BRIEF MENTION OF NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Happenings of the Week Told in Short Paragraphs—What's Doing in Our Hauling Village.

WILL HAVE NEW PICTURE SHOW

Hawthorne Farm House Burned—Owl Club Dance This Evening—News of the Clubs.

Mrs. Edward Rickett entertained the Cliché club last Friday evening.

The Merry Owl club met at the home of Emil Frick last Friday evening.

The three-months-old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gleason died Sunday and was buried Wednesday.

The Woman's Thursday club will meet this week on Saturday at the home of Miss Eva Castle.

The Dorcas society of the Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Harriet Cullen of Grove avenue.

The sewing circle of St. Ann's Catholic church held a social meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward Martin last evening.

Young people of the Salem church to the number of 43 met for a social evening at the home of their pastor, Rev. H. H. Thoren, last night.

The Bowman Dairy company is considering the installation of a local factory of a plant to manufacture artificial ice, but nothing definite has yet been announced.

The card club held its annual "gentleman's night" at the home of Mrs. Yrgina Comstock on Monday evening. Tuesday evening the Merry Owl club met at the same place.

Remember the Owl club hard times dance at the village hall this evening and remember that all dancers are expected to appear in appropriate costumes. Mrs. Herman's orchestra of Woodstock furnishes the music.

The time for spring cleaning at the farm tenet is near at hand. It is probable that less than the usual number will be made this year and there will be but few auctions according to William Peters, Barrington's popular auctioneer.

The Scout club held its annual meeting at the club rooms last Saturday evening and elected the following officers: president, J. H. Hatz; secretary and treasurer, E. F. Schaefer; members of board of directors, John Westowski and Henry Kirmse.

Squire Marshall has sold his residence property at the corner of Cook and Russell streets to Miss Daisy Boothman, who will offer it for rent. Mr. Marshall will leave soon for Bridgman, Michigan, where he owns a small fruit and poultry farm. His son Robert lives there and visited him here last week from Monday until Friday.

The house on the Hawthorne Hill farm, which was the former Hawley brothers' farm, caught fire Sunday and the roof and second story of the old part were destroyed before it could be put out. A new addition added this spring was practically undamaged. The cause of the fire is unknown. Two conjectures are those of crossed wires and the chimney.

Julius Helm, a former resident of this village, has just returned from an extended visit to California to his home in Erie, Pennsylvania. He made the return trip by what is known as the water route, via San Francisco, Mexico, Central America, Panama, West Indies, Cape Hatteras to New York. He says that it took 43 days to make the journey and that he found it a very interesting trip.

This village will soon have a moving picture show three nights a week. John Smith, the manager of the Owl club dance having decided to run a show at the village hall each Saturday evening, commencing January 25. The show on that evening will be "The Story of the Civil War," a complete history of the war of the rebellion, presenting actual battle scenes in life motion. There will be 2,000 feet of film; matinees will be 10 and 20 cents. Mr. Gray's shows give each Wednesday and Friday evenings continue to draw good crowds and please as well as ever.

Antique.
I will call at public notice on the former North farm four miles south of Barrington and three miles west of Palatine, on Sunday January 19, commencing 10 o'clock, all of my remaining important stock, hay, grain, tools, etc. Good land at $100.

Barber Shop.
The new barber shop is now open at the corner of Cook and Russell streets. It is a first-class place and is well equipped. Barber, J. M. Dolan.

BARRINGTON FANCIERS WIN AGAIN

Waterman Receives More Prizes—Charles Page Wins With His Fine Homer Pigeons.

F. L. Waterman was coiffed Friday of the following winnings made by the six Buff Wyandottes which he entered at the Louisville, Kentucky, poultry show held December 22 to 29: second cock, first hen, first and second cockerels, second and third pullets, each bird taking a prize.

At the Toledo, Ohio, show of the national Buff Wyandotte organization, held last week, Mr. Waterman continued his successes at Louisville, Chicago, Waukegan and Elgin. He made two entries at this exhibition. "One of them was the first prize cockerel at the great Mid-West poultry show recently held in Chicago, which Mr. Waterman has disposed of for $100, and this cockerel again captured the blue ribbon. Although Mr. Waterman had sold the cockerel it had previously been entered in his name and the winnings go to him.

This was the most important show at which he has exhibited as it was a showing of Buff Wyandottes exclusively and he had to compete with the largest raisers of these chickens in this country, all of whom had more entries, more birds to select from, larger and better yards, and give their entire time to poultry raising, all of which make him the more notable. Mr. Waterman has entered five Buff Wyandottes at the poultry show at Woodstock which commenced yesterday.

This village also has a pigeon raiser among the prize winning class in the person of Clarence F. Page, who entered three Homer pigeons at the show of the Chicago pigeon club held in this city recently and received a prize with each of them. His awards were second cock and third hen in the Blue Barred Homers and first hen in the Silver Dun Homers. The latter bird was a first prize winner two years ago, the only other time that Mr. Page has exhibited any of his pigeons. Mr. Page and Howard Powers visited the show Friday evening.

WRITES FROM LAND OF SUNSHINE

E. F. Wiseman Gives Home Folks an Interesting Account of His Trip to California.

Los Angeles, California, January 2, 1914.
Friends: The trip to California is very interesting. We went by the way of Omaha, Cheyenne, Ogden and Salt Lake City. Salt Lake City, or Zion City as it is often called by the Mormons, was founded by Brigham Young July 24, 1847, and now has a population of 75,000. One of the most interesting sights are the large temples and tabernacles. The main tabernacle is 250 feet long, 150 feet wide and 70 feet high. They tell me that not a nail was used in its construction, wooden planks being substituted instead. Before reaching Salt Lake City we traveled in the Rocky mountains where we had sunshine and snowstorms every few minutes. After leaving thence we passed through the desert of Nevada where we saw nothing but sand and rock as white as snow. On reaching California the first place we stopped at was San Bernardino, sixty miles from Los Angeles, and here we first saw the orange groves among the mountains. At last we reached Los Angeles, the leading city of the coast. It has a population of over 400,000, and is filled with many pretty parks, streets and buildings. It has more automobiles than any other city of its size in America.

We took a balloon trolley trip 28 miles along the coast, visiting 40 coast cities. The first was Holly Wood, the prettiest suburb of Los Angeles.

The soldiers' home is located here and is occupied by 3,000 civil war veterans. It has 700 acres of ground. The next stop of interest was Santa Monica with its fine homes, palm trees and flower gardens. After that came Redondo Beach, one of the famous resorts of the west coast. Here we found the largest salt-bath plunge bath houses in the world. Down a little further was Moonstone Beach where precious stones were found along the shore, and we had great sport searching for them. The next stop was Venice, the wonderland of the west. Here you can take a ride in the clouds if you wish or walk in the sand above your shoe tops, just as you prefer. Coming home you see thousands of acres of walnut groves, palm trees and flowers growing along the streets.

Our next visit was to Corona which is in the orange belt. We called here on Roy Butler, a brother-in-law of George Butler of Lake street, Barrington, who has an orange grove.

We have met Mash Hurter, a former tailor in Barrington, and William Gleake, who at one time was employed at the Barrington laundry. We visited Mrs. Howard last Sunday and found her looking and feeling fine. The weather has been fine. There is sunshine everyday and it looks as if this is no place for the coal man. We took in the flower parade at Pasadena on New Year's day. The parade was five and one-half miles long and over 200,000 people were there.

I will close wishing you a happy New Year, yours truly, E. F. WISEMAN.

VICKERS ASKS RECOUNT.

James H. Vickers of Harvard Files Contest Papers in Hope of Unseating Munro.

J. H. Vickers, Republican candidate for member of the general assembly from this legislative district, who was defeated on the face of the return at the November election, has filed papers in a contest which he will bring before the general assembly now in session at Springfield. Mr. Vickers' contest papers were filed with the secretary of state on Tuesday last week. V. S. Lemley of Woodstock appears as attorney for contestant and in his papers goes into detail in reciting irregularities that existed in the late general election.

