Birthdays.

BY MAHGARET E. SANGSTER.

(Copyright, 106, by Joseph 18. Bowles).

Speaking of birthdays, do you remember how proud you were on the day when you slipped out of 12 into 137. That was a real mile-stone on the road, and you felt a good deal taller and much more important when you in the first lozen years of your life. Then, when 16 came and three more of the wonderful white mile-stones had been passed, you were again in a different world. Girlhoou, has many phases and changes and is altogether a most interesting and fascinating period both to those who stand by and watch it, and to those whe are in the large of the stand of the stand by any book. Every girl should have one, so that she may keep in mind the birthdays of the dear people at home, of teachers, friends, chums and everybody in whom she has some measure of interest. It does not so much matter what the name of the particular as emilment in prose or verse for every day in the year, and a blank space under each date, where a mes of friends; chums are of receiver each each each cat, where hames of friends can be considered and a semilment in prose or verse for every day in the year, and a blank space under each date, where a mes of friends can sirthags look as but it should have a sentiment in prose or verse for every day in the year, and a blank space under each date, where names of friends may be written.

Nothing gives more pleasure to a friend at a distance than to receive a letter from Bessie or Marjorie on the morning of a birthday, a letter carrying good wishes, a message of the carrying good wishes, a message of a wind of the carrying good wishes, a message of a wind of the carrying good wishes, a message of a wind with a wi she had bridged over the space between by her word in season.

Does there happen to be among your acquaintances a girl who he ser relatives and is far from home, or a girl who is ser relatives and is far from home, or a girl who is a tired and drooping, or eitli another shut in by iliness and compelled to sit still by the hour instead of going about as you do at her own sweet will? Any one of these girls would will? Any one of these girls would brittle and the season has been about it he had brittle and the season has been about the home season has been and the season her rifends should be wise in advance of the date. You will then choose the place where the shower is to be given. If at the girls own home, her friends will meet there and take her by surprise, although they will be wise if they give a hint beforehand to her mother or older sister as to their latention.

Surprises may fall on a household fatention. Surprises may fall on a household at an inconvenient moment, and it is of the family into confidence before proceeding with them. The girl herself may be kept very properly in ignormance of the compliment that is to be paid her. Brides often have showers of lines or chins before their wedding days, but I see no reason why other people may not have showers, too. Yours to your friend who has a birth-day may include plants, photographs, flowers in bloom, books, bon bons or, anything else that you choose to bring, and the greater the variety the more pleasing the occasion will be.

A girl I knew had a birthday shower gives her and years after it, looking over a box of souvenirs, she found among other uitte things that had been put away, a bit of cardboard with been put away, a bit of cardboard with and stitched carvalled in steel beads white satin ribbon. The spices of white satin ribbon. The other had not seen or heard from one another in a long time, but the motto with its quaint message of unchanging love was prectous to her who had put it away in her box of treasures, while sake was yet in her teens.

You will not think that I am preaching, will you, if I hint that each birth-day should mark a definite advance in wisdom and knowledge and find us better fitted to help one another than we were a year ago? Little things make up the sum of our lives. If we are fretful and cross, easily disturbed and quick to resent grievances, we shall be hard to get on with, trouble-some to ourselver and disagreeable to, our friends.

Means of Bringing Sinners to Repentance, Minister Saw They Were What He Needed,

Were What He Needed.

In a rural town in Michigan lived a family named Beaver, noted for their hardthood in all manner of maughtiness. They were the great torment of the minister's life. Finally, one of the boys was bit by a rattlesnake and sent for him. He found the lad greatly scared and very penitent. After some conversation, the reverend gentleman closed the interview by prayer.

"O, Lord," he began, "we thank thee for rattlesnakes. We thank thee that a rattlesnake has bit Jim. Send another, we pray thee, to bits Tom, and one to bits Joe. And, O Lord, send the biggest kind of a rattlesnake to bits the old man; for nothing less than rattlesnakes will bring this Beaver family to repentance."—Metaphysical Magazine.
