

THE BARRINGTON REVIEW.

VOL. 20. NO. 27.

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, JULY 7, 1905.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

A NOISY CELEBRATION

Barrington Celebrates In The Old Fashioned Way.

Was there anyone who attended our Fourth of July celebration who did not enjoy the day? Neither clouds nor wind nor periodical showers, interspersed with hot half hours, could prevent the people from gathering into crowds and seeing the amusements through, regardless of discomforts. Perhaps the shadows cast by the rushing cloud masses and the light sprinkles were more welcome than the glaring hot days usually vouchsafed on July 4th.

The main attractions were in and near the business district although all over town patriotic decorations of flags and streamers were flying from nearly all the homes and the parks were filled with happy, noisy children whose abilities to keep a din alive were given a free rein on that day. Family re-unions and friends visiting here brought many former residents and people to town and pleasant meetings of old associates increased the delight of attending the celebration. Representatives from the farms in a radius of five miles were noticed on the streets, so that with the crowds from the neighboring lakes and resorts who arrive and depart at the Barrington depot the down town vicinity was at all times Tuesday a great thoroughfare.

Night owls announced the entrance of the date with the annual uproar only different from other such occasions in point of duration, for the firing of cannons near the milk station was continued until dawn and then a younger generation was astir to assume the responsibility of seeing that no hush prevailed the town. About ten o'clock the Barrington Cornet Band occupied the improvised band stand and gave a concert which drew crowds while the parade was forming.

Heading the procession were A. S. Henderson as marshal of the day and Philip Hawley, flag bearer. The Ladies' Cornet Band followed by the Barrington Cornet Band and then the bands of young misses representing the States and Liberty, made up the line which proceeded to the platform erected on South Hawley street where M. C. McIntosh assumed charge of the program. Short addresses, songs, music and the reading of the Declaration of Independence were given and an address by Judge Malone of Chicago. Mr. Malone by his genial manner captivated the goodwill of all his listeners who were sincerely interested in his energetic, well informed and witty flow of oratory on the subject of our country, patriotism and the worth of our people.

Cries of "go on, go on," from some of the older men showed that this gifted speaker of far younger years was pleasing men of older experience.

The afternoon amusements began at one thirty. Throughout the time selections were played alternately by the two bands whose repertoire seemed unlimited and their patience untried. The morning procession again formed and was augmented by a most modern and strictly high toned collection of exhibits that have appeared on our streets since last Fourth. We note with pride that the C. and N. W. officials have at last recognized the existence of Barrington by loaning a well equipped and beautiful express train run by a time-honored motive power to enter this exhibition, and we appreciate the condescension of French inventors in sending the most recent model of an airship. We thank local business men for showing gasoline engines in operation and giving us at last the true source of Alverton and Groff's fine sausage, as testified in their canine show.

During the contest of speed and strength familiar figures were seen to enter the track, causing the ever-existent hilarity at seeing one's friends win or lose. The rewards were worth competing for, thanks to the success of the promoters in securing them and to the donors. In the water fight, a feature peculiar to Barrington, and received with joy by strangers and villagers, six men were entered, who contested in pairs and the winning two completed the final contest, Ben Clinge winning the prize of $5.00 as he did last year. The second competitor received $1.00 and the others $2.00 apiece.

The evening was made beautiful by a display of fireworks that held the attention for several hours. Five gentlemen were the main instigators of this day all day celebration and to them is the first credit, for such affairs are carried out only by a great deal of effort and work on the part of a few willing to shoulder the active part, but as all things must be reckoned for, so is each donor either in a small or more substantial way, a participant in the success of the undertaking.

Messrs. Jencks, Kirschner, Peters, G. Hager and P. A. Hawley were the men on the working committee.

A Pleasant Surprise

On Wednesday evening the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Riecke, of Nebraska, who for several weeks have been visiting about here, gave their parents a very pleasant party surprise at the home of John L. Meiners. About sixty persons, old and young, had gathered together, all being relatives. Rev. A. Haefele had been invited to make the presentation of a gold watch to Mr. Riecke, and silver spoons, knives and forks to Mrs. Riecke in the name of their children, and as a token of their pleasure in having had them with them for several weeks. "Jesus Lover of My Soul" was sung, prayer was offered, and in a short, fitting speech the aged parents were congratulated on the large number of their friends, the great reverence and love shown them in their old age, and the good wishes following them through life's journey, of which the beautiful presents were but a token. The old people were deeply affected, and gratefully received the tokens of love. Both are devout Christians. It was a fitting close to the address to sing as they did, "When the Roll is Called up Yonder I'll be There."

Refreshments were served, and a pleasant social time followed.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Riecke left for their home in Nebraska. Last night they celebrated their golden wedding.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY.

Chester Hutchinson Passes Away Early Sunday Morning.

