WOODMEN PICNIC SUCCESS

Remarkable Prints by H. J. Lageschulte, George Jenks and
F. O. Willmarth—E.
M. Blocks' Clever
Catching.

Two thousand persons, old and young, braved the threatening elements Wednesday and helped the Woodmen boys celebrate, and the happy countenances of all present testified to the fact that they were repaid. A more jolly, good natured, large assembly of people could not be found anywhere.

The Harrington coast band in their natty uniforms rendered some choice selections on the square before the procession started for Comstock's grove at 10:30 o'clock a.m.

From the moment the grove was reached, until late in the evening something was doing every second of the time.

Races of every description, baseball game, etc., were so numerous that it was an impossibility to keep track of them. Two of them, however, made such a deep impression on THE REVIEW reporter that it is impossible to overlook to mention them. One of them, and probably the most exciting, was the mile and a-half dash of the fat men, in which Henry Laugeschulte and George Jenks ran a neck and neck race, and a large number of five cent sacks of peanuts were wagered on the result. The race was awarded to Mr. Jenks, he winner by a nose, but, undoubtedly, if the race had been a little longer distance neither party would have finished within the money.

as considerable "blowing" was indulged in after the race.

Alderman F. O. Willmarth was awarded the "key" race, a distance of about thirty yards, in the remarkable time of twenty-five minutes. [We don't know for what accuracy of the timepiece by which the contestants in this race were timed.—EDITOR.] Mr. Willmarth received a necktie.

Among the ladies, Mrs. Ray Elvidge proved the most successful in four events.

Space will not permit us to mention the large number of winners in all the races, but we cannot forget the triumph of the following:

Oldest settler on the ground—Wash Johnson.

Oldest married couple on the ground—Mr. and Mrs. Bernhart Gieske.

Youngest married couple—Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Gieske.

Most popular child on the ground—Nella Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schaefer. It is of interest to note that the young miss had but one ticket in the hat at the time of the drawing, and it won.

It would be just, however, to mention the baseball game. The game was a contest between a picked-up nine from the country and a nine from the city, and resulted in five innings being played, a score of 6 to 3 resulting in favor of the "farmers."

The "city daisies" were captained by E. K. Bieles, the underwriter, who also acted as catcher, and the way the pitcher whirled those balls to him, came near requiring the services of the corner for the catcher, for whom Mr. Bieles thought he had his "mitts" in the right position the ball would send him to one side, and once caught him inawards, and so suddenly that his wrist is now bandaged up.

But the gritty catcher would not give up. He kept the score down to six. George Landwehr had the "farmers" in charge, and Rural Free Delivery Carrier Charles Hutschinson did the star turn act, while "De" Max Liden decided the intricate differences.

A goodly sum was realized to swell the coffers of the Woodmen treasury.

COMMUNITY IS IN SORROW

Shocking Accident Takes From Our Midst One of Our Best Young Men.

A most deplorable accident, in which one of Barrington's most popular citizens received injuries which proved fatal, occurred Monday evening about 6 o'clock, when the horses of Fred Bauman, highway commissioner of the Town of Barrington, became frightened on a motor cycle of Lester Weichert, who was approaching from the rear, and becoming unmanageable through the breaking of a bit, threw the unfortunate gentleman backwards into the wagon, striking on his head.

Left turning somewhat after sunset, and becoming unmanageable through the breaking of a bit, threw the unfortunate gentleman backwards into the wagon, striking on his head.

Left turning somewhat after sunset, and becoming unmanageable through the breaking of a bit, threw the unfortunate gentleman backwards into the wagon, striking on his head.

Mr. Bauman was picked up and carried to the roadside by loving hands and medical aid was summoned. He was found to be unconscious, and shortly afterward was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Samuel Gieske, where loving hands cared for him. Mrs. Weichert and Shearer did all in their power to bring the injured gentleman around, but to no avail, and called into consultation Dr. Dubs of Chicago, who arrived on the midnight train and stayed until the 5:25 a.m. train Tuesday, but medical skill proved of no avail, and at 7:40 o'clock Wednesday evening he passed away surrounded by broken relatives.

The horses started to run from in front of E. L. Wesemann's residence, that gentleman witnessing the accident, and did also one or two other parties.

Frederick William Bauman was born two miles south of Barrington, April 2, 1861. He has lived at the same place up to the time of the sad accident last Monday evening, which caused his death Wednesday morning, July 26, at 7:40 o'clock.

"Fred," as he was known to all who have known him these many years, was a man of sterling qualities. He never touched strong drink and never used tobacco. He was brought up by God-fearing parents, and has for many years made a public confession of faith in Christ and became a member of the Salem Evangelical church. He was a dutiful son, remaining on the farm with his father long after he was of age and during his father's illness, and for sixteen years since his death. He took charge of the whole farm. Towards his aged mother, brothers and sisters he was kind and affectionate as a woman could be. For their sake largely he remained at home and unmarried. He was pleasant to all and always had a pleasant smile on his face when he addressed anyone or answered a question. He had a desire to be just with his fellow men and was unwilling to take any advantage of their interest. About one week before the sad accident his neighbor, just come from Germany last spring, offered him a good round sum for the horse which was the main cause for the runaway. But he refused to accept the offer, fearing the man might get into trouble with the spirited horse. He was a good farmer and an expert horseman and would have been well able to manage his afflicted team if the defective bit had not given way. It was a new bit used less than ten days, but the flaw in the iron was never suspected, as it was completely covered when galvanized. Good horsemanship counted for nothing when the bit came apart while trying to check a spirited horse. A dog, calf or a sheet of paper might have caused the scare as readily as did the bicycle. The fall caused a fracture of the skull near the base and death followed just about fifty hours later. Consciousness never returned. "Fred" leaves an aged mother, two brothers and four sisters, who are heartbroken at the sudden and unexpected death.

Funeral services are to be held at the house of Samuel Gieske on Saturday morning, 10 a.m. This arrangement seems necessary on account of the physical condition of the mother and sister Carrie. It was here "Fred" was carried to when hurt and here he died. The heartfelt sympathy of the many friends and acquaintances are rendered to the so sadly bereaved family.

She's a Beauty and They Know It.

L. A. Jones, proprietor of the Wauconda kennels, Barrington, has received some flattering remarks from the leading dog fanciers' paper in America in regard to his famous "Wauconda Belle," who took first prize the first time she was shown at a bench show, taking the blue ribbon at Kankakee in March, 1905. Wauconda Belle (Bowie) is just now nursing five extra good puppies sired by Rhineland Romp, A. K. C. 8060, a pitie winning dog of Milwaukee.

In addition to Wauconda Belle, Mr. Jones also owns the famous blooded Boston female terrier, "Pride of Barrington."

WILL HOLD A CHATAUQUA

Week of September 18-23 Will Be a Notable One for Barrington.

Last night at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms it was decided to hold a Chatauqua in Barrington during the week of Sept. 18-23. This assembly will be held in a tent seating 1,000 people which will be pitched in some central location.

The assembly will last for six days and will have two sessions each day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Among the entertainers who will be on the program are Frank S. Rogan, the lawyer cartoonist and chalk talker; Col. John Solresko, the heir to the throne of Poland, who will deliver his lecture on "Russia and Siberian Exiles"; Eugene W. Chaffin of Chicago, whose lecture on "Washington as a Statesman," has the hearty endorsement of Senator J. V. Quarles, and all who have ever listened to it.

The "Meveler" quartette will be here for one day and give concerts of a popular and classical nature. Chester L. Kicketts, the improvisator, will accompany the quartette.

Mrs. Florence Richards, America's foremost W. C. T. U. orator of Ohio, will be present for one day. In addition to the above program there will be vocalists, readers, and some local musical talent, both vocal and instrumental. Among the special days will be: Old Soldier's Day, Y. M. C. A. Day and W. C. T. U. Day.

At the meeting last night the representative, L. G. Whitelade, presented the plan. The contract was signed guaranteeing 200 season tickets and the following committees were elected:

General Chairman—Dr. Lytle.
Ticket Chairman—Frank Gieske.
Advertising Chairman—Dr. Richardson.
Music Chairman—F. H. Plagge.
Entertainment Chairman—Miss Esther Kampert.
Lighting Chairman—H. S. Meyer.
Seating Chairman—H. J. Laugeschulte.
Grand Army Day Chairman—H. H. Hultman.

The season ticket for the assembly will cost $1.00, and the single admissions will be 10 and 25 cents. The season tickets are transferable. The grounds and restrooms will appear within 10 days. 50 per cent of the proceeds will be left with the Y. M. C. A. for local work. Chatauquas similar to this one are being held in every corner in the state. Rockford, Woodstock, Belvidere, Galesburg, Watona, Colfax, Watseka and many other towns are having rising assemblies.

Next Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms there will be a meeting of all the committees to make further arrangements.

Adolph H. Wesemann of La Grange Park, Candidate for State Senator.

A staunch republican, who will come before the voters for the first time at the primaries, Saturday, August 4th, is Adolph H. Wesemann of La Grange Park, candidate for state senator from the Seventh Senatorial District. This is the first time he has asked a political favor. He expects to win.

New house for sale or rent on North Hawley street, to be ready for occupancy Sept. 15th. Will build to suit purchaser. M. C. McIntosh.

HOLD PRIMARIES SATURDAY

Tickets to be Voted in the Towns of Barrington, Cuba and Ela.

A great time politically is expected tomorrow, Saturday, at the primary election. The polls will be opened from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., and every citizen should turn out and cast their ballot. Extra good timber has been secured as candidates, among them we would like to see Ralph Peck unanimously chosen for representative of the Seventh Senatorial district. He is a young man well fitted for the position and will fulfill every duty of a good clean politician and hustling will accomplish it.

Among the able Lake County candidates Judge Jones and C. T. Heydecker are both good men for the office of a county judge. Judge Jones, the present incumbent, has proven a good and just jurist, and the many friends of C. T. Heydecker desire to give their candidate a trial at the office if possible, and will fulfill every duty of a good clean politician and hustling will accomplish it.

For county clerk A. L. Hendle will, no doubt, receive the largest majority he ever received, and his efficient conduct of that important office for so many years should, and no doubt will, do more towards defeating his opponent than all the arguments he could make. He deserves your vote.

PALATINE LOCAL NEWS

The many friends of Dr. J. E. Boet of Arlington Heights were surprised to learn of his sudden death Wednesday morning. While talking with Dr. Thiemann, a horse became frightened at an automobile, the Doctor said, "Oh my!" and died immediately. It is a great shock to all who knew him. He has practiced in this vicinity for many years and is very well known. His loss will be mourned by many.

