CONFESS TO TORTURE.

The Bandits who Robbed and Tortured Forn Bros. in Custody.

Saturday night, September 9th a quartet of masked bandits forced an entrance into the little house occupied by Forn brothers, located near Spring Lake factory, and after torturing the brothers compelled them to reveal the hiding place of the money they had on hand. The bandits secured nearly $400 and then made their escape.

Early Sunday morning a search of the surrounding country was begun and a trail of the robbers followed to Elgin where the clue was lost.

Detectives were given the case and began the chase. It was found that certain thugs known as members of the "shoe factory gang" of Elgin were missing and suspicion at once pointed to that gang. A tip furnished the detectives was to the effect that two of the suspects were seen in Chicago. A hot chase followed and Detective Benson tracked his game through the levee district to Rockford, Savanah, Ill., then to Winona, Minn., finally rounding up two of the quartet, William Herder and Ben Doss, at La Crosse, Wis., where they were held for entering a freight car. Fred Brown and Will Gooby, other members of the gang, were apprehended at Elgin, to which city they had returned.

Will Herder and Will Gooby are ex-convicts out on parole; Fred Brown and Ben Doss are well known in Elgin. Brown having been mixed up in several affairs.

Doss confessed to the crime and implicated the "bunch" naming Herder as the leader and one who planned the job. The prisoners are held in the McHenry county jail.

All members of the gang are known in Elgin, Dundee, Carpentersville and Algonquin as toughs of the very worst brand, and citizens of that section are greatly relieved that the bunch is behind the bars.

ARMY WIFE UNDER MICROSCOPE.

Her Daily Life Subjected to a Constant Scrutiny.

The life of an army wife is hard. She lives under a microscope. She is subjected to a constant scrutiny, even more minute than that which the average decent woman in a small town receives—which can be compared only to that brought to bear on the minister's wife in such a town. Furthermore, the army wife, if she ventures to be indiscreet, is likely to find the microscope under which she lives instantly enlarged into a telescope through which the whole nation is looking at her. Her husband's position makes their domestic troubles likely to be forced into national prominence, when they are, in fact, no worse than are occurring in every block in civil life. Under these circumstances it is a wonder not that so many, but so few, scandals affecting army wives get into the newspapers. The fact that they do not—that the percentage of domestic scandals in the army attracting public attention is smaller than in civil life—is the strongest possible testimony to the propriety and discretion which the army post woman—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

MANY AMERICANS LIVE ABROAD.

More Than 100,000 at All Times Residing in European Cities.

Year by year the number of Americans residing in the chief European cities has been increasing. Two years ago an estimate of the number of Americans living in London was made, and the number was shown to be 15,000, with 12,000 in Paris.

There are according to the latest estimates 25,000 Americans residing in London permanently, 20,000 in Paris, 5,000 each in Rome and Berlin, 2,500 in Munich, 1,500 in Florence and 1,000 in Venice.

There are at all times between 100,000 and 150,000 Americans resident in European cities, apart from the number of Americans who make a summer trip to Europe and come under the designation of either transients or travelers. Most European countries do not include in the census of inhabitants taken unaturalized foreigners, and for that reason the figures of the number of Americans are not always easy to get. Ten per cent of the population of Paris, exclusive of transients, is made up of foreigners—250,000 foreigners constantly in Paris, of whom 25,000 are Americans.

PRESERVE THE INDIAN NAMES.

Washington Star Considers Them Appropriate Designations.

The suggestion has been made that when Indian territory shall become a state or part of a state the new state shall be called Sequoyah. In memory of the half-breed Cherokee who invented the syllable alphabet of the Cherokee language and who performed other noteworthy services for his people. Whether the suggestion is good or bad is not now to be determined, but certain it is that a conspicuous argument against the adoption of the name is unsound. It is argued that it is an Indian name and hard to pronounce. Merry? A citizen of the United States to urge this as a reason against a geographical name in the United States? If there is anything in the power of precedent or the force of example this is not an objection to but an argument for the name Sequoyah. For nearly 100 years we have been saying Massachusetts, Connecticut and Delaware and for a long time have been pronouncing Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, etc.—Washington Star.

Complying with the first portion of the agreement between the United States authorities and representatives of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company, four traffic officials of that company pleaded guilty, Sept. 21, in the United States district court at Chicago to the charge of conspiracy to solicit and receive railroad rebates in violation of the federal statutes as detailed in the indictment.

Judge J. Otis Humphrey of Springfield, before whom the pleas of guilty were entered in person by Samuel Weil of New York, C. E. Todd of Kansas City, Vance D. Skipworth of New York and Bess S. Cusey of Chicago, sentenced the four men to a total cash fine of $25,000 and costs, without any imprisonment. The fine was promptly paid by a check signed by Max Sulzberger, the Chicago vice president of the company.

JUDGE HUMPHREY.

The pleas of guilty, while expected, have caused a sensation in legal and railroad circles. They were followed by the announcement that the government will now proceed against the Grand Trunk, Great Western, the Lehigh Valley, the Michigan Central, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Boston and Maine and the Mobile and Ohio railroads, which are named in the indictment as the roads from which the four traffic officials of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger people solicited and received rebates.

NAVAL LOSSES DURING PEACE.

Accidents Have Cost Far More Lives Than Has Warfare.

The modern navies of this country, Great Britain and Japan are alike at least in one respect—that the accidents of peace have cost them rather more men and ships than the incidents of war. The loss with nearly 200 men of Admiral Togo's flagship, the powerful battle-ship Miskaka, that bore the brunt of the fighting in the late war, is one of the most appalling calamities that has overtaken any navy in time of peace. In destruction of life it ranks with the loss of the British turret ship Captain in the Bay of Biscay in the early days of the ironclad and the sinking of the Victoria by the Camperdown a few years ago. The United States navy has in its annals of peace the blowing up of the Maine and the loss of two ships of Admiral Franklin's squadron in the Samoan hurricane of the late '90s. Each of the disasters enumerated cost the nation concerned more lives than any naval battle it has engaged in since steam supplanted sails—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GREAT BRITAIN LOSING TRADE.

Competing Nations Win in Struggle for World's Markets.

In 1904 the exports of Great Britain, aggregated, in round numbers $1,503,545,000, of which $559,688,000 worth went to its colonies. The imports in the same year were valued at $2,750,180,000, of which $609,090,000 worth came from its colonial possessions. British exports to foreign countries show a decline, whereas those to its colonies have considerably increased. Were it not for the latter favoring circumstances, Great Britain's industrial condition would be bad. As it is, active competitors like Germany, Belgium, Italy, Japan and the United States are encroaching more and more on British trade in international markets where no preferential duties on imported goods from Great Britain exist.

Debts Did Not Worry Him.

Charles Mathews, the great English comedian, one day previous to the period of his publicity proclaimed dire bankruptcy, invited a friend to dine with him. The waiter was washed down by some rare sherry. "That's a delicious wine," his friend exclaimed. "It must have cost you a lot of money." "It didn't cost me anything that I know of," the actor answered with a shrug. "You had it given to you, then?" "I believe he does write something down in a book," Charles retorted gravely; "let's have another glass, my boy."

WASTE LAND MADE PRODUCTIVE.

Country Watered by the Tigris Beginning to Bloom.

A correspondent writing to the Chemnitz (Germany) Tagblatt from Baghdad states many modern improvements are being made. The Vilayet Mossul, on the middle Tigris, is extremely rich in all agricultural products, and during the last ten years much has been done to introduce rational methods of farming. The Bedouins are becoming less nomadic in their habits and are leaving the neighboring steppes to become permanently domiciled upon the land, which is being irrigated and reclaimed from the state of waste which has characterized it for centuries. The projected Baghdad railway, a German enterprise, will pass directly through this country and bring it within easy reach of the commercial world. Two new steamers, built in England, are now plying the Tigris. They are owned by a native company and are fitted up with all modern appliances, such as electric light, etc.

VARIATION OF OLD CON GAME.

Spanish Swindle Makes Its Appearance in New Dress.

The Spanish con game is at it again, though this time they have a variation. Arthur C. Jacobson, a lumber dealer of 87 Bridge street, Brooklyn, has been asked by mail to become the guardian and protector of the daughter of "Octavio Figueroa," now serving a sentence of eighteen years in a Spanish prison. According to the writer of the letter his wife was a Miss Jacobson, a relative of the lumber merchant. The writer admits that he was secretary to Martinez Campos in Cuba and says that he sent to Spain money sufficient for her transportation to America. Singular as it may seem, he won't send a cent.

