Pictures of The Christ

Reasons For Belief In Authenticity of the Typical Portrait.

AS Easter day approaches Jesus, whose resurrection and ascension this day commemorates, is drawn to our attention, and the question is asked, "Did the Saviour leave his likeness on earth while among men?"

This question is best answered by referring to the remarkable consistency with which Christ has been pictured all through the ages by the world's greatest painters.

Many able and profound students of Christian art have brought forward positive arguments to show that this portraiture did exist in the early decades of the Christian era at the time of Christ and that its history and characteristics fully supply the requisite element of authenticity.

Of the typical portraiture of Jesus, transmitted to us from a time in which the productions of pictorial art were either vernal to history or utterly debased, it stands entirely by itself for purity, for power of conception and for a style of art not belonging and related to none other.

Artistic in its grand simplicity, it is yet distinctly individual and portraiture like in its type. Whether portrayed in humility, in suffering or in triumph, though sometimes severe and rugged, it is still always dignified and majestic. It addresses itself by its infinite tenderness and at the same time by its strength of character so directly to the higher sympathies and aspirations of our nature that it is accepted at once with unhesitating, almost instinctive, faith as the veritable counterpart of the divine original.

Investigation as to the authenticity of the most valuable representations of

Christ, because indubitably the oldest, has been beset with very great difficulties. The Church of Rome, in whose possession most of them are, has guarded them with extreme care, and considering their sanctity, no one can wonder at this or even complain of it. There is in the basilica of St. Peter's, at Rome, in the sacristy over the gigantic statue of St. Veronica, a picture accounted so holy and precious that laymen may never behold it, and it is on the authority of Fathers Gracian and Teyler, who were famous Roman antiquarians in the reign of Pius IX., that even the supreme pontiff looked upon it only once a year, and then only after communion.

It consists of a life-sized head of the Saviour represented as living in the upper. The ascertained history of the picture reaches to the second century.

Second only to this work is the picture in the sacristy of the Church of St. Bartolomeo, in Genoa. The hair is wet and matted; tears and the blood drops from the crown of thorns, so expressive of the stark reality of death, mark the face, but the eyes are closed and nearly closed eyes, the gently parted lips speak not of corruption, but of the spirit of that which is in the midst of the shortly to be accomplished resurrection. This portrait is positive by known to be 1,800 years old, and tradition says it was painted by St. Luke.

A picture in the library of the Vatican at Rome is of a date probably contemporary with the two just mentioned. Legend declares that this also was a production of St. Luke. It is executed in thick water color on a panel of cypress wood, now almost wholly decayed.

Many of the portraits of Christ found in the catacombs afford sufficient evidence that the familiar traits of the hair parted in the middle, flowing to the shoulders and beginning to curl or wave from the ears downward; the thin beard, the mustache and the oval face were recognized as the distinguishing characteristic and true likeness even at the early period.

This type has been followed by all the great painters of Christendom down to the present day. It satisfied Michelangelo. In painting his last picture of Christ he followed the Venetian portrait line for him, as if he had traced it. This likeness of Christ is universally recognized, so that now in every country where we see it palmed it is well known who it represents. — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

AN EXPLANATION.

Mr. Editor: Some persons seem to have the impression that Rev. Dr. Quayle is coming to lecture to the people of Barrington on temperance. This is an error. The lecture does not take place until after the election, and is in no way connected with it. The subject of the lecture is "King Lear," one of Shakespeare's characters. Dr. Quayle is a profound student of the great dramatist, and will entertain and help all who hear him.

GIVEN A SURPRISE.

The ladies of Autumn Leaf Rebekah lodge tendered Mrs. Edward Mager a "surprise" at her home about two miles west of this village Wednesday evening. There were about sixteen friends in the party and it was truly a surprise.

Progressive cinch was the entertainment provided. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mager carried away the first prizes and Miss Alta Powers and Edward Thies second. A lunch was provided by the invading party and was enjoyed by all. A few of the "wise ones" thought it would be more fun and warmer to walk home. The real "wise ones" were those who made the return trip in the bus over the bumpy.

Mesdames Edward Thies and Edward Riecke were the promoters.

A SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

The basket social and minstrel show given by the pupils of the White school under the direction of Miss Alta Powers was a decided success. The program rendered was a credit to Miss Powers. The baskets sold well under the skillful handling of Fred Kirschner, as auctioneer, one basket bringing $5.00. Nearly forty baskets were sold and the net sum of $35.00 realized for the benefit of the school. The local hits and jokes given in the minstrel show were amusing. One "coon" said to another "I know a lock you can't pick." "A Pollock?" "No, a lock of Fred Kirschner's head."

SCHOOL ELECTION SATURDAY.

Don't get so absorbed in the village election as to forget to vote for a president of the board of education next two members Saturday, April 18th. The polls of election are open from 3 to 8 o'clock p. m. in the assembly room of the school. You should be as much interested in the selection of members of this body as you are in the election of village trustees even though there be no "issue." Women having attained their twenty-first year may vote in this election.

Recital By Sears' Pupils.

