SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED

Republican Candidates Who Have Shown Their Abilities.

Whether Taft or Bryan will be the next president will be decided within the next ten days. The voters have a choice between a man who has had experience in executive office and one who has not had such experience. In Taft they have a man who has proved himself a safe and sane leader, a man whose experience on the bench and in high executive position has especially fitted him to carry out the Roosevelt policies. The Republican party never nominated a man for presidency better qualified for it by practical training and education. His administration in the Philippines, his labors in Cuba and Panama and his record on the bench and as secretary of war assure the people before the election what Mr. Taft will do after he is elected.

CHARLES S. DENEEN.
The country ticket is equally as worthy the hearty support of the people as the national and state tickets. The country districts should be especially interested in their representatives for the reason that they have made exceptional records in the offices they have filled and for which they are seeking re-election. William H. Weber, the republican candidate for assessor, has been a member of the board of assessors since its organization and has gained experience that makes his services of great value to the taxpayers of Cook county. His record has earned him a re-election. Peter M. Hoffman has made an excellent record as assessor. He has given the office an importance and a position before the public it never before occupied.

If results count the retiring mem-

WILLIAM H. WEBER.
Members of the county board, who are candidates for re-election will be kept in their present positions. The five county members have been especially efficient and have contributed more than their proportional share to the marked achievements of the last two county boards. The president of the board, Hon. William Huse, is a county member. During the ten years he has been on the board he has devoted his time and labors to introducing business principles in the county institutions. As president of the board he installed a modern business system in the various fee offices and is now exerting every effort and means in his power to put county finances on a permanent cash basis.

Under his administration the county institutions have been economically and efficiently managed. An investigation of the hospitals in a number of eastern cities by a committee of the board last year failed to discover any charity hospital that rendered better service or was managed as economically as the Cook Co. institutions. At the Boston City Hospital the cost per capita per day was found to be $2.41 per patient; at New York City hospitals, $2.42 at Montreal, $1.75; at Baltimore, $1.25. At the Cook County Hospital last year the cost was 95 cents.

Mr. Huse was chairman of the special committee which had charge of the preparation of a new set of abstract books which are now producing a net income of $25,000 a year. Cook county has the best equipped abstract department in the country and is making abstracts more speedily and cheaply than any private concern in Chicago.

Mr. Huse made the county farm, which had been the source of annual loss, yield a profit of $11,000 last year. He actively supported the bill before the last legislature which provides for turning the insane asylum at Danmure over to the state. This will save Cook county $20,000 a year.

The charity side of the board's work has not been neglected. A new county farm has been purchased on which a new infirmary is being built. After this has been done the insane asylum is to be turned over to the state. Before the purchase arrangements were made with the Rock Island railroad company for passenger and freight rates much cheaper than the county is now getting for Danmure or than could be had on the Northwestern road. Construction work has begun on the new infirmary and a new consumptive hospital, both of which will be models of their kind and will be built on the most approved, modern scientific lines. The same business principles that made great successes of the new courthouse and the juvenile court building are being applied to the new building operations.

The retiring members of the board from the country districts, besides Mr. Huse, are August C. Baebler, Blue Island; Joseph Carolan, River Forest; William C. Hartney, Evanston; and Alfred Van Steenberg, Lansing.

Mr. Huse is a candidate for county commissioner as president of the county board.

Vote for him twice, once for Commissioner and once for President of the Board.

ABROR DAY TOMORROW.

Deploable Scarcity of Trees in School Grounds.

It will be remembered that Governor Deneen appointed two days to be observed as arbor and holidays this year. The first one was Friday, April 24th and the second one is set for Friday, October 23rd, tomorrow. In his proclamation the governor says: "A date in the spring cannot be fixed that is suitable for both the northern and southern parts of the state. The day most suitable for planting must be chosen. Of course the spring date has been accepted for this part of the state, although both days should be noticed."

Something which is probably not generally known but which is, also, true, is that we have 3,250 school grounds without enough, and 1,414 without any trees.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Arnold-Otis Nuptials Performed

Yesterday at High Noon.

The marriage of Miss Beulah Otis, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Otis of Lake street, took place at high noon, Wednesday, October 22nd. Relatives were gathered at the Otis home to witness the ceremony which united one of our most popular young ladies to the Rev. John Arnold, pastor of the Highland Park Methodist church, Des Moines, Iowa.

Rev. Gagner, formerly of the Baptist church here; and now of Milwaukee read the service, which was followed by a luncheon at which eighteen were seated.

Those present were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robertson and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Otis of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. William Cannon, George Otis, Dr. Henry Arnold, the grandparents and aunt of Miss Otis from Iowa, Miss Krueger of Maplewood and Newell Balfour, a friend of Rev. Arnold's from Oesola, Iowa.

Rev. and Mrs. Arnold remained here and will leave the last of the week for Des Moines. "The lady's departure from this village will be a source of regret to many. Her musical abilities and sweet disposition have always made her a favorite socially and in church and club work."

STATE GETS INTEREST NOW.

Under Governor Aligold It Paid Interest on Funds Borrowed by the Democrats.

If one desires to see the difference between a business administration and one of unbusiness-like character, all he has to do is compare the last Democratic administration with the present Republican administration. Under Governor Aligold the state paid interest on funds borrowed by the Democrats.

Under Governor Deneen the state receives the interest. The following table shows the difference:

Item	Amount	Total
Charitable Institutions	$17,111.10	$250,700
Illinois Ave.
Grand St. R.	1,258.89	6,203.26
Grain office		1,587.57
Grain office		210.05
East St. Lanes		1,434.17
Southern P.		3,573.14
University of Illinois		10,520.94

$19,070.00 $250,700.29

The only department from which the state received any interest under Aligold was the insurance department. The law requiring the insurance commissioner to pay three-fourths of the interest received by the state. The insurance commissioner paid to the state $20,000 during the Democratic administration. Under Deneen's administration, with any law requiring it, the insurance commissioner paid to the state $12,245.82 interest.

State Treasurer John F. Shubert reported Sept. 20, 1908 that he had turned into the treasury interest on state funds amounting to $153,128.55. This sum covered the period of his administration beginning in January, 1907. He agreed, when nominated, to give the interest to the state. Including the sum turned over by Mr. Shubert the state has received, through the efforts of the present administration, interest on public funds aggregating $297,172.57.

First Thought to State.

No one has been able to make that Governor Deneen has been particularly cold-blooded when the people's interests were concerned.—Canton Register.

Campaign of Reason.

This is a Republican campaign of reason not rant, of argument, not agitation. Mr. Taft, the candidate, makes it effective advocate. The more the country sees of his personality the more assured is Republican victory.

A Man They Can Trust.

Judge Taft not only is anxious by convincing public interest in his personality, but he adds strength to his party in every doubtful case by showing the hesitating a man they can trust.

The Calcutta constable or "parawallah" as he is called—has an apparatus attached to his shoulders to support an umbrella over his head.

MISS LAURA B. EVANS, Republican Candidate for University Trustee.

