RIPPED THEM UP THE BACK

Democrats and Republicans Alike
Are Roasted to a Crisp at the Prohibition Rally in Barrington Tuesday.

The Prohibition party appear to see a necessity for informing the voters of this vicinity that there is to be an election next Tuesday. On Tuesday evening at the Village hall a mass meeting was held, Dr. Richardson acting as chairman. The hall was well filled, the ladies predominating. The Barrington band furnished excellent music, and were highly praised by the speakers of the evening.

J. W. Troeger, Prohibition candidate for superintendent of schools of Cook county, and John W. Dunn, Prohibition candidate for state Senator of the Seventh Senatorial district, were the speakers.

Mr. Troeger explained what the Prohibition party stood for. He said that license of any kind was wrong and that it only legalized an evil. In Chicago he claimed the high license only reduced the number of saloons 16 per cent and as a result had accomplished no good. The low dives were reduced even in a less per cent in comparison with the so called respectable ones.

John W. Dunn told the audience what he would do if elected Senator, and advised the necessity of electing honest men to the legislature, claiming a large percentage of the present ones were thieves. The following is taken from one of Mr. Dunn's circulars distributed after the meeting:

"The guarantee of my unequivocal hostility to the saloon and the liquor interests, shown in my selection by the Prohibition party of the Seventh District as their candidate for senatorial honors, will no doubt be sufficient evidence of my position on that question, and I feel that no further appeal on this ground is necessary, especially to those enjoying immunity from the evil influences of this primal agency of hell in our time and generation."

"Mr. John Humphrey has successfully held office in the state senate against all comers since 1898. Personally I am not acquainted with Mr. Humphrey and I doubt if many of the district are, and my information about him comes through the channels of the public papers. His name, no doubt is familiar to those who keep track of events, in connection with the notorious bill that he endeavored to have passed but which went down to ignominious defeat under the scathing denunciation of the press and public."

Congressman Lorimer, state Senator Humphrey, John W. Farley, Democratic candidate for probate clerk of Cook county, and Walter A. Lantz of La-Grange, the Democratic candidate for the legislature from the seventh senatorial district, were unmercifully denounced and held as unfit to represent the people in any office.

MRS. JOHN WOLF IS DEAD

Succumbs to Injuries Received From Automobile Last June in Chicago.

Mrs. John Wolf, well known in this vicinity, where she made her home for years, died Wednesday evening at 11:45 o'clock. The funeral will take place from the residence, 75 East 29th street, Chicago, Sunday noon.

The Chicago papers of Thursday contained the following account:
"Mrs. Minnie Wolf, 64 years 1 month and 10 days old, 35 Twenty-ninth street, died at her home from injuries received June 27, when she was knocked down by an automobile alleged to have been operated by J. A. Chapman and owned by C. C. Robinson, 4406 Oakwald avenue."

"Mrs. Wolf was crossing Cottage Grove avenue at Thirty-ninth street when she stepped in front of the automobile. The chauffeur could not stop the automobile in time and it struck her."

An autopsy was held over the remains Thursday and it is stated, the result sustained the assertion that the lady's death was directly attributable to the accident. It is further stated that the owner of the machine desired and was prepared to make a financial settlement.

The deceased leaves a husband and eleven living children to mourn her loss. Among them, John and Charles Wolf reside at Lake Zurich, and Mrs. John Brinker, a daughter, near Barrington.

Mrs. Wolf was a lady highly esteemed by all who knew her, and was a model and dutiful wife and a kind and indulgent mother.

ARE PROMPT AND POLITE.

Barrington Telephone Force Is One of the Most Satisfactory to be found.

Within the past few weeks three inspectors of the Chicago Telephone Co. were in Barrington to ascertain the average speed in which the "hello" girls answer calls. THE REVIEW was informed by the last gentleman testing that the average of the time in Barrington was about 2 seconds, a record far ahead of the average cities and villages and second to none. Barrington certainly has a most efficient telephone force, and what is more they are polite to all patrons, from the local manager down to the line-men.

WHERE IS MAYOR'S WAGON?

Hallowe'en Jokers Are Out in Force Wednesday Night and Create Havoc With Property.

Hallowe'en has come and gone, but many people are still awaiting the return of their purloined property. Among the heaviest sufferers from the pranks of mischievous boys (both small and large) the city officials have the most to complain of. The mayor awoke in the morning to find his delivery wagon missing, and after a survey of the city he managed by Thursday night to find about fourteen parts of it, but front truck and wheels are still to be found up to going to press (Friday morning).

Alderman Henry Donlea fared better, his buggy being found about 15 feet high up in the air at the corner of Lake and Hough streets.

Boxes, board sidewalks, wagons, etc., were bestowed on some in profusion, while some were lucky to save the foundation of their homes.

Fun is all right in some respects, and the boys and girls certainly thought Wednesday night the proper time to have it; but we are of the opinion that some are truly penitent by this time of the vicious character of their "fun".

ATTENTION!

Money and Educational Test for Immigrants

By JOHN MITCHELL,
President of United Mine Workers of America.

Immigration should be restricted for the protection of American labor as it is today. The men who are now employed in our mines and factories should be safeguarded against new arrivals who are willing to step into their places for lower wages. This seems to be one of the important reasons for a reform in this branch of our national policy.

I believe that the educational qualifications for the admission of the immigrant should be raised. He should be able to read and write his native language reasonably well. Such a restriction would give us a better class of immigrants than we get now, and a class less likely to swell the ranks of too-cheap labor.

Besides demanding this educational qualification we ought to require of these immigrants that they bring money enough to transport them to whatever section of the country offers the greatest advantages to them. I believe that a man landing on our shores should be able to follow the trade that he was engaged in at home, or turn his energies in any other direction that he may naturally desire. Many immigrants would adopt this course if they had enough money to wait for an opening or to pay their way to a point where they might find employment in their particular line. But so many land with just enough in their pockets to get them through the large office, that they are forced to take the first job which they can find. This is often some other man's job, and the immigrant gets it because he is willing to do the same work for lower wages.

The requirement that the immigrant bring more money with him will aid, too, in the distribution of immigrants throughout the country and prevent centralization in the vicinity of the landing points.

Don't Be a Food Faddist

By G. ELLIOT FLINT,
Author of "Power and Health Through Progressive Exercise."

Dietetic experts, who call themselves scientists, eat and drink scientifically; that is to say, having discovered the exact proportions of water and of the various food elements they require, they consume neither more nor less than these proportions. Thus they put science before nature. When they rise from the table hungry they boast of having suppressed their animal instincts. Though their diet regime, by creating an unnaturally small appetite, causes them to lose flesh, impoverishes their blood and gives them an unhealthy appearance, yet do they think it has discovered to them the secret of perfect health and longevity. Instead of drinking when they are thirsty, and eating as much variety of plain food as they want, which would be natural, they must needs drink so much water so many minutes before and after eating, whether they are thirsty or not, and consume so many grains of proteins, carbohydrates and fat at certain intervals, irrespective of their degree of hunger.

It is wonderful, therefore, that dietists eke out a miserable physical existence before they die prematurely, victims of their science?

The fact is that the more natural and the less scientific we are in our personal habits the healthier we are likely to be. Animals, with only nature to guide them, suffer from their stomachs far less than we do. They eat and drink what they like until they are satisfied.

Science is not seldom inimical to health. Artificially heated houses have made us peculiarly susceptible to "colds." Mechanical inventions and improved facilities of transportation have, by reducing too much our physical labor, diminished our powers of resistance. And now science, to supply further the safe guidance of nature, would prescribe the kind and amount of our food. The handmaiden would be mistress. Yet nature holds her own, for her votaries are still physically superior to those of science.

The dietetic faddists so greatly weaken their stomachs that soon they cannot digest a natural amount and variety of their proper food. Russell H. Chittenden, who experimented extensively on himself and on others to discover the minimum quantity of nourishment one could live on, discovered also that neither he nor his subjects could return, without great difficulty, to their former diet, which was the natural one. And to-day Chittenden lives on an unnatural diet which he has scientifically acquired; and he confidently believes that he has thus added years to his life. He assumes that science is superior to nature, which it is not.

Common sense, and not science, in our eating and drinking is all that is required. And it is certainly not common sense to suppress natural appetite and to ignore natural desires by eating deficient quantities of unnatural foods which we naturally abhor, and by drinking between meals when we are not thirsty; and not drinking at meals when we are thirsty; and all which science would teach us. Science has an important place, but it is not the place of nature.

How New York is Different

By T. C. McGILL.

In the expenditure of money New York is as different from any other city on the continent as a gold piece is different from Chinese money in a Fifth Avenue hotel.

A man of the name of C. M. Pike has made a dream come true by making it possible for any New Yorker who can afford the price to have a telephone in his house that will furnish music to him at all hours. In order to demonstrate the feasibility of the scheme he has spent $60,000 for an exhibition of his music machine on Broadway.

In any other town, if you want a man to come around and whitewash the fence, he will charge you not more than a dollar, and if you send to your hardware dealer for some one to fix up the stove, the dealer will have the work done for you without charge. In New York if you want anything of this kind done, you can't get a workman into your house without paying two or three dollars.

Rooses are bringing eight dollars a dozen, and are selling rapidly. One hat store sold $3,500 worth of derby hats one recent Saturday, and it is a common sight in the cafes uptown to see men drinking 60-cent brandy and smoking 40-cent cigars.

Another Candidate for Disarmament.

OIL COMPANY FINED $5,000

JUDGE BANKER FIXES PENALTY FOR STANDARD CONCERN.

Given Limit for Single Violation of Valentine Antitrust Law, and Allowed Usual Time for Appeal.

