Tax books will be on March 28th.

INA FRYE, Collector.

Candidate Hurt by Goat.

Because he was seriously injured by a mechanical goat, used in the initiatory ceremonies of the Modern Woodmen, Charles McAttee, a prominent young farmer residing east of Sycamore, has engaged lawyers and will shortly institute suit for damages against the lodge of that order at Arrowsmith. McAttee claims that the goat became obstreperous beyond the control of the degree team. He was carried around the lodge room by the backing machine and then thrown headlong, injuring him severely. He is now trying to effect a settlement and if unsuccessful he will ask $10,000 damages. It is said that these suits against the Woodmen are becoming so numerous that a sweeping order has just been issued from headquarters putting a stop to employment of all paraphernalia which may injure a candidate. Any lodge which hereafter permits the usage of appliances which are dangerous will be expelled from order and their charter forfeited.

Birthday Party.

A party was given for about twenty young people Monday evening at the Comstock home in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Myrtle Comstock Abbott and Ber. J. C. Garth of Chicago.

Various contests, social games and music were the amusements of the evening with the result that all attending enjoyed a particularly good time. The decorations were in pink and white.

GEORGE HEIMERDINGER

Departs this Life in Prime of Manhood—Death Follows Operation.

Last Saturday evening word was received here of the death at Augustine hospital, Chicago, of George Heimerdinger, a former resident of our village—one to the manor born. His death resulted from an operation attending an attack of appendicitis. He was 33 but several weeks and his condition not considered serious.

George Heimerdinger was one of the large circle of young business men who have gone forth from this village to seek advancement in chosen pursuits. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Heimerdinger and was born here August 22, 1872. Here he spent the days of childhood and early manhood. He received his education in the Barrington school and completed a commercial training at the Metropolitan Business college, Chicago. Soon after he entered the employ of Robert Bros. in that city where he remained for some time, then establishing himself in the feed and lumber business at Cary Station. April 26, 1899 he married Miss Ernestine Danelsen of Palatine. They made their home at Cary Station until the spring of 1902 when Mr. Heimerdinger discontinued business there and accepted a position with the National Biscuit company in Chicago. He was held in high esteem by that corporation, his executive ability and good fellowship earning for him a position as superintendent of a department. He was identified with the Modern Woodmen of America and Columbian Knights in both of which orders he held benefit certificates.

The accident had just reached the stage of manhood when his best effort was prominent; when success was within reach; when the responsibilities of his future career were recognized by him, when called to separate from the loving wife, idolized daughter and indulgent parents. To his many old associates in this vicinity his transition to the land beyond causes deep regret.

To mourn his passing away as the father, mother, wife and little daughter, two brothers, Chas. Heimerdinger, William, Mich. Ed. J. Heimerdinger of Woodstock, and a large number of relatives.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the residence of decedent's brother-in-law, Frank Danelsen of Palatine, conducted in German by Rev. Hoffmeyer of that village and Rev. Stanger of St. Paul's church this village, who delivered a brief but eloquent address in English on the present and future life.

The funeral was largely attended by friends from Chicago, Palatine, Barrington and Cary. Interment in Palatine cemetery.

Pilgrimage Concluded.

The "Steamer Barrington" reached its dock on Cook Street last Friday night after a cruise throughout the Mediterranean countries. The return trip was made under favorable conditions, quarantine days were pleasantly passed and passengers and crew congratulated Capt. Lapham on his abilities as a guide and educator.

The prize in the story-writing contest concerning the voyage of a book, "The Morning and of History," was awarded to Mrs. G. W. Spunner.

A large crowd gathered to watch the landing who were much interested in wedding which took place in sight of all. A Jewish doctor and a Jewish maid but an unusually fair description were bride and groom.

Mrs. F. E. Bennett Entertains.

Mrs. Mark E. Bennett was hostess Tuesday afternoon at a party given by her at her home to the members of an Entertaining Afternoon club of Chicago women, and a few Barrington friends. The afternoon was much highly enjoyed by those present, and at five-thirty o'clock the ladies were invited into the dining room where a tempting luncheon was served, the guests being seated at one long table. A jolly time was the order of the hour and at its close the guests from the city returned on the 6:37 train, each one expressing her delight and appreciation of a most pleasant afternoon spent in Barrington. The Barrington ladies invited to meet the Chicago guests included: Mesdames L. A. Powers, Leroy Powers, L. H. Bennett, C. A. Kendall, E. W. Olcott and M. C. McIntosh.

Miss Alma E. Doering of Chicago, a former missionary to Africa, will deliver an address in Zion church morning of next Sunday, March 5. In the morning she will speak in the German language in the evening her address will be in English. Her talks will prove interesting as she will relate her experiences in that far away land. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

In three or four weeks, members of the Evangelical Band of the University of Chicago may be able to come to the Barrington Baptist church. If they do come services will be held for three consecutive nights, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The band has been this year at Hammond, Ind. and at Elgin. At both places the band did good work and Barrington will be fortunate to hear them, if they can come.

A company advertising the German remedies compounded by Dr. Richter of Cincinnati, opened a fourteen days' engagement at Odd Fellows hall Monday evening. The doctors demonstrated the powers of the medicines and a dentist extracts teeth without pain. A team of comedians intersperse the lecture with specialties and a moving picture machine adds to the entertainment. The company is attracting large audiences and selling much of the medicines.

This village is the home of a gang of boys who make a specialty of attending public entertainments and annoying everybody by the ungentlemanly conduct, whistling, cat calls and smart ale performances. Such behavior should not be tolerated; it is the highest type of rowdiness. The young smarties should be denied admittance to public assemblies until they learn good manners. Boys, if you have no respect for yourselves have respect for the feelings of your parents.

Salvation Army.

Special meetings will commence in the Methodist church on next Thursday evening. A Brigade of the Salvation Army, under leadership of Ensign Marguerite Alcock will assist the pastor in these meetings. This Brigade is now doing excellent work at the First M. E. church in Elgin.

