NEWS OF THE FARM AND DAIRY FARM HAND IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Notes of Comment and Interest to Local Agriculturalists and Milk Producers.

Five additional nations have allied themselves officially with the International Institute of Agriculture during the past year, according to the report of the organization made public this week.

If charcoal, salt, ashes, and lime are kept where the hogs have free access to them at all times, they will grow stronger, healthier, and root less. A few cents spent for these materials will often go further than as many dollars spent for some of the patent stock foods on the market at the present time. The value of the above ingredients has been repeatedly shown by their constant use in the University of Illinois herd.

Eight counties in this state now have soil improvement associations. DeKalb county was the first to organize and appoint a county soil expert, with McHenry a close second. Since this county's association was organized six other counties of the state have fallen in line and the plan is being agitated in several other counties with the probable result that within the next few years a majority of the counties of the state will have soil improvement clubs with expert consulting agriculturalists at the head. Counties that have already taken up the movement are all located in this section of the state, the counties in order of their organization being DeKalb, McHenry, Livingston, Kane, Kankakee, Winnebago, Dupage and Will.

Many farmers do not attach enough importance to the appearance of their farms and homes. In the same locality too often is found on one hand buildings nicely painted and in repair, fences in good condition and a general air of prosperity pervading the place. On the other hand, the very next farm is the opposite—everything "run down," fences in need of repairs, and everything, in fact, "dilapidated." Again, these things go by localities. Flirting with things goes on as to be contagious. Above all there seems to be a desire to avoid paint, and there is nothing, at a low cost, that so increases value as paint.

WEIGH ALL MAIL MATTER.

Clerks and Carriers Get Much Extra Work Under Order of the Postmaster General's Office.

Rural mail carriers and postoffice clerks will be kept busy this month, for they have been ordered to weigh all mail matter, keep track of the amount of postage and number of pieces handled on the various routes. The order from the fourth assistant postmaster general reads, in part, as follows:

"You are directed, beginning June 2 and ending, June 30, to ascertain and record on the enclosed forms the number of pieces of mail matter delivered and collected by each of your rural carriers from your office on each of the trips made; the weight of all mail delivered and collected by each driver on each trip; the postage as shown by the stamps on all mail delivered and collected on each trip; his postage on all fourth class mail delivered and collected on each trip, and the number of pieces of fourth class matter mailed at your office or on either of the routes starting from your office and postage on same, delivered and collected each trip."

Concert Was Good.

The concert given by the Ladies Aid society last Friday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church was fairly well attended and apparently much enjoyed by the audience, as all of the numbers were applauded and scored. Many were disappointed because Miss Ethel Rogers of Chicago, who was on the program for several readings, was unable to appear, but she was probably quite as well pleased by Miss Lillian Powers who took her place on the program. Miss Powers' home is in Youngstown, Ohio, but she is at present taking a post-graduate course at the Northwestern university, Chicago, from which college she graduated last year.

Three Drown at Lake Geneva.

Miss Emma Olson, her brother, Eric Olson, and Charles Strand, the latter two of Chicago, were drowned in Lake Geneva Sunday when the boat in which they were rowing capsized in rough water. Miss Helen Rohre, the fourth member of the party, along with one of the rowers, was rescued by a man who was fishing from a nearby boat. The bodies of the three were recovered two hours later in twenty feet of water.

Bohemian Laborer Near Cary Loses a Leg as Result of Being Hit by a Chicago & Northwestern Train.

A Bohemian farm hand known as "Columbus" by the entire countryside, was struck by a Chicago & Northwestern train Sunday afternoon, five miles north of this village near the Cary bridge. His left foot was severed at the ankle and he was hurled down an embankment. He was walking along the track at the time the accident occurred and the engineer and fireman of the train saw him, but not soon enough to bring the train to a stop. He did not appear to realize that the train was so close to him and just stepped off the track when it whizzed by, the section caused him by the swiftly moving train drawing him under the wheels.

The train was stopped and the injured man given temporary attention by Dr. H. J. Oahagen of Elgin, who happened to be near the scene of the accident, and Dr. Theobald of Cary, after which he was placed on the train and taken to Chicago.

In Chicago he was taken to a hospital and it was found necessary to amputate the limb to save his life. It is said that he is in no danger now and will recover.

MRS. LINCOLN GETS DECREE.

Woman Whose Husband Deserted Her Granted Divorce in Aurora Court.

Mrs. Alice Lincoln was freed from her husband, Rolla Lincoln, last week in the Kane county court at Aurora on a charge of desertion. Lincoln is a telegraph operator and was in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company here about three years ago, and was working for the company at Palestine at the time he first refused to support his wife. That was two years ago and as a consequence he was arrested and remained in jail several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln were married in 1897 and were the parents of 11 children, and Lincoln is said to have fled from home soon after the arrival of the last one. Ten of the children are dead and the remaining seven have been adopted by residents of Kane and McHenry counties.

Cuba Township $25,000 Richer.

E. W. Riley, assessor for Cuba township, has completed his work and returned the books to the county clerk at Waukegan Tuesday. His books show the total assessed value of personal property in that township to be $243,327 as compared with $217,727 in 1912, a difference of $25,700.

He is also authorized for the following interesting figures about the township: Live stock and produce of the township. Concerning the grain the number of bushels raised last year was as follows: Corn, 123,428; wheat, 12,000; spring wheat, 1,185; oats, 65,470; apples, 2,750; rye, 2,065; barley, 5,470; Irish potatoes, 9,670. Of the hay the tons produced were: Timothy, 1,326; clover, 1,280; wild, 575. There were 2,000 cows in the township this year. Last year 1,178,000 gallons of milk were sold and the value of the poultry sold was $3,398 and of eggs, $4,147. The number of horses in the township was 602.

LOCAL BALL TEAM BREAKS EVEN

Wins One Game and Loses One During the Past Week—Lacked "Hutch" in Rostering in the Saturday Game.

The Omnes Vitae baseball team defeated the Gross Park M. E. Memorial day by a score of ten to nine. The game was an interesting one, the teams being very evenly matched, but the visitors were two runs ahead in the last inning and it looked bad for the locals. They went to bat with a determination to do something, however, and that determination, or perhaps it was the "hitching" of "Hutch" and a few local fans, made the pitcher easy for them, and they rolled home three scores—winning the game. The home team's weak spot appeared to be the infield. "Danny" Pomeroy pitched a good game and played ball all over the field, but the locals and only six of the locals players and only six of the locals players were able to get on base. The next day, Saturday, the Elgin Omnes Vitae team came out and defeated the Omnes Vitae team ten to six. The day before was evidently too strenuous for the local players and only six of the locals players were able to get on base. The next day, Saturday, the Elgin Omnes Vitae team came out and defeated the Omnes Vitae team ten to six.

BRANDENSTEIN INQUEST HELD.

Jury Returns Verdict of Suicide—He Was Probably of a German Noble Family.

The inquest over the body of Herbert von Brandenstein, who shot himself on a farm west of here Wednesday evening of last week, was held last Friday morning. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the evidence to the effect that "he came to his death from a bullet wound in his right chest inflicted by a revolver in his own hands, and from circumstantial evidence and the testimony presented we believe with suicidal intent."

