and several of the brig's seamen came into the cuddy.

Now no sooner was Crystal in the cuddy than he began to stare with all his might at the handsome girl, who looked also very hard at him, and the face of each wore a singular sub-expression of inquiry. In a moment the girl, putting her hands upon the table, said, in a sweet but trembling voice, "Is your name Crystal?"

"Ay," he answered.

Then suddenly planting his hands upon the table as she had, and leaning eagerly forward, he cried, "You are not going to tell me that you are Laura?"

"I am Laura Crystal," she answered, holding herself erect and clasping her hands.

"Jim Crystal's daughter?"

She made the sign of assent with her head.

"By heaven, Pope," cried the astonished man, "she's my cousin's child; and she used to sit upon my knee when a little girl," saying which Crystal walked around the table to her.

He grasped her by the hand, pulled her more fairly into the light, and after gazing for a few moments with unfeigned admiration into her face, he cried out, "How did you know me?"

"By a look of father about you," she answered, "and by your name. But what are you doing here? What has this ship done that she should be boarded and her people killed and robbed? You are not a pirate, cousin?"

Here Pope burst out, "Blame it all, Johnny, but introduce me, will ye?"

"Pope, Richard Pope, Captain Pope of the pirate brig, Gypsy," exclaimed Crystal, and the handsome Irishman made the lady one of his most elegant bows.

She curtsied in return, and said to Crystal, "Where is Captain Kerr? What is to become of us? Am I safe? Are the lives of the passengers safe? Oh, cousin, to find you—there are little children among us."

"As excitable as ever," said Crystal, grimly.

He was proceeding; Pope broke in. "Depend upon it," he exclaimed with profound significance, "you are perfectly safe, and so too," he added lightly, with a glance at the lady passenger, "are the others."

The sun was now close to the edge of the sea, and those are parallels where the twilight moves with giant strides, trailing behind it glittering robes of stars, when its brow is still burnished with the glory in the west. Much was to be done. It was a delightful task to talk to a beautiful young woman after days of the dreary monotony of the ocean, but the business of the two ships must be seen to, and Pope left the cuddy followed by the pirates.

The two captains walked the poop of the West Indianman, and a man had been fetched from the forecastle to steer her. The skylight was spacious; its casements stood open; it framed a considerable portion of the picture below. Laura Crystal sat almost directly beneath. Beside her was a child, whose hand she cherished as though she sought to hearten the little creature.

"She has the most beautiful face of any woman I ever met in this world," says Pope. "Damn me, Crystal, how come ye by such relatives?"

FASHIONS IN FUNNY NAMES.

Observer Notes How the Styles Constantly Change.

"Have you ever noticed," remarked the Observant Man, "how fashions change in the style of names the humorists use in their jokes and stories? When I was a young man Brown and Smith and Jones were the ones most commonly used, and the man who invented the name 'Verdant Green' immortalized himself, so far as the English reading public is concerned. Then Irish names had a run, followed by those 'made in Germany'; and when Anglomaniac hit this country we had Fitznoodles and Percys and all sorts of ridiculous hyphenated names. Then came a reaction back to common names in two syllables, which have held out for several years. Just why such surnames as Jenkins and Wilkins and Stebbins should be humorous I can't for the life of me tell. But as soon as I begin to read a story about a man bearing either one of those names I am prepared for a laugh. And I am glad to say I usually get it."

A Family of Pastors.

Last Sunday was a notable day at the First Methodist church at Latrobe, Pa. On that occasion the pulpit was filled by representatives of three generations of the Mansell family. The morning services were in charge of Rev. Josiah Mansell of Upper Middletown. He is the father of Dr. R. B. Mansell, the pastor of the church, and will be 81 years old Oct. 10. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon an old-fashioned Methodist love feast and class meeting was held, at which the pastor was present. In the evening a grandson of Rev. Mr. Mansell, Rev. Harry Beeson Mansell of Uniontown, occupied the pulpit.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

REPORT TRANSFER COAL ROAD

O'Fallon and East St. Louis Line Said to Have Been Sold.

It was reported in East St. Louis financial circles that the O'Fallon and East St. Louis line, better known as the Gundlach coal road, had passed into the hands of St. Louis parties. It was stated that Thomas Bell, a broker, bought the road from George M. Gundlach. Mr. Bell has an option on the road, which he will no doubt close, but which has yet not been fully arranged. The road passes through some of the finest coal lands in St. Clair county, and connects with all the belt roads of East St. Louis. It was built by Mr. Gundlach without outside assistance. Gundlach will still own the coal lands, but will lease them to the new purchaser.

H. P. Caldwell of Chicago is one of the most popular members of the Knights of Pythias in the state. At the recent convention of the order he was re-elected grand keeper of records and seals for the sixth consecutive time.

Coal Famine Suddenly Relieved.

A coal famine in Alton, which has lasted all summer, was brought to an end by the arrival of large consignments of fuel which the mine operators have hitherto said they were unable to send. The reason assigned for the sudden relief is the recent increase in prices. Retailers in Alton have raised the price to 12 cents a bushel because of an advance charged by the mine operators. It is said in Alton that the sudden shipment of so much coal after advance in the price is taken as evidence of a combine among mine operators.

Funds for Methodists.

Apportionment of the sums to be raised by the different Methodist Episcopal churches of Springfield was decided upon by the presiding elders of the Illinois conference as follows: First M. E. church, $900; Kumler M. E. church, $400; Douglas Avenue church, $100. The committee on arrangements appointed for the state convention of the missionary societies of the M. E. church, to be held in Bloomington next April, is composed of C. B. Taylor of Bloomington, W. H. Wilder of Champaign, Horace Reed of Decatur and A. C. Byrley of Springfield.

Begin Work on Coal Mine.

The Trenton mining company, recently organized, has commenced work on their new mine, one mile west of Trenton. The company is capitalized for $75,000, all paid up. The officers are: R. Smith, Flora, Ill., president and treasurer; I. Simpson, Trenton, secretary; C. L. Riemann, Trenton, vice president and general manager; directors—R. Smith and H. C. Barnard of Flora, F. W. Kline of St. Louis, H. Hummert of Breese, John Wittig, C. L. Riemann and I. Simpson of Trenton.

Tannery for Quincy.

Final arrangements have been completed for establishing a tannery in Quincy. It will be a branch of the International leather company, which is capitalized for $5,000,000. The tannery will be conducted under the Acme rapid tanning process, which is revolutionizing the making of leather throughout the world. A building for this industry will be erected next spring at a cost of $25,000. The plant at the start will have a capacity for handling 125 hides a day, but this will be increased to 500 hides.

Honor for Minister.

Rev. H. H. Brank, pastor of the Baptist church of Carbondale, at the recent session of the Illinois Baptist Pastoral union composed of 1,100 ministers, was elected president for the ensuing year. He was also elected secretary of the board of missions.

Clay County Apple Crop.

An estimate of the apple crop in Clay county for 1903 places the yield at 3,000 barrels, as compared with a production of 272,770 barrels in 1902. A freeze on May 1 was responsible for the almost total failure of the crop.

Train Is Ditched.

Ten cars in a freight train were ditched near Bowman, caused by a sandboard on a truck loosening. The Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis trains went over the Burlington tracks from Medora to Alton.

SWINDLES WIDOWS OF SOLDIERS

Pension Shark Is Found Guilty in the Federal Court.

Adolph Ilgen, a man with many aliases, was found guilty in the United States district court at Springfield of committing pension frauds in Nashville. Ilgen made his appearance in Nashville in February, 1898, and represented himself as a pension agent. He posed as an agent for the late Jehu Baker, then representing this district in Congress. After collecting fees from widows of veterans of the civil war, on his promise to secure an increase in their pensions, he departed for Indiana, where he also worked his scheme. He was arrested there, convicted and sentenced to prison. As soon as he completed his term there he was taken in charge by an Illinois federal officer and brought to Springfield to answer for the frauds committed in Nashville.

Fights Sunday Closing.

The city ordinance passed in July, making it unlawful to keep open barber shops on Sunday was tested for the first time at Chester, Harry Dandies being arrested on a complaint preferred by C. E. Young, a rival barber. All the city barbers, except Theodore Montray, petitioned the council for the passage of the ordinance. Montray has never closed since its enactment. At the trial before Police Magistrate Knapp the defendant was discharged, the magistrate's decision being based upon an opinion furnished him by Attorney General Hamlin that "the city council has not greater authority than the general assembly."

PRESIDENT OF MONMOUTH.

Rev. Dr. Thomas Hanna McMichael, who has been installed as fourth president of Monmouth college, was born near Brook Hill, Ohio, July 7, 1863, and is a son of Rev. Dr. J. B. McMichael, who for twenty years had been president of the same institution. He received his education in Monmouth and at the Xenia Theological seminary, and his first pastorate was at Springfield, Ind. From 1892 to 1903 Dr. McMichael was pastor of the First United Presbyterian church at Cleveland, Ohio. He was married in 1890 to Miss Minnie McDill, daughter of a minister at Burlington, Iowa.

