IT WAS A WARM FIGHT

Two Tickets at the Republican Primary Saturday—Donlea
and Spinner Win in Democratic Monday.

One hundred and sixty-three votes were cast at the primary in the township of Barrington Saturday. Up to now there had been but one ticket spoken of, as follows:

To Cook County Convention—Delegates, H. K. Brockway and Wm. Grunau;
alternates, P. H. Miller and R. G. Plaaga.

To Supreme Judicial Convention,
Seventh District—Delegates, F. H. Fife; delegate, John Robertson.

At noon, however, another ticket, composed of Wm. Peters and Henry J.

gentleman sadly shook his head, and forth with two hands we extended towards him. One had a ticket, and the other a cigar. [From a whiff of work and rivalry displayed was remarkable. At the close of the contest, however, the tally of the clerks showed that the ticket headed by Brockway, Grunau and Fife had received 101

straight votes and the other ticket 58.
Out of the four scratched votes Brockway received 2, Grunau 4, Wm. Peters

1, and Fife 1. Peters and Fife were held to be scratches.

LARRY DONLEA captures the "ham-some" at the Democratic Primary on Monday by being elected a Delegate to the Jolietary convention.

Plaage, Willmarth, Grunau and Brockway hustling after voters.

rather smoke a Virginia cigarette.
The campaign hustler had hardly left his supposed voter before a walking delegate from the opposite faction came upon the scene and the same program was carried out; and this was not the last one either.

Considering that the office of delegate only covers honor, and honor only, as the successful ones have to donate their time and expenses the

and good-natured "joshing" were the only arguments made. The following gentlemen were elected delegates and alternates:

To the Cook County Convention—

Wm. Howarth.

ARE AFTER BETTER ROADS

The State Highway Commission
Secures the Co-Operation of the Post Office Department.

In order to secure satisfactory information as to the condition of the public roads in all parts of the state, and at all seasons of the year, the State Highway Commission has sought the cooperation of the post office department as one of the best means to collect this information.

In response to a request from A. N.
Johnson, state highway engineer, the fourth assistant postmaster general sent a letter to all the postmasters in the state, asking them to give all information at hand as to the condition of the rural free delivery routes. The post office department also furnished the State Highway Commission with a list of all the rural free delivery carriers in Illinois, of which there are upwards of 2,800.

Within a few days a circular letter and blank will be sent to each of the carriers, asking questions concerning the condition of the roads which they travel.

Insomuch as the carriers have to travel their roads once a day, and in some instances more than once a day, every day in the year, they become familiar with every road and bad place as well as the good places upon their road. They, better than anyone else, know the practical difficulties of the road and have the best opportunity to observe closely and intelligently road conditions in all seasons of the year.

It is believed that the information
thus collected by the State Highway Commission, covering as it will such close observation on about two-thirds of the total mileage of the roads of the state, will prove a valuable aid in suggesting the proper methods of improving the condition of the roads in any particular locality. The advice of the commission will thus be based on a wide and accurate knowledge of actual conditions.

The method adopted by the State Highway Commission to secure this information is of special interest, as it is believed that this is the first time where so complete and extensive a canvass of the road conditions of any state has been made in so thorough and at the same time in so practical and inexpensive a manner, and it shows, moreover, the live interest taken by the post office department in road improvement.

Mrs. Forpahl Dead

Last Thursday morning, April 26, occurred the death of Mrs. Freda-rike Forpahl at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roseler, in Chicago.

the age of 70 years, 4 months, 11 days.
She was born in Germany Dec. 15, 1833. Mrs. Forpahl was a true Christian and a member of the St. Paul church.

She leaves 3 sons and 2 daughters to survive, two children and her husband children and a host of friends. Those

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Powers Entertain.

The regular Friday club meeting held at the home of L. A. Powers last week was a most enjoyable affair.
The gentlemen friends of the member were invited and the same as always. Mrs. F. O. Willmarth captured the first prize for ladies and "Lige" Plaage for gentlemen, while Mrs. Laura Hawley won the "booby" prize for men. Wm. Brockway, the assistant city treasurer, played his very best and at the conclusion of the evening's enjoyment, he had scored favorably enough to merit the "booby" prize for gentlemen.
A dainty and beautiful luncheon was served.

COSTLIEST IN THE WORLD.

The costliest building is the Milan cathedral. The costliest dog was a St. Bernard, French, who sold for $1,350.

The costliest modern painting is Matisse's "Bible," which sold for $175,000.

The costliest cigars are the Vuelta Abajos, which sometimes retail at four dollars apiece.

The costliest government is the French. The government salaries aggregate $3,750,000.

The costliest diamond is the Imperial, for which the nizam of Hyderabad paid $2,160,000.

A mechanical device has been invented which is reported to be sure to induce drowsiness and sleep in ordinary cases of wakefulness. It is said to have almost hypnotic powers in that direction, though it consists in nothing but curiously shaped and irregularly placed "puzzles" designed to slow a revolving wheel. It is claimed that if the sufferer from insomnia looks steadily at the contrivance while it is in motion he will be overcome by drowsiness and put to sleep.