A recital was given by pupils in Sears' School of Music Friday afternoon, April 19th, at 4:30 p. m. in which the following pupils took part: Misses Edna Pascher, Maud Morrison, Frieda Benhoff, Mathilda Busse, Celma Hansen, Irene Koeler and Almeda Plagge. A recital was given this afternoon at 4:30 in which the following pupils rendered selections: Misses Grace Freeman, Gertrude Hausen-schild, Maud Pascher, Hazel Decker, Colla Hansen, Forest Beaumont, George Schmaeberger.

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing, of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at Barrington Pharmacy, 30c.

Oh, what a sight on Easter morn 'neath April skies of blue
When after church the rabbits stroll along the avenue!
The swells of Bunnyville are there, and every one in town
Is out in Easter suit and hat and stunning Easter gown.
And what excitement stirs the throng, how all the rabbits stare
When Molly Cottontail sweeps by with Mr. Belgian Hare!

SILVER WEDDING.

Silver wedding bells rang merrily in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hobein, northwest of town, Saturday evening, April 11. A large company of their friends gathered to celebrate with them the passing of the twenty-fifth milestone of happy wedded life. The social hour of the evening was preceded by a brief devotional service conducted by the pastor of the Salem church, Rev. Fuesle, who also delivered a congratulatory address. Miss Lucille Lankwer brought the congratulations of the company present, and Miss Minnie Hobein gave a reading of the personal congratulations of the guests followed. After a pleasant social hour a supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobein received many beautiful presents which graced the dining room table. As a thank offering Mrs. Hobein presented to the pastor an envelope containing $100 to be applied on various church benevolences.

Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hobein on the 12th of April, 1918.

PARK CAMPMEETING

At the annual meeting of the Barrington Park Campmeeting association, held in the Salem Evangelical church last week Thursday evening, plans and specifications for a new auditorium were adopted, the building of which is to begin immediately. The building is to be a tabernacle structure the sides of which can be opened or closed according to the weather, and will comfortably seat about 1650, possibly 2000 would represent its utmost capacity. The auditorium will furnish a splendid audience chamber for campmeeting and other gatherings.

The citizens of Barrington are to be congratulated upon the splendid advance made by the association in the improvement of its campgrounds. The association was recently reorganized as a stock company. John C. Plagge was elected president and John L. Melners secretary. Almost enough stock has been subscribed to cover the cost of the new auditorium. It was also voted to build a dormitory. Arrangements are to be made with the Northwestern railroad to stop trains at the grounds. July 4th a union picnic is to be held on the grounds by the churches of the Chicago districts of the United Evangelical church and the Evangelical association. The campmeeting of this year will be held during the latter half of August.

Disappointed Again.

The collapse of the company which was organized in England to prosecute the Dracco claim to the title and estates of the duke of Portland is typical of the fate that usually awaits such enterprises. The corporation was organized and shares were taken by sanguine individuals who professed to believe there really was a chance to oust the present holders of the lands and the dukedom, but who have only complete failure to show in return for the money invested. Schemes of this and similar kinds are not unknown in other countries, including our own. Associations have been formed to go bold of valuable lands, treasure hidden by pirates and other more or less mysterious if not mythical property, but very rarely has there been profit to anyone except the lawyers and other agents who have been paid to look up the cases. Unclaimed and unappropriated estates and unverified titles are by no means as numerous as some credulous persons are ready to believe.

Getting Closer Together.

The Pan-American Scientific Congress, to be held at Santiago, Chile, next December, will be a gathering of much significance. Congress has been asked to appropriate $35,000 of this country may be properly represented, it being in contemplation to send 25 delegates from the United States. Leading universities are taking up the matter and may be represented independently. The congress will consider American social questions, with a view to presenting to the world the advantages of the western hemisphere. The program of the session, which is to begin December 25 and continue ten days, will include a review of American civilization and its development and influence on the world. No necessarily the proceedings will tend to draw the countries concerned into closer and more sympathetic association, and in all this the United States will bear a notable part.

Disastrous spring floods can be prevented, according to the chief hydrographer of the government. He has lately proposed that detention reservoirs be built along the upper reaches of the rivers, in which the rains and melting snows should be collected only to flow out slowly and in such volume as will do no damage to life or property. The loss occasioned by the floods in the valley of the Ohio river in January and March of last year has been estimated at $100,000,000. That sum spent for reservoirs, the hydrographer thinks, would make the valley safe hereafter. The government is already building large reservoirs in the west for the storage of water to be used for irrigation, but the land there is cheap in comparison with that in the Ohio valley; but if the use of thousands of acres for reservoirs would prevent the disastrous floods the residents of the valley would doubtless think that the land was serving a good purpose.

One of the notable new structures in Washington will be the building which is to be the home of the Bureau of American Republics. This there will be provided permanent headquarters for an international organization which is working out great results for this hemisphere. The governing board of the bureau, and another assistant representatives from all the Latin-American countries, has decided by a unanimous vote to place in the building a testimonial to Hon. Elihu Root, secretary of state, in recognition of his services in maintaining and strengthening friendly relations between the Latin-American republics and this government. That is graceful and appropriate action. The form of the testimonial has not been determined, but there is no doubt that something appropriate and dignified will be selected.

