V. V. and T. T. Phelps, Pastors.

A large crowd attended the social on Miss Margaret Lamey's lawn Tuesday evening. The grounds were illuminated with Japanese lanterns and the tables decorated with the flowers of the season. The Barrington Cornet Band supplied the music. The event of the evening was drawing for the gold watch, Henry Denison being the winner. The ladies of St. Anne's church, with their usual energy, worked zealously to increase their finances, and as on all occasions were certainly successful.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Wauconda Visited by Fire Saturday Causing a $15,000 Loss and Barrington Has Small Blaze Today.

A fire this afternoon destroyed the barn in the rear of Geo. Nightengale's residence. The origin of the fire has not yet been definitely determined. Mrs. Wool, a neighbor, discovered the blaze, and several small boys ran down the street and gave the alarm. A good water works system, and good work on the part of the boys composing the fire department kept the fire confined to the barn and saved the residences nearby.

A most disastrous fire destroyed the Wauconda flour and feed mills Saturday afternoon, entailing a loss of about $15,000. The mill was owned and operated by John Spencer, and no insurance was carried.

A number of other houses caught fire, but by heroic work performed by a volunteer bucket brigade, who assisted the fire department materially much valuable property was saved.

Although Mr. Spencer's pecuniary loss is heavy the citizens of Wauconda are rallying to his aid nobly and within a short time a new mill will be erected on the site of the old one.

Who Got the Tickets?

Charles Jahnke, the liverman, lost three railroad tickets and other valuable papers which were in a wallet which he had thrown on the ground for a few seconds while attempting to stop a farmer's runaway team Tuesday morning in front of his residence. After a few seconds he stooped to pick it up but someone had done so for him, and up to the present time he has failed to notify Mr. Jahnke of his find. A liberal reward will be paid for information leading to the recovery of the wallet.

If you enjoy dancing and want a good time attend the dance at Bicknese's New Pavilion on the shores of Lake Zurich, Saturday evening, July 14. Music by the Joliet Famous Orchestra.

Cook St., near Depot, Barrington, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Waltheid and Misses Anna and Nettie Bowers of Chicago were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amis Sunday.

Miss Louise Sadlek returned from Iowa the Fourth to visit with her sister.

The young folks took the Amis boys by surprise Tuesday night. All present reported a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Foreman and son James spent Wednesday in Rockfeller.

The Young People's Society of St. Paul's Evangelical church scored a decided hit Tuesday evening when they entertained at a lawn social in Mr. Wool's meadow, just east of the church. Japanese lanterns furnished light and the Barrington Cornet band rendered some of their choicest selections, while the young folks (and old ones, too) took turns at the refreshment stands. Long before the evening's enjoyment had fairly commenced the supply of ice cream had been disposed of. It was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind ever given in Barrington.

The remarks by R. L. Peck were fine and expressed the thoughts of every one, the respect we were paying to those who sleep in unknown graves. The tablet is five feet eight inches high and twenty-two feet around, weighing 9200 pounds. It was got at Waukegan, Wis. It is just a rough boulder with the inscription, "To those who sleep in unknown graves."

To the Republicans of the Eighth Senatorial District.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the General Assembly, subject to the action of the Senatorial Convention of this District.

Inasmuch as it was the intention of the Legislature that each voter should vote for one candidate for Representative, so that in Districts like the Eighth, each County should have a member in the General Assembly, Lake County at present having the Senator.

I therefore ask the votes of the Republicans of Lake and Boone Counties at the primaries to be held August 4, 1906, and request that those who wish to vote for me mark a cross in the square opposite my name on the official ballot.

Respectfully,
Frank R. Corey.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED A CALENDAR

BY MARGARET E. SANOSTER.

I wonder if you ever think, dear girl, what story the calendar is telling for you. Perhaps you have a tiny pocket calendar tucked into your purse that you may consult it if you happen, as careless people sometimes do, to forget the date; not that I fancy you belong to that set or that you do not keep tally of the days of the month.

A good plan for us all is to remember just where we are, so that we never have to pause and ask somebody to tell us whether it is the 8th or the 9th, the 10th or the 12th day of the month. You may keep a calendar on your dressing bureau, tearing off a leaf every day, or it may hang suspended from a nail by a ribbon or a chain, or be fastened on the wall. Whatever sort of calendar you have it is simply a device to remind you that time is flying and that it is well to make the most of him and of his opportunities before he is gone out of sight. Just one day at a time is yours and mine, and according as we use or abuse the single day, we shall get the good that is waiting for us and earn the reward that comes to faithful workers.

I am very fond of all sorts and conditions of girls, but there is one variety with which I have no patience; the girl who dawdles, who sits around talking about what she means to do and never accomplishing anything, is not the girl who commands herself to go. She is not only idle herself, but she sets a bad example to every one else and commits the mistake of throwing away the most valuable asset she will ever have. A day when one is young and strong and light-hearted as girls are or should be, is worth ten times as much as a day will be when the same girls are older and know more about care and trouble. Is your story of the calendar a story of work well-done and of play undisturbed with all your heart? Whatever you do, never dawdle.

There is something else to think about in the story of the calendar.

It tells the thing you do, dear. It's the thing you do, dear. That gives you a bit of a headache. At the setting of the sun. The tender word for the heart. The letter you did not write. The flower you did not send. Are your landings in the right place? The stone you might have lifted. Out of a brother's way. The bit of heartache you had. You were hurried too much to say. The loving touch of the hand, dear. And the gentle word for the heart. That you had no time or thought for. With thoughts enough of your own. Those little acts of kindness. So easily out of mind. Those chances to be angels. Which we pass up so often. They come in light and silence. Each sad, reproachful word. When love is faint and fickle. And a smile has fallen on faint lips. For life is all too short, dear. And we have to make the most of it. To suffer you alone. That carries with it too late. And it tells the thing you do, dear. It's the thing you do, dear. That gives you a bit of a headache. At the setting of the sun. I do not want the girls I care for to go about with the weight of the world on their shoulders, or would I

ALTON ROAD IS FINED

JUDGE LANDIS IMPOSES HEAVY PENALTY FOR REBATING.

PENALIZES TWO OFFICIALS

Former President Fairborn and Fred A. Wann Are Given Fines of $5,000 Each for Aiding in Violations.

Chicago.—Judge Landis Wednesday fined the Chicago & Alton railroad $50,000 each on two counts, making a total of $100,000 for the fine. President Fairborn was fined $5,000 on two counts, half the maximum, and Fred A. Wann was fined $5,000 on two counts. The total of the fines was $100,000. Judge Landis declared he saw no extenuating circumstances in the case.

Attorney R. M. Shaw, for the railroad, asked for a bill of exceptions, that the case may be appealed. This fine is identical with the one assessed some time ago by Judge Bethes against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and two officials on a similar charge.

Last Friday Judge Landis informed the defeated attorneys, Mr. Shaw and John Barton Payne, that he would give them until Monday to produce evidence tending to show that the granting of the rebate by the defendant to the Schwarzschild & Sulzberg company was purely known and Kansas City. When court convened Attorney Shaw declared he had not time enough to produce witnesses, but that he had evidence that a similar transaction in two instances had been approved by United States Judge Phillips in Kansas City while he, as a court, was administering the Kansas City line, then in the hands of a receiver. He could not produce witnesses, he said, because they feared making confessions might place them in danger of prosecution.