Mrs. Laura B. Evans was born in Weston, Missouri, and is a daughter of Urban Nell and Elizabeth Twaddell. Her childhood was spent in Waynesville, Illinois, where she received her education in the public school and academy. In 1877 she was married to Charles E. Evans, postmaster at Waynesville. Mr. and Mrs. Evans moved to Taylorville, Illinois, in 1881, since which time she has been actively engaged in club work. She was associated with the Woman's Club, which was formed for the purpose of establishing a library in Taylorville, and it was largely through her efforts that the library received a donation of $14,000 from Andrew Carnegie. Mrs. Evans is now president of the Library Board and also president of the Woman's Club. She was nominated and elected University trustee in 1902 and as a member of that board was highly honored by the different presidents of the board, being chairman and member of some of the most important committees.

ADVERTISING BRINGS SUCCESS.

Fortieth Anniversary of "A City Store in Country Town."

The Dundee Hawkeye of last week devoted the third of the first page to a history of the C. P. Hall Company of Dundee, which celebrates its fortieth anniversary this fall. When its company had its beginning thirty years ago the force consisted of the present board of the Dundee Hawkeye. The firm now employs nineteen people, and the store consists of nine departments, one of which is larger than the entire store was in the beginning. The remarkable growth of this store is traceable directly to the firm's advertising which now appears weekly in over fifteen country papers in this vicinity. It has been justly named "a city store in a country town."

Good Roads Movement Progressing.

Postoffice department officials are enthusiastic over the movement in some of the larger states of the Union for the improvement of the highways, and it is claimed that the liberal appropriations for the rural free delivery service have stimulated that movement. From information being received at the department, it is believed that the best highway improvement will be stimulated in all the more thickly settled states as rapidly as the rural delivery is extended, and one of the conditions for establishing a new route is that the roads must be in good condition. It is claimed also that the service is enhancing greatly the value of farm property.

Will Lay Three Grades of Gravel Roads.

In order to get the greatest possible benefit at the least possible expense gravel roads in Grand Rapids, Mich., will hereafter be divided into three classes—those designed to carry the heaviest traffic for which gravel roads are considered as suitable, those of medium traffic and the little used roads of the outlying districts. For these streets three grades of gravel will be used, varying in the percentage of stone which they carry and the care with which the material is screened.

The Laurean Literary society held its regular meeting Monday evening in the high school assembly room. The members answered to roll call with a quotation from Shakespeare. The program, which was most interesting, contained readings, music and several political speeches. About 20 members were present.

At a special meeting Monday evening the school board decided to enforce the truancy law. This law provides that all children between the ages of 7 and 14 years be compelled to attend school. To see to the enforcement of this law the board appointed Edward Peters as truancy officer and Robert Bennett as his assistant.

NEEDED INFORMATION.

When School Districts Pay Eighth Graders High School Tuition.

The following item from the Educational Press Bulletin will answer many inquiries as to how eighth grade graduates may secure the advantages of a high school education at the expense of the school district in which they reside.

"The act relating to free high school privileges for graduates of the eighth grade provides, among other things, that the high school board must offer a program of studies extending through four school years. The parent should secure the consent of the school board of the district that maintains the high school. He should then apply to the school directors of the district in which he resides, for their approval of the high school so selected. When all this is done the tuition should be charged to the district and paid from the district school funds."

"The 'yapper clause' contained in said law is totally repugnant to the title and body of the act and is therefore invalid."

Interurban Line for

This Section.

To the Editor:—The question is often asked: "Why has the north-western part of Cook county been overlooked by the Interurban lines?"

There is not a better opening around Chicago, for an interurban line, than the north-western section of Cook county. The population is constantly increasing and real-estate values are on the up-grade. But electric lines would stimulate this activity a hundred fold. Some of our village boards have realized this fact, and have done what was in their power by granting franchises to corporations which have proposed to build such lines, and are to be congratulated for so doing.

As we all know that the beginning of large enterprises are always slow and the hardest work is necessary to get a start. The start once made, the rest is comparatively easy.

The general opinion is that when such a corporation asks for an advance franchise through a village, it should build the road at once and without further assistance from the communities through which it passes. From our point of view this may be correct. For such a corporation would surely not have two forms, and the franchise asked for, if the men therein interested could not see that it would be a paying investment. There is, however, one side to this question, which seems to escape the attention of these communities and that is the question, what such a road is worth to them irrespective of the profit to the corporation.

The statistics show that wherever an electric line has been built through a village or farming community that real-estate values have at once taken a great advance. The villages have been built up and their population doubled in a year. The farming lands have been brought into an active market. The citizens of the village and farm owners have received a direct benefit. One which could not have been received by them through any other means.

The suburbs of Chicago which have made the biggest advance and become the most popular, are those which have electric line service. The development in the suburbs of the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric and the Aurora-Elgin lines has been marvellous. This is more especially realized by those persons who have known them before and after the electric lines were constructed through them.

The population of Elgin has more than tripled since its electric roads were built.

If the citizens of the north-western part of our county realized what these roads mean to them in cash values to their property, to say nothing of the conveniences afforded, there would be a concerted movement on their part, and a shoulder to shoulder action to do all in their power to assist the managers of such roads to build their respective lines. The moral influence which such action would have on men of large means cannot be estimated, for no man will invest his money in a hostile community, when he can invest it under more friendly influence.

It is apparent from the above that the community through which an electric road is built is as much benefited as is the corporation which builds it. It is good business under such circumstances to aid such a road both financially and with our moral support to the utmost of our ability? This is what was done for the Chicago Milwaukee Electric and also for the Aurora-Elgin road.

An infant weighing 50 pounds was born at Shevono, Wis., the other day. Who can think of an appropriate name for him?

Every American must respect the army uniform and the man who wears it when that man proves himself unworthy.

A shortage of chorus girls was reported lately in New York, and now Oklahoma reports a shortage of 1,000 school teachers. What are the girls doing, anyhow?

The success of Maxim's noiseless device for rifles serves to correct the somewhat popular notion that Maxim's is something loud and noisy, as well as false.

Washington dispatches say that within the next 90 days a new Panama bond issue will probably be put out, amounting to about $15,000,000, but postage stamps will be used.

Texas has more miles of railroad than any other state, but it is still possible for the mosquitoes to get down to earth through the network of telegraph wires above the tracks.

It Minister Wu has really discovered the secret of prolonging life indefinitely, the empress of China would scarcely be blamed for wanting the personal advice of so valuable a subject.

We are not surprised at the feat of a St. Louis woman who has written a play in 16 hours. A good many of the current plays might, it would seem, have been written in less time than that.

According to an observing colonel, a British peer has just married a chorus girl in London. Maybe the peerage finds the American belles giving out or getting away, and is looking for wives among those who can support their husbands by going to work.

The British consul at Tamsui reports that the total exports of camphor from Formosa in 1927 amounted to 4,121,454 pounds, of which 2,472,931 pounds was sent to Havre, London and Hamburg; 1,653,500 pounds to America, and 33,333 pounds to Madras.