To the record of those who have entered the life beyond is added the name of Chester Hutchinson aged 60 years who died Sunday morning, July 2, at an early hour. The announcement of his sudden death was received throughout the village with almost disbelief as few knew that he was ill or confined to the house.

On Saturday, June 24, Mr. Hutchinson was overcome by the heat while working out of town and returned home quite ill. During the following week he remained at home, apparently not feeling very badly, beyond a lack of strength. On Saturday he was quite well and remained out doors nearly all day. Sunday morning at five o'clock when given medicine he seemed much improved, but a few minutes later he was found in great distress, suffering three convulsions of the nerves and blood vessels of the stomach. This action affected the heart at once and death came quickly.

Mr. Hutchinson was a prominent figure in village life and by his long residence of 37 years here was familiarly and widely known. He was a gentleman of kind disposition, steady and industrious.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the home on Cook street. Rev. Lapham of the Methodist church conducted the service and a male quartet sang. Mr. Hutchinson was the father of nine children all of whom were present with their families and also Mr. and Mrs. W. Edits of Chicago and daughter Genevieve and Mrs. Geo. Barnes of Harvard.

Chester Hutchinson was born in Lansing, Mich., Jan. 12, 1845. His boyhood was spent in that place and in Ann Arbor, Mich. When about 24 years of age he was married to Miss Anna Kane of Dexter, Mich., who survives him. They came to Harrington at once and first lived on the corner west of the Baptist church. To them were born ten children, one dying in infancy. The others are Almon Hutchinson of Chicago, Mrs. N. D. Brown of Harvard, Mrs. Vincent Davlin and Mrs. Harry Graham of Waukegan, Miss Fern, Charles, James and Howard Hutchinson of Harrington.

Mr. Hutchinson was buried in Evergreen cemetery.

To Allow Justice Fees

In the past the board of supervisors has not allowed the fees of justices of the peace and of constables where trials were had and there were no convictions. This has caused many justices and constables to induce the arrested persons to plead guilty and take a small case in some cases they were not really guilty. In other cases it is claimed the justices have been influenced to possess a stronger idea as to assess him a small fine the county would be stuck for the costs. To do away with this condition the board has decided to allow the fees in all cases whether there are convictions or not, providing the states attorney is notified before the case is commenced.—Spring Valley Gazette.

To Increase Capital Stock

A meeting of members of the Libertyville Trotting Association has been called for August 1 to vote on increasing the capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000 and the issuing of $100,000 in bonds. In explanation of this a member says that the society does not yet own the fine new track recently built at Libertyville at a cost approximating $100,000. He says a Chicago capitalist owns the track and buildings, which he is willing to sell to the society for about $150,000. The fact that the society is yet nothing but a name and does not own the track is news to outside people.

In a condemnation suit held at Waukegan Saturday wherein the Chicago & State Line Railway Company condemned 5.4 acres of land owned by Mary E. The damages for land taken was $1,311.75; to balance of farm $5,150 and the tenant was allowed $500 as his damage. The verdict is a record breaker in condemnation suits in Lake county.

ROADS TO OBEY LIVE STOCK LAW

Secretary Wilson Plans to Begin 1,200 Suits Against the Carriers.

MUST FEED AND WATER CATTLE

Inlets on Enforcing Old Statute in Regard to Unloading Animals for Period of Five Hours During Time of Transportation.

Washington, July 5.—The department of agriculture has prepared and is ready to begin 1,200 suits against the railroads of this country to secure the imposition of a penalty of $500 in each case for every violation of the so-called twenty-eight hour law.

That statute requires carriers transporting live stock from one state to another to unload, feed, water, and rest every animal for a period of five hours after it has been on the road more than twenty-eight hours.

Nearly every railroad from Maine to California is involved. The evidence against them is regarded as being so strong that attorneys representing the railroads are negotiating with Secretary Wilson with a view to having a minimum fine of $100 imposed, the understanding being if the maximum is not demanded the railroads will comply with the law.

In a large number of cases the secretary is disposed to agree, because he cares more for the future observance of the law than for punishment for offenses committed while the railroads thought they were immune from the statute with impunity. The suits will be filed in the circuit courts, and will be civil actions for damages, as the law provides for either fine or imprisonment.

Since the railroads became convinced of Secretary Wilson's determination to enforce this old statute, which was enacted in 1873, they have been endeavoring to get him to agree to modifications. They want him to agree to a lengthening of the time to thirty-two hours, because nearly every road then will be able to bring cattle from the chief points of origin of shipment to the stock yards in that time and thereby do away with the necessity of feeding and resting.

Up to this time, however, the secretary has insisted upon a compliance with the terms of the statutes. The only concession he has shown a willingness to make is with reference to those work pending settlement of the O'Garra-King company of Chicago. The operators at first decided to order out all the men in the New Summit tract, but finally gave the miners a few hours in which to yield. The operators insist that the wages contract, which stipulates that men shall continue work pending settlement of grievances by arbitration, must be lived up to. The strike at New Summit was ordered by a state officer of the miners without asking for arbitration.