Findlay, O.—In the probate court here Monday, Judge Banker overruled the motion filed by the attorneys of the Standard Oil company for a new trial and imposed a fine of $5,000 and costs of the prosecution in the recent suit against the Standard held here.

On motion of the defense the court ordered that the defendant company be allowed 40 days in which to prepare and file its bill of exceptions in the case. On motion by the Standard attorneys, Joseph O. Troup, of Bowling Green, O., and H. Tolles, of Cleveland, the sentence imposed was ordered suspended for a period of 60 days for the purpose of filing a petition on error in this case. It was also ordered that the criminal information pending against John D. Rockefeller, the Buckeye Pipe Line company and the Manhattan Oil company be continued until the next term of court.

The fine imposed by Judge Banker was the limit for one offense, though the law stipulates that each day that the illegal combination business is carried on constitutes a separate offense. Taking this view of the statutes, it was possible for the court to impose an aggregate of fines amounting to over $6,000,000.

CARNEGIE RETURNS TO AMERICA

Says Spelling Reform is Bound to Come and Praises President.

New York.—Andrew Carnegie, accompanied by his wife and daughter, returned from Europe Sunday on the steamer Celtic and had something to say regarding reformed spelling.

Efforts were being put forth, he said, to have the English and the American branches of the Reform Spelling association meet in conference. It was expected that Canada and Australia also would send delegates to such a conference. In his opinion spelling reform was bound to come. He declared that President Roosevelt had done more to accomplish the reform than all the philologists together had done in 20 years.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY IS UPHELD

Government Wins First Case Against Contractors on Federal Work.

Cincinnati.—The first test of the federal eight-hour day law ended in a victory for the government here Friday. After being out only 15 minutes the jury in the United States court found the Sherridan-Kirk Contracting company guilty of violating the law in the construction of the big Ohio river dam at Fernbank, nine miles below this city. The determination of the penalty will come later. The law provides for a fine not exceeding $1,000.

President Has a Birthday.

Washington.—President Roosevelt is 48 years old. He was the recipient of many congratulations, but passed the day very much according to the routine which marks his every day life. He was at his desk early and saw many callers during the day, among them being a committee from the Hungarian Club of New York bearing the congratulations of that organization. A family dinner was one of the features of the day.

ILLINOIS HONORS ITS DEAD.

Memorial Dedicated at Vicksburg, Miss., to Soldiers Who Fought There.

Vicksburg, Miss.—The Illinois Memorial temple, the tribute of that state to its soldiers who fought in the siege of Vicksburg, was dedicated at the Vicksburg National Military park Friday with elaborate ceremonies, the military spectacle being especially imposing. The parade, composed of the National Guard of Illinois and the militia of Mississippi, headed by Gov. Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, and Gov. Vardaman of Mississippi, left the city shortly after ten o'clock for the march of three miles to the park. The entire route was decorated and thousands of visitors who came to Vicksburg to be present at the ceremonies cheered the soldiers as they marched along under a glorious October sun.

The Illinois Memorial temple is a magnificent structure consisting of a marble dome 42 feet high and 54 feet in diameter, with flights of marble stairs leading to it. It cost $200,000. On the interior are inscribed in bronze the names of every one of the 36,000 Illinois soldiers who were engaged in the operations which the Vicksburg National Military park is intended to commemorate.

The state of Illinois appropriated $250,000 for monuments and memorial markers in the park. Illinois had 70 commands in the Vicksburg operations during the civil war.

GREAT RUSH FOR GOLD FIELD

Automobiles Distanced in Race Through Deep Sands.

Thorne, Nev.—With the firing of a mighty blast of dynamite from the top of Grant Peak, the highest point in the adjacent mountains, the Walker Lake Indian reservation was opened at noon Monday.

At the given signal hundreds of searchers for gold hurried before the open over the boundary lines of plains and mountains, and before the great cloud of smoke which rose into the air from the dynamite explosion had drifted away, a spectacular race of automobiles, race horses and vehicles was on.

Horses were ridden until they dropped and men recounted their ill fortune when their automobiles became stalled in the deep sands. Jaded and overborne by thirst, numbers of prospectors barely summoned enough strength to make their locations.

BAY RUM POISONS FIVE SAILORS

Three Enlisted Men on the Wisconsin Are Dead from Effects.

Seattle, Wash.—Three enlisted men of the battleship Wisconsin are dead and two are seriously ill as the result of drinking bay rum. Thomas F. Cox, one of the men who is dead, took the bay rum from the ship's barber shop and diluted it with water and, together with four companions, became intoxicated Friday night. Their condition was not discovered until Sunday, when three of the men died on board the ship.

MUST PAY CASH FARES

PUBLISHERS CANNOT EXCHANGE ADVERTISING FOR TICKETS.

AN IMPORTANT RULING.

Interstate Commerce Commission Holds Payment in Commodities Would Allow Discrimination by the Carrier.

Washington.—Under a ruling of the interstate commerce commission, transportation over railroad lines no longer may be given to newspaper publishers or editors in exchange for advertising space in their newspapers.

A protest against this ruling has been received by the commission from the Massachusetts Press association, through William J. Heffernan, the secretary of the association. In Mr. Heffernan's communication, he says that the association unanimously voted to "enter its protest against the ruling in holding that the payment for railroad transportation at full rates in advertising shall be treated on any other basis than that of transportation paid for in cash."

Chairman Quotes the Law. In a letter to Secretary Heffernan, in response to that of the association, Knapp, of the commission, says in part, after quoting the section of the law which prohibits the issuance of free transportation or transportation paid for in any other way than in cash:

"You are, of course, aware that all tariffs filed in compliance with the regulating statute are rates in dollars and cents, and do not in any case provide that transportation can be paid for with property. It seems plain to the commission that the law above quoted, read with the fact stated, permits payment for services of interstate carriers only in money."

"A contrary rule would sanction unequal compensation by different persons and involve ordinarily some degree of discrimination in favor of those permitted to exchange their commodities for the transportation they desire or secure. It is the aim of the law to prevent every sort of favoritism and secure absolute equality of treatment in all cases."

Right of Private Contract.

"This ruling of the commission in no way interferes with or abridges the rights of private contracts. Newspapers and their advertising space may be freely exchanged for any species of property upon such terms as may be acceptable to the parties to the transaction, but the facilities of the public carrier are not private property, nor are they the subject of bargain and sale like merchandise. The right to travel or have property carried by rail, like the right to the common highway, is not a common right but a political right, the very essence of which is equality."

Ruling Follows the Law.

"According to the advertising arrangements in question are ordinarily made and carried out in good faith, it seems plain to me that these arrangements must, as a practical matter, involve some degree of discrimination, and it is not easy for me to see how an honest newspaper can seriously object to a ruling of the commission which appears to be in obvious accord with the provisions and the purposes of the regulating statute."

OHIO ICE MEN FACING PRISON

Valentine Anti-Trust Law Held Valid by the Circuit Court.

Toledo, O.—Circuit court Friday upheld the decision of Judge Kinkead, in a preliminary injunction in the sentences he gave Reuben Lemon, Roland Board and Joseph Miller, convicted of conspiracy in restraint of trade in the sale of ice.

These are the famous ice cases which were tried in common pleas court last summer. The sentences given the men were $2,500 fine each and six months in the workhouse, and if the supreme court affirms the lower courts, the ice men must serve their sentences.

The circuit court also held the Valentine anti-trust law constitutional.

Marlborough Story Is Denied.

FIVE HOUSES ARE BLOWN UP

AWFUL EXPLOSION OF NATURAL GAS AT COFFEYVILLE, KAN.

Three Persons Are Killed and Several Others Injured—Leaking Main Is Cause.

Topeka, Kan.—Three persons were killed, one is missing, three were seriously injured and 30 more were more or less injured in a terrific explosion of natural gas which completely demolished five two-story brick business houses at Coffeyville, Kan., at noon Sunday. The dead: Jesse Kowalski, a negro. Mrs. J. E. McDaniel. Young son of C. J. Closen, a grocer.

It is supposed that the gas escaped from a leaking main somewhere in the block, and that after a sufficient quantity had accumulated it became ignited, causing the explosion. The buildings were in a row on East Eighth street and were occupied by a real estate office, three stores and a restaurant. The second floors of all the buildings were occupied by rooming houses.

Neither Roomer Mrs. McDaniel was killed outright by the explosion, but both were frightfully injured and died shortly afterwards at a hospital.

Brick and glass struck the negro cabman, and Mrs. McDaniel was crushed by falling debris.

The entire block of five buildings was leveled to the ground and only broken bricks, scattered lumber and twisted iron remain. The buildings and stocks in them are a total loss, as none of them was insured against explosion.

A fire broke out immediately after the explosion, but the flames were quickly extinguished and little damage was done by the fire source.

Several persons were buried in the debris, but Mrs. McDaniel was the only one fatally hurt. The others who were rescued were only slightly injured.

One little girl, a daughter of S. D. Frazier, of the Kansas Land company, was under the timber and brick for 20 minutes, but was taken out unharmed.

WHOLE STATE HOLDS REVIVAL

More Than 40 West Virginia Churches in Religious Campaign.

Wheeling, W. Va.—A simultaneous revival is now in progress in all the West Virginia churches of the Christian denomination, and a very unusual increase in accessions to the church membership are being scored.

In Wheeling, the statistics are not up to the expectations, but in most of the towns of the state the accessions are more numerous, reaching more than 2,000.

The revival reached its climax Sunday in Wheeling with a great mass meeting in the Court theater. Two thousand people were in attendance. More than 40 churches, located in Parkersburg, Wheeling, Huntington, Starnville and Clarkburg held the revivals.

This is a new move in religious circles in this state, and is attracting a great deal of attention.