Everybody is most cordially invited to come and hear the members of this Brigade sing and speak.

Wanted—to rent house with or without barn in this village in Cook county. Geo. A. Jencks.

"IS THERE A HELL?"

Was the Topic Argued by Rev. F. N. Lapham Sunday Evening.

BY MAGNIFY.

"Is There a Hell?" Almost every individual able to distinguish between right and wrong believes in some manner of punishment for wrong doing, but the opinion as to what sort of punishment is to be meted out in the hereafter differs widely. Therefore a discussion of such a leading subject is always interesting to those, especially, who are not creed bound, but seeking new light on an old subject.

I have noticed that the subject of eternal punishment is always given renewed publicity just preceding a revival effort; it sort of paves the way. The topic was presented by the pastor of the M. E. church Sunday evening. He contended that no matter what learned theologians thought as to the translation of the scriptures regarding a hell; no matter about the interpretation of the word, the scripture said there was a hell and that settled the question. He did not state his personal belief as to what sort of a hell it was but left the inference that he believed it to be such a place as the rich man was sent to and was eternal.

To clinch his argument the speaker brought forth the parables of the Tares and the Wheat, The Rich Man and Lazarus, The Sheep and the Goats. In his taking those parables and using them in a literal manner he went directly opposite to the lessons drawn from them by Adam Clark, the great Methodist divine and commentator on the scriptures, whose commentaries are virtually the key to the text used by the clergy of that faith years ago when eternal punishment, a located heaven and hell were foremost in the doctrines of many religious sects.

With all due respect to the clergyman and his interpretation of the text, there are those, staunch supporters of the faith, who are unconvinced on the subject and find it difficult to swallow the belief that a God of love ever created such a place of torture as a pit of fire and brimstone for the punishment of the children of earth.

True, the scripture is the same now as it was when John Knox stored the British Isles with his ideas of a hell for all who did not embrace Presbyterian faith, infant damnation and all. Still you can find but few who believe such teachings today. Why? Because the educated mind cannot view it that way.

The proper definition of the word hell as used by compilers of the scriptures is still in controversy. One great commentator interprets "hell" to mean the grave; a place for the dead, designated by the Hebrews as "sheol" and by the Greeks as "hadēs." Charles Spurgeon, the great Methodist preacher of England, defined the word to mean "a state of great mental anguish and suffering on account of transgression of the laws of God and man."

Historians tell us the city of Jerusalem was invested with thieves and bad characters—the scum of that country. The authorities located a great pit in a valley near by and used the pit as a place to confine criminals. There was heard "great wailing and gnashing of teeth." The punishment was torture of the worst character. The place was known as "Gehenna" commonly referred to as "hell."

The setting forth of a "located hell and eternal punishment" is not popular at the present time. It was used by exhorters in the early days but the people then made no investigation of theology—taking the scriptural books as all of Divine inspiration, and just as they read.

Henry Ward Beecher, one of the grandest modern exponents of Christianity, was pronounced in his opposition to the doctrine of "hell fire" during the latter days of his life because "the doctrine was unreasonable," and many eminent ministers of the gospel followed his action.

It is not many years ago when the greater portion of every sermon delivered in the protestant churches was devoted to future punishment, and the minister who could make the flames crackle the loudest and lay the highest was considered a man of great learning and eloquence.

It is not so now. The doctrine of universal salvation of the human family is now the popular doctrine. Its advocates believe in punishment for all sin. They believe that every individual is held responsible. Those who suffer from transgressions of moral or physical law can testify that their condition is "hell."

The sweeter part of Christianity—the examples and teachings portrayed in the lives of the masses of men and women to the church. A God of justice and of love, not out of fury and reprobation, is the being to which the moral mind of today turns for judgment.

The German Medicine Co., is still in Barrington and their offices are daily thronged by the best citizens of this community. The many wonderful cures of long standing and deep seated diseases; also the painless and scientific 20th century dentistry exhibited by the physicians and dentists with this company is the marvel of the age, and has put the most skeptical and conservative to thinking. All the sick and suffering should take advantage of this opportunity. A scientific examination and advice free. Office hours from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily except on the Sabbath. Offices at Odd Fellows hall.

COLONIAL AFFAIR

Thursday Club Reestablished at the Home of Mae Lane Spunner.

A successful and interesting Washington Party, was given Thursday by Mrs. G. W. Spunner of Lake street from three until eight to the Thursday club ladies and other friends.

The majority of the guests appearing at the ever becoming towns of long ago with whitened hair and dainty caps, and such regalia served as amusing entertainment until the program hour.

Lodged by the club president, Mrs. Wm. Howarth, quotations and short sketches concerning the great Washington business was transacted, followed by three contests in which Mrs. H. K. Brockway received a prize for answering correctly geographical questions of the household. Washington: Mrs. John Colleen captured another for telling the biggest impossibility, commonly called "a lie" and Mrs. Miles Lamer succeeded in obtaining a prize for the best drawing of "George and Martha."

It is needless to state the fun developing qualities of these contests. A dinner was served at six which was suggestive in every detail of the nature of the gathering. Miniature cherry trees were center decorations for each little table; at the base rested a realistic paper mache basket; confectory tray graced each cover and the menu was a delicious study in red. Club members and guests were enthusiastic in their enjoyment and appreciation of the reception.

The non-members present were: Mesdames T. J. Reid, N. M. Isaacs, M. E. Bennett, L. E. Galtner, L. J. Seary, M. T. Lamer, E. M. Hocks, W. G. Ullrich, L. A. Jones, E. K. Brocksy, White, Esterline.

NATIONAL SOLONS

Saturday, Feb. 16, 1905.

