Mrs. Meyer, of Chicago, formerly Anna Buecher, sister of Nico's Buecher, was buried at Palatine this week.

C. H. Horn, of Chicago, was here Thursday and sold his property on Cemetery street just south of Main to Henry Hebel for $2,000.

It is believed that Anton Broemmelkamp is the oldest man in town, he being 97 years old. His home is on Grove avenue.

Yesterday afternoon a musicale was given by the Thursday club at Mrs. C. F. Hawley's in which only club members took part with solos, piano selections and readings. During the evening gentlemen attended and the time was passed in playing chess. Mrs. E. Alverson and E. Prouty won the prizes.

Mrs. Emily Hawley visited Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith in Austin Friday.

Mrs. Geo. Carmichael entertained on Wednesday her brother Frank Southwick and bride of Iowa.

Kalamazoo is the cleanest and best finish for walls. Sold in 4 pound packages at Lacey & Co's.

Miss Amy Olcott entertained Miss Ida Leason of Chicago this week at her home on Grove avenue.

Ray Fabelitz continues to be very poorly and unable to move about the house.

Prof. Harris reports that there is a prospect of vocal music instruction being added to our school courses. This would be a good movement as all standard schools of the times have a vocal teacher.

Lloyd Robertson of Carlisle, Ark., arrived home Sunday night for a short visit at the old home on Lake street.

Prof. C. S. Horn of Chicago will here Tuesday at the Girls' Band meeting in the afternoon and the Boys' in evening, for the first time since before Christmas. Both the Professor and Mrs. Horn have been ill and they leave Sunday for a Southern trip.

The Primary room enjoyed visit from the three of the parents last week, the Mesdames Brockway, Kline and Boyer.

A full "dinner-pull" of Miss Alma Stiefenhofer sold for nearly five dollars. A program of songs and readings with a talk by Prof. Fulton was given.

FOR SALE—Fine young laying chickens. THOMAS MARCHEN, Randall's Lake, Ill.

Home-made Cooking.

Do not forget the sale of home-made cooking under the auspices of the Aid Society which will be held in the Methodist church parlors, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 9th from one to five o'clock. This makes a fine opportunity for the ladies to have a rest from doing their own cooking, and also to try some good cooking of other ladies. It would be wise to plan not to do your usual baking and cooking Saturday, Feb. 9th but go to the sale of home-made things.

There will be white and brown bread, biscuits, pick and beans, pies, cakes, etc. All these will be made fresh Saturday morning.

There will also be for sale, kitchen and fancy aprons, sweeping caps and a new "taking" kind of sunbonnet and comforters. Come to see and buy.

Will Observe Lincoln's Birthday.

General Sweeney Post, No. 275 G. A. R. will observe Lincoln's birthday, Tuesday evening, Feb. 12, in their hall. The members of the G. A. R. of the W. R. C., the Y. M. C. A. and all friends for whom there is room are invited to attend. Superintendent Fulton will give an address on Lincoln and there will be readings and music.

Notice.

Barrington, Ill., Jan. 28 1907.

I, Aug. Haak, have made a mistake. I had a little talk with Mr. Hebel and I told him if he found the hog in the pen to ship it which he did. But I had also sold it to Wm. Peters and accepted a check from him. Therefore do not accuse Mr. Hebel or anyone else of stealing this hog.

Aug. Haak

Getting a Bill Before Parliament.

In congress, in the house or senate, any member can introduce a bill without formality. In the house a member merely drops the bill in the box, and it then automatically goes to the appropriate committee; in the senate the bill can be presented at any time in open session. In the house of commons, explains A. Maurice Law, in Appleton's, the procedure is more elaborate. No bill can be introduced, not even by the government, unless the house has by motion given its permission or a member has given notice of his intention to bring in a bill, but the introduction of a bill may, and sometimes is, opposed. No "money bill" (that is, a bill imposing a charge upon the public revenues or on the people, or making any appropriation of money), can be introduced unless it has been authorized by a committee of the whole house, and then only by a minister. The scope, therefore, permitted the private members in the introduction of bills is very limited, and the opportunity afforded him to enact his bill into law is even more circumscribed. In fact, it is only by the very best chance that a private member's bill becomes a law.

Beauty or Brains?

Four literary women, not one of whom was remarkable for beauty of face or symmetry of form, were interviewed on a subject of vital importance, says the New York Weekly. Each woman, in her own particular line, had achieved reputation, and could afford to answer truthfully the question put to her. The question was this: "Which would you rather be—clever or beautiful?" No. 1 said: "Beautiful—because by the mere lifting of the eyes a beautiful woman can order all the world to her feet. No. 2 said: "Beautiful—because beauty's mantle is larger than charity's. It covers social gaucheries, ignorance, and any amount of stupidity." No. 3 said: "Beautiful—because fame, fortune, education, lovely gifts, social prominence, all come to the woman who is fair of face. No. 4 said: "Beautiful—for beauty is gold to a woman. A clever woman's fame may not come to her until she is dead, but beauty gets a tribute now; even heads that have won the laurel of fame turn away from the clever woman to do reverence to one who is beautiful."

Ireland's Trade.

Ireland is a very good buyer, thanks to the comparative prosperity of the country at the present time. The imports in 1901 were $268,378,733 and the exports $226,810,195. The figures suggest that Ireland is a creditor country, having income from investments abroad—income paid in commodities imported. No doubt part of the excess of imports over exports, says the Baltimore Sun, is due to the habit of her patriotic sons abroad of sending their earnings back to the old country. Last year Ireland exported $15,000,000 worth of butter. Her total exports of live stock, meat and fish were worth $114,000,000; whisky, etc. $28,500,000; crops, fruit, flour, etc. $4,375,000. Her exports of manufactures were worth $43,244,000, but her imports of such goods were worth $52,000,000.

An Illinois farmer who wanted his daughter to marry a "railroad" discovered that her sense of domestic happiness was better developed. She preferred a short-order cook.

A California trade journal calls attention to the demand for crocodile skins in America, and from time to time has urged the natives to engage extensively in the business of killing this creature for his skin, guaranteeing that they will be able to sell to American buyers at remunerative prices all the skin they can take.

There are thousands of crocodile in the lagoons and tidewater streams of India, easily accessible, and there are Indians in plenty to hunt them and take their skins. Consequently there is no reason why a big trade in crocodile skins should not be built up between the United States and India.

And now they are complaining of a lack of transportation facilities in Brazil, where they find it difficult to get their crops to market. Bountiful harvests are hardly a blessing if they cannot be used profitably. Perhaps when the airplane comes the troubles of farmers may be somewhat lessened, though the "pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with silken bales," are yet far distant.

The Worship of Diamonds. A McGill professor, lecturing on the diamond the other night, demonstrated dramatically the well-known fact that a diamond is merely crystallized carbon, by burning a couple of small stones in an electric arc. Flakes of graphite fell from the sides, and the whole became a mass of coke. Yet what has not been bought and sold for diamonds? It requires an expert to tell the difference between some of the imitations and the real stones.

Paste diamonds are worn to great assemblies by great ladies while their genuine jewels repose safely in the vaults at home. Still, says the Montreal Herald, this does not induce other ladies, who cannot afford the genuine, to be quite as content with the paste. If some one were to discover a "mine" of diamonds and flood the world with them—if a scientist should learn how to make them—if, it is said, the present diamond miners were to put on the market all they could—the value would go down. In the two former cases it would weigh high disappear. Yet to-day people will coin the toll of many men for long years into diamonds and wear them as symbols of wealth. This is a curious world in some ways. Yet, perhaps, not so curious. We generally want chiefly to have what other people cannot have.