Interurban Franchise.

Mount Vernon and Belleville parties have secured the right of way for a street car line from Mascoutah through New Memphis, crossing the Okaw river to Venedy, thence to Mt. Vernon. The road will connect with Belleville. The right of way was secured with the condition that work would be commenced on the road at once.

Guilty of Pension Frauds.

Adolph Ilgen, alias Albert Kohl, alias Albert Ruhl, alias John Raum, who was arrested in southern Illinois for pension frauds, was found guilty in the federal court at Springfield. He confessed while on the witness stand that he had served time in the penitentiaries of New Jersey and Ohio for the same offense.

Southern Illinois Doctors.

The medical and surgical society of southern Illinois held a very interesting session at the courthouse in Jerseyville. Dr. Lewis of St. Louis gave an address, illustrated by chart and specimens, and Dr. F. H. Russell of Eldred read a paper on "Sudden Death." The next session will be held in Jacksonville in May.

Illinois Shoe Company Suspends.

The Illinois Shoe company at Alton has suspended operations indefinitely. The officers of the company attribute their suspension of work to labor troubles. It is planned to reorganize the company.

FOUND THE TOWER WELL.

Mason Solves Problem That Has Puzzled London Antiquarians.

For ages antiquary after antiquary found himself baffled by a simple problem at the Tower. How, in the old days, did the garrison get a supply of drinking water?

The antiquary could show you the original fireplace at which William the Conqueror warmed his hands, could point approximately to the spot on which the murdered princes fell; he could lead you to the place where Henry VIII's queens were butchered, and to the tombstones that collapsed upon their poor bones; he knew the tiny dungeon in which Sir Walter Raleigh spent twelve dreadful years hidden from the light; and could have you in a twinkling in the stone dog kennel where still remains the ring to which they chained Guy Fawkes.

But low these unfortunates and their janitors drank, none could tell. The Thames hard by was not the source, they were sure. Organized search was vain.

Then there came a thick-headed, unimaginative mason, to whom and his fellows the work of converting certain of the historic dungeons into storehouses for war material meant 9½d an hour and no more.

His pick struck through the flooring of the corridor from which the prisoners used to enter their cells. Behind these latter and corresponding with the main one ran, and still remains, the little secret corridor along which eavesdropping officers tiptoed to listen to conversations between captives, for the purposes of evidence.

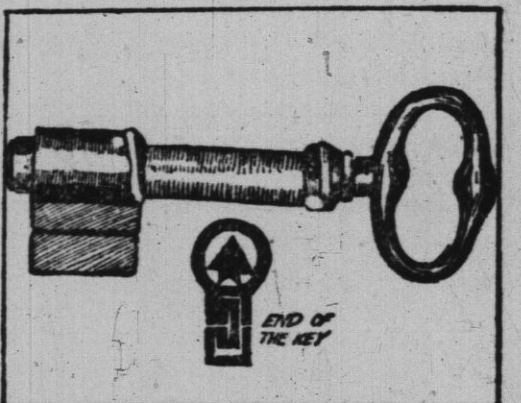

A few blows from the pick brought to light the mouth of a pit. Sixty feet down was water—thirty feet of it. The mason had happened upon the historic well for which search had been made in vain for centuries!

It was as perfect as the day that the Conqueror sunk it. To-day it still carries its thirty feet of sweet spring water.

KEY IS A MONSTER.

Weights Nearly Two Pounds—Relic of Old French Prison.

Nowadays the smallest key is made to turn the largest locks, but in strange comparison to this is a big key now in the possession of a civil war veteran living in Bangor, Maine. The key is one of the largest, if not the very largest, ever seen in this vicinity, weighing one pound and thirteen ounces.

The key was picked up on the site of an old prison at Morganza Bend, La., about 100 miles above Baton Rouge. On the approach of Admiral Farragut's fleet during the civil war, the prison was burnt and the inmates fled.

The prison was built by the French long before Louisiana was purchased by the United States and was used by those people as a confinement place for negro slaves brought there from other climes. The building was burnt for fear it would give some shelter or protection to the enemy.

While the union troops were passing by the key was picked up by one of the soldiers and, considered somewhat of a curiosity, was taken along. It proved to be quite a load together with all the trappings and rations that the soldiers had to carry in those days. But the soldier carried it and finally landed the article at his home.

Locksmiths who have examined the key say that it must have fitted an oaken lock, then much in use. To bear this theory out a search of the ruins of the prison at that time showed no trace of an iron lock which the key might have fitted. The oaken lock must have been at least two feet square to admit a key of such proportions.—Bangor Commercial.

Remarkable Apple Cluster.

Arista Webber of Auburn, Me., has in his office a branch of an apple tree, two feet or a little more in length, on which grow, by actual count, 99 apples, which snuggle so closely together that there is not room for even one more. These apples are natural fruit, not very large, of a soft pinkish color, and are covered with a bloom, so that at a short distance they resemble peaches.

The Blessing of Toil.

I bless the fates that I must toil,
That I may not loiter through the day

While others build and till the soil
And clear obstructions from the way.

'Tis good to be upon the list
With those whom work is making strong.
To do my little to assist
In pushing God's good world along.

For who that never toils may know
The bliss he has who does his best
And when the day is done may throw
His heels up and lean back and rest.

Congress and Cuban Reciprocity.

It is wholly improbable that the extraordinary session of congress will accomplish anything more than the work for which it was convened, the adoption of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, if indeed it does so much as that. It is announced that Mr. Cannon, who has already been determined upon by the Republican caucus of the house as speaker, will appoint only one or two of the committees at the opening of the session, thus preventing the consideration of general legislation and requiring congress to devote itself exclusively to the matter directly in hand.

The treaty for reciprocal trade with Cuba, which was defeated at the last session of congress, provides for a 20 per cent reduction of duty on Cuban sugar, tobacco and other products of the Cuban soil imported into the United States and for a reduction of from 25 to 40 per cent on articles of American manufacture imported into Cuba. It was signed by the representatives of the two governments on Dec. 11, 1902, and when ratified by the senate was amended by that body by the requirement that it should not take effect until it had been "approved by congress." This amendment was adopted in order to meet the constitutional objection that changes in the tariff could not be accomplished by treaty, but must originate in the house of representatives.

It is vigorously maintained by prominent members of the house, and more particularly by Mr. Littlefield of Maine in an article in a recent issue of the American Economist, that this amendment is of no effect, that the house has no constitutional power to approve a treaty, any more than to disprove one, and that in this case there is no treaty, for what purports to be such is an unconstitutional, although, of course, unintended, usurpation by the president and the senate of the power possessed by the house alone of originating all bills for raising revenue, which include all measures in any way modifying the tariff.

If Mr. Littlefield and those who support his contention are correct and persist in maintaining their position the treaty is likely to become involved in a question of procedure which may prevent its approval at this session.

Crusade Against "Immoral" Tunes.

Professor Penny, the teacher of music in Washburn college of Topeka, Kan., who is making a crusade against what he terms immoral music in the churches, apparently takes no stock in the good old principle that pleasant tunes had better be devoted to the Lord's service than the devil's. He finds in the tunes that are used in the churches and Sunday schools six waltzes, two two-steps and nearly a score of polkas, all of which, he insists, are immoral and should be expurgated from the hymn books.

Apparently it is a question of time with the professor—that is, if a tune is constructed in such time that it could be employed in dancing it is immoral. This classification would banish all three-four hymns and sacred songs. It would put under the ban the good old hymn "Come, Ye Disconsolate," as it makes an excellent waltz tune. The once popular and always beautiful song "My God, How Endless Is Thy Love" would also have to go. Professor Penny himself puts down as distinctly immoral the music of "Shall We Gather at the River?" Doubtless, though not for its terpsichorean measure, he would condemn "There Is a Happy Land," the melody of which was once a Hindoo love song and which is still thoroughly oriental in its musical sentiment.

In these good old tunes many a devout soul has found joy and inspiration, with never a thought that there could be anything wrong in them, and so they will probably continue to be sung despite Professor Penny's somewhat hypercritical objections.

In a decision just given in the United States circuit court at Chicago the judge says, "There was simply a little judicious jollying by the complainant." Upon such eminent authority the verb "to jolly" may now be incorporated into the language as correct English as "she spoke."

A New Jersey Presbyterian minister declares that if he had the power he would make the use of tobacco a legitimate cause for divorce. It must be very trying to a man to learn that his wife has the cigarette habit, but it can hardly be considered sufficient ground for divorce.

Now that it has been definitely settled that Ann is eighteen we may turn our attention to the consideration of the less important problem of what the extra session of congress will do with the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

It is only fair to say that the howl would have been quite as loud and prolonged on this side of the Canadian border of the verdict of the boundary commission had gone the other way.

It is possible that Japan and Russia are only waiting until Richard Harding Davis arrives on the scene.

If Canada feels so bitter on the subject she might do as the American colonies did 127 years ago.