While E. D. Shurfield, Thomas E. Graham and Fayette S. Munro are named in the contest papers, it is understood that Mr. Vickers bases his challenge in showing invalidity in the nomination papers and in the position obtained on the ballot by Mr. Munro, the Bull Moose, Local Option candidate.

May License Fishermen.

Several important changes in the present fish laws are expected at the next session of the state legislature and it is possible that a law will be passed compelling fishermen to buy licenses. Hunters are required to have a license and the fishing in the state is far better than the hunting. A movement has been started to make all fishermen buy licenses and a clause to this effect will likely be included in the new laws along with other proposed changes.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. LYTLE

Heart Failure Caused Demise of Mrs. Charles W. Lytle Early on Last Sunday Evening.

Mrs. Charles W. Lytle died very suddenly of heart failure on Sunday evening, January 12, at her home on Williams street. Mrs. Lytle had been suffering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism for a couple of weeks and was confined to her bed, but on Sunday seemed somewhat better, and was very much encouraged about her condition. Just after she had taken her evening meal, her husband, who had brought it to her, left her for a few moments to go downstairs. Hearing a slight disturbance, he went up stairs immediately to find that she was no more. Thus suddenly and unexpectedly departed one who for a number of years had been a resident of Barrington, and was highly thought of by all who knew her.

Miss Pauline A. Fisher was born in Elia township, December 11, 1864. At the age of fifteen she went to reside in Chicago and remained there until her marriage to Charles W. Lytle, October 8, 1891. Mr. and Mrs. Lytle lived in Palestine until eight years ago when they moved to Barrington and made their home for a time on Main street and then on Cemetery street. From there they moved over to their new home on Williams street.

For several years Mrs. Lytle had not been entirely well and on occasions had been dangerously ill, but of late had seemed to be gaining in strength and to be giving promise of added years of life.

Besides her husband there remain of her family four sisters, Mrs. Young of Lake Zurich, Mrs. Gainer of Palestine, Mrs. Lyon of Chicago, Mrs. Spaulding of Mankato, and one brother, W. H. Fisher of Seattle, Washington. Her mother is also living at Lake Zurich.

Mrs. Lytle was a most estimable lady, genial and friendly in her disposition, and an excellent home maker and a loyal and devoted wife. She was an earnest advocate of the temperance cause and a friend of all that was good in early life she became identified with the church of Christ and lived and died in the Christian faith. She was greatly missed by all who knew and loved her or who appreciated her worth.

Funeral services were held at the house on Wednesday, January 15, and were in charge of Rev. O. F. Mattison, pastor of the Methodist church here. Interment was in Palestine in the family burying ground.

Concert and Basket Social.

The Barrington Concert society will give a concert and basket social at the village hall next Thursday evening, January 23. ## NEWS OF THE FARM AND DAIRY

Notes of Comment and Interest to Local Agriculturalists and Milk Producers.

The board of directors of the farmers' institute of Kewanee have purchased twenty acres near Westfield to be used for demonstration purposes.

The president of the New York State Dairyman's Association recently made the statement that in New York there were five quarters of ice cream produced for every person in the state.

The Illinois Farmer, in its issue of January 1, presents its readers with something worth thinking about in the following sentiment on the first page: "Resolved, That I will not have anything to do with SCRUBS, man or beast, male or female." Every farmer and dairymen who wishes to conduct his business upon a profit returning basis will incorporate these words in his new year's resolutions. Blooded stock and competent workmen are the things which the scientific management of now-a-days require.

The initial number of the Rural Educator, a national monthly magazine devoted to the "Promotion of Rural and Agricultural Education," has just appeared. Prof. Nolan of the University of Illinois is one of four associate editors and Prof. W. C. Bayley is one of the contributing editors. The task the magazine undertakes to do is to voice a sentiment of the leaders in rural life and agricultural education, to serve as a medium for rapid communication of ideas on these subjects, and to give helpful suggestions to rural teachers, preachers, and social leaders.

Give Away Holstein Calves.

It is intended that the three full-blood Holstein bull calves to be given away by the Barrington Mercantile company will be disposed of this week. There has been so many applications that it has been thought best to have lot drawn and give the calves away in this manner. These calves are really given away, and become the property of the fortunate individuals who draw the lucky numbers. The only restrictions are that at least eight to ten calves be raised from each one each year and sold in this vicinity and that the service of the bulls be interchanged after the third year.

Milk Producers' Annual Meeting.

Dairymen of Northern Illinois, Northern Indiana and Southern Wisconsin who are members of the Milk Producers' association, and nearly all in the territory are members, are preparing for the annual meeting of the association which will be held at the Sherman house, Chicago, Monday, February 3. At this meeting the officers and directors for the ensuing year will be selected and the price to be asked for milk for the next summer months will be suggested. The majority of farmers believe that they should receive more for their milk than was paid last summer. The average for the six months was $1.29 per hundred pounds. The present winter average is $1.70 and the premiums paid for butter fat, test and for fulfilling the conditions of the score card of the Chicago board of health bring the price, in many cases, 10 to 20 cents above the contract price.

The radical members are in favor of declining to make contracts with the milk companies next summer unless a higher price is paid. Others are not expressing themselves. Local county meetings are being held now all over for the selection of delegates to the annual meeting.

Milk producers of this community will meet at the village hall next Saturday morning to select delegates to attend the annual meeting and to discuss other matters of interest.

Present directors of the association from this and neighboring territory are: Cook county—J. M. Weisbach, Matteson; Fred Hulse, Palatine; Lake county—Ralph W. Chittenden, Gurnee; E. D. Kapple, Grayslake; John L. Cadmore, Waukegan; McHenry county—W. A. Goodwin, Crystal Lake; S. L. Lincoln, Harvard; Robert Omann, Huntley; Kane county—G. H. Potter, Elgin; F. Reese, Dundee; John Reid, Lilly Lake.

Dairymen Attention.

All local dairymen who are members of the Milk Producers' association and all others interested are requested to attend a meeting to be held at the village hall next Saturday morning, January 18. At this meeting matters of interest to the milk producer will be discussed and delegates will be selected to attend the annual meeting to be held at the Sherman house, Chicago, Monday, February 3.

High Winter Market.

Actual sales on the Elgin board of trade Monday were made at 33 and 35 cents.

SALESMAN STRUCK BY FAST C & N-W TRAIN

August Berg, a Chicago Grocery Salesman Had Narrow Escape From Death Last Monday.

TAKEN TO CHICAGO HOME TUESDAY

Man Was Past Middle Age and Escape From Serious Injury Is Considered Miraculous.

August Berg, 501 Oakdale avenue, Chicago, was hit by fast passenger train number 514 while crossing the track at the depot here last Monday morning and received quite severe injuries although, fortunately, ones from which he will probably recover in a short time.

Mr. Berg was standing on the depot platform when he saw the train, south-bound, approaching, and thinking that it was the Janesville which stops for passengers, he attempted to cross over ahead of it to the platform for south-bound train. He had barely cleared the track when the train rushed past and it is thought that the suit case which he was carrying was struck as his body showed no marks such as it would have if the train had hit him. He was rolled up the platform and picked up in a semi-conscious state and carried to the Commercial hotel where Dr. A. Weichelt, the company physician, was summoned to attend his injuries. The doctor found that he had suffered severe contusions and bruises where he struck the platform and that his left ankle was sprained. His most serious injuries were to his back.

Mr. Berg's son arrived from Chicago that afternoon and he was taken to his home in that city Tuesday morning on the 9:15 train.

Mr. Berg was a salesman for the William M. Hoyt & Company wholesale grocery house of Chicago and had been calling on local grocers that morning. He was a man of about sixty years which makes the accident the more serious and will make his recovery slower and more uncertain.

Enters Professional Class.