A man walking along the track Tuesday night was struck by a train about Flagg's crossing and killed. At the coroner's inquest Mr. John Holen, from the testimony given by the engineers and Mr. Goetz that he stepped from in front of the Jansville train in front of the fast mail train. No means of identification was found on his person.

Mrs. G. H. Arps is entertaining S. C. Felt, Miss Dora Felt and Mrs. Angelle and their children of Cleveland, Ohio. They expect to be here a month.

Will Mason entertained his nephew, Clark Mason, of New Mexico, this week. It has been twelve years since Mr. Mason was here last.

Miss Lucille Pahlke returned from Dr. Kall's last Saturday, having taken a summer course in the Dr. Kall Normal.

The L. V. C. and their gentlemen friends were entertained at the home of Miss Alma Bergman Wednesday evening.

Mrs. W. C. Williams, Jr., entertained a few relatives to supper Thursday evening in home of Willie's birthday.

Miss Amy Wheeler of Arlington Heights spent Wednesday afternoon with friends.

Mrs. Jessie Shope and daughter of Park Ridge spent Wednesday with Mrs. G. H. Arps.

Mrs. Mary Kendall of Arlington Heights was a guest of Will Mason and family Wednesday.

August Barkhardt returned from his vacation Tuesday night.

"The Burial of Sir John Moore." A writer in the Critic has discovered why the author of that old-time favorite of the school readers, "The Burial of Sir John Moore," never succeeded in writing any other poem which was considered worth printing. It appears that "The Burial of Sir John Moore" is nothing but a translation from the French of a poem by Lally-Tollendal, an officer of the French army, who wrote the poem after the death of a fellow soldier. Here are two stanzas from the French poem:

Ni le son de tambour, * * * ni la marche funebre, * * *
Ni le feu des mitrailleuses, * * *
Ni le son de la cloche, * * *
Morne * * * nous portons le cadaver au rempart!

De minuit c'était l'heure, et solitaire et sombre—
La lune peinte orait un debile rayon:
La lanterne luitait seulement dans l'ombre.

Quand de la balustrade on creusa le canyon.
The opening stanzas of "The Burial of Sir John Moore" are as follows:

Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note,
As his corse to the rampart we hurried and shot;
Not a soldier discharged his farewell shot
O'er the grave where our hero we buried.

We buried him darkly at dead of night,
The soldiers with their bayoneted rifles;
And the lanterns dimly lit;
And the lanterns dimly lit;
This similarity runs through the entire poem, and leaves no room for doubt that Rev. Charles Wolfe simply appropriated to his own use the work of the French poet, put a new title on it, and thus instead of dying unknown beyond the boundaries of his little parish made his name familiar to all English-speaking people. It was a master stroke on the part of Rev.
Charles. The Critic's investigation appears to have been unable to discover where Lally-Tollendal stole the poem.

The Waiter's Napkin.
The waiter without his napkin impossible, declares Boniface. One might as well imagine the table without a tablecloth. The waiter has carried a napkin ever since he donned black and white, and therefore it is unseemly, barbaric to think of his appearing at table without the fluttering and obsequious linen. We have seen him and his napkin. First he draws out the chair and flicks away an intrusive crumb. Next he polishes a plate and then furiously wipes his brow. A spoon is a little greasy—water dabs it with his napkin. A glass is finger-marked—rubbed with the napkin. A bottle is dusty—the napkin. There may be other napkins, but the waiter is not an aesthete. We are an aesthete he would not say a word. He does not remember to change his napkin. He uses it indiscriminately.
The only cure is to take it away from him, and keep things clean as a matter of course. The speck of dust which the waiter removes with such grave and elegant circumspection has no business to be where it is. It would be a pity indeed, to denude him of his insignia of office, says the Chicago Post, but the efforts of Prof.
Kron, the Berlin physician, who would drive this "deplorably unhygienic piece of linen from all civilized countries," are prompted by the most sensible motives, and should be seconded by every restaurant proprietor who does not consider his duties fulfilled when he floats a geranium leaf in a finger bowl.

Forests Falling Fast.
Finally the lumbermen can see the beginning of the end. They have been leveling the forests and converting them into money. Now they have arrived at the point where they can conceive that soon there will be no more great primeval forests to cut down.
The lumbermen have been doing a little figuring. They have estimated that there is 1,475,000,000 feet of lumber standing in the United States. The quantity which is cut every year amounts to 45,000,000,000 feet. It is a deduction easily made that it will require only 33 years to consume the present supply. The lumbermen are beginning to clamor for government assistance to save their forests. They request that the exportation of logs shall be prohibited and that all tree plantations shall be exempt from taxation. It is clear that some such measures must soon be taken, says the Cleveland Leader. But it is doubtful, however, that those recommended by the lumbermen will in themselves prove to be effectual. Additional and stronger protective laws will probably be found necessary.

It takes an eyelash 20 weeks to reach a length of half an inch, and then its life is from 100 to 150 days.
By means of a camera the wink of an eyelid has been measured, and it was found that 20 winks can be made in four seconds. We should like to ask whether it was a soda fountain ink that was measured?

* They are calling for axmen and laborers in San Francisco, and yet it is said that 70,000 people are in danger of freezing there next winter.

MUTINEERS AT SVEABORG HOIST THE WHITE FLAG

Emblem of Surrender Floats Over Fort, But Loyalists Fear It May Be Ruse to Induce Ships to Come Into Closer Range.

Helsingfors.—The latest report from Sveaborg fortress is to the effect that a majority of the mutineers have surrendered. An attack by Commander Tegel and 2,000 loyal troops early Thursday resulted in the capitulation of the forts held by the rebels.

The mutineers had the upper hand until the battleships Slava and Charvitch commenced to bombard them with such telling effect that the central magazine was blown up and the biggest guns in the hands of the revolutionists were rendered useless.

Mutiny on Flotilla.
Viborg.—It is reported here that the Russian flotilla stationed at Tan-ga, Finland, has mutinied. Impri-soned the officers, and sailed to the assistance of the mutineers at Sveaborg.

Helsingfors.—The fortress of Sveaborg at midnight Wednesday still is the center of terrific cannonading, with the issue undecided.

All night the populace of Helsingfors has crowded the quays, listening to the firing and watching the dense clouds of smoke rising over the island. Not a boat is moving in the harbor and it is impossible to learn details of the struggle.

Warships Bombard Forts.
Since the capitulation of the mutineers on Skatuden island early Wednesday the fleet of warships en-of shrapnel from the forts commanded by the mutineers.

It was impossible to learn how seriously the warship was damaged. It did not seem to make any effort to reply to the bombardment, giving rise to the belief that the crew of the cruiser had mutinied.

Late Wednesday afternoon a terrific roar rose above the noise of cannoning and a column of black smoke arose over Sveaborg. The cause of this was a mystery until it was rumored that the magazine captured by the mutineers had exploded.

Mutineers Hold Viborg.
Helsingfors.—Sveaborg is entirely in the hands of the mutineers who now have in their possession every kind of armament.

Horrible scenes occurred during Tuesday night when the fierce fighting was continued. The heaviest artillery was used during the conflict between the mutineers and the government troops.

An authoritative estimate of the killed and wounded cannot be obtained, but the casualty list on both sides must be heavy, for the fighting was waged with desperation.

The marines at Skatuden are said to have convened an elective court-martial which condemned several officers to instant execution.

Cause of the Outbreak.
The cause of the mutiny is reported to have been the death of a soldier gaged Tuesday has concentrated around the forts at Sveaborg held by the mutineers.

ONE OF THE FORTS HELD BY MUTINEERS.

The fleet was joined Wednesday afternoon by the cruiser Alva. From the warships a terrific fire has been pouring into the forts.

Wednesday evening the battleship Casarevitch and the cruiser Rogatyr arrived and opened fire on the mutineers at a distance of 50 cable lengths. The mutineers replied, but their shots seemed to be ineffective. Boats were then seen leaving the island with wounded.

Crews in Revolt.
There is a rumor that some of the cruiser crews have joined the revolt and are firing on the main fortresses occupied by loyal troops. It is also rumored that the revolutionists on one fortified island have raised the white flag.

It is impossible to confirm any of the rumors, as communication with the islands has been cut off absolutely and not a boat is allowed to cross either way.

Leaders of the "red guard" here declare the terrific and continuous firing now is an indication that some of the warships have joined the revolt. They declare a naval battle is in progress as well as a bombardment of the forts.

Mutineers Get Reinforcements.
Reinforcements of several hundred civilians from Helsingfors, armed with rifles, Wednesday succeeded in joining the revolutionists, who already were in possession of four islands. They attacked a fifth and captured it after a hot fight. It is stated tonight that the only portion of the island group in possession of loyal troops was the western half of Black Island.

The strike committee declared a general strike to begin at seven o'clock Wednesday, having received an intimation that otherwise Helsingfors would be bombarded. Up to midnight, however, there were no evidences of this strike nor of a bombardment of the city.

From the shore here could be seen the smoke of burning buildings at Sveaborg, and it was rumored the destruction of the town was in progress.

Early Wednesday afternoon a cruiser anchored in the vicinity of Bonasus Island became the target for a rain of shrapnel from the forts commanded by the mutineers.

It was impossible to learn how seriously the warship was damaged. It did not seem to make any effort to reply to the bombardment, giving rise to the belief that the crew of the cruiser had mutinied.

WIFE OF MILLIONAIRE STEEL KING GIVEN DIVORCE DECREE

MRS. WM. E. COREY SECURES SEPARATION FROM HUSBAND. IN NEVADA—NO CONTEST MADE.

Reno, Nev.—Mrs. William Ellis Corey, wife of the president of the United States Steel corporation, obtained a decree of divorce and custody of her 15-year-old son, Allan Corey, in the Second district court of Nevada Monday afternoon. The jury was out but a few minutes, only one ballot being taken.

Mrs. Corey made no attempt to contest the case and after Mrs. Corey's testimony was heard the case went to the jury without argument.

Mrs. Corey was in tears when told that she had been given a divorce and the custody of her 15-year-old son, Allan Corey. She drove at once to her home on Riverside avenue, where she says she will continue to reside.

The question of alimony was not introduced. Mrs. Corey made an interesting admission, however, touching upon this phase of the case, stating that in May, 1905, several weeks before her petition for divorce was filed, she negotiated through her attorneys a financial settlement with her husband.