An Army of Idle Thespians.

Though the theater season is in full blast in New York and the playhouses are well patronized, these are not altogether joyous days on the Rialto. There are something like 3,000 actors and actresses without engagements, and in consequence there is much talk about the "overcrowding of the profession" and much dramatic denunciation of the heartlessness and cruelty of managers and of the men and conditions that have prevented the building of new theaters and delayed the repairs on others, though a number of new theaters have been built in the metropolis since the close of last season.

The men and women who compose this considerable army of unemployed Thespians have been in the habit of drawing salaries of from $300 to $30 a week. Possibly some of them might have had engagements at lower salaries than they demanded or could have gone out with "Uncle Tom" and "East Lynne" aggregations; but, true to their art, they consider it noble to starve rather than lower their standards. It is possible, too, that many of the gentlemen could secure jobs in the boiler shops and on the street railroads of the metropolis, and more than likely if the ladies apply at the employment agencies they might find places where they could earn a respectable living.

The condition is a sad one for the unemployed artists, though it is by no means certain that dramatic art will suffer by the enforced retirement of most of them to other callings. Undoubtedly many a good chambermaid has been spoiled to make an indifferent actress, and many a good cab driver has been ruined in the making of a poor actor.

While it may be the unhappy lot of these idle Thespians wearily to walk the Rialto with empty stomachs and thinly clad bodies the coming winter, their sad plight may furnish a useful object lesson to the many stage-track young men and women who have formed the mistaken notion that an easy road to fame and fortune is through the door of the histrionic temple.

Miss Lillian Russell says her worst trouble in assuming men's parts on the stage is in making her neckties look neat and dressy. Most of the men have the same trouble, Lillian.

Korea has evidently been given a little time to consider whether she would prefer to be swallowed whole or sliced up and passed around.

Canada should learn to give up gracefully something that she never owned.

GENERAL YOUNG'S WAY.

Nervy Act of the Army's Chief in Rescuing a Corporal.

Back in the reconstruction period of the south Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, the new chief of the general staff of the United States army, proved himself a hero of the fearless, intrepid stripe, says Collier's Weekly. The incident occurred in Texas. He was in command of a garrison in the Lone Star State. Considerable friction developed between the soldiery and the citizens of the town. The citizens made divers threats, and the bluecoats followed suit. Young respected the law, but those were strenuous times, and the iron hand was needed down in that country. The people stormed, but Young merely laughed.

Finally the town authorities arrested one of the soldiers and haled him into court. Tension was high in the little town, and things looked dark for the prisoner. Young learned of the arrest. He didn't call in his staff for advice, and he didn't wait to consult with his military jurists. The exigency had to be met quickly, and Young acted instantly. He ordered out a file of soldiers, placed himself at their head and marched rapidly down the streets to the courthouse. The march startled the townsfolk. They gathered in angry groups, but they didn't feaze the future commander in chief of the army.

On he led his detachment. "Column left!" rang out as the little file of soldiery reached the courthouse steps, and up they marched and down the aisles of the court room, where Corporal Smith, the prisoner, resigned to his fate, was standing, while the judge was pronouncing his sentence. The justice paused in his judicial declamation and became dumb with amazement. Young's eyes flashed.

"Corporal," he called out, "about face, forward, march!"

Quick as a flash the corporal wheeled about in the prisoner's dock and marched with regular step to Young's relief detachment. Young glanced at the judge, saluted him in mock courtesy and again turned to his men.

"About face, forward!" he ordered, and the soldiers, with the rescued corporal in their midst, moved out and filed up the streets to the army post.

It was a nervy act that might have precipitated a riot in these days, but the citizens of the town were paralyzed with amazement and to this day have never taken any steps in reprisal.

VIOLET HAT ON COFFIN.

Chicago Undertaker Made a Mistake With Flower Covered Headpiece.

A woman in Chicago, the wife of a young minister, has always had a liking for hats of the flower bed variety. At present she owns a "dream" that is covered with violets. The young wife wore the hat recently to a funeral at which her husband officiated. Going into the room which contained the coffin, she removed the hat and placed it on a stand.

The sad faced undertaker came in a few minutes later to arrange the "floral tokens" on the coffin. After placing the bouquets, wreaths and other flowers in place he picked up the violet covered hat and placed it on top of all the rest. Several of the "mourners" giggled, and the minister's wife wanted to take her hat and run. She had to leave it, however, until the close of the ceremony. When she went by the bier she grasped the hat and successfully made her escape.

A Rich Man's Fancy.

How many men who have acquired a fortune by practicing the most rigid economy in their younger days would abandon their palatial residence in old age to live in a woodshed? That is what Abraham Slimmer, known throughout Iowa as the "Waverly philanthropist," intends to do, says the Detroit News. The woodshed which Slimmer will move into will be made into two rooms, a bedroom and dining room. He will live alone and cook his own meals. He declares that he will have reached the true state of happiness in this world, contentment in simplicity. During the past few years Slimmer has given more money to charitable institutions than any other man in Iowa. He is said to be worth more than $1,000,000, and it is his purpose to give this fortune in various sums to the needy institutions of the state before he dies.

Beacon Lights as an Aid to Cupid. In the top of the Montauk lighthouse at Montauk point, on Long island, Miss Evelyn Cook, formerly of London, recently stood before a minister and took Charles O. Gould of Easthampton for better or worse. And just as the words that made them man and wife had been uttered word of the wedding flashed across to Newport by wireless telegraph. Mr. Gould's father was born in the lighthouse, and it was the son's often expressed wish that he be married there. The fact that he first met Miss Cook there was an additional reason for choosing the quaint place for the ceremony. The wedding was the first that had been celebrated in the old lighthouse for seventy-five years.

Fishing For Potatoes.

The limit in agricultural achievements has been reached by John C. Gangnuss, who lives near St. Charles, Mich. Mr. Gangnuss has a fine patch of potatoes near the river on the marshy flats, but recent rains put the field thirty inches under water. Needing potatoes for dinner, Gangnuss rowed to his field of tubers in a boat and dug a sufficient quantity for the meal with his paddle. As the water has been over the land but a few days, the potatoes are unspoiled and proved to be of excellent quality.

Rabbi Hirsch's Opinion.

Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch of Chicago spoke on "Civil Service in Illinois" to the Federation of Women's Clubs at Cairo. Dr. Hirsch maintained that there was no distinction between men and women as regards intellect. Neither is superior nor inferior to the other. He deplored the fact that public institutions, particularly those for the deaf and dumb, blind, feeble-minded and the penitentiaries, are managed and the help all appointed by men whose only qualification for office was a political pull, instead of men of ability in the various lines of work involved.

"The penal system is all wrong," he said; "it provides punishment, not remedy. Brutality brutalizes, fear makes cowards, but love and humanity alone remains."

West Baden, Ind., Sulphur Springs.

Orange County, Indiana, contains a veritable paradise for ailing people, inasmuch as the sulphur springs of West Baden are therein located. Since the early days when the Indians sought these springs to be rejuvenated by drinking the mineral waters, West Baden has been a mecca for all those distressed in body.

The medical properties of the different springs, which at present number four, have been definitely determined and all troubles of the digestive organs and all blood disorders soon succumb to the wonderful healing powers of these divinely-sent waters. Many a poor soul who upon arrival suffers and is discouraged by some ill the flesh is heir to, quickly is benefitted by adherence to prescribed methods of exercising and water-drinking, becoming blithe and pain-free and thankful that so simple a treatment is so productive of good results. Hot medicated-mud baths, Turkish and sulphur baths given by skilled attendants in scientifically arranged bath-rooms are great factors toward a return to health.

The life at Baden is full of pleasures, for the amusements are many and varied, so that all may find congenial pastimes, while the natural beauty of the valley in which the hotel and springs lie, and that of the surrounding hills, adds greatly to the enjoyment.

At all seasons of the year people from every state gather there for rest and physical betterment, proving by their general comments of satisfaction, the wide-spread popularity of West Baden.

The West Baden Hotel, built since the destruction of the former hotel by fire several years ago, is an innovation in architecture and equipment, being made of absolutely fire-proof materials, and was erected after an original idea of Col. Sinclair, the proprietor. The colossal size on which it was constructed at a cost of over a million dollars provides accommodations for over a thousand people. The conveniences are so numerous and thoroughly modern and the systematic management so perfected that much credit is due the instigator of so novel a plan.

The entire building is circular with a great inner court surmounted by a huge glass and iron dome. This rotunda is beautified by flowers, palms and fountains, and has a floor of cement, as has every room in the whole structure. It is faced by several hundred rooms, each possessing an iron balcony. These inner rooms are separated from the outer rooms by spacious corridors encircling the building.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

Some thirty-five artistic parlors adorn the hotel and the cuisine is excellent.

The rates are reasonable, placing the advantages of the springs within the reach of all.

Scattered through the valley are hotels of lesser magnitude and the famous springs of French Lick are within three quarters of a mile.

