Five Dutch warships, equipped with wireless telegraphy, are at the Annam Islands.

Several French cruisers are waiting off the coast of Cebu, China.

Five British cruisers from Hong Kong, equipped with wireless telegraphy, are cruising the China sea, watching for the clash of the hostile fleets.

Several United States cruisers are patrolling the waters west of the island of Palawan.

With so many cruisers patrolling the whole of the China sea, it is believed that a naval battle will be promptly reported at one of the numerous cable stations in the Philippines or on the French coast.

A dispatch to Louisville from Singapore practically confirms the first information regarding the composition of the Russian squadron which passed there April 8. Lloyd's agent says it has composed of seven battleships, two armored cruisers, five unarmored cruisers, three converted cruisers, seven torpedo boat destroyers, seventeen steamers and hospital ships, and a tug.

Russians Doubt Story. St. Petersburg, April 17.—The admiralty has no information in regard to the alleged naval battle in progress off the Annam Islands, as reported to a newspaper of Amsterdam from Batavia, and does not credit the possibility of a general naval battle yet. The official concede, however, that the Japanese may have attempted a torpedo boat attack on a convoy during the night. It is pointed out that there is no cable connecting the Annam Islands and Batavia, and that the Japanese are able to communicate with Batavia by wireless telegraphy.

Togo's Ships Are Rearmed. Tokyo, April 12.—All heavy armament of the Japanese battleships was recently renewed. The estimated strength of the respective fleets is as follows:

Russian—Seven battleships, with a total of 87,344 tons; two armored cruisers, 16,724 tons; principal guns consist of ten 12-inch, one 10-inch, four 10-inch, and eight eight-inch.

Japanese—Five battleships, 60,600 tons; eight armored cruisers, 72,684 tons; their principal guns consist of two 12-inch, one 10-inch, and thirty eight-inch.

It is reported here that the Russians at Vladivostok are conducting experiments with six submarine vessels and that these boats are all of foreign manufacture and include French, British, and American types.

DOUBTS RUMOR OF NAVAL FIGHT

Reports of Great Sea Battle Do Not Meet With Credence in the Capital.

STORY STARTED BY RUSSIANS

Officers of Czar's Navy Arriving at Batavia Tell Tale That Involves the Loss of Four Ships by the Japanese—Confirmation Is Lacking.

London, April 12.—The rumor of a battle between the Russian and Japanese fleets near the Annam Islands Wednesday is not credited at St. Petersburg or at Singapore.

The rumor was contained in a dispatch to the Amsterdam newspaper Hanndelblad, in a dispatch from Batavia, island of Java, which said that a battle was in progress near the Annam Islands, east of the Malay peninsula. The dispatch added that five Dutch warships were near the scene.

The rumor, it is thought, was started by two Russian officers on board a German yacht, which arrived at Batavia, accompanied by four collers. Their version was that the Japanese had lost four ships.

Passes Russian Fleet.

Against the rumor is the fact that the British cruiser Sutlej, which arrived at Singapore Wednesday, reported that it had passed the entire Russian fleet at daybreak Tuesday morning 550 miles northeast of Singapore.

A cablegram from Victoria, island of Labuan, 410 miles northeast of Borneo, says it is reported there that a large fleet has been sighted south of the island of Borneo.

This fleet, perhaps, may be one of Togo's squadrons, which has been lurking in the Java sea, guarding the numerous straits. If so, doubtless it has been informed of the passage of the Russian fleet and is in pursuit.

On Watch for Battle.

The naval forces of the other powers are well disposed to get the earliest news of a battle. The American cruiser Raleigh, in patrolling off the island of Labuan, northwest of Borneo, and will be joined by British cruisers.

Five Dutch warships, equipped with wireless telegraphy, are at the Annam Islands.

Several French cruisers are waiting off the coast of Cebu, China.

GREAT FACTOR IN RAIL RATES

Panama Road Contracts Give Monopoly to Steamship Companies.

COMPETITION IS WIPED OUT

Agreements With Ocean Lines Affect Freight Charges on Transcontinental Railroads in United States, According to Mr. Bristow's Report.

Washington dispatch.—The executive committee of the government of the United States, which is making the transcontinental railroad rates for the Pacific coast, has been waiting for the government to grant authority to the interstate commerce commission to do so.