Plaintiff Claims Desertion.
"I am a resident of Reno, Nevada," said Mrs. Corey, when placed on the stand, "and the wife of William Ellis Corey, the defendant in this action. We were married on December 1, 1883, at Pittsburgh, Pa., and lived together until May 1, 1905. At that time my husband deserted me and went to New York. I followed him and held a conversation with him in the Hotel Lorraine. It was there that he told me that he had decided to live apart. He said that it was impossible for us to live happily together and that I would never see him again.

"He stated that he intended going to Europe for several months. There was no scene. I talked with him about the matter and urged him to again resume his place in our home, but he refused. I have never seen him since."

Miss Addie Corey, sister of the respondent, was an interesting witness. She corroborated Mrs. Corey's statement that Corey had deserted his wife and told her she and her aged mother had made several ineffectual attempts to effect a reconciliation.

Her brother, she said, had lost sight of his home, being absorbed in business and infatuated with the fast life of New York.

Sister Scores Brother.
"Do you consider Mr. Corey a proper custodian for his son?" she was asked.

"I do not for the reason that he is not a proper person for his son to associate with. He has no home and his associates are not fit companions for a young man of Allan's age. I do not think any New York man is fit to have charge of a boy of his age."

"Do you mean all New York men, Miss Corey?" continued the attorney.

"I mean wealthy New York men," Allan Corey stated that at the time of the parting his father called him to his office and told him that he had decided to part from his mother. "He said I was too young to understand the reasons. He then said that my mother was a good woman and that my place was at her side."

At the conclusion of the trial Attorney Sardis Summerfield, of Reno, stated that his client, William E. Corey, was as anxious for the decree of divorce as his wife. "If the decree is granted," he said, "Mr. Corey will be entirely satisfied. He has consented to the divorce. This understanding between Mr. Corey and the attorneys of Mrs. Corey was reached some time ago."

SHORT SHIFT FOR NEGRO FIEND

Quick Trial, Conviction and Hanging for Assaulter of Woman.

Mayfield, Ky.—The hanging of Allen Mathis, the negro who criminally assaulted Miss Ethel McClain last Wednesday, July 25, took place at eight o'clock Tuesday night in a legal manner in the yard of the county jail. It was only 50 minutes from the time the jury was sworn in until the negro was pronounced dead.

Mathis arrived here at 6:40 Tuesday in charge of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Elmore and John Galloway, and the military company of Hopkinsville. The local military met the train and the negro was marched to the courthouse.

Mathis was carried upstairs in the big courtroom before Judge Hugg, who was in readiness, and at 7:15 o'clock the jury had been selected and sworn in.

The court appointed W. S. Foy, one of the local attorneys, to represent the defendant, and after a minute or two of consultation it was agreed that Mathis should plead guilty.

The jurors were ordered to their room and, after being out 20 minutes, they returned a verdict of guilty, fixing punishment at death.

Rains Hamper Sanitation Work.

Colon.—The month of July witnessed a series of heavy rains on the island which have hampered the work of sanitation in Colon. Preparations are being made to pave the principal streets of Colon with brick.

Smuggle Arms to Finland.

Berlin.—A dispatch sent out from Luebeck says the Danish police have discovered that 707 cases of arms and ammunition were shipped from there to Finland during the month of July upon false clearing papers.

BAD TRAIN WRECK IN NEW YORK

Landslide Causes Locomotive to Turn Turtle and Roll into River.

Fishkill, N. Y.—A Pacific express train No. 37 of the New York Central, which left New York at 9:32 o'clock Sunday night, was wrecked shortly before midnight on a badly injured New Chesapeake, and it landed on a high embankment by a terrific rainstorm in the afternoon.

The engine and the flyer was thrown from the rails and plunged into the river. Fireman Mills was killed outright and Engineer Edward Wells was badly injured. Mr. Wells will die.

The locomotive turned turtle and rolled into the river.

Fifteen passengers were seriously injured and a score of others received minor hurts.

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh —Had to Use Crutches—"Cuticura Remedies the Best on Earth."

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut out from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day, and kept it up for seven months, when my limb had healed up just the same as if I never had trouble. It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day after the same line of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6, but the doctors' bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

ABOUT WOMEN.

Freshness is not to be despised in women, vegetables or flowers. A woman of gushing propensities is apt to forget herself irresistibly.

The woman who nags her husband deservesly sits down to a lonely meal. Wise is the woman who does not expect a man's devotion at election time.

The woman who constantly quotes her husband seldom realizes what an intolerable bore she is to others. A woman with a musical voice may babble of coal dust and sauer kraut, and still compel you to think of lute strings.—Exchange.

Harriman Lines to Become Floral Routes.

Executive officers of the Union Pacific road in Chicago are planning to build several large greenhouses along the main lines of this company in Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah and other districts, with the object of having at every table in every dining car over the entire system a bouquet of freshly cut flowers at every meal.

In addition to table and other decorations it is planned to grow flowers on a scale sufficiently large to allow a few distributions to roses to women and carriages, or other reasonable flower, not only in dining cars but to passengers in every car of every train, and in winter as well as in summer, the idea being to make patrons feel that the flowers are a part of the trip over this road and not precious little souvenirs.

The greenhouses are probably located at Grand Island, Neb., Cheyenne, Wyo., Denver, Col., and Ogden, Utah. In California and in the territory of the Sunset route in the south the company has no trouble in getting outdoor flowers all year. But even in these districts the scheme of flowers for passengers and car decorations is to be enlarged upon. Dining rooms along all lines are to be supplied freely with plants and blooms. The California and southern resources with the greenhouses to be built along the central route will put the Union Pacific Road and Oregon Short Lines in a position where they may become known as the floral lines, an appellation officers of the Harriman lines hope to merit.

Destroys Odeur of Gases.

M. Delétrain, of Geneva, has combined certain materials, put together in the form of a small solid container, which, when dissolved in petrol of benzine, destroy the odors of burned gases, and leave an agreeable perfume behind.

The Erie Railroad has just placed orders for 1,600 new flat-top freight cars. From the Standard Steel Car Company, to be built at the Butler, Pa., shops, have been ordered 500 drop end steel-underframe gondola cars of 100,000 pounds capacity, and weighing 45,000 pounds each, and 45 feet in length. These are for delivery in January, 1907. For delivery in December next, the Erie has also ordered 500 flat cars, to be built by the same company. These will be 40 feet in length, with steel underframes and a capacity of 100,000 pounds.

At the American Car & Foundry Company's works at Chicago there are "ulding 600 produce cars for delivery in November and December next. These are also steel underframe cars, 30 feet in length, and of 50,000 pounds capacity. At the same company's Detroit works are building for the Erie 100 flat convertible cars for delivery next January. These are to be of 100,000 pounds capacity, and will weigh 45,000 pounds each. They will be 41 feet 6 inches in length, with wood bodies and steel underframes.

Five new electric cars for the Rochester and Genesee Valley Railway, to be built by the same company, for the line to Mt. Morris now being electrically equipped. Four of these are passenger cars and the fifth a combination passenger and baggage car. Each will be equipped with four 75-horsepower Westinghouse motors.

Boys will be boys, especially the gay old ones who have passed 60.

The End of the World

Of troubles that rumbled H. Wolf, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of general debility. I am now strong and healthy. I have no stomach, liver and kidney complaints, blood diseases, headache, dizziness and weakness or bodily decline. Price 50 cents. Guaranteed by Barrington Pharmacy."

The plans of the Lake County Agricultural association are coming along nicely. The grounds will be materially enlarged this season. Besides the property bought of Chas. Appleby the deal for the purchase of a similar tract of Ed. Boye was closed this week and three acres will be added to the west end of the grounds.

The purchasing price of the land was $750, making a total expenditure of $2,250 for land alone. Beside this the association now intimates that the cattle sheds and stalls will be moved to a point much nearer the entrance than at present. In the past these sheds have been at the far eastern end of the grounds and many have been unable to reach the exhibits owing to the distance.

Besides all these improvements the acquisition of the Boye tract will enable the association to erect a rest room for women on a site which will overlook the entire ground. A room of this kind has long been contemplated and the ambition of the past fair managers is now about to be realized.

The tract purchased includes a small grove which will form a nucleus to a larger grove which is hoped for at some future date, the officials stating that they will make plantings.

A resolution will be brought before the next meeting of the Libertyville village board asking that the street from the present entrance of the fair grounds to the west line of the new purchase be vacated by the village, thus enabling the association to move its gates to that point.

Get Out and Walk.

This is not the best season for a lecture about walking on general principles, but it is timely to remind many sorts of people that "shank's horses" have not retired from duty. Hallways, trailers and stages don't run every where one happens to want to go, and really it is often just as well. The trip can be made to pay better, whatever the object, by walking over the course. A good, stiff walk stirs the blood as nothing else can.

America's rule has neglected walking for pleasure and exercise combined—that is, long walks, walks that mean business. The Germans at home are great walkers, because they have a beautiful country, not to be seen in any other way but by the average foot. There are fifty-four mountaineering clubs in Germany with a membership of approximately 150,000. They have resorts in the mountains and make maps, roads and paths on their own hook, merely to facilitate tramping. The trails through the Black forest are blazed so that any German "mountaineer" can find his way anywhere without a guide. These mountaineers go from the desk, the work bench and the study to the fields and hills to "get next" to nature for a two weeks tramp a city level person can cover two or three hundred miles and get at a trifling cost what money could not buy in health and recreation.

The best of walking is that almost every adult can engage in it. Games are too strenuous for one who is not in trim, and people who have work to attend to cannot always keep in training to bear an end creditably. But in walking when the novice can't go his four miles an hour at the start two will put the same strain upon new faculties and for purpose. A walking tour gives a sense of fatigue and rests, with drafts of pure air and more enjoyment than can be had in any other way at the same cost. In fact, there is no cost and no worry, as with some other ways of getting over the country.

Recently a white haired pedestrian of sixty-seven tramped nearly a hundred miles in a day merely to show that he was not yet in the "Down and Out club" because the seventeenth mile of life is just ahead of him. Of course he could not have accomplished the feat had he allowed his "pans" to rust; just he went out of business as a professional. He set the fashion of "heel-and-toe" walking forty years ago. That is a good step for getting over the ground with ease and speed. It would be a good thing for this age if the young and old could have imitations by the thousands. Haste is too much with us. We don't go unless there is a train or trolley or carriage ready. And many a pleasant visit is missed, many an errand left undone, many an hour's keen enjoyment lost because so many newfangled methods of travel have made men and women dependent when they could be independent and happy by striking out on any old road or path leading where they ought to go.

Japan Getting Full Sway in China.

