An interesting problem for the pa-thologists is presented in the case of the limate of an insane asymm who has won a prize of $250 for the solu-tion of a rebus and an essay on an as-signed topic. Such deverness in an unsound mind is in decided contradic-tion to the theory of a prominent as-tress that Ophelia was not insane be-cause she could distinguish the differ-ent varieties of flowers.

vention is yet to come. There is a vast room for improvement at large, but it was not to be supposed that Menlo Park could make a new record.

A simple remedy for that prolonged chilliness of the whole body which often aggravates if it does not cause a severe cold is always at command, and that is deep breathing. Warm drinks and even exercise are sometimes out of the question, but long drafts of fresh air will freed the internal fires and banish chilliness. It is a common notion that bodily exercise produces warmth simply by setting the blood in circulation. This is but part of the truth. Lively exercise quickens preading and resiews the air in the lungs. If one is obliged to sit in a cold closed room or carriage the windows should be desired for a few breaths of fresh air and the product of the cold of the co

That means about $250,000, 000, or half a billion dollars, a year. Our civil war of four years duration cost the north alone $4,000,000,000, During the closing months the gov-ernment outlay was $1,000,000 a day. It cost the alies a billion and a quar-ter to give Napoleon his Waterloo.

European Unfriendliness to America

European Unifiendliness to America.
The unificialliness of Europeans for the United States during the SpanishAmerican war is recalled by the Hon.
Andrew D. White in a current magazine article on diplomatic life. Mr.
White handles the subject as though his statements might be received with doubt, but this particular instance of foreign hostility did not pass unnotice at the time, nor is it likely to be soo at the time, nor is it likely to be soon forcetten. Europe's attitude of the Eu-opean people toward the citizens of this country have never been friendly when friendliness would mean any-thing beyond mere verbul platitudes. Doubtless, as Mr. White's argument implies, the sect of European unifriend-liness, or even hostility when it goes so far as that, is in the court circles, after that in the citubs, the drawing rooms and in the press. But the mass of peo-

But the mass of people over the sea have no adequate means of finding out for themselves and of forming independent opinions, and the ideas fostered at the top of so-clety filter down through all circles. However, this is no mistor time and is indeed a compliment, America is Euroy's reart rival, and success ful rivals are never loved, however much they may be courted to an complimented when there is an object in view.

Europeans like to sell goods to us and Europeans like to sell goods to us and ere ready to buy from us when they get good bargains, but never otherwise, and they care just so much for Ameri-cans as any sensible business man does for a client who buys freely and pays promptly. It is well to realize this and be prepared to stand alone. Dainth Lawrer Thinks she Will Bethe Mest Robust American Woman.

Mothers and women who are not mothers, but who are fond of children, are appalled by the radical departure-from the usual method of rearing a child resorted to by J. H. Whitely of Duluth, Minn, says the New York Press. His daughter Corinne, elgitteen months old, sleeps in a basket on the mounth old, sleeps in a basket on the take. With the thermometer far below zero the child sleeps in her airy berth and at times has been taken indoors by the maid covered with snow. Whitely believes she will grow up to be the healthlest young woman in the land through this rigid treatment. The fatter of the child keeps his relatives informed as to the progress of his continuous of his experiment. Willing to his father in Washington, Pa. where Whitely formerly lived, he says his little daughter sleeps in the hiting air-every day and that she enjoys her resimmensely.