Lester M. Brown, who has attained considerable prominence as a pitcher in this and surrounding villages, has signed a contract to try out for a position on the Dubuque, I. W. team, of the Three I league. He expects to leave for that city about the first of April.

Mr. Brown has made his home here at the Commercial hotel for the last three years and has been employed as an electric house-wireman by the Public Service company a part of the time, at other times doing contract work on his own account. He has played ball with the local and neighborhood teams and has pitched several semi-professional games. He has always made good records and his friends feel certain that he will prove to be a valuable acquisition to the Dubuque team.

May Invest in Farm Mortgages.

There is a movement under way in the Western Woodmen of America this year to secure the investment of part of the society's surplus of over $90,000 in farm mortgages. Heretofore the society has not invested in this class of securities. The demand for such investments is largely increased by the membership engaged in agriculture west of the Missouri river. The claim is that the society by investing the surplus, or a large part of it, in farm mortgages would benefit its own members and at the same time increase its interest earnings. Under existing laws the society is required to invest its benefit fund surplus in legally insured United States, state, county, township or municipal bonds.

Free Stereopticon Lecture.

A free lecture on the opportunities, productiveness and resources of northern Wisconsin, especially that part of the Black county, 10 miles north of Bruce and Ladysmith, will be given at the village hall next Saturday evening by F. M. Benedict of Chicago. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views. H. M. Hawley, a former resident of this vicinity, lives in that region and F. J. Alverson owns property there. An attempt is being made by residents there to secure more settlers. The lecture will begin at eight o'clock.

Sever System Abolished.

Barrington's sewer system which has been under course of construction by A. M. Langson of Washington, D. C. is now about completed, but the system will not be put in use until next spring. The final tests of the pipe lines were made last week and all workmen have been taken from the job until warmer weather arrives.

STIRS BUSINESS MEN

GOVERNOR WILSON APPEALS AND WARNS IN COMMERCIAL CLUB SPEECH.

SAYS MONOPOLY MUST END

Declares Public Good Must Be Put Above Private Aggrandizement—Uses Plain Words Regarding Recent Money Trust Revelations.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Speaking at a banquet given by the Commercial club of Chicago Saturday night, Woodrow Wilson, the president-elect, delivered an earnest appeal of warning to the business men of the country.

The business men of the country were told bluntly that the peaceable success of the new administration depended on their co-operation, and that without it the president would fight for victory. They also were told that no man who did not put the public good above private aggrandizement—be he politician, merchant, or personal friend—could have influence with the new administration.

Four lines of Mr. Wilson's coming endeavor were set forth. They may be summarized as follows: The country must husband and administer, not exploit, its common resources for the common welfare, with the idea of conservation—not reservation.

The raw material of the country must be at the disposal of every one on equal terms, the government not determining the terms but guaranteeing against discrimination.

Credit must be at the disposal of all on equal terms. In no other way can dangerous class prejudice be removed. The bankers must see it is done.

Every feature of monopoly must be removed. Governor Wilson spoke with the utmost frankness about the recent revelations regarding the money trust.

"I am not indicting the banking methods," he said. "The banking system does not need to be indicted. It is already indicted. I have reason to believe from things which have been said under circles of credit, regions of chilly exclusion and regions of warm inclusion. This must be changed. Some of the men who run the game, attempt to run it fairly, but the country is not going to grow rich by the efforts of those men who are 'in' now, but by those who are 'out' now."

Mr. Wilson urged that all prejudice cease. He specified sectional prejudice and showed a hope that his election, that of a man of southern birth, would show that the southerner is not of different breed from the northerner. And then he pleaded for the efforts of the business men to dissolve the class prejudice.

FLOOD LOSS $1,000,000

PITTSBURG INUNDATED BY OVERFLOW OF TWO RIVERS.

50,000 Men Are Made Idle When Factories Are Compelled to Shut Down.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 11.—When a crest of 31 feet was reported at the mouth of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers here Thursday, the fourth greatest flood in Pittsburg in the last forty-seven years was recorded. The water remained stationary for two hours, then began to fall slowly and had dropped to 29½ feet at 6 o'clock in the evening.

The waters reached Penn avenue and Federal street in the downtown section of Pittsburg, and temporarily shut off business below that point, inundated hundreds of homes in the lower sections of the north side, west end and south side, flooded many of the mills lining the river banks, made impossible the work of the thousands of manufacturers shutting down, and caused in the neighborhood of one million dollars' loss through property damage.

Stories of privation and suffering come from both up and down the river, where thousands of homes have been flooded and relief is being sent from every quarter. Only three greater floods have occurred in Pittsburg in the last forty-seven years, or since 1865, and in 1917 were that record has been kept there have been only ten more serious inundations.

THREE DEAD; 13 HURT IN FIRE

Firemen Confident Many Lost Their Lives of Whom No Trace Will Ever Be Found.

San Francisco, Jan. 11.—Three known dead and thirteen more or less seriously injured, some of them fatally, completes the list of known casualties in a lodging house fire, which swept nearly a block of territory lying on the north side of Howard street between Bond and Stewart streets here Thursday.

The buildings destroyed were the Marlins and San Pedro lodging houses, both flimsy two-story frame structures, given over to the trade of the men of the sea. Three narrow exits from the two buildings were the only means of escape for the men, who were trapped by flames and the army of firemen searching in the ruins for bodies are confident many will never be found.

RAP CURRENCY PLAN

ALDRICH'S IDEA WILL NOT BE ADOPTED SAYS HOUSE BANKING BODY HEAD.

ADVOCATES WASTING TIME

Festus J. Wade, Member of American Association, Favors the Central Bank Feature While Testifying Before the Committee at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Chairman Glass of the subcommittee on banking and currency of the house served notice Tuesday that witnesses interested in currency may as well cease their advocacy of the Aldrich currency plan.

Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, a member of the American Banking association, was a witness before the committee, and launched upon an eulogy of the central bank feature of the Aldrich plan. He was interrupted by Chairman Glass, who reminded him that the Baltimore platform had disposed of that matter.

"I think Democratic opposition to a central bank is more or less sentimental," said Wade.

Chairman Glass smiled and replied: "Whether it is sentiment or the ghost of Andrew Jackson or what not, there is insuperable opposition in the way of adoption of the Aldrich plan by the committee or the Democrats."

Aluminum, steel, watch movements and machine tools were on the program of the house committee on ways and means when it met to hear left over witnesses who were unable to testify at the iron and steel hearing.

W. H. Donnor of Pittsburgh, president of the Cambria Steel company, set forth that that company owned properties worth $75,000,000 and employed 19,000 men, manufacturing last year more than a million tons of rails, structural bars, rods and wire nails, and urged specific and not ad valorem duties on iron and steel products.

The Waltham Watch company, alleged to be in "the watch trust," was probed at the outset. E. C. Fitch of Waltham, Mass., testified that the company could manufacture watch dials cheaper than he could buy them abroad; said the Waltham Watch company was originally capitalized at $5,000,000, and that it had reorganized with a capitalization of $12,000,000, tangible assets of $2,022,000, and patents and good will worth $2,975,000.

The witness told of the former existence of a selling agency that handled the Waltham Watch company products. He said he was one of three partners in the selling agency, each of whom received $50,000 a year salary.

"Don't you compel wholesalers to sell at a certain price to retailers?" asked Representative Rainey.

"Try to, but don't always succeed,"

Nashville (Tenn.) Steamboat Captain Shoots Deputy Sheriff to Death in City's Streets.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 15.—In a sensational duel on one of the most prominent streets of the city Tuesday afternoon, the popular hero was killed by a deputy sheriff. The hero was Captain T. M. Taggart, one of the best known steamboat men on the Cumberland river, shot and killed by Westbrook, a deputy sheriff. Bad blood, it is claimed, has existed between the two, dating from Westbrook's discharge as pilot by Captain Taggart a number of years ago.

DREADED TO EAT.

A Quaker Couple's Experience.