James I. Bristow, formerly fourth assistant postmaster general, who has been inquiring into the subject of freight rates on the Panama railway, has made a preliminary report to Secretary Taft which brings the matter of rate making directly before the government.

Mr. Bristow, who was sent South two months ago, found that there is such an intimate relation between the rates made by the Panama Railroad company and the steamship lines which it owns or with which it has contract relations, that changes in its rates have such an effect upon the rates of the transcontinental railroads that they may be said to be a controlling factor in matters relating to rates.

The latter is a British corporation. This shipping trust, Mr. Bristow found, maintains identical rates to all competitive points, and they are uniformly high.

At present the railroad company practically excludes all freight from the privileges of railroad transit across the isthmus not carried by the Pacific Mail and its allies on the Pacific coast, and the Atlantic Mail, owned by the railroad company.

Have Exclusive Rates.

Mr. Bristow found that if the railroad is opened to the free use of all steamships that may touch at Panama or Colon rates on all traffic will probably be materially affected. Rates on the railroad have been cut since the government obtained control, but the rate has not affected rates in the United States.

For the reason that the exclusive arrangements with the steamship companies are still in existence.

These facts put the question of rates squarely before the executive committee of the government.

Noting that the Pacific Mail that its contract will not be renewed a few months hence.

Seeks to Secure Monopoly.

The company has already proposed a new arrangement that is new in appearance, but which if entered into will continue the monopoly. Its proposition is that the Panama Railroad company limit its charges on the basis of the rates of American registered vessels.

As it is the only American line in that grade, the contract would not change.

CHANGE IN RIVER ENGINEERS

Rock Island, Ill., dispatch.—Col. James L. Lusk received an order from the war department relieving him from his post as head of the Mississippi river engineers and naming him as his successor, Col. C. S. Riche, engineer in charge of the Hennepin canal, with headquarters in Chicago. Mr. Lusk's health forces Col. Lusk's retirement.

BLAME BOWEN FOR TROUBLE

American Minister to Venezuela Is Charged With Creating Ill-Feeling.

HOLDS DIFFICULT POSITION

Castro Positively Refuses to Entertain Proposals for Arbitration of Differences With the United States, Using Emphatic Language.

Washington special.—Official notes exchanged by Minister Bowen and President Castro, which were received Tuesday at the state department, indicate that the former was blunt, even curt, in his ultimatum demanding the arbitration of various disputes pending between the United States and Venezuela, and that the latter answered in the same vein.

The correspondence shows Mr. Bowen's position in Caracas is extremely embarrassing. Nevertheless, he will not back withdraw at once, though when the president returns to Washington he is expected he will be transferred to another post.

In his cable report, President Castro's reply Mr. Bowen characterized as the best of the communication as impertinent. What Castro did say was that "the United States must respect the dignity of the Venezuelan courts," and he said it as emphatically as the Spanish language could make it.

Stand by Bowen.

President Roosevelt left Washington with a good idea of Castro's attitude, but the text of Bowen's note was not known. Bowen's position could not be passed upon by action. The state department officials excuse Minister Bowen on the ground that his position has been a difficult one, as a result of the hostile policy of Castro towards him. At the same time, it is believed the suggestion of Mr. Paul that the relations of the two countries would be improved if another minister was appointed, may have some basis of fact.

It is not intended by the president to disgrace or humiliate Minister Bowen, and he certainly will get a post as good, if not better, than that which he has at present, and the president will be informed that the United States has no intention of retracting a single statement Minister Bowen has made.

A Venezuelan diplomat has received a letter from an official at Caracas, in which the statement is made that President Castro's answer was dignified and not impertinent or impudent. Mr. Bowen's characterization of the president's statement as impertinent, therefore, has added another objection so far as Venezuela is concerned to his continuance as American minister at Caracas.

A letter from Caracas also states that Mr. Bowen is blamed for all the trouble that has passed and still exists. Reports made by Mr. Bowen concerning the internal situation are declared to have been colored with the deliberate intention of creating a false impression in this country.

DISCOVERS A NEW BLOOD TEST
Physician Tells How to Detect Whether Stains Are Human.