A committee consisting of Dr. Taylor of Watertown, Dr. Zeller of Bartonville, Mr. Somerville of Quincy, and J. Mack Tanner, secretary of the state board of charities, reported the result of its investigations as to what line of goods and supplies could be profitably manufactured for the state institutions. The committee recommended the adoption of plans for the manufacture of office furniture for the state institutions, iron beds and fixtures. The report was accepted and the committee continued to report on the price at which these things will be charged up.

MINERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.
Hoisted to Top of Shaft and Dumped Into Ore Chute.

Iron Mountain, Mich., special.—Hoisted to the surface at the rate of nearly a mile per minute, three men employed at the Florence mine came within a small margin of losing their lives through disobedience of the stringent rule prohibiting the use of the skip in ascending the shaft. The trio had put their drill machines and tools into the skip and climbing in gave the signal to hoist. They rang the wrong number of bells and the engineer supposing the skip contained one pulled it at top speed to the top of the shafthouse, whence the contents of the skip were dumped into a twenty-four-foot chute. Two of the men managed to grasp a timber and save themselves from their companion, together with the tools, was hurled into an ore car many feet below. He was picked up unconscious and presumably dead, but beyond a few bruises was found to have escaped injury.

FEAR APPROACH OF REBEL SHIP

Odessa Officials and Citizens in Panic Over Possible Bombardment

SECRETAGENTS ENGINEER PLOT

Buthery at Odessa Was Part of Plan by the Government to Intimidate the Revolutionists and Crush Insurrection.

Odessa, July 5.—It is reported that the Kniaz Potemkin is approaching this port. Both officials and populace are panic stricken with fear that the threatened bombardment of the city will begin in a few hours.

This terror is shared by the neighboring towns along the coast, where the pirate warfare may put in for coal and provisions. It is said the mutineers requisitioned cattle from German colonists near here, obtaining much needed supplies under threat to attack their villages.

All the torpedo boats stationed here have put on sea with volunteer crews and are engaged in an effort to stalk the Kniaz Potemkin in obedience to the admiralty's orders that the battleship be sunk on sight.

The renegade ship's hours are declared here to be numbered. Regret is expressed at the destruction of such a splendid and powerful vessel and at the loss of life, but this is thought to be preferable to the continued dishonor of her presence in the Black sea commanded by mutineers.

The report was that the mutineers were to be of Odessa. There are other signs of activity in the fleet.

Crew May Escape.
The admiralty claims to be without information of the Kniaz Potemkin's whereabouts, but St. Petersburg officials are inclined to believe that if the mutineers have supplies enough to go on, the Bulgarian or Turkish port, will head for Port of Batoum, where the revolutionists might give them succor and where they could escape to the mountains of the Caucasus.

Hitherto it has been a partially penetrable veil which has hidden the ghastly tragedy of the nights of June 27 and 28. At last it has been lifted, and the mutiny is no longer a secret. The authorities are unimpeachable.

For many months past about 150 specially chosen agents have appeared from the third section of police under a variety of names, as officers of artillery, engineers, and so on.

They lived and labored in intimate association with the working people in the industrial suburbs of Odessa, and were well known and frequently called upon by the social democratic revolutionists.

These agents knew every secret and every movement of the revolutionary party in Odessa, and were well equipped with consummate success.

Police Brought on Massacre.
The arrival of the mutinous battleship Kniaz Potemkin was expected to have placed Odessa in a perilous ground for the statement that the whole fleet had mutinied and would join the naval rebels and protect the revolutionists ashore. It should be noted that none of the local police, but third section secret agents, were the organizers and engineers of the whole plot.

Shortly stated, the pillage, wreckage and arson commenced early in the evening, but there was absolutely no attempt to arrest the devastation until long after sundown. During the interval every possible avenue of escape was closed by the military machine and guns were placed at every point of vantage.

No fewer than 7,000 people were doing the work of the awful ten hours of that night of massacre. The killed outnumbered the wounded threefold. This is not surprising, the speed of slaughter having been restricted.

Monster Funeral Pyre.
Two hundred persons threw themselves into the harbor, from which they were rescued by boats and books. A thousand corpses were cast into the glowing heaves of ruins at dawn, when the fire had been only partially extinguished. The huge conflagration was made to serve as a monster crematorium.

Four-fifths of the dead were thus got rid of. Their ashes mingle with the ruins. Their bones were hurled by the wind and scattered over the city and carried to the common graveyard, but only the military and police witnessed the rough internment and the grave digging.

The nature of whose burdens was not suspected by the people. This secret butchery, engineered by the police, it is said, was designed to strike terror into the hearts of the revolutionists as a frightful effective method of crushing the insurrection in south Russia.