Effects of Destroying Game.

One of the penalties for the wanton destruction of birds is paid in the frequent terrible visitations by insect pests which destroy the various crops in the field. They cost the people not only of this country, but of all the other nations which are dependent on our crops, millions in loss. Many states have made laws for the preservation of the game animals, birds and fishes, but these laws have no effect on the classes for which they are really meant, and little on the majority of the people. Those who have the new-fangled destructive guns want to use them and they will find living targets, and in too many cases they may be human beings for their shot—New Orleans Picayune.

WOMAN MOLEST SUNDAY BALCONIES

Governor Deane Cannot Interfere in Municipal Affairs.

No power is vested in the governor of Illinois to interfere in local municipal affairs to bring about the enforcement of the law, says Attorney General Stead in an opinion rendered at the request of Gov. Deane.

The attorney general was asked by Gov. Deane to interpret the law relative to the powers of the governor in the matter of enforcing the dram shop act. Officers of the Christian Temperance union at Springfield and St. Clair county appealed to Gov. Deane to close the saloons on Sunday in that community, and called the attention of the executive to the action of Gov. Volk of Missouri in closing the saloons in St. Louis. The attorney general's opinion points out the difference in the laws of the two states. The whole duty of the governor is to enforce the laws of the state of Illinois, says Attorney General Stead. "Is that local communities shall be governed and the laws administered therein by the officers duly elected or appointed for that purpose by such communities, as provided for by the laws of the state. The governor of this state has no direct authority from the constitution to interfere with any such officers in the discharge and performance of their duties.

There are certain cases, however, wherein the governor may order out the militia to suppress riots, etc., but such authority would not extend to the enforcement of the dram shop act."

GEOLOGIST ACCEPTS TERMS

Resigns from Federal Position to Take Up Work in Illinois.

H. Foster Bain, one of the best-known geologists in the United States, has resigned to accept the position of state geologist of Illinois. Mr. Bain conferred with the Illinois executive council at Springfield and on his return to Washington wired that he would accept the position. Mr. Bain is 33 years old, and with a single exception will draw the women's demand for pay to any geologist in the country. It is designed to make the Illinois geological survey one of the best in the country, in as short a time as possible. Illinois has multiplied demands for the institution, which is recognized as of immense practical value. Mr. Bain will live at Champaign and will be connected with the state university. He is a graduate of an Indiana university and has done extensive post graduate special work at Johns Hopkins and the University of Chicago, taking his degree from the latter.

MEN WORKERS ARE PREFERRED

Elgin Watch Company is Taking Better Care of Women.

A movement to do away with high-priced labor by women is said to have been undertaken by the Elgin National Watch company. During the last six months it has been noticed that when women leave or are discharged, their places have been taken by men. In 1903 the company hired women on a large scale, driving men from positions which they held for years, until now the ratio is almost three to one in favor of the women. Experience has taught the company that men are more accurate than women, and that they will stay in the company. In view of these facts the company decided to adopt the policy of giving the best places to men and the cheaper work to women.

STATE'S ATTORNEY IS ACCUSED

Inquisitorial Body Charges That Robert Scholes Impeded Progress.

State Attorney Robert Scholes was charged by an inquisitorial body made up of representatives of the oil and refining of the oil and to place it up on the market. For years fishermen and about Savanna and Galena have suspected the presence of oil in the sands. The bluish scum on the river in various localities gave rise to the idea, but no steps were taken until recently to ascertain whether or not there was oil in the sands. A sufficient quantity to pay. Recently a lot of oil was discovered bubbling from the sand in the vicinity of Galena. The substance was found to be crude petroleum and the result was the organization of the company to work the oil and sands.

Novel Excuse for Carrying Arms.

Harry Cooper, indicted for carrying concealed weapons, made the defense in the city court at Alton that while he was defeated for reelection as constable last year, his successful opponent, the grand jury, had been elected, and therefore, he claims, he holds over until his successor is elected and qualified. He claims that as a constable he has a right to carry weapons.

Pond Miners on Strike.

One hundred and fifty miners at the New Heat coal mine at Passaic struck on account of the wages, which the miners claim are out of order and untrue. An inspector was appointed by the miners to examine the scales.

Knocked From Engine.

While riding on an engine to his work Jay Shaw, aged 18, employed on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois at West Frankfort, was knocked from the train by a protruding car on a switch and killed.

MOTHER STOPS AN ELOPEMENT

Flags Train With Red Laprobe and Fells Plans of Love.

Miss May Webber, daughter of A. J. Webber, the wealthiest citizen of Saline county, and Harry Burns, an Illinois Central station agent, were married at the bride's home in Galatia, after an attempt to elope which the young woman's mother foiled by flagging the train carrying the young people, with a red laprobe.

Young Burns and Miss Webber drove four miles to Rileyville to catch an Illinois Central train. In the meantime the parents of the young lady secured a rig and followed in hot pursuit, arriving in Rileyville just as the train containing the runaway pair was pulling out.

Not to be outdone, Mrs. Webber seized a red laprobe, jumped from the buggy and flagged the train, while the husband drove the rig and commanded the pair to get off. On the way back the parents relented.

LINCOLN COLLEGE HEAD.

Lincoln college, one of the oldest educational institutions of Illinois, opened up its forty-first year under the management of a new president, Prof. J. H. McMurray, late president of Central college, Huntington, Ind. Mr. McMurray was born in a log cabin in Ohio. After finishing the district school he entered Oberlin academy and was graduated from it in June, 1883. The following year he entered Oberlin college and took the degree of bachelor of arts in 1887. Mr. McMurray spent a year in graduate work in geology in the University of Chicago. Later he studied at Harvard, receiving his master's degree. He received a commission from Harvard as one of six to carry on investigations for the United States fish commission at Wood's Hole, Mass. For eight years he has occupied the chair of science at Central college and for the last three years he has been general secretary of education for the United Brethren church, having superintended the different schools of that denomination.

BLUE SCUM IS CLEW TO OIL.

Rich Find of Crude Petroleum Is Made Near Galena.

There is much excitement in Jo Daviess county over the discovery of crude petroleum near Galena. The petroleum is found in the river sands and soil and the presence of the liquid riches is revealed in the bubbling jets. The oil was first discovered in the southwestern part of the county on a bluish scum covering the sand. Patrick, Clinton, Iowa, and Savanna, Ill., prospectors were the original finders and a corporation has been formed, with a capital of $100,000, which has for its object the drilling for and refining of the oil and to place it up on the market. For years fishermen and about Savanna and Galena have suspected the presence of oil in the sands. The bluish scum on the river in various localities gave rise to the idea, but no steps were taken until recently to ascertain whether or not there was oil in the sands. A sufficient quantity to pay. Recently a lot of oil was discovered bubbling from the sand in the vicinity of Galena. The substance was found to be crude petroleum and the result was the organization of the company to work the oil and sands.

Doctors Elect Officers.

The Bond County Medical society elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. J. A. Warren of Greenville; secretary, Dr. J. C. Wilson of Greenville; treasurer, Dr. W. C. Harnett of Mulberry Grove; trustees, Dr. B. F. Coop and Dr. W. T. Basley of Greenville and Dr. D. R. Wilkins of Pockahontas.

M. E. Church South Is Growing.

Reports of presiding elders at session of the Illinois conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south at St. Louis showed a growth in membership during the year. The annual conference in 1906 will be held at Waldron.

Antitoxin Agent.

W. D. Harnett of Edwardsville has been appointed by Dr. J. A. Egan, secretary of the state board of health, for the distribution of antitoxin against diphtheria in Madison county.

ADMIT TORTURING VICTIMS

Four Men Burn Feet of Victim to Find Hiding Place of Money.

Four prisoners arrested at Elgin on charge of torturing Andrew and John Fow, farmers of Spring Lake, have confessed. The men are William Harter, an ex-convict, "Bill" Moody, also an ex-convict, and Frank Brown of Elgin, and "Beanie" Doss.

Early on the morning of Sunday, Sept. 10, the masked men entered the lonely home of the Fow brothers at Spring Lake, midway between Atkinson and Barrington. After beating and gagging their victims they tortured them by burning their feet until they divulged the hiding place of their money.