Bridgetown, Conn., dispatch.—Dr. Justin B. Lisle of New York city explained to the members of the Fairfield County Medical society the facts of a newly discovered test for determining whether or not blood stains are human or animal stains. The stains, he said, are first washed with a saline solution, and the mixture is set aside. A few drops of serum obtained by the admixture of human blood with that of some lower animal are added, and the mixture is put in a warm place for twenty-four hours. If the solution after that period has elapsed assumes a cloudy appearance or there is precipitation in the test tube, the stains are human and contain a blood serum which will react only with the serum from the same species.

FALLING TROWEL INJURES MAN
J. P. Prindle of Batavia Is Injured While Visiting in Chicago.

Aurora, Ill., special.—J. P. Prindle, general superintendent of the Newton Morgan company at Batavia, while visiting in Chicago, was struck on the head by a trowel which fell from the eighth floor of a new building which Mr. Prindle was passing at the time. The trowel, a heavy one, and Mr. Prindle narrowly escaped death.

Child Has Rough Experience.

Laramie, Wyo., dispatch.—The pilot of a locomotive struck a little girl and threw her into the air, where she turned a complete somersault, and again fell on the track. The engineer reversed and the locomotive stopped with the pilot over the child's body.

STRIKERS SLAY TWO MINERS
Two Men Killed and Many Hurt in Riot at Hibbing, Minn.

Duluth, Minn., dispatch.—Two miners, Elias Haskinson and John Eckdahl, were killed and several seriously injured by a gang of strikers in a riot which occurred at the Hull Rust mine at Hibbing, Minn. The men were employed by the Oliver Mining Company. Sheriff Latta, accompanied by two scores of armed men, called on a special train over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern for Hibbing to quell the riot, which, according to a report, has broken out among the miners in a number of other mines. The authorities there wired that the presence of a strong guard was absolutely necessary in order to prevent further violence.

FELONS ARE TO RECLAIM LAND
Indiana Convicts May Be Used to Reclaim Farm.

LaPorte, Ind., dispatch.—As the result of a conference held with Governor Hanft at Indianapolis steps will probably be taken to establish a penal farm in LaPorte or Stark counties. The proposition is to have the state erect buildings and to utilize the labor of several hundred convicts in the reclamation of thousands of acres of land in what is known as the Kanawake country.

Law's Mercy to Convicts.

The prison guards, massive and sad, opened, and there stepped forth furiously a pale man.

He passed his hand across his mouth in a nervous way. He looked up and down the street. Then, with a hurried gait, he set off in the direction of the city.

"A discharged convict," said the first cabman.

"That's right. A discharged convict," said the second. "It is Jake Tolman. He served ten years for robbing his uncle."

"How is it he has such a short?" said the first cabman. "I thought you could tell all released convicts by their shaved heads. But this fellow's hair is longer than yours for mine."

Every released convict has long hair, "was the reply. "The books and novels tell you different, but that is owing to ignorance. The law, as a matter of fact, provides that for three months before his release the hair of every convict shall be allowed to grow. That is a kindly law. It permits the convict to leave prison without any prison marks on him to tell the world where he came from."

In the Spring.
Lowmies, Mo., April 10th.—Mrs. H. C. Hartly of this place, says: "For years I was in very bad health. Every spring I would get so low that I was unable to do my own work. I seemed to be worse in the spring than any other time of the year. I was very weak and miserable and had much pain in my back and head. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised last spring and began treatment of them and have certainly done more good than anything I have ever used."

"I was all right last spring and felt better than I have for over ten years. I am fifty years of age and am stronger today than I have been for many years and I give Dodd's Kidney Pills credit for the wonderful improvement."

The statement of Mrs. Hartly is only one of a great many where Dodd's Kidney Pills have proven themselves to be the very best spring medicine. They are unsurpassed as a tonic and are the only medicine used in thousands of families.

Nicholas Was Swindled.
When the autocrat of all the Russians sent Queen Draga of Serbia an emerald and diamond bracelet as a token of good will he reported that his inspectors had examined the bracelet and found it to be a very large sum for this ornament, yet when it sold in London the price given did not reach £2,000. Nicholas II. was probably charged a much higher amount and may have considered his present worth a small fortune.

CHAPTER XVIII.

