Yes, indeed, it would be interesting to know all about this singular awakening, and the Syracuse scribes seem painfully slow in giving out the sleepy details.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Has No Use for Umbrellas.
Speaker Cannoil long ago abandoned, if he ever contracted, the umbrella shalf. The other day in Washington. in the midst of a drenching ratio, he visited the white house with some papers which he wished the president to see, in the lobby he met a friend somingfout. The latter was a riced somingfout. The latter was a fitted coming out. The latter was carefully galoshed and mackintoshed. in response to an astonished query Mr. Cannon said: "If I had an um-brella when I left the house to walk up here I wouldn't have it now. The umbrella habit would be mighty ex-pensive for me."