They secured about $400, and escaped, leaving the victims for dead. Detectives were put to work on the case and traced the fugitives to Chicago, thence to Minnesota and Wisconsin, and finally captured them in a box car. They confessed, stating that the money had been spent in a cabana in Chicago.

Goody and Harter were on parole from Joliet. Brown is a son of respectable parents in Elgin. He figured in a sensational holdup case in Elgin a few years ago. Brown and Doss are the sons of a wealthy Chicago family. The prisoners have been held to the grand jury in $2,000 bonds each. Their capture has been kept as secret as possible in order to avoid the possibility of lynching.

WOMAN GIVES ALL TO CHARITY

Leaves $75,000 to City of Waukegan and Thousands to Missions.

The estate of Miss Nancy H. Lawrence of Waukegan, valued at $200,000, has been left by her will to charity. By the terms of the will, probated in the Iroquois county court, the city of Waukegan is to receive the residue of the estate, after other legacies have been paid, for the establishment of some charitable institution, which shall be selected by the executors. Other bequests are made as follows: State executive committee Y. M. C. A., $10,000; Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, $10,000; Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, $10,000. The executors also are directed to pay to the Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian churches at Waukegan the income from 25 acres of land, in equal parts, provided that the former shall pay to its minister an annual salary of $1,200 and the latter shall pay to its minister an annual salary of $1,400.

MUST PAY CAPITAL STOCK TAX

Mercantile Corporations, Though Now Exempt, Assessed for 1907.

Mercantile corporations, though now exempt from taxation on their capital stock under the law, must pay taxes for 1907, according to a decision of the state board of equalization, which was handed down at Springfield. The new law did not go into effect until July 1, while it is held that the assessment dates from April 1. Twenty-six counties have not yet in their assessments returns, and the board adjourned till Tuesday. A petition was received asking that the Illinois approach of the Illinois Central railroad bridge over the Ohio river at Cairo be assessed by the board of equalization, as the Alexander county authorities have no power to make the assessment.

INSANE, BUT A GLOBE-TROTTER

Patient Returns to State Asylum After Trip to Ireland.

The officers of the Bartonville insane asylum were given a surprise when an escaped patient, John McDonald, returned to the institution after four months' travel, which included a trip to Ireland. McDonald called at the asylum and asked for his old room, and it was turned over to him as if nothing out of the way had occurred. He said he had gone to Chicago and had been there for some time, and had been given a lot of money to go to Ireland. He visited his kin in the old country and then returned, having no trouble in getting by the authorities. He was a native of New York. The case is thought to be unique in the history of Illinois asylums.

Swedish Editor Drowns.

Charles Henry, a well-known and well-read newspaper man of Rockford, died while bathing in Rock River. He was stricken with heart failure. Friends were near and the body was not ashore until the next day. Henry was 60 years of age and had been connected with Rockford Swedish paper forty years.

Charge Fugary to Miner.

Joe Churns, a Hungarian, a Collinsville miner, who has of late been employed by the gas company at St. Louis in laying trenches, was arrested in Collinsville by Chief Deputy United States Marshal David S. Griffiths and taken to Springfield. He was taken before United States Commissioner Paul J. Harnett, who retained his hearing until Oct. 10. Churns is charged with forging the name of Joseph Harnett, another Hungarian miner at Collinsville, Ill., and others who had been connected with Rockford Swedish paper forty years.

State Politics.
Things looking promise a pretty fight next year, unless the factions can be harmonized, which now seems impossible. While it cannot be said that the campaign has begun, there is considerable skirmishing. Cullom and Yates are active, Hamlin and Sherman on the fence. Indications now point to a sharp conflict between what is termed the federal crowd, which is backing Senator Cullom, and the state administration forces, which are backing Governor Yates.

It is said that the state fair, which is an institution where politicians as well as fat stock and fast horses are at the fore, may develop the plans of the campaigns.

The Elgin News says that Governor Depledge, who is supposed to favor the ex-governor, would like to compromise matters but that Yates will have none of that kind of work.

The Chicago papers of Wednesday state that Yates will be tendered a place on the interstate commerce commission and this is believed.

STATE WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Eleventh Annual Convention of the Illinois Federation at Joliet.

Club women throughout the state are looking forward with much interest to the eleventh annual convention of federated clubs which meets at Joliet October 12 to 20. The session, it is declared, will be the most notable in the history of the organization.

Among the many subjects which will come up for discussion and upon which the most advanced women thinkers of the state will have something to say:

The proposed affiliation of the state historical society in propaganda work. The education of first aid clubs.

The organization of societies for the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis and its prevention in the home. The carrying forward of the work for the consolidation of the smaller ungraded rural schools and the provision of free transportation for rural pupils.

The extension of manual training in the schools.

The establishment of a state system of traveling libraries.

Government supervision of the conditions of female workers.

The purification of jails and penal institutions and their adequate supervision by local committees.

The local organization in this village will send two delegates, Mrs. I. Purcell and Mrs. Addie Lines.

A Wasp and a Fly.

An observer tells this: "It was once an interested spectator of a short struggle between a wasp and one of those large flies like a bee with a big fat head. The pair were on the ground, and I watched while the wasp, after probing the head of the fly, deliberately severed the head from the body and then, finding it still too heavy a burden, cut off the tail end of the fly and flew off with the trunk without waiting to perform its toilet. The whole operation took about five minutes, and from the masterly manner the wasp set to work he was evidently a practiced hand."

Mollere's Birth and Death.

There are two tablets in the hall informing the sightseer that he is passing the house where Mollere was born. One is in the Rue du Pont Neuf, the other at the corner of the Rue Navarre, where it meets the Rue St. Honoré. One inscription says that Mollere was born in 1620 and the other in 1622. Some time ago there were two houses in which Mollere was said to have died.

ORDINANCE No. 12, New Series.

For a concrete sidewalk on the East side of Grove Avenue in front of Lot 2 and the North 18 feet of Lot 1, Block 13, in the Original Town in the Village of Barrington, counties of Cook and Lake, and State of Illinois.

Be It ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington:

Section 1. That a sidewalk improvement shall be made within the Village of Barrington, counties of Cook and Lake, State of Illinois, the nature, character, locality and location of which local improvement is as follows:

That a concrete sidewalk five (5) feet in width, and, it is hereby ordered constructed on the east side of Grove Avenue in front of Lot 2, and the North 18 feet of Lot 1, in Block 13, in the Original Town in Barrington at the lot line with and one foot from the lot line on the east side of Grove Avenue.

That said sidewalk shall be constructed as follows:

A foundation shall first be prepared by cutting down or filling up the natural surface of the ground to within fourteen inches below the grade. Wherever a filling is necessary to bring the foundation to said grade, it shall be done with earth, gravel or other material equally as good for filling purposes, in such a manner as to leave a berm of four inches on each side of and flush with the top of the completed sidewalk. The surface of the natural surface of the ground at the rate of one and one-half feet horizontal to one foot vertical. Where necessary, the foundation shall be compacted by wetting, rolling or ramming until solid and level. Upon this foundation shall be laid a layer of gravel which shall be nine inches in depth after being thoroughly compacted. On the gravel there shall be placed a layer of hydraulic cement concrete four and one-quarter inches

Throat Coughs

A tickling in the throat; hoarseness at times; a deep breath irritates it;—these are features of a throat cough. They're very deceptive and a cough mixture won't cure them. You want something that will heal the inflamed membranes, enrich the blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion

Is just such a remedy. It has wonderful healing and nourishing power. Removes the cause of the cough and the whole system is given new strength and vigor.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Sometimes the hair is not properly nourished. It suffers from falling out. Then it falls out, turns prematurely gray. Ayer's Hair Vigor is a hair food. It feeds, nourishes. The hair stops falling, grows long and heavy, and all dandruff disappears.