How many persons dread to eat their meals, although actually hungry nearly all the time?

Nature's answer intended this should be so, for we are given a thing called appetite that should guide us as to what the system needs at any time.

But we get in a hurry, swallow our food very much as we shovel coal into the furnace, and our sense of appetite becomes unnatural and perverted.

Then we eat the wrong kind of food or eat too much, and there you are—indigestion and its accompanying miseries.

A Phila. lady said: "My husband and I have been sick and nervous for 15 or 20 years from drinking coffee—feverish, indigestion, totally unfit, a good part of the time, for work or pleasure. We actually dreaded to eat our meals. (Yes, I made up as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)"

"We tried doctors and patent medicines that counted up into hundreds of dollars, with little if any benefit. 'Accidentally,' a small package of Postum came into my hands. I made some according to directions, with surprising results. We both liked it and have not used any coffee since."

"The stiff feeling after meals has left us and we feel better every way. We are so well satisfied with Postum that we recommend it to our friends who have been made sick and nervous and miserable by coffee." Name given upon request. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in plain Postum.

Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and cream to cream to bring the color to golden brown. Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste; and the flavor is the substance of good ground-roasted coffee in 30 sec., 100-sec. or 60-sec. A long trial has proved the grocer's name and 1-cent stamp for name of Postum Co., Ltd., inside Quaker. Mark. Adv.

READ OR KEEP OUT

THAT IS WHAT UNCLE SAM IS LIKELY SOON TO SAY TO IMMIGRANTS.

BILL NOW IS IN CONFERENCE

President Taft Probably Will Sign
Measure That Is Designed to Exclude People From Some Parts of Southern Europe.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington.—Recently the senate of the United States passed an immigration restriction bill and sent it over to the house for approval. The representatives changed the form of the bill, passed it and sent it to conference. It is believed that an agreement upon the provisions of the measure will be reached by the two houses and that soon congress will pass it and send it to the president for his signature or veto.

It is understood that Mr. Taft does not entirely agree with the provisions of the measure in the form in which it seems certain it finally will be approved by congress. The law will contain a provision shutting out from America all immigrants above the age of sixteen years who are unable to read, unless it can be proved that the aliens are fleeing from religious persecution.

While the president is said not to be entirely sympathetic with the bill it is believed that in the near future immigrants will be subjected to the reading test before they can be admitted to this country. The measure is in the language which the immigrants speak. When the measure passed the senate there was a five to one vote in favor of a provision which would have subjected immigrants to both reading and writing tests. The house knocked out the writing provision and sent the bill to conference.

Yett Will Sign It.
It is the opinion of congressmen who have made inquiry into the matter that the change of the form of the bill will not make much difference. It is held that about 95 out of every 100 persons who know how to read also know how to write. It seems finally to be agreed that a restrictive immigration measure will find a place on the statute books in the immediate future, for while President Taft is known to have some doubts in the matter, the general belief is that he will sign the bill.

There is no use to try to gloss over the real reason why congress was willing to put the reading test into the new immigration law. The desire is to keep out immigrants whom experience, it is said, has proved to be undesirable as a class, and this means the exclusion of certain of the Italians, certain of the Jews, certain of the Poles, and men and women of other races among whom the percentage of illiterates is high.

The steamship companies always have been against "anti-immigration laws." The reason for their opposition needs no explanation. Under the proposed law rejected aliens will be sent back to their native lands at the expense of the steamship companies which bring them over. The supposition is that the companies will on their own behalf see to it that no one is allowed on board who cannot go through unscathed a paragraph of his school reader.

For years attempts have been made in congress to get through an immigration bill with an illiteracy test clause as one of its provisions. In 1897, when Grover Cleveland was president, a bill very much like the present one took the form in which it has been introduced by the house, was passed by the senate, and Cleveland vetoed it and it has been said that afterward he regretted his act. There always has been strong opposition to the passage of a measure which would exclude immigrants because of inability to read and write.

Question Really of Geography.
If congress could have done it, it would have exempted from the illiteracy test immigrants from the northern European countries, but of course it could not do this. The issue, so far as geographical restriction is concerned, always has been avoided, but when a thing is perfectly plain, denial and evasion are of no service. Certain kinds of immigrants are not wanted, and it is supposed that the illiteracy clause will keep them out.

The opposition to the illiteracy test has come during the years not only from naturalized Americans, but from men and women of prominence in the work of the world and who are descended from "immigrants" who came to this country in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

The provision of the bill which allows illiterates to enter the country if they are trying to get away from religious persecution opens up the question of proof. In certain countries the Jews are persecuted, and on. Will an immigrant be allowed to enter because he is in fear of persecution, a fear based on "past persecution"? In other words, on the basis of persecution he is open and active and must a man be actually fleeing from it in order to be admitted to this country without being asked to read his way into it?

Wilson Silent on Cabinet.

Never within the memory of the members of congress did an association have president-elect been so "constrained" as is Woodrow Wilson on the subject of prospective cabinet appointments and other appointments to high government offices. Today there is not a Democratic leader in congress apparently who can say that he knows one man who is certain to be appointed to his office by the incoming Democratic president.

Ever since Mr. Wilson came back from Bermuda the Democratic leaders have been conferring with him. The trains between Washington and Trenton have been heavy laden with passengers of national prominence going to the source of knowledge, to come back again with very little knowledge about the things of greatest personal interest. Mr. Wilson, the returning Democratic leader admit, is not of a mind to commit himself in any way definitely upon the subject of the composition of his cabinet until he is certain that he has weighed all the recommendations and all the objections and has found out to the nicety of a fraction all that he wants to know about the men whom he would like to invite to membership in his official family.

It must not be understood from this that Mr. Wilson has declined to talk freely with the Democratic leaders. He has had and is having conferences lasting for several hours with the men of greater prominence in his party, and he is doubtless in Washington, however, that nineteenth of the time consumed at the conference is given over to the discussion of political rather than men. Mr. Wilson is anxious to learn from the men of his party of long experience in congress just what chance legislation which he may propose has of being enacted into law.

Expects Antagonism in Senate.
The president-elect has a keen appreciation of the fact that the Democratic membership in the senate is an uncertain quantity in certain matters of party policy. He knows that there are ultra-conservative Democrats in the senate whom their more progressive or radical, if you will, brethren go so far as to call Republicans with a little veneer of Democracy. It is known from what the leaders say that Mr. Wilson fears that some of his policies upon which he will make strongly progressive recommendations are not to the liking. In their official form, of some of the Democrats in the senate. So it is that Mr. Wilson is anxious to learn in advance from the members of his party just how much antagonism he may expect in the senate. If anything he must concede in order to insure united Democratic support of such legislation as he may propose.

There is some fear, it is known, on Mr. Wilson's part, that the Democrats in the senate will decline to sanction tariff revision in the case of some of the provisions which will be put into the bill by the house of representatives, which, under the constitution, must initiate all tariff legislation.

Must Travel Old Road.
Representative Oscar W. Underwood, chairman, and his fellow members of the ways and means committee, are about to begin the hearings which always come as a prelude to the passage of new tariff legislation. The road which stretches before them is a well-traveled one. The Republican-controlled ways and means committee went over it at the extra session called by Mr. Taft in 1908. A Democratic-controlled ways and means committee went over it in part when reciprocity was under consideration; then the same committee went over it again at the last session of congress, and now the ways and means members stand at the tape ready for the signal to begin the march on a new road.

Critical Laymen in Washington say that if the committee hears anything new on the tariff question during the coming weeks of patient or impatient waiting to the arguments of the importers and manufacturers, it will be one of the miracles of chance. The printed public reports of the tariff hearings during the last four years make many volumes. Every subject from acetanilide to zinc has been exploited for all that was in it to counter up the cause of either standard or domestic industry.