War upon anarchists will never be successful as long as it is carried on in a spasmodic manner. When some revolting assassination is committed by these murderers the cry goes out for their suppression and an effort is made to locate them and keep them under watch. They keep in the background then for a time until an opportunity arises and another assassination shocks the world. Until a complete system of police espionage is established in every quarter of the world and anarchists are treated as criminals of the most dangerous sort their villainous deeds will continue.

TO SUPPRESS ANARCHISTS

SPECIAL MESSAGE ON "REDS" FROM PRESIDENT.

Says Further Legislation on Subject Is Necessary—Document Is Very Brief.

Washington.—Suppression of anarchy as the greatest question before the nation was called to the attention of congress by President Roosevelt in a special message. The executive submits what has been done under existing statutes, but says there should be further legislation. The anarchist is declared the enemy of all mankind and no paper, published here or abroad, propagating anarchy should be permitted to circulate in the mails, the president declares. This message, containing only about 100 words, is one of the shortest Mr. Roosevelt has transmitted to congress. With the message he transmitted a report reviewing the legal phases of the question by Attorney General Bonaparte. The message of the president follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I herewith submit a letter from the department of justice, which explains itself. Under this opinion, I hold that existing statutes give the president the power to prohibit the postmaster general from being used as an instrument in the commission of crime; that is, to prohibit the use of the mails for the advocacy of murder, arson and treason. "I shall act upon such construction. Unquestionably, however, there should be further legislation by congress in this matter. When compared with the suppression of anarchy, every other question thinks itself insignificant. The anarchist is the enemy of humanity, the enemy of all mankind, and his is a deeper degree of criminality than any other. No immigrant is allowed to come to our shores if he is an anarchist; and no paper published here or abroad should be permitted circulation in this country, if it propagates anarchistic opinions. CONGRESS MAY QUIT MAY 9.

Representative Watson of Indiana Predicts Early Adjournment.

Washington.—The present session of congress will adjourn on or about Saturday, May 9, was the prediction Sunday night of Representative James E. Watson of Indiana. Republican "whip" of the house, Mr. Watson bases this prediction upon information he has gathered as the result of a careful survey of the situation in the two houses of congress.

During the past few days Mr. Watson has conferred with the leaders at both ends of the capitol in regard to adjournment, and all of them are anxious for an early date. He thinks there is ample time now and May 9 for the completion of the legislative program. The principal measures in the house which remain to be disposed of are the naval appropriation bill, the sundry civil appropriation bill, the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, the military academy bill, and the Aldrich currency measure.

DETROIT JURY IS SCORED.

Judge Angered by Acquittal of Self-Confessed Murderer.

Detroit, Mich.—This is one of the vilest miscarriages of justice that has ever been heard of in this community, said Judge Phelan in the recorder's court Thursday afternoon, when a jury found 18-year-old Percy Bowin guilty of the murder of John Bowin in Woodville, Ont., not guilty of the brutal murder on January 7 of 63-year-old Mrs. Cornelia Welch, proprietress of a disreputable place on Congress street east, which Bowin had frequented. Bowin had admitted his guilt and made a detailed confession of how he killed the old woman and stole and pawned her diamonds. This confession, signed by Bowin, was placed in evidence. Then Bowin took the stand and repudiated it absolutely, saying that Capt. McDonnell induced him to make it by talking of the strong case against him and promising to help him to a pardon later. The captain and other officers denied absolutely. The police offered a great deal of evidence to confirm the statements in Bowin's confession.

OFFERED MONEY FOR MURDER.

Serious Evidence Against Thomas McGoniggle and Mrs. Burnett.

Richmond, Mo.—In the trial here Friday of Thomas McGoniggle and Mrs. Jane Burnett, accused of the murder of Mrs. Margaret McGoniggle, Thomas Bailey, 21 years old, son of a farmer, said that in 1907 Thomas McGoniggle offered him $150 if he would kill Mrs. McGoniggle. Bailey said he refused to do so, and that McGoniggle then threatened to kill him if he revealed what he had said.

Mrs. Fannie Davis testified that Tom McGoniggle and his sister, Mrs. Burnett, had offered her $50 to kill Mrs. McGoniggle. Thomas, she testified, had fixed a bottle of wine with poison in it to give to Mrs. McGoniggle, but witness had destroyed the wine. Then they wanted her to shoot Mrs. McGoniggle, she testified, and leave the revolver and a hat at the house to give the impression that a man had killed her. At another time they gave her some poisoned cake to give to her. Mrs. Jane Burnett, the witness said, had told her that she would kill Mrs. McGoniggle.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN.

Ties Piled on Lackawanna Track Near Lowman, N. Y.

Elmira, N. Y.—A desperate attempt was made Monday night to wreck a west-bound passenger train on the Lackawanna. A pile of ties was piled on the track near Lowman, seven miles east, by piling ties on the track. The train was running 60 miles an hour. The obstruction was on a curve and the train was unable to stop. The locomotive ground one of the ties to pieces and shoved the others along on the rails. When the train was stopped a slight obstruction was found on the east-bound tracks, where a freight train was due.

Berlin.—The historic Garrison church in the Neue Friedrichstrasse, dating from 1702, was completely burned out Monday night, together with numerous organs, regimental short flags carried in various wars, which decorated the central aisle of the church. Only one of these flags was saved. Crown Prince Frederick William, the commandant of the Berlin garrison, and the leading military officers were in the enormous crowd of spectators which witnessed the fire.

