VILLAGE BOARD MEETS

Draft for an Ordinance Licensing

Pool Tables Presented. Routine

Business Transacted.

The village board met in regular session Monday evening and with the exception of discussion on the proposed new ordinance for licensing and regulating of pool rooms and bowling alleys, only routine business was transacted.

On motion Trustee Dunlap, seconded by Trustee Peters, bills in favor of G. M. Wagner, Elroy Thorpe and P. A. Hawley to the amount of $4.85 were allowed, for expenses caused in the case of Edward Payson, a pauper, who was severely burned and removed to the Cook county hospital. The bills were a proper charge against Cook county, but being of small amount the board of trustees by unanimous vote paid the bills.

M. C. McIntosh submitted the assessment roll, known as special assessment No. 2, for the building of a cement sidewalk in front of the Jackson property on Grove avenue. The roll was turned over to George Jencks, village collector.

President Spunner presented a draft of an ordinance for the licensing and regulating of pool tables, bowling alleys, etc., which was read. The following principal features were practically agreed upon:

License fee of ten dollars for each pool or billiard table, also for each bowling alley with not more than two alleys. Minors under eighteen years not allowed to play. All places by close at ten o'clock each evening and remain closed on Sunday.

The ordinance will probably come up for passage at an adjourned meeting to be held Monday evening, Dec. 9th.

Expensive Sidewalk.

It takes a long time to build a cement sidewalk under the laws of special assessment, but it can be done. Furthermore, the cost of construction of the sidewalk is practically the same to build fifty feet of walk as it is to build a mile. The village board found that a new walk was needed in front of the Jackson property on Grove avenue about five years ago. Notice after notice was served on the owner or tenant requesting that a walk be built. No attention was paid to the notices. Finally the board passed an ordinance early in the spring of last year, that the walk be built by special assessment. Objections were made by Attorney Jencks, representing the heirs of George Jackson, deceased, and the case was fought to the bitter end. The court finally ruled that a walk was necessary and confirmed the special assessment levied which amounted to $20.00. Attorney M. C. McIntosh represented the Village of Barrington in the matter. The cost to prosecute the case for the village was probably more than $100. The objectors spent a like amount without doubt. The contractor received $250. for the building of the 420 square feet of walk in question.

Does it pay to object to a necessity?

Willmarth's Leave for West.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Willmarth and two children left Barrington Sunday for their new home in Caspar, Wyoming, where Mr. Willmarth will engage in a sheep raising business. The departure of the family from the village is a sorrow to many people. Mr. Willmarth was born and raised here and was the last member of a family whose name has been intimately associated with the life and development of the town. Mrs. Willmarth was one of the social leaders among the ladies and a singer whose beautifully trained soprano voice has delighted hundreds of listeners. They will visit at St. Louis en route.

New Milk Station.

The Jordan Condensed Milk company recently purchased of Joseph Whitney the land and buildings occupied by John Brand as a grain mill at Barrington Center, adjoining the E. J. & E. Ry. for $1,900. The building is being remodeled and the company will soon receive milk at this point which, it is expected, will be shipped to one of their factories and bottled for the Chicago market.

Wednesday evening about twenty young people from Barrington with a few from Elgin drove to Carpentersville to spend the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Kries. Games were played and an oyster supper served.

NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

Misses Brandt and Floore and

Harry Brandt Face Death

From Coal Gas.

A serious accident took place during Wednesday night at the home of William Brandt in the Lamey house on Franklin near North Hawley street, but fatal results were prevented in time. Miss Lizzie Brandt and her guest, Miss Josephine Moore, and Harry Brandt, while sleeping in the second floor, were nearly asphyxiated by coal gas from a down-stairs stove.

Mrs. Henry Heinhoff, an aunt who lives near, called on an errand at half past six Thursday morning and was unable to arouse the occupants; forcing her way in she found the house filled with suffocating gas and could hardly make her way up stairs. She bravely did, however, in time to save from certain death the young people who were unconscious. Dr. William Shearer was called and with difficulty restored them to their senses. They recovered nicely, but were very sick for several hours. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt were not at home.

The Editors Are Right.

The Republican Editorial Association of Illinois adopted the following resolutions unanimously at a called meeting at Springfield, Nov. 25th:

"The republican editors of Illinois, in convention assembled, hold that the right of any political party to meet in delegate convention and declare its principles is an inalienable right; that no legislative body should attempt to take from us in the least abate."

We are certain that such conventions are the heart, the heart and the breath of life of any party or great organization, religious or secular, without which these organizations must perish. We believe in representative government and the rule of the majority. We are opposed to permitting the plurality system to govern the nomination of our party for state officers, and are especially opposed to the so-called Oglesby bill now under consideration by the State Legislature.

We favor a simple and inexpensive primary law providing for holding all primaries on the same day, safeguarded by the penalties of the general election laws, divested of all complicated machinery and holding all nominating conventions on the same day. We pledge ourselves to support against adverse criticism any members of the House or Senate of Illinois who votes against any bill which eliminates such nominating conventions, county, district or state, and the selection of national delegates and electors by conventions. The county primary law, county conventions should be the unit or base."

The Review is of the opinion that the republican editors of Illinois know what they are talking about.

A Little Falls, N. Y. clergyman suggests starving rats out of their bad habits. But what if they have only one suit of clothes?

It is surprising to see how many people are prepared to plead "not guilty" when confronted with the charge of hoarding money.

A Connecticut man has arranged that a barrel of whiskey be buried with him. He's likely to show up on the other side dead drunk.

New York police have arrested a man for selling stock in a company which does not exist. They are getting awfully particular in that town.

The bishop of London says he learned a number of things in America. He does not mention any new tricks in tennis as being among them.

A New York restaurant cashier held out enough money to start a restaurant of his own. Maybe being in that atmosphere he just called what he took a tip.

