TERRIBLE DISASTER NEAR FAT

ecuers Cannot Enter Shaft and Probably None of the Victims Will Be Taken Out Allys.

Charleston, W. Va.—With a detonation heard for miles around and debris hurled hundreds of feet in the air, dust in the Stuart mine, near Fayetter wille, exploded at 12:55 Tuesday afternoon, bringing a terrible death to 80 or more men who were at work more than 200 feet below the surface.

There probably is no chance that any of the men will be taken out alive for it is thought that the terrific force of the explosion sauffed out their lives instantly. It will not be possible for the rescuers to reach the bottom of the shaft within 48 hours.

sible for the rescuers to reach the bottom of the shart within $4 shours.

State's Worst Disaster.

The disaster is perhaps the worst, in the number of killed, in the history of this state. Most of the men were Americans and many of them were married and had large families. There were a dozen or more colored men and 15 or more aliens.

The rescue work was commenced assoon as the weeked parts of the shaft-house could be repaired. The weeked have the weeked had not been soon as the weeked parts of the shaft-house could be repaired. The weeked had not been soon as the weeked parts of the shaft in an improvised bucket. Before descending 69 feet two of the men were overcome with foul air and the third was barely able to give the signal to his comrades at the top. All further attempts were abandoned for the time.

All was supplied to the mine by several large fans, but the mechanism was damaged and the fans were dife for about two hours. The fans were sixted against the force of the explosion it may be that they will have all resough to survive until the rescuers reach them.

The Stuart mine has but one opening, although an entry has been driven to connect with the parallel mine a short distance away. This work has been about accomplished. The Stuart shaft has three compartments, two for the cages and one for an air shaft. One of the coal cages had been taken out for repairs, leaving the compartment clear, and it was not damaged. It was through this that the three men attempted to descend in the improvised bucket.

Smoke and dust poured into the air for hundreds of feet from the ventilating compartment and it was wrecked. It is stated that nearly all the men were at work in the entries near the bottom of the shaft. The mine had been having a good run and in consequence most of the men were at work.

quies of Dead Senator.

Detroit, Mich.—It was distinctly a soldier's funeral that was held Monday over the body of the late United States Senator Russell Alexander Algeri, who died suddenly last Thursday in Washington. With delegations present from the national congress and the state Jegislature, with the state of Michigan and the city of Detroit fully represented, there was no lack of recognition of the fact that Gen. Alger had been a stateman and senator. But as the title of "eggieral" had never wholly, capitulated fit that of "senator," so the military note was predominant in his obsequies.

The funeral was held at two o'clock at the dead senator's home on Fort street, West. The service, consisting only of prayer, Scripture reading and a benediction, was read by the street of the service of the service

Washington.—Dr. Harrey W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry bureau of the department of agriculture and the government's pure food expert, gave much interesting testimony concerning the deterioration of foodstuffs in cold atorage before the house committee on agriculture.

"Milk begins to deteriorate right away, and so does cream," said Dr. Wiley. "Eggs also begin to deteriorate immediately. Fruit is improved and sometimes continues to improve for three months. Meat improves up to about six or eight weeks, but after three months it begins to go down."

He said oysters opened and shipped in buckets were bad, and condemned gelatin as dirty and likely to contain tetanus germs.