Mr. Fraser, the British consul general at Hankow, warns the British public that the present foreign trade of Great Britain with China will only be maintained with the utmost difficulty. The spirit of opposition to foreign enterprise in the country, he says, is now manifesting itself among all classes of the Chinese people after a fashion that does not admit of two interpretations. The foreigner from the west is no longer enjoy the privileged position in regard to land concessions or trade facilities to which he has so long been accustomed. Japan appears to figure considerably in this change of things.

The Chinese former dislike for the Japanese, according to Consul Fraser, has been transformed into keen admiration, and the latter has now the advantage not only of his geographical position, but of his kinship and similarity in thought and custom, which particularly fit him for penetrating into the interior and pushing his wares in the shops and towns and villages of China whence no one ever visits a treaty port.

Because Mayor McClellan told the Union college graduates that "meddlesome city swabs with the tide, while great struggles against it," the Buffalo News asks, "Which way is Colonel McClellan paddling?" It is up to the colored to eliminate the procreation for this sort of goosling.

In any and every light in which it can be viewed this peek-a-boo wall problem is a perfect network of mystery and truth not revealed. We are obliged to confess, paradoxical as it may seem, that we are utterly unable to see through it.

Somehow this noise about impure food makes one balk back to the time, not so very long ago, when we worried ourselves down to a frazzle over such a trifle as contaminated oil in the oleomargarine.

Justice struck with an iron hand when the sentence of twenty years was imposed upon the kidnaper of a boy within a few hours after the misdemeanor was nabbed.

Circus Stunts on the Stage.

The modern American drama has its faraway and mystical past, but it is the opinion of the editor of Scribner's Magazine, who in the current number suggests the circus as the prototype of the theater. The argument is as follows:

The local color play, the society play, the comedy, the tragedy, the melodrama, the mystery, the historical production upon its soil, differentiates being perhaps more brainy than the circus, but the latter has the first two of the others. In all other plays, the audience is asked to believe in the influence of the great prototype already suggested. First as to motif. The underlying idea of any circus presentation is to do stunts. Who can study our contemporary dramas and comedies and tragedies? Through the combined physical and moral feats of our local color play, the dramatic audacity of our social comedy, the breathless wonders of our melodrama, runs the great, though somewhat vague, purpose of exhibiting the American citizen in characteristic attitudes of his life. He takes his place on the floor of the Stock Exchange and comes out of wonderland—both physically and morally—to his own life. The circus, in fact, is a great, though somewhat vague, purpose of exhibiting the American citizen in characteristic attitudes of his life. He takes his place on the floor of the Stock Exchange and comes out of wonderland—both physically and morally—to his own life. The circus, in fact, is a great, though somewhat vague, purpose of exhibiting the American citizen in characteristic attitudes of his life.

The writer says that the automobile and the swift sailboat are put upon the stage just to show technical skill. This may be partly true, but the popularity of this sort of exhibit on the other side of the footlights does not come wholly from admiration of skill. The masses want to see on the stage what they would like but can't see at home. The theater for most groups is what fairyland stories and pictures are to youngsters.

The Home as the School of Life.

Exposure of public evils leads the holiday reader to lay new emphasis on family life as the seat, or rather, the cradle, of civic virtues. The family is the type for the state, and it is argued that as home life is so public life will be. The home is the place where the earliest impressions of the meaning of law and authority are received. In the well ordered family this is the rule.

For a generation or more the tendency in America has been to break away from the old system of stern parental rule. There is no wide tolerance of the curfew bell and the firm but not necessarily harsh regime of the Puritan father and the mother. It is argued that the secular school and especially the Sunday school inculcates the principles of right and wrong in the boys and girls of the land. Liberty is given them at home to work out their principles. The principle is sound, yet the home should be in a sense a model state, with the oldest head in the executive chair. Brothers and sisters do not all get the same cue for conduct as in school. At least what is learned in school are only precepts. Home is the place to practice, to form character, to learn to respect the rights of others and to accommodate one's personal likes and dislikes to the feelings and temperament of the crowd. The school graduates scholars; the home promotes them to be citizens, good or bad.

It is a pity that genuine lemonade made in a barrel, the old fashioned nutmeg, ginger pop and sarsaparilla are getting out of vogue as summer drinks throughout the country. They are the sweet memories of the boys of long ago and help them to realize how cheap and cooling were the products of old mummy in her little shop of "tooth by the roadside."

It is said that the percentage of colored population in the District of Columbia is declining. As the negro of the Capital City considers himself the aristocrat of his people and seldom indulges to mix with the crowd, the falling off must be due to race suicide, strange as that may seem.

Congressmen, military men and other officials sometimes have travel opportunities to their credit on the government books which they do not use, but convert into cash. Perhaps some future thrifty president will prefer to stay at home with Peggy and thus add a snug dollar to his income.

For one person who eats meat a hundred drink milk. Strenuous measures have been taken to guard the meat supply, and measures equally strenuous are needed to preserve the health and lives of city children from the greed of conscienceless dealers in food "for babies."

Japan's earthquake expert says that San Francisco stands a good chance to be immune the next fifty years. Judging from the way building goes in American cities, San Francisco will be ready to rebuild by the time her period of grace is up.

Municipal ownership has developed in Italy to the extent that one of the communes in the wine district has begun the manufacture of wine.

A Chance For American Ruins.

If some folks have their way about it and congress shoves the dust-out-and-of Washington from its feet to make a more central and possibly more salubrious climate, more things than will be set down on the official programme must happen. Some structures that have cost enormously and are hallowed with sacred national memories will be doomed to fall into ruin. The Europeans say that we can have no romance in this country until we have ruins to inspire it. We have a few ruins scattered over the country.

There would be more but for the activity of our people, who patch and brush up and restore until every old feature loses its individuality as a landmark. The now-famous White House is an example. It is of course possible that this nation will always be too prosperous, proud and self-respecting to permit any pile of national importance to fall into decay. But the salvation of Washington from decay, once it ceases to be the home of political activity, would seem to be impossible. Should all the government buildings ever be turned over to an army of caretakers it would still be impossible to prevent their becoming eventually the prey of the weather and the abuses of rats and owls. It takes the throbs of human energy to keep life in things of stone and iron. The capital is too busy to do anything except as the seat of a vast national congress. The same argument may be applied to other buildings, which, if they are not unique architecturally nor hallowed by the associations which cluster about the home of congress, are otherwise built for the purpose for which they were designed and for little else.

National ruins in Washington would be historic in the double sense because of their past uses and because of their environment. Pantheon hall and Independence hall mean something where they are for the purpose for which they were designed and for little else. ## When the Power Stopped

By Nettie Dixon

Copyright, 1905, by Homer Sprague

Edna came out of the woods, her arms filled with flowers. It had been her first visit that spring, and as she made her way to the road and stationed herself beside the trolley tracks she thought of the difference last year, when they had to drive out from town and the only sign of the railway was a group of men with funny looking instruments working along the road.

It was delightful to feel that those long yellow cars brought town and country into such close union, and she peeped down the track for the first sign of the approaching car.

She had understood that they ran every ten minutes, but after awhile she grew tired and sat on a rock by the roadway. It must be the very noon, she reflected, on which she and Jack had sat while they were waiting for the wagon to come along.

That had been a year ago. Things had changed since then. There had been a little misunderstanding, and Jack had left town for the west—to forget.

Perhaps if he were here—she might—well, somehow the arbutus and the woods seemed to put things in a different light. She had been a little mean to Jack Masters. It was the first time she had admitted it, even to herself. If only Jack knew!

So engrossed did she become with her thoughts that it was fully half an hour before she realized that in all that time not a single car had passed in either direction. She glanced impatiently up the track. It was not pleasant to be alone on a country road with the ghost of the dead past. All the wishing in the world would not bring Jack back.

A lumbering wagon creaked along, and the driver reined his horses in before her.

"Waiting for the trolley?" he shouted. Edna nodded.

"Likely to have a long wait," he chuckled. "The power house is turning down. Guess they'll be running again in about six weeks. G'lang!"

JACK SPRANG TO THE GROUND AND CAUGHT HER IN HIS ARMS.

And the driver resumed their jog with the driver still chuckling over the joke.

For a moment Edna's heart sank. It was getting well along in the afternoon. She had had a long day in the woods, and now she had to face a long mile walk to town unless some one came along who would give her a lift. In spite of the memories that clustered about the spot she decided that she would remain and wait for something to turn up.

Presently a grocery cart came rattling along, and Edna hailed the driver. He refused her proffer of money and sprang down to help her to the seat. The sprig of arbutus she pinned in his buttonhole was a greater reward than any fee she could give, and he was sorry when a mile beyond a second wayfarer hailed him, asking for a ride.

As the man turned at the sound of the wheels Edna gasped. She had supposed Jack Masters to be out west somewhere, yet here he was or his double standing in the middle road.

"Do you mind?" he asked the boy apologetically as he heard the antiquated request. "There's room on the seat for three."

"Not at all," said Edna, wondering if her cheeks were as red as they felt. The next moment Masters sprang to the seat.

For the first time she seemed to realize who the second occupant of the wagon was. "Edna," he cried, "what are you doing here?"

"I have been out after wild flowers," she explained. "The day was so tempting I could not stand the temptation."

"Did you go to the old place?" he asked quietly.

"The arbutus is thickest there," she said. "I guess it was about the old hill."

"I was out there day before yesterday," he said. "Somehow I felt that I would like to go back to the old place. You remember that that was where—"

"It is not necessary to be more specific to Edna severely. "It is not nice to rake up unpleasant memories." The next moment she was penitent and longed to know how sorry she was for all that had occurred, but Jack was looking out over the fields now, and he did not catch the glint of tears in her eyes.

He was thinking of the promise she had made him when they were gathering the arbutus together and how they had agreed to gather the arbutus the next spring as a wedding gift.

Somehow the memory of it had brought him back from the cactus and sagebrush of the western plains. He had felt that he must come back—that perhaps in the springtime she would see things with clearer vision. He had hoped against hope on his long journey across the continent, and now, at this unexpected meeting, she had snubbed him.

It was several minutes before he could command himself, but when he turned to her again it was with an impassive face and some comment upon the destruction of the power house.

Edna felt hurt. Why should she care when he seemed so free and so little regret? Her penitence vanished, and instead there came an elation of desire to tease.

For a moment he seemed hurt at her flippancy; then he rallied and met her mood. Beneath his smiles there lay a need for love, he did not show his hurt, and the indifference roused Edna to further flights until she was almost insolent.

