BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1908

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

IS MEDICAL EXAMINER

Dr. Sheares Appointed Official

Medical Examiner of U.

S. Marine Corps.

Dr. W. A. Sheares, of this place was recently appointed an Official Medical Examiner for the United States Marine Corps, and young men desiring to enter this popular branch of the service should apply at his office for examination.

Applicants for enlistment in the Marine Corps, must be white, sober, unmarried and between 19 and 25 years of age; if under 21 must have the written consent of parents or guardian; must have good teeth, feet, eye sight and hearing. The minimum height is 5 feet, 6 inches; weight, 120 pounds. An applicant must be respectable. The Marine Corps does not want men who are undesirable in a community and does not enlist such men. In casting his lot with the Marine Corps a young man does not need to be afraid that he is to be associated with a lot of undesirable young men: the tone of the service is high.

After enlisting a young man has no expense, the Government gives him transportation and meals enroute. His pay is absolutely above all expenses. His board, quarters and clothing are the best; his allowance for clothing is about five dollars per month, which supplies him with every article of clothing that he wears as well as his uniform; and if he takes care of his clothing the balance saved is paid him in cash at the end of his enlistment; this frequently amounts to over one hundred dollars. At the end of a four year enlistment he gets four cents a mile from the place of discharge to the place of enlistment for his transportation home. He does not leave the service broke, but has a comfortable sum with which to begin civil life.

The pay ranges from $15 to $100 per month and depends altogether on rank, qualifications, pay proforma and length of service. Only the beginner receives the lowest pay. Bright, ambitious young men can expect rapid promotion; there is no bar to the highest rank in the service. The better the man, the better are his prospects. Entering the Marine Corps does not mean that a young man gives up all chances of advancement. Ambitious young men are the type desired.

"Since the passage of the recent bill giving increase pay to Marines, our pay now compares most favorably with the current rates paid by civilian employers," says First Lieutenant James J. Medley, who is in charge of the recruiting district of Illinois with headquarters at 200 South Clark St., Chicago, Illinois, "in fact, we think that we can offer superior advantages, not only from the pay standpoint, but from the standpoint of the congeniality, attractiveness and peculiar opportunities of our service."

Marines are not sailors. Their duties are purely military and they wear a distinctive uniform of their own which is neat, dignified, and attractive. They serve on board the large battleships and cruisers, but not on the smaller ships. On board ships they are ordered by the Admirals and Captains; guard the ship; man their share of the ship's guns, and are a military company or the soldiers of the ship. They land for drills, exercises and camping ashore whenever practicable.

Marines also serve in our foreign possessions, such as the Philippines, Cuba, Honolulu, etc., and other places where guards are required for our legations.

Expeditious work is the feature of the service that is most interesting. When trouble arises in any part of the world, they are the first on the spot.

In the United States they are stationed at the Navy Yard, where they are always ready for any service required.

A distinct advantage of service in the Marine Corps lies in its varied service. The service is roughly divided: one third on the men-of-war, one third in the United States and one third in our foreign possessions.

Forrest H. Williams, whose father, Mr. H. H. Williams, resides in Barrington, recently caught the inspiration to become a "man behind the gun", was enlisted in the Marine Corps and transferred to San Francisco. Shortly after Williams was enlisted the Main Corps Recruiting Office, 200 South Clark St., Chicago, Illinois, received the following letter from the senior Mr. Williams:

"Rest assured that as a father of

GONE TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Kuhlman Died Monday

at Age of Eighty-

Seven.

A contented old lady who always had a pleasant lot for passers-by died in Barrington, Monday, at a good old age. She was Mrs. Charlotte Kuhlman, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Hannah Smith, on Cook street near the post office. Her familiar figure, sitting in her rocking chair on the porch, wearing a quiet white cap, will be missed by the many to whom she spoke.

Thursday morning of last week Mrs. Kuhlman received a severe shock by a fall to the ground when the rope of a hammock, in which she was seated, broke. She was found groaning, but unconscious and scarcely regained her senses until death came early Monday morning, June 22nd.

For many years she had been subject to sinking attacks and these combined with her eighty-seven years and the effects of the fall, ended the life of a worthy woman. Her endurance had been quite remarkable, as in April she went for a visit of three weeks in western states and returned safely without illness.

Mrs. Kuhlman's birthplace was Deckertown, Hessen, Germany, in July 29, 1821. At eighteen, March, 1839, she married Gottlieb Kuhlman, and when they immigrated to America in March 1865, they were the parents of eleven children, a son having died in Germany and an infant daughter was buried at sea.