KING AND SENATOR ARE SCORED

W. C. T. U. Denounces Leopold II. of Belgium, and Smoot.

Hartford, Conn.—Resolutions denouncing Leopold II. of Belgium, as the author of conditions in the Congo Free State which are characterized as "atrocities," calling for the exclusion of Belgium from the United States senate, because of his relations with the Mormon church; opposing the sale of beer or other intoxicants at army posts; advocating the making permanent of the temporary prohibition of the sale of beer at national soldiers' homes; protesting against the issuing of liquor tax receipts in the Indian territory; declaring for the highest standards of purity for men and women alike, and declaring in favor of the right of suffrage for women, were adopted Monday afternoon by the National Women's Christian Temperance union.

Bishop Nicholson Dead.

Milwaukee.—Isaac Lee Nicholson, D. D., bishop of the Milwaukee Episcopal diocese, died at his residence in this city late Monday afternoon after a lingering illness. The end came peacefully and was not unexpected. An ailment of the heart, together with other complications, was the cause of death.

Former Mayor of Omaha Dead.

Quincy, Ill.—George K. Roberts, attorney for the Big Four road, and one of the first mayors of the city of Omaha, died of neuralgia of the heart at Lawrenceburg, Ind., Monday. He was 61 years old.

Father Shoots Babe Dead.

NERVOUS COLLAPSE

Blinking Spells, Headaches and Rheumatism All Yield to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Lizzie Williams, of No. 416 C. Dear street, Quincy, Ill., says: "Ever since I had nervous prostration, about thirteen years ago, I have had periodical spells of complete exhaustion. The doctor said my nerves were shattered. Any excitement or unusual activity would throw me into a state of lifelessness. At the beginning my strength would come back in a moderate time after each attack, but the period of weakness kept lengthening until at last I would be helpless as many as three hours at a stretch. I had dizzy feelings, palpitation of the heart, misery after eating, hot flashes, nervous headaches, rheumatic pains in the back and hips. The doctor did me so little good that I gave up my treatment, and really feared that my case was incurable."

"When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my appetite grew keen, my food no longer distressed me, my nerves were quieted to a degree that I had not experienced for years and my strength returned. The fainting spells left me entirely after I had used the third box of the pills, and my friends said that I am looking better than I have done for the past fifteen years."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for diseases that come from impoverished blood such as anemia, rheumatism, debility and diseases of the nerves such as neuralgia, nervous prostration and partial paralysis. They have cured the most stubborn indigestion. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills agree with the most delicate stomach, quiet all nervousness, stir up every organ to do its proper work and give strength that lasts. Sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per bottle, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Women Have Pet Snakes.

A great many snakes are imported into England. There is a brisk demand for snake pets among rich ladies. It's a funny kind of pet, perhaps, but they seem to like them, and get quite fond of them. I suppose it's because ladies nowadays like the unusual. Of course, these pet snakes are all nonpoisonous—London Morning Leader.

A Strange Awakening.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, in describing a terrible fight that he had once seen on the streets of New York, said that the hubbub and confusion reminded him of an episode that happened on a train.

"On a certain train," he said, "a very large, muscular man fell asleep, and annoyed all the passengers by snoring tremendously. A drummer, carrying half a lemon in his hand, tipped over to a little boy who sat behind the snorer."

"Son," said the drummer, "I am a doctor, and if that man doesn't stop snoring he'll die of apoplexy. Wake your chance, and as soon as his mouth opens a little wider, lean over and squeeze this lemon into it."

"The boy obeyed."

SAVED THE CUSTOMER TROUBLE

Neat Way Walter Secured Tip from "Closs" Man.

There is a waiter in a Washington cafe, who is the acme of polite attention, endeavoring in every way to save his customers trouble. The other day a man came in who was sized up by John as probably a "little closs," but the service was fully up to the standard. The bill came to 50 cents, and the man handed over a dollar bill.

John then proceeded to help the man into his coat.

"Where's my change?" the customer asked.

"Change, sah? Dar ain't none—dat was mah tip, tank yo', sah!" John said with a bow.

"But I hadn't given it to you," the man protested.

"Yo' co'nter, sah. Ah wouldn't 'low yo' to go ter all dat trouble, sah!" John said, with another bow, and the man went out, looking a trifle fazed.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE.

Awful Sight from That Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Mother Praises Cuticura Remedies.

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering the most of his body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery. In fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. We finally procured a full set of the Cuticura Remedies, and in about three or four days he began to show a brighter spirit and really laughed, for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered. Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they really saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Mabelle Lyon, 1123 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

John Stuart Mill.

James Mill, his father, was a hard man, a clever man, and a crank—a hedonist capable of making himself thoroughly disagreeable about the greatest happiness of the greatest number; a food of people who regarded him as a suitable object for educational experiments.

He would not send him to school because schools were the fortresses of "prejudice," and taught the wrong things in the wrong way. He provided him with no playmates, and allowed him no holidays, lest "the habit of work should be broken."—Francis Gribble, in Fortnightly Review.

Baby Clothes in Mexico.

The babies of Mexico—bliss their dimples! They are no more like our babies than their grandfathers are like our grandfathers. The long skirts are made to hang open in the back from the yoke down to the bottom, and it is a dainty exhibit of hands, made lace and linen, drawn to the spread of a spider's web, that freeness its expanse over the nurse's knee. The top of the garment is fastened from the most elaborately flowered and gorgeously hued material conceivable, and if the infant be a girl her splendor is not unfrequently enhanced by a set of coral—necklace, bracelets, pin and earrings. The colorless baby dress is reserved for the unfortunate whose grandmother or great uncle has died since his birth. The white dress in this case is used as a background for a sash of wide black ribbon, tied in a manner that nearly obliterates the front of the waist, while the long ends hang on the child like the badge on the door of a house of mourning.—Llewella Tisdale, in Sunset Magazine for October.

Successfully Paints on Metal.

Carl Lund, a Norwegian artist, has made himself famous by painting on metal, an art even the Japanese have failed in, great as they are as metal workers. Lund decorates ordinary tin with characteristic designs in colors and illuminates an ordinary tray or plate that would otherwise be cheaply jettisoned. The method is his secret and only one of many clevernesses he employs to render utility artistic and decorative.

Out of all the natural remedies on the market we doubt if there is one that has the record of that world-renowned porous plaster—Alcock's. It has been in use for sixty years, and still continues to be so popular as never in doing its great work of relieving our pains and aches. It is the remedy we all need when suffering from any ache or pain resulting from taking cold, or from overstrain.

Alcock's Plasters are sold by Drug-gists all over the world.

Playwright's Method of Work.

Mr. A. W. Pinney has an unusual method of writing his plays. His work day does not begin until that of the average city man is over. In the morning he goes out, preferably on his bicycle, returning in time for early dinner. Then he has a comfortable sleep, and on waking up, late in the afternoon, he prepares for business. After a cup of tea he goes to his desk and remains working at his play until far into the night.

MEAT INSPECTION LAW

SECRETARY WILSON THROWS LIGHT ON SHIPMENTS. MUST HAVE CERTIFICATES.

Carcases Must Bear Official Attest, Showing They Have Been Passed by Proper Authority or Rail-roads Cannot Accept Them.

Washington.—Some important rulings were announced Tuesday by the department of agriculture under the meat inspection law. The rulings come under the heads of "Transportation," "Carcasses," "Labels," and "Definitions." In brief, the rulings provide as follows:

"No shipment of meat or meat food products shall be accepted for transportation in interstate commerce by any carrier until the carrier has received from the shipper a certificate in one of the forms prescribed in the regulations."

"When it is desired to divert a shipment of inspected and marked meat or meat food products from the original destination, such diversion may be made with respectation if a new certificate showing the changed destination be given to the carrier by the owner or shipper."

"The right of the farmer to ship in interstate or foreign commerce the carcasses of animals slaughtered on the farm is a right personal to the farmer and applies to the shipment of carcasses of such animals in interstate or foreign commerce only when such carcasses are shipped by the farmer or his agent or consignee."

"Wholesale dealers, who are not acting as agents for farmers, but who own carcasses of animals slaughtered by a farmer on the farm, may not re-ship said carcasses in interstate or foreign commerce."

"Reshipments of inspected meat and meat food products which are sound and wholesome at the time of reshipment may be made without inspection, when the meat or meat food products, or the containers thereof are marked "U. S. Inspected and Passed" and the meat or meat food products have not been processed, other than by smoking, since they were originally shipped."

"The transportation of meat or meat food products from one point in a state or territory to another point in the same state or territory, when in course of shipment the meat or meat food product is taken through another state or territory, is interstate-commerce, and brings the said transportation within the scope of the meat inspection law and regulations."

LARGE AND SEVEN MEN MISSING

Ship and Crew May Have Gone Down in Fierce Gale on Lake Huron.

Alpena, Mich.—It is feared that the long-barge Thomas H. Caboon, owned in Marquette, is lost with a crew of seven men. The Caboon, with other barges, was in tow of the steamer Homer Warren and anchored off Thunder Bay Island Saturday night. The barge broke loose during the height of the gale and drifted out into Lake Huron. It may have drifted across the lake to the Canadian shore, but vesselmen do not think the barge could have lived in the gale.

WORLD HAS LABOR SHORTAGE

Panama Commissioners Unable to Get Help for Canal Work.

Washington.—Through their efforts to obtain labor for work on the isthmian canal, members of the canal commission have found there is a dearth of labor in practically all parts of the world.

So great is the demand for labor in connection with railroad building and other improvements on a large scale that countries which formerly have sent thousands of laborers to the country monthly are now using their labor at home.

Heart Wins Appeal to Court.

Albany, N. Y.—The court of appeals Tuesday night handed down a decision affirming the right of the Independence League of New York to make nominations by multiple petitions.

The court also decided that in the judicial nominations, the judicial candidates first in prior claim and that the Independence League had the right to designate their own candidates.

