BRIEF MENTION OF NEWS ABOUT TOWN

happenings of the week told in short paragraphs—What's Doing in Our Hometown Villages.

Remember, no issue next week. Bear in mind the Owl club masque ball on New Year's eve.

Do you know about our first Christmas? Read page three.

Are you using Red Cross seals on your Christmas packages?

The Anna club meets at the home of Miss Mina Jacobson this evening.

If you enjoy an entertainment of ledgerdom in see, Laurant at the high school tomorrow evening.

Mrs. R. G. Plagze will entertain the Birthday club during the holiday week in honor of Mrs. William Sodi.

Several Barrington young men attended the old folk's dance at Seip's pavilion, Palestine, last Saturday evening.

The Portia club has a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. V. D. Hawley this evening for club members, their husbands and gentlemen friends.

Local people will be interested to know that Albert Hawley, son of Hyon Hawley, a former resident of this neighborhood, is now mayor of Brno, Woononia.

You are neglectful of your health if you don't buy Red Cross Christmas seals. The money derived from the sale of these seals goes to protect you from tuberculosis.

Robert Prick, the village milk man, is now making deliveries of milk on Saturday afternoons instead of Sunday mornings. Two deliveries are made on Saturdays and none on Sundays.

William Klingenberg has purchased the old Fred Hawley and Henry Baum houses from R. R. Hammond and will move them to the property adjoining John Westphal's on cemetery street.

The case of William Krueger vs. Arnold Schauble, wherein Krueger is suing Schauble for damages alleged to have been caused when his team became frightened at Schauble's automobile, is being heard at Jaukey today and went to the jury.

Albert Brandt gave a party at his home south-west of town last Saturday evening which was attended by about 30 of his friends from this village and the vicinity. A jolly evening was spent with dancing, games and visiting to while away the time.

The mail schedule between Barrington, Lake Zurich and Wauconda has again been changed. The stage now leaves Wauconda at 7:00 a. m. and is due to arrive here at 9:30, leaving here on the return trip at 10:30 and arriving in Wauconda at 1:00 p. m.

Howard Hutchinson, who is employed by the Rubber Regenerating company at Mishawaka, Indiana, had the misfortune of getting his arm caught in the belt of a machine he was operating Tuesday last week. The arm was broken and he is being cared for in a hospital at Mishawaka. It is hoped he will be able to come home within a few days.

Stanley Loomis, an experienced dog fancier, arrived Saturday from England to take charge of the Vickers Kennel. He was accompanied by an assistant. Next Saturday he will take 20 or more Fox terriers and Airedales to the LaSalle holiday specialty show in Chicago and expects to take all prizes in sight. He brought a number of very fine Fox terriers with him from England.

The Thursday club met at Mrs. Williams Thorp's this afternoon. The program was arranged by Mrs. S. S. Sodi and Mrs. W. Cannon and was a study of the writings of Charles Dickens. This meeting was also one of the periodical tea days of the club. The fall meetings have been enjoyed greatly by the members as a source of instruction and pleasure. There will be no meeting next week.

No Issue Next Week.

Following our usual custom the REVIEW will not be published next week.

TAKES PRIZES AT POULTRY SHOW

F. L. Waterman Receives Many Prizes for His Buff Wyandottes at Chicago Show.

At the Great Mid-West poultry show in Chicago which closed Tuesday, F. L. Waterman captured many prizes in the Buff Wyandotte class. Eighty birds were entered in that class, among the contestants being some of the largest poultry flocks in the country, having many times the number of birds to pick from than Mr. Waterman has, all of which goes to prove that his fowls must be extremely high class. He had the first prize cock, second hen, first and second cockerels, fifth pullet and first, second and third pens. It will be noticed that he was an easy leader with the male birds, and, as every poultry man knows, the males are judged a whole lot more severely than the females and it is much more difficult to win a prize with them. The judge who awarded the prizes informed Mr. Waterman that his first prize cockerel was easily worth $200.

And, speaking of Friday the thirteenth being unlucky, Mr. Waterman's fowls were judged on Friday the thirteenth, and there were thirteen entries in the class, and Friday the thirteenth was unlucky for the other fowls.

Tomorrow Mr. Waterman will make a shipment of Buff Wyandottes to Louisville, Kentucky, for competition in a show which opens there next Monday. He is also planning to show at Toledo, Ohio, at a show of Buff Wyandottes exclusively, which will be held in January.

At the Chicago show Roy Waterman won the second prize with his Buff cockerel, the only entry that entered Buff Orpingtons, failed to come in the winning.

The Illinois Poultry Fanciers' association will give a show in Warsaw, Mo., from January sixth to eleventh and is trying to interest Barrington poultry raisers.

MASQUERADE DANCE.

Owl Club Will Give Masque Ball New Year's Eve—Last Dance Was Pleasant Affair.

The Owl club will give a masquerade ball at the village hall on Tuesday evening, December 31, New Year's eve. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Herman's lady orchestra which has won a place in the hearts of the local dance goers, and tickets will cost 75 cents for the men and 25 cents for women and children. Eight prizes will be given, one each for the best lady's costume, best gentlemen's costume, most comical costume, best ropey, best farmer, best foreign girl, best cowboy and best cowgirl.

The dance given by this club last Thursday evening was well attended and a very pleasant party. The prizes for the best waltzers were awarded to Harry Schumacher and Miss Emma Oster while Max Nagata and Miss Anna Schumacher were the prize winners in the two-step contest.

Killed by a Train.

Jacob Critz, who has lived on the Austin farm in Cuba township the past six months, was struck by the Jacksonville passenger train, north bound, on the Chicago and North Western railway last evening at the railway crossing at Cuba milk station at six o'clock while driving his team over the crossing. He was instantly killed. The horses escaped with slight injuries. His remains were taken to Cary on the train. He was 64 years old and employed at one time by John Hoelt of Cary as a teamster. Nothing is known here of his family.

About a Library.

V. D. Hawley wishes all who are interested in having him continue the public library which he has been operating to call on him when convenient. He has an interesting proposition to make which should appeal to all book lovers.

Eight Buster Markets.

Butter was reduced to 34 cents on the Egin board of Trade Monday.

Good Boves.

I do not sell cheap stores, but sell Jewell stores because, cheap stores are dear at any price. A lady called me up the other day asking me to order one case of Jewell stores for her five dollar range. This range she purchased from me 21 years ago. I asked if it did not need other repairs. No, she said, it is in good condition, and added that Jewell stores can't be excelled. I do not ask you to buy a store if you have no use for it, but if you do buy a Jewell store you will never regret it. My 20 years experience with all makes of stores ought to convince a prospective buyer. H. D. A. GAZDA.

A 10-pound son was born last Thursday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Bank.

TRUSTEES IN ADJOURNED SESSION

Village Fathers Met Monday Evening to Allow Bills and Hear Communications.

Monday evening the board of village trustees met at the village hall in adjourned session, all members being present and F. L. Waterman acting as clerk pro tempore. The minutes of the meeting of December 5th were read and approved and the following bills allowed: Woman's Relief Corps, cleaning hall..... $ 2 50 P. L. Waterman, for money advanced for labor in deepening outlet ditch..... 197 00 A. M. Layton, on sewer contract..... 4265 54 Total..... $4465 04

There was considerable discussion in regard to the bill of the Woman's Relief Corps for cleaning the hall. The sewer the corps has rented the hall by the year with the agreement that they furnish their own janitor service. They claimed that the hall was in especially bad shape at the time they wished to rent it and needed extra cleaning. Upon motion by Edward Martin, seconded by George Hager, the bill was allowed.

The trustees were in receipt of a communication from A. E. Keefer in regard to the condition of the ditches on Russell street below his property. He asserts that there is stagnant water and sewage in these ditches dangerous to the health of nearby residents. The matter was referred to the committee on drainage.

Since the village hall has become the only available place in town for public gatherings it has been in use a good share of the time, and the suggestion was made that a separate set of books be kept for the purpose of keeping track of the money derived from the sources. The clerk was ordered to put this suggestion into action and the meeting was adjourned until the next regular meeting which will be held Monday evening, January 6.

