

THEIR THIRTEENTH BANQUET

The Woman's Thursday Club
Gave Their Annual Banquet
Thursday Evening.

A social event of importance is the annual banquet of the Woman's Thursday club of thirty members and this year the home of Miss Eva Castle was opened for the affair on Thursday evening. This is the thirteenth banquet which the ladies and their husbands have attended with few changes in personnel for such a length of time. Mrs. William Horwarth, the president, is very ill and Mrs. Sanford Peck, the vice-president, assumed the duties of addressing the guests in welcoming remarks. Mrs. Clara Sears with several original and pointed interludes made a pleasing "toast-master". Those responding to her lead and their subjects were: "Club Reminiscences," Mrs. H. K. Brockway; "The Thursday Club from the Standpoint of a Husband," Sanford Peck; "The Thursday Club from the Standpoint of a Bachelor," Howard Castle; and an original poem by Miss Castle.

The tables were most beautifully dressed with fine silver, china, linen and daffodils and tulips of the club colors, yellow and white. The menu follows:

Celery Soup	Olives
Salted Waters	Pickles
Celery
Port Tenderloin	French Peas
Mashed Potatoes	Rolls
Fruit Salad
Ice-cream	Cakes
Coffee	Patties

After the dinner progressive chess was played and Mrs. A. L. Robertson and Frank Hawley won the prizes.

Daughters Day.

The Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. D. H. Richardson Thursday for an afternoon of amusement. The meeting was designated as "Daughters Day" and eleven young ladies, daughters real or borrowed for the occasion, assisted in making the afternoon pleasant. Chorus singing and piano selections by Miss Alta Powers, preceded two games which the daughters had planned with Miss Elmore Arps. Mrs. Sarah Benton received a prize for most deftly raising an apple on a teaspoon with one hand, carrying it across the room and depositing it in one of a row of stockings hanging in a line. The good old game of pinning the tails on a donkey was laughable and the prize given to Mrs. Mary Elskige. Mrs. Richardson entertained the ladies with a delightful luncheon.

Gesschnel Leaves Town.

The case of Arnold Gesschnel vs. William Libbie and wife which was to have been tried Tuesday before a local justice was declared off because of the flight from town of said Gesschnel. He was a man who came here to work for Dr. Weichelt but was not employed and during the short space of a week worked for Hyon Hawley, one of the Meier families and a Kampert family, then going to William Libbie's near the Kelsey school where he refused to do as he was told one morning, when ordered to help shred at the Wendt farm. Mrs. Libbie went out to his home grumbling and cursing to Mrs. Libbie who refused to talk to him and when she opened a door to call him Libbie the fellow clutched her by the throat and shook her while she held a young baby in her arms. Mrs. Libbie rushed in, freed his wife and lashed with Gesschnel until dishes on the kitchen table were broken and also the dining room table. Gesschnel seized a stick of wood from the wood-box and raised it to hit Mrs. Libbie, whereupon Mr. Libbie possessed himself of the stick and hit Gesschnel on the head a blow that prostrated him. He came to Barrington to have his cuts dressed and remained at the Baumgarten House for six days, planning to bring suit for assault. He attracted attention down town by his threats. However when asked for hoary money he disappeared from town. Mrs. Libbie has suffered since the occurrence, March 26th, from the nervous shock given her.

Careless placing of hot ashes near a large woodpile resulted in a blaze Tuesday morning on the premises of Mrs. Carrie Kendall, Hough street. No damage was done, but nevertheless there was danger of a larger fire.

Caucus Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the voters of Barrington township that there will be a caucus held Friday, March 15th, at 2 o'clock p. m. in the village hall, Barrington, for the purpose of nominating township officers.

Zimmerman-Smith Nuptials.

Miss Winifred Smith was married Sunday at half past six in the evening to Otto Zimmerman. Miss Smith has been living at the Zimmerman home since the death of her mother last July at Langenheim, and the marriage took place at the home, corner of Cook and Russell streets. Former invitations had been issued to friends and most of them attended. Rev. Stanger of St. Paul's church performed the ceremony in the parlor where a canopy of festooned amylas and tissue paper bells had been arranged for the bridal group in which the bride and groom were attended by Misses Louise Zimmerman and Clara Miller with Robert Berger of Chicago and Elroy Thorpe of Barrington. A supper followed the ceremony which was served at a table lavishly trimmed with flowers and ferns and decorated by Mr. Zimmerman's sisters from the city and an aunt of Miss Smith. The couple were plentifully bespoken with rice on their way to their supper seats. The bride wore a tailored gown of Alice blue. Mr. Zimmerman is well known in the business world being a mason and contractor who lived at Langenheim until last fall. The guests from out of town were Messrs and Mesdames Charles Zimmerman, Robert Zimmerman, Robert Berger, Robert Sheppard, and Mrs. M. Ried, Miss Clara Miller, Fred Zimmerman and Charles Miller all of Chicago. Mesdames E. W. Riley and Kram of Langenheim with the Misses Lizzie and Nellie Riley, Annabelle Welch and Florence McGraw.