RIVER PACKET IS BURNED

Steamer Quincy of Diamond Jo Line Runs on Bank Near Trempealeau and Burns.

La Crosse, Wis.—Nearly all of 200 passengers on the steamer Quincy of the Diamond Jo line Wednesday night narrowly escaped death when the big packet struck a bank in the dark near Trempealeau, Wis., turned half over and then caught fire.

It is believed that the majority of the passengers were saved and only one drowning is definitely known, that of an infant which was washed from its mother's arms. The boat brought 60 passengers who were on the boat to this city. Accounts given by them of the disaster do not include positive statements as to drownings, but it is believed that only a few were killed.

At about 10:30 o'clock the steamer, plying up river, struck a bank. At the time, it is said, the boat carried no searchlight. One passenger says he saw a baby washed overboard from its mother's arms. The boat was sinking, though not in deep water.

The palatial steamer caught fire immediately after the collision with the bank.

Amid a crashing of timbers, with the boat on its side, the lifeboats were got out and the passengers, 200 in number, were taken off the burning flames gained any considerable headway.

MUST EARN RIGHT TO LABEL

Meat Packers Cannot Secure Government Certificates Until Perfect Conditions Prevail.

Chicago.—Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture concluded his work in Chicago Wednesday by issuing a statement in which he denied the Chicago meat packers the use of the United States government inspection label as a guarantee to the world of the fitness of their products as food, until they have made perfect the sanitary conditions in the slaughterhouses where food is prepared. He then took a train for the west, where he will continue to look into the packing industry.

British Abattoirs Filthy.

Bristol.—At the Sanitary Inspectors' conference here Wednesday a delegate said if the British public only knew a quarter of what was going on in the slaughterhouses of this country the Chicago scare would become insignificant by comparison.

IN A HOLE AND PULLING THE HOLE IN AFTER HIM.

IS NOT SECTIONAL.

TARIFF QUESTION AN ISSUE FOR THE WHOLE COUNTRY.

No Single State or Group of States Can Secure Alterations of Existing Schedules to Suit Special Interests.

It is indeed fortunate, as Secretary Shaw remarked in his speech before the South Dakota Republican state convention of June 6, that no one state can revise the tariff. It is equally true that no group of states, no section, has the power to frame the schedules to suit special interests. The agricultural states, although holding the balance of power, have never attempted to adjust tariff rates to suit the requirements of agriculture alone. This fact is to their everlasting credit. The only state, we believe, that has ever cherished the delusion of dictating tariff legislation in her own special interest, and has manifested a belief that it might possibly be done, is one whose government is butted into national affairs with a letter notifying the president of the United States that unless Congress removed the duty on hides Massachusetts would certainly go Democratic. Yet the duty on hides remains. As to the fulfillment of the threat, that remains to be seen.

The danger of one state or one section undertaking to regulate tariff schedules was well wrought out by Secretary Shaw when he said:

"I desire to throw out a note of warning to my friends in the agricultural states. Keep this in mind, that three or four times as many people demanding cheaper food as there are people demanding a reduction of the tariff on any manufactured article. No man has his corn soil with a belief that any one state can revise the tariff in the interest of that state only. There are localities willing to sacrifice every suggestion of protection which the tariff law affords Dakota, in the open and avowed hope that by so doing additional markets may be obtained for their own products. It is fortunate, therefore, that no one state can revise the tariff."

It is fortunate for South Dakota, for example, that Massachusetts is unable to revise the tariff off the hides of South Dakota cattle or bring about a condition of free trade in the agricultural products of Canada.

It is also fortunate for protection as a permanent policy that South Dakota has not the power to remove the tariff on lumber. Such a discrimination against an important industry would surely check and perhaps wholly obliterate the rapidly growing protection sentiment in the lumber sections which are now the chief source of lumber supply east of the Rocky mountains.

Memphis is the leading lumber market of the United States, and in sections where free trade formerly had its citadel protection is now becoming more and more an accepted policy. Then, too, there are the lumber producing states of the Pacific coast, which value highly the protective tariff of two dollars per thousand feet, which gives them the home market against the competition of cheaper lumber from across the border of British Columbia. If it is desired to hold these states in the protection column the tariff on lumber had best not be removed. South Dakota is the logical home of one of John Hay's poetical heroes,

"Resolute till the cows come home" on the removal of the tariff on lumber. Just as Massachusetts may threaten the United States with the denial of free trade in Canada's competitive products of farm, forest and mine, but the level protectionist sense of the country as a whole will keep protection intact for the country as a whole.

Mistake Noise for Numbers.

The Democrats who hope to divide the Republican party on the question of the tariff, however, will be disappointed. The tariff reformers have always been a few tariff reformers and free traders who have clung to the Republican party. Like the frogs in the old farmer's pond, they have always made a noise entirely disproportionate to their numbers. In tending the tariff issue the Democrats are doomed to the same disappointment.

After having drained the pond at heavy expense in the firm belief that a fortune awaited him from the sale of the frogs he had killed, he found the number dwindled down to a few half-dozen. He learned, as will the Democrats, that the noise they make has no real relation to their numbers.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

BLOATED WITH DROPSY.

The Heart Was Badly Affected When the Patient Began Using Doan's.

Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell, of 415 West Fourth St., Olympia, Wash., says: "For over three years I suffered with a dropsical condition without being aware that it was due to kidney trouble. The early stages were principally backache and bearing down pain, but I went along without realizing much until dropsy set in. My feet and ankles swelled up, my hands puffed, and became so tense I could hardly close them. I had great difficulty in breathing, and my heart would flutter with the least exertion. I could not walk far without stopping again and again to rest. Since using four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills the bloating has gone down and the feelings of distress have disappeared."

GRIEVOUS BREAKER.

Miss Winonah Von Ohl, a New Jersey girl 19 years old, is making quite a reputation as a horsebreaker. Five years ago, a slender slip of a girl, she went to South Dakota with her mother, who had been sent thither for a change of climate. Miss Winonah learned to ride bronchos out there and on returning she took to training and breaking horses, in which work she has been remarkably successful. She has never sustained any injury while thus engaged.

Justice to Barley Growing Farmers.

Do not cut your barley before it is thoroughly ripe. Second, shock and cap well. Third, do not thrash out of shock. Fourth, stack your barley and let it sweat and cure in stack, take care so that it does not heat in bin after thrashing. By following these instructions you will improve the quality of your grain and thereby realize the highest price in the market. The Malsters will absolutely refuse to purchase barley which has been otherwise handled. John North, Secretary, United States Malsters' association.

Sacrifice Made by Judge.

Justice Holmes, of the supreme court, in order that he may preserve his mind free from distractions of information and misinformation that would impair his efficiency and wisdom as a jurist, does not allow himself to read the newspapers.

Scriptures in Russia.

It is rather remarkable that, notwithstanding the disturbed conditions of affairs in Russia last year, the British and Foreign Bible society reports a banner year in the circulation of Scriptures, over 500,000 copies being distributed in European Russia, besides a very large number in Siberia.