Burglars and gentlemen who live by their wits are so sorry that the banks did not let the hysterical ones draw out their funds and hide them in the stove.

There is going to be trouble if the Louisiana keeps making quicker passages every time. Pretty soon the stewards won't have time enough to collect their tips.

After he had discovered a beautiful new race unspoiled by civilization hidden away in the far northwest was it not unkind of Mr. Gordon to come back and tell civilization about it?

Examination showed that the heart of a New York cab driver was on the wrong side. This is particularly interesting to strangers who had concluded that Gotham cab drivers had no heart at all.

It has taken a postal card seven years to get from Paris to Philadelphia and now New York will have a chance to say that this slowness is explained by the fact that it is a Philadelphia card.

Another musical comedy girl is to become, through marriage, an English peeress. Between America and the stage the British peerage, as a passing show, stands a chance of being "lived up to."

A few sturdy specimens of that newly discovered and innocent race, the Kuskwagmutes of interior Alaska, should be secured for ethnological study before the white man's civilization has wrought its effect upon them.

Here come the Audubon societies with the alarming statement that insects cause a loss of $500,000,000 a year in the crops of the United States because of the wanton destruction of birds. The particularly alarming feature of this assertion is that nobody can disprove it.

An impatient woman in East Liverpool, O., who took a dozen shots at her husband without hitting the significant target, was arrested for discharging firearms within the city limits. Why the authorities did not make the charge train robbery, high treason or shoplifting will not be exactly clear to those not learned in the law.

At the dedication of a monument in Washington, I. I. in honor of George Fox, the famous Quaker preacher, a speaker of the occasion, himself a Quaker, made this statement: "No Quaker woman ever promised, while being married, to obey her husband, but at the same time you cannot find a divorced Quaker. The reason for this is the perfect equality among the men and women." If this assertion is true, perhaps here is the strongest remedy for divorce. Ladies, don't promise to obey. Let that part of the ceremony be omitted hereafter.

SMALL HOPE FOR 47 MINERS

MEN ENTOMBED AT FAYETTE, PA., PROBABLY ALL DEAD.

Second Body is Recovered—Rescuers Are Repeatedly Overcome by the Poisonous Gases.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The fate of five American and 42 foreign miners, while not definitely known, was pretty well established late Monday by the finding of the body of a mine pumper near the twenty-second entry of the Naam mine of the United Coal company at Fayette City, 25 miles from this city. The man had died from suffocation.

Judging from the two fatalities thus far known, both having been caused by poisonous gas fumes, it is almost certain that the 47 miners still entombed in the mine have succumbed to the deadly asphyxiant.

There is also a possibility that the explosion of Sunday night occurred so close to the men that they were killed by its force or the resultant fall of tons of rock and earth.

Since shortly after eight o'clock Sunday night a large force of rescuers has labored almost constantly in an effort to reach the imprisoned men.

The work has been necessarily slow on account of the wreckage and afterdark. Notwithstanding the fact that the rescue parties have worked to the upper levels above the fire, with the hope that the 11 entombed miners may be still alive.

At three o'clock in the afternoon Manager Gordon, accompanied by four picked miners, made another attempt to reach the 600-foot level through the hot gases and had reached that level when three of them were overcome with gas. All were brought to the surface in an insensible condition.

TOMMY BURNS IS VICTOR.

American Fighter Easily Defeats Gunner Moir in London.

London.—Tommy Burns, of America, knocked out Gunner Moir, of England, in the tenth round before the National Sporting club here Monday night. Englishmen never had great hopes of the ability of their representative to regain their lost honors in the boxing arena, and in a somewhat exciting contest the American champion had a comparatively easy task in disposing of Moir's pretensions and securing for himself the title of heavyweight champion of the world.

After the fifth round Burns' victory was certain and in the tenth, when the gunner failed to rise to the call of time, and was literally cut to pieces, Burns left the ring with scarcely a mark.

Schaefer Defeats Sutton.

Chicago. Jacob Schaefer, remainder of the 15-1 walk like billed champion. He defended the title successfully Monday night against George Sutton, from whom he won it last spring, defeating the big fellow at Orchestra hall by the score of 500 to 48.

Train Goes Into the Ditch.

Portland, Me.—The Republicans Monday elected a mayor and a safe majority in the city government. The city has been controlled by the Democrats the past year.

MICHIGAN BANK IS CLOSED.

State Treasurer Glazier's Institution at Chelsea in Trouble.

Detroit, Mich.—In order to avoid a threatened run on the State Tuesday, and to afford all depositors and creditors an equal chance in the settlement of the bank's affairs, State Banking Commissioner Zimmerman Monday announced that the Chelsea Savings bank would not open for business Tuesday.

The president of the bank is State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier, who has deposited in the bank approximately $44,000 of the funds of the state of Michigan. Attorney General Bird said Monday night that the state is protected by the state treasurer's bond of $150,000, so that the state would not suffer any loss unless the assets of the bank should fall to pay 50 cents on the dollar, which is considered altogether improbable.

The announcement that the bank would not open Tuesday came at the close of a conference here between Gov. Warner, Banking Commissioner Zimmerman, Attorney General Bird and representatives of five Detroit banks, the People's State Savings bank, the Old Detroit National bank, the First National, the Citizens Savings bank and the Union Trust company.

It is stated that the banking commissioner has been closely scrutinizing the affairs of the Chelsea Savings bank for some time in connection with the private business of State Treasurer Glazier and that of the Glazier State company, of Chelsea. The impression was held that if Mr. Glazier could pull these latter interests through, the bank would not necessarily fall into difficulties.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Capt. F. E. Bent of Wisconsin Meets Terrible Death.

Escanaba, Mich.—Capt. Frank E. Bent, of company I, Twentieth Wisconsin National Guard, was instantly killed in an automobile accident near here Sunday night and four others were injured.