Big Store Issues Magazine.

The first issue of the Barrington Monthly Magazine, published by A. W. Meyer, made its appearance this week. It is a 20-page affair, replete with fiction, departments for the housewife, the farmer, the poultry raiser, etc., has a handsome colored cover, and is up-to-date in every respect. It carries a goodly amount of advertising for the Big Store, which is its prime motive. We believe that Mr. Meyer has mailed a copy to everyone in this vicinity and if there are any who did not receive one they would be glad to present them with a copy if his attention was called to it. It is one more evidence of the enterprise and ability of the hustling owner of the Big Store, which is among Barrington's leading general stores.

Sears' School Recitals.

The mid-year recitals given by the Sears school of music have been very successful from every point of view. Parents and invited guests have expressed themselves more than pleased with splendid showing the pupils have made at each recital. During the past week two recitals were given at Algonquin, one each at Crystal Lake, Arlington Heights and Palestine. This week recitals will be given at Barrington and Des Plaines. Miss Ullrich, one of the teachers, will continue her studies with Heulor Lary, one of the foremost teachers in the United States. Miss Corneille Smith prepared herself for the season's work by studying with Silvio Scotti, also a noted instructor.

Christmas Postal Service.

The local postoffice will be open on Christmas day from 7:00 a. m. until 10:00 a. m., from 2:00 p. m. until 5:00 p. m. and from 5:00 p. m. until 6:15 p. m. The rural carriers will make their usual deliveries on Christmas day.

Do not seal your packages that you wish to go by mail or they will require first-class postage at the rate of two cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce, whereas unsealed they will go as fourth-class matter at the rate of one cent an ounce.

Cutting Reverts Federal Appointment.

President Taft has appointed Judge Charles S. Cutting, at present Cook County Probate judge, to a position on the federal district bench, to succeed Judge Carpenter who has been nominated for promotion to the circuit court of appeals. The appointments have not as yet been confirmed by the senate and it is reported that a fight will be made by the Democrats to elect a life judge.

Local People.

A 10-pound son was born last Thursday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Bank.

A GOOD PROGRAM AT MEN'S CLUB

Debaters Decide American Merchant Vessels Should Pay Toll to Use the Panama Canal.

The first of the four meetings planned for the Barrington Men's club occurred on Tuesday evening at the Baptist church. The house was well filled with both ladies and gentlemen, as it was an open meeting. The program had been arranged by G. W. Spooner, who acted as moderator during the debate. H. H. Hubbard, the ever genial president called the meeting to order, and Rev. O. F. Mattison, chaplain, offered prayer. After some preliminary remarks, the chairman introduced Mrs. E. C. Miller, of Irving Park, who gave several numbers on the pipe organ at intervals during the evening. Mr. Miller gave evidence of being a skillful performer, and her work was greeted with applause.

The principal part of the program for the evening was a debate on the question: "Resolved, That all American merchant vessels should pay toll for the use of the Panama canal." This question was argued in the affirmative by Robert Mickey, Jr., and William Grunau, Jr., and in the negative by Lovell Bennett and Benjamin Schroeder. The debaters had evidently taken time to prepare and argued the question from all sides in a way to consider the interest in the audience. Lovell Bennett's answer was especially thoughtful and able. The decision of the judges was in favor of the affirmative, however. The judges were Dr. Weichel, Mr. Sears and O. F. Mattison. While the judges were consulting the rules were being read, impromptu remarks from A. W. Meyer, E. G. Lockhart, H. P. Castle and L. H. Bennett. It was announced that further meetings of the club would be in January, in February on Lincoln's birthday, and in March. Committees to look after these meetings have been appointed and arrangements are already being made. The function on February 12 will be a Lincoln jubilee banquet.

CELEBRATE OPENING OF ROAD.

Stockholders in New Palestine-Wauconda Road and Banquet at Palestine Monday.

The new railroad being constructed between Palestine and Wauconda, later to be extended to other places, is now practically completed as far as Lake Zurich is concerned. The village is in rapid progress. A daily schedule has been in operation for a number of weeks.

Monday the stockholders, who are mostly people living in the territory through which the road passes, together with their friends and neighbors, and the officials, took formal recognition of their success thus far on an excursion over the line, followed by a celebration and banquet at Palestine.

The road was intended to be an electric line, but the present project has been abandoned. The project team furnishes the motive power, and the road possesses two second-hand engines and two elegant new passenger coaches besides taxi cars and other necessary paraphernalia.

Officials of the road have expressed arrangements with the American Express company to take over the express business.

New Advertisers.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of A. Stubb in this issue. Mr. Stubb has a nice line of post cards, motto cards, seals, pictures and similar novelties, all of them suitable for Christmas gifts. The business which he conducts in the Lipkoff building on North Railroad street he opened but a few weeks ago, but he is succeeding in working up a nice trade. Mr. Stubb also sells picture frames and frames pictures. He is an expert at this work having made it a life business, and can frame your pictures in a proper manner. He will in the future carry a complete line of the latest novelties. His store is open from five o'clock p. m. on.

Another new advertiser is W. A. Lake, proprietor of the Norfolk Hotel, located on the corner of North and Main streets. He will in the future carry a complete line of the latest novelties. His store is open from five o'clock p. m. on.

Kampert Engraving Plant.

F. A. Lagaschewski received a letter yesterday from Norfolk, Nebraska, which says that John Kampert who recently met with an automobile accident is improving slowly. The injury to his elbow is nearly mended, but his hand still gives him some trouble.

There was no foundation for the report that amputation of the arm would be necessary. He is at the Norfolk hospital, Norfolk, Nebraska. John Kampert is a nephew of F. A. Lagaschewski, it is with him.

WORLD IN CHICAGO AT COLLEUM

A Five Weeks' Exposition of World-Wide Christian Missions in Chicago Next Spring.

"You see," the missionary was saying, "freight can be sent to us at only one time of the year, when the Yangtze is navigable. If we break a lamp chimney, a new one just ordered from America, in course of time it is sent up the river to us in West China. But perhaps the boat is wrecked, or a scoldie drops the package containing the chimney, or something else happens. Then another order goes to America, and next shipping season the chimney is started toward us. So, if this one gets through safely, we have been two years waiting for our lamp chimney. You will understand, therefore, how fortunate it is for us that the Chinese know how to mend glass and china and earthenware, mending the fragments together, as is illustrated by the shoinway I hold in my hand. You observe that the nails have been driven into it along the line of the break. And I assure you that nailed ware does not leak, either."

What was it all about? This alert young fellow, with the face of a student and the build of an athlete, was one of those who will be talking next spring to crowds of visitors in the Chinese section of The World in Chicago. He is one of a great company of missionary experts who will vitalize and humanize the superb missionary exposition and pageant which will be the sensation of Chicago, occupying as it will for five weeks the Auditorium theatre and the great spaces of the Coliseum.

This exposition will open on May third and close June seventh. It will be of particular interest to many residents of this village because one of Barrington's daughters and her husband, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Stubb, are, and have been for a number of years, missionaries to China.

RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS.

How and Where Christmas Seals May Be Used—Buy Them at the Review Office.

The postoffice department has approved the Red Cross Christmas seal design being used this year, and the seals may, therefore, in accordance with order number 5020 of the postoffice department, be affixed to the reverse side of domestic mail matter.

Red Cross seals must be placed only on the back of letters and not on the address side of any packages that are going through the mail. They may be placed anywhere on matter going by express. As many seals may be used on the back of a letter or package as may be desired. Care should be exercised in sending merchandise through the mails not to place seals over the string with which the package is tied, since this seals the package against inspection and subjects it to first-class postage rates. Red Cross seals may be used on the reverse side of mail matter sent to Australia, Great Britain and most of the British Colonies except India and Australia. Guatemala, Uruguay and Portugal refuse to admit mail bearing non-postage stamps.