How Much Could You Get For Your Farm?

You are a farmer. You live near this town. You own land. Let us say that you own more than you need and would like to sell a hundred acres.

How much could you get per acre? Land values have risen lately. But has the value of your land risen as you think it should?

Your land is good here. You think it is worth considerably more than anybody has offered you. Well, let us see.

A man buying farm land naturally prefers to locate near a thriving, up-to-date town. He wants good home markets for his crops. He wants good schools.

Let us say your land is three miles from town. A farm that looks very much like yours is three miles from a town twice as big and twice as prosperous as this town.

If you were going to buy a farm for your own occupancy, wouldn't you pay a whole lot more for land near the town that is twice as large and twice as lively?

Of course you would. It would be good business. Now, what makes a town big and bustling? Money. Money in circulation. Not in circulation in Chicago, for instance, but right in the town that wants to grow.

How much money have you sent to the big Mail Order houses in the city the past ten years? How much have your neighbors sent? How much have all of you together put out of circulation here at home?

It is probable beyond calculation. If all that money had been spent in your own home town, isn't it reasonable to assume that the town would have grown more than it has grown?

Wouldn't this town be a bigger and better town?

Wouldn't it have more stores to buy your product?

Wouldn't it have more public improvements to make it more attractive to outsiders who might come here to live, to go into business, or buy your surplus land at a good figure?

TO TRADE AT HOME MEANS TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD TO HELP THE TOWN AND THE NEIGHBORHOOD MEANS TO HELP YOURSELF.

Will be Good.

Entertainment to be Given at the Baptist Church Next Monday Night.

A rare treat is in store for Barrington people next Monday night, March 11th, at the Baptist church when an entertainment will be given in the hall of which has never been seen in Barrington. Good-bye Hired Man.

If appropriate words and music were set to this title, and milking machines prove to be the success that is now claimed for them, every "cow slave" would quickly acquire the song and sing it lustily. The department of agriculture has had men trying these machines out for nearly a year, and have just issued an exhaustive report, replete with detailed information that will interest every practical dairyman.

The conclusions drawn are that, as compared with hand milking, the milk is more cleanly, that it is a time-saver, and less likely to injure the animals. In some of the tests the animals increased their flow by the use of the machine, and decreased again when hand milking was resorted to.

In conversation with a local farmer, handling a leading machine, it was stated that about 20 had been installed in Chicago territory, and that they had placed some 200 in use in the north-west.

It really appears that milking by machinery has passed the experimental stage, and may now be regarded as a practical success.

Two outfits have been in daily service in the Elgin locality for a year and have given satisfaction. The only drawback seems to be in the fabulous price asked as compared with the machine's actual cost. But one must forget that if he can figure out where it will save and make money for him as well as emancipate him from the clutches of that arch fiend—"The Hired Man"—who has so often taken his departure, leaving you to toil thirty cows alone, milk drawn by machinery should, and we believe will, command a higher price than the "hired man" sort.—"The Milk News."

Taxes! Taxes!

Blustering March.

Elmer Duers of Chicago spent Sunday with relatives and friends here.

Elmer Monahan of Chicago visited in our village and vicinity the first of the week.

Frank Thomas of Rockefeller was here Tuesday.

F. L. Carr transacted business in the city Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Biesley and daughter are moving into the H. Main residence on Maple avenue.

Riley Hill of Waukegan called on friends here this week.

Mrs. G. M. Jepson, who passed through a surgical operation recently, is steadily gaining.

M. E. Mainman was the guest of Waukegan relatives Sunday.

Miss Mary Martin is spending the week with Chicago relatives.

Miss Lucy Sorles has returned from Waukegan where she has been employed during the past month.

The three children of Mr. and Mrs. John Gosel are progressing nicely, and the scarlet fever scare is a thing of the past.

Miss Estella Grace of Waukegan spent Saturday and Sunday at her home here.

M. S. Ford and mother, Mrs. S. Ford, left Tuesday for an extended trip through the southern states.

Miss Orville Brown is the guest of Irving Park relatives at present writing.

Mizpah Lodge, No. 142, Mystic Workers of the World, will vote on the last part of the series and their next meeting. Get into the band wagon.

B. C. Harris has moved his barber shop to the building formerly occupied by Joseph Haas, and will be glad to meet all patrons in his new location.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dalous entertained the Elmer club Tuesday evening at the last party of the series and the season was closed in a manner long to be remembered.

M. S. Clark was very pleasantly and completely surprised by about forty of his friends, Monday evening, who gathered to assist him in celebrating his thirty-sixth birthday anniversary. Progressive Euchre reigned king until refreshments were announced, then all else was forgotten to attend to as tempting an outlay as could be imagined. The guests lingered until about 1 A. M., when all departed wishing their host many happy returns of the day.

Some days we have spent exploring "the forest primeval" where the pines and the palm trees predominate, and where, especially in the Bay Heals we found the ideal jungles.