Brandenstein's mother, who is 50 years old, is staying at Dr. Lindhart's apartment, 828 South Ashland boulevard, Chicago, and a doctor was present from that sanitarium to take charge of the body, which was taken to Chicago that afternoon by E. M. Blocks, undertaker. Brandenstein is a barber, Castro, Texas, who was coming, the doctor stated, to take charge of the funeral arrangements.

The name indicates that von Brandenstein is a descendant of a noble German family and Dr. Lindhart said that the victim's antecedents were well known German people, but he was not acquainted with them. No reason for the young man's act could be learned.

Senior Class to Give Social.

The senior class of the Barrington high school has planned to give an ice cream social tomorrow evening, the proceeds of which to help pay for the class gift. This gift will be Landwer's famous picture, "The Stag at Bay," size 30x40, and will be hung in the high school assembly hall for a lasting reminder of the class of 1913.

The members of the senior class decided to turn aside from the usual custom of giving a play because of the large amount of work they have to do, and because they have on hand a sum of money earned last year by taking part in the play given at that time. The class hopes that this sum, with what they get from the social, will be sufficient to pay all expenses incurred. They believe that the people will take an interest in a thing of this kind and will do all they can to make it a success. It will be the last opportunity to do anything for the class of '13 and everyone should improve it.

Bakery Installs New Machinery.

E. G. Ankole, owner of the "Barrington Home Bakery," states that there has been a steady and increasing demand for his product, and that he has found it necessary to install a dough mixing machine which will enable him to mix dough for 500 loaves at one time. He has made arrangements with Clarence Ladpewer to carry fresh bread and rolls with him when making his morning milk deliveries.

CHRIST JENSEN INTERRED AT ELGIN

Coroner's Jury Returns Open Verdict—Remains Removed to Elgin on Monday Last by His Son.

The Lake county coroner's jury, investigating the death of Christ Jensen, whose mangled remains were found on the Chicago & North-Western Railroad company's right-of-way a week ago Saturday morning, met at E. M. Blocks' undertaking establishment in adjourned session Monday morning and returned the following verdict: "We, the undersigned, jurors, sworn to inquire into the death of Christ Jensen, on oath do find that he came to his death by violence from unknown cause, and that his body was found along the right-of-way of the Chicago & North-Western railway about 800 feet northwest of the crossing of the Chicago & Northwestern and Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railways, at Barrington, Lake county, Illinois."

"MILES T. LAMEY, Foreman, "E. M. BLOCKS, "E. L. LINDEN, "EDWARD JONES, "JOE BAYTER, "ARTHUR M. PETERS."

The jury had first met on the day of the finding of the body, but had postponed the inquest until more evidence could be secured. At that time the identity of the dead man had not been learned.

Jensen's brothers, Anton and Louis Jensen of Cary, and his son, Clarence, an employee of the watch factory at Elgin, were present Monday, together with the latter's wife and her mother. Mr. Jensen was represented by Allen About, an Elgin attorney, and it was thought that an attempt would be made to collect damages from the railroad company.

Mr. Jensen removed his father's body to Elgin after the inquest, and it was interred that afternoon at the Hill City cemetery there. Rev. B. F. Hofer, an Elgin minister, officiating at the grave.

WILL, OIL WAUCONDA ROAD.

Cuba Township Commissioners Vote to Oil From Hollister's Corners to the Village Limits.

The Wauconda road will be oiled for one mile in Cuba township shortly in accordance with the recommendations made by the town board at the annual meeting held in April. The work will be commenced at the village limits and extended north to Hollister's corner, and as the road will be oiled inside of the corporation by the village it will make a fine approach to the town from the north, and will add much to the comfort of the people along that road and to the prosperity of the village and the reputation of the township for good roads, as well. The road received a coating of crushed stone last year and is in fine condition.

The commissioners were loath to give the order for this work, although the town board had virtually commanded that it be done, and when the question was brought up at their meeting Tuesday morning it would without doubt have been voted down had they not been strongly reminded of their instructions. It is estimated that the work will cost about $200.

There is also talk of oiling the road entering the village from the west.

ANNUAL DES PLAINES PICNIC.

Methodist Association Will Have Annual Picnic at the Des Plaines Camp Grounds on Monday.

The annual Des Plaines camp meeting picnic will take place on next Monday, June 9, at the Des Plaines camp ground.

The prescholar's meeting of Chicago will hold its session on the grounds at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and Rev. John Timothy Stone, D. D., of Chicago, moderator of the recent general assembly of the Presbyterian church, will preach.

Special trains will come out from Chicago, and if the day is fair the attendance is sure to be very large. The preacher's quartette will sing and the annual business meeting will be held. The train leaving Barrington at 9:15 a. m. will on that day stop at the camp ground to let off passengers. Also the train leaving the city at 5:13 p. m. will stop at the grounds for passengers coming this way. Fare for the round trip from Barrington will be 64 cents.

Bank Directors Meet.

The board of directors of the First State Bank of Barrington took the oath of office at a meeting held Tuesday evening. By-laws governing the body were adopted. Albert T. Ullrich was elected as assistant cashier.

ORDER THE BUILDING OF MANY SIDEWALKS

The Trustees Order Special Assessment Proceedings as Last Resort—Forty Days Grace to Property Owners.

The most important item of business transacted by the board of village trustees at the monthly meeting held last Monday evening was the passage of an ordinance providing for the construction of more than 2,000 feet of sidewalk along various parts of the village, the work to be done by special assessment. It is provided, however, that the owner of any lot shall be allowed 40 days in which to construct the walk in accordance with the ordinance and thereby discharge his property from assessment. The estimated cost of the entire improvement is $1,795.00. It is thought that most of the property owners will take advantage of the 40 day period and build their own walks as by doing so they will save the cost of the assessment proceedings and will also secure the rebate of 12 cents per running foot which the village allows them and which would otherwise be forfeited. All of the walks named in the ordinance are badly needed and most of the owners of the property have been notified several times this special assessment proceedings would be commenced if the walks were not constructed. Many of them have promised to build walks but have failed to do so.

The property in front of which this ordinance provides for the construction of walks is as follows: Hutchinson property on Grove avenue; Schroeder property on Cook street; Brockway property on Cook street; Schwenn property on Lake street; Schwenn and Kupper property on Main street; Brockway property on Lake street; Hutchinson property on Station street; Lageschulte property on Station street; Landwer, Broemmelmans and Lageschulte property on Main street; Bauman and Kupper property on Main street; Forman property on Main street; Plagge and Spunner property on Walnut street.

It is understood that as soon as these sidewalks are underway the trustees will bring the proposition to bear upon other owners of property where walks are needed, in an attempt to get as many new walks laid before winter as possible.

The ordinance passed last Monday evening will be published in this paper next week and will also be the annual appropriation bill which was passed this same evening.