Red Cross seals may be used on the face of checks, documents, legal documents and on any commercial paper. These Christmas seals are not good for postage. They will not carry any mail matter, but any kind of mail matter will carry them.

Christmas seals may be obtained at the Review office and at many of the stores.

CARE OF THE COUNTY PATIENTS.

Tuberculosis Patients of County To Be Treated at Lake Bruce—Other Business of Supervisors.

At their meeting last week the Lake county board of supervisors entered into a contract with the Lake Bruce sanitarium, Lake county's tuberculosis institute near Waukegan, for the care of county consumptive patients. The county is to pay $1.50 a day for those who are curable and $2.00 a day for those who are incurable beyond help. The cost of maintaining the plant that receives a share of the money resulting from the sale of Red Cross seals in this village and all over the county. A majority of their work is of a charitable nature, as well as that of similar institutions throughout the country, and the seals are sold at this time of the year solely to derive funds to support these hospitals.

At the meeting above mentioned the supervisors also discussed with a Calumet firm to audit the county books for 1912. This is an audit for two years. The last audit was for 10 years and cost $4,000.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The second entertainment of the Redpath Young Women's association will be held at the high school assembly hall tomorrow evening. Laurant, "the man of many mysteries," and his company will be the entertainers. They will offer a program of illusions, magic and mystery which will be interesting in the highest degree. All are invited to attend.

The Barrington school has made such progress in writing during the past year that all pupils above the second grade have been asked by Mr. Paetz to send him specimens of their writing for exhibition purposes. Dora Gerdas, Mabelle Holden and Helen Magee received certificates showing that they had made the greatest improvement in writing in their respective rooms during the month of November.

NEWS OF A WEEK IN CONDENSED FORM

RECORD OF MOST IMPORTANT EVENTS TOLD IN BRIEFEST MANNER POSSIBLE.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

happenings That Are Making History—Information Gathered from All Quarters of the Globe and Given in a Few Lines.

Washington

Because of the little time which remains before President Wilson will appoint new men to all the important positions in the diplomatic service, President Taft has decided not to name a successor to Secretary of State Lansing at London, but to let the post remain vacant until March 4 next.

The Supreme court of the United States canceled as violative of the Sherman anti-trust law the contracts by which railroad-owners coal companies in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields had purchased the output for all time of "independent mines." The charge of a "general combination" was not sustained.

In their annual reports Secretary of the Interior Fisher urges the need of new public law and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel recommends the establishment of a board to adjudicate the differences between railroads and their employees.

The annual report of the interstate commerce commission contains a caustic arraignment of the law and practice prevalent among the railroad companies with reference to providing protection for their passengers and employees.

Imports of luxuries into the United States during October were probably the highest on record. The Secretary of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce and labor estimates that luxuries are coming into this country at the rate of $1,900,000 a day.

That commissions amounting to nearly $50,000,000 are piled into the pocket of Wall street brokers each year was the testimony given in Washington before the house committee investigating the "money trust." Frank K. Sturges, a broker and former president of the New York stock exchange, was on the stand.

The omnibus private pension bill, providing increases for 228 pensioners, passed the house of representatives without a record vote. It adds about $50,000 annually to the pension rolls.

Adjournment of congress for the Christmas holidays from December 19 to January 7 was authorized when the senate adopted a resolution already passed by the house.

Representative Charles C. Bowman of the Eleventh district, was unseated by the house of representatives by the passage, 151 to 115, of a resolution declaring that corrupt practices had been used in his election in 1910.

Domestic

What is regarded as the second highest alimony ever granted in New York state was allowed to Mrs. Bernice G. Helms, when Justice Arthur S. Tompkins in the supreme court at Newburgh, N. Y., granted her a decree of divorce from her husband, Fritz Augustus Helms, the former copper king.

Before the United States government had served notice of suit for "discretion" upon its officers, the Erie (Ill.) board of trade, in a wild session, abolished its quotation committee. The action was marked by a bolt of the dissenting faction from the annual meeting.

Six persons were killed and six injured as the result of a collision between a street car and a Lake Shore coal train on the Old City branch at the Central street crossing in Ashtabula, Ohio.

A vicious bulldog, with his jaws locked on the throat of five-year-old Jasper Goff, strangled the child to death at Bessemer, Ala.

Seven students of New York high schools were found in a recent test in arithmetic who could not add 1 and 1, declares Prof. Louis Blinn of Columbia university in a statistical report on the usefulness of public school pupils for business.

As the result of a head-on collision between passenger trains on the Rock Island near Kankakee, Ill., a passenger was killed outright, fifteen seriously injured and about twenty others scattered out and bruised.

As a protest against the convict lease system Governor Donaghy of Arkansas broke all pardon records by pardoning 215 state convicts and 44 county convicts.

Alfred J. Payne, father of Fred Payne, former member of the Chicago and Detroit American leagues and Baltimore International league baseball player, was shot and killed near Utica, N. Y., while hunting. He received a death wound when a gun in the hands of his son, Bert, was discharged accidentally.

Amelio Prince, said by the police to be a notorious "black hand" leader, was shot and killed in a bakery in upper New York. According to the story told the police by employees of the shop, he had just demanded $100 of Joseph Gallucci, the owner.

The accidental prick of a woman's baton in the chest caused the death of James Sinclair, chief of the Caledonian club in Boston. Death resulted from oedema of the brain, brought on by blood poisoning.

Twenty-seven men and boys lost their lives by firestorms in the New England states and the maritime provinces during the hunting season, which has closed.

A Missouri state appointive office, with fees estimated at $9,000 a year, which had been overlooked for thirteen years, was filled for the first time by the appointment by State Auditor Gordon of Thomas Bond, an auditor's counsel in collection of the collateral inheritance tax.

Judgment for $50,000 entered by agreement against the estate of Floyd K. Whittemore, a bondman for Henry L. Herz, Illinois state treasurer in 1907, settled the last of a score of cases brought by the state treasury fees for recording bonds from former state treasurers.

The National Museum in Washington has added to its historical collection four antique chairs that once were the property of Alexander Hamilton.

Brought to Indianapolis by the defense to impeach the testimony of Orin McManigal, Frederick W. Zeiss, union iron worker, Chicago, was taken from the witness stand at the dynamite conspiracy trial by order of Judge Albert Anderson and held under $2,000 bond to appear before the next federal grand jury for perjury.

The 20,000 officers and men of the Atlantic fleet will be in New York for the next fortnight and will spend about $500,000 on their Christmas shopping and holiday festivities.

The application of A. E. Cary and others who are members of the supreme lodge, Independent Order of Moose of America, for a writ of mandamus to compel Secretary of State to incorporate under this name, was denied by Superior Judge Shields in Sacramento, Cal.

The Tenants' union of New York devoted to the interests of 800,000 rent-paying families, hopes to enlist the aid of the clergy in an effort to help the poor families of the city by having landlords remit ten per cent. of the rent until the high cost of living is reduced.

Four men were hanged in the penitentiary at Salem, Ore., despite efforts to save their lives that were unprecedented. The quartet had been sentenced to death by Gov. Oswald West for varying periods in order that the electorate of the state might have an opportunity to pronounce its verdict whether the men should hang. The verdict was given in November and was in favor of hanging.

Foreign

Queen Maud of Norway has under gone a slight operation at Appleton house, near Sandringham, one of her father's (King Edward's) wedding gifts.

Whitelaw Reid, United States ambassador to Great Britain since 1905, died at Dorchester house, his London residence, of pulmonary oedema. Mr. Reid was in his seventy-sixth year and the end was quiet and peaceful.

The peace conference, which has before it the arduous task of arranging terms of permanent peace between the Balkan states and Turkey, began in historic St. James palace in London, the picture gallery having been made aside for the use of the plenipotentiaries.

The announcement that M. Simlon, the Serbian minister to Austria, had been recalled by an imperative order from Belgrade, has thrown the Austro-Serbian situation into a state of utter confusion.

