Cabinet Dinners Not Fogular.

Cabinet dinners have been voted a bore by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and will be aboulabed this winter if they have their vay. There are nine of these dinner each season, one being given by each member of the cabinet. The present invariably concluded, the present invariably concluded, the company of the cabinet. The contract of the cabinet cabinets are considered to their families. Occasionally one or two outsiders are included, but very seldom, and it is hardly to be wondered at that the affairs have become boresome. For the past two years Mrs. Roosevelt the affairs have become boresome. For the past two years Mrs. Roosevelt has felt that the dinners were an unnecessary tax on the cabinet families.