F. L. Waterman was reappointed village treasurer and collector. The appointment was not made at the last meeting because the salary had not been fixed at that time. Mr. Waterman had been previously paid $200 a year, and suggested at that meeting that the salary should be raised as the work was constantly increasing and was worth more when the price of $200 was made several years ago.

The matter of fixing the salary was referred to the committee on finance and this committee recommended Monday evening that the salary be made $225, the treasurer receiving no extra compensation for collecting special assessments or for any other purpose. This will in reality cut down the amount paid the treasurer as the extra commission he has been receiving usually amounts to a considerable sum. The board then considered the recommendation of the finance committee and President Lamey appointed Mr. Waterman to the office. The only other application received was from William Grunow, who agreed to do the work for $245.

A petition protesting against the present plan for oiling the streets, which had been circulated by H. D. A. Grebe and was signed by 22 citizens, was presented to the board. As the oiling of streets had already been virtually completed the board of trustees

MARKET FIRM DISSOLVED.

Alverson & Groff Have Dissolved Partnership—E. C. Groff Will Continue the Business.

F. J. Alverson and E. C. Groff, who have conducted a meat market and food store in this village for the past ten years under the firm name of Alverson & Groff, dissolved partnership yesterday by mutual agreement.

Mr. Groff will continue in the business and Mr. Alverson will start a chicken farm. He purchased a 40-acre farm southeast of this village, in Palestine township, from Mrs. Mary Reese a short time ago and intends to move on to the place as soon as he can make the necessary arrangements. He conducted the market alone for several years before Mr. Groff became a member of the firm.

Wins $25,000 Cash Prize—Wishart and Merz are Second and Third Respectively.

Indianapolis, June 2.—France won a sporting victory over America Friday on the Indianapolis Speedway, when Goux, driving a Peugeot car, won the 500-mile motor race. Wishart, in an American Mercer, was second. Merz, in an American-made Stutz, captured third place.

Goux's time was six hours 31 minutes 43.45 seconds, an average of 65.59 miles an hour. His rewards were international honors, cash prize worth $25,000, including the $20,000 cash prize offered by the management of the speedway for the winner of the race, a kiss from a dirt-covered mechanic, and a shower of champagne made of grapes that grew in the country whence he came.

Spencer Wishart, who drove a Mercer car into second place at the finish of the race, was given a kissless and champagneless reception at the Mercer pits, but his two hands, worn out by the steady work at the wheel of his car, were shaken wildly by a hundred admirers. He was lifted upon the shoulders of his pit men and cheered with the enthusiasm equal to that accorded to the Frenchman. He was given a check for $10,000.

One of the most remarkable bits of race car driving was staged by Charles Merz in his Stutz car, when he drove three and one-half miles, more than one lap around the course, with his car ablaze beneath the engine, and his mechanic and himself hardly able to keep their seats on account of the flames that were licking at their legs.

Spectators remaining in the grand stands and bleachers were on their feet straining for a glimpse of the intrepid young Indianapolis driver as he rounded the last curve and started down the final stretch with tongues of flames spouting from under the hood of his car. He could not have made another lap. His car would have gone to pieces in another mile. But it remained intact and continued to do his bidding until it limped across the finish line and Merz was $5,000 wealthier. Pitmen had extinguished the flames and fire had not had time to do much damage before the car had been destroyed. Charles Merz's father is an Indianapolis policeman with a record for bravery to his credit.

Not Thought Mikado's Government Will Ask for Exclusion Code—Canada Act Held Example.

Washington, June 2.—According to present plans Japan will submit to the state department at an early day a rejoinder to Secretary Bryan's answer to the Japanese protest against the alien land legislation adopted by the California legislature.

This was made known here Monday, but without any suggestion as to the probable contents of the note. There have been numerous cable exchanges between the Japanese embassy here and the foreign office in Tokyo, necessitated by the demands the latter for exact information as to American national and state laws regarding alien land ownership and naturalization.

Notwithstanding the pressure from certain quarters at home, however, it is regarded as doubtful that the Japanese embassy has concluded to turn to a request for amendment of the American naturalization laws as a solution of the present issue between the two countries. The successful treatment by the Canadian parliament of complaints from British Columbia of the competition of the Japanese, ever, has attracted the attention of the negotiations on both sides in the country.

As the underlying principle of the Canadian legislation is separation of the two races in the interest of permanent peace, to be attained through absolute exclusion of all but the traveling and student classes, it was suggested that a similar remedy might be found to fit the present issue in America.

RECEIVERS FOR TWO RAILS

'Frisco and Eastern Illinois Unable to Meet Outstanding Notes Take Affairs Into Court.

St. Louis, May 29.—United States Judge Scales Tuesday appointed two receivers for the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, known as the 'Frisco system, upon application of the North American company, Benjamin L. Winchell, president of the 'Frisco company, and Thomas H. West, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Union Trust company, were named as receivers.

Judge Carpenter of the United States district court of Chicago, appointed receivers for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, a part of the 'Frisco system, upon the application of the Railway Steel Spring company, William J. Jackson, vice-president of the system, and the Western Union of New York were named as receivers. The liability of the 'Frisco system to meet the $2,250,000 five per cent. two year notes maturing June 1 brought about the financial difficulties of the system.

REBELS TAKE CITY

HUNDREDS KILLED IN BATTLE WHICH RESULTS IN CAPTURE OF MATAMORAS, MEX.

FEDERAL LEADER IS SLAIN

Victors Possessed Plans of Fortifications and Under Guidance of Deserter Attacked Vulnerable Points—Victims Made Three Attacks.

Brownsville, Tex., June 3.—Hundreds are believed to have been killed in a battle that raged for 12 hours Tuesday between the rebels under Gen. Lucio Blanco and the federal forces in Matamoras, the northern stronghold of the federal government, and which resulted after desperate fighting, in the capture of the city in the evening by the rebels.

Much of the fighting was hand to hand. Esteban Ramos, one of Mexico's noted soldiers, made a heroic defense against terrible odds. His officers capitulated only after their chief had been mortally wounded by a half dozen rebel bullets and lay at the point of death in a hospital in Brownsville. The dying general heard the shouts of the victors in the streets of the conquered town just before he passed away.

The attack began at 10:30 Tuesday morning, when the constitutionalists under General Blanco advanced in skirmish line. The federals had practically no chances to hold the city, and their resistance throughout the day was called remarkable by American army officers who viewed the assault from this side of the river.

The rebels were in possession of complete plans of the fortifications. A federal deserter showed them where all the mines were laid and named the vulnerable points in the line of defense. Virtually the entire defense of the handful of federals had was a high barbed wire fence charged with electricity.

The rebels charged this three times, and each time were hurled back. Sixty of their number were electrocuted. Finally they concentrated their assault upon the Matamoras light plant. Major Ramos dispatched Captain Velez, his most trusted aide, with two lieutenants and a picked band of 30 sharpshooters to defend the plant and save the wire fence.

The federals made a gallant defense, but were outnumbered four to one, and Captain Velez, the lieutenants and the squad of soldiers were killed to a man after they had retreated to the very doors of the electrification plant.