The much beloved and venerated Leopold, prince regent of Bavaria, died in Munich, at the age of ninety-one years.

Sporing

Fredrick McFarland, the pride of the Chicago stock yards, won another victory in a ten-round bout with Eddie Murphy at Kenosha, Wis. But when it was all over, McFarland had had his head in a real battle. Not in many months, or perhaps years, has McFarland had to fight so hard as he did here last night.

DEATH TAKES REID

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR TO GREAT BRITAIN DIES IN LONDON SUNDAY.

KING SENDS CONDOLENCES

United States Diplomat Succumbs With Wife and Daughter at His Bedside With Son Crossing Sea—Taft Pays High Tribute.

London, Dec. 17.—American ambassador to the court of St. James, Whitelaw Reid, died at Dorchester house, his palatial London home, at ten minutes after noon Sunday. Only his wife and daughter, Hon. Mrs. John Hubert Ward, were at the bedside when she died. His son, Ogdon Mills Reid, has called from New York on the Kronprinzessin Ocelline, the ambassador's family not realizing the seriousness of Mr. Reid's condition until Friday, when he called Ocelline to sail immediately for England.

King George has inquired fully as to the ambassador's condition since the fact that he was seriously ill became known. Hon. John Ward, who was at Dorchester house, telephoned Buckingham palace immediately when the death occurred, and within half an hour Sir John Legge, the queen's envoy, called to convey the condolences of the king and queen.

The following official statement was issued at Dorchester house by the attending physicians:

"A fortnight ago the ambassador had a return of the asthma from which he had previously suffered severely at considerable intervals. Gradually bronchitis supervened and the asthmatic paroxysms became severe, leading to extreme exhaustion. Although with great difficulty the paroxysms of asthma were gotten under control, early Sunday, the exhaustion became extreme. Mr. Reid died of pulmonary oedema at ten minutes past 12 o'clock."

President Taft paid an unusual tribute to the late ambassador and expressed his grief in a cable reply to a message of sorrow from King George of Great Britain. The president also sent his sympathy to Mrs. Reid. Through his own personality, Mr. Reid, the president said, had drawn America and Great Britain in closer friendship.

Bandits Rob Bank of $3,000.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 17.—Four heavily armed men robbed the State bank at Kyle, Tex., and escaped with $3,000. The yeagmen seized Night Watchman Ralph Guthrie and bound and gagged him before he could give the alarm. The men then leisurely drove away and opened it with nitroglycerin.

Consul General Resigns.

London, Dec. 16.—Henri Merou, consul general of France in San Francisco for more than six years, said Monday that he had tendered his resignation, to take effect January 1. He will soon leave for Europe.

New Turkish Counselor Coming. London, Dec. 17.—Djavad Bey, counselor of the Turkish embassy in London, started for the United States Sunday to take up the same post in Washington. He was one of the most popular diplomats in London.

BOMB WITNESS IS HIT

F. W. ZEISS HELD UNDER $2,000 BOND ON PERJURY CHARGE.

Was McManigal's Roommate in Detroit and Worked Jobs With Him.

Indianapolis, Dec. 16.—Frederick W. Zeiss, union ironworker, Chicago, brought here by the defense to impeach the testimony of Orin McManigal, was taken from the witness stand at the dynamite conspiracy trial Friday by order of Judge Albert Anderson and held under $2,000 bond to appear before the next federal grand jury for perjury.

Zeiss was McManigal's roommate in Detroit in the spring of 1907, and worked on jobs with him there at that time. McManigal testified that he had never talked to Zeiss about his first explosion at the Russell Wheel and Foundry company in Detroit, June 25, 1907. Zeiss contradicted this and said McManigal had told him that he (McManigal) caused that explosion, and worked on jobs with him there at that time. McManigal testified that he was going to Bloomville, O., to get dynamite. He also said McManigal invited him to become a dynamite man. "I told him the game was too dirty for me," said Zeiss.

"Do you say that you knew this explosion had occurred and you said nothing about it to Zeiss?" asked Anderson in astonishment. Zeiss made no reply.

"Do you know where you are?" Answer "my question," continued the court. "Certainly."

LETTERSOURCE TOLD

HEARST TELLS CLAPP BODY LONDON MAN GAVE ARCHBOLD EPISTLES.

FAC-SIMILES ARE PRODUCED

Publisher Tells Campaign Fund Inquirers He Is Willing to Reveal Whatever is Necessary in Regard to His Investigation.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Before the senate campaign investigating committee Tuesday William R. Hearst produced several new letters bearing upon the alleged political activities of John D. Archbald and the Standard Oil company. Mr. Hearst testified that he knew nothing as to the incidents related in the letters or the circumstances in which Mr. Archbald might have sent money to former Senator Foraker of Ohio and former Representative Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, to whom some of the letters were addressed.

Chairman Clapp asked Mr. Hearst if he ever saw the originals of the letters. "I am anxious," he began "to testify very fully to everything that I am personally concerned in and everything of interest to this inquiry. Do you feel that this is essential to the inquiry?"

Senator Clapp replied that the authenticity of some of the letters had been questioned. After members of the committee had insisted upon the information, Mr. Hearst responded that he got the copies of John Eddy of London, author of four of the articles published in the magazine. He testified that he did not know of whom Eddy procured the letters.

Mr. Hearst then produced the letters and telegrams. The first was from Senator Penrose to John D. Archbald dated December 4, 1903, at Philadelphia, and read in part as follows: "I have wired Senator Aldrich to make an appointment with him to discuss the matter referred to in your letter. It added that Senator Penrose himself could meet Mr. Archbald in New York at any time."

A letter from John D. Archbald to J. H. Foraker, then senator from Ohio, expressed the willingness of Mr. Archbald to make a loan of $50,000. The loan was to bear interest at five per cent. and was to be repaid in two installments of $25,000 each.

Another letter was from John D. Archbald to Joseph C. Sibley, former representative. It referred to an inclosed certificate of deposit of $5,000 sent you at the request of Mr. Gristman the purpose of which you do doubt understand with him."

COUNTRY BANKS AID WALL ST.

Out of Town Concerns Furnish $723,000,000 for New Yorkers to Loan at a Profit.

Washington, Dec. 19.—How Wall street gambles every day with the money of thousands of small banks in the towns "back there" and of millions of depositors, was laid before the house money trust investigating committee here Tuesday.

Every day of the year it was shown, there are in the big banks of New York sums varying in extent from half a billion dollars to almost a billion dollars that are thrown into "street" on loans for which Wall street collateral only is taken as security.

"When the powers of the 'street' want the money to gamble with they bid up the money rates and a stream of gold flows into their coffers. When times are more favorable these millions find their way back to the interior banks."

This story of the magnetic power of the money center in New York was told by J. B. Niven, an expert accountant.

Niven's figures are based on an inquiry into the amount of loans made by thirty-two of the largest New York city banks representing the stock exchange interests.

The witness told graphically how on November 1 last, when the money rate in Wall street was high, $723,000,000 of the cash of the interior banks either was loaned out to Wall street direct or was on deposit in the big banks that do a money lending business. On July 1, when the money rate was low, the banks had more than one hundred million dollars less in the street.

Fifty Die in Chinese Fight.

Amoy, China, Dec. 19.—Fifty persons were killed in severe fighting among the clans composing the population of this city Tuesday. Government troops were called out, but only partially restored order.

Quakes Shake Montana Mine Camps.

Helena, Mont., Dec. 19.—Two earthquake shocks were felt at the Marysville, Baldy Mountain and Mountain and Valley mining camps, twenty-five miles from Helena, Tuesday. The shock was felt here.

Katsura in as Premier.

Tokyo, Dec. 19.—The emperor of Japan issued a rescript Tuesday ordering Gen. Katsura to form a cabinet to take the place of the ministry under the Marquis Saionji, which resigned on December 4.

OUR FIRST CHRISTMAS

Holiday Celebrated in America Before Time of Columbus.

The Christian Norseman Undoubtedly Observed the Occasion on the New England Coast—in Early Colonial Days.