A season spent at Baden is time well passed and further information can be had by addressing Mr. L. E. Bailey, the hotel manager, a courteous gentleman, well informed.

After further consideration of the proposition with the St. Louis management, arrangements have been completed which resulted in giving the second week in September next year to the Modern Woodmen of America. Under the arrangements made with the committee from the Executive Council of Modern Woodmen of America, consisting of Head Clerk C. W. Hawes, Chairman E. E. Murphy, and Hon. C. G. Saunders, there will be placed at the disposal of the forester teams of the society grounds for tents and barracks from Sunday, September 4, until Monday, September 11, inclusive. In addition to this the exposition management will offer $5,000 in prizes for the forester drills. The uniformed foresters are to be admitted to the exposition free during the week, after each has paid one admission fee. Meals will be furnished to them at the rate of twenty-five cents each at restaurants on the ground and their lodging will also be free.—Woodman.

THE REVIEW CHIP BASKET.

Hewen by Hackney.

Those union musicians who belonged to the regimental bands in Chicago and refused to play when the regiments turned out at the Chicago centennial parade, because the United States Marine band, a non-union organization, was present, have "got it in the neck" in approved western style. The bandmen were called up before the colonels, read a severe lecture on insubordination, and then incontinently kicked out of the service. The regiments paid their bands on an average of about $2,000 a year each, and the obstreperous musicians are now wondering what hit them.

One of the strongest features of the laws for the protection of game throughout the country at large is the prohibition of the shipment of wild fowl outside of the state in which the birds are shot. Every state in the union, with the exception of Mississippi and Kentucky, now has such a law—a fact which indicates the practically universal sentiment in favor of game protection and encourages the hope that in the not far distant future the game supply of this country may be again restored to normal proportions.

Justice Jarvis Blume of Chicago, one of the best known justices of the peace in that city was married Oct. 27 to Mrs. Tufts of Boston. The lady brings to Justice Blume a fortune of near half a million. Its nice to be a justice—sometimes.

Another Chicagoan found by the police insensible from a fractured skull narrowly escaped dying in a cell to which he had been conveyed as a drunken person. Strange, is it not, that in a town where about as many people are slugged as get drunk the police should always assume intoxication to be the cause of everybody's collapse?

Much of the cruelty and wrong in the world today goes unpunished or unrepriended because those not directly concerned do not like to interfere. They get behind that noble and self-sufficient excuse that is summed up in the very convenient phrase, "It is not my business." It is only another way of expressing an excuse that was offered by a man of the dim and distant past who was asked the whereabouts of his brother. A cruelty, a wrong in any form, is everybody's business.—Baltimore Herald.

CLUB OF FISH EATERS.

Members of Illinois Society to Use Meat From Finny Tribe Only. Boston, beware!

The center of learning and brains will shortly be transferred from the Hub to Melrose Park, Ill., where protuberant foreheads, shaped like Bartlett pears, will soon be the rule, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

And on what meat will these Melrose Park neighbors live that they will have grown so brainy?

Brain food, of course; fish and nothing but fish.

Great thinkers and leaders will be as common as Mary and Ann guests when the new diet gets in its fine work. Goldfish diet is expected to produce Napoleons of finance, future Grants will live exclusively on swordfish, aspiring young clergymen will dine on whale, stockbrokers on suckers, coming great critics on carp, and an abundance of cod is regarded as certain to produce a codfish aristocracy.

This is the programme outlined by the newly formed Fish club of Melrose Park, the members of which organization have pledged themselves to eat no meat except that from the finny tribe. The idea of forming such a club suggested itself to Mrs. Joseph M. Goodman when she drew a bowl of goldfish in a raffle at the Sacred Heart fair. The club was recently organized with twenty-three members who met at Mrs. Goodman's home. The name of some fish was assigned to each member, and after cards a fish luncheon was served.

In former years Melrose Park society had a "rooster club" and a "pig club," the members of each being pledged to eat only the meat of the animals denoted by the club name. More than a thousand letters were sent to these clubs criticising their diet. These previous clubs partly suggested the Fish club. Meanwhile various members of Melrose Park society are hastening to get into the swim with the Fish club before they "get the mackerel eye."

VEST'S FEAT OF MEMORY.

Ex-Senator Quoted Letter Received Many Years Ago Without Mistake.

Senator Francis M. Cockrell was recently asked as to the health of former Senator George G. Vest, writes the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Republic. He said that physically Senator Vest's condition is very bad, but that his splendid mind is undimmed by the afflictions of the flesh.

Mr. Vest is engaged in the preparation of a number of articles for publication and dictates for hours each day to a stenographer on important historical events of the past.

Not long ago Senator Vest was dictating, Senator Cockrell said, and reached a point where it was necessary to quote a letter received many years ago. Without referring to the letter, which he had not seen for a number of years, he dictated it from memory.

Members of his family were so interested in the feat that they looked up the letter and found that Mr. Vest had quoted it literally and without the slightest mistake.

POOR TIPS MIX UP BARBER.

He Takes Salutation in German For Morgan and Gates.

Members of the Chicago board of trade are telling an amusing story on Johnnie Schack, who lives "by the north" side out," says the Chicago Inter Ocean. He went into the barber shop in the board building the other day to have the "fuz scraped off," and he saluted the barber in German.

The barber did not catch him when he said:

"Guten morgen. Wie gehts?" It was evidently an off day with the barber, who was thinking of the money he had dropped in stock, and he replied:

"To — with Morgan and Gates! I've tried to follow their tips and am up against it."

Yells at the White House.

The members of the Wisconsin Press association recently called on the president at Washington and were presented by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Taylor. The newspaper men were enthusiastic over their greeting from the president and held a sort of ratification meeting in the executive office as though Mr. Roosevelt had already been renominated and elected, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. They gave the college yell of the University of Wisconsin and three cheers and a tiger for the president. It was the liveliest reception that has been held in the president's office since Mr. Roosevelt returned from Oyster Bay.

Uncle Sam to Miss Canada. I am sorry for you, sister, and I know your case is sad. And, though mine has been the profit, yet it hurts me most as bad. And of course I do not blame you if you feel a little sore. Since my line fence was allowed to run jam up by your back door.

But remember while in anger you defy With the threat of independence and your sons undaunted stand With their bosoms well inflated for a fiercely warlike shout That your Uncle Sam 'll git you if you don't watch out.

It 'll do you good to whimper, for you've not been vexed by strife And the things most of us suffer in the nursery of life. And you've yet to learn that living hasn't quite lost all its joy Just because some bigger infant has purchased a treasured toy.

There's a hint of future greatness in the music of your sobs, And I'm glad your heart, unfettered, at the thought of freedom throbs, And I hope you'll soon feel better; but, remember, when you pout, That your Uncle Sam 'll git you if you don't watch out. —William Tipton Talbot in Washington Post.

STUDENTS OF UNIVERSITY OF PURDUE DIE IN TRAIN WRECK ON BIG FOUR

Sixteen persons were killed and two-score injured, more than half of them seriously, in the wreck of a special train on the Big Four railroad bearing nearly 1,000 passengers, in the vicinity of Riverside Park, Indianapolis, Oct. 31. Ten of the dead were members of the Purdue University football team, which was to have played Indiana University for the state championship at Indianapolis, and nearly all of the people on the train were residents of Lafayette, who had come to see the contest. The disaster spread gloom over the entire city and most of the state, and for a time called to the scene of chaos all of the medical and surgical talent of Indianapolis.

The dead:
COATS, JOSEPH, substitute player, Lafayette.
DROLLINGER, B. S., beheaded.
FURR, WALTER, substitute, Corpus Christi, Tex.

Harry O. Wright, Pendleton, Ind., head cut and leg fractured; serious.

James M. Rush, New Carlisle, Ind., head cut, broken nose and bad laceration of leg.

Luther E. Irvan, Sherwood, Va.,

The forward cars were occupied mainly by the football players and other students. The work of recovering the dead and injured was joined in by the passengers of the rear coaches, aided by the people who hurried to the scene in carriages or on foot. Many girls from Lafayette were among those who assisted. Hospitals and private physicians were telephoned for, and they responded promptly.

Fifty or more students were under the huge pile of debris. One body was entirely beheaded and others were so mutilated as to be hardly recognizable. Two of the killed were brothers, the Hamiltons. One lived at Lafayette, the other at Huntington.