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To all its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

"Yes," said the would-be author, "I've taken a home in the country, but it will be necessary for me to engage a gardener. There's quite a plot of ground around the house; too much for me to handle." "Yes," replied Crittiek, "you never could handle a plot, could you?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Recommended His Wife.

Irvine Cobb, humorist of New York, was recommended to a lecture management. The latter sought an introduction through a friend, Mr. McVeigh. "Come here, Irvine, I want you to meet a friend of mine," said McVeigh. After a few minutes' conversation, the lecture man broached the subject of lecturing as follows:

"I was just lecturing yesterday, Mr. Cobb, when you would think of a proposition to do some lecture work next season?" Cobb looked at his questioner for just a moment in blank amazement. Evidently such a thought had never entered his head before. Then reaching out his hand confidentially, he said:

"I've got it. My wife will do it. She is the best one I know."—Lyceum and Talent.

LOST $300.

Buying Medicine When Right Food Was Needed.

Money spent for "tonics" and "bracers" to relieve indigestion, while the poor old stomach is loaded with pastry and pork, is worse than losing a pocketbook containing the money. If the money only is lost it's bad enough, but with lost health from wrong eating, it is hard to make the money back.

A Michigan young lady lost money on drugs but is thankful she found a way to get back her health by proper food. She writes:

"I had been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for six years and spent three hundred dollars for treatment in the attempt to get well. None of it did me any good. "Finally I tried Grape-Nuts food, and the results were such that, if it cost a dollar a package, I would not be without it. My trouble had been caused by eating rich food such as pastry and pork. "The next wonderful thing that ever happened to me, I am sure, was the change in my condition after I began to eat Grape-Nuts. I began to improve at once and the first week gained four pounds. "I feel that I cannot express myself in terms that are worthy of the benefit Grape-Nuts has brought to me, and you are perfectly free to publish this letter if it will send some poor sufferer relief, such as has come to me."

Crime's Prayer Books.

Organized society is fast now paying unusual attention to the work of antagonizing crime and aids to the development of criminal impulse and instinct. We all know how easy it is to see the mote and overlook the beam. There is a beam, and a good sized growth it is, too, in the magazine and novel stories which treat of crimes and give minute directions as to criminal methods. When the results of crime are depicted in stories and the inevitable moral deduced therefrom the use of crime to give point to a story is not objectionable. But the careful working out of the method of a particular crime merely to make a novel an interesting story is to let loose a flood of moral poison. The mind which can find interest in such stuff is not good. If young and weak, it is certain to imbibe the poison and pass over all the moral lesson implied.

Parents are careful to keep their children from association with the children of vicious families for fear of the example that might be set by such association. But the story is also a companion, and the fact that it is printed and finds a place on the family reading table gives it a certain warrant in the eyes of youth. There is enough curiosity and entertaining fiction which is also harmless to keep all the boys and girls amused every leisure hour of their lives. The struggle of a boy or girl in honest endeavor is the most interesting subject ever taken up by an author. Many years ago the prints were filled with stories of poor boys who made their way to the top in New York, then the cities of the metropolis of the western world. These tales were exciting and elevating. Youth revels in stories of real boyhood, as of Lincoln and Webster, for instance. Therefore find inspiration for toil and self denial. But the history of a successful criminal, whether it treats of fact or fiction, is only a text book for surreptitious schooling in crime.

Hooding Up Devil Wagons.

The dozens of more devils on Prince Edward Island wish to continue dwelling there and to have their stay on earth as free as possible from the annoyance of the "devil wagon." They propose to make their wish good by a right law to keep machines off the public roads when the roads are wanted for safe users and safe uses. The island is not large, the roads are narrow and the market towns so far apart that farmers have to drive a long distance for supplies and mails. Twilight is long up in the gulf of St. Lawrence, and teams are often on the roads between market and the farm as late as 10 o'clock at night.

The anti-auto movement in Prince Edward Island is based on the appeal of the farmers for protection. The roads there are good, and the temptation to speeding is great. Nevertheless the farmers help to pay for the highways and do not wish driving into swamps and over rough fields to give right of way to the devil wagons. The auto owners are citizens and taxpayers, too, and perhaps the legislature will divide the apple between the contestants, barring speeding autos in the daytime and granting them full swing at night. If some such law is passed and enforced, there will be at least one enlightened community spared the curse of speed mania.

The epidemic of bomb throwing calls attention anew to the necessity of suppressing anarchy, but does not simplify the work of the suppressors. Russia, Germany and some of the other old world countries where the lawless elements have at least a color of excuse for their outbreaks have a summary way of dealing with the offenders, but in a republic like ours the matter is far less simple. Nevertheless the necessity for stamping out this sort of crime is becoming more and more imperative.

Something in the shape of a Carnegie medal seems to be due the man who keeps right on spading his garden after he has dug up a nice lot of fish worms.

If you are wanting jewelry that adorns, watches that will give correct time, alarm clocks that will awaken you in the early hours of the morning, you can find the needed articles at my jewelry store.

Work has been started in tearing down the brick work of the new boiler erected last summer at the pumping station. The foundation has settled and a more substantial one is necessary.