My hair was coming out terribly. I was almost afraid to comb it. But Ayer's Hair Vigor cured me. The falling and the dandruff stopped. I feel like a new man.

in thickness. The concrete shall consist of one part cement, equal in quantity to the best Portland cement, two and a half parts of torpedo sand and four parts of lime or other strong equally as good for concrete purposes, all of which shall be free from loam or other foreign substances and of slow burning and not less than one-fourth of an inch more than one inch in any dimension. The cement and sand shall be thoroughly mixed dry, after which it shall be moistened with water to form a mortar into which it shall be incorporated five parts of stone as specified above and the whole mass mixed together and placed in a form and rammed until solid. Before the layer last described is set, a layer of finishing coat shall be laid on the surface of the concrete and three parts of torpedo sand. The cement and sand shall first be thoroughly mixed dry, then moistened with water and mixed again to form a mortar which shall be evenly spread over the surface so as to insure a level being evenly leveled.

Said sidewalk shall be so constructed that when completed the top surface shall be six (6) inches above the grade of said Grove Avenue as established by Ordinance No. 40 of the Village of Barrington, passed and approved February 5th, 1896.

Provided, however, that the owner of any lot, block, tract or parcel of land abutting on said sidewalk, or sidewalk shall be allowed forty (40) days after the time this ordinance shall take effect, in which to construct said sidewalk in accordance with said ordinance in front of his land and thereby relieve the same from assessment and work to be done under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the said Village of Barrington.

Section 2. That the recommendation of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Barrington, providing for said improvement, together with the estimate of the cost thereof, made by the President of said board, both hereto attached, be and the same are hereby approved.

Section 3. That the improvement shall be made and the whole cost thereof, including the sum of Four and three one hundredths dollars costs being not over six per centum of the amount included in the estimate of the President of said Board of Local Improvements, shall be assessed as a sum to apply upon the cost of making and collecting the assessment herein provided, and for the payment of other costs and expenses as provided for by law, be paid for by special assessment in accordance with an act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act Concerning Local Improvements" approved June 4, A. D. 1892, and in force July 1st, A. D. 1892, and all acts amendatory thereto and that said sum of Four and three one hundredths dollars shall be applied toward the payment of the costs of making and collecting said assessment and other costs and charges attending the same, as provided by law.

Section 4. That the aggregate amount herein ordered to be assessed against the property, and also the assessment on each lot and parcel of land, shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum according to law, until paid.

Section 5. That the attorney of said board be, and he is hereby directed to file a petition in the county court of Cook county, Illinois, in the name of the Village of Barrington, praying that steps may be taken to levy a special assessment for said improvement in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 6. That all ordinances or parts of ordinances conflicting with this ordinance be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Section 7. This ordinance shall be in force from and after its passage and publication in the Village of Barrington.

Adopted by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington on the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1905.

Good Outlook for Corn.

The weather of the past week has been ideal for corn and a heavy yield is assured, except in some localities where fields were somewhat damaged by the heavy wind storm last month. It is estimated that at least three-fourths of the corn in this district is past all danger from frost and hardening nicely.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Attempt to Assassinate Golden. When the party camped for the night, Lang separated from Golden and made himself useful helping the women folk prepare supper.

Pondering on the events of the night before, and on the conversation that he had had with Golden, Lang came to the conclusion, which was the just one, that Golden had a reason for quizzing him, beyond the mere fact of desiring to enlighten him about the Convict City.

Golden had been recalled to the city; this might mean much or little. It might mean that the old man's labors had been appreciated and that he was to be finally rewarded; or it might mean that something was transpiring among the people which made his presence necessary; or it might be that he was to be punished for some misdemeanor in their plans. The fear of the latter made Golden ill at ease.

The night was slowly drawing to a close. Quiet reigned. The last members of the camp-fire were dying out. The white tents of the campers, in which the men slept, could be barely discerned in the darkness. Up to a late hour Lang had remained in company with the women folk, furnishing music and singing songs, as was his custom. When he did retire it was to lie and rest in restful slumber for hours. To Lang the fact that he had been assigned different sleeping quarters on this night, away from Golden, and that Golden had been given a tent all alone, was something of an unexpected and unexpected fact of the night.

Lang was suspicious. Strange people, possession of him, and he slept only in short fits of sleep. He came to the conclusion that designs were on the gang. He did not show their hostility openly. Lang was a sympathetic man, and he would have been easily placed in custody had he been so placed. He knew that these men must be kept away from him. He was well aware now of his ultimate doom. He knew that these men must have been put up to it by some one high in authority or they would never have dared to lay their hands on him in the manner they contemplated.

When the train again moved off Golden was given a place to ride in one of the "scooters," and at the request of the wounded man, Lang was placed upon the seat as driver of the wagon. During the progress of the march Lang managed to draw out of line away from the hearing of any other part of the camp.

"I told you last evening that I was going to make a confidant of you," said Golden, opening up the conversation. "I am more resolved now than ever, since your life has been so completely in my hands, that I will do it. I am positive it was by the order of the present king. What his object is I cannot tell. The king, you should know, is the only personage who has more power than any other in the colony. But as I said before, even he has no right to kill without giving a chance for life. This shows me that the people themselves do not wish my death; if they did, the penalty would have been exacted under cover of the law. Though I escaped last night through your watchfulness, there are many ways yet in which I may be taken. You saved my life, but I am afraid that you have incurred the ill will of the people who must be an upright life with them. When I found that my past might rise up and haunt them and make them blush for my sins, I left them in ignorance of my true character. I know that they do not want for temporal things, because I keep them supplied with money. I have been a millionaire around my loved ones' neck, but I have tried to do to them, I am fearful now that I will be taken away from them and that they will be left without a protector!"

"Too, am a father!" said Louis Lang. "And I am sympathetic with you." There was a throb of sadness in his voice. He longed to tell his friend, for such he considered Golden, that he had hopes of returning to civilization with money and fame; that he was here to attempt the breaking up of the vipers' nest—but he refrained.

"You have awakened in me holy thoughts," continued Louis. "I once was happy in married life; but death, that cruel reaper, took away my loved one. I am alone now. It was the only who believed that I was not wholly bad. Her loss drove me mad! The demon drink caught me in his iron clutch and I sank to a true position in the drug!"

"I may return," he said, "I may reform; I may yet live in peace with my child, who as yet, is unconscious of his father's crime!"

"You may return?" You may return now, if you say the word!" Louis stopped him with an impatient gesture. "Tempt me not," he said. "I would not feel satisfied with myself if I turned back. I will on and see this adventure to its end—though it end in death and ignominy!"

"But I do not wish death to end your life," cried the old man in spirit. "Death may claim me; but I want you to live to tell my wife I died—died a repentant man; died with her pure name on my lips! I want you to live to see that the need for nothing, but if I were you I would never say die! There are many slips 'twixt cup and lip! The battle is not always to the strong! If, as you say, the people do not desire your death, rise up, you were king once, why not become one again?"

"It is not possible. I am meeting my just reward for a life of crime! But you need not think of my dying. For the love I bear my wife I will make your escape easy!"

"Golden, set your mind at rest! If I live neither you nor your family will suffer while I can help them. I'll tell you the truth and have the consequence! I mean to go back, and when I do it will not be in fear of the assassin's knife! I am young—like better men before me I am ambitious. I mean to be king of this land before I leave, or there will be no king!" cried Lang.

"At last I understand you!" was the triumphant reply of Golden. "Or there will be no king!" That's what you mean to say!"

"Or there will be no king!" assented Lang. "So he said Golden, who seemed to fall in with the spirit of Lang. "I saw it rise—would that I could see it fall!"

"Give me your aid," said Lang. "Rescue yourself of these people who have attempted your life. Between the two of us we can overthrow the octopus. What do you say?"

"I am with you, my son!" said Golden. "Would the faithful servant of an unloving cause turn upon his treacherous friends and deliver them to the hangman? I mean to be king of this land before I leave, or there will be no king!" cried Lang.

In Defense of Famous Father.
Helen Longstreet, daughter of the famous Longstreets, has written in "Lee and Longstreet at High Tide" the most candid and complete answer to certain criticisms that have been leveled at her distinguished father. She has gone to the records for her story and has filled out sundry gaps by reference to the memoirs left by her father.

Every housekeeper should know that if they buy Defiance Cold Water Soap, they will save not only time, but money. Defiance Soap is put up in 3-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Soap is so good, every factory manager should endeavor in every possible way to instruct his patrons by object lessons, argument and printed information to understand the importance of clean milk. Such milk means a better product from the local factory and incidentally a better reputation and price for its product so that the patron in turn will share in the reward of cleanliness.