Error of Reformers.

OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable. How She Escaped It.

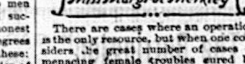

When a physician tells a woman suffering with serious feminine trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and our hospitals are full of women coming for just such operations.

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of annoying female troubles cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, it is woman's right to seek for one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for a booklet which is free.

Miss Margaret Merkley, of 275 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains and cramps compelled me to seek medical aid. After making an examination, said I had a female trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I objected and said I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The ulceration quickly healed, my nervousness disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well."

Female troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive, if you have pain in swelling of the breasts, or if the left side bearing-down pains, do not neglect your health. Write Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Japanese Way.

It is said that the Japanese are an ingenious race, but it appears to the occidental mind that there are limits to this boasted ingenuity. An entomologist in a New York college tells the Reader Magazine of a case wherein a trusted Japanese assistant failed him in a moment where singular ingenuity was required. The scientist had a tray of carefully arranged and minute specimens and was carrying it from one table to another, when he stumbled on a protruding chair leg and partly fell, scattering the specimens over the floor. Many hours of work were in a second quite undone. Some serviceable and hard worked expert must have leaped to his feet and then proved inadequate to the occasion, for, after a pregnant moment of silence, he turned to the Japanese and said: "Tell me, quickly, what would you say in Japanese if such a thing happened to you? Give me the translation instantly."

"Ah," said the Japanese scientist, with calm gravity, "we would address the chair and say, 'You are very impolite.'"

"Handle Work With Gloves." "I hope," said the scientist who was ordering a pair of slippers made of flowered satin, "that you will tell your workman to wash his hands before he begins to make these up."

"Wash his hands," repeated the clerk. "Why, madam, he never will touch these with his bare hands." Then the clerk explained that all workmen employed in making slippers of light colors worked with white gloves on. "Try to keep them clean," he continued. "I should say they did. They try so hard that they change their white gloves three times a day."

"Which is not so fantastic as it may seem, for if a shoemaker soils material of this kind the expense to him of replacing the material, to say nothing of the loss of his time, makes it worth his while to work in gloves and keep them clean at that."—New York Press.

The Mystery of the Heavens.
Look through a telescope at some tiny star invisible to the naked eye. The light from that star perhaps left its surface before the time of William the Conqueror. It may be it is not quite impossible that the tiny star has since those days actually left off shining, but still we see it in our sky because the rays which started while it yet shone are arriving moment by moment, telling us the story of what the star was like hundreds of years ago, before it parted with its brightness. Perhaps, again, we are examining through a large telescope a faint and far-off nebula—a mass of whirling gases the light of which has taken, say, 10,000 years to get there. We see what the nebula was like in prehistoric ages. It may since then have lessened in size and changed in shape. It may now wear a very different aspect, and men looking from earth 10,000 years hence will be able to see what that nebula was like in our days. All these things help us to understand what the immensity of the stellar system is, and, yet more, to imagine dimly what the measurement and extent of all creation must be if any such star systems exist side by side throughout the vast domains of space.—Chambers Journal.

STATES HIS POSITION

Wm. J. Bryan Tells an Interviewer How He Stands on the Issues of 1904.

HE IS MORE RADICAL THAN EVER

As Much of a Silver Man as Four Years Ago, but Says Other Issues are Now Dominant.

London, July 12.—William J. Bryan, having had the opportunity of reading newspapers from the United States, consented to discuss some of the questions which have been raised since he has again become a prominent presidential possibility. He said: "I notice that I am now described by some as conservative, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding on that subject permit me to say that in one sense I always have been a conservative. The Democratic policies are conservative in that they embody old principles applied to new conditions. There was nothing new in principle in either of the platforms on which I stood."

More Radical Than He Was.
"If, however, the word conservative they mean that I have changed my position on any public question or moderated my opposition to corporate aggrandizement they have a surprise waiting for them. I am more radical than I was in 1896, and have nothing to withdraw on economical questions which have been under discussion. The only question we discussed in 1896 upon which there has been any apparent change is the silver question, and that has not been a change in the advocates of bimetallism, but in conditions. We contended for more money, and urged the free coinage of silver as the only means then in sight of securing it."

Stands by the Quantitative Idea.
The increased production of gold has brought in part the seignior we expected to secure from the restoration of silver. The per capita volume of money in the United States is almost 50 per cent. greater now than it was in 1896, and the benefits brought by this increase have not only vindicated the quantitative theory of money, but have proven the benefits of the larger amount of money. No advocate of the gold standard can claim the triumph of his logic.

Issue Is Not Dominant.
"I believe in bimetallism, and I believe that the restoration of silver would bring still further prosperity, besides restoring parity in exchange between gold and silver-using countries; but I recognize, as do all other bimetallists whom I have met abroad, that the unperfected and unprejudiced increase in gold production has for the present removed the silver question as an issue."

Other Questions to Discuss Now.
"While the money question has engaged in importance other questions have been forcing to the front, and to these questions we must apply the same principles we applied to the money question." Bryan said that he would discuss the trust, tariff, railroad and labor questions, imperialism and other issues at length when he reached the United States, and it is presumable that these are the "other" questions he referred to as he did not enumerate them explicitly.

HENRY C. ADAMS BURIED

His Funeral Attended by a Large Delegation of His Colleagues in the National House.

Madison, Wis., July 12.—The public funeral of Henry C. Adams took place from the Congregational church, following private services at the residence. In the large gathering were Governor Davidson and Ex-Governors Hoard, Scofield, Peck and LaFollette; Representatives Cooper, Jenkins, Weiss, Brown, Esch, Stafford, Otjen, Babcock, Miner and Davidson; the members of the Wisconsin supreme court, many members of the legislature and prominent citizens from all sections of the state.

Resides the Wisconsin delegation the following representatives were present as a committee from the house of representatives: Bode and Tawney, Minnesota; Brick, Indiana; Madden, Chicago; Routell, Gruff and Wilson, Illinois; Dawson, Iowa; Goebel, Ohio; Marshall, North Dakota; Barchfield, Pennsylvania; Overstreet, Indiana; Woolyard, West Virginia; and Hamilton, Michigan.

Theater Is a Private Snare.
New York, July 12.—The manager and proprietor of a theater has a right to say who shall enter his place of amusement and who shall not, his playhouse being a private and not a public place, is the gist of a decision handed down in the appellate division of the supreme court.

Evans Nominated for Governor.
Nashville, Tenn., July 12.—Henry Clay Evans, of Hamilton county, ex-commissioner of pensions and recently United States consul general in London, has been nominated for governor by the Republican state convention. Representative Brownlow acquiesced. The platform is standard Republican.

Hargis on the Witness Stand.
Boatville, Ky., July 12.—Ex-Judge James Hargis, charged with the murder of Lawyer James B. Marcum, was the principal witness in the case of the state versus Hargis and Callahan. Hargis put in a general and explicit denial of the charges against him.

Boers Want Woman Suffrage.
About all the Boers of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State fought for in the last war with England is again at stake. A new electoral law is to be framed, and on its provisions will hang the fate of the Boers. Fear of being swayed by the speculating classes, who have no permanent interest in South African development, led to the war of 1899. They lost, and now it will be a matter of fair play if the Liberal parliament of England hearkens to the Boer appeal.