He moved to Palatine 10 years ago and died on the same farm he bought at that time. Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

Barrington will have the best train service along the line this summer, while poor Palatine must be contented with slow larks which stop thirteen times between here and Chicago. Our neighboring town get it because a number of "big ones" have been attracted to their village; while we get it in the neck because our new residents are only the common people.

Holy Week in Rome

Wonderful Easter Services Held in Old St. Peter's

By Dora Greenwell McChesney

Inexhaustible in its mystic significance, the Holy Week in Rome, however familiar to the memory or imagination, still always a renewed wonder in those who witness it. Above all else Rome is a city of memories. The walls and arches of Imperial days, the Renaissance palaces, and the churches which mark every step in the long march from primitive Christianity to papal supremacy—these stamp themselves on the mind. The incongruous modern elements are as transitory in their impression as is the whirling dust from a motor car blown past the tomb on the Appian Way.

The walls of Aurelian, the statue of Marcus Aurelius, benignant on the capitol, the august disarray of the Forum—these are actual and imperishable. So, too, is the spacious splendor of St. Peter's, with its solemn sequence of ritual, in which, as the Holy Week advances, so mystic and superb a drama of divinity is enacted.

There are many moods in which to approach the great Easter services in the great papal city, from that of the devote to whom the ever-burning lamps round the apostle's tomb mark a spot only less sacred than that of the holy sepulcher itself, to that of the casual sight-seer, who follows his handkerchief unshaken through the awful mystery of the mass. Perhaps those do not see least of the significance who look on the magnificent ceremonies with a haunting consciousness of Rome's twofold greatness, and who never quite lose sight of the city of the Caesars in the city of the saints.

It is impossible even to approach St. Peter's, where most of us choose to see the services, in spite of the rival claims of the Lateran, mother of churches—it is impossible to reach the curving colonnades and mighty front without passing by materials of an earlier, hostile life and creed. Perhaps in driving thither the wanderer may catch a glimpse of the immortal pair, the Great Twin, brethren, who guard in stone the stairs to the capitol. Or, it may be, the shattered, marmoreal columns of the temple of Mars Ultor have lifted for a moment their stern memorial of Caesar's death and Augustus' vengeance.

Once within St. Peter's, however, conflicting memories fall away, lost, as is all sense of minor faults in the building itself, in the impression of vastness, of an all-enfolding and all-reconciling hospitality. That hospitality is taxed by the crowds which throng the services of Holy Week. Palm Sunday initiates the series of elaborate ceremonies with its beautiful rite of blessing the palms. A motor through it is which streams up the wide steps and gathers about the altar above which glows in a golden halo the holy dove. There are the foreign knights-errant, of course, made evident by their camp-stools and red guide-books, but there are also soldiers in picturesque variety of uniform, priests wearing their black draperies in the classic folds which recall the toga, shepherds from the Campagna, bearded and wild-eyed in their sheepskins; pilgrims from far countries with the fixed visionary gaze of those who look on their sacred places after long desire.

Sacred indeed is the spot to those who hold the faith of Rome. In front of the high altar with its baldachin—the twisted bronze columns towering up superbly, yet dwarfed by the framework of the dome above—burn the golden, never-dying lamps which mark the resting place, so tradition says, of the apostle.

But on Palm Sunday the attention is fixed on the altar in the Cappella Giulia, and the pressure of the eager people increases as the hosts of palms are set down by the altar stairs and the canons slowly move to their places. The priests are in violet, the Lenten color. The deep blue brightened by wonderful interweaving of gold and silver, and the crucifix on the altar is also violet-veiled. There is no organ music, and the deep notes of the chanting swell with a strange solemnity through the echoing vaults.

At last the solemn final word and gesture of blessing have been given, and one by one the priests lift and bear away the palm branches. Then the olive, which is given in their stead to the people, is brought forward in great abundance, and a priest in gold-embroidered violet robe holds out the silvery branches to the hands which reach and clutch for them, till all the nearest of the throng have received their portion and pass on twigs to those behind. Peace and blessing is that olive to bring to those who reverently receive the gleaming leaves. The distribution completed, the cardinal and canons with their attendant walk more in stately procession down the church, out into the portico, and so back to the altar. They bear aloft, with the tall tapers and the shrouded crucifix, the golden palm branches; not simple bouquets such as were cast before Christ by the people of Jerusalem. These are fantastically dipped and twisted till they look more like furled standards, a significant touch in that church which is so ready to turn the martyr symbol into the conquering banner.

THE CHRIST

By Charles Eugene Banks

Upon a circle of the sands
Chant front the round, desiring sea,
T'is alone with folded hands
Choking the flow of Gallies.
How like a perfect life grows
His love in this o'er-cast world,
His glory no distinction knows
But is for all alike unfurled.
You trustful gull that rocking sleeps
Upon the beating ocean's breast,
You closely in His heart He keeps
As we who have His name confessed.
The tiger in the jungle weaves
A perfect rounder on his coat,
And clear among the budding leaves
The wild bird spheres his liquid note.
The curving mountain ranges grace
The arching azure's magic ring,
And in the dewdrop's form I trace
The same perfect form of Him.
Gauged within his seed the rose
Pivots the word unquestioning
Cill everywhere the tongs unclose
In resurrection of the spring.
In Him is all the joy we know,
On His way, the life, the final goal,
The fount of Love whose outward flow
Is never-ending birth of soul.