Russian Decoration for American.
Charles J. Murphy, formerly a foreign agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, has received from Emperor Nicholas of Russia the decoration of the Order of St. Stanislaus. This honor was given him through the Russian embassy at Washington. It was a recognition of his services in behalf of Russia's peasant farmers. The Russian ambassador, when as foreign agent at Berlin of the Department of Agriculture, he started the movement for sending shiploads of corn to Russia. Mr. Murphy was the first to see the need, but at present resides in New York.

Charles J. Murphy, the treasury clerk who was killed a few days ago by falling into a geyser in Yellowstone park, left a will with these curious directions: "The casket shall not rest on the floor, but on a bed of straw. It shall be placed on a high ground, in full sunshine. My grave shall be lined, bottom and sides, with granite blocks not less than one foot thick. The casket shall be placed at my head. It shall not cost more than $80 and shall bear the following inscription: 'Miss Fannie A. Weeks. Died, such a date.' He gives his wife, Mrs. Murphy, $1000. He is buried at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. The Order of the Eastern Star shall officiate. Mr. Wright in the street, northwest, shall be the undertaker."

GET POWER.
The Supply Comes from Food.
If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer. We do not know how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"I can see him watching for me," the engineer said, "and the minute I blow the whistle he'll get away. He fudges a little and he won't get away well, and by the time he gets to the pole the mile is several hundred yards away, his head and tail both extended, and running like a racer. He has a half mile to make his time. The big engine slowly runs away from him, but I'll tell you that mule is determined to win a race yet. He looks for it every morning. When the train blows the whistle he watches and waits until we are out of sight. He takes his run nearly every morning. I'd n't say that mule if he was taken away."

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had a good effect from the very beginning. I was surprised at its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my troubles disappeared. I gained weight, my appetite improved, my blood was purified, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my household work. The Grape-Nuts food did it. Enjoy it by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten day's trial will show anyone some facts about food.

Fifth in Milk.
Were every creamery to save and exhibit the fifth of all sorts removed from milk by sieves and separators, we fancy national milk would be purified and edified thereby. It is truly wonderful how good butter and cheese can be made from milk so evidently contaminated as is much of that delivered at certain country creameries and cheese factories. We dare not set down a complete list of the heterogeneous articles found in such milk, but it includes such common objects as hair sticks, straw manure, grain, chaff, hair, meat, feathers, flies, snails, leather, rubber, leaves, mice, rats, chickens, and, if we remember right, a dead cat. It has been found on one occasion. Just the large objects are of accidental origin of course, and the chief and constant objection has to be made against the lesser, more common, but quite as deleterious foreign bodies referred to. And where solid objects are so commonly found it may be taken for granted that many soluble contaminants are present. When cows are milked with wet hands, milk becomes tainted with dissolved fifth points cannot be removed; and where milk is done in stony and dusty stable floors odors are absorbed and myriad dust particles and germs find their way into the warm milk which is one of the best possible mediums for the growth and spread of germs. Milk coming from the udder into clean pails, in a clean stable, still contains a certain proportion of foreign germs and bacteria. Where the cow inhabits a dirty stable and the milk has to pass through dust-laden air at milking time it is found to be swarming with bacteria. When examined under the microscope these bacteria, whether milk goes to the home setting pans or to the factory it should be protected against contamination as carefully as possible. Every factory manager should endeavor in every possible way to instruct his patrons by object lessons, argument and printed information to understand the importance of clean milk. Such milk means a better product from the local factory and incidentally a better reputation and price for its product so that the patron in turn will share in the reward of cleanliness.

The Farmer and the Fair.
The usual way with the great body of the American farmers of today is to say little, do little and hang back when preparations are being made for our autumn fairs. When the fair day comes and the jockeys and machine men absorb most of the attention, these farmers are at the front looking flumm, and grumbling because the fairs of the fathers are played out and the horse trades and trades people overshadow the products of the farm. Farmers need not growl in rueful regret about this state of affairs when they can so easily remedy it, and should go to work at once to bring back some of the best features of the old-fashioned country fairs. Only think what a crowding and crowning success a fair would be almost anywhere in these western prairie. If only half of the farmers and a tithe of the farmers' wives within a radius of twenty miles, instead of going empty-handed to the fair, would co-operate in exhibiting specimens of their handiwork and products of the home farm. No use, brother farmers, in playing the aboriginal role of growly critic about these modern days of the fair. The earth is still yielding its fat and fourfold increase, and the will to make a home-place farmers' fair can very soon find a way. It would not be an easy feat, but it is a grand place to a topic of discussion at the next meeting and plan out practical ways and means to restore the interest and usefulness of country fairs, a viewed from the standpoint of the domestic home circle and every-day farm life—Farmers' Review.

Evaporation of Soil Moisture.
There has been very little done in the investigation of soil moisture in relation to the evaporation. It has been assumed that the evaporation was from the surface, whether the places of evaporation were a body of water or on an area of soil. But some recent experiments conducted in the department of agriculture at Washington bring out an entirely new phase of the subject. They seem to show that the evaporation takes place largely within the soil itself, that is, in a soil not saturated but sufficiently moist to allow every soil particle to be covered by a film of moisture. In a constant escape of that moisture in the air spaces lying between the particles. This greatly increases the amount of evaporation that can take place from a piece of newly tilled soil, and in fact, any kind of soil lying above the water level. The experiments referred to seem to show that the evaporation is approximately proportional to the amount of water present in the soil, and not only to the amount of water at the very surface, but to the soil that has the largest possible amount of water above saturation gives off more evaporated water than does the soil that is short of saturation. We can therefore see that perhaps moisture from our soil is escaping much more rapidly into the air than we have previously supposed.

Gas for Lighting Formerly Confined to Cities and Large Towns, now in General Use in the Country.

The satisfactory lighting of suburban and country homes requires that the means used shall be convenient, safe, economical and furnish a brilliant, penetrating and brilliant light. Everybody admits that these are not the characteristics of the candle or kerosene lamp, which, formerly, were the only feasible means of producing light for domestic use in the rural districts.

For generations there was a crying need, a yearning for something better, which was not satisfied. A few years ago deliverance came in the shape of the chemical compound, Calcium Carbide, from which, by the simple application of water, acetylene gas is derived. Acetylene meets all the requirements fully and admirably and is being generally used.

Commonly known as carbide, in the form of coke or charcoal are the raw materials which, fused in an intensely heated furnace, make Calcium Carbide, and there is no difficulty in obtaining it in any part of the country. The machine into which the Calcium Carbide is fed and from which the acetylene is distributed through the tubing and delivered, is but little larger than a thirty-gallon milk can, and of the same general form. It is easily and cheaply installed, either in the cellar or in an out-building.

The light from burning acetylene is exquisite, and lighting experts agree that it surpasses all other known illuminants. It does not taint the air nor does it produce any objectionable odor in any respect. Every up-to-date rural residence should be equipped with Acetylene light.

Statesman's Business Training.
Robert Bacon's appointment as assistant secretary of state is of more than usual interest in one respect. His training has not been of the kind that has usually been looked for in the incumbent of the office which he will hold. Among his predecessors were Frederick W. Seward and John Hay, and, more recently, Messrs. Rives, Wharton, Uhl, Day and Hill. All of these were men of more or less skill in either diplomacy, literature or law, whereas Mr. Bacon's training has been in business and especially in finance.

RESTORED HIS HAIR.
Scalp Humor Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment—After All Else Had Failed.

"I was troubled with a severe scalp humor and loss of hair that gave me a great deal of annoyance and inconvenience. After unsuccessful efforts with many remedies and so-called hair tonics, a friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The humor was cured in a short time, my hair was restored as healthy as ever, and I can gladly say I have since been entirely free from the further annoyance. I shall always use Cuticura Soap, and I keep the Ointment on hand to use as a dressing for the hair and scalp. (Signed) Fred C. Busche, 213 East 57th St., New York City."

Venerable Prelate Asks Prayers.
At a meeting of the general synod in Quebec last week all the members stood up while Archbishop Mathewson of Rupert's Land congratulated Archbishop Bord of Montreal in their name upon the anniversary of his sixtieth birthday. The venerable prelate was greatly moved. After a few words of thanks and a reference to the day, sixty-five years ago, when he knelt with his two young men in that very city and felt the hands of the late Bishop Mountain laid on his head in ordination, he turned to the prolocutor, "Pray for me," he said.

CHRONIC ERYSIPELAS.

