ok Out For Hypersensitiveness Look Out For Hypersensitiveness. Hypersensitiveness is the result of verwork or lliness from plain selfish-iess. To be easily annoyed is to be lek or selfish. When we are played ut or worked out our nerves are worn out or worked out our nerres are worn to the quick and within at the touch of trides. Then—rest for our lires. We cannot afford not to. There is an irritability that is not physical. It is moral—or immoral. It comes from being self-centered. We live, but not moral-or immora.

being self-centered. We live, but not let live. We want our way anyway. If we are interrupted we are visibly amoored. Interference, corrections, seggestions light our fireracteers and we exploide. Other people's pleasures and pains, their children cats and dogs and canary birds are impertuences. Why? Because tiery do not pertain to us. This is plain selfishness. Lei-

This is plain selfishness. Let us neware. It is the spirit, the es-tence of evil. Let us go to the cross of Jesus and learn to love. We shall always be in relations in the world. Let us make them loving relations. Let us look out for hypersensitireness, It means peril for body and soul.— Gleyeland Plaindealer.