They came directly to Barrington township where they have always resided, their last home in the country being the present Bowman farm south of town. Mr. Kuhlman died March 3rd, 1871.

Twenty-nine years ago Mrs. Kuhlman came to Barrington to live at Mrs. Seld's.

Of the nine children brought to America seven are living. They are Mrs. Seld and Mrs. August Miller of Barrington; Charles of Grayslake, Ill.; and Mrs. Helen of Elgin.

Mrs. August Rime of Steinmetz, Nebraska; Henry of Waverly, Iowa and William of Minco, Oklahoma. She was the grandmother of sixty children and great grandmother to eighty-one, most of whom are scattered through western states.

Funeral services were held at Mr. Seld's at one o'clock, Thursday afternoon, and afterwards a church service in St. Paul's Evangelical church of which she was a member. The pastor, Rev. G. H. Stanger officiated and interment was in the church cemetery on Main street.

Notice.
Notice is hereby given that Canada thistles must be cut at once on all property in Cuba township.

CLAIRE C. EDWARDS

Candidate for State's Attorney

of Lake County.

Subject to the Decision of the Republican Party at Primaries to be Held August 8th, 1908.

Claire C. Edwards was born in the town of Avon and reared on a farm about two miles north of Grayslake. He attended the public schools in Lake County, graduating and receiving a teacher's certificate at the age of 16. After two years spent on the farm, he chose the law as his profession and with the end in view, attended the Northern Indiana Normal School; Wheaton College and the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, in all five years.

He then entered the Chicago Law School and graduated therefrom in 1901 and was admitted to practice in all courts in Illinois in the early summer of 1901 and in the United States Courts in February, 1907.

During the eight years spent in college, Mr. Edwards worked and paid his expenses, thus being essentially a self-reliant and self-made man.

Mr. Edwards has been engaged in the active practice of law in Lake County for over seven years, nearly six years of which has been in the city of Waukegan, having had an extensive and varied office and trial practice.

Mr. Edwards has, as the court records will show, been engaged in all cases tried for the past five years, among which might be mentioned, the murder cases of John Sopotny; Setrak Ezekilian; Pilo Salvatore; Pilo Gravano; Mary Rosa Salvatore; Mutio; Harold Mitchell and May Mitchell.

Mr. Edwards has recently been engaged to lecture to the students of the Chicago Law School for the years 1908-9 on the subject of "CRIMINAL LAW," thus being recognized as one of the leading criminal lawyers in the northern part of the state.

By reason of his extended criminal practice and of his having made a specialty of criminal law, Mr. Edwards, if elected State's Attorney, could and would give the People of the County the benefits of this valuable training and experience.

March 1st, 1904, Mr. Edwards formed a partnership with J. C. Davis, and on April 10, 1905, the same was dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Edwards is now engaged in the general practice of law in the new Wetzel Building, corner of Washington and County Streets.

In an interview with a Sun reporter Mr. Edwards stated:

"I am a candidate for this office, standing squarely on my past record, which I well know to be the majority of the voters of Lake county. I have nothing to conceal and no promises to make further than this: 'If elected, I mean to so conduct the office that I can look upon it as a squarely earned and honestly won, that I am doing my plain duty, and to be able after the completion of my term to point to my record as States Attorney with pride.'"

He further stated: "I am the candidate of no faction, association or league, but shall appeal direct to the voters.

If any man is unacquainted with my record, let them inquire of any man that has served on the numerous juries of this county for the past six years."

At the Majestic.

For the week of June 29th at the big Majestic Chicago, a strong summertime undeviled bill has been arranged with special view to a bright, smart, entertainment. Everything is of the touch and go order arranged with the idea of making people forget their hot weather woes for the time being, and yet the array of artists engaged includes some of the best talent belonging to the variety stage. George Abel, the famous English comedian, will bring his capable company to the Majestic theatre on this occasion.

The six musical Noves provide one of the very strongest novelty musical numbers to be seen on any stage. Cameron and Flanagan company offer a comedy sketch involving a scene in an actor's dressing room which next to "The Chorus Lady" is probably the best bit of comedy ever evolved from the conditions that exist behind the scenes. Herbert's great dogs, trained to the minute, and capable of wonderful exhibitions in the line apparently of reasoning powers will provide another special attraction for the bill, while Rice and Cady, the famous sidewalk conversationalists may be depended upon to bring forward a bundle of fresh witticisms pointed at the follies, foibles, and crazes of the present day. Cora Beach Turner with a lively one act play will add to the interest of the program which also includes Beale Browning, the three Reynolds Brothers and the sisters Wemms. In the line of motion pictures there will be new subjects from the most famous studios.