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Although Whole Body was Affected.

Erysipelas of the Anus and its most uncomfortable disease on account of the burning, the pain and the disfigurement; it is also a very grave disorder, attended always by the danger of involving vital organs in its spread. The case which follows will be read with great interest by all sufferers as it affords the only reliable and successful remedy for the disease. Mrs. Ida A. Colburn, who was the victim of the attack, residing at No. 19 Winter Street, Newburyport, Mass., says:

"In June I was taken ill with what at first appeared to be a fever. I sent for a physician who pronounced my disease chronic erysipelas and said it would be a long time before I got well. 'Inflammation began on my face and neck all over my body. My eyes were swollen and seemed bulging out of their sockets. I was in a terrible plight and suffered almost insupportable pain throughout my body. The doctor said my case was a very severe one. Under his treatment, however, the inflammation did not subside and the pain which shot through my body increased in severity. After being two months under his care, without any improvement, I dismissed him.

"Shortly after this, on the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, two at a dose three times a day. After the second box had been taken I was surprised to find that the inflammation was going down and that the pains which used to cause me much suffering were disappearing. After using six boxes of the pills I was up and around the house attending to my household duties. I feel as well as I have ever felt. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or may be obtained direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y."

Bounded across the open space.

Life of Golden. Louis had waited in expectancy of hearing some unusual sound, some note of warning given. At last, unable to endure the suspense any longer, he here got up. All was darkness and quiet. Leaving his sleeping partners, Limpy Jim and Pete, soundly sleeping, for a moment Louis stood in the doorway of his tent, enveloped in its folds. Through the darkness Lang thought he discovered a moving form between him and Golden's tent. Without a sound, without a moment's delay, Louis bounded across the open space. As he turned to leave his tent he imagined that there was some one prowling around his own tent, but with the thought uppermost in his own mind, to prevent an attack on Golden, he wasted no time in attempting to learn who the prowler was, or what the purpose might be in prowling around his own tent at this unseasonably hour.

As Lang hurried across the open he drew his billy and held it ready for use. Hearing a noise as if a person were going, Louis with a yell of warning boldly entered Golden's tent, and as a form bounded up from the earth, grappled with it. Our hero was placed at rather a disadvantage, not knowing with whom he was tussling—whether an assassin, or Golden himself. The yell uttered by Louis awoke several of the emigrants, some of whom took up the scene. Before help arrived Louis had succeeded in disarming and throwing his antagonist upon the ground.

The arrival of light made explanations easy. Golden's life had been attempted. A light sleeper, the old man had been aroused by hearing somebody feeling about his person. He had attempted to grapple with his assassin. Louis' timely arrival and about had perhaps saved the life of Golden, for the would-be murderer, hung for a moment at the thought of the unexpected arrival of aid for Golden, did not strike the fatal blow; but in the melee which ensued simply blindly struck at his victim, cutting a deep gash in Golden's leg.

your comrades and that may place even your life in jeopardy."

"Never mind me," was Lang's answer. "I look at this differently than you do. If, as you say, the people do not desire your death—they must desire to again place you in power. If such is the case I have gained rather than lost by the transaction! See?"

"You are a riddle," replied Golden, but whether honest or otherwise, I mean to do as you say. Sometime you may tire of Paradise—that is the name of our city. I mean to tell you how and where to leave it when you are ready to do so. I helped build the town and I know where to find the weakest spot. I had an idea when I built, that some time I should like to leave the place and build accordingly, leaving an opening known only to myself. This entrance is through the cellar of a little cottage which is built upon the side of one of the three large hills that surround the town. It is in the shape of a tunnel, which was once the fountain head of the river which flows through the town. Entering the cellar and uncovering the mouth of the tunnel, one could travel to the very heart of the mountain and find an exit through what seems to be a place cave. The door here is protected by an artificial barrier of rocks which could be easily removed. I do not think that this secret has ever been discovered, because over and around the cave I have planted young trees, which undoubtedly hide the entrance. The cottage is supposed to be haunted. When the winds blow, sighs, moans and unearthly noises are heard. You can readily understand that I am the one who haunts that ranch! I put so much confidence in you that I tell you the secret, that you may profit by my experience. It is a terrible thought to have that I am being brought to this terrible out of the way place to be killed—or held in bondage! I am not afraid to die, but I do not wish to die and leave my wife and boy at the mercy of a cruel and unjust world! Yes, I am married—I have a fair-haired, rosy-cheeked boy and a lovely little wife. They are my joy and my pride, and so far above me that I worship them. I have tried to live

MULE RACES WITH A TRAIN.
Takes a Daily "Workout" of Half a Mile Alongside the Cars.

"I'd like to know who owns that mule just east of Bates City," said George Jacques yesterday, the engineer who pulls the Alton's "bummer." (Chicago) Cleared train, into Kansas City. "Talk about running—why, he'd make The Picket or McChesney want to hide. I'll bet he can do a mile in 1:37."

The limited train does not stop at Bates City, and before it passes into the city limits it is doing easily fifty miles an hour. Passing a pasture by the side of the track Jacques has a regular mule race every trip. "I can see him watching for me," the engineer said, "and the minute I blow the whistle he'll get away. He fudges a little and he won't get away well, and by the time he gets to the pole the mile is several hundred yards away, his head and tail both extended, and running like a racer. He has a half mile to make his time. The big engine slowly runs away from him, but I'll tell you that mule is determined to win a race yet. He looks for it every morning. When the train blows the whistle he watches and waits until we are out of sight. He takes his run nearly every morning. I'd n't say that mule if he was taken away."

Not Personal.
"I hope you are not leaving me for any personal reasons. No," said a person. "Oh, no, no, no, no. I'm only leavin' you because me steady young man—he's a policeman, ma'am—has been transferred from this district to the twenty-first, an' 't' he's got to go tonight. Oh, it ain't personal, ma'am."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IN THE BEST OF HEALTH
SINCE TAKING PE-RU-NA.

PE-RU-NA CURED.
Mrs. Lena Smith, N. Cherry street, cor. Line, Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I have had poor health for the past four years, pains in the back and groins, and dull, sick headaches, with bearing down pains."
"A friend, who was very enthusiastic about Peruna insisted that I try it."
"I took it for ten days and was surprised to find that I had a little pain, and I therefore continued to use it and at the end of two months my pains had totally disappeared."
"I have been in the best of health since and feel ten years younger. I am very grateful to you."
Catarrh of the internal organs gradually saps away the strength, undermines the vitality and causes nervousness. Peruna is the remedy.

ACETYLENE GAS
Tuesday morning after the body had been discovered and men went to Mr. Streed's rooms they found two lamps burning, one in the front and the other in the back room.
Case is Puzzling.
On the table in one of the rooms were numerous letters and it seemed that Mr. Streed had been reading the letters previous to his departure. There is difficulty in reconciling people here to a theory of either murder or suicide. Mr. Streed had no enemies so far as known, hence there appears no motive for murder, yet the direction of the bullet wound in the head makes some people certain that the gun was not fired by his own hand.
Mr. Streed's business affairs were in good condition and his domestic relations were happy. His practice was increasing and he apparently had no reason for taking his own life. The whole affair is shrouded in great mystery.

BILL HENDON'S LAWYER'S LIFE

John V. Streed Is Found Dying at Cambridge From Wound in Head.
MYSTERY ENVELOPS THE CASE

Revolver, With One Chamber Empty, Is Found Beneath the Body, While the Attorney's Pistol Was in a Drawer in His Room.

Cambridge, Ill., dispatch: John V. Streed of Cambridge, vice president of the state organization of the Swedish-American Republican league and one of the widest known attorneys of Henry county, is dead as the result of a bullet wound inflicted in the back of his head. The coroner's jury is wrestling with the question whether he was murdered or committed suicide.

The body was found at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning at the door of an out-house at the back of the lot on which the postoffice building, in which he had his office, stood. The body showed signs of life, but it was evident that the man was in a dying condition. Shortly after 10 o'clock the breathing stopped and the mystery which hung over the case deepened.

No word was uttered by the victim from the time the body was discovered until death sealed his lips. Body in Pool of Blood.

Arthur Crawford, a butcher of Cambridge, discovered the bleeding form when he was starting his day's work. The body lay on the ground, the head being surrounded by a great pool of blood. One foot was on the step of the small out-house, and blood being found on the step it was surmised that the shooting occurred while Mr. Streed stood in the door.