We expect to visit Tampa, near which DeSoto landed on the Florida shores in 1492.

We also expect to visit St. Augustine, the oldest town in North America on our way home.

Dancing School Next Winter.

If all plans mature, there will be a dancing school in Barrington next winter. Fred Stott expects when the cold waves of his hall is closed in October to manage a dancing school and other dancing affairs.

Teacher from the city will be secured and Chicago music. The hall will be enlarged by the removal of partitions put in a few years ago and will also be newly decorated. Mr. Stott intends to promote a school of high standard where lessons in behavior, politeness and social observances will be taught as well as dancing steps. This school will fill a need in Barrington which has been much discussed. No better place is provided for the training of a child in manners than a good dancing school where good amusement is provided and social friendships, and where no rough ways are allowed. The mingling of young people in the dance where all are acquaintances is not a social evil, but rather a prevention of such, as it gives them a meeting place among friends where all is proper. The large public dances of the city are wicked lures to sin, but when dancing among friends, any young person, indulging in wrong, is of a character who would go wrong anyway.

Barrington, has never had a "Rumage Sale," a "Woman's Exchange," a church card-party or dance, or a course of University Extension lectures. But O—many and varied are the schemes by which our churches raise money.

LETTER FROM REV. LAPHAM

Rev. Lapham Writes the Review

An Interesting Letter From

the "Sunny South."

To the Barrington Review:

I thought it might be of interest to some of the readers of the "Barrington Review" to see a few lines from the "Land of Flowers."

We left Barrington the day after a beautiful snowstorm, and arrived in Florida and found the flowers in bloom, oranges on the trees and the boys barfooted. The weather here is very much like we have in Barrington in June.

We spent one day in Jacksonville and found it a very interesting city. It is on the St. John river about twenty miles from St. Augustine. Many fine buildings are in Jacksonville, which we enjoyed seeing, but we enjoyed most the drive along the St. John river with here and there a jungle scene which made us realize that we were indeed in Florida. The live oak trees and the fine trees are often covered with the Spanish or Florida moss which hang down sometimes for a yard from the branches and swing gently in the breeze. This adds much to the tropical appearance of the jungle.

Our friends have a bungalow facing on the Tampa Bay in the city of St. Petersburg, which is our headquarters where we drive, and sail and tour about the country at our pleasure, and Natori, their Japanese cook, has fine dinners ready for us on our return—sometimes fresh fish, new potatoes, strawberries, etc.

Last week we took a steamer and went down the Gulf of Mexico to the Manatee river. Another day we took the electric car here and crossed the peninsula to Veteran City where "the blue and the gray" are to have a soldiers' home together. By the way, on Washington's birthday they had a parade here in St. Petersburg where the old soldiers of the Rebellion "the blue and the gray" marched side by side. It brought tears to my eyes as we looked at them and thought of the years gone by. It was indeed a beautiful sight to see them march side by side. To go back to Veteran City—we there took a strange little vessel with seats on top of the small cabin to which we climbed and were soon crossing the silver waters of Pasco-Grill, which is the Bay between two islands to the Gulf of Mexico. We crossed one of these Florida Keys and gathered up some on the Gulf of Mexico, and also bathed in its waters on February twenty-first, after which we had one of the famous crab dinners at the "Hotel Bona home."

Some days we have spent exploring "the forest primeval" where the pines and the palm trees predominate, and where, especially in the Bay Heals we found the ideal jungles.

We expect to visit Tampa, near which DeSoto landed on the Florida shores in 1492.

We also expect to visit St. Augustine, the oldest town in North America on our way home.

Cupid and the Committee.

By CARROLL GORDON.

Copyright, 1917, by P. C. Goodrich.

"Do you draw up resolutions and things?" asked Kate Masters eagerly. "No," sneered Mattie. "You send a committee to the house and tell him we won't work any more." "I'd rather write," declared Grace Kelsey. "I'd be wiser to do that than to go there and talk to him." "Writing isn't half so good," declared Mattie. "You just tell him what the matter is and that will go on strike if Bromley isn't discharged and that's all there is to it."

"All," repeated Kate. "I should think it would be enough. The house coming right in to Mr. Temple and telling him that we're not going to work any more unless Bromley is sacked. I'd be wiser I couldn't speak."

"I'm not afraid," said Mattie defiantly. "I vote that we make Mattie Lester a committee all by herself," suggested Grace, and the motion was unanimously carried without the formality of a second.

"No, you don't," cried Mattie. "I'll do the talking, but we want a lot of girls for the committee. It has a good effect."

In the end a committee of five was appointed, and it was agreed that the next day would be the proper time for making the demand. Mattie lay awake all night thinking what she should say, and her argument was continued in her dreams.

The room was all excitement the next morning, and as the noon hour approached the excitement grew more intense. Every girl in the room left her lunch untouched to accompany the committee on its errand of protest and left their only at the beginning of the short hall at the end of which was Edward Temple's office.