The senate decided not to admit as testimony in the Swaine impeachment trial the statement made by Judge Swaine before a senate committee. This decision was reached in secret session and after it had been arrived at the majority sought to add a section to the bill to permit the senate to pay tribute to the memory of the late Senator Quay to which ceremony the greater part of the day was devoted. The request of the house for a conference on the statehood bill was received, and a sharp debate ensued over an effort to have the conference committee appointed immediately. The opponents of joint statehood succeeded in securing a postponement until Monday.

The house passed the pensions appropriation bill, carrying $134,550,700. The minority led by Mr. Underwood made an ineffectual effort to reduce the appropriation of $100,000 for the pension bill. The bill was passed by a vote of 219 to 191. The order was without authority of law. The minority believed that the majority should bring in a service pension bill. The bill was characterized as "unbecoming." Mr. Beaman of Missouri declared against a service pension bill last year. The bill was passed by a vote of 219 to 191. It is in response to a question, Mr. Fiske, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to secure railroad rate legislation during the present session of congress. Mr. Fiske for Higgins finished his preliminary remarks. Mr. Hale presented an order for a vote on the case at 4 p. m. Saturday, and asked that it go over until Monday. Memorial resolutions for the death of Representative Oils were introduced.

The house passed the Philippine tariff bill, which it came from committee and with little discussion. The river and harbor appropriation bill was taken up, but it was soon laid aside, and several measures passed. The most important of which authorizes the secretary of war to return to several states Union and Confederate battle flags.

Submarine Probe.

Washington dispatch: Hints of scandal in connection with the disposition of the appropriation of $250,000 for submarine torpedo boats will be thoroughly threshed out by the house naval committee, which has been supplied by Secretary Morton with all the correspondence on the subject. Some of the members say this correspondence looks bad for several persons in official positions. Informal contracts give the contract to the Holland company, but the company claims that its boat is not getting a fair show; that the act of congress provided for spending $500,000 after direct competition between boats of the various types and not by "comparison" after separate tests.

Postmasters Are Named.

Washington dispatch: The president sent to the senate the following nominations for postmasters: Indiana—Thomas J. Wimmer, Cerro Gordo.

Indiana—Albert E. Mertz, Arcadia. Michigan—Ebeneser A. Litchfield, Elsie; Robert C. Faurel, Laurium; Charles H. Stevens, Perry.

Missouri—Philip A. Thompson, Craig; E. S. Brown, Edina; Alexander H. Keith, Peoria City; Sebastian Netscher, Pacific; John H. Fisher, Sullivan; Clark Brown, Union.

Wisconsin—George B. Parkhill, Thorp.

To Return Flags.

Washington dispatch: The house committee on military affairs has authorized a favorable report on a joint resolution providing that union and Confederate battle flags in the custody of the war department shall be returned to the proper authorities in the states in which the regiments which bore the colors were organized.

Back of the President.

Washington dispatch: Former Governor A. M. Dockery of Missouri, who is in Washington renewing old acquaintances, informed the president that the people of Missouri, regardless of political affiliations, were in sincere accord with him on the railroad rate question.

Lincoln Anniversary.

Washington dispatch: Representative Bartholomew of Missouri, has introduced a concurrent resolution providing for a joint commission of five senators and five representatives to prepare a plan for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, Feb. 12, 1909.

Religion in Schools.

Washington dispatch: Practically every religious body in the District of Columbia was represented in a meeting to consider resolutions looking toward the introduction of moral and religious instruction in the public schools.

University of United States.

Washington dispatch: Senator Frye introduced a bill for the establishment of the University of the United States.

Die in Electric Chair.

Oakland, N. Y., dispatch: Frank Hogler, who murdered John Pinto, a job dealer, and Adolph Koneg, who strangled Mrs. Mary Kaufman from school, have been electrocuted in Sing Sing prison.

Pipe Lines Common Carriers.

Washington dispatch: Representative Heart of New York introduced a bill placing pipe lines for the transportation of oil under the interstate commerce act for regulation as "common carriers."

TERMS OF PEACE ARE OUTLINED

Report That Russia Is Willing to Concede All Japan May Ask, Except Heavy Indemnity.

Intimations of approaching peace in the far East, announced in London some time ago, have received further support from St. Petersburg. The information, which is ascribed to a "source enjoying high patronage in the Russian government," is that the Russian government not only has the question of peace been discussed by the czar, but the conditions on which Russia is prepared to make peace practically have been agreed upon. These are:

1. That Corea be placed under Japanese suzerainty.
2. That Port Arthur and Liaoting peninsula be ceded to Japan.
3. That Vladivostok be declared a neutral port on the open door system.
4. That the Chinese Eastern railway be placed under neutral international administration.

That Manchuria as far north as Harbin be standing as a neutral part of the Chinese empire.

The difficulty lies in settling the question of indemnity, upon which the Russian government is most insistent. The London Standard prints an interview with Viscount Hasegawa, Japanese minister, who said he was not hopeful of immediate peace. He doubted if it was possible for Russia to make peace while the war was on, with the army south of Mukden and the Baltic fleet had not attempted to win mastery of the seas.

The Russian government has assigned for the possible collapse of the war party in Russia is the internal condition of the country, but this possibly is painted blacker than actually is the case.

It is stated from other sources that the emperor of Austria for weeks prior to the outbreak of the war had been negotiating for peace in order to save Russia from inevitable, crushing humiliation.

Comment in London follows the line of the alleged terms which will furnish the basis of real settlement, although they are not likely entirely to satisfy the Japanese, who, it is believed, will require, in addition to indemnity, the temporary occupation of Vladivostok as security of its payment, the restoration of the island of the Kuriles, and the return of Russian warships now in neutral ports. Moreover, it is pointed out that Russia's reported proposal to retain Manchuria would cost her more than she would gain given the United States and Great Britain.

According to the London Daily Telegraph, the Russian government has proposed a Siberian railway is giving way under the tremendous strain to which it recently has been subjected. The difficulty of carrying sufficient provisions for the army is increasing, and the number of trains daily soon must be reduced.

