That flows from the niche in the hill, leeds not that the bird on the blosson spray its mute to hear her trill te mute to hear her trill te tender lilt of an old love song, for she catches the throng's acclaim the voice of the brook and the whit ing bresse—hey bring her the message of fame.

The youth with his hand on the stut plow.

As furrow on furrow be turns,

Bares his head to the tempter breeze

And a wondrous fire there burns

In the depths of his steadfast, grave y

The student bending to parchment

the student usuam or page.

While the midnight off burns low, believes on and on, for the way is long.

That the searcher for truth must ground the searcher for truth must ground the searcher for truth such as the searcher for truth grown of the searcher for truth the guest, shadowed from Comme creeping the city's call.

Faint and far, like a thing of dreams, With palace and mart and spire. With the tread of a million hurrying fe With hope and regret and desire— The city lies and it calls with a voice That touches men's souls with fire.

ight, by Lothrop Publishing CHAPTER XVII.

CHAPTER XVII.

A NOT DAY IN NEW YORK. WITM
NEWS OF AN INTEREST.

NEWS OF AN INTEREST.

At five o'clock that day the prow of the Vilicac cut the waters of Newport harbor around Goat Island, and pointed for New York.

"Now is your time," and Mrs. Dreimer to Mauburn, "I'm sure the girl likes you, and this row with the Milbreys has cut off any chance that cab had. Why not propose to her tomight try assemed to be setting on."

night;"
"I have seemed to be getting on," answered Mauburn. "But walt a bit There's that confounded girl over there No telling what she'll do. She might knock things on the head any moment."

"All the more reason for prompt action, and there couldn't very well be anything to hurt you."

"By Jove! that's so; there couldn't, very well, could there? I'll take your advice."

advice."
And so it befell that Mauburn and Miss Bines sat late on deck that hight, and under the witchery of a moon that must long size have become hardened to the spectacle, the old, old story was told, to the accompaniment of the lengine's muffled throb, and the soft purring of the silver waters as they slipped by the boat and blended with the creamy track satern. So little variation was there in the time-worn tale, and in the maid's reception of it, that neither need here be told of in detail.

tale, and in the maid's reception of it, that neither need here be told of in detail.

Nor were the proceedings next morning less tamely orthodox. Mrs. Bliese managed to forget her relationship of elder sister to the poor long ensurement of the sister of elder siste

"Stay here with the turtle doves," "Better not try to describe here of, of course, to let them coo, and I'll be back with any people I can pick up to the letter of a rouse."

Af five in the afternoon Percival had garden and the street of the live of the street of the live of the li

BARRINGTON BEVIEW.

M. T. LAMEY, Ed. and Pub.
BARRINGTON. ILLINOIS.

THE CALL OF THE CITY.

Paint and far, like a thing of dreams, With pope and regret and desire—The city less and teall with avoice That touches mee's souls with firs.

The solids service har po the rim of the day.
And sfar to the rising sun,
The valleys between bear lilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between bear lilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between bear lilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys between the rilles white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys have a could be the revening papers and he beauth of the day of the revening papers and to all white,
As the smood of a doistered nun;
The valleys of the thirt time by the next in line of this illustrious family, the Hon. Cecil G. H. Mauburn.

"The Hon. Cecil G. H. Mauburn, mentioned in the above cable dispatch, has been rather well known in New York society for two years past. His engagement to the daughter of a Montana mining magnate, not long deceased, has been persistently rumored."

Mauburn was pale under his freckles.
"Have they seen it yet?"

"I don't think so," she answered. "We might drop these papers over the rail here."

"That's rot, Mrs. Drelmer; it's sure to be taiked of, and anyway i don't want to be sneaky, you know."

Percival came up from the cabin with a paper in his hand.

"I see you have it, too," he said, smilling. "Burman just handed me this."

"Isn't it perfectly disreputable!" ex-this."