The New York health board has again arraigned the fly on the murderous charge of carrying germs on its feet and thus distributing them on foods. This seems a little fanciful, but whether it be true or not, the fly is a malefactor and should be eliminated.

The French Panama Canal Company, which went into bankruptcy in 1919, finally passed out of existence last month when the receivers were discharged. It took long to wind up the affairs of the unsuccessful corporation than will be required for the American government to build the canal.

The contest over the will of the late Sir Lionel Luckin Smith, Bart., West is not altogether astonishing. His domestic relations were somewhat extensive and complicated, as may be inferred from a list of names who have at sea, that he would marry the first woman he met when he landed. He won—in a way.

The duke of the Abruzzi continues to have difficulty in persuading the queen of Italy to consent to his marriage to Miss Elkins. The queen has a reputation at home for beauty, and it is not natural that she should not want another woman at court who would become, as a well-known Chicagoan once said, the sinecure of all eyes.

That Genoa father who shot and killed the driver of an automobile, and also one of the woman occupants of the vehicle, who was charged with manslaughter, when he saw his child crushed to death before his eyes, is commended by some in Genoa who do not stop to reason, but his intolerance is more reprehensible than the neglect of the chauffeur.

An American woman has made a tour of Europe, with but one gown and no trunk at all. She has preferred comfort to style, and the fact of seeing to being seen. Having nothing but a suitcase, she has bought no handsome gowns, but she has gained to struggle past the customs authorities. Not the unexpected, but the impossible has happened.

Toledo, Ohio, is said to have fewer bad boys than any other city in America. A writer in the World's Work gives the reason for this. It is the juvenile organization established there by a wise philanthropist. He organized the boys into drum corps and athletic teams, provided uniforms and equipment, and then made it a condition of remaining in the organization that the members refrain from bad talk, alcohol, tobacco and gaming. Almost any boy will give up a harmful habit for a harmless one if the harmless one is made attractive.

WAR IN BALKANS AVERTED

TURKEY'S MOBILIZATION ORDER IS CHECK TO BULGARIA.

Both Countries Formally Declare Intention to Peace and to Quies Diplomatic Work Alone Prevents Hostilities.

Constantinople.—The report that the mobilization of the Turkish troops had been ordered is unfounded. Presumably it arose through the fact that certain battalions of the Anatolian reserves attached to the Saloniki and Adrianople army corps were convoked for the maneuvers in the native districts, and that three battalions were ordered to Constantinople from Macedonia for police service in the capital, these being replaced by an equal number of Rodia from Smyrna.

London.—The Turkish ambassador and the Bulgarian charge d'affaires Sunday emphatically denied the report that war was imminent between the two countries.

Paris.—Bulgaria has backed down, according to Naum Pasha, the Turkish ambassador, and not only has the probability of war, which appeared imminent Saturday night, been eliminated, but an understanding between Bulgaria and Turkey is in sight. The ambassador Sunday practically admitted that Saturday the two countries were on the verge of war, and explained that, while his denial of the mobilization of the Turkish troops was literally true, it was equally true that mobilization had been officially ordered and then suspended.

To France largely belongs the honor of opening the way for an understanding between Turkey and Bulgaria, before it was too late. From official sources the story is learned of how the crisis was averted at Constantinople. On Friday night a confidential report reached the porte from Sofia that the Bulgarian cabinet was about to resign and would be succeeded by the council of ministers. This was interpreted as a preliminary move to a declaration of war. The Turkish cabinet was summoned. It deliberated throughout the night and decided not only to order the mobilization of the troops immediately in Asia Minor, but to complete the mobilization in Macedonia.

The French ambassador, M. Constant, was apprised of this decision at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and by urgent telegrams informed M. Pichon, the French foreign minister, of the situation. The French foreign minister, in turn, informed M. Pichon, the French diplomatic agent at Sofia, the result being that at five o'clock, when M. Constant called upon Kiamli Pasha, the grand vizier, to demand an explanation of Turkey's action, he had the pacific assurances of Bulgaria in his pocket.

HAINS BROTHERS INDICTED.

Both Charged with Murder in First Degree.

New York.—Indictments charging Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., and T. Jenkins Hains with murder in the first degree were handed up by the Queens county grand jury on Friday, Jan. 1, Saturday. The indictments are based upon the killing of William E. Anis at the Bayview Yacht club in August last.

Although T. Jenkins Hains has been held as an accessory to the murder, the indictment charges him, as well as his brother, with being a principal. Witnesses have testified that T. Jenkins Hains by the display of a revolver prevented the spectators from interfering with Capt. F. C. Hains first several bullets into the body of his victim. It has not been charged that T. Jenkins Hains fired any of the shots which killed Anis.

The district attorney notified the court that he would arraign the Hains brothers to plead next Tuesday and would ask that their trial be set for November 9.

TRAGEDY IN NEW YORK.

Man Commits Suicide and Flings Himself into Hudson River.

New York.—The attempt of Nellie Waldon, aged 19, to drown herself in the East river off the Greenpoint pier Sunday morning disclosed the fact that Edward McDonald, the man whom she expected to marry, lay dead in his room with a bullet wound in his head. Miss Waldon, who said her home was in Flushing, was rescued by a policeman. She gave as a reason for her attempt that McDonald had shot himself in her presence. The police then found McDonald's body and are investigating Miss Waldon's story.

Attempt to Blay a Priest.

Battleships Alabama and Maine Return Home.

New York.—Through a dull brown curtain of haze and smoke, which overhung the tortuous entrance to New York harbor Monday afternoon, the battleship Alabama crept cautiously into port and dropped anchor off Tompkinsville, completing a voyage around the world in 309 days. More than 25,000 miles of the seas of all the world lay behind her.

Except in one particular, the Alabama finished her long swing around the great globe as fit for a fight as when she sailed from Hampton Roads on December 16 last as one of the great fleet which went forth on a mission of peace.

The Colorado & Southern railroad sustained heavy loss. Clayton was in utter darkness after the tornado until daylight. The water system was also put out of commission by the storm, and the town is without water.

The storm was severe in other sections. At Polson, where 19 persons were drowned last August, the Clearwater river rose to within a foot of high-water mark causing a panic among the people, who fled in terror to the hills. It is reported that many houses were wrecked and more damage done to outlying places inhabited by homesteaders.

Lamar, Col.—A cloudburst struck this city Monday, rendering a fall of nearly four inches. The Arkansas river, already a torrent, rose rapidly, and the large bridge over the stream was in danger of being swept away. All of the irrigating systems north of the river are breaking and flooding valuable farm lands.

Sharon Springs, Kan.—Two separate tornadoes struck Sharon Springs Monday and completely demolished three residences and injured a dozen people. It is thought that one will die. The tornadoes were about 200 feet wide and traveled north.

Denver, Col.—Six accidental deaths are the result of a blizzard which prevailed in Colorado. Seven persons sustained serious injuries in railroad collisions and by coming in contact with live wires.

DEADLY BATTLE WITH INDIANS.