Comparative Order is Restored.
Compassion for the dead, however, restored here and work is being re-

Admiral Kriger has sent the following report to the minister of marine at St. Petersburg:

"The crew of the transport Prout, when leaving Budrovo bay, mutinied, arresting the captain and other officers. Second mate, Nesterski and Bostravski Koutilski were killed."

"The Prout has arrived at Sevastopol and the crew now is repentant. The officers have been released, the crew begging them to resume their posts. The Prout has been ordered to anchor in Kameshal bay and an inquiry into the affair has been opened."

A report from Constantinople says that the Russian steamer Emperor Nicholas II, which had been ordered to proceed to Alexandria instead of Odessa owing to the trouble here, was unable to leave Constantinople on account of a mutiny of the crew, who insisted on coming to protect their families.

Kniaz Potemkin Dies Cool.
Bucharest, July 5.—It is stated that the Kniaz Potemkin has attacked an Italian vessel carrying coal. There is much uneasiness among Russian vessels at Roumanian ports.

The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Smeltly appeared off Kustendji and signaled that it was seeking the Kniaz Potemkin.

Before the Kniaz Potemkin sailed for Kustendji a delegation from the crew handed the prefect a proclamation addressed to the representative of the powers in Roumania formally declaring war on all Russian vessels which refuse to join the mutineers.

The proclamation says the Kniaz Potemkin will respect neutral territory and foreign shipping. The delegation requested that the proclamation be forwarded to the powers.

The crew of the steamer Bulgaria has mutinied at Iannai.

Mutinous Crew Surrenders.
St. Petersburg, July 5.—It is stated that the transport Vecha, the crew of which joined the mutineers in the harbor of Odessa, has surrendered in Russian waters.

Try to Relieve Mutiny.
Odessa, July 5.—An attempt to revive the mutiny on the battleship Georgi Pobedonosets was discovered Tuesday. It was frustrated by loyal sailors, who had learned of the leaders to the authorities. The torpedo boats which remained here have gone to sea to search for the Kniaz Potemkin.

Revolution is Growing.
Berlin, July 5.—The Berdler Zeitung says revolutionary risings have occurred in 3,000 towns and villages in southern Russia.

The Tagesspiegel says that 5,000 strikers at Nicolaieff are plundering shops and dwellings. There have been several bomb outrages.

MITCHELL TO APPEAL FROM VERDICT OF JURY

United States Senator, Found Guilty of Fraud, Will Seek to Take Case to Supreme Court.

Portland, Ore., July 5.—Counsel for United States Senator Mitchell will appeal his case. On Monday a motion will be made for a new trial. If it is granted, the case will be set aside for the convicted senator will endeavor to bring the case directly to the attention of the supreme court of the United States. If possible the United States circuit court of appeals will be passed. Upon being questioned District Attorney Henev said he saw no grounds for an appeal in the case and he believed that the law would not allow the senator the right of further hearing.

The United States circuit court of appeals meet in Portland on Sept. 3. If that tribunal will be appealed to, Judges W. W. Morrow, W. H. Gilbert and J. H. Rose will sit en banc and determine the points of law in the case and give their decision as to whether there are grounds for the case going before the supreme court.

It is stated that the jury in the case of United States Senator Mitchell took six ballots before arriving at a verdict. Five ballots showed eleven jurors for conviction.

It is expected that the other indictment pending against Senator Mitchell, charging conspiracy with Puter if that tribunal will be appealed to, will be dropped.

The statute provides for both imprisonment for not more than two years and for a fine of not to exceed $10,000.

Pending the appeal for a new trial Senator Mitchell will still be a member of the United States senate. He will appear before the committee on the senate and continue his duties as usual, but unless the final disposition is favorable to him he cannot appear upon the floor of the senate.

Profits of the Packers.
There has been a great deal of disappointment because the Garfield report shows that the profits of the packing industry only amount to about two per cent of the volume of business transacted. There is no doubt, however, that the report is correct.

The census reports compiled by the government in 1900, before the agitation regarding the "beef trust" began, show considerable light on this question. It appears from the census that the packing industry is conducted on a smaller margin of gross profit than any other industry in America. The gross margin of profit of $71.40 and gross margin of profit of $71.40 and gross margin of profit of $71.40.

A Story From Darkest Africa. The death recently at Zanetier of an old man of seventy whom the explorer Stanley called the finest gentleman he met among the Arabs of the dark continent has been followed by the publication of the true story of the most striking character to be met in all the literature of African exploration. This was Hamidi the Mubamad, or "Tipoo Tib." The character of the man is best shown by the origin of his nickname. One of Hamidi's earliest exploits was the raiding of a wild tribe with shotgun, a weapon new to the natives. The noise of the guns they imitated as "tip, tip," and the name spread all over the interior of Africa as the cognomen of the powerful Arab trader with whom the travelers from Cameroon to Stanley were obliged to make terms before they could proceed.