Czar Bent on Ending War.

Intimations of approaching peace in the far East, announced in London some time ago, have received further support from St. Petersburg. The information, which is ascribed to a "source enjoying high patronage in the Russian government," is that the Russian government not only has the question of peace been discussed by the czar, but the conditions on which Russia is prepared to make peace practically have been agreed upon. These are:

1. That Corea be placed under Japanese suzerainty.
2. That Port Arthur and Liaoting peninsula be ceded to Japan.
3. That Vladivostok be declared a neutral port on the open door system.
4. That the Chinese Eastern railway be placed under neutral international administration.

That Manchuria as far north as Harbin be standing as a neutral part of the Chinese empire.

Co-operative Housekeeping, Like Marriage, Sometimes a Failure

Lately there appeared in a newspaper an amusing account of how some girls tried to realize the harmonious life of community housekeeping. They began beautifully—new furniture, pretty china and stuffy little "cozy corners" till you couldn't rest. It was so sweet, so homelike, so restful and all that, they said. Presently one girl determined to make all the others keep their rooms, even to their closets and bureau drawers, in the exact apple pie order in which her own were arranged. Of course there was a grand kick and the feminine irritation followed. Next the girl who managed the co-operative housekeeping purchased one week several of her friends to dinner, thus entailing added expense. Of course her sense of justice should have prompted her to pay the added expense herself. But she apparently had no sense of justice, so she told the co-operative family they must economize the next week, and that girl was mean enough to cut down the meals and skimp all the rest to pay for her hospitality. Next there was a girl whose special brand of theology was not approved by some of her mates, and they undertook to reconstruct her. If there is one thing the powerful feminine mind is strong on it is theology, and the girl refused to adopt a more fashionable creed than the one she held already. More friction. At length some of the women undertook to tell one of their number how she should dress her hair, and that was the last drop in the bucket. "Harmony" broke up in disorder. "Will women ever learn to mind their own business and not meddle with one another?"

If you are obliged to speak disagreeable truths, practice gentle ways of uttering them, that you may give as little hurt as possible.

"There's an old lady here who looks like a perfect picture. She's one of our saleswomen," said a girl in the suit department of a great store. "She must be seventy years old. She has been here years and years, but she never misses a day or an hour from her work. Some of the girls give up and stay away from work, and she's the least little thing gets the matter with them. Mrs. Blank goes right along. She's got more grit and more endurance than a dozen young girls. I've never seen Mrs. Blank. Really, seventy years old though she was, she had the hand somest face on that floor, although it was the suit department, where the good looking saleswomen are generally placed. She had fine features, softly waving gray hair and a smooth, pretty complexion. She had a sweet, gracious manner that was mighty taking. Here, then, was a woman who had passed through all life's storms and sorrows and come out at seventy years of age handsome and peaceful faced, her powers of body and mind perfectly held and she carried her living as a cloak and suit saleswoman. This item is for girls.

Note this remarkable clipping from a newspaper. "During a storm, a woman dressed herself in less than fifteen minutes." The unfeeling editor adds, "This record is likely to stand for at least a century."

Among the cabled dispatches at the beginning of the St. Petersburg outbreak was the following highly significant one: "It appears that the women are becoming a highly important element in the situation. The feminine half of the common people has become rabid for revolution, and government officials say this is the gravest development thus far."

Somebody asks whether public officials and employees are paid to be civil. If they are, then certainly no more than half of them earn their money. It always pays to be civil, whether we are paid for it or not.

Miss Martha S. Bensley, a graduate of Vassar and a teacher, adopted the role of nursery governess and went about investigating the child question in the families of the very wealthy. She found almost everywhere a depreciation on the part of rich American parents to shunt off their family duties and hire others, almost anybody, to take care of their children. Mothers in fashionable society see their children once a day, the fathers often not for days together. Miss Bensley says, "Well, if this is what we are coming to, the next move will be the fashionable infants' hotels that are talked of, where babies and little ones may be cared for night and day at a stated price and a good high one. Thus they will be no bother at all to their parents except perhaps when some of them die and require a funeral."

Here is something women should bear constantly in mind: In so far as we depend on others to that degree we weaken our own powers. If a wife lets her husband manage all her financial affairs, she being in utter ignorance as to them, she will suddenly find some fine day that he has managed them into the ground and there is nothing left for her.

DIVINE TRANSMISSION.

Alfred Hart Tells How He Communicates With the Dead.

A MIRROR REVEALS MESSAGES.

Columbia University Photographer Says That in Letters of Five Scores of Other World Are Written on Its Surface—Asserts He Has Communicated With the Distinguished Dead Mentioned in the Bible.

Alfred A. Hart, seventy years old and for thirty years the official photographer of Columbia college, who lives in New York, asserts that he has discovered the secret of the divine transmission to earth of the Ten Commandments and that he has been able to communicate with the dead, says the New York American.

Although students of psychic research discredit the claims of Mr. Hart, the septuagenarian is persistent in his assertion that he has discovered the means of universal communication and says that ultimately the world will know what becomes of the soul. He declares he has had communication with the distinguished Biblical dead, including Moses, Solomon, the prophets and the disciples, and has written down their messages, which he says, were transmitted to him.

Mr. Hart says this is not an invention, but a discovery of the mechanism of the rock upon which the Ten Commandments appeared to Moses and the old Egyptian magic mirror, known as the Urim and Thummim, used by the priests in the temples of India, Egypt and the Holy Land.

The messages from the unknown were transmitted to him, he says, in letters of fire written upon the magic mirror, and they have been intelligible not only to him, but to his wife and daughter. He asserts that Shakespeare had the Urim and Thummim in his mind when in the scene of the witches in "Macbeth" he wrote, "And yet the eighth appears who bears a glass." Thierien was written the prophecy, "Be bloody bold and resolute; slaughter to your power of man, for none of woman born shall harm Macbeth."