Bunker K. Prescott, vice president and general manager of the Prescott Iron Works, was internally injured, and it is feared he may die. Isaac Stephenson, Jr., nephew of United States Senator Stephenson, had an arm broken, and Joseph Dunsberry suffered fractures of his collar bone and one arm. Albert Holquist was badly bruised.

All the members of the party belong at Marquette and were on their way about midnight from Gladstone to Escanaba. Mr. Prescott was driving and Bent was sitting beside him on the front seat. On a steep incline they lost control of the machine and it struck a sharp turn at the foot of the hill running at terrific speed. The front wheels snapped off and the car shot forward 50 feet through the air, turning upside down in its flight and plunging into a ditch at the bottom when it hit. Capt. Bent's neck was broken by the car seat.

Arrested for an Indiana Murder.

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—Harvey Hinkley, alias Richard Stages, was arrested here Monday night, charged with murdering John N. McClellintock and seriously injuring Elijah Rogers at Bloomington, Ind., on the night of August 3, 1907. Hinkley has admitted his identity.

"Lost" Oklahomans Are Found.

Muskogee, Okla.—Charles Kinney, chief of police, and Alderman L. E. Pratt and their party, who were supposed to be lost in the mountains of the Choctaw nation, were located Sunday night near Forman.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Chivers Is Dead.

Ridgewood, N. Y.—Rev. Dr. E. E. Chivers, field secretary of the Baptist Home Mission society, and formerly secretary of the Baptist Young People's union, died here Monday. He was 58 years old.

SOLONS IN SESSION

STRIKING SCENES CHARACTER-FIRST DAY OF CONGRESS.

CANNON IS REELECTED

Ovation for the Speaker, Mr. Williams and Mr. Bryan—Old Rules Adopted After a Lively Debate.

Washington.—A brilliant scene characterized the meeting of the Sixtieth congress Monday. In the senate and house of representatives there were notable gatherings in the galleries of representatives of the official society of the capital. The coming together for the first time of the men who have been elected to the senate and house, about 100 of whom have not before served in congress, made the occasion one of particular interest.

The striking scenes of the day were in the house of representatives, where the formal selection of Joseph G. Cannon to be again speaker of that body, and the designation by the Democrats of Mr. John Sharp Williams as their leader, were occasions for ovations for those gentlemen. The vast hall of the house of representatives rang with the cheers of Republicans and Democrats for their leaders, and the speaker received as warm a reception from members of the minority as he did from his own party.

The appearance of William Jennings Bryan on the floor of the house also was the occasion for enthusiastic cheering by the Democrats.

JUDGE BRADWELL IS DEAD

CHICAGO PIONEER AND LEGAL EXPERT PASSES AWAY.

Had Lived in Metropolis Since 1834—Was an Indian Fighter of Note—Leaves Two Children.

Chicago.—One of Chicago's oldest and most picturesque pioneers passed away Friday when James B. Bradwell, former county judge, publisher of the Chicago Legal News and noted authority on laws, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. F. A. Heinicke. He was 79 years old and came to Chicago in 1834. Pneumonia and kidney disorder caused death, although the veteran had not been in his usual vigorous health for two years. Present when he died were his children, Thomas Bradwell, former justice of the peace, and Mrs. William Bradwell, who were his grandsons. Dr. James B. Bradwell and Charles E. Kahle.

His wife, who was Miss Myra Colby, was distinguished as the first woman lawyer in the United States. She edited the Legal News until her death in 1894.

Mr. Bradwell was an Englishman, having been born April 16, 1823, in Loughborough, coming to the United States with his parents, however, when he was two years old. After a stay of three years at Ithaca, N. Y., the family came west to Jacksonville, Ill., traveling in a "prairie schooner" drawn by a yoke of oxen and a span of horses. The journeyed in the schooner to a point on the Desplaines river near Wheeling, where a tract of government land was pre-empted. Although the site of the homestead on the Desplaines river is not a great way from the present limits of Chicago, yet in that day the farm was a long way off from Port Dearborn.

The CASTLE OF THE PILLARS

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESSEY

"But their release will be the most effective way of spreading the news."

"On the contrary, they cannot make it known without exposing themselves. If they do that, Ferdinand will see to it that their respective sovereigns quietly but effectively remove them. Each of them is so well known that they may be arrested at any time. Ferdinand shrewdly makes them hostages, as it were. The three certainly will exert their great influence to check the rebellion they themselves have fostered. As for Gortchakoff, before they are released from the hospital the crisis will have passed."

"And are we left to account for the deaths of Starva and Brissan as best we may?" I questioned anxiously.

"If you remember, I told you that I knew that I was an old newspaper man. It is impossible to hide the fact that an attack has been made on Prince Ferdinand here tonight. But an attack by his own countrymen that has proved a disastrous failure is quite a different thing from a deliberate gathering here of representatives of each of the Balkan States. Ferdinand has taken my advice to post in hot haste. The death of Starva is not to that night's work does not get into the papers until 24 hours have passed. By that time he will have shown himself safe and sound in Sofia. The episode of the death of Starva will have proved a complete fiasco. My story will make Prince Ferdinand a hero triumphant over his foes and not a weak king who was lured here unwittingly by his mistress to his doom."

"There still remains Jacques."

"Oh, Jacques," said Locke, with contempt. "He was only a tool of Starva's and a stupid tool at that. It was he who was to lower the flag at half-mast, it seems—to give the signal to the conspirators who were waiting in the village. But when he rushed to the chamber window to lower the flag he found both rope and fastenings wrenched away. He supposed that the gale had done this, but seeing the flag at half-mast, the rope being caught in the pulley, he said nothing about the matter to Starva. I suspect that you were responsible for the lowering of the flag, and not the gale."

"I needed the rope," I said, shortly, too impatient to make further explanation. "And now for my last question: What the devil did you mean when you said that you had promoted me? And why this haste that I leave Afternoon?"