Deputy Warden and Four Redskins Killed in Montana.

Missoula, Mont.—A telephone message from Orlando, Powell county, says that Deputy Warden C. B. Peyton and four Flathead Indians are the result of a bloody battle between Peyton, his assistants and a band of Indians near Hollands Prairie, on Swan river.

Peyton was attempting to arrest the Indians for hunting without a license and killing deer in excess of law.

Big Fire in Rock Island.

Rock Island, Ill.—Fire Friday night caused $50,000 damage in the yards of the Rock Island Lumber Company and the Rock Island Sash and Door works. The flames started in the southwest corner of the yards, fanned by southeast gale, swept everything north of the river, devastating an area of ten acres in two hours. Twenty million feet of lumber and two sawmills were destroyed.

RELIEF FOR VICTIMS

MICHIGAN IS QUICK TO HELP ITS FIRE-STRICKEN PEOPLE.

GOVERNOR ISSUES APPEAL

Detroit Also Adopts Prompt Measures—General Situation Improved But Conditions are Pitiful Among Survivors.

Detroit, Mich.—Reports from the forest fire district of northern Michigan were fragmentary Sunday, but there were indications of improvement in the general situation so far as imminent danger to life and property was concerned.

But as to the victims who survived the destruction of their homes and villages, conditions are pitiful in the extreme with the likelihood of greater distress and many deaths from exposure in the event of a sudden drop of temperature falling upon the half clothed refugees camped in box cars and open fields.

Relief Measures Taken.

Gov. Fred M. Warner Sunday issued an appeal to the people of Michigan for contributions, and on call of Mayor William B. Thompson of Detroit a special meeting of the common council was held Monday morning to consider the matter of contributing relief. A public meeting also was held in the mayor's office at noon for the same purpose and Bishop Charles D. Williams of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan, who has just returned from the fire district, described the conditions as he witnessed them. The Detroit board of commerce held a meeting at the Detroit club Sunday to arrange for details of shipping a preliminary car load of provisions and bedding north Monday and Gov. Warner directed Adj. Gen. McQuinn to have the troops to take the initiative in similar measures at Grand Rapids. The Detroit & Mackinac Railroad company has already sent a dozen car loads of provisions, lumber and hay into the burned district from Bay City.

Town of Oshtemo Threatened.

President J. D. Hawks of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad received word Sunday that forest fires were seriously threatening the town of Oshtemo, south of Alpena on Thunder bay or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Quartermaster Gen. W. J. Rogers, of the state troops, who was sent into the burned district to investigate conditions, telegraphed Gov. Warner today that there was no need of troops, as the fire situation was improved, temporarily at least. The immediate need, Gen. Rogers reported, was for bedding and food for the refugees and fodder for horses and cattle.

"Fred M. Warner, Governor."

Known Dead Are Twenty-Six.

Alpena, Mich.—Reports from the flames-swept counties in this section of the state indicate improvement in the fire situation. But the necessity for immediate substantial relief for the refugees is hourly becoming greater.

But one fresh report of loss of life came into Alpena Sunday. Henry Hines, his wife and two children are believed to have been cremated on a farm near Chatham.

Between Mett and Rogers City seven more bodies have been found, making a total of 26 lives that are known to have been lost in Presque Isle and Alpena counties since Thursday night.

Rogers City, reported in imminent danger, has been saved. South Rogers is also safe.

Humorously Worded Rebuke.

Theodore P. Roberts had a fluent command of language, both in speaking and writing, and was well liked by everybody. He could secure the attention of a negligent publisher if need be. To one such, who was remiss about sending reviews, he once wrote a long letter with the sentence: "And, finally, my dear sir, permit me to say that it would be easier for a camel to ride into the Kingdom of Heaven on a velocipede than for anyone to find a late copy of your paper in the city of New York."

"Crazy with the Heat."

"Can you tell me what steam is?" asked the examiner. "Why, sure," replied Patrick. "I know it. Steam is—why—er—it's water that's gone crazy wid the heat."—Everybody's Magazine.

American Theater

Its Radical Evolution During Past Thirty Years

By DANIEL FROHMAN.

Upon strict grounds of morale the modern play has progressed in audacity and moral freedom immensely. Once upon a time we were provincial, we were unsophisticated, we were afraid to see things as they are. If we are calculating the moral tone of the American theater by what it once was, say, 20 years ago, we must admit that the American people are not the prudish they were then. We had our "sensations," even in the days when the Madison Square theater was conducted by two clergymen, we will say. I distinctly remember when I made a production of Mr. Pinero's "Sweet Lavender" at the old Lyceum theater I saw that the audience resented the fact that there was an illegitimate girl in the story. I realized that the success of the play at that time in this country depended upon legitimizing her at once. The author refused, at first, but he was finally induced to do so, much to his annoyance.

The problem play was more than the American public could accept, when "Sweet Lavender" was produced.

The American theater to-day can attempt any dramatic theme from any country almost, providing it adorns the subject with good taste, with culture, with a literary quality, and—this above all else—providing its end is inspiring, is happy in actual denouement, or in sincere statement. Of course, there are "sensations," plays that make a temporary stir because of their intrinsic audacity, but these are not permanent contributions to the American theater, because in the productions that count among plays that are worth while the human creations must conform to the hopeful and permanent moral standards of American life. I produced "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" because it was a superb play, a remarkable dramatic composition, not because it had a problem to define.

Woman, and Man's Proposal

By HELEN OLDFIELD.

Generally it is an extreme injustice to condemn a woman as a heartless flirt because she allows a man whom she does not intend to marry to make her an offer of marriage. It is all well to say that a woman ought to know when a man is in love with her and gently to discourage his intentions and attentions. But how can any one, not a prophet or the daughter of a prophet, be certain about anything so elusive and deceiving as man?

Of course, when a man tumbles head over heels into sure enough love with a woman, and means business, and nothing but business, first, last, and all the time, his one idea is to get married with as little delay as possible, to set up the larva and penates on his own domestic hearth; and there is no question of flirtation upon his part. He shows his intentions, frankly and plainly, for all the world to see, and the woman in the case has no excuse for misunderstanding him, or doubting his sincerity. She may take him or leave him, as she so chooses, and straight dealing and honesty exact that she shall do either the one or the other. His earnestness of purpose is entitled to honesty in return.

In spite of all that is said condemning the much courted woman as an unscrupulous flirt, she, with most men, shows the wisdom of the serpent in letting them tell their love, and in "letting them down easy," as the saying goes, rather than chilling them beforehand. As a rule men prefer to receive a definite answer, and a woman of tact can so refuse an offer as to make her rejected suitor her friend for life, while on the other hand it is much to be doubted if any man ever thoroughly forgives the woman who openly shows him that his suit is unwelcome before he has pressed that suit.

However, there is one case in which no woman is justified in permitting a proposal, unless really it is unlooked for; when she is already engaged to another man. Then she should make a confidant of her admirer, and without appearing conscious of anything special in his attentions, tell him that she will be glad to have him meet and know her fiancé, or something of the sort, which will let him know that there is no hope for him, and so spare him the pain of a refusal.