"What do you think of the case of old Ketchum?" said one of the business men of the place to a friend. "Is it true that he has got religion?"

"Well, hardly," replied the other, with the air of one who knows. "The fact is, it's entirely a matter of business with him. I am in a position to know that about a year ago he loaned the pastor $10, who the latter was unable to pay. So there remained nothing for Ketchum but to take it out in pew rent."—The Sunday Magazine.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

SENATOR SHELBY M. CULLOM.

CULLOM GIVES ISSUE

Senator Says People Must Decide Whether They Want Prosperity to Continue.

COMMENDS PARTY'S RECORD

Attacks Bryan and His Theory of Government Ownership of Trunk Railways.

While unable to participate actively in the present campaign because of illness Senator Shelby M. Cullom has manifested a deep interest in it. Finding that he would be unable to join in the speaking campaign he drafted the following statement to his friends, the voters of Illinois:

The present political campaign will close on the 6th of November, at which time a new national house of representatives, state legislature, state and county officers, will be elected.

The Republican party is before the country in this campaign with a record of achievements such as even our great party in the half century of its existence has seldom been able to offer. It is, of course, very important that we elect this year a Republican house of representatives, and equally important that the senate continue Republican. The country depends upon congress for the maintenance and extension of the policy which has made the United States one of the greatest of all the civilized nations of the world. If the house of representatives this year falls into the hands of the opposition to the Republicans we may expect that it will mark the beginning of the decline of this wonderful era of prosperity which we have enjoyed for the past few years.

What is the record which the Republican party presents in its appeal to the voters of the United States for continuance in power? The great English statesman, Macaulay, recently said: "It would be impossible to find in history a parallel to the progress of the United States in the last ten years. Every day the sun rises upon the American people it sees an addition of $2,500,000 to the accumulation of the wealth of the republic, which is equal to one-third of the daily accumulation of all mankind outside of the United States."

While the world is astounded by our great prosperity we ourselves scarcely realize it here at home.

Democratic Theory.

Under democratic rule the people in a large degree were without work, without money and millions were without bread. Business was paralyzed, and throughout the United States 3,000,000 were vainly seeking employment. Our bank clearings fell off $10,000,000; our exports fell $225,000,000; the national revenues failed to meet the national expenses by $100,000,000; the treasury was empty; the gold reserve was depleted, and we were compelled to borrow on bonds nearly $300,000,000 with which to run the government.

But with the election of McKinley all of this suddenly came to an end. Prosperity returned with protection, distrust gave way to confidence, and we started on the upward road to prosperity. We now have more money in circulation than ever before; wages are higher; and the hours of daily employment are longer. We have a large working surplus on our treasury. Our foreign commerce during the last year was greater than that of any preceding year, and we now stand at the head of the leading exporting nations of the world. In the domain of commerce, in the domain of manufactures, in the domain of agriculture, last year was the greatest this country ever knew.

In no direction can we see a single cloud in the sky that would indicate that this wonderful era of prosperity will come to a close if the Republican party, which is responsible for it, is continued in power.

The Republican party under the administration of McKinley and Roosevelt have not only given us prosperity at home, but prestige abroad, and we have taken our place among the leading nations of the world. Through the efforts of President Roosevelt one of the greatest wars of modern times was brought to a conclusion, and the integrity of a great nation was saved so that all might have an equal opportunity for trade and commerce in the far east.

We have stood for peaceful arbitration as a means of settling international disputes.

We have participated in and ratified the international arbitration of The Hague.

We have ratified an arbitration treaty with all of the South and Central American states.

We have settled the long-standing dispute over the Alaskan boundary, which might have led to war with Great Britain.

Record of Last Congress.

But it is more particularly to the work accomplished by congress during the last session that the people should have their attention called, as it is on that record specially that we are before them in this campaign. More important legislation in the interest of the people was enacted in a shorter space of time than during any session since it has been in public life.

The great measures that were enacted were not passed without difficulty. It took their time, and by giving the courts only a limited right of review over the orders of the commission on the subject of rates. As the bill finally passed the senate and house and became a law.

The most important and probably the greatest legislation of recent years was the railroad rate law. The original act to regulate commerce was passed in 1887, but the supreme court in a number of cases gave such a construction of the act that it was robbed of its usefulness and it became necessary to amend it. The most important feature in the law, perhaps, is that giving the commission power to fix rates, and by giving the courts only a limited right of review over the orders of the commission on the subject of rates. As the bill finally passed the senate and house and became a law.

I take pride in the fact that as chairman of the committee of the senate having the subject of the regulation of interstate commerce in charge, I reported and secured the passage of the great general bill on that subject, and I also took part in the great discussion in securing amendments to the act during the last session.

Our last very important acts were passed in addition to the act known as the rate bill. The most important bill, the pure food bill, the free duty on the treasury bill, the bill for the protection of Niagara Falls, the bill providing for the improvement of the consular service, and many other bills of equal importance to the country were passed and are now laws.

During the last session there were a number of important treaties ratified by the senate and proclaimed by the president. Some of these settled long-standing controversies between the United States and foreign nations. A treaty with Mexico for the division of the waters of the Rio Grande was ratified. It settled a controversy which extended over twenty-five years, and is of particular interest to the people of the southwest, who are interested in the irrigation of lands.

An important sanitary convention with all the South and Central American states was also ratified. This convention will tend to prevent the spread of yellow fever in our southern states.

In no direction can we see a single cloud in the sky that would indicate that this wonderful era of prosperity never been surpassed, and which has not been equaled since the days of the civil war.

What Would Democrats Do?

But who can tell what our Democratic friends are for? The nearest we can come to it is by reading the speeches of William Jennings Bryan since his return from his trip around the world. Until his return the Democratic party remained silent. Notwithstanding he had been twice overwhelmingly re-elected by the voters of the United States, the Democratic party has again, as I think, practically chosen him as its standard bearer in the next presidential campaign. His, as its chosen mouth-piece, has announced in his New York address what the policy of the campaign was to be. His speech had all the assurance of a man who had already been nominated for the presidency, and who was making a speech of acceptance—it had more—it had all the assurance of a man who had just been elected to the presidency and was outlining the policy of the nation over which he had been chosen to rule.

He favored arbitration of international disputes. Under Republican administration since 1897 arbitration of international disputes has not only been favored in theory, but the United States has assumed one of the foremost positions of any country in the world in favor of the peaceful settlement of international differences. We participated in the first Hague conference; we were the first of all the nations to avail ourselves of the machinery for arbitration provided at The Hague, and we have ratified arbitration treaties with all our Central and South American republics. Under Republican administration we have taken the initiative in the calling of the second international conference in the interest of peace at The Hague, and through the efforts of President Roosevelt one of the greatest modern wars was brought to a peaceful conclusion.

Mr. Bryan opposes the use of our navy in the collection of private debts owing our citizens by foreign countries. He did not seem to know that it was an almost universal practice on the part of every administration since the days of Washington and Jefferson to enforce the use of the navy in the collection of private debts. And this has been especially true under the present administration.

Bryan's Theories Vague.

But the startling announcement he made in his New York speech was in reference to government ownership of railroads. His theories on government ownership are vague and indefinite. He says that the government should own the trunk lines. Out of a total of 211,000 miles of railroads in the United States over 165,000 miles are owned by the trunk lines. Eight of the trunk line systems, the Vanderbilt (20,700 miles), the Pennsylvania (19,300), the Morgan (21,229), the Gould (15,504), the Moore (15,000), the Hill and the Moccasin (11,000), and the Atlantic Coast line, own two-thirds of the railroad mileage of the United States, which it would be necessary for the government to acquire if it is to control the trunk lines. No one can tell how much it would require to acquire these roads by the government. A fair estimate would probably be $100,000,000. Are the people of the United States ready to assume this vast obligation? I think not. My judgment is that the people are not in favor of any such policy as Mr. Bryan suggests. I believe the country is in safe hands, and I have no fear that the people will go back on the party whose policies have brought about great prosperity and happiness in this land. If the people desire the continuance of prosperity let them go to the polls on the 6th of November and vote for the Republican candidates for congress, for candidates for the state and county officers, thereby insuring their own interests.

RECORD OF SMULSKI

Republican Candidate for State Treasurer Saves City of Chicago $200,000.

INTEREST TO GO TO THE STATE

Pledge Protection of State Funds and Big Savings for Treasury—Other Candidates.

The off year campaign will soon close. On November 6th the people of Illinois will be given an opportunity to vote for candidates for state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and candidates for trustee of the University of Illinois, four to be chosen this year, three to fill regular vacancy and one to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Congressman McKinley.

In the selection of its candidates the Republican party went to Chicago for its nominee for state treasurer, selecting John P. Smulski, twice elected alderman from Democratic wards and twice elected city attorney of Chicago, when all other Republicans, save one, were defeated. Mr. Smulski saved Chicago $200,000 on personal injury cases in the three and one half years he was city treasurer. When nominated for state treasurer he announced that he would give to the state an announcement that the event of his election means an addition to the state treasury of nearly $200,000.

The other Republican nominees have good records on which to face the people. Francis G. Blair for superintendent of public instruction is a well known educator. Alexander McLean of Macomb has been in the office of the University of Illinois for thirty years, while Fred L. Hatch of Springfield, and Mrs. Carrie T. Alexander of Belleville have been members of the board for six years.

Lewis L. Lehman of Matteson was appointed trustee last year to fill a vacancy and was nominated to fill the unexpired term of Congressman McKinley.

The records of the candidates are as follows:

JOHN P. SMULSKI.