"Are you so anxious then that it be known that you have been impersonating the British ambassador?"

"Scarcely," I said, uneasily.

"And, my dear fellow, Kohn and the rest think that it was Sir Mortimer who came to the rescue of Prince Ferdinand, and not Mr. Ernest Haddon, an American tourist."

"But why do you allow them to think this?"

"Haddon, at times you are singularly dense. If these men believe that the British ambassador has been killed by one of their number while defending Ferdinand, do you not see that this will keep them even more silent regarding their scheme in this night's tragedy? For if England's ambassador were really murdered, you may be sure that she would not rest until she had brought the assassins to justice."

"You are right, Locke; I must leave Afternoon at once."

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

The Second Dispatch.

I was about to go to Helena in the music room to bid her good-by, when Capt. Forbes returned from his errand.

"Well, that's settled," he cried, joining us. "And do you agree with Locke and myself that it is wise that you should leave Afternoon before daylight?"

"Perfectly."

"He heard my decision with evident relief."

"You will accept my apology for mistaking you, Haddon, and I hope we shall be friends," he offered me his hand with a winning smile. "But you must confess you gave me ample grounds for being a little wary of you. Before long we shall meet, and I shall hope to hear your reasons for going into this extraordinary adventure."

In the meanwhile, may I trouble you for the dispatch I gave to you in the hotel at Vissan, or did it fall into Starva's hands that night?"

"To prevent that I dropped it from the window into a disused fountain in the garden below."

"Where I found it," interrupted Locke. "Here it is, and please observe that the seals are unbroken."

"Frankly, Forbes," I said, "I thought you rather an idiot to give me an important dispatch that night. You must have seen that I was more or less in Starva's power, and that he was likely to gain possession of the papers."

"That dispatch fallen into his hands," replied Forbes. "It is quite possible that Ferdinand would have saved his half hour. Do you remember I told you, my pseudo-ambassador (and you acted the part remarkably well, let me tell you), that I carried two dispatches for Sir Mortimer, and that I gave you the one of lesser importance?"

"Yes. And the second dispatch? Was it stolen from you by Starva when he trapped you in the tower?"

Forbes nodded. "I took the liberty of taking it from him just now."

"And may a humble American consul ask," drawled Locke, "how tonight's episode would have been averted had the dispatch you gave Haddon fallen into Starva's hands, instead of into the fountain?"

"My chief at Downing street would retire me, and with no pension, if he knew that I was going to divulge state secrets. However, I am going to tell you."

"This dispatch you have returned to me. I happen to know, authorized Sir Mortimer direct to meet in conference the men who so very nearly snuffed out Ferdinand's life an hour ago. I am referring now to the dispatch which I gave you at Vissan, Haddon. He was to assure these representatives of the various states that England realized that a harmonious confederation could alone permanently ally the present discontent in the

into the hands of this committee.

Capt. Forbes will follow the same course if necessary. He has full instructions as to exercise his discretion in this matter."

"It is not without surprise that the ministry has learned of your promise to Ferdinand regarding England's support of his project, namely, the threatened invasion of Macedonia. Fortunately, the ministry is convinced that some such move as you suggested is essential to free Macedonia from the atrocities of Turkish misrule that have shocked Europe so long. His majesty's ministry therefore is inclined to overlook in this instance any undue bias you have shown in espousing Macedonia's cause."

"If you are convinced that the financier of New York City whom you have named is sincere in his offer to give Prince Ferdinand financial support, you are authorized to tell him that his majesty's ministers are heartily in favor of Prince Ferdinand's invasion, and will exert every influence to insure him unrestricted action. Moreover, the foreign office is in full accord with your views as to the sum of money indispensable to Ferdinand's project."

"But while his majesty's government agrees with you that lofty principles actuate Bulgaria, it realizes with yourself that lofty principles are not sufficient to insure the success of Ferdinand's cause."

"In conclusion, we hasten to assure you of our fullest sympathy for your brother that is oppressed people gain their liberty; and that it is not without satisfaction we find ourselves enabled to further your personal wishes and ambitions in this matter. Nor need you have anxiety that your own interests will run counter to those of England. We view with concern the precarious state of your health; but we trust that it will not prove an obstacle to your contemplated meeting of the financier at the conference at Afternoon at the chateau of Prince Ferdinand's secret agent. With renewed expressions of our complete confidence in you, I believe me, sir, etc."

"Haddon," said Locke, not a little crestfallen, "I was really wide of the mark in my conjectures concerning Sir Mortimer's relations with the Countess Sarahoff. I told you that morning at Lucerne that I was behind the scenes. I confess myself the worst amateur."

"Never has writing thrilled me as did that dispatch. A great light was dawning on me. I clutched the paper. I held it with a trembling hand. 'Forbes,' I cried, hoarsely, 'once, though quite unwillingly, I tricked you out of the dispatch Locke just returned to you. But now I ask you to give me for half an hour the dispatch you have just read. It means everything to Sir Mortimer's sister. Man, there has been more devilry in this Castle of Lies than you are aware of. The honor of Sir Mortimer himself is at stake. The dispatch will help to save it. Give me the paper that I may show it to Miss Brett."

"I have been too much astonished at the event of the past 24 hours to wonder at your request. Take your dispatch, but you will return it to me."

"You need have no fear as to that. But I have another request: the papers you saw me take from the safe, which Madame de Varnier wrested from me—they belong to Miss Brett."

distance. They were phantoms of despair beckoning to her in the moonlight. They had brought suffering to her as well as to myself; had I not gone to Lucerne, and told her the story of my cowardice, perhaps she would have spared the knowledge of her brother's disgrace."

"Dear I said again, 'do you remember the little beacon that shone along the lights on Pilatus and Rigi had flickered out? That little light put before me then. It tells you to hope now."