When Lafitte and Greloire were ushered into Napoleon's cabinet, and the former's eyes fell upon him he had for so many years longed to see, his first sensation was that of pain. The slender form was gone—lost in the personality of the stout, middle-aged man, who, lounging in a velvet-cushioned chair, looked at Lafitte carelessly—coldly, as at an entire stranger.

His appearance and attitude bore out Greloire's remark—that it was said the emperor was "strangely indifferent to everything." Every line of the little face and relaxed form indicated this.

As the ex-soldier approached and bowed low, a faint smile lightened Napoleon's repellant expression, and he said, graciously: "Greloire, I am pleased to see you, and to know that you have not forgotten one who thought highly of you in more prosperous days. Who is this you bring with you?"

"Sir, Captain Jean Lafitte, of Louisiana," answered Greloire, after a moment's hesitancy, and Lafitte, coming forward, bowed respectfully. "Jean Lafitte," Napoleon repeated slowly, looking not at the former, but at Greloire. "I have heard the name before, but not to the emperor's credit. I ask you, Greloire, and his voice took a yet colder note—"you, who are his sponsor, why Captain Jean Lafitte, of Louisiana, dare present himself before me?"

"I, Jean Lafitte, will answer your question, Sir," said Lafitte, "and I say to the man whom my boyish heart adored, and whom my man's heart loves, that I date present myself to him because I have ships, gold, men, at my command, and all these, with my own life, are his, if he can find use for them."

There was a short silence, and one

"Tut, tut, tut," replied Napoleon, with all his old air of affection, and tapping the shoulder upon which one of his hands still rested, "when you have reached my years you will know better than to waste time and thoughts in useless regrets. Let the past go, Jean, my lad, and look only into the future."

The emperor resumed his seat, and resting his hands upon the arms of the chair, stared straight before him, while Lafitte stood looking down at the seated form.

"And may I not do something for you?" urged Lafitte, making a final appeal.

"No—no. Go, you and Greloire; you must leave me, for I feel it unwise that I remain another moment. You can do nothing—nothing for me. But I am glad to have seen you—both of you; and I thank you, Jean, my valiant ghost from the past, for your offer and your love."

"If ever time should come, Sir, when I can serve you, may I have the honor and happiness of receiving your commands?" was asked longingly.

"And you would come to me?"

"Come to you?" said Lafitte, in a tone so emphatic that the emperor made a gesture of warning. "You, through all the ships England might send to intercept me."

"If this is so, Jean, then perhaps you may some day hear from me. Meanwhile your adopted country (and I hope I may some time see it) is at war with England, my most implacable enemy, and the conflict may afford you an opportunity for freeing the name of Lafitte from obscurity. And when this is done, I would ask of you to assume again your rightful name—the one belonging to your father."

He then turned to the man

open the packet. Then I must tell you something that has escaped my mind until now."

Breakfast was soon despatched; and, after thanking Madame Teche for her hospitality, her guests took their leave, pursued, until out of hearing, by voluble farewells and urgings to come again.

Murder waited with them to the beach, which they found deserted, with the full tide filling in, and the pebbled sand in a hushed way, as if its mood were depressed.

Lafitte, drawing a scarlet handkerchief from his pocket, waved it above his head, and the master of the fishing-smack replied with a speedy blow that came faintly across the water.

The fisherman beached his boat near Greloire, who now called to them, and stood waiting as they strode along to join him.

The captain of the smack was easily induced to land his passengers on the French coast; and they were scarcely under way before the former, asking Greloire to accompany him, went below, to open the package.

It was somewhat bulky, and as his fingers broke the last wrapping, a collection of papers, some of them discolored by years, others evidently of more recent date, fell upon the cabin table. And in their midst shone the dull gold frame of an ivory-painted miniature.

For a second Lafitte stared at this, then, picking it up, he looked intently at the gypsy-like face of the portrait. "Ah, mon Dieu! How came the emperor by this?" he cried chokingly. "The sight of the beautiful face, which Margot had taught me to love as the mother whom he had never known, making the past more real than the present."

"Greloire, who was lighting a cigar, said dryly: "Examine the papers, and if they do not tell you, perhaps I can do so."