Cuts May Not Be Very Deep.
It seems to be the belief of most students of legislation, and of the political trend, as it will affect legislation, that the tariff bills, which will be passed by a congress controlled by the Democrats and signed by a Democratic president will not represent "a cut to the bone policy." It seems likely that the measure which finally will come out of congress will be considerably above a free basis. Democratic leaders have said that they do not intend to do anything which will upset business, or as some put it, which will give business a chance "to upset itself." The ways and means committee will report downward revision tariff bills, but just how deep the cuts will go must depend entirely upon the results of the conference between the leaders of the different schools of Democratic thought on tariff matters.

A new ways and means committee will be appointed as soon as the new congress gets into session, and the Democrats in the present committee are certain of reappointment. Because of the increased Democratic membership in the new congress, two additional members of the party will be put on the ways and means committee, but there is not even the remotest possibility that any change of the committee from one Democratic school of thought to another can occur. The influence of the present committee will therefore extend into the next congress, and the measure, its personnel will be the same.

LOYAL FRIEND BOB

Scheme to Separate Lovers Defeated by a Wild Flight in an Airship.

By MILDRED CAROLINE GOOD-RIDGE.

A young man, well dressed and clever faced, coming rapidly down the principal street of Fairview, suddenly paused and stared ahead in a startled way. He had apparently observed some one he did not wish to meet, and he turned down a side lane at a brisk, excited walk.

"It's the constable, sure enough," he said under his breath, "and I feel pretty sure he must be looking for me." The speaker glanced apprehensively back the way he had come, and then broke into a run.

It was a singular position, that in which Cecil Morse found himself. Briefly stated, he was bent upon running away to get married. Others including his legal guardian, Lawyer Grabbe, and his old maid daughter, Florie, and his hired emissary, the town constable, were set on stopping the golden progress of love's young dream in the bud.

Cecil was heir to a liberal fortune. He lived with the Grabbe family. The lawyer was intent on keeping a hold on his ward and his fortune as long as he could. Incidentally he plotted to enmesh the young man in the snares of the somewhat faded beauty of the classic Florie.

Now, Cecil had loved and won Claire Wyndham, who lived over in the next county. Her father was a tyrannical old fellow who had heard of the mutual attachment, thundered out that the lovers were too young to think of wedding bells, and had set his foot down—hard.

The result was a plot on the part of the lovers. The Wyndhams were going to take Claire to Europe the following week. In the meantime she had gained permission to visit a schoolgirl chum at Brookville. There Cecil had been the day previous. There, too, all the arrangements had been made for an elopement the next evening.

"No good in this district, officer," he said. "We've landed just over the county line. Look at that!"

Cecil Morse disappeared. To reappear at the Wyndham home the next day, he had to make a pair of pants sent a honeymoon wire to Papa Wyndham, pathetically telling him how sorry, but still how happy they were. The reply telegram had been hurriedly answered, and the sentiment: "Come home, and all will be forgiven!"

AS TO TRAIN FLIRTATIONS

Drummer Gave Fatherly Advice to a Talkative Young Woman, and Was Rewarded.

"Fifteen years on the road and not a flirtation yet, is my record," said the needle and thread drummer. "The only time beauty ever spoke to me on the train was down in West Virginia on the way to Wheeling."

"Do you know what time we get there?" he inquired.

"Six-thirty," she continued, "I was never on a train before. It seems so strange to me!"

"That's a long story about, but the kind you read about in books, but seldom meet in real life—the real innocent flower. When we got to Pittsburgh, her destination, and gave her some fatherly advice about speaking to strangers."

"About three months later I was unpacking the sample trunk after the long trip when the stock boy said there was some one down stairs (case) see. There stood the girl and her father, who was a judge down in his own state."

"I wish to thank you, sir, for your kindness to my daughter while traveling. I assured him it was nothing unusual, but he thought otherwise and insisted on my taking dinner with him."

"And since then you have wondered who she was?" put in the button man.

"No," said the needle and thread drummer. "She's my wife now."

Cause for Turkey Bores.
Every one of the boarders was to get the ground set on a lot of ground scarce and high this season?"

At length the star boarder came forward with this solution: "You see, the boys are very fond of apple orchards. This was a good year for apples. While the fowls were out scratching in the apple orchard, the summer apples falling from the trees had the fowls on the heads killing them. Hence the present scarcity."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed Archer. "Where to, may I ask?"

"Backward and quick. The constable is after me. Bob, it's about what I hated to you—the girl I love. They are trying to separate us."

"Jump in—the left seat back of the pilot position," directed the young man. "Strap yourself in. Give her a run, boys," he directed to his assistant.

Chug—chug! The aerial beauty sped over the grass for thirty feet. Bob shot on the power.

"Hold on, there! Stop that machine! In the name of the state!"

"The mischief!" gasped Cecil. "They were leaving the ground, but not alone. Through his official authority to enter the grounds the constable had fairly overtaken his prey. He had jumped at the machine and skinned one of the wings. To prevent damage and save him from a fall, Bob was forced to grab the bulky officer and drag him into the vacant seat."

"Stop that machine!" fared the constable. "I've got a warrant."

"Can't stop 'em to finish this curve first. Here, Cecil, strap him in, if he doesn't stop the engine right now, I'll split the axle!"

"Ugh!" spluttered the official, turning pale as the biplane shot skywards like an arrow.

"Slip on that helmet!" continued Bob. "You'll need it. Now then, the buffers, and the non-concussion head piece."

"See here—I don't—I won't!" put all official dignity by this time, strapped in his seat, the steel and leather head pieces were forced upon him till he was well high suffocated and looked toward Cecil with a pleading expression.

"Murder! let me out!" suddenly yelled the involuntary passenger, but he squirmed in vain. He had forgotten to unbuckle his seat belt. Half frightened to death, as the mischief Bob sent the flyer on a circling sweep that fairly took the constable's breath away.

"Oh, let me out—let me out!" pleaded the shivering officer.

"You're doing exactly enough in your 'shoot-the-chicken' maneuvers, but he did send his machine through some decidedly half-rational gyrations. Cecil, Cecil, enjoy it all. He trusted to Bob, and this loyal friend and expert aviator certainly took him through."

Once, in the spectacular flight, he leaned overboard Cecil and received detailed instructions. There he volanned, made a circuit, and the flyer landed in an open field near Brookville, and was as useful as a bird sinking to its nest.

Cecil quickly removed his safety belt and sprang to the ground.

"You're free!" he said to the constable. "I've got a warrant for that young man."

"No good in this district, officer," he said. "We've landed just over the county line. Look at that!"

Cecil Morse disappeared. To reappear at the Wyndham home the next day, he had to make a pair of pants sent a honeymoon wire to Papa Wyndham, pathetically telling him how sorry, but still how happy they were. The coroner's jury found that he came to his death from unknown causes and allowed the matter to drop. It was only on investigation by a relative of Bahan from another city that the authorities began an investigation. Later a coal miner, who was a friend of Joyce's wife and son that Joyce told them he had killed Bahan and that the three with Edward Kane, a neighbor, had agreed to tell the same story in defense of Joyce on any witness stand. The trouble was due to a drunken brawl.

Mt. Sterling.—William Dennis of St. Joseph, this county, is in a serious condition after the removal from a place of a knife blade, which was lodged in his chest bone in a fight 23 years ago, and which had gradually worked down without his knowledge of its presence. A few days ago a tooth gave him trouble and he came to this city to a dentist to have it removed. After the tooth was extracted there seemed to be some cause of aggravation and upon further investigation it was found that a piece of a knife blade was lodged against his

PREPARING FOR THE WORK OF 1913

CITY BUILDING, RAILWAY BUILDING AND OTHER OPERATIONS IN WESTERN CANADA.