Under the body when it was moved there was found a revolver, thirty-two caliber and hammerless. Five of the chambers were loaded, but the sixth was empty. It is supposed that the bullet from this sixth chamber was the one which entered Mr. Streed's head.

The attorney's own revolver was found in a drawer in his room. In the pool of blood in which the head lay was found a handkerchief, giving rise to the belief that the dying man had taken it from his pocket after he had been wounded.

Lynch Negro in Arkansas
Mob Hangs Miscreant in Front of His Victim's Home.
Covington, Ark., dispatch: Frank Brown, a negro, was taken from the jail here late Friday night to the outskirts of the town and hanged by a mob. The lynching was so quietly done that for the townspeople know of its occurrence. The negro was held for attacking Mrs. Lawrence, killing her five-year-old son and stabbing her baby daughter. He was hanged in front of the house occupied by Mrs. Lawrence.

Lovers Are Drowned.
Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: Willis H. Bonham, a stenographer employed at the headquarters of the International Typographical union, and his sweetheart, Lucy D. Miller, were drowned in the White river at Broad Ripple park while canoeing.

DEATH SEEMED NEAR.

How a Chicago Woman Found Help When Hope Was Fast Fading Away.
Mrs. E. T. Gould, 914 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are all that saved me from death. Bright's Disease, that I knew, I had eye trouble, backache, catarrh, when lying back or when bending over, was in use in the same household for generations. Among such people the old-fashioned proprietary medicine, always at hand with full printed instructions for use, is one of the necessities of life."

"To families in the country many miles from a doctor such remedies are invaluable. 'Mother's medicine chest' has saved many a life and not many a threatening sickness at the threshold and turned it out of doors. So far from constituting self-protection, as is often pretended, acquaintance with a 'patent medicine' often obviates the necessity of such a step; for here is a prescription already made up, the effect of which is well known. One of the greatest advantages of such medicine is that its constant formula gives it the character of a single drug, so far as uniformity of result is concerned, and the people who use it know from experience just what they can count on—which is more than can be said of many physicians' prescriptions frequently obtained at a far greater cost and trouble."

"GENERAL" FOR 25 CENTS
The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway is distributing a very beautiful lithograph, 18x25 inches, of the famous engine "General," which is now on exhibition in the Union Depot, Chattanooga, Tenn. The picture is ready for framing and has been mailed to any address for twenty-five cents. The "General" was captured by the Andrews' Raiders at Big Shanty, Ga., on the morning of the Western & Atlantic Railroad, April 12, 1862, and was recaptured by General W. A. Fuller, after an exciting chase of about ninety miles. It was one of the most thrilling exploits of the Civil War. The object of the raid was to burn the bridges on the Western & Atlantic Railroad and cut off the Confederate Army from its base of supplies. A booklet, "The Story of the General," sent free upon application.

Like Flaming Money.

Flu, a little is like finding money. It is like finding money. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber of Smyth, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and dust on my lungs; but after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At the Barrington Pharmacy, 10c and 50c guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

W. R. C. ENTERTAINS

Thomas W. Sweeney of C. C. of this village has an established reputation for entertaining guests for the public, and in times past have received many compliments for the generous hospitality and hearty welcome accorded to visiting bodies, but none was more justly deserved than that pronounced by Past National Vice-Commander Minnie A. Oldyard, yesterday, when she remarked: "I have been received by many corps throughout my jurisdiction, welcomed at national and state encampments, but I cannot recall an occasion where the hospitality was so open, welcome so genuine and informal, as demonstrated by the Barrington corps."

Yesterday the corps entertained a large delegation of ladies, representatives from Dundee and Wauconda. 50 ladies being present. The regular meeting was held in Sott's hall, G. A. R. hall proving inadequate to the occasion. Mrs. M. A. Oldyard of Washington, D. C. past national vice-commander, who was returning from the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Denver, was present and delighted the ladies with a report of that great gathering.

At the conclusion of the business session the assembly escorted by the color bearers, marched to G. A. R. hall where a tempting luncheon was served and a season of genuine sociability enjoyed until 5:30 when guests took departure for their homes.

WORK OF JAP. SURGEONS

Dr. Suzuki Tells How Deaths From Disease Were Lessened.

DUE TO THE ASEPTIC METHOD

Japanese Surgeon General Says There Was Very Little Field Surgery—Bullets and Shell Wounds Were Treated With Sterilized Water and Cotton and Left to Heel.

At the annual banquet of the American Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists at the Hotel Astor in New York the other night Surgeon General Suzuki of the Imperial Japanese army told about 160 of the most prominent surgeons in the United States how the mortality had been kept down in the recent war says the New York Times. The reason, he explained, was simply the aseptic methods well established by the surgeons in the United States, but which have never been applied here before. "The only thing about which the Japanese wished to hear him speak," he said, "was the aseptic method. For, as they confessed, the Japanese died of disease more than of wounds. Their credit had astonished the world."

"I have just come from the front," Surgeon General Suzuki explained when he gave his speech, "and I saw the way to the congress at Detroit. It is a very time since I have been here, and my tongue has grown a bit rusty. I will tell you just about it. It is with a little point to be used in a case of surgery—namely, one treatment of the wounded. The method, I know, is familiar to you; you know it. I have tried it in the 1911 battle, and I think you will be interested in it."

"You know that quite awhile before the war began I was being told of the Japanese method of treating the wounded. In writing to hospitals from which the surgeons were to be chosen I was careful to note those surgeons who were familiar with the aseptic method and those who were conservative. By conservative I meant those surgeons who would not too quickly give the wounded of arms and legs by amputation."

"We used no carbolic acid or other antiseptic. We used simply sterilized water and sterilized cotton. In most instances we did not attempt to probe the wound for the bullet or the fragment of a shell. We simply washed the edges of the wound with the sterilized water and then bound it up with the sterilized cotton. We lost no time on the battlefield in performing hazardous or complicated surgery. We simply washed the skin and the edges of the wound with this sterilized cotton, and we found that in most instances it healed with remarkable celerity."

"One must recall that, you remember, was with China, and that was ten years ago. I was absolutely responsible for this new method, and you may be assured that I was very anxious to learn how the Japanese treated the wounded. I have the most gratifying result to tell you of, for-treated in this way we lost in one hospital only 32 out of 620 men who were admitted. You must know that this is very low."

"I have told you that our method was not to probe for bullets and shells immediately, for we have learned that bullets and shells are aseptic. A captain, for example, saw a wounded soldier where I was stationed was shot in the calf of the leg. The fragment of the shell had entered so deep into the wound that it was not easy to get at. We washed it with aseptic cotton and bandaged it with aseptic cloth and it healed readily. Later, when he had more done, he was taken to hospital to have the fragment of a shell cut out, which was done, and the wound healed quickly."

"It was only when a fragment of cloth was forced into the wound that it suppurred. So when we found that the wound was not healing as it should we opened it again and got the fragment of cloth out. Then it generally healed."

"I would like you to bear in mind that it was not I who achieved these splendid results, but the men under me. I merely did the directing, they in a great measure did the work."

The Japanese surgeon general was heartily cheered by the surgeons, both when he entered the hall and at the conclusion of his speech.

An Asylum Without Locks.

The asylum in the mountains at South Barrington, Ill., is now without locks and bars, the last one having been removed by Superintendent Zeller, says a Special Mail dispatch to the Kansas City Times. This is in accordance with a step long in contemplation by Dr. Zeller, he having become convinced that more can be accomplished by kindness than by forcible restraint. The inmates now enjoy a large personal liberty, and the effect has been apparent in a notable improvement in their conduct.

Autumn Leaves.

Flower and leaf of vine and tree, Grains of wisdom, seeds of mirth—Remember autumn's gifts to you.

Smoke like haze on vale and hill, Flashes of gold and crimson bright Into life's long day and night.

Field and forest with their light, All the glory of the year kindled in the sun and air.

Soon the winter will be here; Soon the burden—then the snow.

So these lovely leaves I lay From the trees of autumn's day; Emblems for a winter's day.

When the autumn's fire is dead, Frank Dempster Sherman in American Illustrated Magazine.

WORLD'S "BOSS LIFT"

Tourists Shot Up the Alps in an Electric Elevator.