WHILE the settlement of the American continent is modern and its history clearly defined, probably there were Christmas celebrations before the first voyage of Columbus. The chronicles of Iceland tell the story of the visit made to Greenland by Lief, son of Eric the Red, of Norway, and describe the southward voyage of his little vessel past the snow-clad mountains of Labrador and the wooded shores of Newfoundland, until Vinland, an indefinite region on the New England coast, was reached.

Here Lief, who was a Christian, and the members of his little band of daring adventurers spent the winter of 1002 and no doubt on the bleak New England shore the beautiful feast, whose Godlike spirit has softened and conquered the world, was celebrated.

The Norwegian visits to Vinland were continued by Thorwald and Thorstein, brothers of Lief, who had succeeded to the patriarchal office and possessions of his father; and on the deaths in quick succession of both Thorwald and Thorstein the wife of the latter, Gudrida, married a rich Norwegian named Thorfin and accompanied him and a company of his followers to Vinland, where they lived three years. Gudrida was a pious soul. When her second husband died she visited Rome, narrated to Pope Benedict an account of her adventures in this far western world and with the papal blessing returned to Iceland, where she founded a convent, of which she became abbess.

There are no records bearing on the Christmas days spent by these hardy Norsemen in New England, but imagination can well picture the renewal in this strange land of the Christmas customs of Scandinavia. And thus it is entirely legitimate to assume that by them the first celebration of the day was observed in the new world.

History, and tradition as well, are silent after this on new world affairs until the coming of the Spaniards, followed by the Portuguese, French and English. By then the feast of the Nativity was celebrated, and long before Plymouth Rock was discovered, to be made the cornerstone of a new civilization, hardy fishermen from France chanted the hymns of the Catholic church in the waters of Maine. An old French chart gives to certain islands near the Machias river, east of Penobscot, the names of Isles des Rois Magas and Havre Magas—Isles of the Magian Kings, and Magian harbor—in memory of the three wise men, who followed the mysterious star, to lay their offerings of gold, frankincense and of myrrh before the Babe of Bethlehem.

In stern and puritan New England Christmas was placed under ban. The Plymouth colony, indeed, did not pass prohibitive laws, but in 1622 Gov. Bradford placed all Christmas games under interdict and those who afterward observed the day did so secretly. But the Massachusetts Bay colony, following the example of Cromwell's parliament, which prohibited all observance of the feast and decreed that "holly and ivy were badges of sedition," enacted a law, in 1659, obliging all men to labor on Christmas day and inflicting a fine upon those who observed the feast. It was not until 1681—more than 20 years after the passing of the Crown over the heads and the restoration of the Stuart dynasty to the throne—that this law, abolishing personal freedom and liberty of worship, was repealed; and several years after this the spirit of New England was reflected in a letter written by Rev. Joshua Moody to Rev. Increase Mather, in which the observance of Christmas was thus referred to: "And the shutting up of shops on Christmas day and driving the master out of school on Xmas holidays are very grievous."

Elsewhere throughout the colonies the feast of Christmas was reflected. Both New Amsterdam and New York maintained the old-world customs associated with the day and in the south the beautiful festival never lost its hold upon the hearts of the English settlers.

Today there is no north, no south, no east, no west, to Christmas celebration in the United States. The story of the Babe of Bethlehem is written on every heart and every tongue on Christmas morning repeats the song the angels sang over the Judean hills: "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to men of good will."

FRIENDLY WARNING

Atlas was holding up the world. At this juncture Santa Claus drove by. "Hello, Atlas," said Santa. "Bull holding it up, I see." "Yes," wrooth Atlas. "Well, get busy with it," Santa advised. "After I make my trip this year there won't be anything left for an everyday hold-up man."

Had Something in Him. Rev. Hudson Robert Jones had preached what he thought was a great Christmas sermon. On the way home from church he came upon a youth sitting doubled up on the steps of a domicile. Wishing to admonish this young person for what he took to be laziness, he stepped up to him and said:—"Don't sit there like that, my boy; this is Christmas. Get up and stir yourself; you certainly must have something in you."

"I've got a big Christmas dinner in me," was the forced reply, "and I can't move."

PREPARING FOR HIS ANNUAL JOURNEY

CHRISTMAS FOR TWO

By AGNES HOWARD BUTLER.

M A L L Thomas Moore was born an orphan. So far as he was concerned, his brief history began and ended at the Children's home. His big sister Lily, who was six and therefore should have known better, told vague tales of a real Mother and a little house in the country where they had cocoa every day for breakfast. This last Christmas was the story. At the Asylum one had cocoa only on Sunday, and this festive event redeemed a day otherwise devoted to religious exercises.

The two children sat on the edge of their chairs in the bleak asylum parlor, where three holly wreaths in the curtainless windows proclaimed that it was Christmas. Both were dressed in the institutional blue and white check, and there was a red shingleness about their faces which told of the recent and vigorous application of soap and water. Lily was cream and roses with appealing long-lashed eyes that would have secured her a home many times over if she had been willing to go alone. No one wants to adopt a boy. Even the blonde ones were unclaimed, so what chance had Thomas, brown as to hair and eyes and skin, although anything but somber in effect? The overworked Matron had reluctantly given up the idea of "placing" the two children together. A desirable home had been found for the girl with two prim maiden ladies and little brother had to remain behind. So the tiny folks were to spend their last Christmas together with Lily's new guardians.

"Sister will come every Saturday to see Brother," said the little girl, who accepted the coming separation with a child's strange fatalism, although her heart was aching. "Yes," assented Brother noncommittally. He was less concerned with future happiness than with the pleasing prospect of a day in new surroundings.

A carriage drawn by a fat slug of a horse drew up to the curbing, two ladies got out and cautiously ascended the slippery steps. "Miss Priscilla-headed and Miss Mattie-pull-her-back," announced Thomas, who had his own way of characterizing people. "Tommy! Tommy! Don't call them that," wailed Lily; "say Miss Priscilla and Miss Mattie or maybe they won't want me."

At this point thought even Thomas was abashed, so it was the shy little Lily alone who slipped from her chair and offered her hand to the two ladies as they entered the room followed by the Matron. Miss Priscilla shook hands in a matter of fact way, but Miss Mattie bent to kiss the children as she helped them on with their wraps and gathered up the meager parcel that contained Lily's personal belongings.

"Well, we go now, Sister," she ventured. The dominant chord of her existence had always tinkled a soft accompaniment to the leitmotif of the delectable Miss Priscilla. "Yes," assented the latter positively, "and we will return the boy presently if first," she added, to the Matron, who had been hovering over Lily with good-byes and admonitions.

The coachman carried both children down the icy steps and they bore themselves with becoming modesty, as if accustomed to such care, while the orphans in the front ward watched enviously, and one of them opened the window wide enough to call down:—"Aw, Tommy's coming back anyhow," as a salve to their slighted condition.

When the big house was reached there was a delightful holiday smell in the air of evergreens, oranges and freshly burning driftwood. Lily was taken upstairs to come down later, her blonde beauty radiant in the white lawn and blue ribbons in which Miss Mattie had dressed her. With a child's adaptability she seemed to fit in perfectly with her surroundings in contrast to Thomas in his coarse blue gingham and heavy shoes. She would bring the spirit of youth to a house, long accustomed to the decorous ways of sober middle age. A black and white Japanese spaniel, who would bring the spirit of youth to a house, long accustomed to the decorous ways of sober middle age. A black and white Japanese spaniel, who would bring the spirit of youth to a house, long accustomed to the decorous ways of sober middle age.

"Don't spoil the child," rejoined her sister, with a glance at small Thomas, who sat hunched out of it. "Come, it's time for the tree."

A white-capped maid shoved aside the portieres and revealed a tree, glittering with tinsel and heaped around with various ribboned packages. There was a satisfying smell, a cozy "portion for two" feeling about this fat little tree, in contrast to the usual spindly, sparsely trimmed evergreen at the Asylum, which was so large that it never seemed to belong to anyone but the Board of Directors.