The departure of the cohort seemed to have a bad effect on the others, for as Mattie rapped on the door and a deep voice responded, the other four girls right about faced as by common impulse and fled down the passageway.

For a moment Mattie watched them disappear. Then with a firm hand she turned the knob and entered the room. In place of the gray haired man she expected to find the room was vacant.

"I beg your pardon," she stammered, "I thought that this was Mr. Temple's room."

"No it is," he responded bravely, "and this is Mr. Temple. Only it happens that my father did not come down this morning. Anything I can do for you?"

"I don't know that you'll do," she said dubiously. "You see, I'm a strike—I mean a strike committee," she corrected.

"A single committee is rather unusual," he smiled. "Do I understand that you represent the factory?"

"The finishing room," she explained. "There were five of us, but the rest ran away."

"I see," he said gravely, though his eyes twinkled. "And may I ask the nature of the demands to be made?"

"It's that horrid Jim Bromley," she exclaimed. "We don't want more money or anything, but we want a new foreman. He's just as mean as can be. He wouldn't have been Bradley's machine fixed the other day, and when it broke down and hurt her hand he doctored her for the time she was away. He's always finding us for every little thing, and he's that mean."

"Mattie's pause spoke volumes, and her eyes added to the story. Temple grinned.

"I shall have to look into this," he said. "Take a chair, please." He left her to herself, but presently he came back with another young man as clean cut as himself.

"Mr. Everett will look into the matter," said Mattie. "I just tell him about the men Mr. Bromley."

"Now you're laughing at me," said Mattie indignantly.

"The fact is," she denied, "Grievance committees should be efficient and efficient."

"I don't know," she denied, "Grievance committees should be efficient and efficient."

Instead of taking the woman for contempt of court, he advised the lemon she offered him with a pleasant smile, remarking that good lemons cost a good deal of money nowadays.

JEROME DEFIES THE COURT

PROSECUTOR REFUSES TO SUBMIT AUTHORITIES.

Clash Enlivens an Otherwise Dull Session—Dr. Wagner Still on the Stand.

New York.—What promised to be a very dull session of the Thaw trial Tuesday was made notable in the court annals of New York city by District Attorney Jerome placing himself in the position of openly defying the presiding judge. The district attorney declined point-blank to submit certain authorities to Justice Fitzgerald on the ground that the question of law involved was so elemental and the authorities so abundant that he must assume the court to have knowledge of them.

"I have such a high respect for the courts of this jurisdiction," retorted Mr. Jerome, "that I will not submit authorities on a question of law which is so elemental in character and upon which the authorities are so abundant that I must presume the learned court knows of them."

With flushed face and a sharp rap of his gavel Justice Fitzgerald said if the district attorney did not submit the authorities the court would assume that he did not know of any. Mr. Jerome did not submit the authorities and Justice Fitzgerald ruled in favor of the defense on the point at issue, which, briefly stated, was the question as to whether the state on cross-examination should be allowed to go further with an expert witness than counsel for the defense was allowed to go upon direct examination.

During the course of his argument the district attorney placed himself on record by saying that the legal assumption before the court now is that Harry K. Thaw is insane. He declared the alibi for the defense have presented by the defense is in the absence of proof to the contrary, the assumption is that he remains insane. Justice Fitzgerald declared that the present jury only has to do with the question of Thaw's sanity or insanity on the night that he shot and killed Stanford White.

Dr. Wagner was on the stand the entire day and when adjournment was announced the district attorney seemed to have much ground yet to cover with the expert.

BANDITS HOLD UP A TRAIN.
Kill Negro Miner and Rob Passengers of Small Amount.

Pittsburg, Kan.—A Missouri Pacific passenger train, which left here at 7:20 Monday evening, was held up by two men in disguise, and Lou Jeff, a colored miner employed at Camp 31 of the Central Coal & Coke company, was killed because he resisted and W. L. Westlake of Toledo, O., who with his wife and two children had been visiting relatives in Kansas, was shot through the hand by a stray shot that had been fired at the negro.

There were few passengers on the train, and the robbers secured only a little over $100 in cash and a few watches and revolvers.

NEAR A LYNCHING IN OHIO.

Marietta Crowd Menaces Men Arrested for Drugging Little Girls.

Marietta, O.—A lynching seemed imminent early Sunday evening when a large crowd of people surrounded the city jail where Walter W. Savage, of Syracuse, N. Y., and his accomplice, Andy Courthers, were imprisoned.

Savage is an advertising sketch artist and has been here about a week occupying a window in the Dime Savings society building. He has made a specialty of getting young girls to allow him to take their pictures. About one o'clock Sunday afternoon he had six young girls between the ages of 12 and 14 years of age in his room, gave them whiskey, wine and beer and administered some kind of drug. At six o'clock Sunday evening the police discovered that something was wrong and upon investigating found all six of the girls unconscious lying on the floor. The girls and the two men, Courthers having been found in the room, were taken to the city jail. Physicians were summoned and an examination of the girls and administered emetics and about seven o'clock they had partly regained consciousness. The girls claim that the men forced them to drink.