The plant fell at three o'clock, and the last hope of the federals went with it. Blanco appealed to Major Ramos to surrender, but the old Mexican fighter scorned the offer and ordered his men to back and ordered a deploy to repulse the attack.

The rebels advanced and, after a heavy fire, the federal band was driven under cover. Cutting their way through the wire fence, now useless as a defense, the rebels swarmed into the town. Slaughter followed. Retreating from street to street the defenders slowly but surely were driven to bay. Scores of federal soldiers were slain and swam to the American shore, where they surrendered to the flag of the United States.

Not until the defending army had been so completely routed that it was impossible to marshal a squad of 20 fighting men at one place did a junior officer of Ramos' staff raise the white flag on his saber.

Bullets whizzed into Brownsville, where hundreds watched the fortune of the battle across the river. One automobile was wrecked by a shell, but no one was seriously hurt.

MEAT SUPPLY GROWS SHORT

For First Time in History of Nation Imports of Animals Exceeded Exports in 1912.

Washington, June 5.—The department of agriculture issued a bulletin Tuesday warning the nation that the supply of meat in the United States is getting shorter every year. In the year of 1912, for the first time in the history of this country, the imports of animals and animal products exceeded the exports. In 1907 the number of beef cattle in the United States was $1,565,000, while at the beginning of the present year it was only 36,000. The same statement was made before Secretary Wilson went out of office, one of the reasons ascribed being the preference of the western ranchmen to grow crops instead of cattle.

A year ago the average price of native steers on the Chicago market was $7.35, as against $6.50 in 1911.

Former United States Senator
Thomas Witherill Palmer, one of Detroit's oldest and most prominent citizens, is dead at Detroit, after a long illness. He was born in this city in 1830. He was elected to the United States senate in 1888.

President Wilson, in a letter to Senator Tillman, which the latter has made public, makes it plain that he is in favor of currency legislation at the present session of congress.

Tariff and currency reform went to sleep when the senate sub-committee on the judiciary committee on the judiciary committee began its hearings in its hunt for "the numerous and insidious lobby" which President Wilson has said is at work threatening legislation.

A committee of postoffice department officers report that the department "did not attain a condition of self-support during the administration of Postmaster General Hitchcock, notwithstanding the widely advertised announcement to that effect, although an apparent surplus was attained by unjustifiable methods of bookkeeping."

The United States senate adopted a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to investigate President Wilson's charges that a lobby is being maintained in Washington to influence legislation, with particular emphasis upon its efforts for or against the Underwood tariff bill now before the finance committee.

Secretary Bryan announces that eight nations have responded favorably to his peace plan, asking that suggestions be submitted in regard to De-which they have accepted, are Italy,

Great Britain, France, Brazil, Sweden,
Norway, Peru and Russia.

Senator Lawrence of Louisville, Ky.,

Decoration day services at the National Soldiers' home in Washington. He pleaded for peace, but declared that no man now living could see the day when war would cease.

"Joy riding" by irresponsible persons in automobiles has become a set-term for such an infringement of the law, and Charles Jefferson, a negro chauffeur for Representative Mondell of Wyoming, began a six-month sentence for a similar infraction.

A. J. Richmond Sylvester, superintendent of the District of Columbia police, was excoriated and his subordinates were mildly reprimanded for the disorder that attended the sur-

Bayless, president of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company, and Frederick M.

the Illinois river above LaSalle, Ill., of the guards was killed outright and another is not expected alive. The others

JAPAN TO REPLY SOON

CABLES KEPT BUSY FRAMING
ANSWERS FOR BRYAN.

Not Thought Mikado's Government
Will Ask for Exclusion of Canada
Act Held Example.

Washington, June 3.—According to present plans Japan will submit to the state department at an early day a rejoinder to Secretary Bryan's answer to the Japanese protest against the allen land legislation adopted by the California legislature.

This was made known here Monday, but without any suggestion as to the probable contents of the note.

There have been numerous cable exchanges between the Japanese embassy here and the foreign office in Tokyo, necessitated by the demands the latter for exact information as to American national and state laws regarding alien land ownership and naturalization.

Notwithstanding the pressure from certain quarters at home, however, it is regarded as doubtful that the Japanese embassy has concluded to turn to a request for amendment of the American naturalization laws as a solution of the present issue between the two countries. The successful treatment by the Canadian parliament of complaints from British Columbia of the competition of the Japanese, however, has attracted the attention of the negotiations on both sides in this country.

As the underlying principle of the Canadian legislation is separation of the two races in the interest of permanent peace, to be attained through the exclusion of all but the traveling students, the present issue being suggested that a similar remedy might be found to fit the present issue in America.

jamin L. West, president of the Trico company, and Thomas H.

REBELS TAKE CITY

HUNDREDS KILLED IN BATTLE
WHICH RESULTS IN CAPTURE OF MATAMORAS, MEX.

FEDERAL LEADER IS SLAIN

Victors Possessed Plans of Fortifications and Under Guidance of Deserter Attacked Vulnerable Points —Victims Made Three Attacks.

Brownsville, Tex., June 3.—Hundreds are believed to have been killed in a battle that raged for 12 hours
Tuesday between the rebels under Gen.
Lucio Blanco and the federal forces in Matamoras, the northern stronghold of the federal government, and which resulted, after desperate fighting, in the capture of the city in the evening by the rebels.

Much of the fighting was hand to hand. Maj. Estaban Ramos, one of Mexico's noted soldiers, made a heroic defense against terrible odds. His officers capitulated only after their chief had been mortally wounded by a half dozen rebel bullets and lay at the point of death in a hospital in Brownsville.

The dying general heard the shouts of the victors in the streets of the conquered town just before he passed away.

The attack began at 10:30 Tuesday morning, when the constitutionalists under General Blanco advanced in skirmish line. The federals had practically finished plans to hold the city, and their resistance throughout the day was called remarkable by American army officers who viewed the assault from this side of the river.

The rebels were in possession of complete plans of the fortifications. A federal deserter showed them where the mines were laid and named the vulnerable points in the line of defense. Virtually the only defense the handful of federals had was a high barbed wire fence charged with electricity.

The rebels charged this three times, and each time were hurled back. Sixty of their number were electrocuted.
Finally they concentrated their assault upon the Matamoros light plant.
Major Ramos dispatched Captain Velez, his most trusted aid, with two lieutenants and a picket band of 20 sharpshooters to defend the plant and save the wire fence.

The federals made a gallant defense, but were outnumbered four to one, and Captain Velez, the lieutenants and the squad of soldiers were killed to a man after they had retreated to the very doors of the electrification plant.

The plant fell at three o'clock, and the last hope of the federals went with it. Blanco appealed to Major Ramos to surrender, but the old Mexican fighter scorned the offer and sent the devoys back and ordered a deploy to repulse the attack.

The rebels advanced and, after a heavy fire, the federal band was driven under cover. Cutting their way through the wire fence, now useless as a defense, the rebels swarmed into the town.

Slaughter followed. Retreating from street to street the defenders slowly but surely were driven to bay. Scores of soldiers fled to the river and swam to the American shore, where they surrendered to the flag of the United States.