"Int' it perfectly disreputable!" es-claimed Mrs. Drelmer.
"Why? I only hope I'll have as much interest in life by the time I'm that age."
"But how will your sister take it?" asked Mauburn; "she may be afraid this will knock my title on the head,

"Oh, I see," said Percival; "I hadn't thought of that."
"Only it can't," continued Mauburn
"Hang it all, that blasted old begga

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

will be 89, you know, in a fortnight.
There simply can't be any issue of the marriage, and that—that blasted—"

"To be sure!" Mauburn assented.
"And now, thank the Lord, we're under way. Desan't that brees saws your life, though? We'll sat here on deck."
The Villuc awung into mid-stream, and was soon racing to the north with a crowded Pall Piver boat.
"But anyway," concluded Pertval, after he had explained Mauburn's position vito his sister, "he's a good fellow, and if you suit each other even the unexpected wouldn't make any differsoce."

ation to his sizter, "he's a good fellow, and if you suite each other even the un-expected wouldn't make any difference."

"Of course not," she assented, "they read to the guines's stamp," I know from it is to the guines's stamp," I know for quite at time yet, any ray,—it's such for quite at time yet, any ray,—it's such for quite at time yet, any ray,—it's such for justified one who had proposed it. "Does it have whisky in it!"

"It does," replied Percival, overhearing the question; "whisky may be said to pervade, even to infest it. Try dwe of six, old man; that many make a great one-night trouble cure. And I can't have anyone with troubles on this Cunarder—not fer the next 30 days, I need cheerfulness and rest for a long time after this day in tows. Ahl Ges. Hemingway says that disner is served; let's be at it before the things get all hot!"

Assuredly she goess.

Me became interested in the kidneys.

"If Marie had been a man," he remarked, feelingly, "I often suspect that her fame as a chef would have been second to none. Really, the suavity of her sauces is a never-ending delight a new reason—why you must talk to Avice."

"The monsy—yes, yes, my dear, I know, we all know. Indeed, I're put it to her plainly. She knows how norely Fred needs it. She knows how that beast of a tailor is threatening to be nesty—and I've explained how invaluable Mrs. Wybert would be, reminding her of that lady's generous hint about the rise in Federal Steel, which enabled me to net the neat little profit of $19,000 a month ago, and how, but for that, we might have been scutized distressed. Yet has subblormly clings to the notion that this marriage would be a mesalliance for the Mibrerys."
I agree with her," replied his wife, tersely.

into money enough—God only knowhow—to gratify it. I could tell it, if nothing else showed it, by the way in which she overdoor respectability. She has the thousand and one artificial little rules for propriety that one never little rules for propriety that one never little rules for propriety has no carried to lapse soone or later. She would marry Fred because of his standing, because he's a favorite with the smartpeople she thinks she'd like to be paily with. Then, after a little she'd rus off with a German dialect comedian or something, like that appailing person Nornie Whitmund married."

"But the desire to be respectable, my dear—and you say this woman has it —is a might lever. I'm no cynic about your servous reluteder to shind about your servous reluteder to shind
a special consent to be a factor in the feminine equation."

"It's nothing more than a massing of their—ah—eccentricities if it should cease to be a factor in the feminine equation."

"It's nothing more than a passing fad with this person—besides, that's not what I've to tell you."
"But you, yourself, were not averse to Fred's marrying her, in spite of these opinions you must secretly have held."
"Not while it seemed absolutely nee-mary—not while the case was so brutally desperate, when we were actually pressed—"
"Remember, my dear, there's nothing magic in those 310,000. They're winged dollars like all their mates, and most of them, I'm sorry to say, have already flown to places where they'd long been expected."

Mrs. Milbrey's sensation was no longer to be repressed. She had toyed with the situation sufficiently. Her hushand was now skillfully dissecting the deviled thighs of an immature chicker.

All Gen. Hearingary ary that discourse her is served; let's be at it before the things get all hot!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

A SENARTONAL TURN IN THE MINBERY PORTUNES.

In the sedate Milbrey dising-room be the many and the things of the things of the presence of the things of the breakfast it table, comfortably near the hearth, satiful comfortably near the hearth, satiful the good he polded the tips of his slender white fingers to the surface of the water in the bowl, and was now glanding leisurely at the part of guests on his slender white fingers to the surface of the water in the bowl, and was now glanding leisurely at the part of guests on his same and fruit. On the second page of the paper the pare many the firm of the proper and the property of the pro take a month to think it over—"

TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Dumb, Dead Silence.