John P. Smulski was born in German Poland in 1857. He was brought to this country when two years of age by his father, who was a Polish farmer. His father came immediately to the state of Illinois, and engaged in farming with General Turchin, near Dubois. A few years later the elder Smulski went to Chicago and engaged in the newspaper business, in which he continued until his death in 1890. Young Smulski was given an excellent public school education. In addition to several years as German minister, he attended the graduation he taught school for a year, and then went into newspaper work with his father. Later he entered the law department of the Northwestern university, and was admitted to the bar by the supreme court of Illinois in 1890.

Mr. Smulski's public career began in 1896, when he was elected alderman of the Municipal Voters' League and other good government organizations, he ran for alderman of the Sixteenth ward of the city of Chicago. The ward had always been a Democratic stronghold, but by over 3,000. Smulski defeated his Democratic opponent by ninety votes. In 1899 he was re-elected alderman of the Sixteenth ward, by a plurality of over 1,200 votes, running nearly 3,000 votes ahead of his ticket. In 1901 he was elected alderman of the Seventeenth ward by over 1,400 votes, again running ahead of his ticket in a Democratic stronghold.

In 1901 he was nominated by the Republicans for city attorney, and was elected by a plurality of 8,237 votes, although Greenback was the leader of the ticket was defeated by 7,679 votes. In 1905 he was re-nominated for city attorney, and although the vote of the ticket was defeated by 24,518 votes, Mr. Smulski defeated his Democratic opponent by 18,719 votes, running ahead of his ticket by 65,309 votes.

Smulski Aids Chicago.

Mr. Smulski entered the city council of Chicago when the need for incorruptible aldermen was great. Although always a party man in the best sense of the word, Mr. Smulski ever took a stand against corruption, and his vote was always recorded against hoodlums and measures of every kind that were vigorously against the Allen law, and consistently opposed long term grants to traction companies. His ability, energy and integrity made him one of the most influential members of the council in an exceedingly short time.

But it is as city attorney that Mr. Smulski performed his greatest service to Chicago. The first injury suit, prior to the election of Mr. Smulski, had become a menace to the welfare of the city. Of the city's total bonded indebtedness of $22,000,000, nearly one-half, or over $10,000,000, had been loaned to pay judgments and interest resulting from personal injury suits. A coterie of personal injury lawyers, assisted by numerous disreputable doctors, had for years been in the habit of filing up "fake" suits against the city. The law department of the city seemed utterly unable to cope with the evil. It cost the city, during the five years preceding Mr. Smulski's assumption of the office of city attorney, an average of over $1,000 to dispose of each personal injury case brought against it. The judgments during those five years averaged over a half million dollars a year, and in the year preceding Mr. Smulski's administration had reached the enormous sum of $8,948,700. In 1904 Mr. Smulski had reduced these judgments to $280,891. Mr. Smulski became city attorney April 21, 1903, and from that date to Jan. 1, 1904, he disposed of nearly twice the number of cases disposed of during the preceding period in the preceding year, and reduced the average cost per case from $1,011.22 to $426.49. In his first full year, Jan. 1, 1904, to Jan. 1, 1905, Mr. Smulski disposed of over 1,500 cases, and the cost to the city was $273.83 per case, or about one-fourth the amount it had previously cost the city. In the close of his first year of his administration Mr. Smulski saved Chicago over $1,000,000.

Saves City $2,000,000.

His second term was even more successful than the first. From Jan. 1, 1905, to Jan. 1, 1906, 1,046 cases were disposed of at a cost of $250 a case. The average cost of the city of each case from Jan. 1, 1906, to Oct. 4, 1906, was less than $200. This the city attorney has accomplished by the means of saving to the citizens of Chicago over $2,000,000.

Chicago's Opinion of Smulski.

The newspapers of Chicago, almost without exception, have had much to say about the kind words and praise for Mr. Smulski ever since he entered public life. The following are a record of their comments upon him: "From the Chicago Record-Herald, Oct. 22, 1905.—Thanks to the energetic effort of City Attorney Smulski and the support he has had from the state's attorney, office, certain ambitious blackballers of the city have been placed on the roll of penitentiary inmates. * * * Juried used to give the state the credit for the work of its principles, simply because they knew, as Mr. Smulski says in his report, that there were bad sideways all over that night cause the injuries alleged. Now the tendency is to extend the credit closely and treat the city fairly, and this improvement is largely the result of the more intelligent and careful handling of the cases on the part of the city's legal representatives. More power to their elbow. Every perjurer and hold-up in this proscribed line of business should be proscribed and exposed to the full penalty of the law. From the Chicago Chronicle, April 24, 1906.—Mr. Smulski was such a brilliant success as a city attorney that he was the only Republican candidate to win in the municipal election of 1905. The Democratic mayor receiving a plurality of 21,518 and the Republican city attorney a plurality of 18,791. John P. Smulski is a man who has delivered addresses before the state teachers' association of Wisconsin, at New York, in institutes and school commencements throughout the country have demanded his services, and in Illinois alone he has appeared on institute programmes in forty counties. Mr. Blair is a graduate of the Illinois State Normal University and of Swarthmore college, Pennsylvania. He is a lawyer and is married and has two children. Mr. Blair has a liberal education, practical experience in every kind of school in the state; an aggressive and fearless personality, and a decided vocation for the study of his popularity. His nomination was made by teachers, friends of the schools and the educational press. The "School and Home Education," of Bloomington, has the following comment on the nomination of Mr. Blair: "Among the good things done by the Republican nominating convention, the first was to select candidates to be voted for by the electors of the party was the nomination of Professor Francis G. Blair, of the Eastern Illinois university, for state superintendent of public instruction. His competitors were capable men, but they had not been able to convince the educational leaders of their superior fitness for the office. One of the years when the delegates listened to the voice of the schoolmaster."

FRANCIS G. BLAIR.

Francis Grant Blair, the Republican candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, is a native of Nashville, Ill., but most of his early life was spent in Jefferson county. In the country schools and in the Mount Vernon school he received his preliminary education, and for several years taught in the country schools. He became principal of schools at Malden, Bureau county, a position which he held for an equal period. For an equal period he served as superintendent of schools in Lellay, McLean county. At one time he filled an unexpired term of the Central high school, Passaic, N. J., where he became a member of the Franklin school, Buffalo, N. Y., an institution connected with a well-known school of pedagogy. The position was one that brought him into contact with some of the foremost educators in the country, among them Mr. Nicholas Murray Butler, now president of Columbia University. The impression that Mr. Blair had made by his appointment to a fellowship in the Columbia University, effective in 1904. A position in the eastern Illinois normal school being tendered him, he decided to return to Illinois, as supervisor of the training department during the past seven years he has exerted a strong influence on education all over the state.

Mr. Blair is prominently identified with various educational and scientific organizations, state and national, and has delivered addresses before the state teachers' association of Wisconsin, at New York, in institutes and school commencements throughout the country have demanded his services, and in Illinois alone he has appeared on institute programmes in forty counties.

FRED L. HATCH.

Fred L. Hatch, of Springfield, Mo., Henry county, Republican nominee for university trustee, was born in Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1, 1848. He is the son of John and Maria (Cole) Hatch. He received a liberal education, first graduating from Elgin academy, at Champaign, later receiving the degree of M. A. from his alma mater. His father was an extensive land owner. Mr. Hatch turned his attention to agricultural pursuits, to which he engaged in breeding pure-bred, short-horn Durham cattle, of which he has a large herd, having become one of the most widely known men in this line in northern Illinois. He has added to his business that of breeder of Shropshire sheep and Berkshire swine, in which he is extensively engaged, and has also bred some very fine horses. One of the most noted horses bred by him was a colt, which won a record of 2:14, but has paced a mile in 2:08, being undoubtedly the fastest horse ever bred in McHenry county. Mr. Hatch has for the past twenty-five years been prominently identified with the McHenry County Fair association, of which he was president for six years. He is also president of the Farmers' Fidelity Institute, which he has frequently been called upon to address on agricultural and educational topics. In politics Mr. Hatch is a staunch Republican, having cast his first vote for president for General Grant. Mr. Hatch has been an extensive traveler, having visited many of the states of the American Union, the Klondike region of Alaska and the new republic of Cuba.

Mr. Hatch was married in Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 3, 1876, to Annie M. Reynolds, the daughter of Edwin H. Reynolds. Mrs. Hatch was a student in the University of Illinois, and was a woman of rare culture. She died March 20, at his late home, days Mr. Hatch was engaged in teaching, for a time being employed in this capacity at Champaign and later in McHenry and Kane counties.

Her father, Colonel John Thomas, was identified with the early history of the state. He served several terms in the legislature. In 1898 she was elected department president of the Woman's Relief Corps auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic. She has been a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Veterans and Members of the relief corps. In 1890 she organized the Belleville chapter, order of Eastern Star, and was its first president. She was elected trustee of the University of Illinois in 1900. She was re-nominated in 1906 by the Republican convention, the first time a woman has been elected to the office. She served two terms on the executive committee of the board. She is a director of the Children's Home and Aid society. BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS

The man who goes in swimming every day all winter is now due.

In addition to the yellow peril and yellow journalism the pure food law now threatens us with yellow sugar.

This is the time of the year when the young man without an overcoat begins to wish he hadn't bought so much ice cream last summer.

Sir Thomas Lipton says he may build another yacht and race for the international cup. The Irish will hate to hear that the Shamrock is going to get the worst of it again.

Seattle, Wash., is to have an exposition. The metropolis of Puget sound cannot afford to let Portland get away with all the honors of the north Pacific coast.

New York now has an apartment house for the exclusive use of families in which there are many children. It ought to be in all fairness to be called The Roosevelt.

"The Modern English novel reader insists on hearing about the rich or the great," says the Spectator. But a little realism among the rich, or a covert and ill-smelling attack on daily habit, religion or food will sell a good many copies.