Stanley describes Tipoo Tib as a tall, black bearded man of "negroid complexion," in the prime of life, straight and quick of movement and a picture of energy and strength. He had a fine, intelligent face, with a nervous twinkle of the eyes and gleaming white, perfectly formed teeth. The trader was accompanied by a retinue of young Arabs and a large following of natives, whom he led thousands of miles through Africa. Tipoo Tib amassed a fortune in his adventures, which began at the age of sixteen, and passed the last years of his life writing the story which a German has translated from the original manuscript.

Stanley says that he astounded Tipoo Tib with the repeating rifle quite as much as the trader had astounded the natives with the shotgun. Tipoo Tib also tells a story of Stanley to the effect that the explorer promised to send him from Europe $7,000 and a gold watch and put him off with $3,000 and a photograph. Tipoo Tib's narrative also tells how he succeeded Livingstone and helped the pioneer explorer, Cameron, on his way.

Tipoo Tib was an oppressor and slave raider and took advantage of the ignorance of the natives. But it was not his shotgun policy which made him rich and a power in central Africa. His fortunes were advanced by the reputation he held of always keeping his word in matters of business. Starting as a poor boy, in ten years his credit was boundless among the Bombay merchants, and his name was one of extraordinary power among the black tribes.

No Land Assemblies in Russia. There is no foundation in fact for calling the provincial assemblies in Russia "zemstvo," representatives of the land, according to the Daily Russ of St. Petersburg. This paper says that the Mea has gained ground that the zemsky sobor is intended to call together members who would be elected somewhat according to the system of existent land elections. But at the present time there is no such system as land election. The zemstvo of 1900 was no representation of the land, but of the local nobility supplemented with peasants, according to the order of the land officials and "tax exonerates."

The Daily Russ cites the instances of three provincial assemblies to back up its argument and shows that the nobles in each case have a big majority over all other classes. It says that such a system of elections is but a poor foundation for the zemsky sobor (land assembly), which must have a moral authority in the esteem of the inhabitants of the land. This paper calls for the re-establishment of the old zemstvo of 1864 as "the one only system of true, actual land elections," and which was superseded by the present system, in which the nobility has from five-eighths to three-fifths of the representation.

Inspired by the success of the Simpson tunnel, France has a scheme for multiplying rail communications with Switzerland and Italy and by shorter routes than now exist. Her plan is to tunnel a pass between Dijon and Geneva, then bore under famous Mont Blanc, to connect with the Italian railway system at Aosta. This last feat is a staggering proposition, even in these days of engineering marvels.

A new white paint made from lime has been patented in Germany and is said to be superior to white lead and other similar products in fineness, permanence and cheapness. Other advantages claimed for the new paint is that it dries quickly without driers, hardens like enamel, does not blister in the sun and retains its original smoothness after washing.

Cy Perkins, the millionaire farmer who died recently, showed that a man can get on in this age without the eternal "hustling" so much talked up by theorists. He never drove anything faster than a yoke of oxen and was innocent of travel by steam and electric cars. The simple life made him rich and happy.

Schoolma'ams. Schools have closed, and the teachers are out for a long vacation, so called. To many a weary teacher the vacation spell will be simply a long hunt for the vitality that has been paid out in the class room. Some of those released from the grind of lessons will pass the weeks in the kitchen to relieve mothers who have toiled all through the term to release the school crowd, both old and young, from household cares. Still others will take up the needle and make and mend against the needs of the coming year. All who find the vacation a real play spell, with no tasks and no new lessons to master, should have the congratulations and not the envy of any whose vacations are limited.

With all its advantages of respectability, indoor employment and regular pay, the profession of teaching is a ceaseless and an exacting grind. It wears out the bearings. From month to month and from year to year the same subjects are discussed, the same routine covered. Faces change in the class, but the class itself is only a little duller and therefore harder to arouse than its predecessor or a little brighter and therefore harder to guide aright.

A teacher whose heart is in the work of making better men and women out of the material placed in her charge may not be distressed by the monotony of such labor. But enthusiasm is sometimes only a mask for overworking faculties. The willing teacher needs a vacation to gain new strength with which to accomplish the work of the season that is to come. The best teaching is that which goes beyond the routine and seeks to work an influence upon the individual character of the pupils, and the teacher who looks forward for work in the highest sense will utilize holidays and all other spare time in finding out new ways to reach the intelligence and arrest the sympathy of the young. Good wishes of parents more than of scholars even should go with the schoolma'ams on their well earned vacations.