This Man Lived 104 Years.

REFUSE TO MODIFY TERMS

OPERATORS REJECT PROPOSITIONS BY MINERS.

Outstand That Wages Are Fair and Quote John Mitchell to Sustain Their Claim.

New York.—The anthracite miners' subcommittee drew up a reply to the latest proposition of the mine workers for an adjustment of the existing difference in the anthracite strike. In this they have been mostly in agreement heretofore announced. The operators, after giving figures in detail, say that to accept the sliding scale of wages proposed by the miners would mean an increase in the price of coal to the public of 36 cents a ton. The present profit to the operators, they say, is 20 cents a ton.

"We note what you say with reference to the miners' proposition to the employment of the contract workers. No one can regret more deeply than ourselves the accidents to which you refer. That matter was fully presented to the strike commission and had due weight in fixing the existing wages.

"The conditions which have prevailed under the award of the strike commission have been as satisfactory as could be anticipated, in view of the magnitude of the industry. In his address last summer your chairman was said to have stated that at no time in the last 30 years have the wage earnings of the miners been as fair as they are now." In view of all the circumstances we are satisfied that it was intended to be, and who will love it until they die for what it means to them in the south. The south is the land of heroes, the sacrifice, the agony, the glory of which we have told again to those who never weary of the story, and who cheered and wept by turn. No reunion was ever held under fairer auspices and none ever showed greater promise of success. The weather was perfect, the arrangements of the temporary building erected for the reunion were unsurpassed and the details of the vast work of handling the great throng of visitors was carried out with precision and care.

"We trust that on Thursday next the deliberate judgment of the anthracite workers will result in an acceptance of that proposition, but if not that they will join in us in the arbitration we have offered.

"Failing to meet us on either proposition, the responsibility of the strike must rest with the miners.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—The anthracite miners will hold a convention at Scranton next Thursday in order to take action upon the reply of the operators, if any, to two propositions submitted to President Baer and his associates Thursday. President Mitchell made public two propositions, to which he also referred by the miners' committee to President Baer and his associates. The first proposition asks for an increase in wages ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, according to the wages now received. The second proposition asks for an advance, equal to ten cents per ton upon the total production cost.

Somerset, Pa.—United Mine Workers' locals in some sections of the anthracite region elected delegates Sunday to the convention called for Thursday next at Scranton. Some of them were instructed to vote for a strike unless the operators grant concessions, and others to support any measure President Mitchell may think best for the workingmen's interests.

PLURALITY PRIMARY BILL.

Illinois Senate Passes Measure Providing for 35 Per Cent of Vote

Cast to Nominate.

Springfield, Ill.—The senate Thursday passed the Stead primary election bill, amended by the senate primary elections committee, by a vote of 36 to 1. The bill provides for the election of congressional candidates for the legislature and county candidates by conventions, the candidates receiving a 35 per cent plurality to be the nominees. The others are to go to convention for delegates to nominate. Galpin's bill providing for nomination of city officers by primaries passed by a vote of 27 to 1.

Fire Nearly Ruins Town.

Harrieville, W. Va.—Fire early Sunday morning threatened to wipe out the entire town, but was subdued after causing a loss of about $25,000. The blaze started in the National hotel, destroyed that building, licked up the adjacent bank building and then burned the post office with all its contents. Every available man in the town was called upon to fight the flames. The only fire fighting apparatus to be obtained was two hand fire engines with which, supplemented by a bucket brigade the fire was controlled.

Friar Land Fund Division.

Roswell, N. M.—The federal grand jury that has been hearing evidence here in the so-called land fraud cases returned four indictments against the following persons: Chester I. Tallmadge and E. R. Tallmadge, of Chicago; P. E. Tallmadge, of Denver; Karl C. Young and John H. McKinstry, of Kansas City.

The charges are the same as those on which the defendants were arraigned last October, to which pleas in abatement were allowed. The defendants were arraigned Saturday and were granted until Tuesday to plead.

Sherman's March to the Sea.

Athens.—The continued success of the American athletes in the Olympic games is causing some ill-feeling among the Greeks, although on the whole an excellent temper has been displayed by the competitors and spectators.

Greeks Jealous of Americans.

Buda-Pesth.—The elections to the Hungarian diet began Sunday and will continue for ten days. Out of 35 contests that have been decided 20 Kosuthists were elected. Premier Wekerle, Count Apponyi and Francis Kosuth all returned.

ABOVE THE FORD

By Nora Bryant

Copyright, 1906, by K. A. Whitchurch

while Bismarck had pulled quickly away from him and was now only a short distance from the shore.

Finally, after what seemed hours of swimming, a young Indian boy rode from the shore, and Bismarck burst at him excitedly. But, to his chagrin, though he dropped his feet several times, he could not touch bottom even at three feet from the bank. And the bank! Up and down the river, as far as he could see, it rose sheer and blank as a tiny canyon, with not a blade of grass growing on its sides. The boy had to wade for hand or foot hold. How Bismarck had made the leap he could not fathom.