It has long been settled that the Boers shall have a legislative assembly, and the question now turns on the basis of representation. The British element ask for a distribution of seats according to the number of voters, while the Boers ask that it shall be based upon population, as it is in the United States. The Boers marry young and raise large families. Moreover, they have a stake in the country where they were born and expect to remain. But the whites, exclusive of Boers, mean to quit South Africa after they have made their pile. They do not marry and cannot line up with the Boer element in a test of population. One compromise the Boers are ready to make for the sake of harmony. If the women are given the ballot and are counted among the voters they are willing that the seats in the assembly shall be distributed according to the number of voters in the electoral districts. Great Britain has sanctioned woman suffrage in New Zealand and in several Australian colonies, and the Boers argue that in the new assembly a square deal for them is impossible short of woman suffrage. If the representation shall be based upon the number of qualified voters.

Joe Jefferson's Sons.
It is pleasing news to theater goers that the sons of Joe Jefferson are to appear in a new comedy written by two American authors, unknown to fame. The Jefferson boys inherited a name which will give them instant hearing anywhere and drop into a place on the stage which means half the battle won. A revival now and then of the plays which the elder Jefferson made famous would be a welcome variation, but it will be better for the sons and vastly better for American dramatic art that they should strike out in new lines and show that the name of Jefferson can hold its own in this progressive age.

Complaint is often made that the second generation of the strong families of this country are not so earnest as their fathers, that they are content to reap where their fathers sowed instead of putting in seed and tilling for themselves. This will prove a calamity in the world of business, but it is especially deplorable where the heritage is personal talent. Those who are at home on the stage from very early and schooled in its traditions are the very ones to work for progress in the theater and in dramatic literature.

A Chance For Esperanto.
If we have to learn to spell again and go through the mill of making our English over to suit the times the Esperantists may argue with reason that we might as well adopt their new "universal" language and be done with it. A few months hence the devotees of Esperanto will hold a congress at Geneva, and, judging by the way the new idea is taking the here at present, America will probably have a goodly delegation and perhaps take rank as the "infant prodigy" among Esperanto experts.

The grammar of Esperanto has but sixteen rules, and it is claimed that a beginner can master a working knowledge of the tongue in a few weeks. When the trained Esperantist would write the sentiment, "The international language should be comprehensible to the whole educated world," he puts it this way, "La lingvo internacia estas komprenebla de la tuta mondo edukita." The newspapers are bringing the whole world to one line of thought. When the people of all lands get to thinking alike on a wide range of subjects the adoption of a world language ought to be a very simple matter.

New York educational reformers are fighting the dime novel fire with fire that's "just as good" in a way, but less pernicious, by placing tons of good literature free at the disposal of the public school children. Last year the school library circulation was nearly 5,000,000 volumes, each book doing duty fifteen times on the average.

Signs accumulate that a new era in transportation is near and that waterways to afford cheap freights will be its main feature. Railroads may prove impregnable factors on land, but we can flank them on the water.

The death of the good old age of ninety-two of the mother of Ella Wheeler Wilcox inspires the hope that the pen of this gifted and wholesome writer will not be laid aside for many years to come.

It is claimed that there are 3,000,000 tons of coal stored within 100 miles of New York city to tide over in a miners' strike, but the consumer will never be able to guess it from looking at his coal bill.

VICTORY FOR DREYFUS

His Long Fight for His Honor Is Crowned with Complete Success.

SUPREME COURT ACQUITS HIM

Declares Him Entirely Innocent of His Enemies' Charges.

Requires No Retrial of the Case—Government Takes Prompt Action in Repeal of the Wrong Done.

Paris, July 13.—This has been a long and terrible ordeal. I began to feel that it would never end. It is clear that the decision restores me to my old place in the army, but I am not aware of the intentions of the government

Captain Alfred Dreyfus, concerning my advancement to rank. I have nothing to say against my accusers. Being again an officer I am obliged to obey the army regulations of silence, and I am inexpressibly thankful to all those who have assisted in the maintenance of truth.

Victorization After Eleven Years.
This spoke Captain Alfred Dreyfus, when the decision of the supreme court was announced to him, which decision annuls his condemnation, and does it without requiring him to stand a new trial. In fact his vindication is complete, and the man who on Jan. 5, 1885, was publicly degraded for, as alleged, and confirmed by a court martial, communicating French military secrets to a foreign power, and who ever since then has fought the decision that degraded him, has triumphed and his enemies are beaten to earth, with their perjured testimony piled on top of them.

Decision Was Unanimous.
The decision of the court was read yesterday by the presiding judge, M. Hallot-Bonheur, president of the court of cassation, consisting of forty-five judges, and was unanimous. The palace of justice was thronged by an eager crowd seeking admission to the court room. Among those present were Mathieu Dreyfus, brother of Alfred Dreyfus; Maurice Monard, counsel for the captain; Joseph Reinach, the historian of the Dreyfus affair; Colonel Picquart, Madame Yola and many others who have figured in various stages of the celebrated case. Captain Dreyfus was not present, continuing his habitual secrecy by remaining secluded in the garret where he has hitherto been cut off from the outer world.

VINDICATION IS TWO-FOLD
France Will Not Half Do the Repetition She Will Make.

His vindication is two-fold, the supreme court first announcing its decision establishing the entire innocence of the accused man, and the ministry later deciding to present an urgent bill in parliament restoring Dreyfus to the army with advanced rank, and otherwise giving the government's most ample reparation. The decision of the court was the outcome of exhaustive inquiries had completely demolished the fabric of the accusation against Dreyfus, showing that the real culprit was Major Count Esterhazy. The decision therefore annuls the condemnation of the Rennes court martial and ordered that the acquittal be posted and published throughout France.

The ministers held a protracted special session at the Elysee palace under President Fallieres, and determined on the government's course in carrying out the decision. The text of two bills was formulated which will be introduced in the chamber of deputies at once, concerning respectively Dreyfus and Colonel Picquart, with the object of restoring both to the ranks they would have held if they had continuously served in the army. Dreyfus consequently will be nominated a major, with eventual early promotion to a lieutenant colonelship. Picquart will immediately become a brigadier general.

Dreyfus' name also will be inscribed on the list for the Legion of Honor, but he will not be directly entitled to that distinction, though probably a decree placing him on the list will shortly appear. Discussions of the bills will be taken up immediately and the ministers will endeavor to have them pass both houses at a single session each, the cabinet desiring to settle the matter before the parliamentary vacation in order to avoid a recurrence of the agitation of the country. Deputy Breton has given notice of a bill providing for the transfer of Emile Zola's remains to the Pantheon with a public ceremony.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE CASE

How Col. Picquart Paid for Wanting a Square Deal.

Captain Alfred Dreyfus, of the artillery, a member of a wealthy Helvetian family of Alsace, where he was born in 1859, was on Oct. 14, 1894, arrested on the charge of communicating French military secrets to a foreign power. Two months later Dreyfus was tried by court martial and found guilty, and Jan. 5 he was publicly degraded and deported to Devil's Island, near Cayenne, French Guiana, there apparently to spend the remainder of his life. The friends and relatives of Dreyfus, notably his wife, always believed in his innocence, and devoted all their energies to the work of proving that he had been unjustly condemned.