Lafitte glanced at them hurriedly. They comprised his parents' marriage certificate, and all the other papers, together with the jewels, that had been in the small iron box so many years ago. There were also some old papers, showing that the property in Louisiana had been released from sequestration, and held in trust by Napoleon, emperor of France, for Jean, son and heir of the Baron— and sometimes known as Jean Lafitte, of Louisiana, in North America.

All the documents were there, showing in detail the local proceedings, initiated and perfected under the consulate, and confirmed under the Empire.

As the last paper fell from his hand, Lafitte bent his face to his crossed arms amid the heap of precious things upon the table.

All the past was rolling in upon him, a sea of living reality so distinct and intense that the present appeared dim and vaporous.

What had, but last night, seemed to him legitimate in the light of his every-day world, as he met the events, now seemed to him a cruel and unjust affront with the appalling sweetness of the pictured face that had represented to his boyhood all that was sweet and pure, and the present sight of which had brought so vividly before him the mental vision the dimmed face of faithful Margot, and that proud, stately man he had known as father, of whom he could recall no word or act dictated by other than a sense of the highest honor toward his fellows.

And Bonaparte, the lord of his youthful heart, but for so many years doubted and mistrusted—he had obtained and treasured these proofs of the wayward boy's position as that father's son and heir, who the son himself was risking in alien lands the sacrifice of his rightful name and heritage?

An unbroken silence kept him mute, and Greloire, as if understanding this, said, continuing:

SOME PRANKS OF LIGHTNING.

Fantastic Tricks Played Upon Unfortunate Victims.

One of the fantastic tricks which lightning plays upon its unfortunate victims is a kind of flashlight photography. There are numerous instances of this which are more or less "authenticated," but they seem almost too wonderful to be believed.

One of these is of a young man in New Jersey who was struck by lightning and was taken in an ambulance to the hospital at once. There seemed to be no wound except a small mark on the back, but while the doctors and nurses were examining him a picture began to develop on the skin. Soon before the physicians' eyes, the picture of the figure of Christ appeared to the cross. The explanation is that on the wall opposite the bed on which the young man lay was the picture which was reproduced on his skin.

Another instance is of a man who was struck by lightning, and on his chest were red marks resembling the cross as the four branches under which the man was standing, when he was killed. From France comes the story of a peasant girl who was driving a cow from the pasture when she was struck by lightning, and the cow took refuge under the tree. A bolt killed the cow and stunned the girl. When she recovered consciousness she found her chest a picture of the cow she had been driving.

The chatelaine of the castle of Benatouville was sitting in a chair in her parlor when the château was struck by lightning. She was sitting unharmed, but on the back of her dress was found a perfect copy of the cross which she had been sitting. Down to its minutest ornament. There are a great many strange pranks which lightning plays upon us.

Wait, men and wait until you open the packet. Then I must tell you something that has escaped my mind until now."

DRASTIC DIVORCE BILL.

By passing a divorce bill the house did its share in making it more difficult to get out of old matrimonial bonds and into new ones. If the senate does as much it will take a year in all cases and in some cases two years to go from divorce court to marriage license window.

The bill was passed by a vote of 114 to 2. William McKinley of Cook county being the only member to oppose it. It was a committee measure, drawn by Provine, Allen, and Lindly, all three having introduced divorce bills. It forbids remarriage within a year except in case a divorce is granted on statutory grounds, when the guilty one may not remarry within two years. Nothing will prevent divorced persons mission, and making the method of changing agree with that provided in house bill 218, the comprehensive civil service measure which also is on third reading.

According to the amendment, an appointment is to be made on probation, and discharge secured on written specifications by a superintendent, into which the commission has the right to conduct an inquiry and to which the employee has the right to reply in writing.

It now is an even race between the two bills, one providing restricted and the other comprehensive civil service. There are prophets who pin their faith to the small bill as the one likely to be successful.

Kill Wage Garnishment.

Despite desperate efforts on behalf of Chicago collection attorneys and constables, the senate committee on judiciary killed the bill reducing the amount of wage garnishment by exempting from garnishment from $12 to $10. There was a lengthy debate over the measure before the committee decided to reject it back to the senate with the recommendation that it do not pass. The action was taken in accordance with the recommendations of the Federation of Labor, whose representatives, together with constables and collectors to vultures waiting for the state legislature to deliver them human prey. Flashed with their success, the labor men will have a bill introduced repealing the wage garnishment law so that wage earners can have $2 a week exempt from seizure by collection sharks and constables.