The machinery, the money and the men for carrying on the big works in Western Canada in 1913 are already provided for. The splendid harvest which was successfully garnered, and by this time mostly marketed, responded to the big hopes that were had for it early in the season, and inspired capitalists and railroads to further investment and building. From lake ports to mountain base there will be carried on the biggest operations in city building and railway construction that has ever taken place in that country. The Canadian Pacific railway has everything in waiting to continue their great work of doubling the system and in the time the Panama Canal is open to traffic there will be a double line of steel from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast. The total cost exceeds thirty million dollars. The Grand Trunk Pacific plan of building a first-class trunk line and then feeders at various points will be carried forward with all the speed that the company can put into the work. The Canadian Northern is prepared to put into motion all the energy that young giant of commerce and railroad building can put into various enterprises of providing and creating transportation facilities.

Building operations in the several cities, that have already marked themselves a place in the list of successful and growing cities, will be carried on with the same vigor. Schools, public buildings, parliament buildings, colleges, business blocks, apartments, private residences, banks, and other structures that the province has under way, and the record of 1913 will be something wonderful. Other places which grew out of the municipal improvements that are expected and will be coming cities. There will be other Edmonton, Calgary, Regina and Saskatoon, other places that may in their activity to continue the outer world of the solitude and permanency of the Canadian West. The country is large and wide and broad and the ends are great width and length are but the limits of its agricultural area. Its people are progressive, they are strong, there is no overstatement that will be made with this life, this ambition, this fondness to create and to use the forces that await the settler. If they come to the beginning of a new era of thousands of them have they are now the dominant men of the North, and they have imbibed of the spirit of the North. The country there say that no portion of the continent will show such wonderful results as Western Canada, and the year 1913 will be but the beginning of a wonderful and great future. And in this future the 200,000 Americans who made it their home, and those who grew out of the soil, a considerable portion of the millionaires that will be used in bringing about the results predicted.

The development of 1913 will not be confined to the prairie provinces. Railway building and city building in British Columbia will be supplemented by the farm, the ranch and the orchard building of that province. Vancouver will make great strides in building, and Victoria, the staid old lady of so many years, has already shown signs of new life. Thousands of the progress made in 1912 may be accepted as anything like what it will be in 1913, there will be wonderful developments. The thousands of the permits went over the ten million dollar mark and much more is promised for the year now entered upon.—Advertisement.

Suffer From Plague of Rats.
A "plague" of Hantavirus is needed at the time of the year. Thousands of rats, and all big wood rats, have invaded the place, and the situation is such that women are afraid to go to church. The rats seem to have a preference for churches and on several occasions have forced the feminine attendance at services to take to the high benches. The city authorities are seeking means to abate the pest. The rats are believed to have been driven out of the woods by recent fires in the forests.

Great Effects.
"What is that terrible noise?" asked the postmistress.

"That," replied the policeman, "is caused by an ordinary case of cat safety pin sticking into a $25,000 baby."

THE CROSSINGS PROBLEM.

It should not be a hard thing for the village authorities to secure the two extra watchmen for the Chicago & North-Western railroad crossings which the trustees at their last meeting decided were necessary. The railroad company has only two crossings in this village and pays less to protect them than any of our neighboring towns. The city of Woodstock has even gone so far as to require the company to slow all trains down to 10 miles an hour while passing through that city, and it certainly seems that the railroad company should readily accede to the extremely reasonable request of this village, as it doubtless will.

There can be no complaint concerning the efficiency of the present watchmen, but, after putting in a too long day, they are allowed to go home at just the time when the crossings are really most dangerous—at night when it is early enough for many people to still be about, and several fast trains pass within an hour or two.

The editor of the REVIEW is located where he can observe the main street crossing at all times and we have come to the conclusion that there will never be an accident there as long as the present watchman, John Nagatz, is on duty. If travelers obey his signals, and we are told that Mr. Page, who guards the other crossing, is equally careful. It is, then, between the hours of nine o'clock and eleven, when the watchmen have gone home, people are still using the crossings, and fast trains are still passing, that watchmen are needed, and the trustees propose to ask the railroad company for two extra men, that the hours of the present two men be shortened and still the crossings be guarded from five o'clock in the morning until eleven at night. The present watchmen go on duty at six o'clock and remain until nine, far too many hours for one man to work every day.

Let the action be prompt and let the public give heed to the watchmen and it is probable that the village will remain as free from accidents in the future as it has fortunately been in the past.

PREVENT ICY WALKS.

At this season of the year, glary, slippery sidewalks are often the cause of more or less serious accidents, and it would be a good idea for every property owner to sprinkle sand or ashes over all icy walks. The condition of the walks can be blamed upon no one but many accidents can be prevented if these precautions are taken.

If property owners would remember to clean off their walks immediately after each snow storm there would be less chance for ice to form on them, it would make traveling much easier, and the village would present a much better appearance to our visitors. Nothing is more exasperating and discouraging to the man who does keep his walks clean than to be obliged to wade through snow-banks and pass over sloppy or slippery walks in front of the homes of his less public spirited neighbors.

Shoveling and sweeping of the walks is a duty which every property owner owes to himself, his family, his neighbors and to the town.

There are two slippery possessions which no search warrant can get at, which no exercise can take away, and which no reverse of fortune can destroy; they are what a man puts into his brain—knowledge; and into his hand—skill.

UNCLE DICK'S METHOD

By JOHN BRANDON.

Uncle Dick agreed to take care of the baby. Uncle Dick and the baby were good friends.

"I don't see why so much fuss is made about taking care of a child," said Uncle Dick to himself when the mother and aunt had departed. After a half hour of play with his small charge Uncle Dick was exhausted and wanted to read.

"I want to go out and play in the yard," said the child.

"That suited Uncle Dick. 'I want my hat,' she said.

"All right. What sort of looking hat is it?"

Uncle Dick did not know the Sunday hat from the every day hat and was afraid to take a chance.

The child decided to write a letter. "Does d-e-e-r spell dear, Uncle Dick?"

"Yes."

"How do you spell Annie, Uncle Dick?"

"A-n-n-i-e."

"Is that the kind of dear you meant?"

"Yes, I told you wrong."

"Dear Annie, we were—How do you spell were, w-e-r-e?"

"Not this time, baby. W-e-r-e this time."

"We were at the park. How do you spell park?"

"P-a-r-k."

"Is it that way all the time?"

"Yes. I don't know of any exceptions. You see, I don't know much about spelling. Spell any old way, I'm going to read."

"Uncle Dick—Uncle Dick!"

"Yes? What do you want this time?"

"What did mother say she would bring me?"

"I don't know."

"Yes, you heard her. She said she was going to bring me something."

"Well, I'm sorry, but I've forgotten."

"You see, I'm not like your mother. I can't act as memorandum book and dictionary, and all that. I'm only plain, ordinary Uncle Dick. I don't know much more than you do."

"Oh, Uncle Dick—Uncle Dick! I'm bloodthirsty!"

"That so? You don't look it."

"I am! My tooth's loose and it's bleeding and it can taste it. It's fine! I must be bloodthirsty."

"You are descended from pirates."

THE ILL WINDS.

The wildest winds that ever blew became a gentle breeze at last; the coldest days we worry through no longer chill when they are past. Some day the sun will shine again and we will find the world still fair, and hope and pleasure will remain despite the present ill we bear. The hardest task to which we turn is easy after it is done; through lessons that are hard to learn knowledge we most need is won. The weak, when they are troubled, yield, and fretfully conceal defeat; the strong their fears conceal until their triumphs are complete.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

OPEN TO EVERYONE FOR THE DISCUSSION OF QUESTIONS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

EDITOR REVIEW: I notice that the village board has taken steps to give the people greater protection at the C. & N.W. railroad crossings. It is a step towards progress, but while they are about it let us all have protection—in the morning as well as at night. Take notice of people that pass between the hours of five to seven a. m. and nine to eleven p. m. You will see that the people in the morning need light as well as flags. The crossings on the C. & N.W. could and should be protected by electric lights and bells. If they are not some accident will be the result. Let us all have protection.

Yours very truly, SIMON ZIEGLER.

ALL 'EASY ROADS TO SUCCESS' LEAD THE OPPOSITE DIRECTION.