Norway's Resources. The exports of Norway are swayed by those of other countries, and the volume is of such relative unimportance as to attract but little attention. About four-fifths of the area of Norway consists of timber land, and the country exports annually about 500,000 tons of wood pulp and paper made from wood. Timber in the rough and finished is shipped from Norway for building purposes and for woodware manufacture, the exports averaging about $10,000,000 annually. For a time Norway had a monopoly of the manufacture of matches and now ships about 3,000 tons annually. Iron and copper are mined in abundance, and the manufacture of horseshoes, nails and machinery is becoming an important business. The mineral output is $2,500,000 a year. Fishing brings Norway a large revenue, and the shipments of herring, cod, mackerel, salmon, roe, whalebone and fish oils average in value $7,500,000 annually. The Norwegians are a primitive people, yet agriculture is not pursued to a great extent. About 11,000 tons of condensed milk are exported annually, and Norwegian butter is found in the markets of Europe. The government is laboring to encourage cattle raising and dairying. To the extent of her limited and peculiar resources Norway is an element in the world's business, but the natives "get busy" to keep warm rather than to turn the nimble stipend.

Pearcy's plans for his fourth arctic voyage call for a continuous journey northward until he locates the north pole. He has chosen the American route, and his friends are confident that he will return with news of a record breaking feat in polar research. Percy's former trips enriched the world's knowledge of the arctic, but he has never until the present trip counted upon arriving at the pole.

Recently two additional typesetting machines have been ordered for the government printing office at Washington, making 146 machines that will be ready for business when congress opens in December. The orders of that body may be sure that the Congressional Record will be out on time and ample enough to take in all their eloquence.

Men and Women of America.

In spite of the fog of the life of the modern man, Henry James is recognized as a skillful artist in detecting and depicting delicate impressions of his time not only in Europe, but in America. Commenting on the striking contrasts which he finds between the men and women of America in a recent paper, Mr. James calls attention to the "business man" face and the finer features of the prevailing feminine physiognomy. This line of study leads him to the following conclusions:

The only thing is that, from the moment the traveler begins to look at American life, he is struck by the contrast between the two worlds. In Europe, almost nothing else is in it—nothing, that is, so characteristic as this apparent privacy; for the man, of his right kind of woman and this apparent privacy; for the woman, of her right kind of man.

The right kind of woman for the American man may really be, of course, as things are turning out with him, the woman as to whom his most workable relation is to be with her and least with her—just as the right kind of man for the American woman may really be the man who intervenes in her life only by accident, by barely distinguishable, by practically disapproved courses. But the ascertainment and illustration of these truths would be, exactly, very conceivably high sport for the man who has his heart set upon the neglected one of his greatest current opportunities. It is in any case remains vivid that American life may, as regards much of its manifestation, fall upon the ear as a society of women "beaten" in the face of men, which is so different a matter from a collection of men of the world, the men supplying as were, all the canvas and the women all the embroidery.

Mr. James unhesitatingly speaks of the American woman's face as a sign of her superiority. The sexes here represent two stages of personal polish and form a subject for pure drama unlike anything to be found in the society of the old world.

High Speed on Electric Roads.

The adoption of what is practically a mile a minute schedule between New York and Chicago leads special interest to the question of high speed tests recently made upon electric roads. Tests are of course made under perfect conditions, but experts are confident of the practicability of very high speed operation of electric cars in commercial practice. Says the Electrical Review:

The greatest danger seems to be in the failure of the signaling system. For during foggy weather the track signals were not visible enough to be effective. This trouble was somewhat overcome by an electrically operated signal carried on the car itself, which operated reliably throughout the tests. But where speeds of from 100 to 120 miles an hour are sought it would seem to be only proper to provide a duplicate signaling system to insure safe operation during bad weather. A high speed road to be successful must be able to maintain its schedule at all times. A possible solution of the problem would be the cutting of high speed roads into long blocks—for example, a block from New York to Philadelphia, a second from Philadelphia to Baltimore, a third from Baltimore to Washington, etc. The longest section here is but little over sixty miles, and with an hourly service each block would be clear before a train left. Of course such a road would have to be elevated over other roads or have them carried over it. Grade crossings of any kind would not be permissible.

A safe high speed electric road would doubtless get the greater part of the passenger traffic between cities, but, as the Review points out, the construction and maintenance of such a road would be attended with great expense, and companies will feel some hesitation about undertaking experiments.

The Kind of Immigrant We Want.

There is unlimited material for study in the career of John Weaver, mayor of Philadelphia. An obscure immigrant boy a few years ago, today the chief magistrate of the third largest city in the country and destined to be a force in national politics. Just at this time, when we are more or less agitated over the brand of foreigners swarming to these shores, it is well to consider that we can do a good stroke of business by encouraging the Weaver class. If there is any way of drawing the line.

England is the fatherland of John Weaver. When a boy he ran away from home to seek in America the opportunities denied the lovely boy in his native land. He comes of good stock, and if we can induce more of his kind to face this way when they skip out from John Bull's "right little island" American society will be the gainer.