The sheriff got his deputies assisted by the police are guarding the two prisoners and it seems that a lynching will be averted, although the feeling of the populace is very intense.

REDS MADE DEMONSTRATION.

Police Scatter Mob in St. Petersburg—Several Persons Hurt.

St. Petersburg.—The opening of the dome, or lower house of the Russian parliament, Tuesday, although in itself devoid of incident, was made the occasion of a great revolutionary demonstration by the St. Petersburg proletariat and the students of the city which resulted in several encounters between the police and the populace and more or less serious injury to a number of the latter.

The situation was such that the authorities finally were forced to fill the streets with military patrols, as in the ominous days of the Trepoff regime.

After the adjournment of the session of the house a tumultuous crowd, of which the police estimated to number close to 40,000 persons, with red banners flying and accompanied by the music of revolutionary chants, started, like the followers of Father Gapon on January 22, 1905, toward the central quarter of the city where the winter palace of the emperor is located. Few elements of the prelude of "Red Sunday" were lacking, and the command "fire" would have precipitated similar massacre. But the present prefect of St. Petersburg, Gen. Dracheff, followed another course and dispersed the procession by charges of mounted gendarmes armed with whips, and by an imposing display of force he prevented the demonstrators from reforming.

Spurn City Ownership.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—The city council has turned down the municipal ownership proposition for the city water works plant and voted to grant a new franchise to the water company, whose franchise expired several months ago. The action was taken after a motion picture, signed by almost every business man in the city, had been presented to the council, asking that the municipal proposition be killed. The expense and mismanagement of municipal plants in general were given as reasons for turning down the municipal ownership idea.

CONGRESS IS ENDED

"LAST DAY ENTHUSIASM" IS CHECKED BY FATIGUE.

PRESIDENT IN AT FINISH

Signs Bills and Says Farewell—Minority Thanks Presiding Officers—Silver Service Presented to Governor.

Washington.—With a new record for large appropriations and far-reaching legislation, the fifty-ninth congress was brought to a close shortly after the noon hour. The last few hours were calm, in fact, by comparison with what had been expected. Long before noon Senator Gallinger's fight for the passage of the ship subsidy bill had been abandoned and the filibuster against it conducted by Senator Carmack being no longer necessary, he surrendered the floor, much to the disappointment of the galleries. Extreme fatigue, due to continued night sessions in the house during the last week, had a dampening effect upon many congressmen and the usual excessive "last day enthusiasm" had been abandoned and less than half the membership.

Despite these conditions the audiences in both houses were as large as they ever have been. Thousands thronged the corridors under the dome to secure admission to either branch. President busy signing bills. One of the interesting features incident to the adjournment of the congress was the visit of President Roosevelt with his cabinet, White House staff and a number of guests, occupied the president's room in the senate wing. Seated at a big table in the center of the room, he signed bills as they were enrolled and presented to him. Retiring senators were received and with-out exception the president expressed regret that the lawmakers were to leave the service of the country.

Vice President Fairbanks and Speaker Cannon received the thanks of the minority for the impartial manner in which they had presided over the deliberations of the two houses, and both of these officers made speeches expressing gratitude at the words of appreciation.

At the close of the house session was the presentation of a club silver service of 300 pieces to Gen. Grosvener by his colleagues of the fifty-ninth congress.

At the close of the proceedings the visitors unreservedly applauded with cheers and handclapping and then followed the exchange of farewells by the members.

Notwithstanding that the president was "turned down" on several of his pet measures, he is still of the opinion that it was the most important session of the congress. He was trying to hold. He secured the passage of the railroad rate bill, the pure food bill, the railroad hours of service bill, the meat inspection bill, the law creating the new state of Oklahoma, and many other measures of value to the country.

In the senate there were offered $6,000 bills, and in the house 26,000. Of these 415 became laws in the first session, and 310 in the second session. This is the largest number of laws the first session passed 3,573 private measures and the recent session 3,415 private measures.

Nearly $1,000,000,000 Appropriated. This was a record-breaking body. Appropriations totaled $1,849,000,000, of which $380,000,000 was distributed at the first session and $969,285,000 at the short term. The appropriations for the session ended Monday were distributed as follows:

Agriculture	$1,325,000
Army	7,525,000
Commerce	2,000,000
District of Columbia	10,725,000
Fortifications	1,240,000
Interior	1,534,000
Legislative, executive and judicial	2,048,000
Military	1,947,000
Navy	90,000,000
Postoffice	16,000,000
Postoffice	210,000,000
Rivers and harbors	1,313,000
Unclassified	12,000,000
Deficiencies	11,900,000
Lighthouses	2,800,000
Miscellaneous	5,000,000
Permanent appropriations	14,000,000

Scouts Idea of Deficit.

Representative Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on appropriations, announced that instead of facing a deficit in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year of 1908, he estimated that there would be a surplus of $200,000,000 at that time. The total appropriations made at the present session of congress, he said, aggregate approximately $19,945,679.62.