He turned of his back, hoping that the current would hold him against the wall while he got a hand hold. But his fingers only slipped over the rough sandstone, while the river carried him rapidly downstream, and Bismarck followed, his clothes still the cold water by this time rendering him almost helpless.

Ludlow sat on the river bank, with the dog's head on his knee. He was very tired and very much exhausted. He had been swimming up and down, immediately on receiving Gretchen's letter, telling of her arrival at the De la Rio ranch and had thought to cover the hundred miles between camp and ranch easily, but Indian river had risen inexplicably, and Kywak refused to swim the ford, so it now, within five miles of the ranch, it looked as if he were to be stranded. And after all, for she did not expect him and was but a three days' affair.

Therefore Ludlow sat behind a huge rock, which sheltered him somewhat from the raw wind, and while getting his breath alternately panted the head of the panting dog and shook his fist at the dead figure of the horse, which grunted on his knees.

"Hang it!" repeated Ludlow. "I thought Kywak had got over her foolishness about fording. Was I right?" he asked, and patted his head. The top of the bank was too far above the highest reach of his hands, even with jumping to grasp. He tried cautiously to walk along the bank, but found that his foothold was a mere outcrop of rock not more than a foot in diameter. He slipped, his bristled, bleeding hands in despair. Bismarck pushed his great head over the edge and whined piteously, with an eager light in his brown eyes that seemed to say: "Can't you understand? Can't you?"

Ludlow gave a great spring and caught the dog's collar and pulled him up. Instantly Bismarck burst at his mighty shoulders and pulled him back. Inch by inch the man was pulled from the water until he grasped the top of the bank. As he let the dog's collar go Bismarck, frantic with excitement, caught the shoulder of Ludlow's coat in his teeth and, with little growls and whimpers as Ludlow scrambled and pushed, pulled him fairly on to the bank.

There followed a brief, wild, joyous pat to the dog, which licked his hands and face, wild with joy.

late that evening the group around the fireplace in the living room of the De la Rio ranch heard a weak, ragged, hoarse cry, followed by a deep, dark bark of a dog. As Jack opened the door Ludlow staggered in, white-faced, hatless, his frozen garments crackling as he moved.

The sudden warmth and light dashed him, and he leaned weakly against the wall, the great dog crouching beside him.

The group around the fireplace was speechless with amazement at the familiar figure of Ludlow in his strange plight.

Then Gretchen, who had gone white as her dainty gown, uttered a little piteous cry and, giving no heed to spectators, ran across the room.

"Fritz! Ludlow!" she cried. "Fritz, what's it? What is the matter?" She threw her arms protectingly around his shivering body.

"It's Kywak! What's the matter?" she said, and Bismarck pawed his knee, with a jealous white.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, Postmaster at Riverston, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had a nice little home, in which I had a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitter, which I tried and have had me well for eighteen years. A cure for biliousness, neuralgia, weakness and all stomach, liver, kidney and bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At Barrington Pharmacy. 50 cents."

Ludlow rose and began to tramp up the river. "It is a bad idea to move away from the ford," he thought, "but I'll go up a way and see if the river isn't narrower. It's too deep now to strike across."

He picked his way carefully over the rocks. Indian river was always cold and always swift, but doubly so today, after the early winter rains. The day was bleak, with a half promise of snow in the air. The plains on the far side of the river were as dim and hopeless as the sky. As he paused at a point where there seemed promise of a shelfing bank on the other side Ludlow shivered and half turned back toward the impish Kywak.

"What's the use?" he murmured. "Gretchen half refused me once. She will probably wholly refuse me this time."

He stood in silence with one hand on Bismarck's head, then he straightened himself with a jerk.

"No old chum," he exclaimed. "We'll see her again or drown in the attempt. Now, then, I've no way to get my clothes across except to swim in them. I'm not up to the Swiss Family Robinson stunt of carrying them across on my head. I'll leave my overcoat with Kywak. Come on, old faithful!"

He removed his shoes and tied them about his neck by the laces, took his coat and waded into the rushing water, then stood still, with the water splashing about his knees. The current was much swifter than he had imagined it would be. However, the river was narrow at this point, so he took a resolute step forward and plunged in above his depth.

After the first shock the cold was not so bad, but the current! The down-sweeping current of Indian river was almost as powerful as quicksand.

The pointed rock Ludlow had chosen for a swimming mark was a dozen rods upstream before he had swum as many strokes. Bismarck was swimming beside him, puffing and blowing like an infant thrashing machine. For a moment Ludlow thought of catching the dog, but he knew that if he did so, though Bismarck could have pulled him across easily in quiet water.

The bitter cold of the water began to strike in, but Ludlow swam on with quick, strong strokes. Gradually it seemed that he was fighting a losing game. The swimming mark was hidden behind a curve in the river.

Beyond the "Dead Line."

