The death of Mrs. Golden, wife of R. N. Golden, a prominent citizen of Barrington, occurred at her home, 32 North Main parkway, Chicago, Sunday, February 11. A quiet service was held at her late residence Tuesday, February 13, but the formal funeral was held at the old Garver homeestead, Des Moines, Iowa, which was her childhood home. POSTAL SAVINGS BANK

New Government Savings Institution Opened Last Saturday—Well Patronized from Start—Dohmeyer First Depositor.

The new postal savings bank at the local post office was opened last Saturday and was apparently what local people had been waiting for as nearly $100 was taken in the first day. Since then the deposits have been coming in more slowly but the business does indicate that the depository is going to be appreciated by patrons of the bank.

Frank Dohmeyer had the honor of being the first person to make a deposit.

Speaking of postal savings banks a metropolitan paper said recently: "Postmaster General Bissell is much pleased with the outcome of the postal savings banks measure. Though in operation but so short a time it is difficult to say what is in it. It is a good experiment but it is not clear. Already the banks have received $15,000,000 and the deposits amount to about $1,000,000 a week, which surpasses the expectations of the most optimistic. A curious and interesting condition in the fact that this large sum must be from persons not patronizing the old fashioned savings banks, for their deposits are lessened. The fear that they will be injured by the introduction of Uncle Sam's banks proves to be groundless."

MAC GUFFIN IS BUSY MAN.

Lake County's Choice for State Sons of Biscuit Making Strong Campaign.

The last two weeks have been busy for Paul MacGuffin, who is calling on friends and acquaintances throughout the country, in the hopes of rolling up a large majority vote for the state senatorship which he is seeking.

Attorney MacGuffin has been in most of the voting precincts of the county and is everywhere meeting with enthusiasm. The friends of the family of McLean county voters in general that we are entitled to the senator for the next term is sure to result. In a vote for "Mac" in the primaries, to be held Tuesday, April 9, that will spell success.

The candidate is fortunate in having secured the promise of strong support in the various precincts of the district. He has been a candidate for senator a second time in the sixth district, and the fact that McLean county had both the senator and two republican representatives in the last session makes it plain to all fair minded men that the old "Banner" Republican County of Illinois is not unreasonable in asking that she be given the honor of casting the state's vote in the upper bracket in the next General Assembly.

At any rate MacGuffin's "notices" — and they are numerous — are feeling very confident of victory, and the big Libertyville attorney who never seems to tire, is enjoying the strenuous work which accompanies a canvas of the district. His hearty laugh and friendly manner has taken sunshine into many places during his travels of the last two weeks.

THE LURE OF THE CITY

THE BARRINGTON REVIEW—In the progress of "back-to-the土" movement, rural school teachers are an actual force in the depopulation of the country districts.

They set the fads of country boys and girls in motion, and by leading city life they induce a movement toward the centers of population that often denudes the country village of its best citizens.

This declaration was made by Dr. Fred Matchett, and W. J. McCall, director of the Bureau of Education of the Western Kentucky State Normal School, a monograph which the United States Bureau of Education has just published for free distribution.

The tendencies of the school teachers, according to the two experts, in the government publication, is in consequence of the fact that the course of study in most rural schools is merely a copy of that given to city school students without regard to the needs of the community and local needs of the country child.

As a result of giving the country child an education modeled on city lines, the authors declare that "Teachers, everywhere, who have come into contact with city life, and unwillingness have been factors in inducing young men and women to leave the farm and move into the city. This movement often carries with it the breaking up of the home, and the separation of the city often to be lost, wasted, or destroyed, certainly to be lost from the rural community. It is possible and right, indeed a duty, to dignify rural life and to save it from being interested the best blood of the country."

"The rural school has not the influence that it should have."

"It is now generally conceded that the following subjects are necessary for the training of rural school teachers: Nature study, elementary principles of practical agriculture, sanitary science and hygiene, domestic economy, and practical principles of primary education, elementary physics as applied to the study of these subjects. The teachers should be required to have a working knowledge of these subjects. The formal training of most country boys and girls should be rural, and should include a knowledge of the fundamental knowledge of the foregoing subjects, is certainly a minimum to require of the teacher who trains them for the lives that they must lead."