After a moment of rapturous silence Lily hugged a real dolly, and Thomas fell upon a toy horse. Being of an investigating turn of mind, it was soon minus saddle and bridle and the tail was about to follow when Miss Priscilla created a diversion by lighting the tree so that he might see it in all its glory before he went back. The early winter twilight began to shadow the room as she rang for tea. Then thoughtfully she hung Tom's coat by the fire to warm in preparation for his cold ride.

The tea-wagon appeared. In honor of the day it bore the Martha Washington set of colonial tradition, a cherished heirloom whose egg-shell fragility had been guarded from destruction through the careful generations. Besides the usual tea service, there was a pitcher of milk and thin slices of bread, spread with raspberry jam, and a plate heaped with bananas.

It was wheeled into place before Miss Mattie, whose transparent hands had barely filled the teapot, when with a whoop of joy the riotous Thomas made descent. Heedless of his sister's warning cry and poor Miss Priscilla's horrified gasp, he grasped the handle of this novel push-cart, shouting:—"Bananas! Bananas!"

The peculiar facility which pursues small boys in a drawing-room swooped down upon him. There was a crash and a tinkle of silver as the wheels met the edge of a heavy rug, and Tom, the devastator, sat amid the ruins.

"Oh, Miss Priscilla-headed and Miss Mattie-pull-her-back! I didn't mean to break it; don't send Lily back to the 'alum' cause I've had, and be my Mother, too," he concluded breathlessly.

It was Miss Priscilla who picked him out of the debris, and as his short arms met around her neck and his head buried face went down on her shoulder, she looked across at Miss Mattie and as one who has at length arrived at a happy decision, she announced:—"You take the girl—the boy is mine."

AT CHRISTMAS TIME.

"And there were in the field country shepherds abiding in the night, keeping watch over their flocks by night."

"And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them: and they were sore afraid."

"And the angel said unto them: 'Fear not; for behold, I bring you tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord.'

"And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:
"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

Thus saith the Song of Peace.
And now on the time of year when, if at no other time, our hearts are filled with thoughts of love and peace. This is the season of giving, of helping, of assisting others; and no other effort of man brings greater reward than the exercise of this desire.

These are the days when one's mind centers on one's loved ones. He they near or far there is a longing to do something that will help gladden their Christmas-ide. Hearts are glowing with love, and families which have been broken up by stern economic necessity drift together in spirit, if not in body, during the holy season that ends each year.

The sadness and suffering resultant upon poverty and from which it seems almost impossible to escape stands out especially clear at this season, and the efforts made to alleviate this suffering bespeaks well for the innate love and nobility of God's children, and shows that the Saviour did not teach in vain. If you want to get the utmost happiness out of the season, make happy as many others as possible.

THINK IT OVER.

Are you discontented?—dissatisfied with your lot? Is the feeling of rebellion arising within you?

Think it over!
And when you're counting up your troubles, give a few minutes thought to the troubles of others; it will make yours seem small by comparison.

Contentment is not a cure-all for discontentment, but thinking things over in the right manner is sure to restore your nerve and ambition—and ambition, put into action, brings happiness.

NINETEEN TWELVE—THIRTEEN.

The year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve, with its deeds of good and bad, is about to close; and a new year is ready to open its doors.

Let the good of the old year go with you into the new to set as incentive to other good throughout all its hours, its days and months; but let the bad perish with the last hour of the old year, retaining none to taint the sacred season of hope upon which we are, so soon, to enter.

BREATHE FRESH AIR.

Open a window in your sleeping room, when you retire, far enough to insure pure air and proper ventilation. Man is an air-breathing animal and the only air fit to breathe is fresh air. At this season of the year fresh air is cold air and you may consider it disagreeable, but it is not dangerous, as is the air of a close, foul room.

Open windows in the sleeping room may cause an occasional husky throat in the morning, but closed windows are cards of admission to the cemetery.

THE SEASON'S GREETINGS.

May your Christmas be merry and happy and the coming year dawn with joy and prosperity for you, our readers, is the sincere wish of the REVIEW.

OBITUARY.

CAROLINE KUEHL.
Mrs. Caroline Kuehl, widow of the late Frederick Kuehl, died at her home on Station street Tuesday evening at 6:55.

Mrs. Kuehl, whose maiden name was Hurchard, was born in Germany in August, 1850, and came to America with her husband about 21 years ago, settling at Schaumburg. Later they lived in Palatine township where they conducted a farm for a number of years, and moved to this village four years ago, purchasing the present home. Mr. Kuehl was killed in a cave-in at a gravel pit west of this village June 30, 1906. Mr. and Mrs. Kuehl were the parents of five children, two sons and three daughters, all of whom live in or near this village. They are: Mrs. William Webster, Herman Kuehl, William Kuehl, Mrs. Louis Reese and Miss Bertha Kuehl.

Mrs. Kuehl received a paralytic stroke March 30, 1912, and has not been well since that time. She has been confined to her bed all summer and another stroke a few days ago was the cause of her death. Her daughter, Bertha and son Herman have made their home with her and cared for her.

Besides the sons and daughters, there are living three sisters in Elgin, Mesdames John Watson, Charles Kierulff and Fred Quander, one brother, William Hurchard of Fresno, California, and six grandchildren, Laura, Mary, Elmer, Mabel and Elsie Webster and Helen Reese.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock at the house and at two o'clock at St. Paul's church, Rev. Eugene Wilking officiating, and interment will take place at St. Paul's cemetery.

CAROLINE WESSEL.

Mrs. Caroline Wessel died last Saturday, December 14, at the home of her son, George, on the Kendall farm west of this village. The funeral was held at the Salem church Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 10 o'clock, Rev. A. W. Strickfaden, a former pastor here, officiating, and interment was at the family lot in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Wessel was the oldest daughter of Ernest and Sophia Heike and was born in Austria on December 10, 1824, making her 88 years and four days old at the time of her demise. When she was one year old her parents came to this country and located near this village where they have since made their home, and she has lived in this vicinity since that time. In 1873 she was married to August Wessel, with whom she lived until his death in 1894. This union was blessed with four sons and two daughters, all of whom survive their mother. She has been a widow for 18 years and to her fell the responsibility of bringing up and caring for her family of children, which she did as only an earnest christian mother can. She was venerated a member of the church of her choice. She had been a sufferer for many years, but free from complaint in christian submissiveness.

Mrs. Wessel leaves to mourn their loss, besides the children mentioned above, her father and mother, four brothers, six sisters and 11 grandchildren, nearly all of whom are residents of the immediate vicinity.

ANSEL R. SMITH.

Ansel R. Smith was born on the Smith farm in Barrington township nearly 61 years ago, and resided there up to the last nine years, died Wednesday night last week at his home, 79 North Liberty street, Elgin.

The Smith family were early settlers in Barrington township, and he was well known to the residents of this village and vicinity. Mesdames Thomas Donlea of Barrington township and Frank Cady of Cuba township are sisters.

Mr. Smith had been afflicted with

Besides the two sisters mentioned above, there remain the widow, five sons and one daughter, two brothers and one sister in Elgin, a sister in Chicago and a sister, Mrs. John Lemke, at Cary.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at his late residence and was attended by his local relatives.

Rheumatism was responsible for the death yesterday of Lillian, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Meyer, who live near Cary.

AMBITION TALKS

A DOZEN "PLODDERS" SUCCEEDED TO ONE "BORN GENIUS."

Many of the boys and girls who gave the greatest promise of success 20 years ago have not amounted to as much as some of those who were looked down upon at that time as dullards and even dunks. It is the old story of the gambler's money, "Come easy, go easy."

I have in mind a schoolmate who was regarded by all of us as the most promising member of the class. He was handsome, stylish, a regular heart-smasher with the ladies, quick at his studies and of a pleasant and easy-going disposition. In comparison with those about him he was superior mentally, so that it seemed unnecessary for him to put forth any effort whatever in the accomplishment of things.

