Wellington, New Zealand.—The British explorer, Capt. Robert F. Scott, will remain in the antarctic for another year to complete the scientific and exploration work which he has undertaken there.

This word was brought to civilization by Captain Scott's vessel, the Terra Nova, which arrived in Akaroa, a harbor in the Banks peninsula. The captain of the vessel brought from the southern cape of the world the following message, signed by Scott:

"I am remaining in the antarctic for another winter in order to complete and complete my work.

It was clear that had the explorer's sending back notification of his progress until he actually reached the pole, word from him could not have been received by the Terra Nova before the vessel had sailed, owing to the setting in of winter and the freezing of the Ross sea.

The present voyage of Scott to the polar regions was begun on November 29, 1910, when he sailed from Christchurch, New Zealand, with the best equipped expedition which ever started on such an adventure. The party was composed of fifty-eight officers and men, and carried along a large number of dogs, as well as three motor sledges, which were used in the dash over the great plateau toward the polar regions.

UNDER FEDERAL LAW

HOUSE COMMITTEE LINKS MAILS AND EXPRESS IN ADOPTED BILL.

ZONE IS BASIS FOR CHARGES

Would Interchange Packages With Rural Delivery Service—Highest Rate for Greatest Distance Is 12 Cents a Pound—Senators Seated.

Washington.—A bill enlarging the interstate commerce law so as to place express companies under the commission was reported to the house by the committee on interstate commerce.

Provision would be made for rate zones, the charges varying according to the distance the package was carried from the point of origin. A close working arrangement also would be provided between the express companies and the rural free delivery system of the post office department.

The bill would govern the transportation of packages not exceeding fifteen pounds in weight and with a valuation of $40 or less. No allowance would be made for the expense of transfer from one express company to another.

The rates would be fixed as follows: Between any two points in the United States more than 2,000 miles apart, 12 cents a pound; not more than 2,000 miles apart, 10 cents; not more than 1,200 miles apart, 7 cents; not more than 600 miles apart, 5 cents; not more than 300 miles apart, 4 cents; and between points not more than 150 miles apart, 3 cents a pound.

It is provided, however, that no express company shall be compelled to accept for transportation any package for a shorter time than 10 cents. An innovation in the bill is the provision for co-operation between the express companies and the rural free delivery routes. Express matter destined for a farmer living on a rural mail route would be delivered by the express agent at the nearest point to its destination, where provided the shipper had attached the necessary postage. It would be turned over to the mail carrier, through the regular channels, for delivery. Rural carriers likewise would be authorized to accept matter on which postage had been paid for delivery to the express company.

SHE QUOT COFFEE And Much Good Came From It.

It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did a woman of Apple Creek, O. She tells her own story:

"I did not know what caused my trouble, and frequently said, I liked it so well I would not quit drinking it, even if it took my life, but I was a miserable sufferer from nervous trouble and nervous prostration for four years."

"I was scarcely able to go around at all. Had no energy, and did not care for anything. Was uncleaned and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it. I felt as though I was liable to die any time."

"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one day, it came over me, and I felt myself that the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I could indulge myself in coffee."

"So I thought I would see if I could quit drinking coffee, and put some Postum to help me out. I made it strictly according to directions, and it was to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had the Postum which I liked better than I liked the old coffee. One by one the old troubles left, until now I am in splendid health, nervous steady, heart all right, and the pain gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my housework, and have done a great deal besides."

"My sister-in-law, who visited me this summer had been in a hospital for some time much as I was, so I got her to quit coffee and drink Postum. She gained five pounds in three weeks, and I never saw such a change in anyone's health."

There's a reason.

Ever read the above letter? A genuine testimonial for several years. He was a genuine, true, and full of honest heart.