Lecture Was Excellent.

St. Anne's Catholic Church was filled Thursday evening with an audience who took great pleasure in listening to an illustrated lecture on Palestine by the Rev. Father E. J. Fox, pastor of the church.

Many views of that country were given and were pleasing for their clearness and artistic coloring; they were of especial note because the slides were made from snap-shot pictures taken by Father Fox and party during their trip; the pictures were given a touch of realism to those viewing them by the fact that the gentleman himself appeared in several.

An imaginative and attentive mind could feel that the journey had been taken in person, for the lecture was so interestingly given. Father Fox ever enlightens his audience and tells of his travels with a touch of humor.

BACK TO THE SIMPLE LIFE IN OYSTER BAY.

CANADIAN TOWN IS BURNED

BUSINESS SECTION OF THREE RIVERS DESTROYED.

Loss is Over $1,000,000—Soldiers and Firemen from Other Cities Help Fight the Conflagration.

Three Rivers, Que.—Fanned by a high wind, a fire which broke out shortly before noon Monday in a stable was not checked until the greater part of the lower town, containing the business section of the city, had been consumed. Then, with the assistance of firemen brought by special trains from Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke and Grand Mere, it was held in check.

Almost every building of any consequence in that section of the city was destroyed, including the only hotel worthy of the name with one exception, the fine building of the Hochelaga bank and most of the leading stores. Over 100 buildings were burned. The loss is more than $1,000,000.

The narrow streets of the town and the inflammable nature of many buildings rendered the task of the firemen an almost impossible one. Outside the town is located the camp of the Sixth military division, and soon after the fire started a thousand men were sent to help fight the flames. The local brigade was entirely ineffective when it came to coping with a conflagration and the soldiers rendered the best assistance they could, but their bucket brigade was not equal to the task.

Fort Chester, N. Y.—A fire here Monday destroyed a block of buildings, occupied chiefly by business firms, rendered 40 families homeless and estimated a loss of $500,000.

The fire broke out in the Burns Irving stable, occupied in part by the Boston's Condensed Milk company, and was soon beyond the control of the firemen. Aid was asked from Rye, Harrison, East Port Chester and Greenwich fire departments. The entire block bounded by West Chester avenue, Broad street and Factory place was consumed and buildings on both sides of Irving avenue were destroyed. The Baptist church was partly burned.

New Aerodrome Succeeds.

Hampden, N. Y.—The successful flights, one of which is said to be the longest ever made in public by a flying machine in America, were accomplished Sunday by the new aerodrome No. 3, known as the Curtis "Junebug." The aerodrome in its last flight of the day rose smartly from the ground and covered a distance of 1,566 feet at the rate of 34 1/2 miles an hour.

Kentucky Bank is Closed.

Dover, Ky.—The Citizens' bank of this town closed its doors Monday. At the meeting of the directors Monday it was discovered that neither a single piece of paper nor a cent of money was in the safe.

The bank was capitalized at $7,500, with deposits amounting to only $7,000. It is claimed the closing of the bank was necessary by the recent closing of a bank at Aberdeen, O.

Queen of Spain Has Another Son, Madrid.—A son was born to Queen Victoria of Spain Monday night. Queen Victoria, formerly Princess Ena of Battenberg, and King Alfonso were married at Madrid on May 31, 1906. Their first son was born on May 10, 1907.

Want Johnson on Ticket.

Denver, Colo.—When among the few Democrats who have come to Denver to attend the Democratic convention which will be held in this city beginning two weeks from Tuesday, the choice of a candidate for vice-president is the leading theme, and it is already evident that the respect at least the convention will be a counterpart of the Republican convention. As a choice among candidates John Johnson has decided lead. Little attention is paid to the announcement that he is not a candidate.

BLOODY FIGHT IN TEHRAN.

Cossacks Bombard Parliament Building—Casualties Are Numerous.

Teheran.—After a bloody fight which was waged around the parliament building Tuesday, the city was comparatively quiet at night, although the Cossacks were camped in the streets and squares.

Cossacks and soldiers early in the morning surrounded the parliament and demanded that a number of persons, whose arrest the shah had ordered, be forthwith handed over to them. Parliament refused to comply with this demand and shots were fired at the troops, several soldiers being killed. Orders were at once issued from military headquarters that the parliament building be bombarded and the bombardment commenced soon after ten o'clock. While this was in progress bombs were thrown from the parliament building and the mosque adjoining, disabling one of the guns and wounding the gunners. Eventually the halls of parliament were cleared, but not before many persons had been killed and wounded.