The result was natural. He didn't put forth an effort whatever in the accomplishment of things today. Neither his mind nor his body received any development, and he is today a nonentity, his brilliance gone, his brain undeveloped, and his power of determination absolutely lacking. A thousand such brains as his could be put in a peanut, and they would still have as much room as a bullfrog in the Pacific ocean.

His case is by no means a singular one. We have all observed dozens like it, and the reason is evident to every thoughtful person. Brains can be acquired not by the shiftless, complacent calf, which simply takes what is given it and puts it on a shelf, but by the person who bends every energy to increase his original stock.

Success is not attained at a goal. It is not situated at a terminus. It lies in the action.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH COUGHS OR COLDS.

Many Have Filled Consumptive Graves Because They Neglected a Cough or Cold.

You never know how soon a cold will become a serious malady. It may be in the head to-day; in the lungs to-morrow and the next day you may be fighting deadly pneumonia for your life. It's the same with a cough. Inflamed and cough-worn throat and lungs offer the best chance to consumption germs to begin their murderous work. There's only one way to prevent these deadly diseases getting a hold on you. As soon as a cough or cold attacks you, take Dr. King's New Discovery until you are entirely cured. Sometimes a dose or two will do the business, saving you suffering and a doctor's bill. Thousands of cures like these below prove its wonderful power to cure coughs and colds.

"I feel sure it's a Godsend to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton,

Columbia, Mo., "for I believe I would have consumption to-day, if I had not used this great remedy."

"I take great pleasure in recommending your Dr. King's New Discovery for the benefit of suffering humanity. It's a thoroughly reliable remedy for all coughs, croup and lung troubles. We have used it in our family for fourteen years with the best results. It saved my mother when her two doctors gave her up. She had a very severe case of pneumonia and was in bed seven weeks and part of the time out of her mind so that she did not know me. I told father to get me two 50c bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, which he did, and on taking it the soon began to improve, and four bottles cured her entirely. You may publish this if you wish and I will answer all inquiries, with postage enclosed for reply.

"Yours respectfully,
"Wm. Cogger."

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

Fowls must have grit.
Barley is hard to digest.
Rape is too moist for silage.
Clover likes black, sandy loam.

The "right side" of a cow should be both sides.
Don't send any of the lambs to market in thin condition.
The sheep barn should be put in shape for the winter.
The cow barn is a poor place to install the cream separator.

Boards are cheaper than hay and grain for keeping stock warm.
It may be set down as a rule that it does not pay to fatten old cows.
A silo 18 feet in diameter and 40 feet high will hold 200 tons of silage.
It is not an easy task to break a cow from the habit of sucking her self.

Farmers at the present time can own no better stock than healthy young pigs.
No animal that eats only food enough to support life can make a gain or profit.
Any man who will strike a horse in the head should never be allowed to touch one again.

Treat a calf mean and all the feed you give will never can make anything but a runt of him.
Poultry netting tacked on the inside of windows, though, as stated before, the man who buys them and finishes them for the market may secure a profit from them, says a writer in the Wisconsin Agriculturist. The man who desires to turn off market topping cattle or those coming close to the top prices must breed and grow such cattle himself.

Well bred stock and good feeding are needed in obtaining the greatest return in stock raising.
Pneumonia kills many pigs before they get used to sleeping in damp pens, drafts or snow banks.
A solid concrete foundation for the separator insures it against vibration, which is hard on the machine.

Don't forget that if the sheep are not kept constantly in good condition the quality of the wool is affected.
Silage may be fed to young stock twice a day and it is a very good feed for all kinds of young dairy animals.

Remember the limited capacity of the hog's digestive apparatus and form his concentrated rations accordingly.
It is claimed by those who have tried it, that a cross of Moscow drake on Pekin ducks will produce sterile progeny.
A ewe in good flesh almost invariably is a good breeder and a good suckler, something that thin ewes cannot very well do.

Bruiases, cuts and small sores may develop into serious wounds, if not properly looked after and protected from the flies.
In purchasing a boar it is well to bear in mind that one with heavy bones is more to be desired than one of the slight build.

Regular careful milking permanently improves the animal as a milk producer, aside from directly increasing the milk flow.
One way of keeping dirt, flies, etc., from dropping into the pail while milking is to cover the pail with clean cheesecloth and milk through it.

The small farmer can keep a variety of live stock sufficient to produce something to sell and bring in a bit of ready cash every month in the year.
Did you know that you can get the confidence of the horse? He is of ten a better judge of human nature than many a man is of horse nature.

Build the silo next to the cattle barn where the feed can be taken right from the silo into the barn. A feed cart is makes light work in such a case.
Charcoal and grit should be kept where the pigs can have access to them at all times. They are a preventative as well as a cure for indigestion.

Dampness and contaminated ground are fruitful causes of poultry disease. The quarters should be as dry as a chip, and the ground in the runs perfectly pure.
Do you know that feeding rye straw to pregnant ewes is a bad practice? The straw contains a considerable amount of ergot, which is likely to produce abortion.

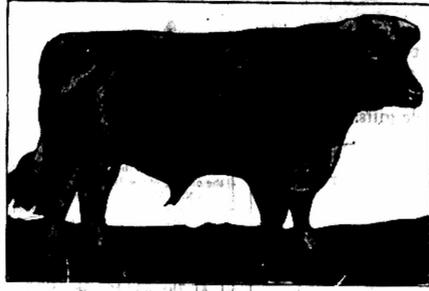

Lambs should be docked when they are from eight to ten days old, according to the advice of the Minnesota experiment station. At that time the young animal receives practically no setback.
Every farm boy and girl who is interested in poultry should be given a flock and a house to keep it in, and encouraged to make all the profit on it he can. Many boys and girls have earned enough keeping poultry to pay their way through college.

When a sick fowl is discovered, remove it at once. Maybe it will attend to it then and there you can save it, whereas if allowed to wait too long it may die.
Select your breed for the special purpose it is to be kept for. If there is no definite purpose, study the matter over carefully till it is known what kind of poultry will net the best returns.

When a stop is made, turn the horses toward the wind, if possible, so that they may cool off. When they are resting, turn the head of their necks, if possible. Give them a chance to rest and stretch their bodies when they are unharnessed at night. The head should be given a good bed and plenty to eat at night, and they should be watered in the morning before they are fed.

BREEDING AND GROWING OF CATTLE FOR MARKET IS MOST PROFITABLE TO FARMER

Corn Silage Has Been Important Factor in Process of Making Calves into Beef—Rough Feed and Coarse Fodders All Are Converted into Marketable Meat and Farm Manure.

Prize Winning English Shorthorn.

While the shrewd buyer and careful feeder of beef cattle may secure a profit from feeding cattle good, bad or indifferent that he may be able to pick up about the country, it is not likely that he will succeed in even turning off a load of market topping heaves from such stock. Cattle that can be bought up about the country are usually of the lower grades and seldom return a profit to their producers, though, as stated before, the man who buys them and finishes them for the market may secure a profit from them, says a writer in the Wisconsin Agriculturist. The man who desires to turn off market topping cattle or those coming close to the top prices must breed and grow such cattle himself.

Frank H. Beath of Corning, Iowa, is one of the men in the beef business who breeds and grows his cattle and turns them off in the open market at high figures. Every year for the past five years he has fed out a bunch of Hereford calves of his own raising. In a recent interview with Rex Berensford, beef specialist of the Iowa Beef Producers' association, Mr. Beath said: "We used to feed older cattle and depended on buying them up. Five years ago we got disgusted with the quality of the stuff we were able to buy. Occasionally we got a good load, but the stuff we would pick up here and there was mostly tag and scrubby stuff that did poorly for us and never looked good even when it made us money. We made up our minds we would have good feeders, even if we had to raise them."

According to the Iowa beef specialist, the Beath farm consists of 268 acres. One hundred and twenty acres of this is bottom land, partly wooded and traversed by a creek—land of little use save for pasture, but most excellent for that purpose. On eighty acres of this blue grass the breeding herd is maintained on the pasture all season. The rest of the year they spend cleaning up the stalk fields, straw, corn fodder and other rough feed of the farm, together with some corn silage. They get little or no grain, but convert the coarse feeds of the farm into beef and valuable manure.