Senator Allison, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, made a statement to the senate along the line of Mr. Tawney's presentation. His estimate of the aggregate appropriation agreed with that of Mr. Tawney.

SENATOR SPOONER RESIGNS

WISCONSIN STATESMAN TO DOFF TOGA MAY 1 NEXT.

Writes Letter to Governor Saying He Cannot Afford Longer to Serve the Public.

Washington.—Senator Spooner has written a letter to Gov. Davidson of Wisconsin tendering his resignation as a senator of the United States to take effect May 1 next.

The letter was dated Saturday, but the fact that such a letter had been written or that Mr. Spooner contemplated resigning did not become known in the senate until late Sunday, when it created great surprise and excitement. Spooner had long been himself the subject of many anxious inquiries. To all he replied that his mind was fully made up. He had found, he said, that to continue in his present position would require a sacrifice on his part that he could not justify himself in making.

In reply to questions he said he would resume the practice of the law, but declined to say whether he would be located in Wisconsin. He did say, however, that he would continue to be a citizen of that state as long as he lived.

Milwaukee.—The announcement from Washington that United States Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin had sent his resignation to Gov. Davidson came as a surprise throughout Wisconsin.

Gov. Davidson, when communicated with over the long distance telephone Sunday afternoon, said he had not yet received the resignation and could hardly believe it to be true. As to Senator Spooner's successor, Gov. Davidson said that it would be left to the present legislature to elect a successor to fill the unexpired term. Gov. Davidson would not talk for publication at this time as to Senator Spooner's successor further than to say he presumed that some of the Wisconsin congressmen, naming Cooper and Isch, who were candidates for the senatorship at the time Senator La Follette was elected to succeed Senator Quarles, would again enter the field.

STUDENT "RAFFLES" ARRESTED.

Son of Indiana Lawyer Admits Theft at Chicago.

Chicago.—Richard O. Hoops, 22 years old, a student at the Lake Forest university, son of Ira C. Hoops, a prominent lawyer of Kokomo, Ind., has been arrested by detectives of the central station and the police declared he had confessed to Capt. O'Brien of the detective bureau that he robbed the home of Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, millionaire and prominent resident of Lake Forest, three weeks ago, and obtained property worth $5,000. Mr. Taylor is said to be traveling in Europe. The new "raffles" was arrested at State and Van Buren streets Monday night, when he was found trying to dispose of jewelry in pawn shop.

Following the arrest of Hoops, Detectives Mullen and Burns of the central station searched his room in a fraternity house at Lake Forest university, and found a trunk filled with property which he is said to have obtained in the burglary at the home of Mr. Chatfield-Taylor. The property recovered in the burglary consisted of diamond rings, silver plate, gold plate and valuable curios, a collection of years by Mr. Chatfield-Taylor. Hoops admitted that he had been pointing as a student in the daytime and committing robberies in the night. He said he lived in the fraternity hall with 12 other students of the Lake Forest college, but declared that none of his companions knew of his acts.

RAILWAY OFFICERS HELD.

President and Directors of New York Central Under Parole.

New York.—The jury in the coroner's inquest into the New York Central wreck in the Bronx on February 16, when 23 persons were killed, brought in a verdict Monday night holding the operating and construction departments of the road responsible. The coroner endeavored to get a recommendation as to individuals, but did not succeed. He then declared he would hold the entire board of directors and the president of the Central, and parole them until ten o'clock Tuesday morning.

DAVIS JURY IS COMPLETE.

Twelve Men Selected to Try Chicago Theater Manager.

Danville, Ill.—The jury is now complete for the trial of Will J. Davis on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the inquest into the fire at the Danville hotel, having been accepted by both sides at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The jury contains seven farmers, three blacksmiths, one miner, one merchant, one real estate agent and one insurance solicitor. The introduction of evidence will be commenced Wednesday.

New Pineapple Should Be Taken.

The reputation of the pineapple has suffered because it has been eaten in too large quantities at a time and the fibrous part has been swallowed with the juice. To obtain the full digestive value of the juice one quart of pineapple half an inch thick is ample at one meal. It must not be cooked and should be just ripe. The preserved fruit has practically no digestive possibility.

According to statistics nine-tenths of the men who commit suicide are married. Comment is unnecessary.

When our grand parents were sick, it was their custom to go into the woods, gather the roots, flowers or buds of some well known plants, bring them home and from them prepare a tea or bitters.

The timely use of these Roots and Herbs would assist nature to cure disease and restore strength and vitality to the whole system.

Mr. Zaegel, a chemist at Sheboygan, Wis., prepares an extract made of roots and herbs that has been found an excellent remedy for Rheumatism, Constipation, Backache and Piles. If any of our readers will write him he will send by mail and absolutely free a sample of this extract.

If you will mention the nature of your complaint, he will also send you the names of these roots and herbs, showing which is best indicated in your case.

All that is necessary is to write to Mr. Zaegel, 1000 North Broadway, Sheboygan, Wis., and he will mail you a trial bottle free.