SAN DIEGO EN FETE

ARRIVAL OF FLEET STARTS THE ROUND OF FESTIVITIES.

WELCOMED BY GOVERNOR

Admiral Thomas and Other Officers Are Given Banquet—Beautiful Illumination in the Evening.

San Diego, Cal.—The American battleship fleet, in four regularly-interval columns, with flagships leading abreast, swept into the sheltered cove of the sea behind the towering headlands of Point Loma Tuesday and halted for four days of merry-making for men and officers. Gov. James N. Gillett was here to welcome the fleet. Local committees also went to the Connecticut to tell Admiral Thomas, and through him all the men of the fleet, how glad the people of California are to see such a splendid representation of the American navy as the "battle fleet" constitutes.

At eight Admiral Thomas, Sperry and Emery and the commanding officers and members of the various staffs were entertained at an elaborate but informal dinner at the Hotel Del Coronado.

The beauty of the day's spectacle, when with flashing and wondrously executed maneuvers the ships were brought to anchor in the lazy rolling Pacific waters, was rivalled at night when for three hours every vessel was outlined in fire. Thousands of incandescent bulbs were strung along decks, lines, up masts, far out on the signal yardarm, up and down the huge funnels and down to the water's edge at stem and stern. In fairy-like form the ships stood out against the night and in letters six feet high the name of each vessel was spelled across its forward bridge.

During half an hour of the period of illumination a search light display was made, adding to the wonderful effect. On shore scores of red signal fires were maintained throughout the evening as a welcome sign.

ASKS FOUR BATTLESHIPS.

President Roosevelt Sends Special Message to Congress.

Washington.—President Roosevelt sent a message to congress Tuesday afternoon advocating the building of four battleships.

The message was a brief but vigorous contention for the rapid development of the navy. China was held up as an example of the "peace at any price" doctrine and Great Britain as having the naval policy to be emulated. It was contended that the result of the last Hague conference made it plain that the nations would not for some time, if ever, agree on a plan of limitation of naval armament. Disparity and inequality in the part of the United States ever to engage in a war of conquest, the president made it plain that this country could ill afford to relax into a position where inaction would have to be borne in silence.

DULUTH BANKER A SUICIDE.

Failure Drives Charles F. Leland to Take His Life.

Duluth, Minn.—Despondent over business troubles, Charles F. Leland, formerly president of the Commercial bank, shot and killed himself early Tuesday morning in his room at the 1511 East Superior street. He fired two bullets into his head and death was instantaneous. Mr. Leland leaves a wife and two children. Mrs. Ray Leland and Mrs. Walter Richards, living in Seattle.

The failure of the Commercial bank, which formed the embarrassment of $80,000 of the bank's funds by the teller, preyed upon his mind.

JULIA MARLOWE VERY ILL.

Actress Suffers from Nervous Breakdown—Engagements Cancelled.

New York.—Miss Julia Marlowe is lying seriously ill at the Plaza hotel in this city as the result of a nervous breakdown following a season of ten weeks of one-night stands. Her doctors have ordered the Shuberts, her managers, to cancel all of her engagements for the next fortnight.

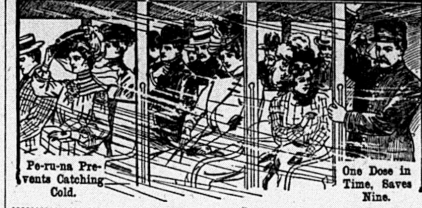

Great Dam in Montana Breaks. Helena, Mont.—Hauser lake dam, across the Missouri river, 15 miles below Helena, gave way Tuesday afternoon with a great crash and precipitated from 25 to 30 feet of water over the dismembered structure.

Plague at La Guaira. Washington.—A disease supposed to be bubonic plague is raging at La Guaira, according to a dispatch received at the state department Tuesday from American Consul Moffat at that place.

Attacks Grain Dealers. Lincoln, Neb.—Complaint was filed with Attorney General Thompson Tuesday by the Nebraska Grain Dealers' association, alleging that it is a trust and as such is trying to drive independent dealers out of business. The complaint is C. F. Valdon, secretary of the Beaver Valley Grain company at Danbury, who asserts the members of the association, who control the business of grain, are paying several cents more for grain at Danbury than the prevailing market prices.

NO ONE CAN ALWAYS AVOID

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Many people persist in riding on the street cars, insouciantly protected by clothing. They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps. The rapid moving of the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especially true when a person is sitting. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the first few pleasant days of Spring, the liability of catching cold is great. No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught. At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears. Do not put it off. Do not waste time by taking other remedies. Begin at once to take Peruna and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Bad Effects from Cold. Mr. M. J. Deutsch, Secretary-Building Material Trades Council, 151 Washington St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have found your medicine to be unusually efficacious in getting rid of bad effects from cold, and more especially in driving away all symptoms of catarrh, with which I am frequently troubled."

"The relief Peruna gives in catarrhal troubles alone is well worth the price per bottle. I have used the remedy for several years now."