B. L. T. says in the Chicago Tribune: "Many of the spring candidates are running on the slogan, 'Gentlemen, taxpayers and business men—Why this discrimination against human beings and lions sharks?' Looking the master up we find out that one of the dozen or so members of the candidates' group and state, that they have printed this and the names of the candidates because such 'We require, etc.'

Today, in Thursday, February 29, flying back as far as 1785 and ahead as far as 1802 this date does not occur—and that's far as we can't figure either way. One thing we do know, the first time we were before the press printed upon this day of the week, and month, and if it's ever as long it will live longer than we expect to.

Stevenson, Kent Crossman, the bit that "Treasure Island" made us of the most popular episode in literature. The two Gladstones got a glimpse of the book at the opening of the year, and the next day hunting over London for a second-hand copy, is good enough to be the first to buy it. The author of "Treasure Island" is now dead, but the book is still popular.

The Father

The man whose story is here to tell was the wretchedest sort of a peasant. His name was Thord Overseas. He appeared in Barrington, Illinois, one day, and was arrested.

"Wait a moment!" cried the father, and he took the boy's cap and coat.

Then the son rolled over on his back, gave his father a look, and said,

"What shall his name be?"

"And the sponsor?"

"They were mentioned, and proved to be the names of the members of the religious relations in the parish.

"The priest came, and looked at the peasant. He asked him, 'What is your name?'

"Thord," said the boy.

"It is to say on a week day?"

"Next Saturday, at 12 o'clock noon."

"Is there anything else?" inquired the priest.

"There is nothing else," as if he were about to go.

Then the priest rose. "There is yet another name, and that is the name of the place where he was born."

Thord had been born in a small town.

BOTTLE IS NON-REFILLABLE

Invention is Designed to Prevent Refilling of Bottles Once Once Been Filled.

In describing a non-refillable bottle designed by W. W. Clark of Panama, the inventor said:

In this invention the design is to prevent the refilling of the vessel after the original contents have been exhausted. The purpose of the invention is ment is to provide novel features of construction for a device which positively and effectively applies pressure in case an attempt is made to refill the vessel after the force pump. The bottle is designed to receive and hold liquids of any density. The bottle is provided with a longitudinal sectional view showing the manner in which the bulb is adjusted to seal the inlet to the bottle against the introduction of liquid.

Non-Refillable Bottles.

Cat a Holstein cow produces a quart of milk heavier than a cow of any other breed.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For months I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. I had no money, so bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I had been from inflammation and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you like, and I would be glad to receive letters."—Mrs. Josephine Eason, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand. I kept on for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed.

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it for two months and was a well woman."—Mrs. Josephine A. Lynch, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is the only medicine the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

HOW TO BUILD A SATISFACTORY AND CHEAP BROODER FOR LITTLE CHICKS

1. Base of brooder, made of inch boards, 12 inches wide.
2. Sheet of galvanized iron 3x6 feet.
3. Strip 1x1 inch nailed all round the base on top of iron.
4. Nails 1x1 inch, about three on two opposite sides.
5. Make a piece of iron wire, about 12 inches long, "strip."
6. The lard pall, holes punched in bottom and sides and fitted into a hole in strip.
7. Door for lamp.
8. Hoover, 1x1 inches on legs 6 inches high.

By D. O. BARTO,
University of Illinois.

Even more important than the correct housing for laying hens and the brooding flock is the proper housing of little chicks. For the matter how good the stock is or how strong the vitality of the chicks when hatched, if they do not have right conditions in their brooding they will either die, or worse, develop into weak, unprofitable fowls.

The number of inquiries which the writer receives about the selection of an incubator and how to run it indicates that beginners have the hatching of chickens is the principal business of the small farmer or poultry keeper. This is a mistake idea. Anyone can learn to hatch chickens with almost any kind of an incubator, but it will take care and skill to keep them alive and thriving until they are ready for market.

There are as many different kinds of brooders on the market as there are incubators, and many of them are hideous in many respects.

The heaviest single item in the business and this tempts many poultry raisers to try to economize by repeatedly shifting the chicks from the brooder in which they were started into some makeshift hen house or coop where the conditions are so different from what they had become accustomed to that the change proves disastrous to them. It is better, when possible, to allow the chicks to remain in the first brooder until they are 10 days old, then move them to a better house.

In the selection of a brooder there are a few essentials that must not be overlooked. The features that I believe are most important in a brooder are:

1. Abundant supply of fresh air at all times.
2. Ability to furnish plenty of heat when needed.