Railroad Bills.

The house committee on railroads reported out a bill providing that non-employee commerce railroads shall equip their engines and cars with safety appliances. Another bill provides for a state inspector of safety appliances at a salary of $1500 a year, with $1600 for expenses, and a full train crew bill, which provides that every passenger train consisting of six or more cars shall be manned by a fireman, engineer, conductor and two brakemen. For trains consisting of four or five cars one brakeman will suffice, and three men may conduct a train of two cars.

Grants Eminent Domain.

Mr. Trautman introduced a bill giving street car companies the right of eminent domain so they may compel other companies to remove their tracks and terminals in entering cities. Senator Humphrey introduced a similar bill some time ago in the senate. It is said to be in the interest of the Illinois Traction Company, which is conducting an interurban business in the state.

Raises Salaries of Judges.

The house passed a bill raising the compensation to be paid judges of the circuit and superior courts by the state from $2500 to $3000 and allowing county judges $1000 a year for clerk hire. This bill will not become operative as to judges' salaries until 1909 and the clerkship feature does not apply to Cook county.

Amends Punishment Bill.

Representative Canaday moved to amend his bill relating to the corporal punishment of children by causing all after the enacting clause to be stricken out of house bill 330 and substituting "the New Jersey statute, which absolutely prohibits punishment of children by teachers with or without the consent of parents or guardian."

Free Normal Scholarships.

The house passed Illinois' bill providing for a free scholarship in aid of the state normal schools for each township or fractional township in the state. Townships of 100 free population are entitled to five free scholarships under the bill.

Fraternal Society Merger.

Mr. Schumacher's bill allowing fraternal beneficiary societies to merge upon a two-thirds vote of the members of each society passed the house.

Judgments in Installments.

The house passed Craig's bill allowing judgments to be paid in installments on judgments covering a period of not more than ten years.

Pay for Probationary Officers.

The house passed a bill providing for payment by the County of Cook for the salaries of probation school officers.

Grand Jury Witness Fees.

Colman's bill providing that witnesses before grand juries may demand a fee of $1, was passed by the house.

Raises Age of Consent.

Governor's bill signed July 10, of consent bill. It increases the age of girls to 16 years and for boys to 17 years. Violation is punishable by sentence in the penitentiary for from one year to five.

Extends Police Power.

Campbell's bill giving authority to local police to make arrests at the expense of the state was adopted by the house. It carries an emergency clause and becomes effective immediately.

Aid for Inga Hansen.

Senator Jun's resolution calling upon the Governor to investigate the Inga Hansen case was adopted by a viva voce vote. Senator McKinzie making a lone fight on the measure.

THOUGHT SHE WOULD DIE.

Mrs. B. W. Marine of Colorado Springs began to fear the Worst—Doan's Kidney Pills saved her. Mrs. Sarah Marine, of 118 St. Ursula street, Colorado Springs, Colo., President of the Glen Kyrie Club, writes:

"I suffered for three years with a very bad back-ache. The doctors told me my kidneys were affected and prescribed a medicine for me, but I found that it was only a waste of time and money to take them, and began to fear that I would never get well, or, if I did, it would take a long time."

advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. Within a week after I began using them I was so much better that I decided to keep up the treatment, and when I had used a little over two boxes I was entirely well. I have now enjoyed the best of health for more than four months, and words can't express my gratitude."

Blaming Lawson.

"How is your dog doing on Wall street, Mr. Clinkum?"

"He was doing right well for a time. He sweeps out a broker's office, you know, and he wants a single morning that he didn't pick up money—sometimes a quarter, sometimes a half, sometimes a dollar. Once he found a $5 gold piece. But ever since that man Lawson came out with his scanty pieces he ain't picked up even a dime! No, sir—not even a nickel! An' Jimmie writes that nobody seems to know when another drop in the market is coming. Tough, ain't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Very Low Homestead's Rates to the Seaside.

On the first and third Saturdays in April round-trip Homestead's tickets will be on sale at unusually low rates from Chicago, St. Louis, Cairo, Paducah, Evansville, Louisville and Cincinnati to many points on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway in Tennessee, North Alabama and Georgia. Limit 21 days. Stop overs allowed on C. & St. L. R. going and returning.