"There is no light on the mountains over there tonight."

"It may burn though you do not see it. To me, from the safe, have you destroyed it?"

"I was about to do so as you entered. Here it is."

"Capt. Forbes has just given me the second packet—the one that Madame de Varnier took from me forcibly. It is possible that its contents concern your brother. May I open it?"

"Yes," she said hastily. "I tore open the packet with deliberation, though heavens know my fingers trembled. I spread the paper on the piano where I had shown Sir Mortimer the documents before the evening began. I read them one after the other. The proof was absolute. Sir Mortimer's honor could no longer be questioned. Fools were being blind."

"Helena," I said, mastering my emotion with an effort "It is as I thought; these papers throw a flood of light on the letters and notes of Sir Mortimer. We have so harshly misunderstood."

She came swiftly to my side. "Happily misunderstood!" she repeated. "I was sorting carefully the papers Helena had just given me, the letters supposed to have been written by the committee of freedom, and to which Sir Mortimer had given his approval. I laughed aloud when I saw that these letters, supposed to be the originals were typewritten, as were the copies."

"I understood why Madame de Varnier had refused to let me see what she called the original papers. It was not so much that she feared I would destroy them; she knew that the fact of their being typewritten would at once awaken my suspicion."

"Did it not occur to you as being rather suspicious that these letters were written on a typewriter?"

"At first it did," replied Helena, searching my face wonderingly. "But she quieted my doubts by explaining to me that the letters were typed to prevent the possibility of their being traced."

"The ingenious Madame de Varnier!"

Helena did not speak; her agitation was too great for words. She watched me, at once bewildered and eager, while I read the contents of both packets carefully once more. When I had read them, I sorted them no less carefully. For ten minutes there was silence between us.

"Helena," I said with a deep sigh, when I had finished my task, "once tonight I said this was a Castle of Lies, but I did not realize until now how surely I spoke the truth. These letters are forgeries."

"Impossible," she murmured, wringing her hands in anguish. "I know my brother's writing too well."

"Follow me carefully, and you will see that I speak the truth. I do not question your brother's handwriting. But listen first of all to this dispatch which was taken from Capt. Forbes when he was trapped in the tower. Tell me if any of the expressions in it are familiar to you."

"Yes, yes," she cried eagerly, when I had finished. "Lofly principles actuate Bulgaria, but lofty principles are not sufficient to insure success. You need have no anxiety that your own interests will run counter to those of England. We view with concern the precarious state of your health; but we trust that it will not prove an obstacle to your contemplated meeting of the financier at the conference at Afternoon at the chateau of Prince Ferdinand's secret

Kinley Talks of Currency Trouble at University of Illinois.

Prof. Kinley advocated dividing the country into banking or clearing house departments and requiring that the clearing house in the most important reserve city of each division shall receive a federal charter as a bank of issue under certain conditions and for certain purposes. Every national bank in the division or section should become a member of the clearing house of its department.

Need Not Produce Books.

Chicago.—An attempt on the part of the prosecution to force the presentation in court of the private books of John P. Walsh in a trial for alleged misapplication of the funds of the Chicago National bank was frustrated by an adverse decision by Judge Anderson. The point arose early in the proceedings when P. B. McKay, former private secretary to the banker, was told by Attorney Fletcher Dobbs, acting for the government, to turn certain records said to be copies of Walsh's private accounts.

Attorney John S. Miller, chief counsel for the defense, at once objected and the argument and decision followed. The Paris Waiters' Trick.

"I was in a Paris cafe," said the American tourist, "when there was a sudden quarrel not far away, and I suspended my eating, as did everybody else, to see what the trouble was. It appeared that one of my countrymen, whom I had not noticed in entering, had dined at a table not far away, and when he received his check he handed the waiter a ten dollar gold piece. The waiter put the coin into his mouth and made change for $5 only. The Yankee kicked and swore there was a swindle, but the waiter took the $5 from his mouth and held it up and said:

"See! It is here. It is the coin he gave me. Is it not for him to apologize?"

"It looked that way to me, but my countryman knew a thing or two. He grabbed theascal by the throat and choked his mouth open, and, lo, a ten dollar gold piece dived to the floor. The fellow had the $5 in his mouth to work the trick, and when I got to thinking the thing over I remembered that it had been successfully worked on me a dozen times over."—Chicago News.

The Ground Hog's Sleep.

The woodchuck's is a curious shift, a case of nature outdoing herself. Winter spreads far and fast, and woodchuck, in order to keep ahead of danger, would need wings. Must he perish then? Winter spreads far, but does not go deep—down only about four feet, and woodchuck, if he cannot escape overland, can perhaps go under land. So down he goes through the winter, down into a mild and even temperature, five long feet away—but as far away from the sun and cold as he can get. Among the rocks of the distant regions, indeed, woodchuck is a further journey and even more wonderful than bobolink's, for these five feet carry him beyond the bounds of time and space into the mysterious realm of deep, suspended life, to the very gates of death. That he will return with bobolink, that he will come up alive with the spring out of this dark way, is very strange.—Dallas Star, in Atlantic.

Children to Let.

Quite a flourishing trade is done by the poorer class of mothers, who let out their children to beggars at so much per hour. The traveling hawker applies to the parents of a likely child, the price is agreed upon, a small amount paid down as a guarantee for the return of the little one, and the beggar forthwith sets off with his human implement of trade to implore the public charity. The children whose task it is to soften the hearts of the passersby are required to possess special qualifications. They must have hungry looking faces, be first rate criers and not very useful for a good looking child is more likely to earn extra pennies on account of its pretty face than a less favored competitor.—Madrid Herald.

Mrs. Silmidt (noticing that the new boarder is lavish with the catchup)—Dentist says that tomatoes have a tendency to loosen the gums so that the teeth come out. New boarder—That so? Then I must work hard to drive 'em back again. I'll thank you for some of the roast beef.