PRESIDENT AT OYSTER BAY.

Roosevelt Family Open Up Their Summer Homes.

Oyster Bay, L. I.—The president and his family reached here Saturday evening after an uneventful trip from Washington.

The members of the president's family with him were Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and Master Quentin Roosevelt. Miss Roosevelt took with her her brocade building, which she held by a stout leather strap. The president shook hands with all those left behind at the White House, and Assistant Secretary Latta to the domestics in the basement.

Most of the executive office personnel went to Oyster Bay, including Secretary Loeb, Assistant Secretary Foster, confidential clerks and stenographers. This summer the White House will be refurbished and most painting and other overhauling done in the absence of the presidential family.

W. B. LEEDS DIES IN PARIS.

Noted American Financier Said to Have Left $35,000,000.

Paris.—W. B. Leeds died suddenly at the Ritz hotel in this city Tuesday. Mrs. Leeds was with him. He had been ill for some years. Mr. Leeds came abroad for the benefit of his health.

It is said here that Mr. Leeds, who was at one time president of the Rock Island railroad, leaves a fortune larger than his own. Intimate friends in Paris Tuesday estimated his wealth at $35,000,000.

Reign of Terror Prevails in Shah's Capital, Which Has Been Declared in a State of Siege.

London.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Teheran, telegraphing Wednesday evening, says: "The bazars were reopened Wednesday and for a time everything was quiet. During the course of the afternoon, however, the Cossacks began bombing some of the grandees' residences in which it was supposed opposition leaders had taken refuge. As usual, looting followed the bombardment, the populace helping the troops to ransack the houses.

"A reign of terror prevails here and it is not known how far the shah is prepared to go in the way of violence. He is now taking steps to prevent an increase of the occasional terrorist attacks on the Cossack patrols."

Washington.—It was learned at the Persian legation here that the city of Teheran has been placed in a state of siege by royal edict. Owing to exciting conditions, the Persian minister said, his government has detailed troops to safeguard the inhabitants against any further attacks by the political chiefs gathered at the mosque of Ghehlaar and the Andjuman Atehabian, revolutionary organization.

"The state troops having been attacked with bombs by the revolutionists," said Gen. Mortez Khan, the Persian minister, "and several persons having been killed and wounded, in order to stop the continuation of these troubles and the infusion of blood, the city of Teheran, by royal edict, has been declared in a state of siege."

The minister desired to correct the statement that 10,000 had been killed in political riots in Persia during the past few years, saying that the number would not exceed 3,000.

CLEVELAND'S DEATH SHOCK TO COUNTRY

Ex-President Succumbs Unexpectedly, Though He Had Long Been Ill.

Great Democrat, Twice President of the United States, Dies at His Home in Princeton, Aged Seventy-One Years--Sketch of His Career, from Poor Boy to the Highest Elective Office in the World--Famous Venezuelan Message

Princeton, N. J.—Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States, died suddenly Wednesday at his home here.

Mr. Cleveland had been a sufferer from gout and diabetes for more than two years. Early in 1906 he was stricken with an attack of indigestion, the result of diabetes, and for weeks was unable to partake of any except liquid nourishment.

A journey in the south improved his health considerably, and his sudden demise comes as a complete surprise.

A statement, signed by Dr. Joseph B. Bryant, Dr. George R. Lockwood and Dr. J. M. Camochan, explaining the death of their patient, was given out: "Mr. Cleveland had for many years had suffered from repeated attacks of gastric intestinal origin. Also he has a longstanding organic disease of the heart and kidneys, and his failure complicated with pulmonary thrombosis and oedema were the immediate causes of his death."

Cleveland's Early Struggles.

Grover Cleveland was born at Caldwell, Essex county, N. Y., March 15, 1837. As a country boy, he left home when 16 years of age, charged not only with the necessity of making his own way in the world, but with the responsibility of providing for his mother and sisters. He fought the battle steadily and not only won, but achieved the highest honors that can come to an American.

His father was a Presbyterian minister. The son was christened Stephen Grover, in honor of Rev. Stephen Grover, who had preceded Rev. Mr. Cleveland in the pastorate of the little church at Caldwell. In even the earliest childhood of the boy, however, the parents omitted the name Stephen and addressed him always as Grover. The son always signed his name as Grover Cleveland.