He bore with her patiently, but when at last the boy drew up at the outskirts and announced that he had to turn off to his store Jack sprang to the ground and caught her in his arms as she sought to jump to the ground without his assistance. Just for a moment he shared the fragrance of the arbutus that was crushed between them; then he released her with a sigh and fell into his seat.

"I do not need your escort," she protested when it became apparent that he intended to walk with her.

"You have to pass through a rather touchy quarter of the town before you reach your home," he said quietly. "I am sorry to have to force my company on you, but I intend to see you safely home."

Edna thrilled at the quiet authority of the tone. She had been rather dispirited at the quiet way in which he had taken her railleury. This was new. The power house, and because it evoked old memories it made her resentful.

"I suppose you have come back home because you were a failure out west?" she said sharply. "Father said when you went that you would never make a success on a ranch."

"On the contrary, I have been remarkably successful," he said quietly. They passed under the street lamp, and she glanced at his well worn clothes.

"I am wearing an old suit for a reason," he said. "Don't judge by that. Shall I tell you why I wear it?"

"I suppose I cannot help myself," she mocked.

"Because I read the message of spring," he said. "Because the dust cactus spoke of the pink arbutus and made me think of you; because I hoped that the season might bring memories to you and make you more kind."

"I went out to the woods the day I arrived and to the place where we plighted our troth. I was hoping, perhaps, you might come. It was the anniversary. I was there again yesterday and today. I am wearing an old suit because it is the suit I wore then."

"I remember it," she cried penitently. "but I did not know that was the reason why."

"We are at your gate," he said, with a sudden change of tone. "Pardon my heroics." He lifted his hat and turned away, bleeding sweat and panting, then called softly to him. He turned back, looking into her face inquiringly.

"I'm glad the trolley house burned down," she said softly. "We could go out tomorrow in a hurry if you care to. Perhaps it might happen."

"Lightning never strikes twice in the same place," he announced promptly. "It has happened already."

"Find out what it was," he said meekly. "I shall always live arbutus."

"And me?" he demanded.

"And—you?" she said.

A Lincoln Reminiscence.

When in the summer of 1861 the Lincolns went to live in the cottage near the Soldiers' home outside Washington the president was daily accompanied on his drives to and from the White House by his special mounted escort of tall Olsons. There was serious need for such an escort, for Early was not far away from the city, but the daily journey sometimes had its playful side. "The Magazine of American History" quotes this reminiscence by Lieutenant Ashmun of the escort: "It was in the early autumn of the year when one morning on our ride in to the White House, Tad Lincoln, who alone was riding with his father, demanded that the carriage be stopped and that one of the boys should climb a wayside tree and get him some persimmons. Mr. Lincoln acquiesced, and while the boy's wish was being granted the president turned to those nearest him and said: 'I have always been plowing along near by and ended by saying: "I hope to see the day when our western prairies will be plowed by steam, and I believe it will be done. I have always had a great interest in that subject.'"

No Cause For Anxiety.

"I wish, Susan," said a fond mother to her new nursemaid, "that you would use a thermometer to ascertain if the water is the right temperature when you give the baby his bath."

"Oh," replied Susan cheerfully, "don't you worry about that. I don't need any thermometer. If the little 'un turns red the water is too hot. If he turns blue it's too cold, and there you are."

Philadelphia Ledger.

Our Soldiers' Regrets.

Ever since the Spanish war somebody has been pegging away at the uniforms of Uncle Sam's soldiers, and now an English tailor has been called in to establish a model uniform. General Chaffin, chief and ready campaigner, who has worn everything in the way of a uniform from the toga furnished by the quartermaster to the dress while he was in command in China. Our men did come out of the Spanish war apparently reveling in a go-as-you-please way of wearing their things. The fellows were always picturesque, though, when the beholder had in mind the transports, El Caney and San Juan hill, but to think of them as soldiers merely, to be associated with parades and reviews, put the matter in another light.

Somehow it is getting to be the fashion in certain quarters to think of the soldier as an ideal army man instead of the man with the musket and saber who does things when the question of soldierly appearance comes up. We rejoice in pictures of the old Continentals, who often hadn't a whole shirt to wear and seldom boasted of a jacket at all. Sherman's men, marching home from the sea, are often referred to as the ideal for soldiers who have been whacking at the enemy, and battle pieces showing the tough looking Confederates who never had two garments of the same color stir feelings akin to those of the good old "seceded" army.

It is the soldier stuff that men of war have in them and not what their shuck looks like which is the important thing. The American soldier's uniform has never been chosen for looks, but for service in actual campaigning.

The showy zone of dress, which captured the imagination early in the civil war, was soon discarded for the various reasons, chiefly because something simpler was better for campaigning. Khaki was an experiment until it came back from Cuba tattered and battered from collision with Spanish buckshot.

An army for show, for the amusement of the populace who go as wild over mock soldiers as over real ones, for furnishing beams for firing targets, is an institution foreign to America.

Since the nation's British redcoats got licked by American farmers and hunters in shirt sleeves and homespun the man we look to for execution must be above slavery to dress and really be an eyesore to headquarters tailors. Napoleon once declared that the kings of Europe knew more about the names of battles than did about fighting battles, and he made good the scathing indictment.

A little expert attention might well be given to making the soldier more comfortable in the clothes forced upon him for the sake of uniformity.

Recruits are picked up who are plump or thin, tall or short or medium, with varying lengths and dimensions of body and limbs. Uniforms should be made to fit the wearers individually. A good man will set off any clothes, but clumsy, awkward clothes disguise the man. A lot of regimental tailors could probably do all the making over needed for the army better than a high priced foreign expert.

Greater Canada.

Canada goes a long way from home in her effort to annex something when she picks out the island of Jamaica to enlarge her area. But the island is fruitful, and if the Dominion gets it it will be an acquisition worth while.

Jamaica joined to Canada would take on new political importance since she would have representation in parliament, like other Canadian provinces.

Canada's move for expansion in the direction of the Caribbean sea may end in failure, for the planters of the island have yet to declare their wish for a change of allegiance. Jamaica is a colony of planters, and a change of status might result in change of commercial duties that would hurt business. But the proposal to expand Canada is a hint to those who talk of our annexing the Dominion. She is just now annexing things herself.

Now that lumber forests are disappearing rapidly, with little prospect of replacing them in extent large enough to supply the ever increasing demand, a new wood preservative invented in Germany is important. The method is to treat wood to a sulphur bath, which kills the pores and covers the surface with a hard substance that gives an armor against wear and weather.

That tallest man in the world—nine feet two and a half inches—was recently came to these shores with swell up an inch or two from sheer pride in his long distance superiority until he meets our tallest woman on earth, the lady whose nine feet seven inches will enable her to just look down on him.

A state agricultural department recently had a merchant fined $50 for selling adulterated sirup, evidence that state authorities are able to do the pure food spotting if they have a pure food.

The Modern Woodmen of Chicago are planning to initiate a class of 2,500 this fall. Last year they planned to initiate 1,000 and instead had 2,000, and it is hoped that the 1906 class will number from 4,000 to 5,000.

Prof. Steckman made Barrington friends a short call here this week. The Professor is kept very busy, and while a number of Barringtonians tried to persuade him to organize another class here soon his engagements could not permit him to make a promise. His work here has resulted in good fruit, as is evidenced by the better singing in all our churches.

The lawn social given at the home of Mrs. Miller Monday evening under the auspices of the young people of the Baptist church was a decided success. The lawn was illuminated by a pretty display of Japanese lanterns, and the tables were elaborately decorated with sweet flowers. Handsome waitresses served ice cream and cake, and the Barrington Cornet Band furnished music. It was a financial as well as a social success, and the Baptist young people proved admirable hosts.

Fred Hoffman, one of the editors and proprietors of the Spring Valley Gazette, and formerly with the Review was in the city Monday to shake hands with old friends. Fred is making a big success of his enterprise, he having just purchased a linotype setting machine and apparatus at cost of $3,900, and intends to enlarge to 12 pages weekly. This improvement is necessitated by the liberality of the advertisers of his section. He is in a live town, and he is giving them a live paper, one which merits the patronage of the citizens of Spring Valley and vicinity.

To the Republicans of the Eighth Senatorial District.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the General Assembly, subject to the action of the Senatorial Convention of this District. Inasmuch as it was the intention of the Legislature that each voter should vote for one candidate for Representative, so that in Districts like the Eighth, each County should have a member in the General Assembly, Lake County at present having the Senator.

I therefore ask the votes of the Republicans of Lake and Boone Counties at the primaries to be held August 4, 1906, and request that those who wish to vote for me mark a cross in the square opposite my name on the official ballot. Respectfully, Frank R. Corey, Belvedere, Ill.

Notice to Tax Payers.

Public notice is hereby given that the Lake County Board of Review is now in session in the Supervisor's Room in the Court House at Waukegan, Illinois.

Complaints will be received for the year of assessment until August 10th, 1906.

All those having complaints to make will file same before above date, after which none will be considered.

How to Keep Cool During the Hot Weather

By G. ELLIOTT FLINT,
Physical Instructor and Author.

OW to keep cool is a vexed question these days. We have worried, hurried and excited ourselves vainly during the past few months; let us now take things easier. We shall then be cool, or, at least, much cooler.

But how shall we not worry? Simply, don't.

Don't hurry. Rise early, thus giving yourself ample time to dress, and, when you go out, walk leisurely. If you miss a car, wait coolly for the next one, which will carry you to your destination only a few minutes later. The hurrying habit is more heating than the alcohol habit.

Don't get excited. If you do you will feel literally "hot around the collar." If you are angry and wish to make the other fellow "hot," you will do this most effectually by keeping cool.

Don't study the thermometer, for your temperature is likely to rise with the mercury.

Wear loose-fitting clothes, easy around the neck, and a light-weight straw hat. Women, if they must wear corsets, should affect only the light, flexible kind. In view of the recent agitation against the so-called peek-a-boo waists, I dare not recommend them. The utmost I can advise is that they be neither wholly holey nor wholly holey-and-between.

Our diet in hot weather should be light and nutritious. No stimulating drinks should be taken in the hot season; lemonade may be, but the best drink is cool water, with meals, between meals, and before retiring at night. A large quantity of water and sufficient fruit will keep the bowels open, remove waste also through other channels, and cool the body through radiation. The deleterious effect on the system of alcohol, particularly in torrid times, is well known. Most cases of prostration and sunstroke can be attributed indirectly to this cause.

Effect of Acting Impassioned Love Scenes

By SARAH BERNHARDT.

women to analyze the various emotional expressions of their beings the same as they would study the technique of a painting or an architectural plan.