So many are taking advantage of this offer that Mr. Zaegel does not know how long he can continue to give away free samples.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COAST" and "THE BARRAGE"

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

"They're mamma's friends," Anita was answering. "Oldish and tiresome. When you leave I shall go straight on up to bed."

"I'd like to—to see your room—where you live," said I, more to myself than to her.

"I sleep in a bare little box," she replied with a laugh. "It's like a cell. A friend of ours who has the anti-germ fad insisted on it. But my sitting-room isn't so bad."

"Langdon has the anti-germ fad," said I.

She answered "Yes," after a pause, and in such a strained voice that I looked at her. A flush was just dying out of her face. "He was the friend I spoke of," she went on.

"You know him very well?" I asked. "We've known him—always," said she. "I think he's one of my earliest recollections. His father's summer place and ours adjoin. And once—I guess it's the first time I remember seeing him—he was a freshman at Harvard, and he came along on a horse past the pony cart in which a groom was driving me. And I—I was very little then—I begged him to take me up, and he did. I thought he was the greatest, most wonderful man that ever lived." She laughed queerly. "When I say my prayers, I used to imagine a god that looked like him to say them to."

I echoed her laugh heartily. The idea of Mowbray Langdon as a god struck me as peculiarly funny, though natural enough, too.

"Absurd, wasn't it?" said she. But her face was grave, and she let her cigarette die out.

"I guess you know him better than that now?"

"Yes—better," she answered, slowly and absently. "He's—anything but a god."

"And the more fascinating on that account," said I. "I wonder why women like best the really bad, dangerous sort of man, who hasn't any respect for them, or for anything."

I said this that she might protest, at least for herself. But her answer was a vague, musing, "I wonder—I wonder."

"I'm sure you wouldn't," I protested earnestly, for her.

She looked at me queerly. "Can I never convince you that I'm just a woman?" said she mockingly. "Just a woman, and one a man with your ideas of women would fly from."

"I wish you were!" I exclaimed. "Then—I'd find it so—so impossible to give you up."

She rose and made a slow tour of the room, halting on the rug before the closed fireplace a few feet from me. I sat looking at her.

"I am going to give you up," I said at last.

Her eyes, staring into vacancy, grew larger and intenser with each long, deep breath she took.

"I didn't intend to say what I'm about to say—at least, not this evening. I went on, and to me it seemed to be some other than myself who was speaking. 'Certain things happened down to-day that have set me to thinking. And—I shall do whatever I can for your brother and your father. But you—you are free!'"

She went to the table, stood there in profile to me, straight and slender as a sunflower stalk. She traced the silver chafing-dish in the lid of the cigarette box with her forefinger; then she took a cigarette and began rolling it slowly and absently.

"Please don't scent and stain your fingers with that filthy tobacco," said I rather harshly.

"And only this afternoon you were saying you had become reconciled to my vice—that you had canonized it along with me—wasn't that your phrase?" This incoherently, without turning toward me, and as if she were thinking of something else.

"So I have," I retorted. "But my mood—please oblige me this once. She let the cigarette fall into the box, closed the lid, gently, leaned against the table, folded her arms upon her bosom and looked full at me. I was as acutely conscious of every movement, of the very color and going of the breath at her nostrils, as a man on the operating table is conscious of the slightest gesture of the surgeon.

"You are—suffering," she said, and her voice was like the flow of oil upon a burn. "I have never seen you like this. I didn't believe you capable of—of much feeling."

I could not trust myself to speak. If Bob Corey could have looked in on that scene, could have understood it, how amazed he would have been!

"What happened down town to-day?" she went on. "Tell me, if I may know."

"I'll tell you what I didn't think two minutes ago, I'd tell any human being," said I. "They've got me strapped down in the press. At ten o'clock in the morning—precisely at ten—they're going to put me on the screws. I laugh at it. I guess they'll have me squeezed pretty dry before noon."

"Yes—Langdon," I replied. "But I've no quarrel with him. My reverse is nothing but the fortune of war. I assure you, when I see him again, I'll be as friendly as ever—only a bit less of a trusting ass, I fancy. We're a lot of free lances down in the street. We change sides whenever it's expedient; and under the code it's not necessary to give warning. To-day, before I knew he was the assassin, I had made my plans to try to save myself at his expense, though I believed him to be the best friend I had down town. No doubt he's got some good reason for creeping up on me in the dark."

"You are sure it was he?" she repeated.

"He, and nobody else," replied I. "He decided to do me up—and I guess he'll succeed. He's not the man to lift his gun unless he's sure the bird will fall."

"Do you really not care any more than you show?" she asked. "Or is your manner only bravado—to show off before me?"

"I don't care a damn, since I'm to lose you," said I. "It'll be a godsend to have a hard row to hoe the next few months or years."

She went back to leaning against the table, her arms folded as before. I saw she was thinking out something. Finally she said:

"I have decided not to accept your release."

I sprang to my feet.

"Anita!" I cried, my arms stretched toward her.