An eruption of fencing may be expected in this country as soon as our Anglomaniacs get in line with the English over their new fad for swordsmanship. New clubs are being formed constantly in London and the provinces, and international matches are being arranged.

An anti-race suicide proposition that deserves encouragement on more grounds than one is the dairy started by a prominent society woman to provide pure milk for city babies. The birth rate can take care of itself, but the rate of infant mortality in most American cities is a black mark on civilization.

An English librarian has discovered that men as a rule cease the reading of books after the age of forty. That is about the age when a sensible man begins to regret the time he has wasted on books that were not at least forty years of age.

Glasgow's municipal street railways earned a net profit of nearly half a million dollars during the fiscal year just closed. Since the city took the roads the people can ride for 2 cents.

Japan will have no trouble in squeezing a big indemnity from Russia if they will first agree to let the gang of grand dukes of the empire share in the "grat."

The Pace of the Present.

Author—FRANK H. WELCH, JR. W. ADAMS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.
In this day the common notion as regarding locomotion seems to be that transportation should be electric and thrill.
Space-devouring motive power Is the clamor of the hour— Anything that hurls the body through the air and does not kill.
Hence we have those motor-wagons— Veritable flying dragons— Puffing, snorting, whirling, whizzing up and down our thoroughfares, Spreading broadcast consternation Throughout all mundane creation, Stirring up a great commotion in the midst of its affairs.
Other products of invention That just now engage attention— Strange contrivances! that place a premium on death— Cleave the air like darting swallows, Heedless of water's fate follows, Rushing with a speed that quickly makes a person gasp for breath.
Decorous and steady motion Is an old, exploited notion; Staidness now is something over which progressive people blush; What we want is speedy action— Granting time no smallest fraction— In this day of rapid transit we must get their with a rush.
It is now the firm intention Of some masters of invention To perfect a winged invention that will navigate the air; And, maybe, some fertile genius Yet may shoot from earth to Venus With a safety that will make of such a trip a tame affair.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one for four weeks when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Anna Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful. Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at Geo. C. Roberts & Co.'s drug store; price 50 cents.

Explorer's Son at Portland Fair.
One of the notable visitors at the Lewis and Clark Exposition is W. R. Shannon, of Fowler, Cal., who is the son of George Shannon, the youngest member of the Lewis and Clark exploring party of a hundred years ago. George Shannon was known as "the boy Shannon," on account of his youth. His son, the exposition visitor, is now 30 years of age. He remembers hearing his father tell thrilling tales about his experience on the long journey from St. Louis to the mouth of the Columbia, which the Fair at Portland is commemorating.

Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Reid left Barrington Saturday to make their home at Niles Center near Park Ridge. Mrs. Reid is a musician of high standing and during her short residence in Barrington pleased musical people with her superior piano playing. She is also an adept on the harp, guitar, mandolin and organ and is known as an excellent instructor in the best institutions. She is a graduate of Leipzig Conservatory of Music, Germany, a pupil of A. L. Mills, of New York, Leopold Godowsky, Mary Wood Chase and P. C. Lukin of Chicago. She has taught in the National College of Music, the Lyman School of Art, the Halakka Musical College, Northwestern Musical College and was church organist of the Hyde Park Methodist church. Besides her musical talent Mrs. Reid is a lady of a developed literary mind and being a cousin of Rudyard Kipling, the great English writer, and a member of the "Daughters of the American Revolution" an exclusive organization, her associations have been among the best minds of the country.

Fred Wolfe, Jr., a lad of about 12, was quite seriously hurt Tuesday evening. He shot off a revolver containing a blank cartridge, and the wad penetrated the palm of the left hand between the third and fourth fingers. A part of it had to be removed through the back of the hand. The wound is an alarming one, for only the best of care will save the hand.

Forced to Starve.

R. F. Leck, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 23 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful sometimes that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Ficklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for tumors, cuts and wounds. At Geo. C. Roberts & Co.'s drug store. Only 25c.

All members of Barrington Court of Honor are requested to be present at a regular meeting to be held next Tuesday evening. Delegates will be elected to the Court of Honor Picnic association. H. S. MEIER, Chancellor.

Mrs. Frances James Dead.
Frances James aged 72 years, died at her home in Milwaukee Thursday. She has been in ill health for some time.

Mrs. James is an aunt to F. O. Willmott of this village.

The funeral will be held at Milwaukee Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Take Notice.

Whereas information has been conveyed to me anonymously that certain persons in Lake County have threatened to take my life at the first convenient opportunity, I desire to inform these persons that if they will advise me the place and time when they wish to begin operations I will be present and meet them and afford them the opportunity of carrying out what may have been an idle threat instigated by a diseased or drunken brain. Communications on this subject will necessarily be signed by the person desiring to meet me in order that I may tell whom to look for.