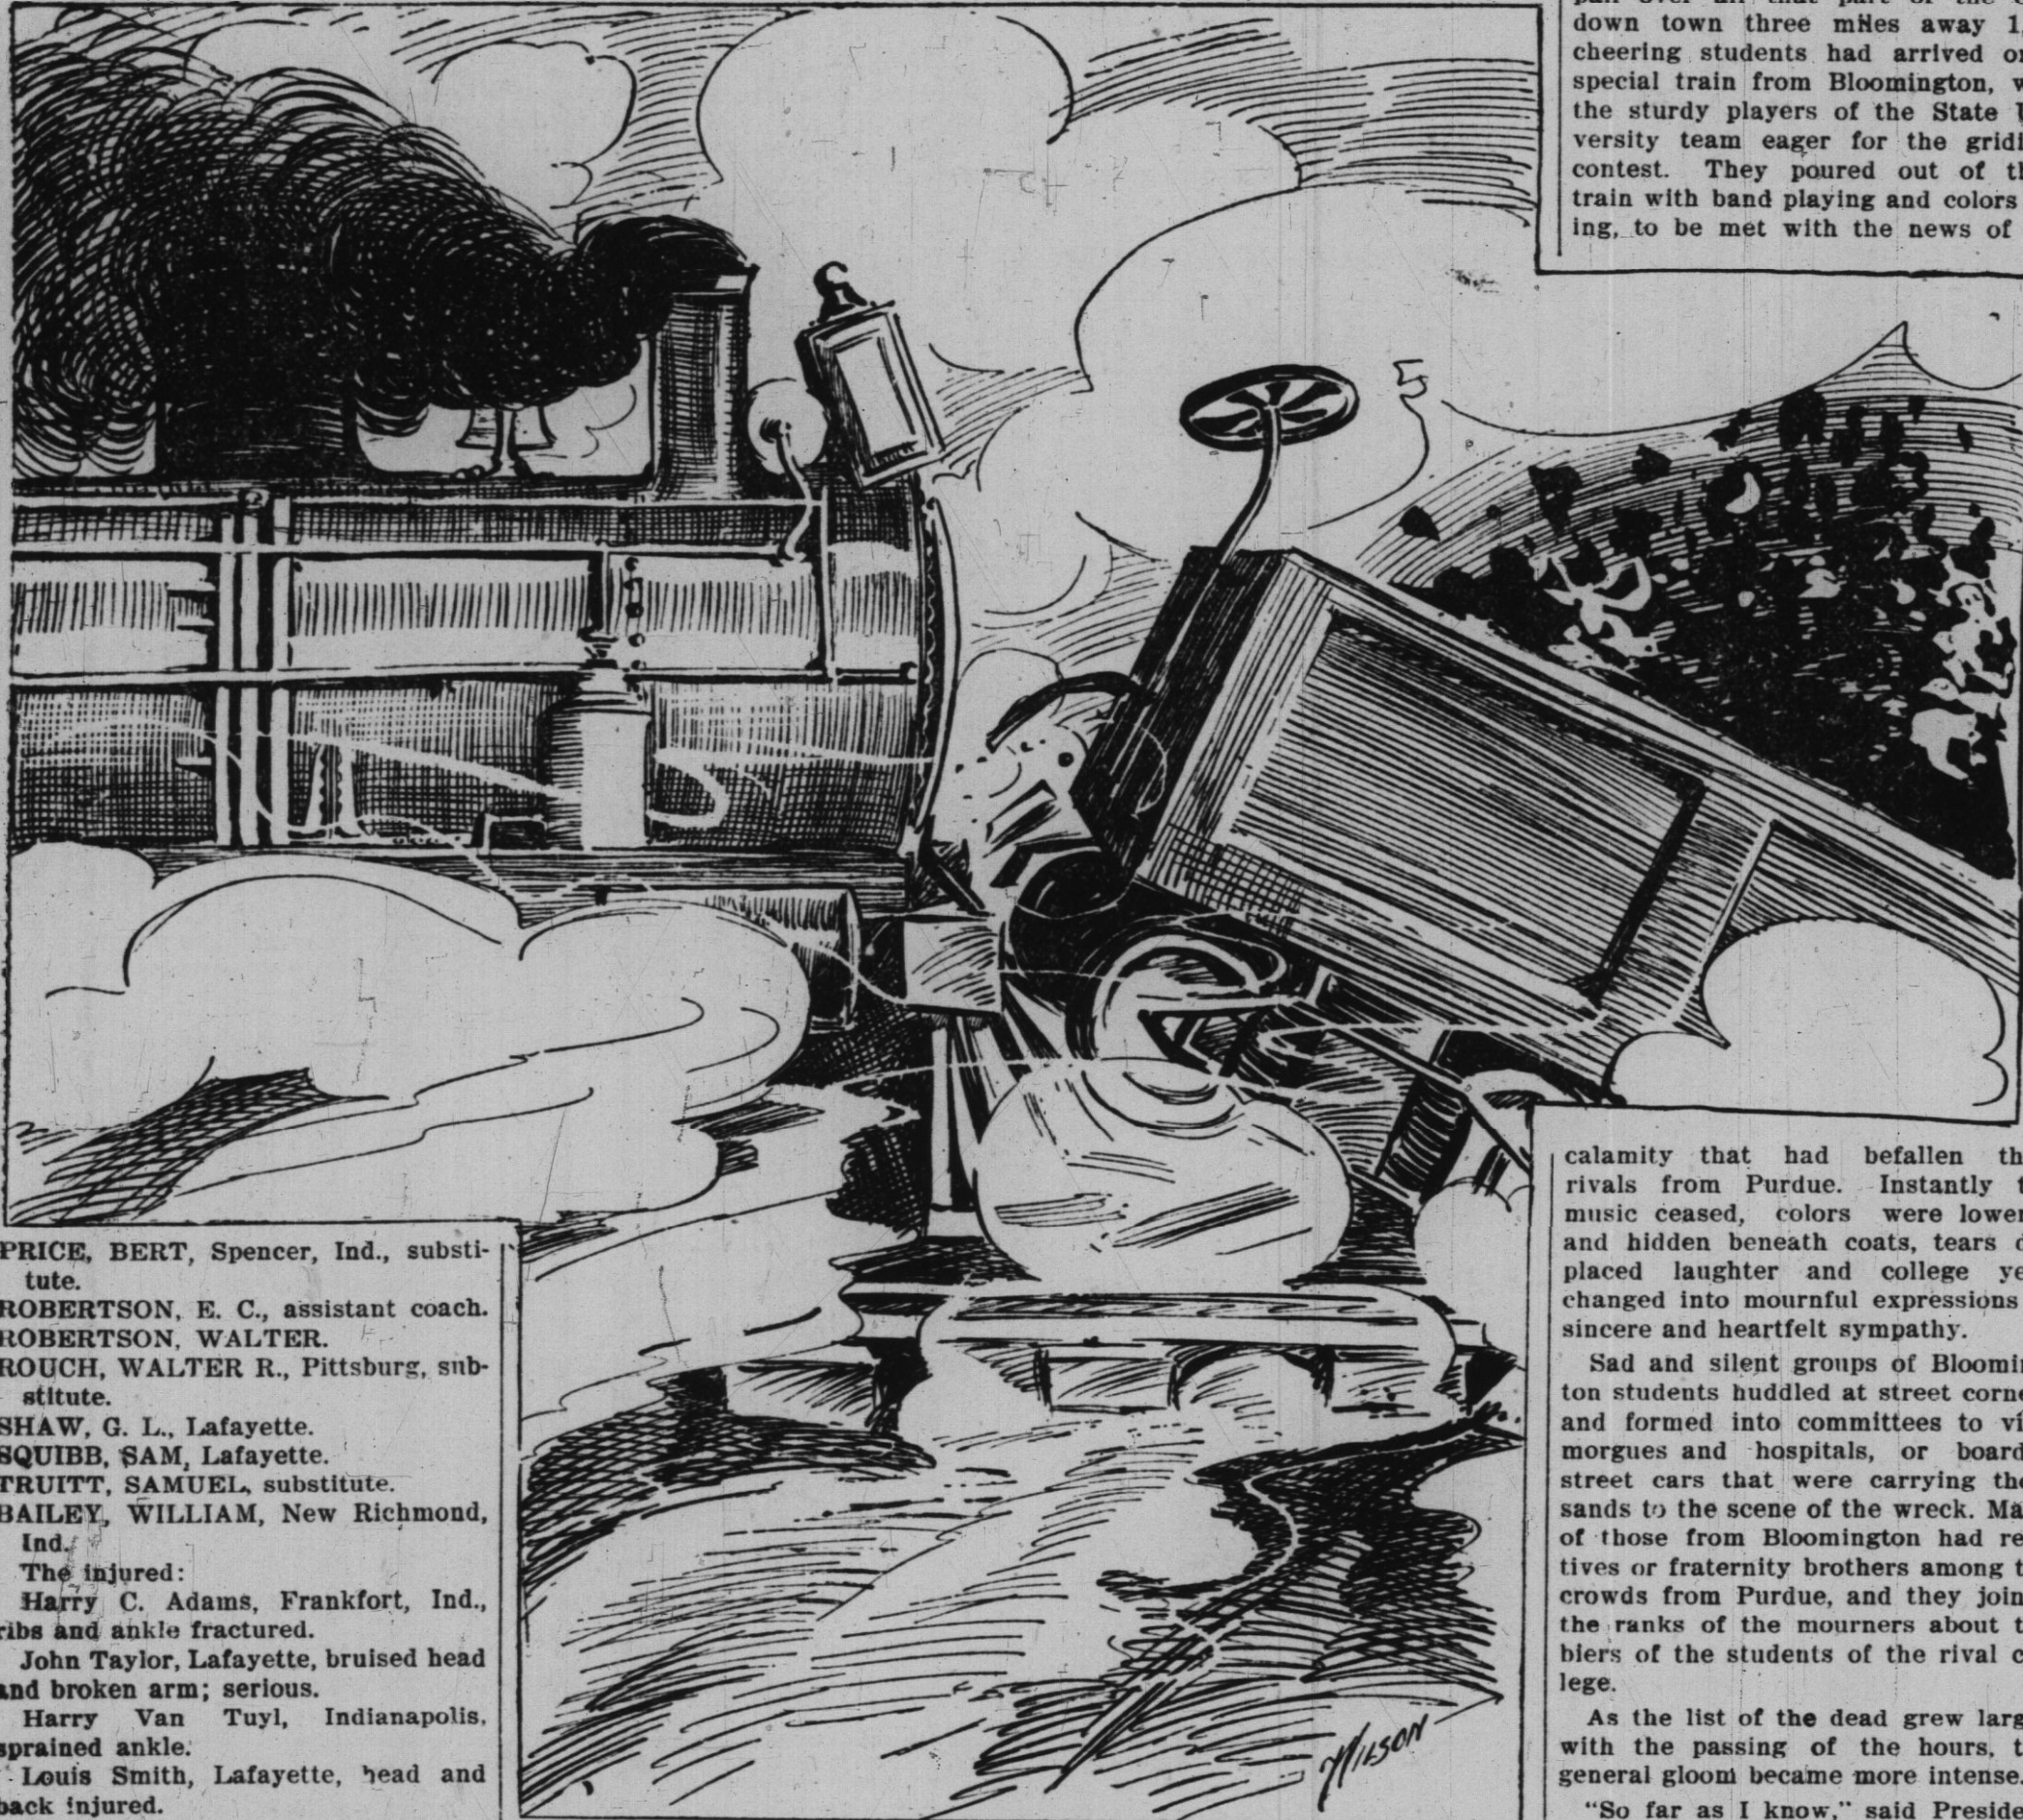

The usual heart-rending scenes of a wreck were magnified, as there were so many more mourners than ordinarily. Hardly a surviving passenger on the train but had a relative or friend among the victims, and not a few of the citizens of Indianapolis on the ground saw the mangled forms of those bound to them by ties of blood or friendship. Women fainted and men wept and cried aloud as body after body of the dead and dying was pulled from the wreckage. Many of the girls rolled up their

The body of Gabriel S. Drollinger was found almost beheaded under the splintered remains of the first coach. It was rescued with difficulty owing to the danger of the debris falling over. Under the overturned tender, and crushed until they could with difficulty be recognized, were the bodies of W. H. Grube, substitute player, of Butler, Ind., and Walter Farr of Corpus Christi, Texas, a member of the team. The work of recovering these bodies required the combined efforts of the wrecking crew and many of the city firemen and police.

All the young men killed were in the first coach. This contained about seventy persons. Those who retained consciousness when laid on the grass urged that their friends leave them and hasten to the telegraph office and inform their parents that they had escaped with a few bruises.

In the second car was the Purdue band, some of the members of which are among the injured. Coach Cutts of the Purdue team was only slightly hurt, and he assisted in the work of rescue. President W. E. Stone of the university, with Mrs. and Miss Stone, were in the fifth car, and, with the other passengers of their coach, were uninjured.

While death and suffering spread a pall over all that part of the city, down town three miles away 1,200 cheering students had arrived on a special train from Bloomington, with the sturdy players of the State University team eager for the gridiron contest. They poured out of their train with band playing and colors flying, to be met with the news of the

A misunderstanding of orders is said to have caused the wreck. The tracks were not cleared for the special, which crashed into a train of six loaded coal cars while running at a good speed in a deep cut near Eighteenth street and Holton place. The sound of the collision was heard for many blocks and thousands of people rushed to the scene of death, suffering and frightful destruction and disorder.

The passenger engine and the first three coaches were almost destroyed. The first coach was crushed to splinters, the second telescoped and thrown down an embankment fifteen feet high, while the third was hurled athwart the track. The coal cars were commingled with the advance coaches and bodies of dead, dying and those otherwise injured were lying about or partly covered with wreckage, while cries of agony resounded.

sleeves and knelt at the side of the stricken men and boys and bathed their wounds until the services of a surgeon could be obtained. Dresses donned for a gala day were soiled in the work or torn to shreds to make bandages for the suffering.

The football boys faced death as bravely as any soldier ever did on a battlefield.

As his comrades were bearing W. G. McManus of Davenport, Iowa, one of the fatally injured, from the scene of the catastrophe he waved his hand at those remaining and shouted, "Good-by, boys."

Just after Jay Walter Hamilton of Huntington had been taken from beneath the wreck one of the surgeons asked him his name. Perfectly conscious of the question, he replied: "Oh, I'm all right. Don't tell mother."

With a last effort to raise himself to a sitting posture, the brave fellow gasped and died.

Walter Bailey, New Richmond, Ind., lay on the ground with his head in a pool of blood. His nose was cut wide open and his head was bruised in a terrible manner. One of his legs was pinned beneath some of the heavy timbers, but he never flinched. "Go and attend to the other fellows," he said as the surgeons came to his assistance. "The other poor devils are dying. I am not hurt much."

calamity that had befallen their rivals from Purdue. Instantly the music ceased, colors were lowered and hidden beneath coats, tears displaced laughter and college yells changed into mournful expressions of sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