As for me, I have never endeavored to reduce to a scientific formula the emotions which move us.

I have been asked if I think the repeated interpretation of emotional and impassioned roles eventually has an effect upon the everyday life of an actress. We must remember that first of all an actress is a woman, and while she is portraying a certain sort of emotion, she is but picturing in dramatic art what might be possible in her own character if placed in the same situation of the stage.

It is true the great dramatic artist lives the part she is playing—she becomes the character so thoroughly that she forgets entirely that other self which carries on its life without the theater walls.

When I see Duse or Margaret Anglin or any great actress I do not ask: "Does she really feel those emotions in her private life?" It is carrying analysis too far. I do not think that people who are capable of analyzing their emotions feel them so intensely. There is a subtle difference between the portrayed emotion on the stage and what it will be in the actress' real life. While we weep real tears and feel sincere emotions it is through forgetfulness of our real selves, but not total elimination of our personality.

The ridiculousness of thinking that an actress is entirely swayed in her private life by the role she portrays is shown by the fact that the great artist is not limited to one line of acting. The strongest statement I could make on the effect of acting on the emotions is that no woman who interprets the roles that call forth the great play of emotions can remain a cold and impassive creature—that is, if she is an artist with a soul.

Vacation Privileges for All Classes

By THOMAS B. FITZPATRICK.

It has its foundation and being in the evolution of industrial conditions and in the relation which these bear to the human system. A hundred years ago the mode of traveling was by means of the old-fashioned stage coach; to-day it is replaced by the "lightning express," moving at the rate of 60 miles an hour. Contrast for a moment the mental and physical strain of the drivers of the two.

But the railroad engineer, the chauffeur on the automobile, the mechanic at the lathe, the spinner at the loom, and the operative at the sewing machine, are not the only ones subjected to this increased draft upon their nervous powers. Those engaged in professional, mercantile and banking pursuits feel the strain as well. Therefore, shorter hours of labor have gradually been introduced, and the vacation has become in principle a thoroughly recognized institution.

I, for one, would like to see it become universally so in practice. If we give the salesman, bookkeeper or packer in our employ a vacation, there is no reason why the same principle should not apply to the good people who cook our meals and work in our houses or stables. This latter class, constantly employed at our homes in occupations for our greater comfort, are the last who should be forgotten when arranging for vacations.

It may be said that this is reasoning from an ethical standpoint. Granted so. Surely humanitarian considerations are not to be ignored in the discussion of a subject of this kind. It has its practical side also. As a result of the improved devices in all classes of machinery and their capabilities for increased production, it is plain to see that the needs of the community do not require the long hours formerly followed.

WEIGHS ONLY FOUR GRAINS

Smallest Engine in the World Truly a Marvel of Mechanical Engineering—Its Dimensions.

"Tiny Tim," as I have named this smallest of all engines," writes T. H. Robinson in the Technical World Magazine, "is made of gold and steel, and is so small that a common house fly seems large in comparison. It fits easily into the smallest 22 short cartridge, balance wheel and all. It weighs just four grains complete. That is about the weight of a common match. It takes 120 such engines to weigh one ounce and 1,920 to weigh a pound. Three million eight hundred and forty thousand engines equal one ton.

"The engine bed and stand are of gold. The shaft runs in hardened and ground steel bearings inserted in the gold bed. These bearings are counter-bored from the inside to form a self-lubricating bearing. The flywheel has a steel center and arms, with a gold rim, and this part—the complete wheel—weighs one grain.

"The cylinder is of steel with octagonal base highly polished. The stroke is one-thirty-second of an inch, bore three-hundredths of an inch. Seventeen pieces are used in the construction of this engine.

"The feed is through the gold base, which is hollow. The speed of this engine is 6,000 revolutions per minute. When running 100 per second no motion is visible to the eye, but it makes a note like the noise of a mosquito, caused by the vibrating piston rod.

"The horse power is 1-439,000 of one-horse power. Compressed air is used to run these engines and it may be of interest to note that the amount required to make the large engine horse can easily be borne on the eyeball without winking."

ERROR IN BILL OF LADING

Young Railroad Man Found Burro Where He Naturally Looked for a Bureau.

There was a time when Senator Elkins of West Virginia was a bustling young freight agent in New Mexico. His office was a box car and his principal troubles were in making his receipts of freight tally with his bill of lading. One day he had a carload of household furniture switched to his siding. The seal of the car door was quickly broken, as young Elkins then, as now, always liked to keep up with his work. He was greeted with the cry of an ass as the door slipped back on its rollers. The bill of lading was at once scanned, but there was nothing to show that the animal should be a passenger on this particular car. The goods were all checked out and then Elkins wired the general office thus: "I'm a bureau short and a jackass long on this carload of furniture." After a little delay the answer came: "All O. K. The bureau is a burro."

New Danger Signal. Danger! An electrical system of signaling has been perfected in Nottingham, England, whereby a song sounds on the engine and an immense bell rings in the cab, with green or red light in the driver's face. Beyond the spot where at present the distant signal is located on the railway, the invention proposes that a central rail 100 yards long should be laid with a second and much larger central rail near the present house signal. Connected with the signal box, the pressure of a roller beneath the engine on these central rails would not only ring a bell and cause a lamp, corresponding with the track upon which the train has been running, to glow in the signal box, but it would ring a bell or green lamp glow on the engine itself, the color of the lamp depending upon which rail the signalman had connected with a negative.

Earnings of English Railways. While we are inclined to criticize English railways with much freedom, they have record in one respect which our own railroad managers must look upon with respect. The gross earnings of the English roads never showed an unfavorable fluctuation as compared with a previous year, of over 1 1/4 per cent. With all the talk of poor railway management, of decadent industries and of the economic evils of war, it is comforting to find that the commercial development of Great Britain, measured by her gross railroad traffic, presents an almost unbroken record of advance. Net earnings, however, have been badly hit by the rise in wages and by the higher cost of fuel—Scribner.

New Railroad for Mexico. Mexico has granted a concession for the construction of a railroad from San Gerónimo, in Michoacan, to Acapulco, state of Hidalgo, with the right to extend the line to Tuxtepec, Vera Cruz, on the Atlantic. If the project is carried out the road should prove an important factor in the development of this section, as it crosses the country from sea to sea, passing through rich mining camps and fertile agricultural lands, and tapping large territory at present undeveloped.

Heavier Locomotives. The steady tendency among railroads toward heavier locomotives is comprehensively shown in the statistics of the first 100 locomotives purchased by a western railroad 24 years ago and the 300 most recently added to the equipment. The smallest of the latter is over 35 per cent heavier than the largest of the earlier period, and taken as a whole, the weight has been multiplied three times and the tractive force by two and a half.

THERE IS MORE THAN ONE WAY TO BREAK IN.

NO NEED OF HASTE

WHAT SECRETARY SHAW SAID OF TARIFF REVISION.

Matter Will Be Until the Comfort and Happiness of the People Require a Change.

The La Crosse Leader says: "The Republicans in the west agree with Senator Shaw that the tariff should be revised by its friends. They are also in favor of getting busy."

With the report from the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor showing the commerce of the United States, both as to exports and imports, exceeding that of any previous year in the history of the country, with prosperity at flood tide; with every industry working full time or overtime and two jobs or more for every man wanting a job, the argument that any industry in this country is suffering at the hands of the Dingley tariff is pure rot. Under the protective tariff the country has enjoyed a greater measure of prosperity than at any previous period in its history. In a word, it owes all the prosperity it ever derived from the Republican policies. If on the day of the enactment of the Dingley tariff some enthusiastic friend of protection proposed that the floor of congress or elsewhere that in less than a decade under the operation of that law the United States would become the greatest export nation in the world, and that the total volume of our imports and exports would exceed $2,500,000,000 annually he would have been regarded as a dreamer or lunatic, and yet for the year ending the present month the total foreign commerce of this country will approximate three billions of dollars in value, beating all records. The Dingley tariff isn't anything to injure the country in the light of things visible. The country has never been so rich and prosperous as it is to-day.

We have had one experience with tariff revision. Grover Cleveland was elected on a free trade or tariff revision platform. The tariff was revised, and it brought on the most disastrous financial and industrial depression the world has ever witnessed, costing the people of the United States more than twelve billions of dollars, filling the country with want and woe, with millions idle and begging for work or bread. Has any one ever witnessed an army of industrial honest and hungry men marching to Washington to demand work under a Republican administration? There are some people in this country who know when they have enough, and a whole lot of them don't want any more experience with Democratic tariff panics.

There is no occasion, with the business and industries of the United States at the high tide of activity and prosperity, for tariff tinkering. It would disturb existing conditions inevitably. The millions of people who are now contented and happy because they are receiving liberal wages and steady employment would not relish a return to idleness and poverty. The American people are better clothed, better housed, have more of the comforts and luxuries of life now than they ever before enjoyed. They believe in letting well enough alone.

It will be time to revise the tariff when conditions demand it and when the comfort and happiness of the people are dependent upon it. And Secretary Shaw, for his part, says the time will not come until after the next presidential election. That is all. He does not declare that it will be necessary to revise the tariff then, for he is not a prophet, and cannot know what conditions will be at that time. What Secretary Shaw does say is that when the time comes to revise the tariff all good Republicans will be found in favor of revision, and that work will be done just as faithfully and as promptly as the party discharged its obligation to the country in framing the Dingley law.—Bay City Tribune.

NOT A UNIVERSAL DEMAND

Statement That Western Republicans Are Claiming for Tariff Reform Is Inaccurate.

A few Republican and many Democratic correspondents at Washington are telling their papers that the Republican party will suffer in the west in the congressional election of 1906 on account of its attitude on the tariff and on meat inspection. They say there is a powerful sentiment in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and other western states in favor of a revision of the tariff and as the Republican party of the nation is opposed to tariff changes of any sort at this time, they reason that the party will lose votes throughout all the region. Meat inspection, they declare, is dealing a heavy blow to the cattle and hog raisers, and as the Republican congress and the Republican administration pushed a measure for meat inspection, the Republicans are sure to be hit hard in all the western states in the contest of 1906.