Colonel Picquart, when he became chief of the intelligence department of the French army in 1895, examined the documents in the proceedings against Dreyfus and questioned the correctness of the proceedings, and continuing his investigations formed the opinion that the evidence pointed to Major Count Esterhazy as being the guilty man. Picquart determined to see that justice was done, and there ensued a fight to preserve the honor of the French army.

Dreyfus, on Nov. 15, 1897, charged Esterhazy with writing the most incriminating document, but the latter was acquitted by a court martial in the following January. The late Emile Zola warmly espoused the cause of Dreyfus and made serious charges against the French general staff, and was condemned to pay a heavy fine and suffer imprisonment, but the sentence was quashed.

When M. Cavaignac became head of the French war office he read in the chamber of deputies several documents in which he said, proved the guilt of Dreyfus. Colonel Picquart afterwards declared that these documents were forgeries, for which he was arrested and degraded.

SEVEN CHILDREN DROWNED

JUVENILE LAW CONDEMNED

Chief Held That It Does Not What It Is There for and Is Useless.

Des Moines, Ia., July 13.—The juvenile law as it is observed in Iowa, Colorado and other states was vigorously condemned at the annual convention of the Interstate Juvenile Association, at which 300 sheriffs from sixteen different states were present. C. W. Schuur, president of the Iowa Sheriffs' association, made the principal address, in which he said that the law, alleging that it failed to restrict the youthful criminal and was of no assistance in reforming the boy who still had some good left in him. Other sheriffs took the same view, and the next convention of the association will be held in Milwaukee.

SHE NEEDS THE MONEY

Chicago Does, and She Is Drilling for Property That Pays No Taxes.

HOPES TO UNEARTH $100,000,000

Attack on Political Assessments—Buckling Broncho Hides Cash—Furniture Feels a Pin.

Chicago, July 13.—No more men so honest that they desired their personal property taxes increased have appeared before the board of review, but Attorney John O'Shaughnessy, who represents the city, hovered about the boardroom for a time and declared that some dishonest people would be forced to pay on larger appraisements this year. O'Shaughnessy's plan for increasing the revenues of the city is to provide for a time and declare that some dishonest people would be forced to pay on larger appraisements this year. O'Shaughnessy's plan for increasing the revenues of the city is to provide for a time and declare that some dishonest people would be forced to pay on larger appraisements this year.

Field Estate, for Instance.
If he is successful in his efforts the Field estate, for instance, will be forced to pay personal taxes on at least $20,000,000. These figures are secured by adding 50 per cent to the appraisement of $17,500,000 as a penalty for not filing a schedule. Other estates and rich individuals are in the same position, according to Corporation Counsel Lewis and his colleagues. If the penalties are affixed, as the law is said to provide, it is believed the tax that will flow into the coffers of the city will be greater than the riches brought home by Roman armies.

Hopes of the City Tax Lawyers.
The city council tax lawyers hope to add at least $100,000,000 to the personal property valuation this year. They propose to pursue the opponent to the supreme court, if necessary. O'Shaughnessy, last afternoon, in going over the city council records seeking statements made by representatives of the gas, electric, telephone and traction companies when it went to their interest to have a large amount of money invested. These will be compared with later statements when the material interests of the company were shown to be much more modest.

CAMPAIGN ASSESSMENTS

Chicago Official to Bring a Suit That May Result in Protecting Public Employees.

Chicago, July 13.—In a suit which Colonel James J. Healy says he will bring against Charles W. Vall, clerk of the superior court, and in which he will demand the return of $200, Healy expects to secure a ruling from the supreme court that will protect public employees from the levying of campaign assessments. Colonel Healy, who is chief clerk in the office for twenty years, asserts that he gave $200 to Vall for use in the campaign of 1904, when Vall was nominated for clerk of the superior court.

The oral contract entered into at that time, he says, Vall has broken. This contract, according to Colonel Healy, stipulated that he was to be retained as chief clerk in the event of Vall's election; and if Vall was defeated the money was to be returned to Healy. Although Colonel Healy was not retained in office, he asserts that he did not receive his $200.

Attack on the Parole Law

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—The parole system was attacked by Lieut. George Sherman in an address delivered before the Illinois State's attorneys' association. He said this law was a stuporous mistake. He said that of all the criminals paroled most of them had returned to their bad life. The association elected J. Bert Miller of Kane county, president, and Herman H. Brown of Schuyler county, secretary and treasurer.

Buckling Broncho Stamped.

Granite City, Ill., July 13.—A half score persons were injured, five painfully, by the stampede of a buckling broncho during the performance of a Wild West show at the Tri-Cities street fair. Shortly after the animal made its appearance a section of the temporary seats collapsed, with a loud report. The broncho became unmanageable and dashed among the wreckage, trampling upon those caught beneath the seats.

Came Near Being a Tornado

Rockford, Ill., July 13.—A heavy wind and rain storm broke over Rockford causing considerable damage to trees and crops. The wind at one time was almost a tornado. A train of eleven cars on the Illinois Central railroad was blown along the track through blocks, numerous trees were blown down and several plate glass windows were broken.

Too Hot for the Seventh

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—With the government thermometer registering a maximum of 86 degrees there were no parades. The Seventh infantry, Illinois National Guard, at Camp Lincoln while drilling.

Furniture Warehouse Burned

WOMAN PROPOSES

By BEATRICE STURGES

Copyright, 1906, by F. C. Eastman

For the first two years after she entered Stuart Lee's office as stenographer Miss Atherton's desk was placed so that every time she glanced up she saw the back of his head. This oft recurring incident, coupled with the fact that it was a very good looking head, well set on a pair of stalwart shoulders, probably had much to do with the state of affairs at the end of six months. Even in that time she had learned to distinguish his step from the dozens of others that traversed the same hall, to watch for his smile of greeting and to listen to his cheery "Good morning" as he took off his hat and rolled up the corner of his desk. Then she would take a good look at the smoothly brushed yellow hair and turn again to her work, which consisted of copying out long contracts and other tiresome legal forms.

Stuart Lee was a lawyer and had bent all his young efforts so hard toward success that it was beginning to come his way. At the end of two years he took larger offices, allowing himself the luxurious necessity of a private room. Miss Atherton then had charge of the large outside room, a second stenographer and the office boy. She saw more people and received more salary, but she missed the closer comradeship of the old days and the familiar sight of a blond head rising firmly above blue serge shoulders.

She kept on loving him, though, for the simple feminine reason that she couldn't help it. Sometimes Lee gave her dictations that would take up an hour or more, and then he would make her rest a bit and chat with him before she started

"MARIED!" HE BROUGHT OUT THE WORD IN A low voice. "You are married?" "Yes." "What is he like? Is he all right? Is he worthy of you?" She looked at him, he thought, a little sadly. "Like? He is the finest man in the whole world."

He walked swiftly to her. "But, Helen, Helen!" he exclaimed, "I don't understand it at all. I thought you were happy here, and I supposed, of course, you understood things. Suddenly, I haven't had a home for six years, and I thought that some day—Helen, don't you mind leaving me? Won't you miss me at all? Haven't I seen, since I left, what you are like? He took her hands and drew her up beside him. "Didn't you know, Helen?"