In 1841 the family removed to Fayetteville, N. Y. They lived afterward at Clinton and Holland Patent, Grover, while he attended school, served in his spare hours as clerk in a country store.

His father died in 1853. His money, it was found, had been expended for the education of his children. It devolved upon Grover, then 16 years of age, to qualify as a contributing member of his family. Through his brother, who was connected with the New York institution for the blind, he secured appointment there as assistant teacher.

Attracted by Law Career.

Two years gave him enough of teaching. He was ambitious to become a lawyer and to work in a field that offered more advantages than could be found in the state. The city of his choice was Cleveland, Ohio. All of his spare earnings having been sent to his mother, he required borrowed capital to get his start in the world. The amount of this capital was $50 and the friend who gave it to him was an old man who had been a deacon in his father's church. The lender's security was a note signed by the boy. That it was sufficient was proved two years later when he received a remittance covering the amount of the loan with interest.

Grover started in 1855 for Cleveland by way of the Erie canal. He stopped over for a day at Buffalo to visit a rich uncle, Lewis F. Allen. The latter prevailed upon the youthful pilgrim to make his home in Buffalo. He provided Grover with six weeks' work at $10 a week to assist in the compilation of a herd book and secured for him a place in the office of a prominent law firm. As a law clerk he received $4 a week.

In 1859 Cleveland was admitted to the bar. He remained in the service of the law firm as managing clerk, in view of which display and honor his stipend was increased to $10 a week. On January 1, 1863, he was appointed assistant district attorney of Erie county. He allowed himself the bare necessities of life. Every surplus dollar was sent to his mother and sisters. At this time he was drafted for service in the union army. He borrowed money and sent a substitute to the war. Much was made of the fact in the political campaigns of later days. Friends of Cleveland replied that his action was in accordance with the custom of those days, when some members of a family went to war, while others remained to care for the dependent ones. As to the question of his brothers being in the army.

Entrance Into Politics.

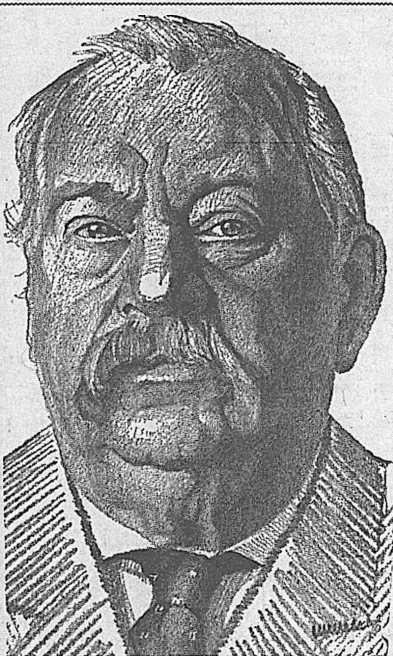

In 1865 Cleveland was nominated for district attorney. He began the prac-of government, but he gave keen attention to the matters brought before him for action. When these seemed not to be for the public good his disapproval was expressed promptly and with the plainest words in his vocabulary. From 12 to 14 hours a day was devoted to the investigation of bills and reports submitted to him for action.

On July 11, 1884, in Chicago, he was nominated to oppose James G. Blaine in the campaign for the presidency. A slender plurality in New York state turned the scale and he became the first Democratic president since the civil war. The second time in his life that he visited Washington was when he went to the capital to take office as president. His bearing on the stand erected for the inaugural revealed his masterful character to the experienced statesmen who sat around him. Stretched before him were more people than he had ever seen assembled for any purpose. They were enthusiastic, but neither their demonstrations nor thought of the grave responsibilities he was about to assume affected him in the slightest degree. He was calm as any man there having nothing at stake. When the time came to speak he advanced to the balcony and coolly as a lawyer in court. Deliberately and in a strong voice he delivered his address of 8,000 words, and he shattered all precedents by giving it from memory instead of from manuscript. He declared for the Monroe doctrine, economy, protection of the Indian, security of the freedmen, and for civil service.

Famous Venezuelan Message.

The death of Mr. Cleveland will recall to all the days when he was the most forceful figure in American public life. Nothing which he ever did while president attracted more attention than the famous message he sent to congress in December, 1895, on the subject of Great Britain's controversy with Venezuela over the boundary between the latter country and British Guiana. The foundation for Mr. Cleveland's message was the note of Secretary of State Olney to Lord Salisbury, the British minister for foreign affairs. That note was written during the congressional recess, three months before congress convened, and before Mr.