The parliament of Australia had an ali-night session recently. The ringing of belis, which occurred at frequent intervals when a vigilant member drew attention to the absence of a quorum, "suppiled a kind of triangle accompaniment to the trombone-like notes of the sleepers." Under these dircumstances, the remark of Joseph Cook, who complained loudly aleeping members, must have been ironical. The sleepers were unmoved, however. The postmaster general was in charge of the bill, but, we are told, his "head began to fall gracefully forward upon his breast, and he pulled up his collar, as if seeking more warmth." Mr Cook was naturally indignant. Here is the minister in charge of these proposals sleeping like a bird with his head upon his shoulder!" he exclaimed, vividly. A little of order. "Is an honorable member in order in snorting so loudly that I cannot hear?"

not hear?"

Last Advice from Wife.

William Brookfield, the English shurchman, used to tell this story:
"The new bishop of New Zealand, in a farewell and pathetic interview with his mother after his appointment, was thus addressed by her in such sequence as sobs and tears would permit: T suppose they will eat you, my dear—I try to think otherwise, but if suppose they will. Well! We will leave it in the hands of Providence.
But if they do—mind, my dear, and disagree with them."

Balletons Francisco.

disagree with them."

Raligious Freedom.
It is stated that ten persons have left the orthodox church of Russia and united with the Swedish Lutheran St. Catharine's congregation in St. Petersburg. When the new members were received by the pastor of the congregation, the church was filled to its utmost capacity. These ten persons were the first who toks advantage of the caar's late ukase giving religious freedom.

freedom.

Good Company.

Life is not so bad for the man who neanders down the path leading to eternity hand in hand with a sympachetic woman.—Chlosop Daily News.

Illinois State News

Recent Happenings of Interest in the Various Cities

Girl Asks $20,000 Damages.
Bloomington.—Miss Mary Beans, of Knoc county, has fied suit asking $20,000 damages against R. J. Deany, of Burlington, Ia., alleging breach of nromiae.

Burlington, ia., alleging breach of promise.

The complainant alleges that in Jane, 1903, the defendant promised to marry her, but two years later asked for a positonement. Last December of 1904, but the date for the pring of 1904, but the again backed out, and pow denice he were promised to marry her.

Miss Beans was formerly Denny's housekeeper.

housekeeper.

Brakeman Seriously Injured.

Havana—W. R. Comingore, a resident of Kilbourne, and employed as a brakeman on the Havana-Jacksonville branch of the C. P. & St. L. salroad, met with an accident which may result in the amputation of one or both legseway to be a support of the company of the comp

Boy Badly Hurt by Fall.
Carlinville—Lee Oaborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oaborn, residing at Medora, this county, received a serious wound while stempting to climb a telephone pole in front of the Medoracreamery building. His feet slipped and he was caught under (the left arm by one of; the iron brackets that are made use of in climbing the pale.
Quite a surface was torn and mutilated.

Shoots Girl, Mother and Self,
Columbia. — Because Minnie Kalosky, 19 years old, refused to wed him, Charles Hoffman, aged 46, shot the sift and her mother and her purman will die. Mrs. Kalosie will recover, but the condition of the young woman is critical. Hoffman has been a persistent suitor but Miss Kalosky steedfastly refused to accept his attentions.

Texas Fever in Illinois.

Bloomington.—The dreaded Texas fever has made its appearance in Illinois. 2 head of fine cattle belonging to Albert Stacey near liere dying, while the remainder of the herd show symptoms of the disease. The herd was recently shipped here from Labelle, Mo., the car not being disfarected. State Veterinarian John M. Scott has enforced a quarantise.

Struck by Engine on Bridge.

Scott has enforced a quarantise.

Struck by Engine on Bridge,
Lincoln.—Charles Detch, an employed the Charles Belek Nuchestiern Rallway company, was knocked off a bridge spanning Salt creek and received serious injuries.

He had climbed to the end of the ties, hoping thus to avoid being struck, but the pilot of the engine hit him and he fell a distance of 14 feet.

him and he fell a distance of 14 feet.

Board of Review Finds 952,415.

Carliaville.—The board of review of the feet of the fe

Killed in Freight wreck.

Killed in Freight wreck.