Almost without exception the great scholars of the world have been men who have studied continuously from young manhood to old age; and in this class are included both those who were quick and those who were slow at the start; for in the race for scholarship the track is so long that the handicap at the start is not a matter of great consequence.

The familiar illustration of Cato, that old Roman philosopher with the large Adam's apple, comes readily to mind here.

Cato began the study of Greek at 36 with the poet Ennius, and took up Greek literature again at 83, simply for the sake of keeping his brain in trim.

Henry Clay, brilliant as he was in his youth, did not consider that the real foundation of his future greatness as an orator was laid until at the age of 37 he began the practice of temporizing daily upon some current topic, his efforts being witnessed by an audience of cows and hens. And there is many another young orator who ought to do his practicing on the same kind of an audience.

Dr. Robert Hall, the eminent English divine and scholar, in his old age, was once found lying upon the floor, racked with pain, convulsed with the agony of illness, in order that he might become able to test the correctness of Moseley's famous comparison of Milton and Dante.

How weak and feeble, in comparison with this, becomes the 'painless method' adopted by many of our modern educators, who want the pupil to have education pumped into him with the aid of laughing gas and local anesthetics! And whose chief concern in life is to invent games and tricks whereby the unassuming child may get a thumbnail of brains without knowing that he's got 'em.

Does Willie object to eating meat? Then chop it up into tidbits and mix it with candy, or else put on so much tobacco sauce that he'll never recognize the taste.

Does he refuse to work? Then build a toy automobile around his lawn mower, so he'll think he is violating the speed ordinance while he cuts the grass.

My word!

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Chicago Inter Ocean: We saw those poor Idaho editors stand shivering before the bench for sentence.

"We heard a great commotion outside and frantic cheers. We saw a majestic figure burst headlong into the courtroom. We saw him stride between the shivering editors and the astonished court. We saw him draw himself up to his full height and we heard him say:

"'Lo! It is I. I have ridden clear from Oyster Bay in fifty minutes to save these innocent men. I alone am responsible for the utterances which your honor has the insufferable audacity to consider contempt of court. If any one must be martyred, behold me, the martyr!"

And then we awoke.

Illinois Farmer and Farmers' Call: It is in the country that real neighborliness exists. It is almost impossible to find it elsewhere. It gives a very great charm to country life and it should be cultivated. Unfortunately in a good many country neighborhoods it has been allowed largely to disappear. We have been indeed pleased to read in our local exchanges during the past week of several notable exhibitions of neighborliness among farmers.

In several cases the neighbors of a sick farmer have made a holiday of needed work on his farm. One never really loses anything by such an act of neighborliness. After a month or two he will not notice that he gave a neighbor two or three days' work. And it is safe to say that that neighbor will not forget the kindness done him as long as he remembers anything.

We must define the educated man in terms of life and not of mere scholastic experience. And we must define him in terms of the whole of life. Washington and Lincoln were educated men, though they had little experience of the school. The educated man is a rounded character, well adjusted by nature and by training to the world in which he is called to live. He has trained self-mastery, consideration for the rights of others and the final art that schools so often fail to teach, of knowing how to learn and keep on learning. Knowledge that is applied to life and is increased in using, sympathy that is even awake and active as a motive power for action, humility and curiosity that deepen and broaden the soul in following out the thoughts of God—these are elements of the education we desire for all men upon earth.—Isaac Ogden Rankin in "The Congregationalist."

THEY SAY THAT

The physical wreck is usually up on the fighting dope.

Good breeding is doing nothing needlessly one thinks will hurt or displease others.

The longer you are on your job the better it should be to you or you are not "on your job."

The man who thinks he is full of wisdom and knowledge will always be known for his ignorance.

The woman who divides her affection is apt to subtract from her peace of mind, and add to her family.

Some public speakers are remarkable for a great flow of words and others for a great command of language.

One class of people are not much interested in the newspaper column headed, "Happenings of Twenty-five Years Ago," and they are the old maids.

Success and Failure. It is sometimes hard to find out just how the man who is successful has managed to succeed, but it is always easy to see why failure comes to those who fail.

Woman's Unfitness. An anti-suffragist once said, "Woman's unfitness for the ballot necessitates her continuance in a narrow environment."

This reminds us of the old negro who was asked why he did not seek religion. He replied, "Boss, I ain't fit."

"Well," said the other man, "why don't you get fit?"

Uncle Pete answered, "Boss, I ain't keen to get fit.—Woman's Journal."

SPIRIT IN TUBERCULOSIS WAR

Nineteen Million Dollars Expended Last Year in Fight Against the Dread White Plague

Nearly $19,000,000 was spent in the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States during the year 1912, according to the fourth annual statistical statement of expenditures in this movement issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The expenditures during the year for hospital and hospital construction and treatment make the largest single item in the total, amounting to nearly $18,500,000. This is an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the same year for the year 1911. The anti-tuberculosis associations and committees spent over $785,000, while dispensaries and tuberculosis clinics spent over $500,000. Over $415,000 was spent for the maintenance and establishment of open-air school and fresh air classes, which is more than double the amount spent for this purpose in 1911. Official, state and municipal expenditures outside of the maintenance of institutions, which are included in the other total, amounted to $230,000. In addition to these figures, about $500,000 was spent by hospitals for insane and penal institutions in caring for their tuberculosis inmates.

JUVENILE LOGIC.

"Well, mamma said you were always blowing your own horn. I thought you must belong to a brass band."

Why He Changed His Mind.

John L. Sullivan met with some amusing incidents while giving boxing lessons.

One day a husky young man came to him as a pupil. He took his boxing lesson and went home somewhat the worse for wear.

When he came for his second lesson he said: "Mr. Sullivan, it was my idea to learn enough about boxing from you to give a certain young gentleman a good licking. I had it in for him a good while. But I've changed my mind. If you have no objections I'll send this young man down here to you to take the rest of my lessons for me."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Personal Privilege.

"You sometimes contradict yourself to your speeches."

"I know it," replied the positive candidate. "And I want you to understand that I am the only man in our party who dares attempt such a thing."

LATEST IN COIFFURES

NOT IN MANY SEASONS HAVE DESIGNS BEEN SURPASSED.

Up-to-Date Styles Call for Perfect Neatness and the Highest Form of Well-Kept Appearance.

Hair Coiled Close.

All the new coiffures are charming from at least one point of view. They are dressed with a view to giving their wearers a well-groomed appearance. Little fluffiness and absolutely no frizziness is hinted at in the close, compact and graceful models displayed by the designers of coiffures.

In the majority of them the hair is coiled and pinned close to the head. Loose waves and ringlets appear, but they shine with brushing. Any hint of untidiness is not tolerated. All is wrought out with very evident care. In fact, to be fashionable these days one must be willing to care for every detail of the toilet.

The pretty coiffure pictured here shows three coils made of loosely braided hair, pinned across the back of the head and extending to the nape of the neck. A little fringe about the face is curled into ringlets. These are flattened at the sides and pinned with invisible wire pins. There are a few loose curls over the forehead. The hair is parted at the side and is quite plain on the crown of the head. When a middle part is used the hair is waved more.

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF BELT

From Severe Plainness to the Utmost Elaboration This Ornamentation is Noticed Now.

Belts are back. By belts one means every sort of belt, sash, or girdle. Possibly this universal wearing of some kind of sash or belt may be reminiscent of the Directory period, when the dandy of that epoch made a very noticeable point of his sash, usually of the military type, but always extremely ornamental.

Many of the sashes of satin and vel-

SIMPLE FLOWER-POT COVER

Cardboard Shape to Fit Around the Receptacle is Easily Made and Embroidered.

During the winter months, when fresh flowers are expensive and difficult to obtain, ferns generally take their place, so that at this period, suggestions for easily made flower pot covers should be more than ever welcome.