School Census Completed.

Frank L. Waterman completed the school census of District 4 yesterday which shows the population of this village to be 1292. The population of the school district is 1400. This is an increase of 35 over last year. The enumeration shows that 923 reside in Cook county and 477 in Lake county.

Osteopathy.

Plans are being formed by several people here to secure the services of an osteopath from the city either permanently or for several days in the week. Osteopathy has effected wonderful cures in the past decade and is now an established school of treatment for ailments caused by ill shaped bones.
The word itself is taken from a Latin and Greek word and means "suffering bones." The best physicians endorse osteopathy and often prescribe such treatment instead of drugs.
Anyone desiring to join this group who wish to attain a certain number please leave word at the Review office.

CAMP MEETING NOTES

Large Attendance And Much Good Spiritual Work Accomplished.

The Campmeeting began June 23rd and closed in the forenoon of July 3. The usual rush of farm work prevented many of the people from being present as much as they would have liked.

The weather on the whole was pleasant, excepting a few cool days. The rains did not interfere much with the interests of the meeting.

Chicago congregations sent a large delegation. It is supposed that about 100 persons were present from there on the last Sunday.

About 25 persons came from Highland Park on last Sunday and Elgin, Deerfield and North Northfield were well represented. The preaching services were practical and inspiring and much good was accomplished. Ten different persons came forward to accept Christ during the meeting.

Mrs. Rev. C. Wolf of Chicago was on the grounds but a few hours when she was called home by the sudden death of her mother.

The inspiring sermons of Rev. Mr. Berberich of Elgin will be long remembered by all who heard them.

Rev. Wm. Schweiker of Lake Mills, Wis., who in his early days was assistant pastor of this congregation gave an eloquent address taking for his text "If I perish, I perish."

The children's services in the afternoon were in care of Rev. J. G. Eller of Chicago. In his absence for two days, on account of a fever, the Rev. J. G. Finckh of Chicago and W. Barth of Northfield did the work very acceptably.

Bishop Wm. F. Hell has succeeded in winning the hearts of his hearers. He has a clear logical way of expressing his thoughts and seeks to make his hearers comprehend the truths. He succeeds admirably in making people think of the truths and the facts he represented rather than the speaker or representing them. His sermon on Sunday evening from the text "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" was very impressive and convincing. "What is sin? Can it be removed? Then what are our obligations?" were his leading thoughts. The attention of the large audience was very good. In fact, it could not be judged from appearances, have been better.

The young ladies quartette did credit to themselves in rendering a beautiful gospel song Sunday afternoon.

The financial interests of the campmeeting were easily met by freewill offerings.

One of our citizens, who took a special interest in the meeting, declared it the best campmeeting ever held near Barrington.

The friends of Rev. C. J. Frey were much pleased to see his funeral in the hands of the English language, since it is less than two years that he has attempted to use the English in public addresses.

It is possible that next year's campmeeting will be in August instead of June. This will be decided later.

The gasoline lamps secured by the Campmeeting Association were a decided improvement on the gasoline torches used heretofore. They were as bright and clear as electric lights.

All our friends from other places were well pleased with the clean and neat appearance of the whole campground. More new cottages are expected to be built by another year.

The large tent did excellent service during the rainy days and cool evenings.

Rev. Lapham and wife attended several of the meetings and expressed themselves much pleased and gratified.

The Rev. Houdenshield, well known to many of our readers as a gospel singer, was present on last Sunday and delighted the audience with a solo afternoon and evening. Not one man in a thousand makes a better appearance than does he.

It was a pleasure to see so many of the Christian people from the other churches on the campground on Sunday. Whenever all can understand the language spoken it might be an excellent idea to have a union campmeeting of all the churches in Barrington.

The Rev. A. L. Morse gave a short address on Sunday afternoon on the subject of Temperance.

It is a general verdict that all who attended the campmeeting and participated in the services were well repaid by the spiritual uplift it gave them. Such meetings should make all better men or better women, better parents and children and better citizens and neighbors. It should make all less selfish and more concerned in the welfare of others. If the truths presented will be heeded the above mentioned results will surely follow.

Rev. J. G. Fidler, the presiding Elder of the Chicago District, has proven himself a good manager of the meeting.

This long to be remembered campmeeting came to a close on Monday morning. The rain about nine o'clock prevented many from attending but about 200 may have been present during the last service, nearly all of whom joined the circle formed and shook hands with one another in the farewell parting. After joining in the services for nearly ten days it seemed sad to part. The last dinner was taken at the campmeeting restaurant whereupon a general home-going took place.

A village bachelor said recently that he had heard the best definition of love, while watching a tennis game. He said he heard the players call "Fifteen—love, forty—love," etc. and not understanding the game asked what it all meant. He was told that the fifteen means fifteen points, and that "love" means "nothing."