Not until the defending army had been so completely routed that it was impossible to marshal a squad of 20 fighting men at one place did a junior officer of Ramos' staff raise the white flag on his saber.

Bullets whizzed into Brownsville, where hundreds watched the fortune of the battle across the river. One automobile was wrecked by a shell, but no one was seriously hurt.

MEAT SUPPLY GROWS SHORT

For First Time in History of Nation
Imports of Animals Exceeded
Exports in 1912.

Washington, June 5.—The department of agriculture issued a bulletin Tuesday warning the nation that the supply of meat in the United States is getting shorter every year.

In the year of 1912, for the first time in the history of this country, the imports of animals and animal products exceeded the exports. In 1907 the number of head cattle in the United States was 51,566,000, while at the beginning of the present year it was only 36, 030,000. The same statement was made before Secretary Wilson went out of office, one of the reasons ascribed by the preference of the western ranchmen to grow crops instead of cattle.

A year ago the average price of native steers on the Chicago market was $1.25, as against $0.50 in 1911.

Turks Are Leaving Europe.
Constantinople, June 5.—Turkey Tuesday began the evacuation of the 60,000 square miles of territory she lost to the Balkan allies. A dozen transports left Rodosto on the Sea of Marmora bearing Turkish troops.

Important Decision Rendered.
Washington, June 5.—A decision carrying an award of $82,004.84 was rendered Tuesday by the United States court of claims in favor of the Chicago & Alton railroad company in the "mail weighing" case.

Is Largest Lake Vessel.
Fort William, Ont., June 5.—The steamer Noronic, the largest passenger boat on the great lakes, was launched at the Western Dry Dock Yards here Tuesday in the presence of several thousand people.

A PUBLIC MENACE.

While this community has long gotten by that stage of rural innocence where people rush to the windows to see who is going by, yet it is not so large that the village habit of gossiping about the neighbors has been wholly outgrown. This is not necessarily saying anything against the town. Perhaps there may even be justification for the habit of gossip. It is no doubt a moral regulator. Many a man would go crooked were he not worrying for fear of what the neighbors may say.

Still human nature generally condemns the gossip habit as an unlovely exercise of time and of the human faculties. As a general rule the bigger and more enterprising a place is the less room there is in one's life for talking about the affairs of your neighbors.

In a town the size of ours, where everyone knows everyone else, it is against all reason to expect that people are going to stop talking about their neighbors altogether. Life would certainly be state, flat and unprofitable, could it be deprived of the zest of comment on the human drama forever being played at our doors.

The fault of gossip ordinarily heard in a town like ours is that in a good many cases the gossip seems to be a kind of prosecuting attorney who can see only one side of a case. There seems to be no satisfaction in peddling pleasant information. Where something can be found discreditable to some other person it is hashed and rehashed, the tale gaining a bit each time it is told, as its dramatic possibilities become more evident on practice. All explanations are rejected, and the person or incident commented on are viewed in their most unlovely lights.

Such persons are to a village like ours what the yellow journal is to a great city. They are moral scavengers who may perhaps remove some unpleasant odors by the persistence of their culture-like guard over the doings of their neighbors. But they are welcome in few homes where sunshine is preferred to shadow, and where a kindly regard for the feelings of others prevails.

It is hard to account for the type of character referred to. Probably it is largely the result of failure in some form; generally of failure to accomplish much in life, failure to give the world much service. The man or woman who has done little in the world likes to show how little others are accomplishing.

BEEF CATTLE SCARCE.

The demand for beef far exceeds the supply, and high prices are the result, says a bulletin issued by the department of agriculture. In the last six years there has been a decline of more than 30 per cent in the number of beef cattle in the United States, according to the department, and already during the first three months of this year there has been an approximate decrease of 13 per cent in the number of meat animals killed under government supervision when compared with 1912. Estimates give the number of beef cattle on January 1, 1907, as 51,666,000, and as the beginning of this year 36,000,000.

Disobedience in children is receiving considerable consideration these days. It is certainly needs attention. But it is merely a tendency of the times. The fathers and mothers of children are generally too busy with other affairs to give much attention to their offspring. It is not the children's fault, heaven bless them. They are just as sweet and guileless as ever. But they need more instruction in the good old-fashioned ways of training them up into manhood and womanhood. We want progress, but are getting away too fast from old-fashioned ideas and standards.

THE PRICELESS TREASURE OF HAPPY LIVING

There can be little doubt but that he has been most happy who has, throughout life, thought himself to be so; for, of all feelings, that of happiness is most naturally influenced by the sentiment of one's mind.

A man may think himself a Solomon in wisdom, a Socrates in philosophy, a Solon in discernment, and yet be a half-wit. He may consider himself in strength the equal of Hercules, of Samson, or of Sandow the Great, and yet be puny of fiber, with a deltoid like a bantam hen and a serratus magnus like the muscle of a katydid. He may esteem himself in art the peer of Raphael, of Corregio or of Murillo, and, in fact, be not able to surpass a vulgar daub. He may even consider himself wealthy only to find, when he launches into a greater world, that his slender purse, so satisfactory in Salt Creek, Arkansas, is a mere moloch in Newport or on Wall street. But in the matter of happiness his judgment is supreme. If he thinks himself as happy as any man who ever lived HE IS, and no man can gain say him. The reason for this is not far to seek nor difficult to find. Wisdom, health, ability and kindred things to be desired are only partially under the control of one's thought, but the measure of a man's happiness is entirely in his own mind. One is wise, or strong, or talented, in comparison with others. He is happy in and of himself. His peace of mind is not to be reckoned by any outside standards. It is strictly an internal matter, and, as such, it is entirely and absolutely within his own control. He may be poor of purse, sickly in body, destitute of friends, mediocre in talent; yet if he does but possess the will to be happy, no hunger, or rage, or ill health can interfere with the decree of his mind. Thus it is that men have sung psalms in prison, festered over a thorn in the foot and spoken cheerily within the hampered of a sheriff's sale. Thus it is that a poor invalid, prostrate upon her back for 40 years, has been known to radiate sunshine throughout an entire city, or an unlettered blacksmith has bound a thousand neighbors to him with fetters of good will more strong than any he has ever shaped of brass; and thus it is that a merry shoemaker gets from life and gives to it more than a sour millionaire.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Elgin Daily News: A great deal of criticism was leveled at Joe Cannon when he was speaker of the house. His czar like rule over the body was the target for attacks from all kinds of people of every political party. But President Wilson has his autocratic bent to a finish. The scene and its settings have simply been shifted from the speaker's chair to the president. Yet it is interesting to note in passing that Wilson's method is the only possible way in which he can handle the various dissonant factions of the party he represents.

Elgin Daily News: We have two ex-presidents extant. The one connected with a great university, earning a small but honorable living and instructing young men in the science of good government and upright citizenship. He is happy in his work, a credit to himself and the institution he serves, an honor to the high office from which he was retired. The other is busy at the game of politics for his own aggrandizement. He left his home in the far east to prosecute a poor country editor way up in the wilds of Michigan for charging him with drunkenness. We might expect such a thing from a young politician not yet hardened to the knocks and criticism of the political game, but not such a childish proceeding from one who has been two times president of the United States. His whole mission seems to be one of tearing down rather than building up.