Spells of Coughing. Mrs. C. E. Long, writes from Atwood, Colorado, as follows: "When I wrote you for advice my little three-year-old girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She took cold easily, and would wheeze and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour."

"Now we can never thank you enough for the chance you have made in our little one's health. Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of cough, colds and croup, but now she has taken not quite a bottle of Peruna, and is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

Peruna for Colds. Mr. James Morrison, 68 East 16th St., Paterson, N. J., writes: "I have given Peruna a fair trial, and I find it to be just what you claim it to be. I cannot praise it too highly. I have used two bottles in my family for colds, and everything imaginable. I can safely say that your medicine is the best I have ever used."

THE MEAN MAN. "I believe," his wife angrily declared, "that if I were dead you'd be married again inside of a year."

"Oh, no," the mean man replied, "you are mistaken. Try me and I'll prove it."

GIRL WAS DELIRIOUS. With Fearful Ecstacy—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Cuticura Acted Like Magic.

"An eruption broke out on my daughter's chest. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but the disease spread to her back, and then the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. Occasionally she was delirious and she did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first. Then I purchased Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, and before the ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

Her Kick. "John, I wish you could not be quite so polite, and so considerate of me when we are in company."

"Why, dear, I want them—the whole world—to see how I love you."

"That's all right but they—the whole world—thinks I've got you scared."—Houston Post.

PUBLIC'S IDEAS ON LOCAL OPTION

The Good and the Bad of the Temperance Question in the Opinions of Our Readers.

SALOON WITH-OUT DEFENSE.

The principal involved in Local Option is the right of a community to govern itself. This right is guaranteed to us by the laws of the state.

The only question therefore before us is shall we allow the saloon to remain in our midst, or shall we vote
it out? There are many reasons why we ought to vote it out. I mention several of them.

The saloon puts temptation in the way of young men who have begun to drink, and of other men who all too easily yield to the opportunity to gratify a craving for strong drink. The saloon element is recruited from the ranks of the young men.

The whole tendency of the saloon influence is downward. It is demoralizing.
The use of strong drink is detrimental to health and speedily ruinous if taken to excess. The saloon fosters vulgarity, obscenity, profanity, lawlessness, irreligion and the social evil. It is to the body politic what a cancer is to the human system.

The saloon is a menace to the peace and safety of the community. Who can tell what men crazed by drink will do? Murders, suicides, assaults on helpless women, awful accidents and incompetency for business are some of the fruits of the saloon. Drunkenness, wastefulness, penny, cruelty, brutality, idiotcy, insanity and four-fifths of all the crimes committed are traceable to the saloon. This curtails a vast and needless expense.

From an economic standpoint, the saloon is without defense. It represents a ruinous waste of money. More money, at a very conservative estimate goes over the counter of the four saloons in Barrington, than is needed to sustain our public school and the six churches of our village.

Nineteen thousand dollars every year in Barrington goes to the support of the saloons. Now suppose that this money were not used for drink, what would be the result? There would be more money to expend for the comforts of life. The merchants would get more, the bank would have more money on deposit, debts would be more promptly paid, needed improvements on the farm and on the home could be made. Wife and children could have better clothes than some of them have.
There would be money for a restful excursion now and then. The whole community would gradually become better off. In the short space of five years, the community would be better off by more than a hundred thousand dollars. In ten years, counting interest, more than a quarter of a million should be named to represent the gain.

Talk about revenue to run the village! Is it economy to spend nineteen thousand to get back two thousand? If only half of this nineteen thousand is spent by the inhabitants of Barrington, the other half being paid by persons outside the village limits, still there are nearly ten thousand paid out to get back two thousand. Five dollars paid out to get back one. This does not seem like good business sense. A village board made up of careful and competent business men, will find ways of taking care of all our interests without our giving our consent to an institution which ought not to find place in any civilized community.

There is more danger by the free institutions of America today, arising out of the traffic in strong drink, than
from all other sources combined.

THE REAL ISSUE.

TO THE EDITOR:—
According to comment in The Review of April 10 the important issue now before the voters of this village has not changed one iota from what it has been in past years, only in name. Heretofore it has been spoken of as "license or no license," now it is known as "local option."

The issue is not either of the above quoted. Truthfully speaking it is
"shall we as property owners and taxpayers pay for municipal improvements or shall we shift the obligation to the farmers of this vicinity—those who derive no particular benefit from village improvements?"

The question according to comment hinged on it to the report of the last meeting of the "Village club" that no
moral issue but is strictly one of finances.
During the past seven years, in particular, the voters have considered this matter and it has been observed that those who prayed the loudest and the most of the debauching influences of the liquor traffic, have voted the most persistently to keep the saloon. They have preached morality and practiced the worst type of hypocrisy.

Inasmuch to these "prominent ones"
in church and moral work, that they are attempting to evade their just proportion of taxes and they indignantly deny it and say "we are amply able to pay our own bills." But do they do it?

When the question of morals and finance confront them, they (have in the past) forgot all prayers and reference to moral principles.

The question will never be settled by the voters of this community until the matter of financial benefit is eliminated and the fight made on the issue "is the saloon necessary in the progress of Barrington as a resident place—a village of homes?"