Look around the world to-day, and see what some of the men who have long passed the "dead line" are doing, and what they have accomplished. Look at the young old military leaders in little Japan who conquered great Russia. Okuma was 20 years past this fatal line when he won his great victories, and all of his corps commanders were past 50. Marquis Ito, the Grand Old Man of Japan, her greatest statesman, and the one who has done more than any other to make Japan what it is to-day, says Orison Swett Marden, in Success Magazine, is still active in the service of his country. Look at Diaz, president of the Mexican republic. Much of his best work has been done since he was 60. The emperor of Austria, one of the greatest statesmen on the continent of Europe, is about 77. Clement Armand Fallières, recently elected president of France, is 65. The leaders, the men of the greatest influence in our United States, have worn gray hairs for a quarter of a century. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, 84 years old, recently made one of the strongest and most vigorous speeches, on the Panama canal question, that has ever been made. Joseph Chamberlain, nearly 70 years of age, is still the most brilliant statesman in England. He was 67 when he initiated his plan for fiscal reform. President Eliot of Harvard university, everything considered, has, perhaps, been the greatest university president of his day, and nearly all of his greatest work has been done since he crossed the line of the comparatively "useless age." His mind is still strong, alert and creative. Charles Hazlitt, consulting engineer of the city of New York, over 95 years of age, works in his office every day at drawings and plans—the most intricate work. He is such an efficient worker that he has been held in office by every administration, Republican and Democratic, alike, for over a quarter of a century. From Julius Ward Howe, in her eighties, to Sara Bernhardt in her sixties, women workers in all fields of endeavor, might be cited by hundreds who are doing great work in the world, their very best, though they have long passed the "dead line." Sara Bernhardt, during this season in America achieved as brilliant a career as she did 20 years ago—also positive refuse to grow old. Robert C. Ogden, at 80, is one of the most active members of the great Wanamaker firm. In fact, judging from the abundance of his ideas, his creative ability and freshness of view, he is one of the youngest men in the whole institution. Marshall Field was really in the prime of his manhood when he was stricken with pneumonia at 71, and by far the most important part of his remarkable career came after he had passed the half-century mark.

Usual Punishment.

Forcing a cigarette smoker to give up for one year the use of cigarettes is the novel sentence a judge in Pennsylvania has passed upon a young man brought before him for obtaining goods under false pretenses. While the course of this court could not be followed exactly in many cases, there is something in the spirit of its ruling that will appeal to all who condemn indiscriminate punishment. The young man might have gone to prison for a year, but that would have marred his life. Besides there may have been members of his family dependent upon him for support who during his absence would have suffered quite as much as he. Always pursuing conventional lines of punishment some of the shadow of the punishment falls upon innocent persons. This is inevitable. But in this case the offender is the only sufferer, and no one doubts that he will be very unhappy and sincerely sorry that he ever went wrong. And what other ends can punishment have in view?

The most important step that has been taken in this country, during the last decade has been in the direction of reclaiming arid and semi-arid lands by means of irrigation. Vast tracts in the west and middle west are now richly productive that once were considered worthless for raising crops. Deserts formerly given over to meager brush and cactus are now wonderfully fruitful fields and gardens. In this development the department of agriculture has been a most potent factor. It has realized the dreams of the pioneers that were considered visionary and impractical.

Mrs. Edgar Van Etten, of Boston, has declined the nomination for vice president of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Massachusetts on the ground that the duties of the office would interfere too much with her domestic life, in which she says she finds her chief happiness.

Achille J. Oishi, a New York lawyer, who was born in Italy and was formerly Marquis de Sauria, says that he would "rather be an American citizen than any sort of marquis. Achille, you're all right!"

RESULTS OF THE EARTHQUAKE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The fat building in the upper left-hand corner of the picture is three stories high, but the opening of the earth let one story drop below the street level. The picture shows the great fissures in the streets and the broken water mains.

HENRY G. GOLL FOUND GUILTY

BIGELOW'S TESTIMONY FAILS TO SAVE BANK EMPLOYEE

Former Assistant Cashier of First National of Milwaukee Is Convicted on Thirty-Four Counts.

Mr. Goll was given the verdict and informed all interviewers to his friends. He was remanded to the custody of the United States marshal.

Attorney William B. Rubin, for defendant, at once made a motion for a new trial.

The trial of Henry G. Goll lasted exactly three weeks, during which a large volume of evidence was submitted to the jury.

The most interesting part of the testimony was that of Frank J. Bigelow, who is now serving a ten years' sentence at the Fort Leavenworth prison, he having pleaded guilty to looting the bank, without undergoing a trial. Bigelow testified that many of the acts with which Goll was charged were committed under his direction, but stated that he had no knowledge of some of them.

According to Bigelow, he was subpoenaed and testified as to his accounts with the Milwaukee bank.

Several bookkeepers and tellers of the bank gave testimony on most of the charges, the basis for which having been unearthed by the government's expert accountant.

NEGRO PAYS CRIME PENALTY.

Burned at Stake While Members of Mob Kill His Body with Rife Bullets.

Dallas, Tex.—News of a lynching at Oakwoods has reached this city. The dispatches report that a negro was burned at the stake, and that he was withered amid the flames the mobsters of the mob amused themselves by firing rifle bullets in an effort to cut an ear or an eye out and thus increase the torture he suffered. The firing did not cease until the victim was unconscious in the flames. The negro had broken into the house of a woman who lived alone and fought a desperate battle with her. His hand was discovered and a posse was formed quickly to capture him.