Sad and silent groups of Bloomington students huddled at street corners and formed into committees to visit morgues and hospitals, or boarded street cars that were carrying thousands to the scene of the wreck. Many of those from Bloomington had relatives or fraternity brothers among the crowds from Purdue, and they joined the ranks of the mourners about the hiers of the students of the rival college.

As the list of the dead grew larger with the passing of the hours, the general gloom became more intense.

"So far as I know," said President Stone of Purdue, "no one was seriously injured in any car except the first. The passengers in our car, the fifth, were not thrown from their seats. The first coach was so demolished that it is hard to believe anyone in it could escape alive. The appalling nature of this disaster is the greater to one who has enjoyed with the students of Purdue the pleasant anticipations of this day. It was to have been the greatest day in the history of athletics for the university. I never saw a happier lot of young men than started from Lafayette. The spirit of good fellowship was over all."

The engineer of the special, and the crew of the coal train, escaped injury. The special's engineer leaped in time to save himself when he saw he could do nothing to avert the wreck. He explained that he was given to understand he had a clear track.

Lou Smith, with his back broken; "Red" Mowery, with his skull fractured; poor Powell in the morgue and N. R. Howard in his coffin—these are the arguments against any more football at Purdue.

After an investigation by the Big Four officials into the cause of the wreck, General Superintendent Van Winkle of the company said the crew in charge of the football special was responsible for the wreck, because it failed to exercise the required precaution.

TRIED TO BE TOO POLITE.

Amusing Grammatical Error of Obscure Shopwoman.

Henry M. Alden, the editor of Harper's Monthly, once advanced the theory that half of the laughable grammatical errors made by the uneducated arise from self-consciousness—from trying too hard to be correct, and that these same simple people do not make so many errors when conversing easily and unaffectedly with people of their own kind. This would seem to be true in this instance:

A teacher in one of the West Side public schools the other day found that she had left her pocket notebook at home and would need one during the afternoon session. So at noon she slipped hurriedly into one of the little shops that always appear next door to a school building. The little shopwoman put on her most proper, obsequious manner, when she recognized the schoolteacher. Then, as she arranged upon the counter a half dozen or more of the little books, she waved her hand with awkward grace toward the assortment and said: "Yez kin—choose yer choice!"—New York Times.

The Teacher Won.

Hinton, Ky., Nov. 2.—For over two years two of the best physicians in this part of the State have been treating Mr. E. J. Thompson, a popular local school teacher, for Diabetes. They told him that but little could be done to help him. He made up his mind to try a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills, and says: "They saved me when the doctors held out no hope. I took in all about ten boxes. I will always praise Dodd's Kidney Pills for the great good they have done for me."

Many people, and some physicians, still persist in the belief that Diabetes is an incurable disease. Our teacher, Mr. Thompson, says it is curable, for Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him after two good physicians had treated him for two years without success.

A remedy that will cure Diabetes will surely cure any case of Kidney Trouble.

Change of Tone.

"Talking about trusting in Providence," remarked Representative Charles Littlefield of Maine, the other day, to a group of friends in Washington, "there's an old fisherman down at my home who affords a unique example. When old Capt. Eddy gets out in the swell of the heavy combers and feels his small boat tossing about roughly he will always pray: 'Poor old skipper, poor old boat; don't blow, good Lord, don't blow.'"

