"The Fall of Black Hawk"

A 2-REEL SPECIAL

For Friday Evening's Show

A tale of that wonderfully cunning Indian chief who made his name a terror in the middle west in 1833. A period in American history black with wanton slaughter of white settlers. In addition a one-reel story of moonshine and romance entitled "Kaintuck," and a good comedy.

Ollie Jenks Dead.

It is with sadness we write of the death of Miss Ollie Jenks, which occurred Tuesday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jenks, in the twenty-sixth year of a life full of goodness and purity. Ollie's entire life has been spent in this village where she has endeavored herself to all by her kindness, gentleness and admirable qualities. Of gentle and prepossessing manners, she will be greatly missed by friends, and this means all who knew her. Ollie had taught school for some time and was a successful young instructor. When falling health ordered that she cease this work, she could not be content in idleness and was an industrious assistant in the parental home of which she was very fond. Everything that could be done to encourage and assist her to her desire to regain her health was cheerfully done by her parents, and even the day before she died they entertained some hope of her recovery. The end came in slumber out of which, let us hope she awoke free from all suffering, happy in the light of His love where all is perfection, peace and joy. The funeral was held at the home of her parents this afternoon.