Min. Swallows a Villager.

Quinipis, Mich.—Over an acre of ground went down with a great roar, carrying a number of buildings with it, and was thought for a time that the entire town would go. The ground fell 100 feet, and it was found to be a caving in over the workings of an abandoned mine. Considerable damage was done, the city water system being badly crippled. There is fear that the other parts of the town may fall. The mine workings extend under a good part of it.

CYCLONE SWEEPS TEXAS.

Thirteen Persons Killed in Tornado at Believere—Fire Completes Damage.

Ft. Worth, Tex.—Thirteen people were killed and a number seriously injured by the tornado which Thursday night swept over the little town of Believere, Tex. The place is practically wrecked. After the storm had raised every business building fire broke out and completed the work of destruction. Only four houses in the place are reported to have been destroyed by lightning. The tornado covered an area eight miles wide and destroyed farms and crops. The property loss will probably reach $100,000.

Reports from Stonewall say the cotton gin there was wrecked by the storm and several residences were damaged. No one was injured.

Among those who are known to have been killed are:

R. L. Russell, wife and four children, A. D. Carr, Tom Mount, W. W. Bell, two members of the Gray family.

The seriously injured: Two daughters of N. E. Smith, of Bowie, Mrs. Gault. Mr. Gray and seven members of his family, two of whom have since died; Mrs. McGraw.

The whole business section of the town and all stocks of merchandise were destroyed.

The tornado was a mile wide and traveled over the earth for a distance of eight miles, leveling everything in its path, ruining crops and destroyed all farms and barns on the way. Last winter many lives were lost in the same neighborhood by a tornado.

The inhabitants of the town are not only homeless, but without food or raiment, and utterly destitute.

The fire broke out at midnight and spread with such rapidity that the people asleep on the second floor could not escape by the stairs. The girl employees threw mattresses from the windows and out on them. Miss Snelling and Miss Reitke received their injuries in this way. The two men who perished were suffocated by smoke.

WAS WEAK AND DIZZY

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored the Patient to Perfect Health and Strength.

Mrs. Mary Gagner, of No. 576 South Summer street, Holyoke, Mass., has passed through an experience which proves that some of the greatest blessings of life may come when least expected and yet be found only in most obscure. A few years ago while she was employed in the mills she was suddenly seized with dizziness and great weakness. "I was so weak and dizzy," she says, "I could hardly stand, and my head became so dizzy that it seemed as if the floor was moving around."

"My doctor said it was so bad that I was obliged to give up work in the mill, and later still I became so feeble that I could not even attend to my household duties. After the slightest exertion I had to lie down and rest until I regained strength."

"A friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People urged me to try them. I bought a box and began to take them. The benefit was wonderful, and so quickly did I feel better that I continued to use the pills until I had taken altogether six boxes. By that time I was entirely cured, and for two years I have had no trouble whatever. I am now in the best of health and able to attend to all my duties. I am glad to acknowledge the benefit I received and I hope that my statement may be the means of inducing others who are suffering in this way to try this wonderful medicine."

The secret of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of debility, according to Mrs. Gagner's lie, is the fact that the weak patient can take the medicine and even tiny amounts in the body feels the stir of a new tide of strength.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

FOR MECHANICAL PURPOSES

Clancy Needed the Run to Lubricate the Mechanism of Bars

Hammers.

In rural Maine, where one has an especially hard or disagreeable task to perform, one "calls in the neighbors." At such times, the neighbors are invited to work performed is done without money and without price, except that the host provides a meal, and without pay, except that nourishing and refreshing. At such times the winter supply of firewood is cut, the timber felled and hewed, the frames of houses are raised. Often, too, trouble to raise and introduce, Maine being a dry state.

Clancy's dilemma was that he entered the agency at Bangor. Straight in front of him a sign hung: "Liquor for Sale—Sickness or Mechanical Purpose Only."

"I want two gallons of old rum," he announced.

"The man pointed, pointed round to the right, "said Clancy. "I've been reading it."

"What you sick?"

"No."

"Not a prescription?"

"What do you want it for?" queried the agent.

"Get to have it," replied Clancy, cheerfully, "for mechanical purposes. I'm going to raise a barn."

SHORSTAGE IN FOOD SUPPLY

IAN FRANCISCO NEEDS PROVISIONS FOR HOMELESS PEOPLE.

Side-Tracking of Generous Aid by Congress, Places City in Embarrassing Position.

San Francisco.—A feeling akin to consternation was created in the minds of the general municipal commissioners when Mayor Schmitz stated that the city faced a shortage in the food supply. It had been the popular belief, and that of many officials also, that San Francisco, through the generous aid of the nation, had been placed in a position above want for a long time to come, and that the mayor's declaration came in the nature of a painful surprise.

Monday morning the plan of Gen. Greely for distributing food to people in want was commenced in a number of the newly created districts, and there was some diminution noticeable in the output of goods.

An unfortunate happening was the destruction of a number of homes in the area around Van Ness avenue.