A splendid opportunity to make a prospecting trip. For further information apply to G. L. Danley, G. P. A., N. C. & St. L. R., Nashville, Tenn.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for their family use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 10 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in 4-ounce packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 oz." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

Fads of Famous Rulers.

The emperor of Germany is fond of collecting medals and scraps of all ages and of all countries and is said to have no fewer than 18,000. The shah of Persia is fond of knitting as a hobby, and likes to knit silk stockings for his personal friends. He once presented the prince of Wales with a pair of his own handiwork.

A Pessimistic View.

Mr. Black—What? You'd done stand pat? Mr. Johnson—Dark's right. You'll raise all back of you! You'll be bluff. Mr. Black—I reckon not. You'd no better try to bluff me with a pat than an sixty-five cents in de pot.

A PALACE FOR BIRDS

Fine Housing for a New York Park Collection.

TWO LARGE EXHIBITION HALLS.

Most Novel Feature of the Building is the Roof, Constructed Entirely of Glass—Great Flying Cage With Fountain, Pools and Graveling Plants—Arid Conditions For Birds of the Desert.

There is now nearing completion in the New York zoological park a new house for birds which bids fair to be unique among such buildings in the United States. It is not indeed in the world, says C. William Beebe in the New York Post. It will consist of two large exhibition halls, built in the shape of an L, one, the parrot room, measuring sixty-five feet in length, while the main hall is seventy-seven feet long by fifty feet wide, and about thirty feet to the apex of the roof. These rooms are lined all around with spacious cages, nine to twelve feet in height. The most novel feature of this building is the roof, which is constructed entirely of glass, giving the impression of a great conservatory. Indeed, it is intended that a large number of plants and vines shall be grown here, thus happily combining a conservatory of flowers with brightly colored, singing birds. In the center of the main hall is a large flying cage, 15 by 30 feet by 18 in height, which will contain three or four hundred birds of many species. It is provided with a great steel coil low bathing pool, and when the nature fountain is playing and the birds flying and singing among the branches of the trees which will be provided the sight will be a beautiful one.

Besides the indoor cages there are numerous outdoor ones for the tropical birds, such as those which live in tropical regions. In all there will be over seventy-five inclosures. All the inclosures have been carefully worked out with regard to their arrangement. For example, a terra cotta fringe of exclusion extending quite around the outside of the building, with figures of horned owls at the corners.

In this splendid building, which will be as light as the woods and fields themselves, many interesting fancies of birds will be housed. Among these are the thrushes, nightingales, warblers, mockingbirds, tinamous, bulbuls, orioles, tanagers, robins, waxwings, weaver birds, buntings, starlings, booby birds, crows, jays, larks, hornbills and toucans, woodpeckers, chickadees, macaws, parrots and parakeets, fruit pigeons and doves, the smaller quail, the sandpipers and the plover and many others.

In addition to this house a glass court will soon be built which will occupy the space between the arms of the L and will bring up the total number of cages to 115.

There are many ingenious devices which have been planned especially for this building. Each cage has its separate porcelain drinking and bathing basin, each controlled by individual water pipes. The meshes of the cages are a great deal larger than is usual in bird cages, the intention being to give an open effect and unobstructed view without allowing the birds to escape through the wires. The cages will be filled with growing plants and turf, and these will be as appropriate as possible. For instance, desert birds will have sand, subsoil and cacti to make them feel at home; wading birds will have large pools with cattails and water plants.

The cage doors are all at the back, and a keeper's passage extends behind the cages, thus making it possible to keep all the cleaning operations out of sight and allowing the keepers to have access to any of the cages without disturbing visitors in front of the cages. A sand shaft or shoot leads down into the cellar, from which an underground tunnel extends to the outside roadway. So a cart can drive right into the cellar by means of this arrangement, being free from other supplies and carrying away refuse sand.

There are food rooms and a keeper's room and a spacious office for the curator, besides a set of rooms on the second floor for hospitals, experiments and laboratory work.

There is not a small cage in the building, and the birds, which will mostly be young ones, should live and thrive and build their nests in this avian palace, provided with its water and food, protected from storm and from enemies and given plenty of sunlight, the sight of flowers and green plants and abundance of room in which to fly about.