A New Auto Peril

By REV. FRANK G. SMITH, Chicago.

The peril of the automobile, not to those who get in its path, but to persons acquiring machines when unable to meet the expense of original cost and maintenance, is one of the disturbing conditions which we face to-day.

Here is the man who saw such a rosy side to the proposition, the machine was such a beauty. Then, too, it was just the right size for the family; wife and he and the two smaller children behind and the grown son and daughter in front. Then, again, if he had it they would not need to go away on a vacation this summer.

And, again, he would not be surprised if it would pay for itself in a saving on doctor bills. It was only $2,500. The home was paid for, after years of struggle, and there was a little bit in the savings bank. He can pay $500 down and give a mortgage just to secure the rest, and easily pay it at $500 a year for four years. And so it is done.

Poor, deluded man. He forgot to estimate the cost of about 12 barrels of high-grade lubricating oil and 50 to 75 barrels of gasoline, and various bills for repairs, the size of which would make a plumber's bill look like a humming bird in a flock of ostriches; also about 25 to 50 rubber tires. And besides all this the family not only went on the vacation, but they took the machine along. And then a smash-up or two brought the doctor into requisition for the setting of broken limbs, so that when the first year was over it was difficult for our friend to pay the interest, to say nothing of a $500 installment, and at the end of the third year the mortgage was foreclosed for non-payment.

It is just so with every kind of debt that goes to pay the running expenses of a household. It is this variation between the dream and the reality that lands people in the hands of the loan shark. The credit system all tends to extravagance and sometimes to poverty. It does not cause any of us the pain to pay a $5 pair of shoes and say "charge it!" that it does to part with a nice, crisp, green $5 bill, especially if we happen to have but $3.65 in our pocket.

EVERYTHING POINTS TO A BUMPER CROP

QUESTION AT ISSUE

CAN THE COUNTRY AFFORD TO ELECT MR. BRYAN?

Voters Must Consider the Inevitable Consequences of a Change in Present Administrative Policies—Last Year's Object Lesson.

The main thing for voters to determine in choosing between Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan as presidential candidates is as to whether the general welfare of the country will be best promoted by the election of the one or the other. That is the broad and the long of the whole matter. Whether or not Mr. Bryan's chief political promoter, Gen. Haskell, has been a secret agent of the Standard Oil Company and whether or not the extortions of the Democratic campaign committee was at one time connected with some not altogether creditable Wall street transactions, these charges made by Mr. Hearst have conducted to the sensation of the present campaign. There have been other questions brought prominently into the discussion which may fairly be classed as "subsidary" questions. The question of paramount importance before the voter is as to whether he shall take the risk of such a change in the administrative policies of the national government as would undoubtedly be involved in Mr. Bryan's election.

Both party platforms advocate and both party candidates are committed to a proposal for tariff revision. The Republican party has always stood for a policy of protection to home labor and home industries. On the other hand, the tariff policy of the Democratic party has always been and is yet "a tariff for revenue only"—practical free trade. Only the other day comment was made upon the great strike now on in the cotton-mill industries of Great Britain, a strike because of a reduction in wages which involves a loss of 500,000 operatives. The reason why the wage cut has been made should give attention in this country. According to the statements given out by the millowners, the very best cotton-mill machinery has been bought in Great Britain for founding cotton mills in both Japan and China, and because of Asiatic cheaper labor the British millowners are afraid that their home market will be flooded with cheaper products from Japan and China. Great Britain is a free-trade country. Can the working people of the United States take the risk of having the tariff schedule revised according to Democratic ideals?

The people of this country were afforded a most impressive object-lesson last year illustrating how that intangible something called "business confidence," when it is undermined and shaken from its foundations, produces widespread demoralization and trouble. It is ideas generally agreed that last year's panic was a "gambler's panic." It was brought on by the reckless trading in Wall street. Fifteen of the 20 big financial institutions that failed during the panic period were in the downtown financial area on Manhattan island. But by the financial smashes in New York city business confidence throughout the country was shaken and a period of industrial depression followed, from which we are just recovering. Is there any person of well-balanced judgment who does not foresee that in case of Mr. Bryan's election business confidence would be given a solar-plexus blow; that the industries of the country would be demoralized thereby to the extreme of ruinous disaster? The real issue before the voter is as to whether or not he had better let well enough alone.

Mr. Taft is no less alive to the evils of trusts than Mr. Bryan. He has his ideas as to the proper method of dealing with them. His method would be more effective than Mr. Bryan's as far as the trusts themselves are concerned, and would involve no injury to the public, no pulling up of the wheat along with the tares.

CHOICE OF TWO POSITIONS.

Plain Facts for Those Who Contemplate Voting for Mr. Bryan.

In a recent speech Mr. Bryan reiterates his familiar assertion that his renomination after two defeats shows that his party still believe in and endorse "the principles" he has been advocating. Now, Mr. Bryan is identified with no principle so thoroughly as with free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 and the necessary concomitant of that proposition—recognition and declared by himself to be the negation and destruction of the gold standard.

It is true that Mr. Bryan now says, with characteristic shiftness, that what he aimed at in 1896 was not the destruction of the gold standard but "more money." His assertion is false; for what he aimed at then and what he has never yet renounced, is the destruction of the gold standard. To this inescapable fact his own utterances bear irrefragable testimony. At Knoxville, Tenn., in 1896, he said:

"Against the maintenance of the gold standard for one year or forever the Democratic party has arrayed itself. We are opposed to a gold standard; we have commenced a war of extermination against it which will not cease. If there is any one who believes that the gold standard is a good thing or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, for I promise him that it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

No man can vote for Mr. Bryan in this campaign except on one of two grounds. Either he must believe that Bryan still intends to destroy the gold standard, in which case he is unfaithful to his own party, or he must believe that Bryan was wrong then and knows better now, in which case he is a faulty reasoner and an unsafe guide.

No Longer Editor Bryan. It is now William Jennings Bryan, candidate, not candidate and editor in his own right, who is the editor of his paper during the campaign, as he cannot supervise and revise as he has been wont to do, and something might slip into the columns of the Commoner which would compel him to explain.

The change is not radical, however, and Mr. Bryan runs no risk of suffering from the editorial blunders which have been known in history to occur when the editor was away and another had temporary charge, with the effect of revolutionizing all the political and party tenets that had been formerly supported. Brother Charles may be as dependable and loyal as the Brother Charles of the Taft family, and Richard L. Metcalf may be trusted without fear, for is not the author and compiler of 200 octavo pages of a volume entitled "The Real Bryan," in which the candidate is made to appear as a sort of demigod?

The change is to endure only until November, according to Mr. Bryan. It is possible the candidate anticipates that he will have nothing to do after the day of election, November 3, except to once more assume the role of the editor? Is such announcement prophetic of defeat? Has intuition told him that election is impossible? Does his sub-consciousness whisper of victory for the Republican party? Or, if elected, is it his purpose to again assume the editorship of the Commoner and thus make sure of having at least one organ that will endorse his policy in all things?