The blighted houses, it was found, had certain insecure walls were a menace to pedestrians and, in order to blow up an unusually solidly constructed facade, was obliged to use a large quantity of dynamite.

CONSTABLES FIRE ON MOB

Foreign Miners Attack State Police with Stones and Receive Shower of Bullets.

Mount Carmel, Pa.—The first serious collision in the anthracite coal regions since mining was suspended on April 1, occurred here Monday between a mob of idle miners who were on a rampage in the new state constituency, and the state constabulary force, and resulted in the injury of probably 20 men, three of them will likely die.

The disturbance was caused by an attack on a detail of the state police by several hundred foreigners, who threw stones at the policemen and otherwise endangered their lives to such an extent that they were forced to fire.

While it is believed that a score of persons were injured during the day, only ten are accounted for. Three, it is thought, will die.

FIX RATE AMENDMENT VOTE.

Senators Agree to Begin Balloting Next Friday, Preliminary to Final Roll Call.

Washington.—The senate will begin its work on an amendment to the railroad rate bill on Friday, May 4. An amendment to that effect was reached Monday, but it proved impossible to extend the understanding as to provide for a date to include the fixing of a date for taking a final vote on the bill as a whole. Senator Tillman first proposed a final vote on May 9, but Senator Morgan objected.

American Idea of Money and Money Getting

By PROF. BRANDER MATTHEWS.

IN NO country of the old world is the prestige of wealth less powerful than it is here. This, of course, the foreigner fails to perceive; he does not discover that it is not the man who happens to possess money that we regard with admiration, but the man who is making money, and thereby proving his efficiency and indirectly benefiting the community. To many it may sound like an insufferable paradox to assert that nowhere in the civilized world to-day is money itself of less weight than here—in the United States; but the broader his opportunity the more likely is an honest observer to come to this strange conclusion. Fortunes are made in a day, almost, and they may fade away in a night; as the Yankee proverb puts it pitifully: "It's only three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves." Wealth is likely to look something of its glamour in a land where well-being is widely diffused and where a large proportion of the population have either had a fortune and lost it, or else expect to gain one in the immediate future.

Probably also there is no country which now contains more men who do not greatly care for large gains and who have gladly given up money-making for some other occupation they found more profitable for themselves. These are the men like Thoreau, in whose "Walden," now half a century old, we can find an emphatic declaration of all the latest doctrines of the simple life. We have all heard of Agassiz—best of Americans, even though he was born in another republic—how he repelled the proffer of large terms for a series of lectures, with the answer that he had no time to make money. Closely akin was the reply of a famous machinist in response to an inquiry as to what he had been doing, to the effect that he had accomplished nothing of late, "We've just been building engines and making money, and I'm about tired of it." And a few years ago a college professor of known ability declined the presidency of a trust company, which offered him a salary of at least five times what he was receiving. There are not a few men to-day in these United States who hold with Ben Jonson that "money never made any man rich—but his mind."

Everything Good That Is Human

By DR. CHARLES WAGNER.

That is popular which can be applied to all strata of humanity without distinction of social or national religion. The sentiments which vibrate in the popular poetry are those before which are effaced all the differences between men. A popular morality would be composed along certain great lines, essential and directive of human conduct, capable of serving always and everywhere any man whatever.

Where is the source of such a morality? It is in life. Life holds its own law. All creatures have their normal regime, the expression of the profound law of their nature. The normal regime of man should proceed from as complete an acquaintance as possible with human nature. Socrates said that the beginning of wisdom was in self-knowledge. And when Christ said, "Forgive them, they know not what they do," he attributed men's crimes to their blindness, to a profound misunderstanding of their nature, of their rights, of their needs, of their inviolable character. The source of morality then would be in the sense of the value of things and of men, a sort of great respect founded in the lofty idea that reality inspires, and which prevents us from touching anything or any person with profane hand. But how develop this in us without making use of all the leading lights of traditions as well as of that of the present? What a reason if it is not the sum total of man, which man possesses for knowing the reality? Conscience here has its place as well as intellect. Instinct, which is often but the condensation of long experiences, must not be excluded any more than logic.

For my part of one and all I demand that they be men, and in morality a single criterion appears to me admissible; it is this: All is good that is human; largely, simply, faithfully human. All is evil that is inhuman.

Respect for Military Uniform Increasing

By PAST DEPARTMENT COMMANDER,
G. A. R., JOHN E. GILMAN.
Soldiers' Relief Commission.

In times of actual war, when the country is called on to repel some national menace, the military uniform of course commands all the respect that could be desired. This was distinctly true in the civil war when the men of the nation rushed to the dearest ties of affection and abandoning the brightest prospects of material success.

If in the years that followed, or in the years that preceded the war of the rebellion, the military uniform of the United States did not receive the kind of respect to which such uniform is entitled, it was the fault of the government's system of recruiting. The recruiting officers concerned themselves very little or not at all with the character of the men who offered to enlist. If a man could pass the surgeon's physical examination, that was generally regarded as quite enough qualification for service in the army of the United States.