AS IT WAS AND AS IT IS

The Freye Building as it Formerly Appeared and the Building as it is To-Day.

T. OLD BUILDING

THE NEW BUILDING

We draw your attention to the pictures above of two buildings, one a thing of the past and the other a thing of reality in our business district. We see the former warehouse whose shabby appearance disguised the downtown vicinity and we see the fine, brick block that has taken its place.

The credit for this change is due to the sagacity of Edward C. Groff, one of our ambitious young merchants. Contrary to many young men of the times who waste and spend their money Mr. Groff has placed the products of his parents and his own endeavors where not only he will be long benefited, but also where the village of Barrington is in debt to him for the improvement that pleases all.

At the Majestic

Houdini, the hand cuff king who has created a sensation around the world was so successful during his first week at the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, that it became necessary to engage him for another week. His feats of escaping from handcuffs of every description, from packing boxes, mail pouches and chained and locked packing baskets have excited astonishment. No one seems to know how he accomplishes these feats but he never yet has failed. He jumped into the Chicago river from the Wells street bridge, manacled and with weights on his feet. It was a winter morning with the snow falling and the temperature well towards zero and yet clad only in a bathing suit and with all these incumbrances, he released himself under water, and was picked up by a waiting boat. Such an unheard of feat as this excited astonishment and has followed his stage exhibitions. Another feature for this bill is provided by Edwin Stevens, the comedian whose "Evening with Dickens" is not only one of the most artistic but also one of the most entertaining of the new vaudeville acts. A comedy act in the line of burnt cork minstrelsy is provided by the Farrell-Taylor trio whose work in this difficult line is said to be quite unequalled. Kelly and Violette the fashion plates of vaudeville will be one of the attractive features. Their singing, dancing and impersonations have scarcely been surpassed anywhere. In the way of expert acrobatics the Montrose Troupe may be depended upon to give a most entertaining exhibition. Popular Jimmie Barry and his company will present a rural skit full of amusing types and half a dozen other specialists complete the bill.

Badly Fixed Up.

Abraham Brown, of Winterton, N. Y., had a very remarkable experience; he says: "Doctors got badly mixed up over me: one said heart disease; two called it kidney trouble; the fourth, blood poison and the fifth, stomach and liver trouble; but none of them helped me; so my wife advised trying Electric medicine anywhere. In the way of expert acrobatics the Montrose Troupe may be depended upon to give a most entertaining exhibition. Popular Jimmie Barry and his company will present a rural skit full of amusing types and half a dozen other specialists complete the bill.

The lot faces Railroad street, which runs northwest and southeast, parallel to the Northwestern railroad, and the oblique appearance of the building is caused by the intersection of Railroad and Main streets at that point.

The equipment and furnishings throughout the building are up to date and expensive. The first floor is occupied by the Alverson & Groff market, the Thois Bros. barber shop and pool room; on the second floor he found the central office of Dr. J. Howard Furly, Dr. William Shearer's office and the Old Fellows' hall; in the basement are provision store rooms and the Thois bowling alley.

Near the Million Mark.

Twenty-five years ago on January 5th 1905, the Modern Woodmen of America had twenty-one members, the first camp being organized at Lyons, Iowa. On October first, 1907, the total membership in good standing was 92,536, and there were 11,944 camps. It has the largest membership of any organization of its kind in existence. It is the desire of the organization that a celebration of its silver anniversary be held in each camp throughout the jurisdiction at the first regular meeting in January by securing as large a class of new members for adoption as possible. The rates for insurance in this organization are lower than any other society doing business.

Want Historic Relics.

The Lake County Historical society is desirous of obtaining old books, papers, documents, letters and pictures of historical interest, especially those pertaining to Lake County. War relics, battle flags, etc., are desirable. Relics of colonial times will be acceptable. Has any one relics of Lincoln, Grant and Logan? If any friends of the society have these and are willing to loan them, let the secretary, Robert M. Ingalls of Waukegan know and due acknowledgement will be made and all articles properly cared for. The society is in a position to keep them safely, having a room in the Carnegie library building in Waukegan for its sole use.

Club Property Will Be Sold.

All of the property of the Olympic club will be sold at auction by Master in Chancery Clarke at Waukegan Court House, Tuesday, December 10th, at one o'clock p. m. The club building located on the Lamey lot on Liberty St. cost nearly $600. There will probably be an opportunity for some one to buy a building at a bargain.

Here's Good Advice.

O. S. Woolver, one of the best known merchants of LeRoyville, N. Y., says: "If you are ever troubled with piles, apply Bucklen's Ointment. It cured me of them for good 20 years ago." Guaranteed for sores, wounds, burns or abrasions. 25c at Barrington Pharmacy.

Two Ways of Looking at it.

There is a young artist in Washington who classes himself as of the impressionistic school and who, being somewhat out in drawing, generally makes up for his lack of technique by spreading color recklessly and counting on distance for his effect.

At an amateur exhibition he once hung one of his most extraordinary performances.

"Well," said a friend whom the artist had taken to see the work, "I don't want to flatter you, old chap, but that is far and away the best stuff you have ever done. I congratulate you." Much pleased, the artist was receiving the compliment with becoming modesty when he chanced again to glance at the picture and turned very red. The committee had hung it upside down.

Hurrying to the head of the committee, he was about to launch into a loud complaint when he was informed of the good news that an hour before the picture had been sold for $61. The original price mark had been $19.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Where the Horse Bit George.
"Now, please show me the spot where the horse bit George Washington," was the astonishing request made by a country visitor of his host, a downtown publisher. The latter had escorted him about and shown him the statehouse, the Liberty bell, Carpenter's hall, old Christ church, the grave of Benjamin Franklin and the site of the house in which Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence. The publisher had never heard of the spot where the horse bit the Father of His Country, but, equal to the emergency, he took his guest to the Washington square and said that it was in one of the corners of that space (which one he did not know) that the horse did the biting, in commemoration of which event the square was named after the general. The gentleman from Down Yonker somewhere was fully satisfied and had gone home full of good, ready made stories to tell his neighbors. It would be interesting to ascertain the identity of the wag who sprung this one on George Washington.—Philadelphia Record.