A man who was given the privilege of conducting his own defense in a Boston court had to pay three separate fines for drunkenness, speeding and failure to take out a license. He had not rested his case he would probably have been sent up for life.

London's West End tailors say men are going to wear vivid colors this winter, especially greens and choco-lates. Shrimp pinks and tomato blends are also in favor, but the most est among males are putting all their color sense into underwear and making it with the usual pepper-and-salt.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer is not quite sure of it, but is inclined to the belief that the eastern college sophomores who condemned a freshman to a diet of soft soap were more lenient and considerate than the sophs in a western college who threw the freshman down stairs and broke his skull.

Sir Thomas Lipton is thinking of challenging again for the America's cup. Of course our ratchetsmen will be put on their mettle and will not give up without a fight to the finish. But there is no one to whom Americans would so cheerfully surrender the cup as the prize of victory as to the gallant Sir Thomas.

New York city's pay roll amounts to $37,068,253.13, paid to $9,948 employees. That is a bigger army than that of the United States, with everybody on it getting far more than the martial servants of Uncle Sam, since there are plenty of places paying from $10,000 to $15,000, or more, than the salaries of a major general or lieutenant general.

About the liveliest industry in Russia just now is the trying of revolutionists. The courts in St. Petersburg and elsewhere are running overtime on these cases, and in the capital city alone 400 witnesses are to be examined. With so much time given to disposing of such offenders it is going to be difficult to plan a more liberal form of government.

The latest elixir of life, the vial of endless existence, which the post office department has been examining and has found to contain a little alcohol and oil of peppermint and a great deal of water is at any rate an improvement over old Ponce de Leon's. He put nothing but water in his famous' discovery, and he was never found out.

Russia's finances are said to be constantly going into worse condition than they ever have been before. The London Times declares that the gold reserve of Russia is $200,000,000 short, the last loan has been swallowed up and the condition of the treasury is much worse than it was two years ago. Such reports are not calculated to aid in securing much further relief in the way of large loans from European countries or the United States.

Dr. Forbes Winslow, an alienist of London, England, has been quoted as saying that before long there will be more insanity in the world than sane people. He has been misquoted, of course. What he said was that if insanity continues to increase at the rate shown by statistics the insane will some time outnumber the sane. As a matter of course, if the percentage of the insane goes on increasing it is only a question of time when not only a majority of the people, but all of them will become insane. It all depends on the "it." We need not despair.

The English can't be accused of dumping when they can sell one of the only two copies of the 12-leaved 1,631 edition of "The Passionate Pilgrim" for $16,000. Eighty dollars a page is more than this trifle would probably have brought in a home market.

Ristori is dead at the age of 84. This great actress had the genius to reach the level of the legitimate and the classic. Problem plays were not in her line. "Medea," "Lady Macbeth," and "The Taming of the Shrew" were good enough for her.

DEATH LIST GROWS TO 58 IN ATLANTIC CITY WRECK

Removal of Third Car from Thoroughfare Bridge Abutment Releases Bodies of Three Women Pinned Beneath the Coach.

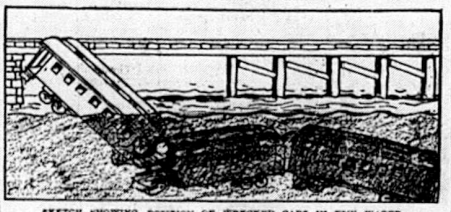

Atlantic City, N. J.—The contention of Coroner Gaskill that a number of persons who lost their lives in the electric train wreck on the Thoroughfare bridge may be buried in the mud where the cars plunged was borne out late Tuesday, when the bodies of Mrs. Paul Felsberg, Mrs. Selma Johnson and that of Mrs. Sarah Miller were recovered from under the third car. This car hung from the abutment in the center of the bridge, with its nose in the mud, and when the workmen were trying to lift it from the water the bodies worked loose. That of Mrs. Miller was pinned fast in the wreckage, but that of Mrs. Felsberg floated up to the view of the workmen. Mrs. Johnson's body was found some time later, caught under the wreckage. All were cut and battered.

Dead New Number 58. The finding of these bodies increases the death list to 58.

Resolution of Sympathy. That the officials of the city government want a most rigid inquiry, so that the wreck should not be repeated.

Drawbridge and Trestle Between Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Sketch showing position of wrecked car in the water.

As the official identified dead to 51, and the total number of bodies recovered to 54. There are still known to be among the dead the bodies of Mrs. Frank Monroe, three-year-old Joseph McElroy, H. N. Burch and Armin Alexis Tedesco, which makes the certain number of dead in the wreck to be 53, there still remaining at various mortuaries three unidentified bodies.

The finding of the body of Mrs. Miller was followed at the temporary morgue by one of the most pathetic scenes in the entire hearing of the affair. Mrs. Miller, who was in poor health, had taken the trip to the sea on the electric train with her daughter and grandson, Leslie. The elder Mrs. Miller's son was here Tuesday to get the effects of his wife and son and arrange about the shipment of the bodies, when the body of his mother was brought in. He was signing for the effects of his wife and son, when the police learned of the discovery of the bodies. Miller identified the body of his mother, and almost collapsed after crying out that he was left alone in the world.

Only One Unidentified.

The police, in going over the effects of some of the victims at the city hall, found a letter in the pockets of a garment taken from one of the unidentified bodies. It was addressed to William Granning, Penn. Door Sash company, Twenty-fifth and Calhoun.

Young Woman is Mortally Shot. New York—Laura Olsen, of East Orange, N. J., 23 years of age, was shot and it is believed mortally wounded while riding in a cab with Louis R. Brown on Broadway Sunday.

End of Cossack Trial. Yekaterinodar.—The trial of the Cossacks who proclaimed a Cossack republic has come to an end. Some of the men have been sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor while others were given mild punishment.

The Caravan Cure. One of the many cures favored by fashionable people weary of London, is the "caravan cure." This simple and enjoyable method of renewing one's strength consists in traveling about Britain in a cart, such as the Gypsies have, and camping out at night wherever a haven can be found. Lord and Lady Arthur Grosvenor have spent the summer journeying in this fashion through Exmoor, a wild and mountainous country, made famous by the great romance, Lorna Doone. One night they camped on the farm of John Ridd, of the novel. The difficulties in hill climbing have been enormous, but the pleasure of the trip has made it worth while.

Double Tracking the Santa Fe. The work of double tracking the Santa Fe main line through Kansas is progressing as rapidly as the supply of steel will permit. Up to the first of September one hundred and eighty-eight miles of double track had been completed, reaching from Kansas City to the Gulf. The line is all laid with the standard eighty-two pound rail, and ballasted with crushed rock. Between Chicago and Kansas City the double track practically extends from Chicago to Chicago, with isolated sections the rest of the way at convenient intervals where traffic is liable to be congested. The main line, as indeed are most of the branch lines, are being built with end to end, or where not ballasted, as in California and Arizona and in southern Texas, it is sprinkled with gravel, which answers the same purpose. Graders have been greatly reduced, as on the new Belen cut-off, which has taken 1,116 feet off the height of the continental divide. New steel bridges, with solid masonry piers, have been built, and care has been taken to make the construction of the roadway first-class in every particular.

Artistic Marriage Certificates. The smart wedding invitation or announcement is engraved as simply as possible nowadays, but if the bride wants elaborate treatment of her marriage certificate she can have it. These may be done by hand and beautifully illuminated on parchment or Japanese vellum, and some brides are having their framed and hung in the boudoir.

For the wonderful help that she has found Miss Cora Goode, 255 E. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Ill., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. Miss Goode is president of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago. She writes:

"I tried many different remedies to build up my system, but they had no effect. I was down from loss of proper rest and unreasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. I was a great admirer of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it for some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to get out and about as usual, and three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration, will be helped to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham writes all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of her knowledge to all who write to her. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

TOYS OF YESTERYEAR.

Pray, where are the toys of the yesteryear?
The jumping jack with its flaring ear,
The fuzzy dog that are brought to life,
The drum with its sticks and unusual head,
The Noah's ark with its wooden crew,
The building blocks with the letters on,
The child has toys that are bright and new,
But where, pray, where have the old friends gone?
Somewhere in the attic in corner dark
The jumping jack and the spirit drum lie,
The wooden crew of the Noah's ark
And the tin of the battered infantry.
Toys, half by the rubbish and dust
cealed,
The fuzzy dog and the wooden deer,
The building blocks with their colors peeled
Half off, and the stringless top is here.
Pray, where are the toys of the yesteryear,
The gaudy drums with their colors gay,
The castles of the yesteryear,
The joys of our boyhood's merry play?
The man has toys that are bright and new,
On the wreck of dreams new dreams
rear,
But where are the toys of the yesteryear?
That were our toys of the yesteryear?
Somewhere in the darkness the dead
dreams fade,
The broken idol and shattered vase,
The castles of the yesteryear
Come here to the rubbish and dust,
Half hid by the rubbish and dust of days
The wrecks of unfulfilled dreams are here
That made us glad in a hundred ways,
And these are the toys of the yesteryear.

CHAPTER XXIV.—CONTINUED.