THE LATE EX-PRESIDENT GROVER CLEVELAND.

It was an honorable title. Buffalo had long been in the grip of unscrupulous politicians.

Grown arrogant from power and rich from graft, they had come to regard rule wholly to their interest as a settled right. Mayor Cleveland disabused their minds. Raids on the treasury were blocked by his veto. Officials were warned that their allegiance was due the people. Claims of friendship and the pressure of powerful influence were without effect upon him. His sturdy fight in the interest of his "employers" were widely published and attracted attention throughout the state.

Governor of New York.

So it happened that when the Democrats in 1892 cast about for a candidate for governor their eye naturally turned toward Buffalo. Grover Cleveland was placed at the head of their ticket. He was elected over Charles J. Folger, then secretary of the treasury, by 500,000 plurality. Cleveland's record as mayor and his overwhelming victory in the election made him a national figure. There was widespread curiosity about the man who would pursue as governor. He gained new celebrity through his victory. He refrained from discourses on public affairs and framed no theory.

YOU'RE TOO THIN.

Even Slight Catarrhal Derangements of the Stomach Produce Actual Fermentation of the Food.

It's Stomach Catarrh

Some people are thin and always remain thin, from temperamental reasons. Probably in such cases nothing can be done to change this personal peculiarity.

But there are a large number of people who get thin, or remain thin, who naturally would be plump and healthy but for some digestive derangement. Thin people lack in adipose tissue. Adipose tissue is chiefly composed of fat.

Fat is derived from the city constituents of food.

The fat-making foods are called by the physiologists, hydrocarbons. This class of foods are not digested in the stomach at all. They are digested in the duodenum, the division of the alimentary canal just below the stomach. The digestion of fat is mainly, if not wholly, the work of the pancreatic juice. This juice is of alkaline reaction, and is rendered inert by the addition of acid. A hyperacidity of the digestive fluids of the stomach passing down into the duodenum, destroys the pancreatic fluid for digestive purposes. Therefore, the fats are not digested or emulsified, and the system is deprived of its due proportion of oily constituents. Hence, the patient grows thin.

The beginning of the trouble is a catarrhal condition of the stomach which causes hyperacidity of the gastric juice. This hyperacidity is caused by fermentation of food in the stomach. When the food is taken into the stomach, if the process of digestion does not begin immediately, actual fermentation will take place. This creates a hyperacidity of the stomach juices which in their turn prevent the proper digestion of the oils, and the emulsion result.

A dose of Peruna before each meal hastens the stomach digestion. By hurrying digestion, Peruna prevents fermentation of the contents of the stomach, and the pancreatic juices thus preserved in its normal state. It then only remains for the patient to take a sufficient amount of fat-forming food, and the thinness disappears and plumpness takes its place.

IMPRESSED THE LITTLE ONE.

Department of Colored Gentlemen a Matter of Admiration.

Little Elsie, who had recently returned from a visit to Washington, was describing to her companion some of the wonderful things she had observed in the Capitol City.

"One evening," said she, breathlessly, "I happened to have been suggested at a grand hotel where the dining room was awfully big, and at the tables around us sat great senators and representatives with their wives, drinking champagne!"

"I suppose the manners of these great persons were perfect," remarked her companion, with wide-eyed eyes.

"Yes," returned Elsie. "But," she added, with a sudden burst of enthusiasm, "the department of the colored gentlemen who served the wine was perfectly beautiful!"

A Lodge in Africa.

Some weeks ago James Creelman started in Pearson's Magazine that President Roosevelt wished to isolate himself as far as possible at the expiration of his term in the White House and would go to Africa for that purpose. The president has since stated that he has given up Africa as his destination. Mr. Creelman's guess may have been inspired from the White House in so far as it related to Africa, and perhaps he spoke by the card in giving reasons for the African trip. He stated that the president wants to get out of reach of the telegraph and the interviewer and hold aloof from political events centering in Washington.

Africa can still offer a wilderness to the tired man, but not as easily as in the days of Livingstone, who was lost to the world for many years. In Livingstone's day the African continent was known to civilized man only along its margin and here and there where some venturesome explorer had penetrated to the interior. The region which was the scene of Livingstone's travels and discoveries and of the labors of his contemporaries, Speke and Burton, is now provided with railway and telegraph, and steamboats ply upon lakes which, when their existence was first announced by the discoverers, the world refused to believe in. It is now possible to travel by rail and boat east and west through the heart of the dark continent from ocean to ocean, and in a north and south direction only about 800 miles of track are wanting to make continuous rail and boat communication between Cairo and the Cape.