Mr. Hart said in his interview: "For twenty-five years I prayed to comprehend the life of man. Then of a sudden—it was in 1879—I was awakened by three distinct raps. There was a bright light in the room. I read in letters of fire on the wall, 'Seek and ye shall find, knock and the door shall be opened.'"

"The light disappeared, and there came another, above which was written, 'The Law of heaven,' and under it, 'The Law of earth.' Again there was a change, and I read, 'If you choose the law of earth you will be popular and wealthy; if you choose the law of heaven you will gain spiritual knowledge, but all your friends will turn against you.'"

"Believing there was some sensitive plate, the same as we had supplied to the ancients, that would register thought through electrical vibration, I set to work. Within a year I had discovered the secret in the shape of a sensitive black backed mirror. I held it in my two palms, appealed for a communication from heaven, and as I was being weighted down seemingly by a tremendous electric vibration, there appeared in the mirror before me this message:

"Be true for knowledge; it shall be given you."

"This message was from the apostle Mark. I have since received hundreds of messages, all of which I have preserved in writing. These include a 6,000 line poem, which came to me at intervals."

Mr. Hart produced a book in which he had written down the poetry which he said had been transmitted to him from a divine source.

Dr. Isaac K. Funk, the noted scholar of psychic research, said: "Doubtless Hart is sincere in his belief that he has communicated with the unknown, but such phenomena cannot be credited. The black mirror of olden days is merely an instrument of mythology. No scientific importance can be attached to Hart's claims."

The Conventional Idea.

Recently a very black negro appeared in the city's streets in New York city. He conveyed a negro woman under his wing. "I'm the Rev. Dr. Cooper, sah, of North Carolina, sah, and she's my wife, I want a divorce from her because she won't obey what I tell her. She's a good girl, but she won't obey, and I want the mayor to give me a divorce." The Rev. Dr. Cooper had the usual ideas of masculine supremacy even though he didn't know enough to know the mayor could not grant divorces.

Among the Women

Female Extremists—The Shade Shows the Character—The Art of Contrast

Why does lovely woman rush to extremes? If she goes in for society, she has no time for anything else. If she loves animals, behold, she provides herself with a menagerie. If she goes in for woman's rights, she is more manly than the men themselves. If she seeks for a career, people have to bear about nothing except that career morning, noon and night.

The other evening at a dinner a very charming woman came in wearing a black gown covered with what appeared to be royal decorations. Closer observation showed that they were whilst trophies. There were ten of them, testifying to the lady's ability as a player and her devotion to the game. "Yes, indeed," she gurgled on being questioned, "I play it in the morning before breakfast, all the forenoon before lunch and most of the afternoon till five time to dress for dinner, and then I try to find congenial people for a nice evening game. I have a little arrangement of silk in which I keep my cards, and on the table there are sure to be enough people who play, so that I can make up a set. I recently had a most delightful journey and made several new friends in this manner, for we played nearly all the way from New York to Chicago." This indefatigable hostess, by the way, is sixty-five years old!

A maiden lady from out of town who sat opposite felt somewhat left out of the conversation, and so she started out to tell what a fend she was at fox hunting. "When you speak of playing all day, my dear," she remarked, with a little air of superiority, "I can't help remembering how we used to get up at 3 in the morning to go hunting and keep it up until long after dark. We would never think of COVERED WITH DECORATIONS, going visiting without taking along each of us a pair of horses and a pair of dogs. In fact, we lived in our riding habits."

Colors and Character.

Have you ever noticed that the colors a woman wears are a pretty fair index to her disposition? The lady of a colorless temperament delights in grays, dull blues and muddy shades of tan—in a word, those ones guaranteed to "go with everything" like the wearer. The imperious woman of warm imagination and vivid impulses dotes on crimson and reddish tones of every sort. The social woman mixes two or three odd shades in her costume in a way that you find bewitching. The very religiously inclined woman wears black and wears it suitably.

Innocence has come to be associated with white and pale blue, and worthiness with pink and yellow, therefore the feminine actress who wishes to create either the one or the other impression robes herself accordingly.

The more than dye that comes out of the dye pot!

Effective Feminine Diplomacy.

Nature often places a lovely flower in ugly surroundings in order to get off its beauty, and woman has learned her little lesson from nature. Observe the beauty making friend of the ugliest girl she knows and the clever woman accentuating inferiority by comparison with her stupid sisters.

Here's a case in point. In a prominent woman's club recently the secretary, a very brilliant woman, was forced to resign on account of outside duties that could not be neglected. She was asked by the president to name some one who would be as able a successor to her. Without a moment's hesitation she spoke warmly in favor of one of the least capable members of the club, a woman unable to write a single clever or even suitable line.

Why did she do it? Watch the result. Every day she hears how her brilliancy is missed and that the club management will go to pieces if she does not return.

SCIENCE AND TUBERCULOSIS

Methods of Fighting This Most Insidious of All Diseases.
Best Plan is to Keep Body in Proper Condition.

The "Cold Air Cure."
Cold air purifies the blood, energizes the heart, puts new vim into the muscles, helps the stomach, wakes up the liver, lifts the whole being to a higher plane of life.

The most successful consumption resort in the world is Davos, a winter resort in the Swiss Alps, near the Engadine, where the snow is six feet deep and the temperature close to zero all winter. Every winter hundreds of tubercular patients from all parts of the world resort to Davos to take the "cold air cure."

Cold air cures (there is no doubt about it), when accompanied by wise and skillful management, and careful regulation of diet. In the summer season this great healing force is available only in a small measure by means of cold baths, ice rubs, and fans; but in the winter season, the keen frosty air is everywhere, ready to be put to work as the great uplifting power it is when rightly applied.