During the last five years the calf crop from the breeding herd has averaged nearly 90 per cent. The calves are dropped from April to June on pasture. They are fed on grain during the summer, but run with their dams on the blue grass, where they grow mossy coated, thick and "baby fat." They are weaned in October, after first being taught what grain is. After weaning they have a pasture that has been allowed to grow since and that it pays very well. It has still young, growing as well as producing. The older cows are fattened and turned off as their usefulness declines or they fail to produce a calf. It is a safe estimate that the average yearly cash income for each cow in the herd is better than $50.

While there is nothing startling in this method of beef production, there apparently is no great profit in it. The cows are cheaply kept, the pasture land is well employed and the element of speculation involved in buying high priced feeders is avoided. The rough feed and coarse fodders are all utilized and converted into marketable beef and valuable farm manure. Little corn and no roughage is bought. All the crops are raised on the farm and fed there so that little fertility is lost from the farm and the cost of marketing of the farm products is reduced to the minimum. Little hired labor is necessary. Hogs follow the cattle and consume the waste of the cattle feeding and make extra profit for the farmer. The more productive. When the methods and results of some of the most successful beef producers are studied it looks as if there is money after all in producing beef on high priced land and those of our Wisconsin farmers who do not want to go into dairying, who have farms adapted to beef production, need not let the high priced land argument distract them in the least about getting into beef raising at once.

EXCELLENT FEED FOR ALL POULTRY

Packing Firms Manufacture and Sell Large Quantities of Prepared Scraps.

(By M. BERNARD.)
The most successful poultrymen feed some kind of animal food to their chickens of all ages and conditions. In the wild state birds secure both vegetable and animal foods. Bugs and worms supply the animal food, and seeds and other vegetable growth the vegetable food. The animal portion of the diet is always a necessary part of normal maturity and good egg laying.
So essential is animal matter in the poultry feeds that the packing firms, by their manufacture and sell large quantities of prepared beef scraps and ground bones, which are sold very widely over the country. Those who use them find that it pays very well. It has still young, growing as well as producing. The older cows are fattened and turned off as their usefulness declines or they fail to produce a calf. It is a safe estimate that the average yearly cash income for each cow in the herd is better than $50.

You Could Do It Too, in the Fertile Northwest

One man made a bountiful living for his family (he has 11 children) and put $2,885 in the bank as the result of the season's yield from his 40 acres of irrigated land in this productive country. This is not cited as an exceptional case. The "PROSPERITY STATES OF AMERICA" is the name we apply to Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and the Northern Pacific R'y.

To locate along this line is to assure yourself of fertile soil, nearby markets, quick transportation, good neighbors, good schools, progressive communities and increasing land values. Investigate now!

Ask for descriptive literature about the state that most interests you. Let us help you to locate in the Fertile Northwest where you will prosper. Write today L. J. BRICKER, Gen'l Immigration Agent Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

We will be glad to advise you of low rates for winter or spring trips if you will make time you wish to go and destination you wish to reach or points you want to cover.

HOLIDAY GIFTS

announcements for Christmas. See program of Christmas eve exercises elsewhere. In the contest between the "blues" and the "reds," the blues were ahead last Sunday. Ninety-six were present.

10:40 a. m., Sunday, public worship and preaching. Subject of sermon, "The Fullness of Christ." 7:30 p. m., the evening service will consist largely of a song service. Topic, "Songs of Love" with brief address and explanatory remarks. 8:30 p. m., Episcopal league devotional meeting. Mrs. H. A. Harnden will lead. The first fifteen minutes will be given to Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

The Monday evening bible study class will be omitted this week. So also will the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening.

The services in the church for December 29 will be in harmony with the closing of the year.

On New Year's eve a watch night meeting will be held in connection with a New Year's social under the direction of the Episcopal league. The watch service will commence at 10:30.

AT THE CHICAGO THEATRES

PRINCESS. "Bought and Paid For," with its rapid shifting currents of thrill and laughter, has become firmly established at the Princess theatre, William A. Brady's Chicago playhouse, as the season's striking comedy drama success and is now in the tenth week of its unlimited engagement. In the quality of Mr. Broadway's play scores less than the manner of its presentation this attraction has earned the commendation of the general public to the end that the theatre is completely filled at every performance, and in most instances the applicants for admission are far in excess of the interior space.

For Miss. Frank Craven, Kathleen McDonnell and Helen Lackaye still contribute the highest values to this entertainment, which is unique in several respects, particularly in the fact of its having introduced a character long familiar to every day life, but strangely enough new to the stage, that of James Gilley, the impudent young barn-jack waiting for a chance to attach himself to some millionaire appreciative of his qualities.

Seats are now on sale for all performances far ahead as Washington's birthday.

CORT THEATRE.

A notable cast has been chosen by Joseph M. Gates, for his presentation of "Our Wives" the famous comedy, that comes direct from its sensational run in New York City, to the Cort theatre beginning Sunday evening, December 22. Heading the company is Henry Kolker, who starred in "The Great Name" last season, Pamela Gaythorne, Gwendolyn Piers, Mary Harper, Isabel MacGregor, William Roselle, George Graham, Mark Smith, and John Pineday, the indomitable character actor.

WAUCONDA.

Floyd Carr is working in LaPorte, Indiana.
The little daughter of George Dowell is ill with pneumonia.
Dennis Murphy and Frank Roney spent Monday in Chicago.
Clinton and Henry Griswold were Chicago visitors Saturday.
F. L. Carr and Victor Carr spent Wednesday in Waukegan.
N. B. Deera, who has been ill for a time, is not improving as fast as his friends wish.
Mr. and Mrs. William Clark spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jencks who reside near McHenry.
Dr. Golding and family of Libertyville were Sunday visitors here. Mrs. Neville accompanied them home and will spend Christmas there.
Mrs. George Stroker will entertain the Euchre club on Friday evening. At the last party favors were won by Dennis Putnam and Mrs. Edith Clark.
Several from here including Emerson Cook, Mrs. Julia Bronchson and Mrs. R. D. Cook of Gliner went to Milwaukee on Thursday to consult Dr. Snyder, an eye specialist.
Edward Kalling who had worked for Joe Dowell all summer, on last Friday went with a serious accident, which resulted in the loss of an eye, while carefully handling a rifle cartridge. Dr. Fuller was called and he was taken to the Waukegan hospital, and he is getting along as well as could be expected.
Manager Stevens of the Public Service company showed surprise by his display of service utilities in the electric booth at the Baptist ladies' calendar bar Saturday night. The whole pavilion was prettily lighted by colored globe effects and the young man in charge of the company's display was busy explaining to those interested the uses of many electric devices.

MR. MURRAY DEAD.

Mr. James Murray was suddenly stricken with apoplexy Friday night and died on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murray of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Virginia Murray of Chicago are here.
Mrs. Murray did not regain consciousness after the stroke Friday evening and death occurred at midnight Tuesday. Mr. Murray was 65 years old and his maiden name was Mrs. Murray. His husband is a resident here and the family had been here for some time. The funeral will take place at the Catholic church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Father J. J. Manning and burial will be in the Catholic cemetery.

The Henry Eddelers' farm near Lake's corners will be sold at auction in Waukegan, Monday, December 22.
The Palestine Commercial club held a banquet at the Maple Leaf hotel Tuesday. About 60 members attended. They came up in a special train on the new railroad.
Mrs. C. W. Andrews left here Tuesday for Los Angeles, California, where she will spend the winter. Mr. Andrews will stay in Chicago for a time and follow her later.
Louis Pepper, son of Henry Pepper, a former resident here, has traveled all through the western and south-western states the past year. He returned here last week and says that he thinks Illinois is the best state after all.

Drives Off a Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Ravensville, Va., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." (Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at the Barrington Pharmacy.—Adv.)