Pertinent Question. Little Arthur's mother had been telling him the story of a ferocious bear, and after rambling over it awhile he suddenly exclaimed, "I hope I was walking in the woods and a big bear came along and ate me up—how's my soul going to get out of that bear's stomach to get to heaven?"

And He Sat and Thought. Youth—"Oh, everything bodes one nowadays. Worst of it is, when I'm bored, I can't help showing it." Lady—"Oh, but you should learn to disguise it under a mask of gaiety, like me."—Punch.

In Love With Teacher at 6. Brinkie, six years old, is a kindergarten pupil. "Brinkie," the fond teacher asked one evening, "do you like your teacher?" "No," came the reply. "I love her."

Tact Won Position. "How on earth did Mrs. Millruns ever buy her way into society? With her money?" "With that and tact." "Tact?" "Yes. She always lost at bridge."

Had a Good Start. "Pimmon is living ahead of his income." "You are right. If Pimmon were to stand still for five years, I don't believe his income would ever take him."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Plea for Protection of Fish.

A call for the protection of game fish that inhabit the streams and rivers of Illinois was sent forth Monday night by the Illinois Fish Conservation society, which met at the Hotel Sherman to take action seeking the passage of their bill in the state legislature protecting the state fisheries and streams.

It was stated at the meeting that there is a bill in the state legislature which, if enacted, will allow commercial fishing of black bass in all the waters of the state the year round, and also prohibiting the sale of whitefish and trout in November and December only. The bill was termed "malicious" and a call was sent out to all fishermen, sportsmen, wholesale and retail fish dealers to oppose its passage.

New Postal Orders.

Back stamping of ordinary mail will be discontinued. An order was issued by Postmaster General Burleson stating that hereafter only the registered and special delivery mail will be back stamped. Hereafter ordinary letters have and the back stamp mark attached to them, but this has required so much time in all the offices of the country that the postmaster general has decided to abolish the practice.

Another order discontinues the use of the special ten cent registry stamp and provides that no additional registry stamps shall be printed after the present supply is exhausted. Hereafter ordinary postage stamps may be used for the prepayment of registry fees.

Protests Killing of Birds.

Millions of wild birds are slaughtered annually in the northern part of Illinois in defiance of the state game laws, according to a statement presented at Washington to the senate finance committee last week. The skins are shipped abroad and reimported into the United States as plumage for women's hats. The author of the statement is Ralph H. Poole of Chicago, who is interested in the protection of birds, particularly for the reason that the birds destroy the enemies of farm crops. Mr. Poole transmitted to Senator Lewis a strong argument in support of the provision of the Underwood bill prohibiting the importation of wild birds' plumage.

After the Reckless Chauffeurs.

As a result of the increasing number of automobile accidents at the railroad grade crossings throughout the country the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company has issued an order to all crossing flagmen and watchmen, the Railway is informed, to guard against careless chauffeurs. They have also been advised to obtain the numbers of automobiles driven by reckless chauffeurs and file a report with the superintendent of the division.

When Is a Pig a Hog?

An indignant taxpayer in Minnesota writes to the attorney general of that state and asks:

"Now, can you tell me when a pig is a hog? How old and of what weight has he to be to be a hog, or is a pig born a hog? Now, a lamb is not born a sheep and a pup is not born a dog."

The attorney general has taken the matter under advisement.

Trees "Shot to Death."

A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

SYNOPSIS.

Major McDonald, commanding an army of men, is called to the frontier to suppress an Indian outbreak. He is a man of high character and is well known to the people of the frontier. He is a man of high character and is well known to the people of the frontier. He is a man of high character and is well known to the people of the frontier.

What could the woman possibly want of him? To explain the past? To justify herself? He knew enough already, and desired to know no more. Could she hope—natural coquette that she was—to regain her hold upon him? The man smiled grimly, upon her. He was not a man to be trifled with. He was not a man to be trifled with. He was not a man to be trifled with.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

Hamlin stood a moment silent, half inclined to ask another question, but crushing back the inclination. Then he walked down the hall to the quarters assigned "M" troop, and across to his bed in the far corner. There were only a few of the men present, most of whom were busily engaged at a game of cards, and he sat down where he could gaze out the window and think. Here was a new complication, a fresh puzzle to be unraveled. He had never expected this woman to come into his life again; she had been a blurred, unpleasant memory, a bit of his past which he had supposed was blotted out forever. Mrs. Dupont—then she had not married Le Ferre after all! He daily wondered why yet was not altogether surprised. Even as he turned this fact over and over in his mind, speculating upon it, he became aware of a man leaving the rear door of McDonald's quarters, and advancing back of officers' row towards the barracks. As the fellow drew near, Hamlin recognized the soldier who had been driving the carriage. A moment later the man entered the room, spoke to the group of card players, and then came straight across toward him.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Meeting.
Hamlin's first impulse was to ignore the note, trusting his position in the ranks would be a sufficient barrier to prevent any chance meeting, and he believed his stay at that garrison would be only a brief one. Sheridan was evidently preparing for an early offensive campaign, and it was rumored on all sides that the Seventh Cavalry had been selected for active field service. Indeed, the rumor was so persistent that the consolidation of the regiment from scattered posts must mean this. Any day might bring orders, and he could easily avoid this Mrs. Dupont until then. Except for a faint curiosity, the Sergeant felt no inclination to meet the woman. Whatever influence she might have once extended over him had been thoroughly overcome by years and absence. Even the unexpected sight of her again—seemingly as beautiful as ever—had failed to awaken the spell of the past. It was almost with a thrill of delight that Hamlin realized this—that he was in truth utterly free of her influence. There had been times when he had anticipated such a possible meeting with dread; when he had doubted his own heart, the strength of his will to resist. But now he knew he stood absolutely independent and could laugh at his wife. She who had once been his "mistress," who had been the all that had made of youth—had become only a dead memory. Between

CHAPTER XVII.

At Cross-Purposes.
She sat for a moment silent, gazing at the street, but breathing heavily. There had been a great deal of talk about the past, but it was all so distant, so unimportant, that it was difficult to determine exactly what course she had best pursue. Realizing the bold she had taken, she felt that she must not allow her mind to be troubled by the thought of the past. She must not allow her mind to be troubled by the thought of the past. She must not allow her mind to be troubled by the thought of the past.

CHAPTER XVIII.

His Name is Hamlin; I Am Here on the Lady's Invitation.
Within to reflect over her figure, revealing in softened outline the beauty of her features, the glossy brightness of her hair. She was in evening dress, a light shade of blue, with a white collar and white cuffs. She was in evening dress, a light shade of blue, with a white collar and white cuffs. She was in evening dress, a light shade of blue, with a white collar and white cuffs.

her a table-tata." He got up, and peered through his glasses across the room. "Here, Mollie; damn that slaty beam. Will one of you get down the ladder, please? No, you come here, Mollie. You run over to the Palace and tell Mrs. Dupont the feller is here waiting. Hold on now, not so fast; wait till O'm done tellin' yer. Say that to her alone—do yer mind that, ye say—nobody else is to hear what yer say; stay there till yer get a chance to whisper it to her. Now exit."