Easter Mother Goose Market.
Among the many Easter fairs planned for charity the "Mother Goose Market" is always sure of winning success. At these fairs the children who provide over the different booths, which have Mother Goose motives written above them, are dressed in appropriate character costumes. Among the booths which take well are the cake, under the charge of the Queen of Hearts, the candy, run by Hattie Pomeroy; the table, under the conduct of Betty, who "puts the kettle on"; the doll booth, looked after by the "old woman who lived in a shoe"; the broom and dusters, by the old woman who coaxed to sweep the cobwebs out of the sky; hot cross buns, by the "pitty patter baker man"; the fish pond, by "Simple Simon"; ice cream, by "Little Miss Muffet"; sandwiches, by "Jack Sprat and his wife"; hair tangles, by "Goldilocks"; Easter eggs, by "Humpty Dumpty"; and Easter flowers, by "Marry, Mary, quite contrary." Lemonade is quite properly dispensed by "Jack and Jill."

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

233 Prior Street, Chicago, Ill., March 21, 1905.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach, no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must seek relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the result. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Tan Colored Rubber Overshoes.

An authority on attire says a late fad which is likely to become popular this spring, especially with women, is the tan colored rubber overshoe. These rubbers are of course intended to be worn with tan colored shoes, and they are, for some mysterious reason, more nearly invisible on a tan shoe, if the shoes are the same, than a black rubber is on a black shoe, says the Philadelphia Record. "When you come to think of it," says the authority quoted, "it's queer the tan rubber was not thought of long ago, for a black rubber on a tan shoe certainly does make the feet unduly conspicuous on a muddy day. I suppose the makers never believed that the tan shoe had come to stay, but now that its permanence seems assured they are making rubbers to match."

The Chicago Examiner.

THE EXAMINER, the leading morning paper of Chicago, has just announced a unique Literary Educational Contest, in which it proposes to give away $100,000 in successful contests, ranging in value from $500 to $20,000. First prize, $20,000, to be given away, about $2,000,000 contest commencing February 27th and continuing one well-known proverbially for fifty days.

This contest will create a widespread interest, and THE EXAMINER is offering that orders be given to the newshouses at once, or sent too for a three-months' mail subscription, and get the home and general newspaper published, addressing all orders to THE CHICAGO EXAMINER, Chicago, Ill.

If you desire to vote for the petition candidate for the office of Police Magistrate mark your ballot as follows:

For Police Magistrate

C. H. MORRISON.

Mark in the circle of the tickets if you wish, but don't fail to mark in the Square opposite the above name.

Village Election.

Tuesday next will be held the annual village election. It is the duty of every citizen to take part in the same and it is expected that a good vote will be polled.
Last Spring there were two complete tickets in the field and one independent candidate, and therefore considerable interest was manifested, 275 votes being polled.
Tuesday the voters will find the Peoples' Ticket, J. F. Gieske, petition candidate for trustee, and C. H. Morrison petition candidate for police magistrate. A specimen of the ballot is given in this issue on page 6.

While the contest will not be as marked as last year it is predicted that the village will be well raked over for votes, the two candidates for police magistrate having precipitated a warm fight.

MANUFACTURERS' BANKRUPT SALE

of one of the largest wholesale clothing houses in this country, over $100,000 worth of the highest class and best tailor-made clothing consisting of Men's, Boys' and Children's Wearing Apparel to be sacrificed regardless of cost or value. READ THIS.
Clayton, Ill., Aug. 23, 1904.—This is to certify that I have been cured of kidney and bladder trouble. Less than one bottle of the Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, did the work. I also know of a boy 12 years old who was cured of bed wetting by the use of it. I can fully recommend it to the public.
I. M. BROWN.

A Texas Wonder.
One small bottle of the Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, cures all kidney and bladder troubles, removes gravel, cures diabetes, seminal emission, weak and lame back, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder. In both men and women; regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold for your drug store, it will be sent by mail on receipt of $1. One small bottle is two months' treatment and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Dr. E. W. Hall, sole manufacturer, P. O. Box 529 St. Louis, Mo. Send for testimonials. Sold by all druggists.