There are many prophets just now
as to the outcome of the village election. The result of the primary would naturally lead to the conclusion that the "drys" have it, but it's not all over but the shouting. The fear of an extra taxation is a powerful weapon.

When that certain contingent decides to come out from behind the screen of hypocrisy and votes as it prays, there will be some chance for local option, but if he continues to balk at the polls and take a second look at his pocket book, Barrington will remain very wet.

There are not enough saloon patrons among our population to carry any measure and the result of the acceptance or defeat of the proposition is in the hands of what is termed "the church people."

The proposition truthfully stated should read: "shall the residents of this village pay for public improvements or shall the farmers who make this a market continue to do so?"

The village wants what is best for it and the taxpayers are the doctors in the case. M.

HEARD AT THE M. E. CHURCH.

The evening meeting held at the M. E. Church last Sunday was well attended, the ladies being in the majority however.

The meeting was advertised as one in which prominent citizens would give their views upon the local option question.

Prof. S. J. Fulton gave an address on the origin of the saloon and its evils. He was of the opinion that the $2,000 paid as license from dram shops was not needed to help pay the running expenses of this village the coming year. He quoted figures. His expense account would not allow but $1,070 to pay the interest on general bonds amounting to $450 and other expenses such as the building of crosswalks, assisting in the building of cement sidewalks, legal and other incidental expenses to say nothing of the cost of keeping in repair of streets.
He suggested that money could be borrowed from the water fund. It is said that that is contrary to law.

H. H. Hubbard gave a short talk on the moral question involved, and
M. W. Mattison gave the legal points connected with the abolishing of the saloons, blind pig, etc. In case the local option law becomes effective he said new ordinances would have to be passed to take the place of the ones
now in force as they would become obsolete. He also said that if the board of trustees would not enforce the laws he believed that the Law and Order league of this village would see that they were enforced.

Lewis H. Bennett was introduced as a representative of the village board and took for his subject "Why Barrington should go dry." He did not think that the boys and girls of this town should be tempted by the open saloon nor did he think that the boys would drive to Lake Zurich, Palatine or any other place to buy liquor in case Barrington did become dry. Mr.
Bennett is a candidate for re-election
as village clerk.

DOES NOT PROHIBIT.

I do not think at this time it would show good judgment to vote for local option and lose the revenue of $2,000
received from that source.

Inasmuch as local option does not prohibit I cannot see anything to be gained. Palatine, Wauconda, Lake Zurich, Cary, Algonquin, Dundee and Elgin, all in neighboring towns, have voted to grant licenses. The department stores of Chicago are ever ready to deliver liquors to anyone with the cash.

I understand that at the commencement of the local year, May 1st, there will be only about $200 in the hands of the village treasurer to meet running expenses.

There has been an improved demand
for property under the present conditions and I do not consider that it will be improved by voting out the saloons. I know of other places voting out the saloons that are facing bankruptcy. Barrington will be in no better condition than are they. The better condition should and do respect the laws governing them and under these conditions I cannot believe are doing the great harm some people

would have you believe.

The promoters of local option as a rule are not contributing a large amount to assist in the running of our public schools and other institutions.

TAXPAYER.

THINKS FINANCIAL SITUATION SHOULD NOT MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

The position of the United Evangelical Church, of which the Salem Evangelical church is an organic member,
is above all suspicion or doubt in reference to the liquor traffic and all its accessories.

Among its special rules our church
has the following declaration:

"The business of manufacturing and vendng such alcoholic liquors is also against the principles of morality,
political economy, and the public welfare. We therefore regard voluntary total abstinence from all intoxicants as the true ground of personal temperance, and complete legal prohibition of its traffic in alcoholic drinks as the duty of civil government.

"None of our members shall be permitted to manufacture, sell, or use as a beverage, any intoxicating drinks;
nor to rent or lease property to be used for such manufacture or sale; nor to sign a petition for granting license or enter as bondsmen for persons engaged in selling intoxicating drinks;
nor in anywise to have an interest in,
or countenance and encourage such manufacture or traffic."

The above declaration leaves no doubt as to the duty of every voting member of the United Evangelical Church at the ballot box. No fear of the effects of a financial readjustment ought to drive a man from a consistent adherence to the principles of right.

REV. EDGEE F. FUESSLE.

WHAT THINK YOU?

DEAR EDITOR:—
I am a believer in "no saloons." I do not oppose temperance and would like to see the town "dry."
However, who is worse, the man who openly goes in for his glass of beer and remains only a minute, or the temperance man who stands in a store window, vilely cursing the drinker because he entered a saloon? This was done and in the presence of a lady and a young boy. Which example is the worst? Taking the name of the Lord in vain and speaking vulgarly, or entering a saloon? Surely both men are to be criticised, not alone the one tasting beer. A WOMAN OBSERVER.

FLAG BELONGS TO ALL.

The adoption of the U. S. flag by the prohibition party as its own particular emblem was stopped in Chicago. The flag belongs to all classes, saloon keepers and prohibitionists alike. The so called "stain on the flag" or the liquor traffic, has not been declared by the government as "a stain," therefore the act of calling our flag "stained" is itself mild treason,
even if done with good intentions. A READER.