"Look here, Uncle Peter, you've been telling me right along I did have my father's head and my father's ways and his nerve, and God knows what I didn't have that he had!"
"I was fooled—wasn't I?"
"What's the use of trying to crawl out of it? You fool me, and I own up to it; I thought you had some sense, some capacity; but you're only like him on the surface. You just got over two little ways like his, that's all—Dan'l J. now was good stuff all the way through. He might 'a' guessed wrong on copper, but he'd 'a' saved a getaway stake or two, and he'd 'a' picked back for Montana to make his pile right over—and he'd 'a' made it, too—that was the kind of man your pa was—he'd 'a' made it!"
"I have saved a getaway stake."
"Your pa had the head, I tell you—and the spirit!"
"And, by God, I'll show you I've got the head. You think because I want to live here, at this time, that I'm a weak play, that I'm like all these pinheads you've seen around here. I'll show you different—I'll fool you."
"Now don't explode!" said the old man, wearily. "You're a good fellow—I'll say that for you; you got a good heart. But there's lots of good men that ain't good for anything in particular. You've got a good heart—yes—you're all right from the neck down."
"See here," said Percival, more calmly. "Listen: I've got you all into this thing, and played you broke against copper, and I'm going to get you out—understand that?"
The old man looked at him pitifully.
"I tell you I'm going to get you out. I'm going back there, and get things in action, and I'm going to stay by them. I've got a good idea of these properties—and you hear me, now—I'll finish with a bank roll that'll choke Red Bank Canyon."
Fouts knocked and came in.
"Now you go along uptown, Uncle Peter. I want a few minutes with Mr. Fouts, and I'll come to your place at seven."
The old man arose dejectedly.
"Don't let me interfere a minute with your financial operations. I'm too old a man to be around in folks' way."
He slouched out with his head bent. A moment later Percival remembered his last words, also his reference to Rhythme. He was seized with fear for what he might do in his despair. Uncle Peter would act quickly if his mind had been made up. He ran out into Wall street, and hurried up to Broadway. A block off on that crowded thoroughfare he saw the tall figure of Uncle Peter turning into the door of a saloon. He might have bought poison. He ran the length of the block and turned in.
Uncle Peter stood at one end of the bar with a glass of creamy beer in front of him. At the moment Percival entered he was looking a large slice of Swiss cheese between two slices of rye bread.
He turned and faced Percival, looking from him to his sandwich with vacant eyes.
"I'm that wrought up and distressed, son, I hardly know what I'm doing! Look at me now with this stuff in my hands!"
"I just wanted to be sure you were all right," said Percival, greatly relieved.
"All right," the old man repeated. "All right! My God—ruined! There's nothin' left to do now but to die!"
He looked apologetically at the wich and bit a generous semi-circle into it.

"I don't see how you can eat, Uncle Peter. It's so horrible!"
"I don't myself; it ain't a healthy appetite—can't be—must be some kind of a fever, some of me—I suppose all of this trouble. And now I've come to poverty and want in my old age. Say, son, I believe there's just one thing you can do to keep me from going. If we can save out enough by good luck to keep us decently, so your ma won't have to take boarders, you don't you go and lose that, too. Don't mortgage the One. It may be sort of superstitious, but somehow, I don't believe Wall street is your game. Course, I don't say you ain't got a game of some kind—but I got one of them presentiments that it ain't Wall street."
"I don't believe it is, Uncle Peter—I won't touch another share, and I won't go near a broker again. We'll keep the One, and you do it. You don't it good, didn't you?"
He called a cab for the old man, and saw him started safely off uptown.
At the hotel Uncle Peter met Billy Bruce flourishing but his own coat flared with exclamatory headlines.
"It's all in the papers, Uncle Peter!"
"Dead broke! Ain't it awful, Billy!"
"Say, Uncle Peter, you said you'd raise hell, and you do it. You don't it good, didn't you?"

CHAPTER XXV.

THE NEWS BROKEN, WHEREUPON AN ENGAGEMENT IS BROKEN.

At seven Percival found Uncle Peter at his hotel, still in abysmal depths of woe. Together they went to break the awful news to the unsuspecting Mrs. Bines and Psyche.
"If you'd only learned something useful while you had the chance," began Uncle Peter, dismally, as they were driven to the city, "how do you do tricks with cards, or how to sing funny songs, like that little friend of yours from Baltimore who was telling me about, look at him, now. He didn't do anything but his own thing. He could tell you every time what card you was thinkin' about, and do a skit dance and give comic recitations and imitate a dog fight out in the back yard, and now he's married to one of the richest ladies in New York. Why couldn't you 'a' been learnin' some of them clever things, so you could 'a' married some good-hearted woman with lots of money—but not—Uncle Peter's tones were bitter to excess—"you was a rich man's son and raised in idleness—and now, when the rainy day's come you can't even take a white rabbit out of a stove-pipe hat!"
To these senile manderings Percival paid no attention. When they came into the crowd and lights of the Higginson, he sent the old man up alone.
"You go, please, and break it to them, Uncle Peter. I'd rather not be there just at first. I'll come along in a little bit."
So Uncle Peter went, protesting that he was a broken old man and a cumber of God's green earth.
Mrs. Bines and Psyche had that moment as they were about to enter the rear's manner at once alarmed them.
"It's all over," he said, sinking into a chair.
"Why, what's the matter, Uncle Peter?"
"Percival has—"
Mrs. Bines arose quickly, trembling.
"There—I just knew it—it's all over—he's been struck by one of those terrible automobiles—Oh, take me to where he is!"

"He ain't no more here than you are broke—lost all our money; every last cent!"
"He hasn't been run over and killed!"
"He's ruined us, I tell you, Marthy—lost every cent of our money in Wall street."
"Hain't he been hurt at all—not even his leg broke or a big gash in his head and knuckled smashed?"
"That boy never had any sense. I tell you he's lost all our money."
"And he ain't a bit hurt—nothing the matter with him!"
"Ain't no more hurt than you or me this minute."
"You're not fooling his mother, Uncle Peter!"
"I tell you he's alive and well, only he's lost your money and his name and his own."
Mrs. Bines breathed a long, trembling sigh of relief, and sat down to the table again.
"Well, no need to scare a body out of their wits—scaring his mother to death won't bring his money back, will it? If it's gone it's gone."
"But ma, it is awful!" cried Psyche. "Listen to what Uncle Peter says. We're poor! Don't you understand? Percival has lost all our money."
Mrs. Bines was eating her soup delectantly.
"Long's he's got his health," she began.
"And we windin' up in the poor-house!" whined Uncle Peter.
"Think of it, ma! Oh, what shall we do?"
Percival entered. Uncle Peter did not raise his head. Psyche stared at him. His mother ran to him, satisfied herself that he was sound in mind and limb, that he had not treacherously donned his summer underwear, and asked him to the table.
"Now you sit right down here and take some food. If you're all right, everything is all right."
"With a weak attempt at his old gayety he began:
"Really, Mrs. Crackerbore—no, he caught Psyche's look and had to stop.
"I'm sorry, sis, clear into my bones. I made an ass of myself—a regular fool right from the factory."
"Never mind, my son; eat your soup," said his mother. And then, with honest intent to comfort him, "Remember that saying of your pa's, it takes all kinds of fools to make a world."
"But there ain't any fool like a damn fool!" said Uncle Peter, shortly. "I been a tellin' him—"
"Well, you just let him alone; you'll spoil his appetite, first thing you know. I'd tell you your soup was before it gets cold."
"If I only hadn't gone in so heavy," groaned Percival. "Or, if I only got fied up on beer for a few weeks—something I could tide over."
"Yes," said Uncle Peter, with a cheerful effort at sarcasm. "It's always easy to think up a lot of holes you could get out of—some different kind of a hole besides the one you're in. That's all some folks can do when they get in one hole, they say: 'Oh, if I was only in that other one, now, how slick I could climb out!' I ain't ever met a person yet was satisfied with the hole they was in. Always some complaint to make about 'em."
"And I had a chance to get out a week ago."
"Yes, and you wouldn't take it—of course—you knew too much—well—around here about bein' a Napoleon of finance—and a Shaper and a Wizard of Wall Street, and all that kind of stuff—and you wouldn't take your chance, and old Mr. Chance went right off and left you, that's what. I tell you, what some folks need is a broad of chance that'll stand without hitchin'."
Percival braced himself and began on his soup.
"Never you mind, Uncle Peter. You remember what I told you."
"That takes a different man from what you are. If your pa was alive now—"
"But what are we going to do?" cried Psyche.
"First thing you'll do," said Uncle Peter, promptly, "you go write a letter to that bean of yours, tellin' him it's all off. He don't want to let him be the one to break it because you lost your money, do you? You go sign his release right this minute."
"You're right, Uncle Peter—I suppose it must be done—but the poor fellow really cares for me."
"Oh, of course," answered the old man, "it'll fairly break his heart. You do it just the same."
She withdrew and presently came back with a note which she dispatched to Mauburn.
Percival and his mother had continued the dinner, the former shaking his head between the intervals of the old man's lashings, and appearing to hold silent converse with himself.
This was an encouraging sign. It is a curious fact that people never talk to themselves except triumphantly. In moments of real despair we are inwardly dumb. But observe the holders of imaginary misfortune. They are conquerors to the last one. They administer stinging rebukes that leave the adversary writhing. They rise to Alpine heights of pure wisdom and power, leaving him to founder ignominiously in the mire of his own failure. They achieve repartees the brilliance of which dangles him to contemptible silence. If statistics were at hand we should find that the man who has ever talked to himself save by way of demonstrating his own godlike superiority, and the tardy imposture of all obstacles and oppositions. Percival talked to himself and mentally lived the next five years in a style that reduced Uncle Peter to grinding but imperative awe for his superb gifts of administration. He bated in his imaginary future as in the waters of omnipotence. As time went on he foresaw the shafts of Uncle Peter being turned back upon him with such deadliness that, by the time the roast came his breast was swelling with pity for that senile scuffer.
Uncle Peter had first declared that the thought of food sickened him. He prevailed last by Mrs. Bines to taste the soup, he was soon eating as those present had long rarely seen him eat.
"Tain't a natural appetite, though," he warned them. "It's a kind of a mania before I go all to pieces, I s'pose."
"Nonense! We'll have you all right in a week," said Percival. "Just remember that I'm going to take care of you."