Korris City.—In the wreck of a double-header freight train on the Big Four in this city Engineer Frank Erwin was instantly killed, his head being severed from the body. His fireman jumped and escaped with a broken leg. Spreading rails caused the wreck. Both men lived at Mount Carmel.

Duquoin Has $5,000 Fire.

Duquoin.—The business and residence portion between the Central hotel and First Baptist church on North Mulberry streets, was burned, entailing a loss of $5,000 hardly covered by insurance. The hotel and church were slightly damaged. The origin of the fire is not known.

Ministerial Institute.

Girard.—A ministerial institute will be held at the Hickory Point Baptist church September 18, 28 and 30. The following will take part in the programme: Eider J. W. Rice, Eider W. E. Vaughn, Eider S. F. Rice, Eider V. M. Yaughn, W. S. England, Eider George Hart, L. W. Hostetter.

Hunter Kills Brother by Mistake.
Carmi.—While hunting, Arthur Williams, 11, was shot and instantly killed by William, an older brother, who mistook him for game. He was crawing through the weeds to scare out

Suspect Murder.
Chatsworth.—William Meissenheider, a weil-known German citizen, was found with a builet hole in his breast. A revolver lying near him to indicate suicide, is thought to be a ruse by his triends and family, who think he was Normal Educator Dead.

Bloomington.—Buel P. Golton, for 18 years a member of the faculty of the state normal school at Normal, died suddenly at Battle Creek, Mich, beart disease.

Old Book is a Curiosity.

Carlinville.—James Allen of Greenfield has his possession a family reitle as in his possession a family
reitle as in his possession a family
reitle as in his possession a family
reitle as a family
reitle
reitle as a family
reitle
reitle as a family
reitle
reitle

highly prized by its owner.

Counterfeiting Kit Found.

Jackson'lile.—A complete counterfeiting outfit was discovered by T. O. Gravgs, who resides on a farm a few miles south of this city, while tearing down an old house that Thad not been occupied for a number of years.

In the outfit were two ope-dollar dies, one-bearing date of 1890 and the other 1901. There also was a quantity of babbett metal, two imperfectly moulded dollars and a kit of tools. The outfit was discovered in the ratiers which supported the second story of the bouse. There is no clue to the owners of the kit, which is supposed to have belonged to a band of tramps who formerly frequested the vicinity. The matter will be investigated.

who formerly frequented the vicinity. The matter will be investigated.

Read will Ceet $5,500.

Pleasant Plains—In a sult to determine the value of land throught which a public road is to be built, Mrs. Anna Nuttingham and Thomas Wilson have been given damages to the amount of $5,500.

The board of highway commissioners want to build a road near this city, and in doing so will have to go through a valuable piece of land belonging to Mr. Wilson. The road will will also pass through a walnut grove, making necessary the destruction of a number of trees. The damage to the Nuttingham land is not so large. The woman will get the remaining $4,501.

Boy's Bravery Saves His Lifes. Belleville.—With his foot held fast in the frog of a railroad switch, while a string of freight cars was being said to the control of t and the foot was amputated.

Verdict Causes Suicide.

Mattoon.—John C. Backus, assistant superintendent of the Central Illinois Traction company, committed suicide by shootiag, following the verdict of a coroner's Jury fixing the blame for the wreck on the road in which the motorman was killed and several passengers seriously injured. His family lives at Ashland, O. Backus was formerly a resident of Chicago. He entered the employ of the traction company one year ago. He was manager of the Mattoon team of the K. I. T. baseball league.

Find Body of Drowned Mgs.
Assumption.—While fishing, Benoit Demechaik, aged 25 yars, was drowned. He was fishing about four miles southeast of town, where the dredge boat is working. His clothes were later found on the bank by some of the men working with the dredge, and with a long pole the body was brought to the surface.

Girard Policeman is Assaulted.
Girard—Police Magistrate William Hart was attacked in front of the Bank of Girard by Charles Prichard, a well-known police character. In the fight that ensued Hart severely punished his antagonist. The trouble arose over the payment of the costs in a case against Prichard.

Warehouse Destroyed by Firs.
Mount Vernon.—Warehouse No. 5, with contents, of the Howard & Casey company, wholexale grocers, was totally destroyed by fire which ignited from a burning freight car. The total loss is $17,500, covered by $13,500 in-