When Reynard Goes Hunting.

Those who have tried wild fowl shooting know how difficult a matter it is to approach within range without disturbing the birds. The fox's only weapon is his mouth, and the range is necessarily short, but for reward it proves all sufficient. His knowledge of the habits of his selected prospects him to a suitable lurking place among the withered rushes in a clump selected to hide the contour of his form and to match the color of his coat as far as possible. Lurking there, almost wholly immersed in water if need be, he waits his opportunity and seizes it. Well may his cunning be proverbial, for there is no animal or bird on which he preys that can baffle his pursuit. Even the prickly armor of the hedgehog proves an inadequate protection when the fox requires his presence in his lair. He hatches! What a harder it! The thought of it, the smell of it, savors of a whole army of tragedies.—London Tit-Bits.

Six o'Clock Folk.

How many of our readers know what a "six o'clock man" is? Miss Spurgeon, one of the lecturers in English at Bedford college, Baker street, in a country cottage and an old "Halcyon" mill in the middle of Western Heath, Saxmildham. The other day a non-Suffolk lady told her that her husband's wife had often said, "We are six o'clock people," and she had taken it to mean "early risers." But soon after some one said that this lady's husband was an "six o'clock gentleman," and as she knew that he did not get up early she asked what the epithet meant and was told, "Euphratic like the hands of the clock are at six o'clock." Another lady had often said, "We are six o'clock people," and she had taken it to mean "early risers." But soon after some one said that this lady's husband was an "six o'clock gentleman," and as she knew that he did not get up early she asked what the epithet meant and was told, "Euphratic like the hands of the clock are at six o'clock." Another lady had often said, "We are six o'clock people," and she had taken it to mean "early risers." But soon after some one said that this lady's husband was an "six o'clock gentleman," and as she knew that he did not get up early she asked what the epithet meant and was told, "Euphratic like the hands of the clock are at six o'clock."—Westminster Gazette.

Backwardness of the First Families.

What would you think of the country street car conductor and minor city employees but all that it might be the public is hardly justified in demanding Chatterbox and Hummel on wages and a salary of $1000 a year. An old citizen complained to old Mayor Quincy of Boston that the street sweepers were an ungentelemanly lot.

"I know it, I know it," acknowledged the old gentleman sadly. "I've tried to induce the members of the first families of Commonwealth Avenue to handle the brooms, but they won't do it."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Harder Labor.

"What did you get the rubber gloves for?" they asked her as she tossed them around to show how handsome they were. "You have a girl, haven't you? You don't have to wash the dishes."

Exceptional Case.

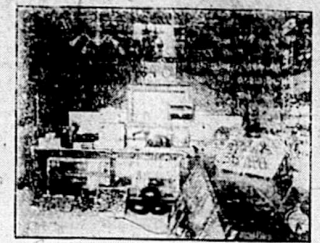

"They couldn't convict that forger. When he was caught he chewed up the forged and swindled powder, and 'Well, it isn't every man who is so willing to eat his words when it's proved he's in the wrong.'—Kansas City Times.

To The PUBLIC

It will be of interest to those suffering from defective vision to know that the old reliable specialist, established in Chicago for the past 25 years, will make regular visits to BARRINGTON, and can be consulted.

M. R. MOSES, OPH. D.

Monday, Dec. 16, at Commercial Hotel

His excellent work in this vicinity for the past 25 years will speak for itself, therefore he will not take the usual method of publishing testimonials. Those who are in need of glasses can always depend upon his diagnosis as conscientious. Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, Pain in the Back of the Head, Floating Specks and other symptoms usually coming from a deranged system are often caused by defect in vision. Prof. Moses can always recognize the difference between constitutional disorders and errors of refraction, and this old saying "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure" is surely true in eye-sight, as often a very slight adjustment in the beginning would have saved eyes from chronic trouble, often resulting in total blindness. Glasses properly fitted at moderate prices. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Curran's Comment.

At a dinner table in London the con-

Curran stated that he could never ad-

hour without moistening his lips.

statement:

"Digestion begins in the mouth and ends in the big and little testaments."

C. F. HALL CO. AND DEPARTMENT STORE DUNDEE, ILLINOIS

If You Knew!

If we, by any skill in advertising could make the people of this region actually KNOW the bargains we are offering our store would not hold the customers that would come—a large claim but it is amply justified.

Our trouble isn't to buy the goods, or to sell them, it is simply to get people to read and to believe the facts.

We want you to know the truth about us. Ask why acquaintance who recently has visited our store. Come yourself, "just to look," and if you don't find things exactly as we say, you needn't ever come again.

SCHOOL NOTES.

A singing class is being organized in the high school under the direction of M. W. Mattison.

An examination will be held December 14th in the court house in Chicago for the benefit of those who may wish to teach in Cook county.

Parents who think they have a grievance should see the teachers. If they could manage to see the teachers before any difficulty arises, it might never arise.

The meeting of the first grade teachers will be held in Harvey, Friday, December 10th. The meeting of fourth grade teachers will be held in LaGrange, Friday, December 13th.

Lowell Bennett, Sanford Rieke and Willis Kampert were recently dismissed and the board of education refused to re-instate them until they agree to attend strictly to their school work.

Little Clarence Lageschulte, who lives in the east part of town and who is unable to attend school because of paralysis, is receiving private instruction from Miss Smith, the second grade teacher.