Of course the African jungle remains, and there the man who is daring enough can lose himself to all intents and purposes and stay lost if he chooses during the lifetime of at least one administration. It is only fifty years since the continent was opened to the white man, and nearly half of that period was given to exploration and mapping and the introduction of the white man's methods. Of the millions of natives of Africa the mass are as wild as they were when Livingstone was among them. The work of missionary and teacher has just begun. As for big game, there is enough left to furnish sport for a man who prefers elephant and lion hunting to the customary quiet retirement of a White House graduate. At any rate, in Africa the strenuous Roosevelt need not chafe in inactivity as he might feel compelled to should he accept the traditional role of an American ex-president.

A War to Push Along.

President Roosevelt's acceptance of the presidency of the International tuberculosis congress, called to meet in Washington in September, again brings to the fore this organized effort to stamp out one of the chief enemies of the race in modern times. This war cannot have too many recruits, and it is getting them from all countries of the world. Instead of being a foreign bore struggle, as was believed not many years ago, the campaign against the "white plague" shows results every year. Study and experiment have given the experts knowledge of the disease, and the mass of the people have ceased to despair at the first appearance of the dread symptoms.

Two important points have been impressed upon the public mind by the successful experiments of doctors made known through the deliberations of congresses and the publications emanating from them. Oxygen is now known to be a curative agent, and if taken in its incipient stage, it can be cured. Once knowledge of the first symptoms of the infection can be carried to every adult in the land the ravages of tuberculosis can be reduced to the minimum. One of the objects of associations formed to fight this war is to spread this knowledge broadcast as quickly as possible. When people know the signs they will also avoid contamination. A later but not less important work will be the regular inspection of children and youths and the separation of the healthy from contact with those infected.

A dollar lost is often a dollar made in experience.

Thinks It Saved His Life.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No. 435 Houston St., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at Barrington Pharmacy 50c.

A Proxy Father-in-law

By C. L. Lewis

It was reported that the Hon. John Sharpe had been hit by two fatal shots and that he had been killed.
One of his friends was the P. and O. railroad, in which he owned a controlling interest. He knew every foot of its route and kept himself posted on all details.

His other father was his daughter
Edith, having followed her school days,
should interest himself in the P. and O.
even as he had. If she had been cut out for an old maid or a business woman
she might have obeyed orders literally, but as it was she had to assume an interest she did not feel.

The Hon. John lived in Chicago, and his pet line was further west. When he was called to a trip over his line he would take a train and bring other lines on the Stock Exchange or by some city coup, he would order the general superintendent or other official into Chicago to report details and plan improvements.

If it wasn't the general superintendent
it was one of a division or a division and bridge builder. He had them at his house that his daughter might hear and secure experience and when they had departed he would go over the matter again with her to make sure that she understood.

When the civil engineer engaged in building the bridge over Centipede creek was called to be called to the main. The Hon. John was in high feather that day. He had secured a small contract over a rival line and had been told that the bridge could be built for $25,000 less than the estimated cost. He stretched his tongue to infringe the engineer to dinner and to ask Miss Edith to play the piano afterwards.

Then two or three things happened that he didn't take cognizance of, although he was rated a keen and observant man.
From that night Miss Edith began to take more interest in railroad matters, especially in the department of bridge building, and Mr. Harverson, the engineer, sent in reports that seemed to necessitate his visiting Chicago much more than before.

As punctually as the clock the Hon.
John Sharpe took a trip over his line in his own private car every three months. Miss Edith had accompanied him twice before her sudden great interest had come to the surface, and her enthusiasm over the third approach trip pleased him that he had petted her golden hair and feathery observed:

"To any one your father's daughter after all. You will come back better posted on the railroad business than any other girl in America."

"It must take a very brainy man to construct such a bridge as I have heard you and Mr. Harverson talking about,"
she said, with a suggestive
"It does, my dear—a very brainy man."
"And one pretty certain to rise in the world."

"Um—yes."
The Hon. John had risen in the world, and he took care to let the world know it. But he was rather opposed to any one else rising, especially any body employed on the P. and O. road.

Most of the cruelty of the world is thoughtless cruelty. Very few people would intentionally add to another's load or make his burden in life heavier or his path rougher. Most of the great wounds and indignities are inflicted by thoughtless thrusts, flung out often in a moment of anger, when perhaps we were too proud to apologize or too busy to begeth the grievous wounds we had made.