Not Encouraging. Did ever anyone seeing such a gang of political speculators and plunders as that associated with Mr. Bryan, of whom Haskell is a good specimen? It is enough to defeat any ticket, even a Democratic of the modern school.—Buffalo News.

The evidence of Mr. Bryan's poor judgment of men are certainly multiplying at a rate alarming for those who expect his election.

A Relic of the French "Terror."

Recently the latibut in which Marat was surprised and assassinated by Charlotte Corday at the height of the reign of terror in France was offered for sale by a Paris dealer in curios. This relic was once bought for a museum, and there it could well have remained, for it is a memento of one of the thrilling episodes of the revolution as well as having the power of the conspirators and snuffing on the scaffold when giving her life for the taking of the life of the chief terrorist.

The mania for owning relics which mean nothing in particular to the owners is often unaccountable. Somebody paid $100 for a lock of Napoleon's hair, and another body gave $25 for a smaller lock from the head of Lord Nelson. The purchasers in these cases may have acted from sentiment. Surely it was sentiment on the part of an admirer of Thackeray that coaxed $16 from a presumably tender purse for a lock of his hair. The part that mere association can play in the curio business is shown in the case of Sterne, the author, whose wig brought $10,000, although it didn't contain a hair from his own head and probably dated originally at $10 on a "charge account" which the wigmaker never could collect. John Bunyan's nail was sold not long ago for $1,500 and will never go begging at that price. Nor would anyone suppose that the French would pay $200,000 for the chance of making kindling wood of the desk of Prince Metetrich rather than have it preserved in any museum of history. This price the French government gave for the piece of furniture which once held the secrets of the Austrian diplomat who overmatched Napoleon and then tortured his son, the Prince of Reichenbach. The mention of the monster Marat's tomb, and of Metetrich's triumph should change places.

False Economy Decried.

Applying the current criticism of our methods of using our natural resources to steel production, the Iron Trade Review says: "The work of the conservation association should be constructive and not destructive, and it would be quite well if the work were inaugurated with a frank recognition of what is a positive fact—that the mass of the problems to be worked out are not problems which are new to the world, but are problems which are new to the United States; that there are ready-made answers to so many of them that it will pay better to bend the energy to securing the adoption of solutions which have already been adopted abroad than to endeavor to develop new solutions. In the course of time, however, and for some years to come it will probably be better for us to follow as rapidly as possible the example which have been set by other countries."

Admitting that our methods of steel consumption are wasteful, this paper says, "The use of better steel and better forms of steel should be encouraged." Over three tons of crude material are used to make one ton of steel rails. The weight of waste could be reduced and that of the finished product increased, but the steel would be inferior. So it may be "saving at the piglot and losing at the bung" to reduce the volume of waste in the process of manufacture and turn out inferior products.

A Real Old New Yorker.

There died recently a nephew of Washington Irving who had known New York by heart for more than three generations. He was there as a child and schoolboy and as an octogenarian gentleman of leisure and during all the years between. In his boyhood he lived in the city near the present city hall and Manhattan entrance to the Brooklyn bridge. Marvelous changes have taken place in New York during this one life, which began when it was an overgrown town and ended in a metropolis of 4,000,000 inhabitants. Mr. Irving saw plays in the Park theater, opposite the historic Astor House, and attended Columbia college, which was only a block or so from his home. The social and intellectual life of the city then centered about "the canal," a locality now identified with Canal street. Needless to say that this octogenarian beheld New York transformed many times and died a stranger to his own city.

The American folklores who three or four times during the 1000 foot climb at Berlin had said all right, but they were not a bit particular who stood under when they chuckled the laps overboard.

Ferdinand the Bullen, self made "czar of Bulgaria," is not one of the opera bouffe type of petty rulers rather an all around man like King Edward of England.

"Impunitum" is the new name for an old fad that has borne much evil fruit in the shape of "affinities" and other fresh tumbles from the safe and sane path.

It took Castro just as long to get "rich" as it did Holland to fit out four warships to attend to his case.

Now and then the newspaper headed "The Reforming Wall Street," reminds us how history repeats itself.

JOHN HENRY ON WOMEN AND POKER

BY GEO. V. HOBART, ("HUGH M'HEUGH.")

Dear Bunch: Say, Bunch, I don't think women have any business playing poker, anyway—that is most women.

There are a few cheerful exceptions, of course.

Take Monday evening for example. George Higginby dealt, and I being next, passed.

Then we waited while Maude said to Peaches, "Oh, yes, I think a bodice trimmed with moire antique and with white chiffon over the corsage is perfectly stunning, but I want to get a house dress of green silk with lace insertion—oh, did you see Mrs. Wilson's new automobile coat? It isn't a perfect fright; well, I hope—"

"Pass! Pass! Pass!" I yelled.

Then Mrs. Lorenz, paying no attention to us, unbentured herself to Peaches: "And do you know, our new cook lost one of my handsome silver spoons that's been in our family for generations, and I didn't dare say anything to her about it because she'd leave, and I know what trouble I had last time finding a cook. But a handsome silver spoon—"

"What do you do?" I shrieked at Peaches, who sat next to me.

"What do I do? What do you mean? What do I do?"

"Oh, you pass, or do you open it?"

"Oh! I pass. You needn't yell so, I'm sure. Do you know, Mrs. Lorenz, the same thing happened to us, only ours was a fork; yes, a silver fork, one of that Aunt Martha gave us for a wedding present, and don't you know, when—"

"Then all of a sudden Maude yelled, 'Oh, I open it. No, I don't—I thought I had an ace—damned!'"

Whereupon Mrs. Lorenz laid her hand down and began to count her chips, declaring that a white one was missing.

After looking over the table and under the table and on the mantelpiece and all around the room, she finally found the white chip under the hand she had laid down.

When peace was restored George Higginby said, "I'll open it for ten."

Whereupon Mrs. Lorenz screamed, "No, you won't. I'll open it for five!"

"But you said you passed."

"I didn't!"

"Pardon me, I thought you did!"

"Pardon me, I thought I didn't!"

"Cards!" asked George, resignedly.

"Three!" said Peaches. "No, two, no, three—wait a minute! Give me two, no, wait; that's a diamond. Give me two, no, give me three cards!"

"That's the way with me," said Maude to Peaches; "I get so confused sometimes. I remember one evening we were all playing over at our house, and the lady—"

"Cards!" screamed George.

Maude gave him a withering glance, and Mrs. Lorenz said, "One card, please!"

George gave his mother-in-law the card, took three himself and laid the deck down.

"Well, I'd like to know where my two cards are!" inquired Maude scathingly.

"Well, I thought you stood pat," said George.

"Stood pat; the ideal!" snapped Peaches.

"Pass! Pass! Pass!" I yelled.

Maude, "I never did such a thing in my life. I'd like two cards, please."

"It's too late now," I burst in. "You'll have to play your hand or drop out."