Hamlin hesitated, watching the boy disappear. "At the Palace—the dance hall across the street?" he asked incredulously. "Sure," indifference, relighting his pipe. "Officers' ball; couldn't break in with a can-opener unless you had a key. Guards at both ends, sergeant taking tickets, an' Third Regiment Band makin' music. Hell of a swell affair, got guests from Leavenworth, Wallace, and all around. Every room I got to full an' runnin' over—say, there are fellows over there in them fowl-spread coats as though he knew he was. If the feller ever get sight of 'em on the street there'll be a hot time. Say, ain't that the limit? Injuns out there, ain't they? A dog, as you say, and swells dancin' here in swaller-tails like this yer Boston."

He was still talking when Hamlin crossed the narrow hall and entered the dimly-lighted, unoccupied parlor. The side window was open, a slight breeze stirred the heavy curtain, and the Sergeant stepped outside on to the dark porch. There was a bench close to the rail and he sat down to wait. A gleam of light from the Palace fell across the western end, but the remainder of the porch lay in shadow, although he could look up the street, and see the people jostling back and forth in front of the Foodlee Dock. The sound of mingled voices was continuous, occasionally punctuated by laughter, or an unrestrained outburst of profanity. Once shots echoed from out the din, but created no apparent excitement, and a little later a dozen horsemen appeared, galloping down the street, scattering the crowd, their revolvers snapping. Some altercation arose opposite and a voice called loudly for the guard, but the trouble soon ceased with the clump of boots, dying away in the distance, the regimental band noisily blaring out a waltz. Hamlin, immersed in his own thoughts, scarcely observed the turmoil, but leaned, arms on railing, gazing out to the darkness. Something mysterious came from the past, had he not said, he was wondering how he should greet her when she came; speculating on her purpose in sending for him.

It seemed as though he waited a long time before the curtain at the window was thrust aside and the lady emerged, the slight rustling of her dress appraising him of her presence. The curtain still held slightly back by her hand permitted the light from Illustration of a man and a woman in a room.

"Do you think you can describe me by such play-acting?" she asked eagerly. "You are no man of wood. Tell me, is there anything you care to ask me, after all these years?" Hamlin lifted his eyes and looked at her, stirred into sudden interest by the almost caressing sound of the soft voice. "Yes," he said slowly, "there are some things I should like to know, if I thought you would answer frankly."

"Then why are you Mrs. Dupont, instead of Mrs. Le Ferre?" "Then my guess is true, and you are not so devoid of curiosity as you seem. My answer? Why, it is simply itself—because I was never Mrs. Le Ferre, but an rightfully Mrs. Dupont."

"Do you mean you were never married to Le Ferre?" "That's what I mean?" "She shrugged her white shoulders. "That would not surprise me in the least. 'Twas a characteristic of the man to keep his own counsel. How came you to believe so easily?" "Believe? What else could I believe? Everything served to substantiate his belief. He was on his feet, practically drummed out of camp. There was nothing left for me to live for, my wife was dead. I was practically dead. Then you, better confessing came."

"Wait," she interrupted, "that letter was nature's way. It was put up under compulsion. I wrote you again, later, but you had gone, disappeared utterly. I wanted to explain, but your letter never even told me know where you were—do not know yet."

He leaned his body against the rail, and looked at her in the dim light. Her eyes were full of tears, and her face was pale. He felt a great deal of sympathy for her, and he felt a great deal of sympathy for her. He felt a great deal of sympathy for her, and he felt a great deal of sympathy for her. He felt a great deal of sympathy for her, and he felt a great deal of sympathy for her.

"Yes, I realize it is too late for explanations," she acknowledged, "so I will not trouble you with them. You know, however, that I did not desert you for that man. This was my principle purpose in sending for you."

"Do you mean to leave me?" she asked, watching her closely, noted it. "No," she replied, "the only reason I came here, commanding the regiment which should have been yours. Within three months he had converted all the family property into cash, and he had departed. There was a rumor that he was engaged in the cattle business."

"You actually expect me to believe all this rubbish?" she asked, "the plans—were not, indeed, a part of them?" "I am indifferent as to what you believe," she replied, "but you are ungenerously to express yourself freely. Why should you say that?"

Fire Without Flame.
An English engineer named Boos had invented a way to have fire without flame. His apparatus consisted of a porous plate or mass of fire-retarding fragments, within which he mixed inflammable gas and air in the right proportions. When the gas is first turned on and ignited it burns with a flame at the surface of the plate. When the air is turned on the flame disappears, but the heat increases. A temperature of 2,000 degrees is claimed.

The Salvation of Children—A Sermon to Parents

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D.D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT: "It is not the will of our Father which is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish." Matt. 18, 14.

I love Jesus because he loved children. I love him for many other things—chiefly because he ministers to me daily of his grace through his word and spirit. But I have a peculiar interest in the child, for him whom my thoughts dwell on a little child.

"When I think of that sweet story of old. When Jesus had been among men, how he called little children as lambs to him. I should like to have been with Him."

In this chapter of Matthew he takes a little child and sets him in the midst of his disciples, not merely to teach these disciples a lesson in humility, but for the child's sake as well as their sake. He has something to teach them concerning the child, which they never knew, and could not have known except for him. He tells them such little ones are not to be despised or set at naught, for the most transcendent of reason, namely, that the Son of Man came into the world to save them, and that it is not the will of his Father that one of these little ones should be lost.

Christianity and the Child.
The world cared nothing for little children before Jesus came and was each in his own way. In the olden Rome, childhood had no rights other than those which the sentiment of the father might stilly concede to the child. He might allow him to murder it as he chose. Greece set the example to Rome in this respect, since Spartan children were some of the first to be put to death. But until their life-blood ran out upon its steps. It was not until Christianity had begun to affect the Roman empire that love for the child found expression in literature, or that care for them became the custom of the age. There is a great encouragement to us in the fact that the child is as precious in the sight of God as that of his parent. It was Jesus who taught us this, not that the holy name should be praised. Let us act on this encouragement and bring our children to the Lord that they may be saved.

Let us remember that our children need salvation, for they were shapen in iniquity and conceived in sin. The Fifth-hundred Psalm teaches us this. It is not disobedience in their part that thus exposed them to divine judgment, but that which preceded it, that which was hereditary and common to all the race. That sin is in their being from the lives they live when they come to moral consciousness. Are they not selfish from a very early age, and is not selfishness a sin? Are they not disobedient, and is not disobedience a sin? Do they not take things which belong to others? And is not this theft? Do they not covet and falsify? Do they not lie? Do they not swear? And is not this the spirit of murder? There is need of the regeneration of the Holy Spirit in the child as truly as in the parent.

The Responsibility of Parents.
We parents have very much to do with the salvation of our children. First of all we can set a guard about them, on the principle that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." We can keep our children, innocent of many things by warding off the approach of evil. It should not be necessary for the state to make such encroachments upon the functions of the home as it is now doing.