The winter season alone provides continuous tonic conditions. The dense air, containing from one-eighth to one-fourth more oxygen than mid-summer, stimulates all the vital processes to a higher degree of activity. Here is a healing force which is in operation day and night, and steadily lifts the patient up to a higher level until the ebbing tide of life turns backward, and renovating forces of the body resume their activities with all the old-time vigor.

The Price of Indoor Life.

Within the past twenty years there has been a steady development of confidence in the outdoor method of treating pulmonary tuberculosis. The wonderful success that has attended the outdoor treatment in all countries, irrespective of climate, and the climatic advantages, has demonstrated the immense value of the outdoor life as a curative means. This is not surprising, since man is naturally an outdoor animal. The indoor life which most civilized human beings live is wholly artificial. We pay an enormous price for the luxury of living in houses. Not only pulmonary tuberculosis, but a large number of other chronic maladies are the natural outgrowth of the lowered vital resistance which results from the conditions imposed by modern civilized life.

We have become too much civilized. A mild resort to savagery is the one thing needful at the present time. In cold weather we can not live out of doors, but we can take care to supply our living rooms, and especially our bedrooms, with an abundant supply of pure cold air. This is a very excellent remedy for morning headaches, which usually mean air-polluting.

Appetite Juice.

The taking of food into the mouth is a signal to all the digestive organs to prepare for work. Even the sight and odor of food may excite an outflow of saliva, and at the same time the gastric juice pours into the stomach.

Pawlow, of St. Petersburg, in experiments upon a dog, observed that when food was introduced into the animal's stomach through an opening made for the purpose it was not acted upon; the digestive juices were not poured out, and the stomach apparently remained inert for nearly half an hour. On the other hand, when the animal was allowed to see and smell the food, the saliva and the gastric juice poured forth abundantly, even though the animal did not actually taste a morsel. It is important that the food should be retained in the mouth for a sufficient length of time to make the proper impression upon the nerves of taste, so that the entire digestive apparatus is thoroughly prepared to carry the food substances through the successive steps of the digestive process.

The thorough chewing of the food produces an abundance of what Pawlow calls "Appetite Juice," which is the best and most important juice formed by the stomach. Hence food must be well relished, and eaten with careful attention to very thorough mastication.

Vital Activity in Cold Weather.

The vital fires burn brighter in cold weather. The whole tide of life moves with greater activity. The process of digestion is quickened because the process of oxidation is increased. The liver requires oxygen for making bile and performing all its varied functions, and the oxygen-breathing in cold air, improves the function of the liver, so that it can do one-seventh more work than before.

The muscles, also, depend for their activity upon oxygen. In an excess of carbonic acid gas the muscles are asphyxiated, and so one feels depressed in warm weather. A person does not get out of breath so easily in cold air as in warm. The woodchopper can swing his axe with more energy on a cold day. Cold air aids in the stimulation of the poisonous matters which are all the time forming within the body.

When oxygen is not plentiful enough to make the vital fires burn sufficiently to consume the fuel and waste of the body, then much of the waste material is left behind in the form of impurities, and the result is disease. These impurities, or poisons, which may be called cinders of the body.

Burning Up the Body Cinders.
All food must be burned within the body to be of any value. If too much food is shoveled in, the body furnace is clogged. If too little draft is supplied the fuel is not entirely consumed. This leaves "cinders" which are the cause of many chronic diseases, and of premature old age.

The fuel supply may be regulated in the dining room. The draft is dependent on the kind and amount of air breathed. Cold, crisp, fresh air furnishes perfect draft. The blood takes from this kind of air, when it is breathed in, just the element needed to burn the fuel.

Six breaths of out-door air contain as much of this element—oxygen—as seven breaths of overheated, indoor air. As man breathes about eighteen times per minute this means a loss of four thousand breaths a day by living in a hot, close indoor atmosphere. The amount taken in depends on the habits of life. A deeper breath can be earned. A few moments vigorous outdoor exercise will do it. The nostrils dilate, the chest heaves, the heart quickens, the lungs expand, and the fresh air is pumped into the body at a rapid rate. The draft is open. The cinders are burning up. The whole system is being cleaned of rubbish. Don't be afraid of cold air. There's life and health out of doors.

Alcohol vs. Strength.

The laborer, the traveler, and the soldier use alcohol under the delusion that it produces strength. When fatigued, the laborer takes a glass of grog, and feels better. He imagines himself stronger. His increased strength, however, is wholly a matter of imagination. The use of alcohol makes a man feel stronger—makes him believe that he can do more work, endure more fatigue and hardship, and withstand a greater degree of cold than he could without it. The strength which actually is made, it soon becomes apparent that the ability is lacking. Numerous experiments have shown that alcohol decreases muscular strength. Says Dr. Brunton, "The smallest quantity takes somewhat from the strength of the muscles." Says Dr. Edmunds, of London, "A stimulant is that which gets strength out of men."

Some years ago a series of experiments were made for the purpose of determining the influence of alcohol upon the muscular strength. The combined strength of all the different groups of muscles in the body was found, in the case of a healthy young man, to be 481 pounds. The young man was then given two ounces of brandy, and the test was repeated. He felt confident that his strength was increased. In fact, it was found to be only 335 pounds, a loss of more than one-third. A notable diminution in strength was still present ten hours after the administration of the brandy.

Real Healing Agents.

There are many fictitious remedies. Some are a good deal better when they are really getting better, when the valuable measures which can be employed in dealing with the sick may be said to be of little, exercise and diet. The chronic invalid can be made well only by being reconstructed. The sick man must be transformed into a healthy man by a process of gradual upbuilding. The muscular system is in tearing down his constitution and substituting an inferior grade of material. Now this process must be reversed, and little by little, the old tissues must be torn down and new tissues built in their place.

Warm baths help throw off stored up poisons, and cold baths hasten the destruction of waste tissues. Increase the activity of the heart and of all the organs, encourage the formation of the digestive fluids, and increase the tone of the entire system.