"Drop out, indeed. Well, I guess not," George Higginby, you give me two cards!"

"Can't do it; against the rules," said George.

"Against what rules?"

"Hoyle."

"Who cares for Hoyle. You give me two cards!"

And so to keep peace in the family she was given two cards—and won the pot.

Then Mrs. Lorenz got mad and wanted her ante back, all of which put us another half hour to the bad.

If I had to play hen poker very often, Bunch, I'd have a roller rink in my pot room.

A little later on that evening I opened a jacket, and everybody dropped out except Mrs. Lorenz and Peaches.

You know, Bunch, I like Peaches. She's the only wife I've had, and the only one I ever with bare, and so I say it from my heart that she plays poker like a Welsh rabbit, which is without form and full of dark surprises.

From a social point of view Peaches is the best fellow that ever drew cards, but judged solely on her skill as a pokerite she is what the ancient Greeks would call a Patricia Bolivar.

Well, anyway, Bunch, to make a long story short, Peaches waved farewell after losing four dollars, which was all in the family anyway; but Mrs. Lorenz bit her lip and trailed.

Yes, sir, she trailed with all the danger signals set until she had sent seven of her good dollars to the Bad Lands, then she called me.

When I laid down four typewriters she called me again—but I'd have to tell you what.

Never before, Bunch, in the history of the game did one woman get mad in so many different places at the same time.

You see, Bunch, she had four deuces all the time, and after the first bet she began to buy a new dress.

After the second bet she selected the trimmings.

After the third bet she changed the dress, and took something more expensive.

After the fourth bet she decided to pick out an imported dressmaker on the spot.

At the engine dragged its long line of cars slowly along a newly laid piece of track Tommie had time to think over what he would do when the wreck occurred, for he felt sure there was to be a wreck of some kind. While thinking over this Tommie was slowly approaching the wreck, and just then deciding that he ought to tell the engineer, so that he also would be warned, he straightened up.

There was a blinding flash of a headlight in his eyes, a roar of a fast train rushing upon them, and Tommie, without stopping to shoot at the engineer, jumped overboard, rolled over and over down the bank, and splashed into a pool of water, while the passenger train that had frightened him went by on the other track that had been put in a few days before.

When Tommie returned home he learned that his dog had been chasing a cat and didn't see his mistress, who, when he came home, accounted for his failure to accompany him as usual to the roundhouse.—Chicago Tribune.

THREE EXPERIMENT A FAILURE.

Railroad's Effort to Substitute Catalpa Ties for Oak Didn't Work.

An experiment in tree culture by which it was hoped to supplant white oak as the standard tree for railroad ties with another had been tried and found wanting by the Rio Grande & Western railroad, says the New York Times.

James Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the forestry division of the committee on national resources, which was appointed last June by President Roosevelt, told of this experiment a few days ago, just after getting back from a trip through Germany, France and Switzerland, where he studied the forestry methods in those countries, with an idea of adapting some of them to conditions here.

"That experiment of the Rio Grande & Western with catalpa trees," said Senator Smoot. "It was begun several years ago. At that time there was fear that the white oak trees, which furnished most of the ties for the railroads of the United States, would soon be exterminated."

The price of ties had gone up. Great forests of white oak throughout the country had been slaughtered and the railroads found it hard to get good ties. The white oak is far from a rapid grower and it would take years for the oak forests to grow up again to a size large enough to make railroad ties.

"At that time there was some talk of the catalpa tree being a good substitute for the white oak. It was a much softer wood, but had been tried in a small way for ties by some of the railroads. So the Rio Grande & Western decided to plant a large double avenue of catalpa along its lines of track through Utah."

"The first year a force of men was taken to plant the trees, but the railroad made a mistake by not protecting them from cattle and rodents. The result was that what might have been one of the most beautiful pieces of road in the country now has a rather ragged appearance, and the experiment was a dismal failure."

Fifty Years by One Railroad.

Joseph Boynton, a locomotive engineer for the Chicago & Alton railroad, has just passed his sixty-fourth birthday and celebrated with his fiftieth year of service with the railroad. In 1858 he began as a messenger boy at the Chicago station and in 1864 was made engineer. He has never had an accident of any kind and is never late for duty.

He is the prime of health and bids fair to spend many more years at his employment. It is said he is the oldest man in the employ of the Alton railroad, both in age and in years of service.

NOT MEANT AS A WARNING.

Fireman Was Unduly Alarmed at His Dog's Absence.

Tommie Marr when he was a fireman on a freight run used to have, and in fact has yet, a dog that is greatly interested in railroads, at least so Tommie says. Every time Tommie started out for the yards to get his engine the dog would follow him, which of course, is strange, considering that it is a dog's nature to follow his master, but Tommie claims the dog never bothered about following him unless he was starting to work. Every day the dog would watch and when Tommie went downtown to play pool with the boys the dog would pay no attention, but as soon as he set out for the railroad the dog trotted after him.

The dog had been in the habit of doing this for a long time when one day he didn't show up as time came to go for the yards. Tommie worried over the dog's strange desertion, and the more he thought of it the more he wondered and worried. Finally he had come to the conclusion that the dog knew in some strange way that there was going to be an accident and could not bear to see his master leave on what probably would be his last trip.

Then Tommie had it all figured out—not to his satisfaction, however—he began to plan how he might escape the impending danger. He didn't stop to think that if the dog knew something was going to happen to his master, why then something certainly had to happen, for if there was a way to escape the danger and Tommie took advantage of that way out of the difficulty, why, of course, the dog could have known that also, and consequently the canine should have felt worried.

At the engine dragged its long line of cars slowly along a newly laid piece of track Tommie had time to think over what he would do when the wreck occurred, for he felt sure there was to be a wreck of some kind. While thinking over this Tommie was slowly approaching the wreck, and just then deciding that he ought to tell the engineer, so that he also would be warned, he straightened up.

SICK MAN WANTED CHANGE.

More Than Willing to Make Transfer with Physician.

A Syracuse business man who, besides being extremely active and ambitious, has much sense of humor, was taken sick with a slight attack of pneumonia. His physician, aware that it would be a task to keep his high-strung patient in bed, sought to impress on him the seriousness of the ailment and the necessity of absolute rest; all of which the sick man listened to in a bored manner. Nevertheless he consented to obey the doctor.

But this enforced inactivity rankled in him; and each succeeding day found the patient importuning the medical man attendant to allow him to get out to business. Then, disgusted, he would lie back to cast imprecations at the inexorable physician.

One morning the physician, after having been up all night on an important case, appeared at his patient's bedside at the usual hour. He had barely stuck his haggard face inside the door, however, before the man in the bed gave him a quick glance and said:

"What's the matter with you?"

"I've ejaculated the patient. Then, showing out his hand to grasp the doctor's satchel, he added: "Doc, I guess you'd better get into bed here and let me go out with the medicine bag."

CURE AT CITY MISSION.

Awful Case of Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Bores—After Torture Yield to Cure.