"But Capt. Eddy returning home and once safe in the shelter of the lee is another person. Then he straightens up, squirts tobacco juice over the trusty oars and cries: 'Good old skipper, good old boat; blow, god dern you blow!'"—New York Times

SALVATION ARMY LEADER KILLED IN RAIL WRECK

Mrs. Booth-Tucker the Victim
Of Accident on the Santa Fe at Dean Lake, Mo.

SHE HAD BEEN VISITING WEST

On Her Way Home from Colony of the Army at Amity, Col. Her Short Stay in Kansas City Was Fatal—Said to Have Been Ablest of Children of Gen. Booth.

Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker, consul in America of the Salvation army, wife of Commander Booth-Tucker, and second daughter of Gen. William Booth, founder of the army, died at Marceline, Mo., Oct. 29, from injuries received in a wreck of the east-bound California train on the Santa Fe railway at Dean Lake, Mo., eighty-five miles east of Kansas City.

The wrecked train was the east-bound California No. 2. The train ran into an open switch, striking a steel water tank, and all save the mail, express and day coaches were wrecked.

The explanation of the horror is that the accident, with its terrible results, was due to the spreading of the rails. Leaping from the tracks, five cars, all heavy Pullman coaches, were hurled forward with an impact as if they had been thrown from a monster cannon.

Awakened in terror, those passengers who escaped serious injury at once began the rescue of the wounded, who were screaming from beneath the mountain of wreckage, piled up against the great steel water tank.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker was found by her screams, the rescuers trying to locate her with the flaming torches brought from the engine cab.

It took almost a half hour before the wreckage could be torn aside and the mutilated body carried to the pile of boards near the station shed.

The passengers seriously injured were: Mrs. A. E. Baden, Winfield, Kas.; E. S. Baden, her son, Winfield, Kas.; John R. Shoemaker, Denver, Col.; W. H. Murray, San Francisco, Cal.; L. N. Kirk, Newcastle, Ind., wife and two children; Lind Newly, Onarga, Ill.; Mrs. Newly, Onarga, Ill.; Anna Newley, Onarga, Ill.; Fred Miller, Philadelphia; Albert Miller, Philadelphia; Emma Hester, Peoria, Ill.; Dining Car Conductor Burkhardt, address unknown.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who was on her way home from a visit to the farm colony of the army at Amity, Col., had stopped in Kansas City a few hours on Oct. 28 to inspect the working-men's hotel, a work in which she is particularly interested.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker was the second daughter of Gen. William Booth and was said to be the ablest of all the Booth children. She had enthusiasm tempered with good judgment and executive ability. It was these qualities which induced her father to send her to the United States in 1896 to try to bring about harmony in the American branch of the army.

Husband Head of American Army.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker was the wife of Commander Booth-Tucker, head of the Salvation army in this country, who succeeded Ballington Booth in that position in 1896, when Ballington and his father, Gen. Booth, quarreled.

The trouble arose when Gen. Booth expressed displeasure at what he termed the strong Americanism characterizing the army methods here.

Gen. Booth's efforts to bring the army here into closer touch with the English army resulted in his sending Col. William Eadie here as chief secretary. Ballington Booth and his wife then seceded and founded the volunteers of America.

Those Flats.
The mother with her little 10-year-old daughter was returning to her tiny flat after a call on a friend who resided in a large house, with spacious grounds about it, says the New York Times. As she neared the house she sighed and remarked to her little daughter:

Dolly gave a sigh exactly like her mother's and said dully:

FIRE DAMAGES THE VATICAN

Pope Pius Telegraphs to the Firemen of Rome for Aid.

CIVIL AUTHORITIES RESPOND

Mayor and Other Officials of the Holy City Make Answer in Person to Pontiff's Request—Event May Mark a New Era.

Rome cable: Fire broke out at 8:30 Sunday evening in that portion of the Vatican containing the hall of inscriptions, where the Pope gives his audience, and which is adjacent to the famous Pinacoteca, or gallery of pictures. The alarm caused much confusion and excitement in the Vatican. Strenuous efforts were made to control the flames, and the firemen of Rome were called to lend their help. At 11:15 the fire was under control.

The Pope came to the scene in person and remained until the arrangements to fight the fire were completed.

Causes Sensation.
The fire caused a greater sensation in Rome than has any other event since the death of Pope Leo. Fires in Rome are exceptional, because of the heavy stone and brick construction of the buildings, and the outbreak of flames in such a conspicuous place, wherein were many celebrated treasures, brought out great numbers of anxious people, in spite of the heavy rain which had been falling throughout the day.

The safety of the Pope was the first thought in every one's mind, but this was soon assuaged. When the pontiff arrived at the scene he ordered every one to assist in extinguishing the flames.

Pope Calls 'Roman Firemen.'
The first intimation of fire was had when smoke was seen issuing from the apartment of M. Marle, which is located above that of Father Ehrle, the librarian, who lived over the library itself. M. Marle is a celebrated French restorer of ancient manuscripts and illuminated books; he is at present engaged in copying work. The famous Bramante staircase leads to that part of the Vatican where the fire broke out.

The moment the Pope arrived his mind grasped the gravity of the situation, and he ordered that the firemen of Rome be called. This was done by telegraph.

Library is Damaged.
The entire museum of inscriptions, the rooms of Father Ehrle, part of the library, and the printing houses were entirely flooded with water. It is impossible to reach even an approximate idea of the extent of the damage. Many articles were saved, including some ancient and very valuable arms, which were recently moved to the library room from the Borgia apartment in order to make room for the new residence of the papal secretary of state. Many things that escaped the flames were injured by water, especially the precious private library of Pope Leo, which Father Ehrle had been re-arranging in accordance with the last wish of the late pontiff.

Mayor Enters the Vatican.
Information had been sent the Italian authorities, who hurried to St. Peter's. They were courteously invited to enter and did so. Therefore, for the first time since the fall of the temporal power of the vatican, the mayor of Rome, the prefect, police officials, and even Sig. Ronchetti, the newly appointed minister of justice, entered the vatican in their official capacities. They gave orders directing the work of combating the flames and participated personally in the fight.

Just Like a Woman.

Miss Annie Ball of Chicago has been licensed by the board of Examining Engineers to run a stationary engine, the only woman so favored in the city. She was refused a license on her first application. Then she offered to give the examiners $1,000 each if she could not take an engine apart and put it together in their presence, but was told that was not the way to obtain the permit. She submitted to an oral examination, but failed because, she says, of the "rapid-fire" method of propounding wordy questions. Later she took the written examination and came off triumphant with an average of 84. After she received the license she was asked what she proposed to do with it. "Nothing," she said; "I only wanted it because I was told I couldn't get it."

The will of W. H. Mentzer has just been filed for probate in San Bernardino, Cal. It is peculiar on account of the stipulation which directs that no attorney or court of law shall direct the distribution of the estate. Mentzer was formerly one of the richest men of this county, owning the town site of Colton. He became involved in litigation, which depleted his wealth. Under the will there is little over $75,000 to administer. Some of this consists of property on Pine street, San Francisco. A month ago Mentzer died, at Inglewood. Following his express wishes, there were no pallbearers nor clergymen at his funeral, the undertaker simply calling at the house and taking the corpse to the cemetery. His widow, his only heir, lives alone in the beautiful Inglewood home, shunning all society.—San Francisco Chronicle.

LIKED HIS "NIP."

Not a Whisky, but a Coffee Toper.
Give coffee half a chance and with some people it sets its grip hard and fast. "Up to a couple of years ago," says a business man of Brooklyn, N. Y., "I was as constant a coffee drinker as it was possible to be, indeed, my craving for coffee was equal to that of a drunkard for his regular 'nip' and the effect of the coffee drug upon my system was indeed deplorable. "My skin lacked its natural color, my features were pinched and my nerves were shattered to such an extent as to render me very irritable. I also suffered from palpitation of the heart.