"Know what?" She lifted her brown eyes to his. "That I love you and want you to be mine?" "You never said so," she answered. "That's because I thought you knew and because I always believed. I need someone to walk with me all the time, you know, Helen. You're the biggest part of my life. Come and make a home for me."

He held her suddenly in his arms, and his heart thrilled as he felt her lean on him. "Sweetheart," he whispered, "I love you! I love you!" She lifted her face to his. "Dear," she breathed so softly that he had to bend to catch it, "I have loved you for four years."

He held her close in the gathering dusk for one ecstatic moment. Then she drew away. He came back to earth slowly. Not letting her go, he looked away and out of the window, where the golden light had been merged into a dull purple streaked with red and where the evening star gleamed radiant in the upper blue. "This other chap," he began.

"What other chap?" she asked. "The one you were—were going to marry."

She raised on her tiptoes and kissed him. "There's only one," she whispered, "and it's you."

Then she fled into the other office.

Everybody says that Lee's wife is the better lawyer of the two.

office in a southern state and her brother who had won recognition for bravery in the Philippines; how she had been suddenly obliged to work after her father's death and stenography was the most immediate thing, but that she had no intention of being a stenographer all her life.

When he asked her what she would do or what she wanted to do she first looked at him and then blushed deeply, looking out of his window toward the Pallades, and he felt strangely disturbed. He had accepted her in his office as a matter of course. Companionship with her on that basis seemed natural and easy, but she was a man of reserve, and a departure from the conservative routine disquieted his phlegmatic nature. Their conversation kept the old friendly note of everyday talk, but there was a subtle difference, and he began to feel her presence more and more.

Finally one spring afternoon when the sun was fading his office with a primrose yellow glow she looked in and asked if she might talk with him. "Why, certainly," he responded, with a smile, and I wish you would sit in that yellow glow. It just suits you in that brown dress."

She sat down, but did not speak at first. Her lips trembled, and she seemed to be seeking courage from the yellow sky. Suddenly she turned to him. "Mr. Lee," she said, "I have been with you four years."

"Is it as long as that?" he questioned.

"Four years this day."

"They have been busy years," he said, "and I hope, happy ones."

"Yes, they were happy," she answered, "but I was a very lonely girl, and my face. But now I must go away."

"Go away? Leave me? Why, Helen, you mustn't. I can't spare you. Where would you go?"

In his surprise he had called her Helen for the first time, and her heart leaped. She turned to him tremulously and said, almost timidly, "I am going to get married."

"Married!" He brought out the word incredulously. "Why, I thought—"

Here he broke off and walked to the window, where he stood, his hands in his pockets, gazing moodily across the river.

She sat silent until he turned to her again. "Why do you do this?" he questioned.

Womanlike, she began with the reason she felt least. "Because I want a home. I am all by myself, and I am tired of living in a boarding house. It is nothing but a travesty on life for a domestic woman to divide her time between an office and a boarding house. I have worked for four years, and I want to stop for awhile."

"Just for awhile?"

"Yes, for I mean to study law and keep my other work in practice so I can help."

"Help? Whom?"

"Help—him."

"He is a lawyer, then?" Lee almost choked over the question.

"Yes."

"What is he like? Is he all right? Is he worthy of you?"

She looked at him, he thought, a little sadly. "Like? He is the finest man in the whole world."

He walked swiftly to her. "But, Helen, Helen!" he exclaimed, "I don't understand it at all. I thought you were happy here, and I supposed, of course, you understood things. Suddenly, I haven't had a home for six years, and I thought that some day—Helen, don't you mind leaving me? Won't you miss me at all? Haven't I seen, since I left, what you are like? He took her hands and drew her up beside him. "Didn't you know, Helen?"

"Know what?" She lifted her brown eyes to his. "That I love you and want you to be mine?"

"You never said so," she answered. "That's because I thought you knew and because I always believed. I need someone to walk with me all the time, you know, Helen. You're the biggest part of my life. Come and make a home for me."

He held her suddenly in his arms, and his heart thrilled as he felt her lean on him. "Sweetheart," he whispered, "I love you! I love you!"

She lifted her face to his. "Dear," she breathed so softly that he had to bend to catch it, "I have loved you for four years."

He held her close in the gathering dusk for one ecstatic moment. Then she drew away. He came back to earth slowly. Not letting her go, he looked away and out of the window, where the golden light had been merged into a dull purple streaked with red and where the evening star gleamed radiant in the upper blue. "This other chap," he began.

"What other chap?" she asked. "The one you were—were going to marry."

She raised on her tiptoes and kissed him. "There's only one," she whispered, "and it's you."

Then she fled into the other office.

Everybody says that Lee's wife is the better lawyer of the two.

Better in Holland.

In various parts of Holland are "control stations," which are described in detail by agricultural editors. A chemist is at the head of each station, with a staff of analysts under him. Inspectors, instructed by the chemist, unexpectedly visit dairies, stores, creameries, etc., and collect samples of butter and all materials used in this. These samples are analyzed, and the results are registered, so that the officials connected with the "control" know almost exactly what the chemical composition is of the butter at each creamery, etc., and at any time of the year.

New Pleasure Fleet.

A Philadelphia has had a happy idea, which will enable the country to take its pleasure early this summer. In the good, old "Anglo-American" Magazine, he has invented a "pleasure railway." This is to carry submarine boats or cars that will dive under a lake, pond, or other sheet of water, and run at various depths on the bottom. A station stands at the water's edge. Thence starts the "pleasure train," a vertically undulating structure to the bottom. The steel cars or boats are shaped like a hollow shell. The top part is for passengers. The rest is to be a fresh-air reservoir while the car is under water. It is air and water-tight. On the upper side is a removable water-tight, dome-shaped hood of glass, whereby passengers make their exits and their entrances. A running cable pulls the car, operated by a grip in the passenger compartment. By a happy inspiration of creative fantasy the designer has made it in the shape of and painted to resemble whales, sea serpents, krakens huge black, crocodiles of old Nile, horrible hippopotamuses, alligators, hydras and chimeras dire, gigantic lobsters and other marine forms usually seen darkly through and after Yorkston's rabbit and midnight moustache. Then you can have on your lake buccaners and buried gold and imitation coral reefs and islets to suit the taste. Suffice all with the glare of electric light; and with all this scenery and these bobbing monsters even a melancholy man ought to sing for joy.

A Little Story About Flour.

Japanese astuteness has been no more strikingly illustrated than in the story told by Charles Edward Russell in Everybody's Magazine, of their obtaining an independent and unlimited source of wheat supply. "Japan raises some wheat," says Mr. Russell, "but not enough, and for years she has imported heavily of American flour, which is our article of principal export to the Pacific. Years ago Russia leased from China a certain ample territory in Manchuria, now tapped by the Russian railroad. This territory contains some of the best wheat land in the world—undeveloped. The Russians quickly perceived the wheat possibilities of this region and had begun to get it into order and to establish mills and warehouses when the war came on. The silent little brown men, the nation of imitators, crumpled up the great Russian power like so much burned paper, and for years the half of their victory was the southern half of that leased Manchurian territory, the choice wheat land, and the railroad that ran through it.