But she only looked coldly at me, folded her arms the more tightly and said:

"Do not misunderstand me. The bargain is the same as before. If you want me on those terms, I must—give myself."

"Why?" I asked.

A faint smile, with no mirth in it, drifted round the corners of her mouth.

"An impulse," she said. "I don't quite understand it myself. An impulse from—from—her eyes and her thought from a sense of justice, and her expression was the one that made it

I dressed myself again and went out. I did not make any start at dressing; then I realized that I should only lie awake with my brain wearing me out, spinning crazy thoughts and schemes hour after hour—for my impulsive rarely lets it do any effective thinking after the lights are out and the limitations of material things are wiped away by the darkness.

That night, I recall, Joe's guests were several young fellows of the fashionable set, rich men's sons and their parasites, a few of the best downtown operators who hadn't yet got hip on "respectability"—they playing poker in a private room—and a couple of flush-faced, flush-pursed chaps from out of town, for whom one of Joe's men was dealing far from what looked to my experienced and accurate eye like a "brace" box.

Joe, very elegant, too elegant in new pieces of statuary to the oldest son of Melville, of the National Industrial bank. Joe knew a little something about art—he was much like the art dealers who, as a matter of business, learn the difference between good things and bad, but in their hearts wonder and laugh at people willing to part with large sums of money for a little paint or marble or the like.

As soon as Joe thought he had sufficiently impressed young Melville, he drifted him to a roulette table, left him there and joined me.

"Come to my office," said he. "I want to see you."

He led the way down the richly-carpeted marble stairway as far as the landing at the turn. There, on a sort of mezzanine, he had a gorgeous little suit. The principal object in the sitting-room or office was a huge safe. He closed and locked the outside door behind us.

"Take a seat," said he. "You'll like the elegant in the second box on my desk—the long one." And he began turning the combination lock. "You haven't dropped in on us for the past three or four months," he went on.

"No," said I, getting a great deal of pleasure out of the sound of his voice. "Well, Matt, you're right—you always did have good sound sense and a steady eye for the main chance. I was made several big killings lately, but they were so crazy about that hand-some mug and figure of yours. But when I saw you knew exactly when to let go, I knew nothing could stop you."

"I've noticed that you are getting too well to patronize us fellows," he said, in a low, smug smile, showing that he quite excused him for not feeling that way. Recent Happenings of Interest in the Various Cities and Towns.

FLOYD WHITTEMORE IS DEAD. JOSEPH LEITER FOUND GUILTY.

Former State Treasurer of Illinois Succumbs to Asthma. Violated Mining Laws in Employing an Unlicensed Inspector.

Springfield.—Floyd K. Whittemore, former state treasurer, the scene of numerous labor conflicts during the last two years, was found guilty in the Springfield hospital. His remains were taken to his former home in Sycamore, Ill., where the funeral was held. He was never married and left one brother, Henry C. Whittemore, a former member of the general assembly, who lives at Sycamore. During his long public life in the state of Illinois Mr. Whittemore became intimately identified with great financial affairs in connection with banks, the state government and the national government. Since his retirement from the office of state treasurer, which he held from 1898 to 1900, he took little active part in state politics, devoting himself to the management of his vast farming interests in Illinois.

Daquota.—Joseph Leiter, operator of the Zellerbach colliery, the scene of numerous labor conflicts during the last two years, was found guilty in the Franklin county court at Benton of violating the state mining laws and will be assessed a fine of from $200 to $500.

Mr. Leiter was found guilty of employing a mine examiner who did not hold a certificate issued by the state mining board at the time of the disastrous explosion in April, 1905, when 60 men lost their lives. The prosecution based its fight principally on that point, arguing that the examiner's ignorance of mining laws was in a measure responsible for the disaster.

Mr. Leiter said the case would be taken to the appellate court.

There are two other cases against Mr. Leiter, charging him with unlawfully storing powder in the Zeigler mine, and with constructing rooms in a coal mine without cross-vents, which were completed until March 11.

TATE GOES TO PEORIA. Will Be Questioned as to Recent Blowing Up of Safe.

Chicago.—Pressure brought to bear by officials more powerful than himself impelled Chief of Police Collins to permit Edwin S. Tate, the "gentleman burglar," to be taken to Peoria.

DOCTORS IN PLEA FOR CLINICS. Elgin Medical Men Ask That the Institution Be Continued.

Elgin.—At a meeting of the Physicians' club here the subject of clinics at state institutions was taken up and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions showing that the club favors the continuance of clinics and upholds Superintendent Podstata of the Northern Illinois hospital.

Superintendent Podstata was present.

MURDERER AND TWO OF HIS VICTIMS. Thomas Baldwin, Mrs. Simeon Eismann and Cora Eismann, principals in recent tragedy at Colfax.

ent and stated that his only object in giving the clinics was to benefit humanity. The physicians were unanimous in the belief in the good derived from clinics, and it is probable a special meeting of the Fox River Valley Medical association will be called soon to pass resolutions upholding Podstata.