These prophets are astray. The tariff revision sentiment which they imagine they see in the west is confined to a very few spots, and is not very pronounced even in those spots. Gov. Cummins, of Iowa, is a reviser, but it is not altogether certain that the Republicans of his state back him in his demand. Secretary Shaw, who probably represents the large element of the Iowa Republicans, is against revision at this time. So is Senator Allison, who also stands for a good many Republicans in that state. Gov. Cummins is making a canvass on the revision issue now, and although he claims to be far ahead of Perkins, his rival, for the governorship candidacy, it is not entirely certain that he is correct. Perkins' friends are also making claims, and these do not agree with those of the governor. But even if Cummins should carry the state on that issue, it would not necessarily indicate that the west was on his side. There are a good many states in the west, and there has not been very much demonstration in favor of tariff revision among the Republicans in any of them except in Iowa and Wisconsin. Those are important states, but they do not dictate the policy of the nation. The Republican party. Moreover, the Republicans will carry both of them on the congressional vote this year.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Prediction.

The views of a practical business man and large industrial producer, of Providence, as expressed in a letter to the American Economist, are worthy of attention: "It is essential to leave the tariff absolutely alone. "It can do no harm, and it is doing good every day."

"I stated before the ways and means committee in 1897 that 'we were then the largest agricultural nation. That if the Dingley tariff would remain in force for 25 years the policy of the nation would be manufacturing and money nation in the world, and some other items we are to-day."

"If the present tariff is left absolutely alone for 25 years we will be the largest in all these departments, as I predicted."

Nine of the 25 years have passed, and the prediction has been practically verified. Under the operation of a protective tariff the United States leads the world:

In manufactures.
In agriculture.
In gross wealth and per capita wealth.
In internal and external trade.
In the production of coal, iron ore, and pig iron.

With 16 years more of uninterrupted protection, who can doubt that the United States would become the financial center, as it is now the industrial center of the world?

The idea which has taken possession of Mr. Bryan lately is one that he had not expected to pick up when he went abroad this time.

CUMMINS IS NAMED

IOWA REPUBLICANS PICK PRESIDENT EXECUTIVE TO LEAD.

TAKE BUT ONE BALLOT

Resolutions Indorse President Roosevelt's Administration and Pledge Primary Law to Embrace Choice for Federal Senators.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Iowa Republican convention renominated Albert B. Cummins for governor. Only one ballot was taken, the result being, Cummins, 923; Perkins, 693; Rathbun, 104. The ticket was completed as follows:

Lieutenant Governor—Warren Garst.
Secretary of State—W. C. Hayward.
Auditor of State—H. F. Carroll.
Treasurer of State—W. Morrow.
Attorney General—H. Byers.
Supreme Judges—E. McLean, John C. Sherrin.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—John F. Riege.
Clerk of Superior Court—John C. Crockett.
Reports of Court—W. W. Cornwall.
Railroad Commissioners—W. L. Eaton, David J. Palmer.

The committee on resolutions submitted the platform which, it was stated, had been unanimously agreed to.

After stating that the Republicans of Iowa find ample cause for rejoicing in present conditions and lauding the history of the party, President Roosevelt's administration is heartily indorsed. The work of Iowa's representatives in the cabinet and congress is approved.

Gov. Cummins and the state officials come in for their share of felicitations. A judicious primary law is pledged, which is to provide for expression of party preference in selection of United States senators. Domination of corporate influence is opposed. The abolishment of free passes on railways is commended. The American system of protection is held to be beneficial to all classes. Reciprocity is favored.

PROTECTS MEMBERS OF UNIONS

Train Dispatcher Held for Violation of Law in Discharging Men.

Louisville, Ky.—United States Commissioner Cassin held J. M. Scott, chief train dispatcher of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, in $300 bond for alleged violation of the Erdman arbitration law.

The Erdman act, which applies to employers and employees, the moving of interstate commerce, provides that no employer or his agent shall require any agreement from an employee to abstain from joining a labor union; that no employer shall be threatened with loss of employment for joining or remaining a member of a union and that no employer or applicant for employment shall be blacklisted or discriminated against for affiliating with a union.

WILL INVESTIGATE DIETZ CASE

Gen. Davidson Will Act with Caution Regarding Sending of Troops.

Madison, Wis.—Gov. Davidson will appoint a commission to investigate the Dietz situation at Cameron dam. For the present, at least, there is no intention on the part of the executive to send troops to capture Dietz. Whether troops will be sent later will depend on the report of the investigating commission.

Several passes have attempted to serve Dietz, who is a fugitive in a civil process within the past two years, but each time failed.

ILLINOIS DEFEAT TREASURERS

Judgment is Rendered in Favor of the Commonwealth in Fee Cases.

Springfield, Ill.—The state of Illinois Wednesday secured judgment against former State Treasurer Henry Wolf and Floyd K. Whittemore, his bondsmen, for $4,522.40 before Judge Creighton in the Sangamon circuit court. The suit was filed by the state of Illinois to recover fees held by former State Treasurer Wolf, before prohibited by a special act of the legislature. The fees were collected for the registration of county, township and municipal bonds.

Miner Killed in Riot. Calumet, Mich.—Rockland, a little mining town in Ontonagon county, was the scene of wild disorder Tuesday night, when the striking miners at the Michigan copper mine attacked the miners who were going to work under the protection of Sheriff McFarland and a heavy guard of deputies. A mad riot ensued, which lasted some time. As a result one man was killed and another mortally wounded. Several more were shot and 40 of the strikers are now under arrest in the town hall at Rockland.

Cuban Post for Missourian. Oyster Bay, L. I.—President Roosevelt Wednesday appointed Fred Roosevelt, Cuban of Missouri as second secretary of the American legation at Havana, Cuba. Mr. Roosevelt is now private secretary to Senator Quay.

Coinage During July. Washington.—The monthly statement of the director of the mint shows that during July the coinage executed at the mints of the United States amounted to $4,648,164, as follows: Gold, $4,171,000; silver, $123,164.

THE CAMERA FIEND.

Man Was Not Satisfied With Ordinary Amusement Like Taking Pictures.

A well-known criminal lawyer one day sauntered into a police court just as a case was called. It appeared that the defendant had no attorney, and the judge asked about the room to see whom he might assign to the case.

"I'll take it, judge," the late comer said, wishing to pass away the time. "By the way, what is the man charged with?" the attorney presently asked.

"He's a camera fiend of the worst sort, Mr. Brown," the judge said with a slight smile. "I expect to send him to the workhouse for about three months."

"What!" the lawyer shouted, indignantly. "Your honor must be joking. Send a man to the rock pile for three months for a little harmless amusement like taking pictures?"

"Well," the judge said, mildly, "he doesn't take pictures much—it's the camera he takes."

HIS ONE WEAK SPOT.

Prominent Minnesota Merchant Cured to Stay Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

O. C. Hayden, of O. C. Hayden & Co., dry goods merchants, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "I was so lame that I could hardly walk. There was a terrible, uncountable weakness of the back, and constant pain and aching. I could find no rest, and was very uncomfortable at night. As my health was good in every other way, I could not understand this trouble. It was just as if all the strength had gone from my back. After suffering for some time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy acted at once, and when normal action was restored, the trouble with my back disappeared. I have not had any return of it."

Aged English Clergyman. Rev. John Aldis, once the most prominent minister of the Baptist denomination in England, has reached the age of 98. He began life in a shoemaker's shop. Afterward he was sent to Horton college, near Bradford, now known as Haworth college. Later he became pastor of St. Mary's church, London, and in 1866 he was elected chairman of the Baptist Union.

DO YOU REMEMBER—

An anticipated calamity that actually came? A synchroton that turned out to be a real friend?

A bad man who was really as bad as he was reputed? An actor that wasn't thoroughly delighted with himself?

An abominable dealer who wasn't a "trusted employee"? A man who went wrong who wasn't a "highly respected citizen"? A woman criminal who was not beautiful and appealing and refined?

A horse that could trot as fast as the man who sold him to you said he could? Anybody who achieved stoniness before starting a fustilage of stones at others?

A successful man who used up nine-tenths of his time telling what was going to do next?

A prize fighter that went through the throes of the championship without becoming demoralized?

DIDN'T BELIEVE

That Coffee Was the Real Trouble.

Some people flounder around and take everything that's recommended but finally find the real cause of their troubles. An Oregon man says:

"For 25 years I was troubled with my stomach. I was a steady coffee drinker, but didn't suspect that as the cause. I took almost anything which someone else had been cured with but to no good. I was very bad last summer and could not work at times."

On Dec. 2, 1902, I was taken so bad the doctor said I could not live over 24 hours at the most, and I made all preparations to die. I could hardly eat anything, everything distressed me, and I was weak and sick all over. When in that condition coffee was abandoned and I was put on Postum, the change in my feelings came quickly after the drink that was poisoning me was removed.

"The pain and sickness fell away from me and I began to get well by day, so I stuck to it until now I am well and strong again, can eat anything, have no headache, heart trouble or the awful sickness of the old coffee days. I drink all I wish of Postum without any harm and enjoy it immensely."

"This seems like a strong story, but I would refer you to the First Nat'l Bank, the Trust Banking Company, or any merchant of Grant's Pass, Ore., in regard to my standing. As I will send a signed statement of this if you wish. You can also use my name." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Still there are many who persistently fool themselves by saying "Coffee doesn't hurt me." A ten days' trial of Postum in its place will tell the truth and many times save like "There's a reason."

Look for the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in packs.

RECEIVER FOR ZION

BIG ESTATE PLACED IN HANDS OF JOHN C. HATELY.

VOLIVA TRANSFER VOID

Court Holds Dowie Was Without Power To Turn Over City to Leader of Revolt—To Elect New Overseer.

Chicago—John Alexander Dowie, months ago repudiated by his followers as their spiritual leader, Friday declared legally to have no personal or private claim to the vast Zion estate. Wilbur Glenn Voliva, great overseer and leader of the revolt against Dowie, was held also to have no claim to the property.

K. M. Landis of the United States district court, in deciding the famous controversy, placed the whole property in the hands of John C. Hately as receiver pending entry of a final decree and designation of a permanent trustee. He ordered also an election by the people of Zion the third Tuesday of September as to who shall rule them spiritually.

Long before the hour set for the announcement of the court's ruling Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva and all the leaders who assisted in the overthrow of Dowie and many of his followers were in court, as were also the loyal supporters of Dowie. Broken in health and spirit, the hoary-headed founder of Zion was too weak to leave his home at Zion, and he was carried the first news of his defeat by telephone.

The Ruling in Brief. Following are the important points in Judge Landis' decision.

Lands, industries and all property in Zion held to constitute a trust estate in which John Alexander Dowie is the only individual proprietorship.

The conveyance by Voliva to Grand power of attorney from Dowie of the Zion property to Grand declared to be "mere waste paper."