"That territory can grow wheat enough to supply all of the present western Pacific flour trade.

"The Japanese government is now engaged in spreading this region with four mills and developing the growing of wheat. In a year or two it will be ready to produce flour. No hurry. The Japanese are never hurried. Quietly they plan and scheme; with wondrous skill they build the trap and prepare the tools, and when the proper time comes go forth with certainty to skin the prey."

Pig Iron Statistics.

According to preliminary statistics which have just been issued by the bureau of census at Washington the production of pig iron in the United States in the calendar year 1904 amounted to 15,325,225 gross tons, valued at $238,911,116, against 14,447,791 tons, valued at $206,512,755, in the census year ended May 31, 1900. The wage earners employed in 1904 numbered 35,077, who received $18,934,513 in wages, against 39,241 in 1900 who received $18,484,400 in wages. The consumption of iron ore in 1904 amounted to 30,032,452 tons, valued at $106,545,362, as compared with 25,366,394 tons in 1900, valued at $65,902,922. Of the iron ore consumed in 1904 29,202,994 tons were domestic, valued at $96,206,246, and 829,518 tons were foreign, valued at $14,739,122, while in 1900 the domestic iron ore consumed amounted to 24,612,511 tons, valued at $65,776,472, and the foreign ore to 754,382 tons, valued at $1,607,449. The daily capacity of the completed furnaces in 1904 was 77,730 tons, as compared with 54,425 tons in 1900.

As ascertained by the American Iron and Steel association the production of pig iron in the United States in 1904 was 16,497,033 gross tons.

Lake commerce during April and the first four months of 1906 exceeded that of like periods in any earlier year, and suggests a new record for lake tonnage in 1906. For the month shipments from all points on these great bodies of water amounted to 4,365,506 net tons, while for the year to April 30 they aggregated 4,414,481 tons, a gain for the month of 1,375,043 tons, and for the four months of 1,532,656 tons if compared with corresponding movements in the same period in the year 1905.

CLODBURST IN OHIO

CAUSES GREAT DAMAGE NEAR CITY OF WELLSVILLE

MANY HOMES ARE FLOODED

Water Racks Into Sewers and Hurried Action Is Forced to Save Property—Telegraph Wire Down.

Wellsville, O.—A clodburst in the country, just back of this city sent a torrent of water down McQueen's creek and Trotter's run that caused a loss of thousands of dollars to property owners and city property. Over 200 homes and business houses were flooded and foundations weakened so that people would not remain in the houses Sunday night. The water, which was not so hot as the flood in the lowlands and water backed over that part of the city to a depth of over three feet, in some sections, filling cellars and first floors.

Mayor W. L. Fugate called a special meeting of the city council to provide for funds for the cleaning of the city. He took the situation in his own hands, put over 100 men at work taking the debris from the mouth of the several storm sewers and by his hasty action many homes were saved from further loss.

It was impossible for people to leave their homes so quickly did the water rise into the lowlands. Wagons and small frame buildings were washed into the city proper from the country down the Trotter's run. The water came down the hillside in such volumes that it pushed its way through the secondary window of a house. The family had to flee. In East Liverpool the damage was not so heavy. Lightning struck the Methodist Episcopal church, but the damage was slight. There were several slides on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad between here and Solonville and many railroad and telegraph wires were blown down.

CONGRESSMAN ADAMS DEAD

Wisconsin Representative Passes Away at Chicago as Result of Overwork.

Chicago.—His strength exhausted by days and nights of work in behalf of the packing-house inspection bill, Congressman Henry Cullen Adams, of Wisconsin, died Monday morning at the Auditorium hotel. He was 62 years of age. He had been ill for some time, and his relatives, who came to Chicago a short time before his death, declare that his close attention to duty in congress is directly responsible for his death. His colleagues almost immediately after adjournment. The burial will be at Madison, Wis., where the congressman resided.

Congressman Adams was 56 years old and was born in Oneida county, N. Y. He was taken to Madison while he was a baby. He attended district school, Albia academy and the University of Wisconsin. He married in 1878 Mrs. Anna B. Norton, of Madison. Then he engaged in farming and built up a profitable dairy and fruit business. Mr. Adams was a member of the state assembly in 1881 and 1885, and engaged in the winters of 1887, 1888 and 1889 in farmers' institute work as president of the State Dairyman's association. Two years he was secretary of the State Horticultural Society and long a member of the state board of agriculture. Mr. Adams was state superintendent of public property from 1888 to 1890, dairy food commissioner 1894 to 1895 and member of congress, Second district of Wisconsin, since 1901.

Congressman Adams was a Republican, and in 1900 was chairman of the state convention of his party. "Four children are living—Benjamin Cullen Adams, Frank T. Adams, Mable Adams and Carrie Adams.

It was the intensity of the efforts of Congressman Adams during the closing days of the last session of congress that a compromise satisfactory to President Roosevelt and in the opinion of the conservative members of the house, was reached on the packing-house inspection measure.

Thaw Opposes Insanity Plea.

New York.—Harry K. Thaw Tuesday in the Tombs gave out his first formal statement since he shot and killed William J. Hamilton, the Square roof gardener. In it the young man utters a protest against being regarded as insane and declares his counsel assure him that no such charge was the appointment of a commission to inquire into his mental condition is contemplated.

ROAD GUILTY OF REBATING

CHICAGO & ALTON IS CONVICTED ON CHARGE

Two Former Officials Also Held—Important Victory for the Government.

Chicago.—The Chicago & Alton Railroad company and two former officials of the road were found guilty Friday of granting rebates.

Punishment for the offenses charged is a fine of not less than $5,000 nor more than $120,000, according to the district attorney.

The punishment has not yet been fixed. The road is declared guilty on each of eight counts. The rebates granted by the company to Schwarzschild & Sulzberger formed the basis of the indictments.

This is considered one of the most important victories of its kind won by the government. It means the beginning of many prosecutions.

The attorneys of the railroad gave notice of an appeal. They may, however, in view of the evidence, decide to waive further effort to prove the innocence of the road of conspiracy.

Judge K. M. Landis overruled a motion made in behalf of John M. Falther and Frederick A. Wann, former executives of the Chicago & Alton railway, charged with giving rebates to Schwarzschild & Sulzberger. The cases were taken from the jury and a court order entered in favor of the defendants.

The judge says that it appears from the evidence that prior to 1901 the Chicago & Alton railway company charged the belt road four dollars a car for hauls from the packing company's platforms, over the packers' private tracks and the belt tracks to the Chicago & Alton tracks, and that the belt line paid one dollar to the packing company for the part of the haul that was over the tracks of the company.

This practice is said to have been known to the Alton company and continued until January 1, 1901, when, for some reason which does not appear, but at the alleged request of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, the arrangements were changed so that the Alton company made the payments direct to the packing company. Instead of through the medium of the belt company.

Coincident with this change the belt line filed new schedules showing its rates for moving the packing company's traffic to be three dollars a car, which amount the Alton absorbed in its tariff collected from Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and paid over to the belt road.

WARRANT FOR ROCKEFELLER

Oil King Is Charged with Organizing and Maintaining a Monopoly.