Of course, this condition has changed. Recruiting officers are now more careful than they were to select the best material that offers. Recently it was reported that a man, who in every apparent respect was well fitted for service, was rejected by the recruiting officer, after all other tests had been satisfactorily met, on the ground that the man had a slight prison record, and that his admission to the army might tend to degrade the service. This is a fact step onward.

It is noticeable to-day that the men wearing the military uniform of the United States whom one meets in the streets command instant respect by their appearance which invariably reflects the fine discipline to which evidently they are subjected. The best appearing figures that one sees to-day may be said to be those that are clothed in the military uniform of the United States. It is impossible to withhold admiration for their spick and span, alert, energetic bearing and carriage.

These signs indicate the high level to which the service has been brought.

DISASTER ERASES CLASS DISTINCTION

EARTHQUAKE AT SAN FRANCISCO PLACES RICH AND POOR ON SAME LEVEL.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE GREAT CATASTROPHE

MILLIONAIRE AND PAUPER NOW FRIENDS
—Business Being Conducted Amid the Ruins—Heir to Wealth Born on Sidewalk.

San Francisco, Cal.—This town is "on the level" in every sense of the word, writes Richard Barry. You can stand on Tar flat and see Telegraph hill with no obstruction but a few skyscraper skeletons. South of Van Ness avenue it is not even a junk heap. No more ghosts are shot because there is nothing to shoot. You can lay your men to carry off the same umbrella, Russian Telegraph and Nob Hill, which formerly made such a magnificent metropolitan saddle against the Golden Gate, look as they do in the prints of '49, when scrubby bushes rambled across their human faces. They have been scraped of foul and tair by a mighty much rake. The bones of three-fourths of the people are available for the quicklime through the desolation he slowly reveals that the world can never know what has happened; that 100 Pompeii would be swallowed in these ruins and that California in tragedy, as in all else, has shaken her jaunty fist at the face of history and written "Fools" to the volume.

SOCIAL DISTINCTIONS LEVELED.

Yet these smashed buildings and desolate streets do not present the significant leveling. The material loss is great, but it does not stagger the imagination. The millionaires who command the hurt and there are many people here to-day who think the shake-up is worth the leveling. Society is on the ground, face to face. Every artificial barrier is swept away.

The social distinctions built up 50 years have been obliterated with the same swiftness and finality shown by the flames toward the property. The loss of life is small, the loss of social position colossal. Doubtless the purchasing capacity but human loss, money has momentarily lost its purchasing power. Servants, luxury, habits, prestige—yes, amity, friends, beauty, jealousy and contempt have disappeared. Humanity is in the flat and every one is on the level.

Here are a few random incidents plucked from the edge of the catastrophe:

Fillmore street, a third-rate metropolitan artery, has become for the moment the business center of the town. Here, in dinkey bars, cheap candy stores, laundry, fotografies, saloons, and other small lodging houses, are found all that is left of the greatest business institutions on the Pacific coast. A sawmill that formerly employed 4,000 men has its offices in a half basement that used to rent for one dollar a week. A bakery that employed 300 cooks before the fire is operating out of a half laundry and has run by three women. The largest department store in the city, being a hardware, grocery, and hardware stand, has been roughly partitioned in the front 14 by 16 feet space being used for an office. In a rear room of similar extent the exclusive heads go for jellies and coffee warmed over an alcohol lamp.

ODD QUARTERS FOR CITY OFFICIALS.

You can see the chief of police in San Francisco as easily as you could see the sheriff of the most backwoods county in Arizona. He sits in the window of a corner grocery and as you pass on the sidewalk you hear at his bright face an hear his voice. The mayor issues his orders from the lodge room of a secret society. The superior court is being held in a Jewish synagogue, and the city and county records are buried in a tomb in the Masonic cemetery.

The newspapers that once occupied the principal skyscrapers in the city are being operated from four little rooms in the basement of buildings which has more than a 30-foot front or a 50-foot depth. On one side of each room you can see the sign "Subscription Department," "Advertiser Department," "Editorial Department."

ONE NEWSPAPER OFFICE A BEDROOM.

One of the most fortunate papers, after much maneuvering, has managed to command a second-floor bedroom, the nature of whose previous occupants is unknown. It is built straight from the chandelier, which reads "Don't Blow the Gas." In this tiny room, around two small tables, is congregated the journalistic talent that formerly conducted a world-famous organ from a suite of 15 rooms in one of the most magnificent buildings in the west.

NEW BUILDINGS ARE PLANNED.

The work of rebuilding San Francisco will proceed rapidly. Mrs. Herman Melville of New York has agreed to repair the Rialto building and to build again on the site of the Crossley. She and her sister, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., have also stated that they will put up solid office structures on their Montgomery street site.

10,000 ACRES BURNED OVER.

A well-known Oakland engineer states that the area devastated by the fire in San Francisco approximates 10,000 acres, or about 15 square miles. There are few cities in the world where so much valuable property is contained in an equal territory. Within this 15 square miles were nearly 100 banks, some of the finest buildings in the world, thousands of mercantile and manufacturing establishments, and more than 200,000 inhabitants, besides 40,000 transients.