With most covers, a cardboard shape to fit round the pot has to be made first, and this is no difficult matter. A piece of fairly thick cardboard should be cut out in the shape shown in diagram A, and bent round until the edges overlap for about a quarter of an inch. They are then to be secured together with three or four small paper fasteners in the manner illustrated by diagram B.

In order to obtain the exact size of vet are either embroidered at the end in satin stitch in two tones of silk or are edged with deep silk of bolton fringe. Fringe, in fact, plays a very conspicuous part in the ornamentation of the belt, and seems for the present to have taken the place of the once favorite tassel.

To wear with the cutaway coats that are now so modish comes the waistcoat belt, which is really part of the coat. It comes often enough this high belt, which is about five inches in depth, is of broad satin of contrasting tones to the skirt.

To finish some of the newest gowns in cloth appear the folded velvet belt, finishing at the left side with one long pointed end. Three small buckles of plaited taffeta, fixed respectively at the end of the belt and half-way down the skirt are distinguishing features of this belt and give the little touch of novelty that is always welcome.

Many of the long ends, that fall from the waist to the hem of the skirt are used for fixing the new draperies in place and are invariably caught down either by a fancy buckle or a knot of silk.

The new draperies seem to demand the ends of the sash at the front in order to use them for the purpose just mentioned.

It appears as though no gown nowadays is complete without some form of sash. A square of embroidery often finishes the sash end.

CHANGES IN THE COIFFURE

By No Means Advisable to Keep the Same Arrangement for All Occasions.

Do not cling to the same way of dressing your hair regardless of the changes wrought by time. The way to fool your public is to change the coiffure to meet changed conditions. Visit a hairdresser who understands lines and pay her to teach you a better method. The hair you have left will thrive better if you wear it one way in the morning and rest the strain by another coiffure for night.

Attractiveness is not the only thing to be consulted—the coiffure must be suited to your age. A too youthful way of wearing the hair is a pitiful travesty on youth and makes one look far older. Hair that has thinned is better disguised by a loose, simple arrangement of one's own hair than by striving to heavily bolster it. Hair that is losing its lustre or graying is not improved by dye, which quickly ruins the quality and reduces the quantity of what hair one has. Simplicity is shown in the latest way of wearing the hair. If your locks grow thickly and you want to be fashionable, do away with all knots, twists and loops, and make your head as smooth and round as nature made it.

To achieve this effect brush the hair smoothly back and turn under the ends so the hair is an even thickness everywhere. Sometimes a front or side parting is made and the hair may be pushed into an oblique sort of ridge from crown of head to nape of neck. The only break in this smoothness is three short curls pinned to hang on the neck.

For the woman of this class to attempt such simplicity would be folly, and even thick hair will not look its best unless it be made soft, fluffy and lustrous with much brushing. If the hair lies too flat to be becoming it may have to be brushed back over a low roll of tulle to match.

the cardboard, is a good plan to make a rough pattern with brown paper and fit it round the pot. It can then be laid upon the board, and the size and shape marked out by running a piece of pencil round the edge of the paper.

With the cover from which our sketch was drawn, the cardboard was smoothly covered with dull green silk and bound at the upper and lower edges with silver braid, and further ornamented with two rows of very narrow braid to match, carried into loops pointing upwards and downwards in the way indicated in the illustration.

This cover might, of course, be equally well carried out in other combinations of color, and white silk and gold braid would look very pretty. White blue silk and white braid would be neat and effective.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Roses made of fur are one of the trimming novelties. Scotch plaids are the newest things in blanket bathrobes. Jeweled slats are very much worn with evening coiffures.

Burped ribbons in charming attention for jaunty street hats.

The palm leaf design is the newest thing in rich hooded bags.

Antelope hair seems likely to figure on many evening hats.

A few felt toques trimmed with wool flowers are to be seen.

Deep indigo velvet and shawl fur are a delightful combination.

Draperies are more beautiful and more clinging than ever.

RASH ALMOST COVERED FACE

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body. The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing and scratching made it worse. Last spring I had a terrible breaking out of bilious sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks. My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing, that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent. I bathed with hot water and Cuticura Soap, then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs. Kathryn Kraft, Nov. 28, 1911.

Collision of Ill-Mannered Man and Fire Hydrant Awarded Him Much Satisfaction.

"You know the crowding, pushing, ill-mannered chaps," said Mr. Goslington, "that allow their way through and crowd you off into the gutter, like an ant, and pass right on with never a thought? I encountered one of them this morning in Sixth avenue."

"He overtook me, coming up from the rear, walking faster than I, and when he had come to me he didn't sheer out, but kept right along, shouldering me so that I almost fell into the street. But in one brief moment I was more than fully avenged."

"Just as this ill-mannered chap shouldered me I had arrived at a fire hydrant, for which I was about to sheer out. You know the fire hydrant? Built of cast iron, very hard, and standing up rigidly, very rigidly. You can't just shoulder a fire hydrant out of the way, and just as this man shouldered me out of his course he came upon the fire hydrant, which with me covering it from view he had not seen. His next rude, reckless step forward carrying him up against this fire hydrant fair and squarely per-bunk!"

"And it didn't break his leg, but it did make him limp; he limped quite perceptibly. I was pleased to see, as he walked away."

Sanctimonious Penny.

Jerome S. McWade, the millionaire collector of Duluth, was appealing on the Mauretania for a seaman's fund.

"Let the collection be generous," he said.

"We want none of the penny and quarter parable here."

A penny and a quarter, side by side in a pocket, fell into conversation.

"In worth 25 of you," said the quarter haughtily.

"That's true," replied the humble penny, "but in one respect, sir, I'm superior to yourself."

"Pshaw; how so?" said the quarter.

"I go to church, sir, far, far oftener than you," replied the penny.

MRS. CHARLES S. DUNNING.
Mrs. Eliza Higwood Dunning, wife of Charles S. Dunning, died at her home in Dundee last Friday morning at seven o'clock, aged 87 years, following an illness of two weeks.

Eliza Higwood was born at Yam Brook, Trowbridge, England, July 16, 1828, and March 12, 1863, was married to C. S. Dunning. In 1867 they came to America. After living in Elgin for a year they purchased the farm in Barrington township at present owned by Thomas Donlea. They remained there 16 years, then sold out and moved to Dundee where they have since resided. Besides her husband she is survived by seven children, one of whom is Mrs. Sanford Peck of this village. The remaining six are: William A. Dunning of Dundee, Frank C. Dunning of Elgin, Charles Dunning of Bensenville, Mrs. J. B. Lorenz of Aurora, Mrs. W. Burkett of Hartford, Michigan, and Mrs. M. S. Pierce of Omaha, Nebraska.

Mrs. Dunning had been active for one of her years until the holiday week, when both her husband and herself were prostrated with a severe attack of a gripple. Mr. Dunning has recovered sufficiently to be about the house now.

The funeral services were held at her late home in Dundee at one o'clock Sunday and the body was brought to Barrington and interred in Evergreen cemetery.

Farm Interests

The prospects at this time are for "most double" that yield. Here, under the plant food of the soil has been supplemented profitably by the addition of 40 pounds per acre of 2-4-4 fertilizer when the beans were planted. The beans were cultivated and handled by contract with a sugar factory. Mr. Congdon's judicious use of plant food is also evidenced in the corn field each year. His corn was two weeks or more ahead of surrounding corn fields and is sound and plump.

The large crops and their excellent quality also justify Mr. Congdon's strong belief in fertilizers.

or Illinois land. Yet the result of this drainage allows the land to be worked two weeks or a month earlier than farms that ignore this important item. Mr. Congdon values a good rotation of crops. His clever and timely crops net him a good profit and also prepares the land for succeeding crops.

The large crops and their excellent quality also justify Mr. Congdon's strong belief in fertilizers.

Impossible to Tell All.
"Will you solemnly swear that the testimony you shall give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?" "No; I won't swear to anything of the kind," answered the man who had been a witness in several big cases. "The lawyers won't let me tell half the truth."