In the second place, we can set an example to our children, an example of self-denial, of obedience, and of devotion to God. With a child reverence a God who is never worshipped in his own home? Can God be exalted in the home if the child is not reverent? His name is profaned by their parents? Will children be likely to go to church or Sunday school whose elders seldom or never go? Will they love purity where the opposite is before them in the amusements and reading matter of the household? Will they speak the truth who witness untruth and falsehood in those they are supposed to honor?

In the third place, we can preach the gospel to our children, and let them love and faithfully talk with them about their sin and about the Saviour who died to take away their sin. We can argue them to contentment, and pray for them, and better yet, pray with them that they may be saved.

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I could hardly stand up."

Compound and now I am strong, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and walk to town and back and not get tired. I would give you five dollars for a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be able to do my work without it. That's what I mean for that."—Mrs. HARRIS GREENE, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.
Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be able to do my work without it. That's what I mean for that."—Mrs. HARRIS GREENE, Nebo, Illinois.

"Yes, it does seem so," replied Mrs. Crocker, thoughtfully. "I understand it comes from a brewery in the neighborhood."

MEMORY IMPROVED.
Since Leaving Off Coffee.
Many persons suffer from poor memory who never suspect coffee has anything to do with it. The drug—caffeine—in coffee, acts injuriously on the nerves and heart, causing imperfect circulation, too much blood in the brain at one time, too little in another part. This often causes a dullness which makes a good memory nearly impossible. I am nearly seventy years old and did not know that coffee was the cause of the stomach and heart trouble I suffered from for many years, until about four years ago," writes a Kansas woman.
"A kind neighbor induced me to quit coffee and try Postum. I had been suffering severely and was greatly reduced in weight. After using Postum a little while I found myself improving. My heart beats became regular and now I seldom ever notice any symptoms of my old stomach trouble at all. My nerves are steady and my memory decidedly better than while I was using coffee. I like the taste of Postum fully as well as coffee."

SAW FALL OF PAGAN ROME

Stones of the Coliseum immortalize Today the Triumph of a Christianity That Lives.
Christianity is crystallized in the Coliseum and St. Peter's. In the former by the triumph of the martyrs; in the latter, by the dedication of art in the worship of God, writes Bishop Ottomero.
Come with me along the Via Sacra, past the Forum and the Arch of Titus.

But a step, and we are at the Coliseum, pressed in between the Colian and Palatine hills, the Arch of Constantine and the Vespasian. Here is densely packed; the wild beasts paw their cages, impatient for the feast; the Christians to the lions! "The Christians to the lions!" A spring, a growl, a quiver and another bear has gone to God. Every brick, every stone, every corner of this mighty ruin has been sanctified by the blood shed there. Here a Pellicia and Perpetua, a Cyprian and Pancras died; here Rome brutalized herself, and within these walls strove to crush the Christian. The emperor, there, the nobility of Rome, the people, the very God is densely packed; the wild beasts paw their cages, impatient for the feast; the Christians to the lions! "The Christians to the lions!" A spring, a growl, a quiver and another bear has gone to God. Every brick, every stone, every corner of this mighty ruin has been sanctified by the blood shed there. Judging Contest.
The "Hoof and Horn club" is the student animal husbandry organization at the University of Illinois, and although one of the youngest of student societies, is one of the most active. On May 10 it will hold a judging contest and will award medals to the winners in each of the different classes. A large number of students has entered the contest and undoubtedly the competition will be lively. The club will be addressed on May 11 by Mr. David Pyrie, superintendent of live stock at Ohio College of agriculture.

For Enamel Pans.
When washing enamel pans never use soda to remove stains, but apply salt with a soft cloth, rinsing the pan afterward with warm water.

Most Children Have Worms.
Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, weakness, constipation, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Pevish, ill-tempered, fretful children, who lose and grind their teeth, have bad breath and colicky pain, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists or by mail, Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.—Adv.

Current Grewing a Greek Monopoly.
Many efforts have been made to grow so-called Greek currants in other countries, but always without success, and these very small, very sweet and seedless grapes continue to be a monopoly of certain districts in Greece, where they constitute the chief agricultural industry. The yield in an average year is about 160,000 tons.
As to Modesty.
Modesty didn't make dress. Dress made modesty. Only it should be borne in mind that once modesty has developed the conventions cannot be suddenly and radically violated without social degradation. Modesty isn't something that doesn't matter. It does matter.—Exchange

Missionary Society Meeting.
The June meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church was held at the home of Mrs. John Robertson on Tuesday. There were 23 adults present. The topic for consideration was a review of the work the ladies have been doing called, "China's New Day."
Mrs. Robert Mickey was in charge of the program and Miss Zola Mikoy sang, with Miss Graham at the piano. The devotional services were in charge of the leader.
Quite a number took part in the singing, embracing besides those mentioned Mesdames Winter, Graham, Cameron, Schwenn, Smith, Lytle, Cowen, Wade, Calkins, Patterson, Harnden and Miss Harden. The meeting was very interesting, and made increasingly so by the kindly hospitality of the hostess, Mrs. Robertson, who served dainty refreshments to her guests. There will be no further meetings of the society until the first Tuesday of September. Mrs. Matison is president, Mrs. E. S. Smith secretary and Miss Hattie Freye treasurer.
The ladies of the society raise and turn over each year to the general treasury something over one hundred dollars to help carry on the work in foreign fields.
Father Lorenzian Has Assistant.
At the morning services at St. Ann's church last Sunday morning Father Lorenzian announced that Bishop McDonough has decided not to make any change in the parishes of which he has been pastor for the present. He will remain in full charge, with Fathers Gies and McGuire as assistants. Father McGuire was recently ordained at Chicago. With the help of the additional assistant Father Lorenzian will be better able to take care of the six parishes over which he presides.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.
The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Ereland, of Bath, Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—hot an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists, or by mail, Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. Recommended by Barrington Pharmacy.

Unique Symbol on Gravestones.
The gravestones between Kennebunkport and Cape Porpoise of one Tri-gram Tapsley exhibit an uncommon and yet most sensible idea. Affixed to the stone in a silver case is inclosed an old-fashioned daguerrotype of the young man, portretted from the elements by a cover. One with such a name could certainly to have been a lover of books.
Best Cellars.
An eastern author, it is said, makes a good income by rating mansions in the basement of his house. This shall not tempt us, however, to make any remarks concerning "best cellars."—Chicago Tribune

Took Horse From Church Shed.
Some person, name is not to a certainty known, though suspected, untied a horse hitched to a buggy in the shed back of the Methodist church on last Sunday night and drove off. The owner did not know of it until some time after the church service was out. Later on the horse was led into Pingle's livery barn, the party leading it stating that it had been found tied on Linton street road between the water tank and the cemetery. Possibly the person guilty of taking the horse from the shed without the owner's consent did not realize that he was liable to arrest for horse stealing.
Auburness says a repetition of this offense will be visited with punishment if the culprit is caught.