If further proof were needed of the leveling character of conditions it might have been seen yesterday afternoon, when "Mike" Young, of the Chronicle, millionaire and political leader, stood in front of one of these little offices. Down the street in an automobile belonging to ex-Mayor James D. Phelan, a member of the Democratic Republican club, Young saw De Young respond with a gay salute. For one not intimate with San Francisco to fully realize what this means he must be told that De Young and De Young are the respective leaders of the most bitter and antagonistic political factions in the west.

If you still doubt that the millennium is upon us go down the street two blocks to where the relief committee is working 24 hours a day from the showroom of a vegetable grocer and you will find Gavin McNab and Abe Reuf with chairs and arms touching, laughing at the same grim earthquake joke. Setting the two earthquake heads in San Francisco together for the immediate relief of the afflicted. A week ago as the houses respectively of the Republican and Democratic ranks, A. C. and C. A. could afford no more striking instance of racial rivalry than would have been added by mention of these two names.

RESCUING A DRY GOODS STORE.

Then another stand white-haired, skeptical Raphael Weil is meeting the most fashionable dry goods store in the city. He is old, weary and practically retired. He could easily turn his back on San Francisco and live the rest of his days, the one other place of his delight; but says he: "I shall stay here and see it all up again as it was—with perhaps a difference, it will be about twice as good."

Up and down all the streets one can see curtain fires, where the people are cooking their meals in obedience to the municipal order to light no fires in the houses. They being with large ranges, small kitchen stoves, improvised sheet iron ovens, ovens and stoves, ovens are used and from which are turned out some wonderful concoctions.

Most of the servants have either run away or been sent away and the people who get their own meals out of doors are among the best in the city. Cooking their dinners in the streets is seen girls who have been educated at Stanford, Berkeley, Vassar and Bryn Mawr.

Spreckels' Heir Born on Sidewalk. But of all the astounding leveling feats accomplished by the fire and earthquake the most remarkable occurred in front of the Pacific avenue home of Rudolf Spreckels, son of the president of the sugar trust. There on the sidewalk, behind some screens, Mrs. Spreckels was safely delivered of a handsome, healthy baby. It is a free state, everyone beginning over again, rich and poor alike, just as the front rank broke from the line the day Oklahoma territory was opened to settlement.

NOT FAIR SHAKE; START AGAIN.

Young men who can swing a small capital to-day will be millionaires in a few years. Millionaires who to-day are walking the streets mourning over the loss of their homes and their health, San Francisco, queen city of chance, born of the gambling fever, bred of the gambling energy, dreamed out of a gambler's vision of wealth and glory, with a fierce and terrible grandeur, has smitten all who loved her and said to the half million who had a word with her: "It's not a fair shake; start again."

RESCUE INSANE PEOPLE.

Many stories of heroism are buried in the ruins, but some of them are told by official sources. This is the story of the noble work performed by Mrs. Kane, matron of the Detention hospital, and Policeman John McLean, who was detailed there the night of the great earthquake. The insane patients at the ruined city hall were kept in locked cells, round which only the keys of the stewards could free them. Mrs. Kane, however, managed to get outside to more sanitary surroundings, but the fire had broken out that fatal Wednesday morning, the structure in which the courts were housed was the first to fall. The weight of the intense nervous emergency and the officer of the detention hospital, which was on the ground floor. rington have an organization of this kind? It needs one.

The Rev. Billi Sunday was recently invited to hold a series of meetings in Peoria, says an exchange. He declined the invitation because he had appointments for two years hence, and informed the committee that by that time his services would not be needed in Peoria, because most of her prominent citizens would be in Joliet.

Justin V. Beatty, editor and publisher of the Nunda Herald, was united in marriage to Miss Sadie J. Andrews, also of Nunda. The Review wishes Brother Beatty many years of happiness, and if he makes as good a husband, as the Herald is a newspaper, Mrs. Beatty certainly won't find any cause for complaining.

The art of not hearing.
The art of not hearing should be learned by all. There are so many things which it is painful to hear, very many of which if heard will disturb the temper, cause simplicity and contentment to depart from the mind and bring all sorts of trouble.

If a man falls into a violent passion and calls all manner of names at the first words we should consider what mischievous the fiery sparks may do in our magazine below, when our temper
is kept, and instantly close the door.

If all the pretty things said of a man by headdress and ill natured ideots were to be heard it would be to the great loss of all men. A man's walk, a plumb line, a sharp remark, if we would be happy in our life we should consider what mischievous the fiery sparks may do in
our magazine below, when our temper
is kept, and instantly close the door.

Not until one leaves home does he really appreciate his home paper.
Distance lends enchantment is truly proved in this case. When a man picks up stakes and shakes the dust of his old home from his shoes to seek pastures new he naturally has a hankering to know what is going on in his old home. It is then he appreciates the home paper that had always made weekly visits to his home, but which he had heretofore looked upon as a mere circumstance in the whirlpool of life. Its weekly visits to those who are abroad are like a spring shower upon the parched fields. The movements and actions of those we had left behind is ever of interest, and we are delighted in reading about our one time neighbors. Truly the home paper is not really appreciated until we get where it is hard to get.