"My son can do anything he makes up his mind to," declared Mrs. Bines. "Just say anything he lays out to do."
They talked until late into the night of what he should "lay out" to do. Meantime the stronghold of Mauburn's optimism was being desperately stormed.
In an evening paper he had read of Percival's losses. The afternoon press of New York is not apt to understate the facts of a given case. The account Mauburn read stated that the young western millionaire had beggared his family.
Mauburn had gone to his room to be alone with this bitter news. He had begun to face it when Psyche's note of release came. While he was adjusting this development, another knock came on his door. It was the same maid who had brought Psyche's note. This time she brought what he saw to be a cablegram.
"Excuse me, Mr. Mauburn—now this came early to-day, and you wasn't in your room, so I left it on the table. Mr. Ferguson forgot it till just now."
He tore open the envelope and read: "Male twin born to Lady Casselthorpe. Mother and some doing well."
Mauburn felt the rock foundations of Manhattan island to be crumbling to top. For an hour he sat staring at the message. He did not talk to himself.

Then he hurriedly dressed, took the note and the cablegram, and sought Mrs. Dremmer.
"I'm glad that capable lady governed for the opera," she received his bits of news with the aplomb of a resourceful commander.
"Now, don't go seedy all at once—you've a chance to get out of this."
"Hang it all, Mrs. Dremmer, I've not life isn't worth living."
"But, tut, tut! Death isn't either!"
"But we'd have been so nicely set up in the country, and I'd have had my Blines, the clumsy ass has come this internal cropper, and knocked everything on the head. I say, you know, it's beastly!"
"Hush, and let me think!"
He paced the floor while his matrimonial adviser tapped a white kidded foot on the floor, and appeared to read plans of new battle in a mother-of-pearl paper-knife which she held between the tips of her fingers.
"I have it!—and we'll do it quickly! Mrs. Wybert!"
Mauburn's eyes opened widely.
"The absurd old Peter Bines has spoken to me her three times lately. She's made a lot more money than she had in this same copper deal, and she'd a lot to begin with. I wondered why he spoke so enthusiastically of her, and I don't see now, but—"
"Well!"
"She'll take you, and you'll be as well set up as you were before. Listen. I met her last week at the Critchley's. She spoke of having seen you. I could see she was dead set to make a good marriage. You know she wanted to marry Fred Milburn, but Horace and his mother would not let it after advice became engaged to Rauba nephew. I'm in the Critchley's box tonight and I understand she's to be there. Let me see her. Now it's after nine, so run alone."
(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"A NATURAL CONCLUSION."
College Professor in a Fickle Comes Under Reasonable Consideration.
It is a lamentable fact—but one not wholly devoid of humorous possibility—that spotless rectitude, through some wanton trick of irresponsible chance, is sometimes sold at a bargain under false colors, says the New York Times.
There is an elderly gentleman, professor in a western university, who is a paragon of all virtues, great and small. Every one who comes in contact with him is struck by the rigid abstemiousness he is observed by him. His achievements in his line of work, excellent in themselves, are the more noteworthy for having been accomplished notwithstanding his delicate eyesight. To his intimates it is also well known that the professor, in earlier years, displayed remarkable will power over his own defects of speech, which recurs now only in moments of extreme perturbation.
The excellent professor was returning home at early dawn one day, soon after college opened, from the bedside of a sick friend. As he proceeded hastily across the campus, his thoughts busy with his friend, he stumbled; although he managed to recover himself, his spectacles became smashed and fell.
Quite helpless without these aids to vision, he got down on hands and knees and began to feel carefully in the grass.
While his search went on there approached a young man, a freshman not yet acquainted with all the faculty. To him the disturbed professor appealed for aid.
"Hush, hush," he said, nervously, "will you save the kindness to help me locate my glasses?"
The youth gazed indignantly down at the scandalized spectacle of a red-faced, elderly party violently pawing at the earth.
"It appears to me, my elderly friend," he said, severely, "that you're already located about all the glasses you need!"
Case of Dire Necessity.
Druggist—I can't open my store for you at this time of night unless it is a case of extreme necessity.
De Lash—Well, I see some "extreme" in your attitude. I've been looking at the directory 'an' see where I live—Cleveland, Leader.

PLEDGE MONEY FOR Y. M. C. A.

Associations Subscribe at Illinois Convention for State Work.

Aurora.—The executive committee of the Illinois Y. M. C. A. pledged $4,000 by individual offerings and various associations for carrying on the state work. The largest sum that an association pledged by that at the University of Illinois.
Five were elected to the state executive committee as follows: L. W. Messer, George Webster, H. M. Manchester, Chicago; A. J. Elliot, Peoria, and Prof. Henry M. Curkay, college. Invitations were received from Springfield, Rock Island, Quincy and Decatur for the meeting of the convention next year. The place of the meeting is to be decided by the executive committee.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION ENDS.

New Building Planned for Aurora That Will Cost $75,000.

Aurora.—The thirty-fourth annual state convention of the Y. M. C. A. closed. A large amount of business has been transacted by the 600 delegates representing the different associations in Illinois. The prospects are bright for the erection in Aurora of a new building for the Y. M. C. A. The project was launched at the business men's banquet the other night, at which prominent capitalists of Aurora promised their support. The

NOT ENTITLED TO PROPERTY.

Circuit Court Decides Against Edward Kinneer—Will Appeal.

Decatur.—Edward Kinneer, suing for his share of the estate of his aunt, the late Mrs. M. B. Beman, had an odd experience in the circuit court when he was declared not entitled to the share which had passed to his niece and nephew.
Mrs. Beman was an eccentric character who maintained her old home place of 40 acres until it was surrounded by the city's growth. When she died she left no direct heirs and the property had grown to enormous value.

Kinneer had disappeared years ago, serving in the army and navy. In settling the estate he was declared legally dead, having been absent seven years. Then a Decatur lawyer wrote to him, but he did not establish his claim within the year required by law. When the case was finally decided the court ruled that although Kinneer was declared legally dead, he was alive, yet he was not entitled to his share of the property. The case will be appealed.

SPEAKER CANNON'S BOYHOOD HOME GONE.
Bloomington.—The most interesting landmark in Douglas county has been torn down. This was the boyhood home of Speaker Joseph Cannon. The old house was torn far and near. It was always pointed out to visitors as the residence for so many years of the congressman. Speaker Cannon sold the property 25 years ago to Thomas Gasman and he has demolished the structure to make way for a modern home. The house was out of date and no longer an ornament, but the fact that it was rich in historical associations led to general regret that it was torn down.

MANIAC TAKES LIFE IN ASYLUM

Cuts Throat with Razor in Presence of Two Attendants.

Elgin.—Thomas E. Merrick, of Chicago, an inmate of the Northern Illinois hospital for the insane, rushed past two attendants, snatched up a razor and slashed his jugular vein before they could interfere. He died within a few minutes. Merrick had been committed to the asylum a week ago from Cook county, suffering from suicidal mania. Recently he was discharged from a private sanitarium near Napoleon, Ia.

Was Killed by Stone.

Renault.—Official inquiry into the death of Anton Merlenbach, who died at his home, six miles southeast of here, awaits the return of County Attorney Roy E. Gauen, who has been in Springfield undergoing treatment for a sick friend. As he proceeded hastily across the campus, his thoughts busy with his friend, he stumbled; although he managed to recover himself, his spectacles became smashed and fell.
Quite helpless without these aids to vision, he got down on hands and knees and began to feel carefully in the grass.
While his search went on there approached a young man, a freshman not yet acquainted with all the faculty. To him the disturbed professor appealed for aid.
"Hush, hush," he said, nervously, "will you save the kindness to help me locate my glasses?"
The youth gazed indignantly down at the scandalized spectacle of a red-faced, elderly party violently pawing at the earth.
"It appears to me, my elderly friend," he said, severely, "that you're already located about all the glasses you need!"
Case of Dire Necessity.
Druggist—I can't open my store for you at this time of night unless it is a case of extreme necessity.

Many of our young "nimrods" have figured out that it is cheaper to pay a dollar for a hunting license than to be assessed twenty dollars by some reckless justice of the peace.

To the Voters of the 7th Senatorial District.

It seems to me that an injustice is being done Mr. Lewis Rinkner in his candidacy for County Judge on the Republican ticket.

For sometime his political opponents have circulated the report that he obtained his nomination unfairly and that he is not of an excellent time.

The first claim is wholly false and the second is without merit. The truth is, that Mr. Rinkner submitted his candidacy to the people at the primary election and promised to abide by the result under the law. In that election he carried 21 out of 35 wards of the city of Chicago and 210 primary districts out of 388 in the county, and had enough delegates in the county convention instructed for him to nominate him on the first ballot, which was done. One of his opponents for the nomination, Mr. Alling, received on the popular vote about 540 more votes than Mr. Rinkner, but did not have enough delegates instructed by the popular vote to nominate him.

Mr. Rinkner's delegates came largely from districts in which there were no contests and hence but a light vote was polled by his friends.

Mr. Alling's strength was largely in the Lorimer and Mann congressional districts in which there were spirited contests, which brought out a large vote, resulting in Mr. Alling getting on the total vote of the county only 240 votes more than Mr. Rinkner on a vote aggregating over 60,000.

As delegates are elected by districts under the primary law the majority of the popular vote in the whole county is not the test.

Mr. Rinkner was nominated fairly under the provisions of the law, he broke no promise to get the nomination and both Mr. Rush and Mr. Alling have so stated in writing and from the public platform.

The people should know this, and knowing the facts should not be prejudiced against him in casting their ballots.

His legal learning and experience at the bar amply qualify him for the position he seeks, and his fairness of mind insures honest elections to all political parties, which is vitally important to all true citizens of every party. I believe him the best qualified of all candidates for the office and the safest man for the place, and hope my friends will vote for him. If elected I am sure he will justify their confidence.