The highest elevator in the world has been installed opposite Lucerne, in Switzerland, at the celebrated viewpoint of Burgstock, and the Lucerne cable car special pride in pointing out to the American visitor that he has to come aboard to see the "boss lift" of the world, says a special cable dispatch from Lucerne to the New York American and Journal.

To reach this remarkable elevator the traveler takes the cog road from Reichen on the slope of the lake to the hills of Kehrstein. Thence a most picturesque road out of the rocky side of the mountains takes you in thirty minutes to the elevator, the shaft of which is hidden in a grotto carved alongside the engine house.

The elevator is run by electricity. The carriage or cage is twelve feet square, and its passengers are limited to seven. When the signal to start is given the cage rises for 213 feet through a well of masonry, then comes suddenly into the daylight, and for 287 feet it is carried in a steel lattice-work to the landing stage, the total ascension of 500 feet being made in less than three minutes.

From the landing stage an open gallery leads to the summit of the Harnschwand mountain 3,500 feet above the sea level. From this point a glorious view is had of the lake of the Four cantons and of the Alps of Uri and Unterwald.

The elevator cage is lifted by two steel cables and contains an arrangement by which, in the event of the electric power being interrupted, it can be lowered by hand to the starting point. For those who are not subject to vertigo, the latter has been fixed along the whole length of the shaft.

WORM WITH FEATHERS.

Has a Poisonous Bite, Too, as Many North Carolinians Can Testify.

A feathered worm has made its appearance in different parts of North Carolina, and a number of people have been bitten by it. It is a new species, a special dispatch from Asheville, N. C., to the New York Times.

The insect is not unlike a white earthworm, but has a covering of brown down, secured by a young bird. Its life is so poisonous that in a few seconds after receiving the wound the victim swells enormously and displays symptoms not unlike those of snakebite.

The worm feeds on maple trees and rosebushes. Its presence on the latter accounts for the number of women victims. No one is able to classify the insect. Several specimens are being prepared for shipment to Washington for examination to establish its identity.

GOOD NIGHT KISS SIGNAL.

Trolley's Bell Hung For a Mile So Young Men Can Catch Last Car.

Apparently unaccused for clanging the gong for a whole mile through Main street by the motorman on the electric car which leaves Winsted, Conn., at 10:25 p. m. for Torrington has led to the discovery that it is a signal for the many Torrington young men who court Winsted young women to stop loitering if they wish to catch the last car for home, says a special dispatch from Winsted, Conn., to the New York World.

A carload of Torrington women came to Torrington to call on sweethearts. The clanging of the motor bell was more reliable than most clocks. The lovers' signal is a nuisance to the citizens, however, and now it is supposed some threaten to petition the board of wardens and burgesses.

Wolf Fishing in Indian Territory.

Wolf fishing is a new sport in the Ark-mike mountains, Indian Territory, and seems to be growing in popular favor, says the Kansas City Journal. This scheme was introduced by Keeney Bran and J. B. Dickson, the "mayor elect" of Turner Falls. The gentlemen conceived the idea of baiting a large fishhook with fresh meat and suspended about three feet from the ground, secured by a strong wire. They placed eight hooks on swinging limbs one night and next morning went out and found one large gray wolf and a monster hole. These wolves were shot with rifles and their pelts carried to the falls. Orders for large fishhooks are going into Davis from many camps, and the art of wolf fishing will be studied at Turner Falls during the coming season.

Automobile Pillows.

Although the art of being comfortable is not peculiar to the United States, American women seem to be remarkably proficient in it, says the New York Press. The most luxury model of the New York motor made and marketed by Newport maids and matrons who "note" is the automobile pillow. Now when they speed about in their up-to-date "whiz cars" they recline not only on the soft leather cushions with which the seats are upholstered, but also on the soft, silk, downy affairs which might be a part of a cozy corner, but which now are clamped to the motor cars. As society cannot endure anything that smacks of discomfort, it is at present endorsing the inventive genius who thought of fitting up automobiles with pillows.

Matting Collars and Cuffs Now.

Winsted (Conn.) people are sending hundreds of collars and cuffs through the mails instead of souvenir postal cards, says a Winsted special to the New York World. The address is written on one side and generally a few lines on the other. Postmaster James P. Gynn is expecting next to get a white shirt with the bosom stained and addressed.

CHINA'S REAWAKENING.

Coming Nation of the East, Predicts Rev. Dr. T. Richard.

SOON TO OUTSTRIP JAPAN, HE SAYS

Determined to Develop Along Same Lines as Mikado's Kingdom, Says an Old Resident of China—Fuels Yoke of European Tyranny Keenly and Will Shake It Off—Danger of Future Glorified.

"China is bound to be the coming nation of the east. It will soon be ahead of Japan." This is the prophecy of a man who has spent thirty-six years in China and hopes to end his days there. It is that of the Rev. Dr. T. Richard, who has lived an interesting conversation recently in London. Says a member of the London Daily News staff.

"China will be greater than Japan within a century," the doctor declared, still in prophetic vein. The past history of China, considered with the remarkable movements now maturing there, leaves no room for doubt that together a larger number of people than you find in any other nation in the world. It has done that for over 2,000 years. That means great power of organization. Now that China is adopting new methods you will find it will still be able to hold together in face of all the world."

"The use of arms in China has held together a larger number of people than you find in any other nation in the world. It has done that for over 2,000 years. That means great power of organization. Now that China is adopting new methods you will find it will still be able to hold together in face of all the world."

"Well, China is determined to develop along the same lines as Japan. The Chinese are prepared to modify their laws and customs. They are going to learn everything they can from western civilization. In thirty years' time, having learned all that Europeans can teach them, they will get of their teachers, as Japan has. Then you will see them rise ahead of Japan and become as powerful a nation as any in Europe."

"In Japan nursing them?" To some extent she is. The Japanese have for ten years been organizing an Asiatic league. This league is not only identified with China, but with the nations of Asia. Statesmen from Siam, India and Persia, as well as from China, are influenced by the league and visit Japan solely in connection with its objects."

"Which are?" "To resist the west with its own weapons, but with an army far superior in numbers. The people of Asia are sick of the white peril. The arrogance of Europeans has become unbearable to them. China feels this more keenly than the other Asiatic nations. The Boxer rising was but an expression of that feeling. That rebellion taught the Chinese they could do nothing against European armies without European methods. They will not rise against the Europeans again until they have learned what the Japanese have learned. And then as a great power they will outstep the Japanese. The people in England—many in Europe—have no idea of the extent to which China is stirring its armies and training its men."

"And what does it all mean?" "It means many things. First, China does not intend to be at the mercy of Japan. It is a mistake to suppose that Japan is going to do what she likes with China. It also means that China is determined to shake off the yoke of European tyranny, which she feels keenly."

"Then you see a future of bloodshed?" "What I feel is that unless the nations of Christendom begin at once to act justly toward China the day may come when China may inflict a terrible revenge upon the white races for their tyranny to the Chinese in their times of weakness. The Chinese are as much infuriated with the fear of the white peril as Europeans are with the fear of the yellow peril. Unless the two continents change their attitude toward each other, how fearful bloodshed is to be avoided."

"Can they change?" "I am sure that so far as China is concerned its development can go on without war. That is, however, depends wholly on the attitude of Europeans. Let them be peaceful, and the Chinese will be peaceful. Let them make war, and the Chinese will make war. The reawakening of China has not only brought a war party to the front, it has brought a peace party to the front. It depends on the attitude of western nations as to which party becomes supreme in China. One of the main objects of my present visit to England is to plead for more peaceful relations in our and other nations' dealings with China."

"Failing which"—

"China will soon have a standing army that will threaten the peace of the whole world. It is not too late for western nations to prevent that, and in preventing it they would learn the lesson of universal peace themselves."

Tan Shoes For Winter Wear.

"A new winter tan shoe is to be worn this fall," said a traveling salesman recently to a Kansas City reporter at the Coates House, in Kansas City, Mo., "and men who like foot comfort will appreciate it. In the past the real objection to tan shoes was that the water has been their staining and discoloration by slush and rain. A new method of tanning has been discovered that avoids those objections, and makers controlling the process are busy lasting the shoes."

Swiss Guards' Birthday.

The Swiss Guards guard the Vatican will celebrate its four hundredth birthday next month. It was established by Pope Julius II. In October, 1505.
