To Limber the Hands.

Women who do much housework often find their hands and fingers becoming stiff and therefore awkward. Perfectly limber wrists and fingers can never look awkward, and their owner will never be at a loss what to do with ber hands.

Certain simple exercises, in the power

Certain simple exercises, in the power of the busiest woman to perform, will prevent the stiffening process and even stop it, after it has set in. The first is that movement of the arms which sets free the shoulder muscles. Stand erect, with the muscles of your hands, arms and shoulders as limber as possible. Then raise your arms, pulms upward, to a level with your you can nottward on each side of you, think of yourself as trying to tear your arms and shoulders away from your backbone, and you will get the idea. Do this rapidly a dozen times at least once a day.