By means of exercise the movement of the blood is quickened and the old diseased tissues are broken down and carried out of the system. Exercise diminishes weight. By exercise a normal appetite is earned and deep breathing encouraged.

Pure simple food is the proper material with which to construct a new and healthy body. Man is built of what he eats. The house is no better than the material. Thus, take, exercise, and a natural diet constitute a curative trio, each helping the other.

WHOLESALE RECIPES.

Tomato Sauce—One quart strained tomatoes, one tablespoonful salt butter, one grated onion. Mix well and boil five minutes. Drain off the juice, and add starch to the consistency of thick cream. Salt to taste.

Creole of Peanut Soup—One cupful cream of peanut oil, one teaspoonful celery salt; one small onion cut fine, one pint cooked tomatoes. Cook slowly and long. When done rub through a colander and add three pinches of red pepper, or a little more, and salt. Let come to a boil and serve at once.

Macaroni with Koriander—Boil until tender one and one-half cups of macaroni, break it up, turn into a pudding dish and brown in a hot oven.

Date Dainties—Wash and stem over about ten minutes some choice dates. Split one side, remove the seeds, and tuck in its place one-fourth of a walnut meat; press together and roll in powdered sugar.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, but Doan's Cured Him.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicine to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived."

The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

Why the Hermit Kingdom.

Oppressed by her neighbors for centuries and overrun with war; her people decimated; her cities, her temples and her libraries sacked and destroyed; her nobles and her artisans driven off to China and her artisans to Japan; the most ambitious and unscrupulous of her subjects constantly stirred to intrigue and conspiracy by foreign powers. It is small wonder, says W. F. Sands in the Century, that Korea has endeavored to shut herself off from the world, and, by becoming the "Hermit Kingdom," has effectually barred the way to all progress.

BALT RHEUM ON HANDS.

Suffered Agony and Had to Wear Bandages All the Time—Another Cure by Cuticura.

Another cure by Cuticura is told of by Mrs. Caroline Cable, of Waupaca, Wis., in the following grateful letter: "My husband suffered agonies with balt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried everything we could get, but nothing helped him until he used Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills cured him entirely, and his hands have been as smooth as possible ever since. I do hope this letter will be a means of helping some other sufferer."

Flash of Humor on Senate.

What president over the grave deliberations of the United States senate Mr. Frye of Maine occasionally allows himself to indulge in a flash of humor. One day last week an important amendment was offered to a measure under consideration. On the question being put a single "Yea" came from the Republican side, followed by a lone "Nay" from the opposition. "The yea has it," said Senator Frye gravely.

Millions in Oats.

Salzer's New National Oats yielded in Mich., 200 bu., in Mo., 250 bu., in N. D., 300 bu., in 30 other states from 125 to 200 bushels, more per acre. Now this if generally grown in 1910, will add millions of bushels to the world and millions of dollars to the farmer's purse!

Homebuilt Yellow Dent Corn grows like a weed and yields from 157 to 200 bushels and more per acre. It's the best yielder on earth!

Salzer's New Headless Barley, Macaroni Wheat, Pea Oat, Billion Dollar Grass and Earliest Cane are money makers for you. Mr. Farmer.

"The Secret Woman," by Eden Philpotts, is a well constructed narrative. It has a plot, a good one, but there is nothing in it that is morbid or artificial. The note in it is a note of reality and truth, of veritable men and women moved by genuine passion. Mr. Philpotts has never written a better book." (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

Perseverance of Former Slave.

Mrs. Jane Evans, 72 years old and once a slave, has just graduated with honors from the elementary grade of a night school in New Haven, Conn. She began attending school last fall wishing to learn to read the Bible and newspapers. Mrs. Evans was liberated by Lincoln's emancipation proclamation.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the BAK cake he sells you. How can he know, when it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

Several from here attended the mass parade given by the M. W. A. at Palatine last Friday night.

"The statistics of suicide for the year just closed show that this crime is alarmingly on the increase in the United States. There were 5,319 cases in 1899, 6,735 in 1900, 7,245 in 1901, 8,291 in 1902, 8,597 in 1903 and 9,240 in 1904. The cause of the increase appears to be little speculated on but that it is in many cases connected with insanity is sufficiently obvious from the fact that last year fifty-five persons committed suicide by throwing themselves in front of locomotives and fourteen by front of automobiles.

There seems to be no end to the general intelligence which is required for the proper discharge of the duties of justice of the peace. In Chicago justices have been called on frequently to give judgment on the fit of a woman's dress and the mental state of dogs, and now in Sioux City, Iowa, one of them has just decided whether a Jersey cow has been "fresh" three months or a year. In this last case the justice took the cow into a shed and milked her himself and gave judgment that she had been "fresh" only three months. What was done with the milk is not stated, but it is to be presumed that it found its way to the table of the justice.

Mrs. Harry A. Harris, sister of the late J. F. Hollister Sr., died at her home, 128 Walnut street, Chicago, Monday, of pneumonia aged 70 years. The funeral service was held at the residence Wednesday morning. Her remains were brought to Barrington Wednesday noon for burial in the White cemetery north of this village.

In Honor of Washington.

Our tasty and homelike G. A. R. hall was filled with people on the night of Washington's birthday to listen to eulogies spoken of the great man and to be amused by the program, short and in the main, humorous.

The singing of ever popular recitations of the village and the readings and talks of favorite speakers were duly appreciated. The entertainment was honored by the presence of a world renowned and her legions of charming daughters who were put through their paces in a manner to enhance their value in the matrimonial market. Girls out of ordinary type were admired and valued. An unexpected pleasure was granted the audience in seeing a confirmed bachelor of this village at last feel the twinge of Cupid's dart and show an awakening interest in a piece of femininity. This occurred in a tableau but the services of two presiding gentlemen were at once offered the gentlemen to make the part a reality. Invitations are not yet out, however.

The worthy cause of the future Soldiers' Monument is to benefit by the proceeds and it is encouraging to see the good attendance.