Can anything be more cruel than to discourage a soul who is struggling to
to the best he can, to throw stumbling blocks in the path of those who are trying to get on in the world against
great odds?

No life is just the same as you have once touched it. Will you leave a ray of hope or one of despair, a dash of light or a smoldering cloud across some dark life each day? Will you by thoughtless cruelty deepen the shadow which hangs over the life, or will you by kindness dispel it altogether? No matter how you feel or what is disturb your peace of mind, never allow yourself to send out a discouraging, a cruel or an unkind word or thought.—Success Magazine

A Lost Dime.
A man one day called upon the first John Jacob Astor with a business proposition which demanded an investment of $100,000. His guest, listening to the plan he kept grooping and feeling about on the floor for something he seemed to have lost.
When the plan had been explained he said readily: "All right. I'll furnish the money." At the time a small entered to tell him that one of his buildings had burned down.

"That happens nearly every day,"
he said, with the utmost unconcern, and went on feeling about with great care for the something on the carpet.
Finally the visitor was curious enough to inquire what he had dropped.

"I dropped a dime here a moment
ago," he replied, "and I can't find it.
If a man's buildings burn down they are gone, and he can't help it, but a man who deliberately throws away 10 cents because he won't take the trouble to look for it is not to be forgiven."

The more you think over the more you will see the good sense in this piece of philosophy.

Friends at college. I loved to find him here."

To his astonishment Barbara burst out laughing, revealing two very beautiful dimples in her glowing cheeks.
She recovered herself with evident effort.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Amidon.
There must be some mistake. You see, this is my only brother," she said as she lifted Richard Junior off his feet and then let him down again with a suddenness that evidently tickled that young man's fancy.

"Well, it couldn't have been your father," ventured Amidon.
At the absurdity of this suggestion
Barbara and John both laughed heartily. Then Barbara had an idea.

"Why, of course, you mean Cousin Dick. Are you a Harvard man?" John nodded. "Nineteen," he informed her.

"How stupid of me not to have thought of that at once!" Barbara accused herself. "But, you see, '98 is a pretty long time ago, and Dick has been abroad nearly ever since he left college."

It was all such a ridiculously mixed up state of affairs—the idea that Cousin Dick was married and that Richard Junior was his son; that Barbara was Dick's sister—when in reality, as it turned out, Dick had no sister, that most comical of all, Barbara was "about thirty"—well, what was there to do but to laugh and laugh about it?

"But how," suddenly broke out Barbara, "did you happen to find us here in Mount Vernon? Did the family live in New York, you know?"

"What part of New York?" asked
"Washington square."
And then followed more explanations
and more laughter.

When Mrs. Mallory returned from town at luncheon time she found Barbara and John in the midst of an exciting tennis match.

"Who's playing with Barbara?" she questioned Richard Junior after several fruitless attempts to recognize "the young man."
"A man I brought from the station," Richard informed her brightly.

"Richard, what are you talking about?
What's his name?"
"Barbara will tell you. She likes him.
They're laughing lots."

The introduction, with its subsequent explanations, at last over, Mrs.
Mallory was all charming hospitality.
"Of course you must do up and stay with us while you're here, Mr. Am-idon. The city is so disagreeable in warm weather. It's a great privilege to be able to do anything for Dick's friends. We're all most fond of him, but he gives us very little chance to show it. You will make this your headquarters, won't you?"

John Amidon held to hold on to his good and hard. He was so happy that he feared he would appear over-eager in accepting the invitation.

Of course John Amidon felt head over heels in love with Barbara. Of course he decided to spend the whole summer in the east, and, of course, at the end of the summer he wrote to his chum, Dick Mallory, commanding his congratulations.

"You're going to marry Barbara, aren't you?" asked Richard Junior, bobbing abruptly out from under the hammock where the lovers were sitting one evening at twilight.

"You bet I am!" exclaimed John,
catching him up affectionately.
"What will be then," queried the puzzled Richard, "your cousin or your sister?"

"You? Why," said John, laughing.
"Yes, Mr. Harverson may rise in his profession," he reluctantly admitted,
"but you must remember the social guilt now existing between us, and you and I are the owners of the P. and O. road. Mr. Harverson is an employee."

Ten days previous to the start on the third trip the Hon. John discovered something that threw him into a fervid dither. It was not that his daughter in her enthusiasm to learn more about railroad bridge building was writing to the engineer for further information about the cantilever principle or
to the best he can, to throw stumbling
blocks in the path of those who are trying to get on in the world against
great odds?