Findlay, O.—A warrant for John D. Rockefeller, which is now in the hands of the sheriff of Hancock county, is accompanied by a copy of the information and affidavit which was filed in the probate court here by Prosecutor David and charging Rockefeller with violating the anti-trust laws in organizing and maintaining a monopoly of the oil business.

The warrant directs the sheriff to take the said John D. Rockefeller, found in your county, or if he shall have fled that you pursue him into any other county in the state, and take and safely keep the said John D. Rockefeller so that you have his body before this court to answer the said complaint and be further dealt with according to law."

The warrant is signed by Judge Conklyn, of the probate court of Hancock county.

More Paupers in America.

Washington.—According to a report issued by the census bureau there were in the United States in 1905 163,176 persons in almshouses and of these 111,718 were males.

Although the number of almshouses paupers is increasing the census does not keep pace with the growth of population, and consequently the ratio of almshouse paupers to population is increasing. In 1840 it was 132 per 100,000 of population, it decreased to 117 in 1890 and to 101 in 1901.

Fremo, Cal.—A dispatch has been received here stating that the man known as Fred Hunter, who was arrested with holding up the five stages in Yosemite Valley, was given his liberty. He proved an alibi.

Gen. Rucker Dead.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Brig. Gen. Louis Henry Rucker, U. S. A., retired, is dead here. He was 49 years of age. He was in the army for 40 years. He was killed at Chicago when the call for troops was made in 1861.

CAN THEY GET HIM?

SECRETARY WILSON DECLARES PACKERS ARE NOT DEFIANT

HEAD OF AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT VISITS CHICAGO STOCKYARDS—ELABORATE SYSTEM OF INSPECTION PLANNED.

Chicago.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who is personally supervising the changes at the stockyards demanded by the inspection law, met most of the important packers Monday, and after a trip through Packingtown, changed his mind about their being defiant and seeking to circumvent the government.

An elaborate system of official reports on sanitary conditions in the packing houses and stockyards throughout the United States is the plan proposed by Secretary Wilson.

The plan contemplates frequent reports from the several subordinate inspectors stationed at each packing house and stockyard through the superintendent of inspection and the bureau of animal industry to the department of agriculture. Secretary Wilson believes the institution of this system will keep the department at Washington in constant touch with every detail of the packing industry throughout the United States and enable the government to deal summarily with any infraction of the law governing the inspection of meats.

Visits Three Plants.

Tired and dust-begrimed, Secretary Wilson and Dr. Melville, chief of the bureau of animal industry, returned to the hotel late Monday evening after a strenuous day at the stockyards. Two separate conferences with the representatives of the various packing firms, a hurried inspection of certain sanitary conditions in three packing houses and numerous talks with inspectors and superintendents of meat inspection from distant cities were crowded into the day's work.

The conferences with the packers' representatives were arranged by mutual consent and were strictly confidential. According to Secretary Wilson, the packers talked freely of their side of the case, while the officials from Washington listened attentively after having given their word that no statement of the proceedings should be given to the press.

Probes Report of Experts.

His hurried trip through the three packing plants was occasioned by the report of the experts and joint investigating committee from the Commercial and Manufacturers' associations, which referred to sanitary conditions relating to the comfort of employees.

Secretary Wilson expressed his satisfaction at the improved sanitary conditions of the plants, which he said was the only phase of inspection which he or his party would personally investigate.

The report of the Commercial and Manufacturers' associations was severely criticized by the secretary.

The report of the committee uttered an uncertain sound, said "It does not specify anything. While it speaks of certain things that are right and certain things that are wrong it only generalizes. It is an unfortunate report, and I am very much dissatisfied with it. A valuable report should state facts and give details."

George Ade Not Engaged.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The report of the engagement between Miss Lucy Taggart, daughter of Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and George Ade, the playwright, is authoritatively denied.

Wisconsin Financier Dead.

Oshkosh, Wis.—John R. Morgan, aged 55 years, a prominent financier, died here Monday. He was president of the Morgan company. He was also vice president of the National Union bank.

Acreage of Corn.

Washington.—The crop report issued by the department of agriculture shows the acreage of corn planted was 55,535,000 acres, increase, 1.6. Average condition, 81.5; condition of winter wheat, 85.6; spring wheat, 91.4.

Bantams to Fight.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Manager McCarty, of the Pacific Athletic club, announces that Frankie Neff and Jimmie Walsh have been matched to fight 20 rounds in this city August 3 for the bantamweight championship.

THE FIRST COMPASS.

Was Known to Sailors Before the Twelfth Century—Indispensable Adjunct to Navigation.

Some Asian people, perhaps the Chinese, discovered, many centuries ago, that a kind of iron ore possessed a very peculiar quality. We call this ore magnetic ore. In more common language, lodestone, and it is very widely distributed, especially in the older crystalline rocks. It was found that if a bit of lodestone was placed in water upon a piece of cork or straw braid it would turn till the axis of the stone assumed a north and south position. A phenomenon of magnetism has been discovered by means of an ore that is peculiarly susceptible to magnetic influence.

It is an open question whether the Chinese utilized the directive power of the lodestone, but it is certain that the first rude compass was not used on European vessels before the twelfth century of our era. By that time the true magnetic compass had been evolved through the discovery that if an iron or steel needle were stroked on a lodestone it would receive the attractive and directive power of this ore. With this wonderful appliance placed at the service of navigation, the vessels that had hugged the coasts soon were to venture even out of sight of land. A new impetus was gradually given to cartography, for now the true directions of the coast lines might be charted with some approach to accuracy. It was the happy fortune of Italian sailors to make the surprisingly excellent surveys of the directions and lengths of the Black sea and Mediterranean coasts along the Atlantic to British waters that have come down to us in the so-called Portulan maps—Cyrus C. Adams, in Harper's.

DOCTOR'S SHIFT.

New Gets Along Without It.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to get meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach."

"Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all the nourishment necessary from the Grape-Nuts, and since then I have not had any indigestion and feel much better and have increased in weight."

"Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for many of my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach."

"I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name."

Name given by mail by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find.

In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into Dextrin, or Post-Sugar, which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood. The parts in the wheat and barley which Nature can make use of for rebuilding brain and nerve centers are retained in this remarkable food, and thus the human body is supplied with the powerful strength producers so easily noticed after one has eaten Grape-Nuts each day for a week or 10 days. "There's a reason."

You've no idea the amount of work it will save you. Try it.

An Engine Without An Engineer.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine does not require an engineer to run it. It is so simple and practical in construction that it requires very little attention and is easily operated by anyone.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine runs smoothly and produces more power than rated. It is very economical in the use of fuel, consuming less per horse power than any other engine of the same rated capacity.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine is a wise investment. It saves time and money, and increases your profit as a result of the increased production. No progressive farmer can afford to be without an I. H. C. engine. There is no one to fit your special need.

Made in the following styles and sizes:
Vertical—2, 3 and 5 horse power.
Horizontal—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 horse power.

Call and examine an I. H. C. gasoline engine and see for yourself the merits of this engine.

We also handle a full line of Deering Mowers and Binders and Weber Wagons, in fact everything the farmer wants on the farm. Call and examine our stock and be convinced that we are up-to-date implement dealers.