"A young woman came to our city mission in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), impetigo, paronychia, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure. Her body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We worked hard over her for seven weeks, but she was not getting better. One day I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept better that night and the next day I got a box of Cuticura Ointment. In five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, and she is now strong and well. A DISCOMFORTING WITNESS.

The following colloquy took place between Conolly Sedgwick and a witness who "would talk back": "You say, sir, the prisoner is a thief?"

"Yes, sir. Cause why, she has confessed that she has stolen the goods."

"And you also swear she worked for you after this confession?"

"Yes, sir." "Then we are to understand that you employ disreputable people to work for you, even after their rascalities are known?"

"Of course. How else would I get assistance from a lawyer?"—Argonaut.

Legend of Magpie and Robin.

The peasants of France, in accordance with a tradition, place the head of a magpie with a thorn where they catch one. According to the French legend, after Jesus had been nailed to the cross, two birds alighted on the extended arms of the instrument of death. One was a magpie with a beautiful sapphire on its head and a long wavy tail, the handsomest of birds but the wickedest, chirped loudly at the suffering Jesus.

The other bird was a modest little bird with gray plumage, which approached the cross timidly, uttering cries of grief. With its beak it tried to pluck away one of the thorns. A single drop of the blood fell on the plucky little gray bird and gave the robin redstart.

An Inconsistency
There is a way to travel. And yet remain at home. It really is quite possible. Just use the telephone.

The Impressive Part.
In a meeting held a story many years ago to illustrate the fact that some people are beyond the power of the evangelist and remain unmoved in view of the most dramatic demonstration. "A newspaper man told me," Sankey said, "that he had sneaked in at the 'great women's meeting' which we held in Madison Square Garden, in New York, from which we endeavored to exclude all men. He got into the top gallery and from there looked down and was enthusiastic in his description of the 10,000 women singing and waving their handkerchiefs in unison. I asked him what impressed him most at the meeting and the reporter said, 'Seeing 10,000 bonnets and no two alike.'"

A Darkening Race.
Where are the fair haired people we used to admire? Look where we will, brown hair or dark hair predominates. There are some who tell us that the time is coming when the genuine golden haired beauty will be as rare as the copper butterfly and that to have a head like a wheat sheaf will be to proclaim aloud that the coffee's artful aid has been invoked—London Lady.

Toll Traffic Increases
It is a notable fact that the telephone toll business increases during hard times. This demonstrates the value of the toll service in saving money as well as time in making a trip to Chicago. Chicago Telephone Company.

"Papa," said the bright boy, "has the teacher any right to punish me for what I haven't done?"
"Certainly not, my boy," replied the father.
"Well, that's what happened to me today. He punished me because I hadn't done my lessons."

Bankrupt
To avoid insolvency the merchant of today must be a deep student of business economy. One of the long distance telephone lines he may order goods from the Chicago wholesaler, thus saving expenses of travel and time lost in making a trip in person Chicago Telephone Company.

"The physically unfit should be removed," declared the new thinker of old thoughts.
"I'm glad to hear you say so," responded the gentleman chauffeur. "It will make me feel easier in my mind when running over a decrepit policeman."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Evolution in Travel

Gargle—If I miss one don't get better by next Tuesday fortnight I'll see 'er 'er 'er doctor.
Farmer—Why not before, Gargle?
Gargle—Well, I'll be forty years next Tuesday fortnight since we had 'er doctor, an' I'd like 'er make it even forty—London Tatler.

Seven Years of Proof.
"I have had seven years of proof that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best medicine to take for coughs and colds and for every disease condition of the throat, chest and lungs," says W. V. Henry of Panama, Mo. The world has had thirty-eight years of proof that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds, la grippe, asthma, hay fever, bronchitis, hemorrhage of the lungs, and the early stages of consumption. Its timely use always prevents the development of pneumonia. Sold under guarantee at Barrington Pharmacy, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Preserved Currants.
I took the waiter at a hotel in Paris to find out how the currants which were served with soft cream cheese and bread for dessert were cooked. To my surprise he informed me that they were not cooked at all. The large red and white currants were simply covered generously with sugar and let stand three days, the result being delicious. They should be served very cold.—Good Housekeeping.

How is Your Digestion?
Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 8th Ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market today." This great tonic and alternative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c at Barrington Pharmacy.

ROAD EXPERIMENT.

Oil Containing Asphalt to Be Used With Sand at Cape Cod.
The Massachusetts highway commission is to conduct an interesting experiment in road building on Cape Cod, where there is no stone to speak of. A heavy grade of Texas crude oil containing a large percentage of asphalt will be used with the sand. The sand road will first be shaped with a road machine, and heated oil will be spread over the surface. A second lot of oil will be sprinkled on when the first coat has been on for two weeks. The surface will then be cut up with a disk harrow so as to mix the sand and oil to a depth of four inches. After this has been done the road will be rolled and the surface sprinkled with a thin layer of sand to absorb the surface oil. A little work of this sort was done under the highway commission's supervision about two years ago, which has resulted satisfactorily.

Importance of Good Roads.
The Gaffney (S. C.) Ledger gives the following fact and comment, which afford a practical argument on the subject of highway improvement in a nutshell:
Some Cherokee county land sold the other day at public outcry and brought from $10 to $37.50 per acre. This land was twelve miles from the county seat at that. If we had macadam roads this land would have brought $50 to $100 per acre. Half a million dollars spent in building good roads in Cherokee would mean an increase of a million dollars in the value of only farm lands alone. Will people never awake to their own interests and begin doing something for themselves, or will they continue to abide in the mud?

J. M'CAN DAVIS,
Republican Candidate for Clerk of Supreme Court.

"He is a great deal better fitted for the position than for public speaking." Then he realized what he had said and sat down amid roars of laughter.—London Telegraph.

Watched Fifteen Years.
"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Buckle's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved me many a doctor bill," said A. F. Hensley, of East Wilton, Maine. 25c at Barrington Pharmacy.

Mind Your Business!
If you don't nobody will. It is your business to keep out of all the trouble you can and you can and will keep out of liver and bowel trouble if you take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They keep biliousness, malaria and jaundice out of your system. 25c at Barrington Pharmacy.

Red Tape in Russia.
Duties, taxes and regulations in Russia are such that a man who, for instance, a journalist had to get permission from five different police authorities before he could work upon the interior police, the gendarmes, the palace police, the Royal police, each police official acts independently, so as to make the confusion as complete as possible. One of the first preventive measures adopted by the Russian police was to photograph the special correspondent and circulate his portrait among the police authorities. He was then circled by a cordon of secret police of both sexes, who kept up a vigilant espionage. He was kept perfectly free to do his work.

Warning a Serpent.
"Down in Bermuda," said a Cincinnati, "I heard Mark Twain make a speech about snakes to a group of little girls.
"The speech was great. The only trouble was that the little girls could not appreciate it. It flew over their heads."
"I remember the humorist's conclusion.
"Never warn a serpent in your bosom," he wound up. "It is far easier to warm it by placing it under the pillow of an intimate friend."
Too many characters in modern plays have "no character to speak of."