An election ordered for the third Tuesday in September, at which all members of the church living in Zion City since January, 1905, may vote for ecclesiastical leader of the church. If there be no election, Voliva is to be used alternately for campaign purposes.

Publication of Leaves of Healing to be suspended until after the election of a new spiritual leader, which will contain the full decision of Judge Landis.

In due course the court is to make provision for Dowie because of his services in organizing and developing the estate.

Judge Landis' sweeping decision sets at rest the controversy growing out of the action of Overseer Voliva in transferring the properties of Zion from John Alexander Dowie to Grand. Millions are involved, and all Zion, throughout the world, has anxiously awaited the decision.

Dowie Will Appeal. Chicago—Alexander Dowie will appeal from the decision of Judge Landis of the federal court declaring Zion City a trust estate and holding the late Dowie's first apostle has no individual proprietorship in the estate.

ROOSEVELT IS OUT OF THE RACE

President Will Not Accept Republican Nomination for Third Term.

Peoria, Ill.—A positive announcement from President Roosevelt that he will not be a candidate for the third term was made Monday in a letter addressed to Mrs. L. A. Kinney, of Peoria, by Secretary William Loeb for President Roosevelt. The text of the letter follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 26.—Dear Madam: Your letter of recent date has been received and I thank you in the president's behalf for calling attention to the enclosed clipping. I would like, however, that the president has nothing to add to the statement issued on the night of the election in 1904. His decision as announced at that time is irrevocable."

This expression from President Roosevelt was called forth by an editorial in the Peoria Herald-Transcript which was called to the attention of the president through Mrs. Kinney, wife of a prominent Peoria politician. The editorial was in the form of an appeal to the president to accept the third term.

FORCED TO GIVE UP BY POVERTY

Former Mayor of Paterson, N. J., Surrenders to Jail Warden.

Paterson, N. J.—William H. Belcher, former mayor of this city, returned to David Morris, night warden of county jail. Belcher was forced by poverty to give himself up. He had been in New York for several days. He said he had no money with which to make restitution of the funds he is alleged to have obtained before he fled from the city, and would answer the charges against him.

Death of Old Soldier.

Niles, Mich.—Harry Mitchell, aged 70, an old soldier and one of "Buffalo Bill's" scouts when fighting for the Union in the Civil War, died in bed Monday morning at his home near Berrien Center.

Federal Attorney Resigns.

Washington, Assistant United States District Attorney S. B. Smith has tendered his resignation of the office. He has been succeeded by James M. Proctor of the district attorney's office.

Washington.—The state department Sunday received word from the Argentine government that the arrival of Secretary Root at the Brazilian capital, and of the cordial reception accorded him.

FATAL MISHAPS TO YACHTS

TWO CAPSIZE AND EIGHT PERSONS ARE DROWNED.

Disaster Occurs Off Jersey Coast—Waves Hit Crafts, Throw Occupants Into Water.

Angelica, N. J.—Two yachts coming in from the Atlantic banks capsized off Herford Inlet bar here Sunday, and so far as can be ascertained eight persons lost their lives. There were 32 persons on one yacht, of whom seven were drowned and 25 on the other, all of whom but one were saved. That not more fell victims to the rough sea was due to the heroism of Capt. Henry S. Ludlow, of the Herford Inlet life saving station, and a crew of five men.

Angelica is one of the favorite fishing places along the southern New Jersey coast and has seldom had a boisterous Sunday. Every excursion train from Philadelphia and other nearby points came down crowded with visitors most of whom intended spending the day in fishing.

The weather in the morning was ideal and all the fishing boats took out large crowds to the fishing banks. After noon, however, a brisk breeze sprang up and the captains of the small craft and many of their followers for home. Most of the fleet got in without mishap, although some of them had considerable difficulty in clearing the Herford bar.

The two that got into trouble were the sloop yacht Nora, which had on board Capt. Herbert Shivers, his mate and 32 passengers, and the sloop Alvin H. with party of 12.

The Nora had gone to the fishing banks at Five Fathom bank about two miles out to sea early in the day. When the wind began to freshen Capt. Shivers decided it was time to make port and with the assistance of a small gasoline engine and a good spread of canvas he made good time toward Angelica. As the sloop bowed along the wind was getting stiffer and stiffer and the boat was tossed about.

Capt. Shivers, from long experience, knew how treacherous is the Herford bar and approached it with his utmost caution. He saw that the bar was about a mile from shore just as he was about to go over it a heavy squall struck the Nora.

Despite the efforts of the captain the craft was holed and was hit by a huge wave. The wind and the wave coming together was more than the yacht could stand and it turned completely over, throwing the 32 occupants into the sea.

MEAT INSPECTION IN GERMANY

Strict Regulations Regarding Examination Are Put Into Effect.

Berlin.—The revised regulations for the application of the meat inspection law, recently adopted by the Bundesrat, were published Monday and show a considerable increase of severity in the provisions of the law.

The regulations provide that when the imported organs have been removed from a carcass inspection can be made only by a veterinary expert, instead of the ordinary examiners, and that the meat of such carcasses can only be pronounced fit for food under certain specific conditions.

A much more thorough examination of the lymphatic glands of an animal also is required. These glands from all of the carcasses must be subjected to inspection by microscope. The glands as well as other organs must remain attached to fresh and prepared meats, so far as is necessary for trustworthy inspection.

TRUE COURAGE.

"Towards have no luck!" These are Elizabeth Kilmann's brave words.

J. Briken Walker believes that "No man can be truly a gentleman if a coward."

"Fortune never helps the man whose courage fails." This is a bit of the wisdom of Sophocles.

Says George Horace Lorimer: "No man is a failure until he's dead or loses courage—and that's the same thing."

Ernest Smith long ago remarked that "A great deal of talent is lost to the world for the want of a little courage."

"When moral courage feels that it is in the right, it is no personal daring of which it is incapable," says Leigh Hunt's conviction.

Said Rochefoucauld: "True bravery is shown by performing without witness what one might be capable of doing before all the world."

"Fear, which only is another name for ignorance, is all that ails us. Unflinching alone conquers fear." This is the successful creed of Helen Williams Post.

Nothing Succeeds Like "EGG-O-SEE."

The man who preaches the best sermon; the man who tells the funniest stories; the man who keeps the best store; or the man who makes the best good soon finds that people come to him. Merit is the best advertisement in the world. People speak well of things they know are good. They pass the word along.

The best breakfast food is EGG-O-SEE. It contains all the life-giving properties of nature's best food, which is wheat.

EGG-O-SEE is deeply in debt to the thousands of wives and mothers who use it in their homes. For these good women tell their neighbors about this great food.

Children and aged persons alike are friends of EGG-O-SEE.

Merit and common sense are the things that advertise EGG-O-SEE most. EGG-O-SEE is cheap. A 10-cent package contains ten liberal breakfasts. EGG-O-SEE is so everywhere. Grocers must keep it if they want to keep their good customers, for good customers insist on buying EGG-O-SEE.

The fact that no preparation, no cooking required, makes EGG-O-SEE very popular. Open the package; put as much as you like in a dish; pour on milk or cream and eat. It is delicious and is wholesome. It makes you strong.

A lot of interesting facts about EGG-O-SEE have been published in book form entitled, "Back to Nature." This book also is a course of physical culture—fully illustrated. Any one wishing this book will receive it free by addressing EGG-O-SEE Company, 10 First St., Quincy, Ill.

The man who does all he can generally finds that some one else will do the rest.

English Language in Antwerp.

Nearly one-half of the shipping trade to and from the British Islands is under the British and American flags, and this has made Antwerp almost an English-speaking port. Free night schools for exclusive classes in English, organized by the city authorities, are attended by thousands of pupils, while special attention is paid to the study of English in all the grades of the day schools, public as well as private. This desire to popularize the English language is not confined to Belgium, but has extended to Germany as well, where schools of instruction have already been established at Munich and Nuremberg by the German government.

An Engine Without An Engineer.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine
does not require an engineer to run it. It is so simple and practical in construction that it requires very little attention and is easily operated by anyone.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine
runs smoothly and produces more power than rated. It is very economical in the use of fuel, consuming less per horse power than any other engine of the same rated capacity.

An I. H. C. Gasoline Engine
is a wise investment. It saves time and money, and increases your profit as a result of the increased production. No progressive farmer can afford to be without an I. H. C. engine. There is one to fit your special need.

Made in the following styles and sizes:
Vertical—2, 3 and 5 horse power.
Horizontal—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 horse power.

Portable—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 horse power.
Call and examine an I. H. C. gasoline engine and see for yourself the merits of this engine.

We also handle a full line of Deering Mowers and Binders and Weber Wagons, in fact everything the farmer wants on the farm. Call and examine our stock and be convinced that we are up-to-date implement dealers.

RUNNING FOR JUDGE

Something About E. J. Heydecker.
Candidate for County Judge.

Edward J. Heydecker, republican candidate for County Judge, was born on a farm in the Town of Newport, on the 2nd day of August, 1855, where he grew to manhood and resided until the autumn of 1888. He attended the rural district school of that town and afterwards the Waukegan High School. After leaving the farm he pursued the study of law, and was admitted to practice by the Supreme Court of this State about fifteen years ago, and is now one of the leading attorneys at the Lake County bar.

Mr. Heydecker has always been an ardent supporter of the republican party, having cast his first vote for Rutherford B. Hayes, as president in 1876, and has ever since affiliated himself with and supported the regular republican nominees, both by his labor and influence.

Mr. Heydecker, was the first to announce himself as a candidate for the office of County Judge in this campaign and has been making a very clean and aggressive fight for the nomination.

His friends feel that they have in him an able, efficient and honest candidate, who deserves the warm support of every loyal citizen of Lake County.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington, having ordered that a cement sidewalk five feet in width be constructed on the east side of Grove Avenue in front of Lot two (2) and the North eighteen (18) feet of Lot One (1), in Block Thirteen (13), in said Village of Barrington, County of Cook and State of Illinois, the ordinance for the same being on file in the office of the Village Clerk, having applied to the County Court of Cook County for an assessment of the costs of said improvement according to benefits, and an assessment thereof having been made and returned to said court (Docket Number 23) the final hearing thereon will be held on the thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1906, at ten o'clock a. m., or as soon thereafter as the business of the court will permit. All persons desiring, may file objections in said court before said day, and may appear on the hearing and make their defense.

The said assessment is payable in one installment, which will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

Dated, Barrington, July 9th., A. D. 1906. JOHN H. MACKAY, Commissioner.

M. C. MCINTOSH,
VILLAGE ATTORNEY.