"It was while in this condition I read an article about Postum Food Coffee and concluded to try it. It was not long before Postum had entirely destroyed my raging passion for coffee and in a short time I had entirely given up coffee for delicious Postum. "The change that followed was so extraordinary I am unable to describe it. Suffice it to say, however, that all my troubles have disappeared. I am my original happy self again and on the whole the soothing and pleasant effects produced by my cup of Postum make me feel as though I have been 'landed at another station.' "Not long ago I converted one of my friends to Postum and he is now as loud in its praise as I am." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

How a Farmer was freed from Misery

ORTHY of a higher recommendation than I can find words to express. This is what Mr. J. H. Plangman (of Sherman, Tex.) says of Doan's Kidney Pills. He tells his experience in the following words: He says, "Sometime in September I was taken with a dull aching pain across the small of my back, directly over the kidneys. I paid small attention to this at first, thinking it would pass off. But instead of getting better it became worse and in a short time the pain centered through my left hip and down my left leg as far as the knee." This is precisely what kidney trouble will do with the body. It does not always show itself at first, but appears just in this way, when some unusual movement or action brings sharp pains and exhaustive aches, telling of sick kidneys. So Mr. Plangman's experience bore this out. Continuing, he says: "I did not know the cause of the trouble, but I am led to believe now that it was first brought about by jumping in and out of the wagon and in some way I may have strained my back. "It was constantly growing worse," he continues, "and I became very much alarmed about my condition. I knew that something had to be done, serious results were sure to follow. I went to a specialist here in Sherman, and underwent a rigid examination. "Then he relates how the doctor told him that it was a serious case, but that he could cure him for fifty dollars. "However, necessity knows no law and Mr. Plangman paid half down and took the treatment and followed it faithfully for four weeks. "Naturally, he thought that he would soon be rid of the trouble, but in spite of the doctoring he goes on to add, "I was in such misery that it was almost impossible for me to do my work." "It was at this juncture that Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice and I procured some from the drug store of C. E. Craycroft. I used these pills according to directions and to my surprise I was considerably relieved on the second day and in a short time completely cured." This is the universal experience of those who have been sufferers from Kidney trouble and who have been fortunate enough to test the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. There is nothing wonderful or magical about this remedy, it simply does the work by direct action on the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only and this accounts for their speedy and certain action. Early indications of kidney trouble come from two sources, the back and the bladder. The back becomes weak and lame because the kidneys are sick, and relief from backache can only be complete when the kidneys are set right.

A WORD TO PARENTS.

Keep Your Sons and Daughters at Home Evenings.

We do not believe in a curfew ordinance or anything of that character, but we do believe that some of the fathers and mothers in this community are guilty of inattention to a duty which should be carried out to the limit.

This paper does not pretend to assert that the young men and young girls of this village are traveling the broad road to ruin, but it does know that there are many of our girls, still in their teens, and boys of the right age to raise the devil, without much encouragement, parading the streets at hours when they ought to be at the family fireside.

The children are not to blame for the free rein given them in the matter of absence from home, but the parents are.

Should we approach a parent in Barrington and assert "You are not interested in the welfare of your child," we should, no doubt, be given a few unkind words for information furnished.

Observations taken by a representative of this paper on the streets of this village, at hours when few were supposed to be abroad unless on urgent and necessary duty, shows that there is something radically wrong in some of the homes hereabouts. That the parents are blind to their duty is a proven fact.

There is a contingent of young fellows prowling about the street corners of Barrington every evening who have but one motive, and we regret to have to admit that this same contingent seem to have attractions for the girls of some of our best and most prominent families.

The presence of "these children" on the streets after reasonable hours is not conducive to their intellectual, physical or moral welfare, and as the authorities have no power to spank them and put them to bed, their parents ought to do so, and the sooner they start the treatment the better it will be for the children.

The writer has noticed the behavior of certain boys and girls on the public street after nightfall that had it occurred in as wicked a city as Chicago, the parties would have been "run in" on the charge of disorderly conduct.

Parents, look to the welfare of your sons and daughters. Keep them off the streets after nightfall. Make it a duty to know where they go and what they do. Note their companions. Save yourselves sorrow and disgrace.

E. F. E. C. Party.

The party given last Friday night at the home of Miss Florence Peck by the E. F. E. C. girls was in the nature of a Halloween festivity and many novel amusements were in order to ensure the fortunate young men present. Grinning jack o'lanterns threw diabolic lights, the field and forest furnished beautiful decoration and a tasty luncheon gratified these young people.

Among the varied interesting diversions was a typical bandits cave presided over by two realistic gypsies who prophesied all things good. The reception of the young men who arrived en masse was a solemn occasion, as a group of ghosts met and gravely directed them, by rhythmical motions, to cloakroom and parlor, causing much fear and trembling, excepting on the part of one young investigator who proceeded to discover whether or no ghosts can be embraced.

This was the first of a series of good times planned by the club.

What Elijah II Said.

That was an interesting scene the other day in New York when Dowie ordered the newspaper men to leave Madison Square Garden, where he was speaking. This is the thoroughgoing manner in which Dowie excommunicated the reporters in speaking to his guards who escorted the press representatives to the door: "Clear the tainted vipers out of here. Be careful how you handle them, not to get any of their filth on you. Now, get out, you mean dogs, you yellow scoundrels of the press. We will have no more of you in here. I am paying for this place, you liars. This is my building. Hurry up, guards. The sight of them disgusts me. Don't waste any restoration talk on the liars. It is useless. They have sold their souls to the devil."

Girls' Concert Band at Village hall Thanksgiving night.

Making Things Pleasant.

In the great moral newspaper of which he is one of the editors Samuel Gompers says: "We do not deny the right of the nonunion man to work where, when and for whomsoever he pleases. We simply insist upon the same right of all union men to refuse to associate with him in the factory or in the club and we insist upon our right to tell employers that they must have either union shops or nonunion shops. If they want our labor they must make it pleasant for us to work for them."

It is to be noted that if they "do not want our labor" the followers of Mr. Gompers do what they can with wagon spokes, paving blocks, sandbags and coupling pins to make things pleasant for the people whose labor the unhappy employer does want.—Chronicle.

The following are the names of the pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy in Miss Harrison's room, during the month of October: Mabel Landwer, Clara Jensen, Malinda Homuth, Stella Roloff, Mable Grebe, Ella Brinkamp, Lucy Wesolowski, Jerinne Fox, Frances Fabritz, George Meister, Solomon Kampert, Edwin Gieske, Johnie Frey, Martin Jacobson, Willie Elsner, Herman Butzow, Raymond Fidler, Herbie Homuth, Albert Schutt, George Miller, George Reuter, Herbert Augenstein.

World is Full of 'Em.

This world is full—plumb full—of a certain class of men and women, (and there is no disguising the truth) the women are in the majority, who make a practice of going about touching up their suffering friends with their contemptible little darts. They are pinprickers. No one is ever safe from them.

They can see every little foible and fault that their friends are prone to. And you can wager your all that they don't hide their knowledge.

They are worse enemies and more dangerous than the man who comes at a foe with an open knife, for one has some chance to escape the weapon but none whatever from the dastardly words which, uttered sweetly and softly, still smite in so deeply that the poor unfortunate writhes in abject shame, scarce knowing why, but utterly crushed at some nasty, despicable, treacherous aspersion that leaves one looking around hopelessly, fearful of what was meant.

A man or woman can cope with a brave enemy, one who comes right out and fights in the open. The assailed have some chance of defense, but they are defenseless against the attacks of the craven who lets fall the remarks that like "the thief in the night" steal away reputation and good name. There is, we are sorry to say, a following of the class referred to, in this immediate locality. They should be exterminated.

A Woman's Complexion.

It is rank foolishness to attempt to remove sallowness or greasiness of the skin by the use of cosmetics, or "local" treatment, as advocated by the beauty "doctors." The only safe and sure way that a woman can improve her complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood which can only be accomplished by keeping the liver healthy and active. The liver is the seat of disease and blood pollution. Green's August Flower acts directly on the liver, cleanses and enriches the blood, purifies the complexion. It also cures constipation, biliousness, nervousness, and induces refreshing sleep. A single bottle of August Flower has been known to cure the most pronounced and distressing cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. New trial-size bottle, 25 cents; regular size, 75 cents. At H. T. Abbott's, Barrington.

BARRINGTON ODD FELLOWS

Entertain Brethren from Palatine and Carpentersville.

Odd Fellows' hall was the scene of unusual and imposing ceremonies last evening. Beside the regular session and work in the first degree, the three linkers entertained brothers from Palatine and Carpentersville, and the occasion will long be remembered by all present, especially by those who took upon themselves the obligations demanded by the O. M. A. degree.

This ancient rite has never before been conferred in this village and its giving demanded the presence of those who had thoroughly explored the deep mysteries of oriental customs; those pilgrims who had journeyed beside the mountains and down the valleys made famous by the Medes and Persians; those who had climbed the pyramids of Egypt; bowed before altars of gold and precious stones, had ran the gantlet of adversity and humiliated themselves before that high dignitary, the G. A. W.

The work of the Oriental degree was in charge of the team from Century lodge, Carpentersville, whose instruction had been carefully given by Most Exalted Priest and Prophet, G. H. Sawyer. The paraphernalia was fac simile of that used hundreds of years ago when princes of the royal blood were obligated to carry out the wishes of their ancestors.

Twenty candidates from Palatine and Barrington lodges took the degree, the festivities in honor of the candidates lasting until late in the night. M. C. McIntosh was selected as G. A. W. during the institution of the degree lodge and John Donlea invested with the office for the coming term. He will appoint a G. A. P. and members of his staff in the near future.

At the close of the floor work refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, fruits and other good things were served. Then came the smoker and short talks.

Next Wednesday evening the members of Barrington lodge will go to Palatine to assist that lodge in celebrating an important event.

Twenty-nine representatives were in attendance from Century Lodge No. 492, Carpentersville, and five from Palatine Lodge No. 708., while the lodge increased the attendance to 75.