Dr. Frank S. Filkins, a former well-known resident of Barrington, died at the home of his daughter, at Arlington Heights, Monday, February 20, 1905, aged 82 years, the cause of death being locomotor ataxia.

Decedent resided at Woodstock for a number of years, and a year ago retired from active practice on account of declining health, taking up his residence with his daughter, Mrs. Nellie, Castle of Arlington Heights. The widow and this daughter survive him. Funeral services were held at Arlington Heights Thursday morning and the remains brought here for burial in Evergreen cemetery.

Services were according to the Masonic ritual, conducted by representatives of Palatine Lodge No. 349, Sharon (Wis.) Lodge, No. 116, and Lounsbury Lodge of this village.

DOCTORS

With the German Medicine Company Have Told The Truth

In regard to the parasites removed from my family. The three tapeworms which are exhibited on the stage by the German Medicine Co. have all been removed from my family, one being removed from myself, one from my wife, and one from my ten-year-old son, without any ill effects from the medicine, the work being done within three hours time in each case.

We have tried to get rid of those parasites by other means but all failed to do what the doctors with the German Medicine Co. have accomplished.

Yours truly,

THE POOR MAN

I happened into the office of a business man in this village the other day and learned how one "self-made man" regards the so-called poor man. The business man had just received a telephone order for supplies, and turning to his employee asked:

"Has Blank paid that bill he owes here?"

"No replied the employee, "but I think he will. He's alright but hard up. Costs a good deal to keep a family going this winter."

"That may be so," said the business man, "but don't let him have any more here unless he pays cash. It's a good rule to think a person is going to do you until he pays what he owes. If you don't you'll lose money by thinking he was 'good.' I've seen lots of poor men who were 'good.' They would run a bill here and then go to another place and pay cash. I was 'poor' once myself."

I remarked that Blank was in very poor circumstances and really what one would call poor—a victim of hard luck.

"But he has no business to be hard up," remarked the business man. A man who is not well-to-do has no one to blame but himself. While I started in business I went to the head of a business firm and told him I wanted to get goods on time; that I was poor but honest. He said, 'my friend, hell is so full of men in your predicament that their feet are hanging out of the windows.' I came to the conclusion that a poor man did not have influence enough in this world to accomplish much. The only thing the poor man can get in this world are hard knocks and religion—the latter don't cost much until after he gets it."

I ventured the suggestion that Mr. Blank had a family; that perhaps he could not secure employment.

"That is no excuse. There's work for everybody who goes looking for it," said the business man. "Sympathy for the poor man is just encouraging him to remain in his present condition, and the good book says that encourage slothfulness of the fabled Lord. I'm running no chances of getting turned down when I'm challenged by St. Peter."

Poverty is no disgrace but, as in this particular case, might be inconvenient. There is certainly a strong feeling of sympathy in the hearts of some men for those who have failed to "get ahead in the world," and if by chance those "well-to-do" should reach the "Beautiful Land Over There" they will be mighty lonesome. The poor man will be there and in the majority. Holy writ has so promised.

HACKNEY.

Auction.

Herman Arndt will offer for sale at public auction on the Lou Householder farm 1 mile north of Barrington, Tuesday February 28th, at 10 o'clock, 60 head of live stock—20 cows, 15 horses, 3 mules, 10 brood sows and a large lot of farm machinery. A lunch will be served at noon.

QUENTIN CORNERS

Walter Lelps of Wheeling was a visitor here Monday.

The past few days have given us a touch of spring weather.

Miss Tillie Quentlin is visiting with Palatine friends this week.

William Klineke has left here and will enter the employment of H. Bloom at Gilmer.

There is talk of another rural free delivery route to be laid through here. It starts from Palatine office.

H. C. Meyer has gone to Oklahoma and will make an inspection of the country. If satisfied with conditions he will locate there.

Wm. Bierman, collector of the town of Elia is calling on the people of this section. Taxes are getting higher each year but none of us propose moving to Russia on that account.

Annual Report Of The Moody Bible Institute For 1904

The report for 1904 issued by The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago shows the institution to be in a more flourishing condition than ever before, since it was founded by D. L. Moody in 1886.

For the second year in succession the institution entered upon the new year without a shortage in its regular course. The total budget in all departments was $12,583.23. The permanent plant including a limited endowment, represents a sum of $255,000.

The total number of students enrolled in all departments last year was 1457. Of these 495 were enrolled in the regular department, 365 in the evening department, 417 in the correspondence department, and 238 in the extension music classes. These figures do not include the attendants at the weekly Bible classes conducted by The Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and other places—amounting to a weekly average of thousands.

"Never so young from the brainy girl" since the young man "she felt so happy at having correlated a few books that she has to let every one in on the joke."

"The other evening I called on a very nice girl with very nice parents. Father and mother were peacefully playing cards in the library, and at father's right hand stood a box of fine cigars, into which I already saw in imagination my hand descending. But, oh, that relentless girl! She dragged me off into the drawing room, where I could not smoke, and entertained me for three mortal hours with the physiology of the brain, which, it appears, she was interested in at that particular stage of the game. I believe she was trying for a degree or something, but she hadn't have practiced on me."

"I remember once at a dinner during the fair course that a certain clever young person discoursed about the respective organisms of angeworms and lobsters in a way which in no way increased my appetite for the lobster on my plate, although I determined to admire her learning in future—at a distance."

"Ah, this American girl!" sighed the Frenchman. "She is so stock-bling how you call it—blue? I call on a young lady, and she talk to me English all ze time. Zat is good, for in zat way I learn. But she talk of vat? I ask you of vat? Of love of ze sentiment of ze heart, of poetry, of grace, of nobility? No, no! She is possessed, zat one. She talk ze entire evening on ze wild and ze tame animals of North America. Mon Dieu, think of zat! She haf learn it in school, she repeat it to me, and zat-sat she call conversation!"