In a recent spelling test in the high school the following pupils spelled the entire list correctly: Lillian Augenstein, Willis Kampert, Lizzie Gilly, Malai Schaefer, Nellie Kirnise and Mima Kirnise.

Miss Margaret Shipman, teacher in the high school 5 weeks left her position last Friday. She is a good teacher and the board of education would have retained her longer had she desired to stay. Miss Shipman thought well of most of her pupils. She is now substituting in the Waukegan high school. Miss Gladys Bray, the new teacher, is a young woman of 26 and has had 3 years experience in the high school at Mobile, Alabama. Her home is in Austin and she was educated in Chicago schools and university.

All teachers are ready and anxious to make the acquaintance of parents. But how is the acquaintance to be made? Parents are busy with home duties and business, or attending club meetings or social events or perhaps entertaining guests. Teachers are also busy people, especially at hours becoming for calling, save evening, and this is when teachers often find something to do that pertains to their personal needs.

Then too some of our teachers spend but four evenings each week in Barrington and should they begin making calls it would take all their time. For if they do not call at all homes represented in the school, which homes should they visit? What is needed is not that one teacher should become a favorite in some homes and another teacher the favorite in other homes, but rather each teacher should have the respect and support of every home.

If parents really desire to know the merit of teachers, they must learn it in the schoolroom and not in parlors. Strong teachers rely more upon their work than upon popular friendship. These statements are not to be construed as an argument against teachers visiting the homes, for the more knowledge a teacher has of the environment of the children, the better qualified she is to govern them.

Mrs. Joseph Schulz.

Mrs. Joseph Schulz died at her home in Dundee, last Saturday, November 20th, aged fifty-four years. She was well known in this vicinity, formerly living on the H. J. Lageschulte farm south of town. She leaves a husband and six children. The funeral was held in Dundee, Tuesday, December 3rd.

A Dangerous Deadlock

that sometimes terminates fatally, is the stoppage of liver and bowel functions. To quickly end this condition without disagreeable sensations, Dr. King's New Life Pills should always be your remedy. Guaranteed absolutely satisfactory in every case or money back, at Barrington Pharmacy 25c.

High School Teacher—Sometimes you appear really angry and some times you are quite effeminate. How do you account for it? Student—It's heredity, I suppose. One half of my ancestors were males and the other half females.—School Board Journal.

The Arctic Blueberry.

In August, when blue and salmon berries ripen in the redbud woods, Eskimos are everywhere with sealskin leather pads, their gay colored parkies, the hood with wolvenore fur border, adding a picturesque color note to the landscape. The arctic blueberry is richer, more delicious than its kindred of the States, while the salmon berry is an aesthetic delight as it lifts its royal yellow fruit from a bed of ornamental tinted leaves of waxlike texture. American housewives combine the blue and salmon berry into a delicious preserve. The natives bury them in the ground, marking the place with a cover of willows. There they freeze and are taken out as needed and eaten with seal oil.—Circle.

Spring From the Soil.

The mud, silt from was far from appetizing, and his waistcoat and coat were covered with grime and grease, but a large buttonhole bouquet was placed on the lapel of his coat. "What do you think of this?" he said to a casual acquaintance, pointing to the bouquet. "Where do you think I got it?" "Don't know," admitted the other. "Perhaps it grew there."

Rejected Advice.

Blotbe—Why don't you consult a doctor about your insomnia? Slobs—What! And run more bills? Why, it's because of what I owe him now that I can't sleep!

Up-To-Date Millinery Store.

Miss Jukes has tried to demonstrate that a first class, up-to-date, milliner pays here in Barrington. She has worked hard to please and the fact that her present quarters are small, shows that strict attention to business, study to please and a good stock of millinery supplies, will pay. Miss Jukes expects soon to move to the Zimmerman building, north of the Review office, which has been entirely remodeled; she will be better enabled to display her full line of goods, although in not quite as prominent a location as on Main street. The new store will be near to all points, with larger and more suitable store room. She will be pleased to see all of her old customers and as many new ones as feel inclined to patronize home industries, where fair treatment and polite attention are the motto.

You will find her goods as stylish as many of the city stores show; hand made, no sweat shop goods. She hopes to be located in the new place by December 10th. Get and examine her stock of latest, up-to-date hats, silks, velvets, plush and felt, feathers, ribbons, veils and ornaments, etc.

"To Stay at Home is Best."

It is easy for a woman wage earner to understand why the average man lives in such horror of the social evening. With the hurly-burly of business, talking with many people, the nervous strain and the noise of traffic, the quiet home looks very pleasant. If the adored one can't be dragged out of the house, why not let him stay in? If you don't want to leave him, you can remain with him. You can get to your tea lights and card parties in the afternoon. After all are they so wonderfully fascinating? A flutter of silken skirts, a nibble of chocolate, an exchange of gossip, a how-do, a good-by, and all is over. No wonder the poor man would rather face death. —Record-Herald.

A Real Wonderland.

South Dakota, with its rich silver mine, bonanza farms, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mount City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed near death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhausting coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs. Clapp, "when I began giving Dr. King's New Discovery, the great medicine, that saved his life and completely cured him." Guaranteed for coughs and colds, throat and lung troubles, by Barrington Pharmacy. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Thanksgiving Party.

The Thanksgiving party of the Thursday club occurred at Mrs. Arthur Weichelt's last Friday evening. Three ladies, Mrs. S. Peck, Mrs. J. Collen and Mrs. L. Powers were the committee in charge of all arrangements. They planned progressive cinch as amusement and Mrs. Charles Hawley secured the first prize, a hand painted plate; for those who did not play cards, a game of dominoes was offered and Mrs. H. K. Brockway won a picture. There were present about thirty-four, including gentlemen guests. A luncheon was served.

Photographs taken from now until December 15th will be finished by December 23rd. Kramer, Palatine. Let us figure on your job printing.
