Libby's Veal Loaf
A Picnic Favorite

Good at home, too. So handy for a dainty lunch when you don't want to cook a meal. As a Sandwich Meat it has no equal; there are a dozen other Libby's Lunch Specialties as good as this. Try Libby's Veal Loaf. Fry golden brown in small quantity of butter. Garnish with cream.

SCALP TROUBLE FOR YEARS

268 Harrison St., Elvira, Ohio.—"My case was a scalp trouble. I first noticed small lumps on my scalp which commenced to itch and I would scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut. "I tried everything I could get hold of, and — but received no cure until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scales commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap and rub on the Cuticura Ointment. I received benefit in a couple of weeks and was cured in two months." (Signed) F. J. Dasher, Jan. 28, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Samples of each free, with 25-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

FOR SUMMER NEGLIGEE

MANY AND VARIED ARE THE DAINY THINGS OFFERED.

Airy Chiffon Jackets Designed Expressly to Be Worn to the Hot Weather—Washable Fabrics May Be Employed.

During the very warm days when one is inspired with no loftier ambition than to keep cool by looting about and slipping needles, the lovely thin negligees with airy chiffon jackets become things of beauty and a joy for ever, being designed expressly for this purpose. One positively needs these dainty things if one expects to look well while keeping cool at the same time, and indeed they seem simple enough to run up at home at little trouble and expense.

The petticoat part doesn't matter in particular, for one wears what one happens to have. It may be a messaline one, taffeta or lingerie, but it should in most cases be white. Crude de chine makes the nicest kind of a negligee petticoat if you are making one specially for this purpose. However, the matinee or jacket portion is what we give most of our attention to.

In the sketch, pastel flowered chiffon is used for the pretty negligee jacket. The blouse portion is cut with elbow-length kimono sleeves and crisscrossed fronts. The sleeves are draped low around the waist and tucked into a double-edged ruffling of fine white lace. The lace ruffling is used to outline the entire wrap, and at the neck forms an outstanding medallion collar. The lower part is cut away in front and rounded across the back, extending half way to the knees.

A broad fold of aure blue satin is draped low around the waist and then up under the bust in front, where it is tied in a large, flat bow that hooks across the opening.

A washable negligee can be made from the same design by using some of the pretty flowered damasks, nylons and satines. These, too, are dainty and cool, decidedly inexpensive.

Wash Silk Waist.
Cool and comfortable are the separate waists of white wash silk. A heavy cord of white lace is fast to the low-cut, turnover collar.

SLIPPERS OF BROCADED SATIN

Intended for Wear With Summer Negligees, They May Quite Easily Be Made at Home.

To wear with the summer negligees the shops are showing dainty slippers fashioned of brocaded satin. These are rather expensive if your desire to purchase them, but if you are clever at needlework they can be duplicated at home for very much less.

First purchase a pair of soles the required size and bind them with a fancy silk braid of the predominating color used in the brocade. When choosing the brocades select a design which will look well on the top of the foot.

From heavy muslin cut a piece of material to form the toe portion of the slipper. This must fit smoothly to the sole and be able to move with the foot. Using this as a guide, cut two similar pieces from the brocaded satin and baste the two together. Outline the design with twisted silk of the same tone and improve the slipper toe by embroidering tiny flowers here and there.

To the back of the muslin whipstitch a lining of white silk and bind the top with braid to match the sole. Join the toe portion to the sole with strong silk thread, whipstitching the two together.

They are quickly made and the result speaks for itself.

A case can be fashioned to contain these slippers from brocaded satin of the same design. Make it to resemble a large envelope and place the slippers between the two halves.

LOOSE COATS CUT STRAIGHT

Masculine Lines Adopted for the Newest Wraps That Have Taken Popular Fancy.

If the pretty made at the shore this summer, or on the steamer if you are going abroad, wear loose straight coats with "no shape or make" to them, do not look surprised—even if you are. For they will simply be wearing the newest thing in wraps—the very last word in togetherness.

They are particularly adapted for younger girls and women, these new coats, and very jaunty they are, with a certain boyish style that is most fetching. Made without collar, they are curled chinchilla cloth, they are suitable for much hard wear and on many occasions when the "wind blows cold."

As to the cut, they are quite straight and simple, with a wide, straight, and very jaunty they are, with a certain boyish style that is most fetching. Made without collar, they are curled chinchilla cloth, they are suitable for much hard wear and on many occasions when the "wind blows cold."

White coats, of course, are very fashionable for the summer and very becoming, but the new blue shades (those lighter, dull tones) and the soft pretty rose tones are also very smart. And maidens whose complexions will stand the test will like the bright yellow coats, for this hue is also included in the list.

Landscape Costumes.

A landscape costume is a novelty made of soft silk with a pattern upon it. It looks as if copied from an ancient Japanese print, and, though the design is vague, anyone possessed of imagination can see a tree and bush, a fringed pond bank, a house and horizon. Such a costume is made up into what is called the wrapper "waist" skirt, which consists of two straight lengths of very soft fine material, gathered close together, and looking rather full, but not bulky, about the hips, and falling in at the ankles, where it must be invariably weighted.

PRETTY HOUSE GOWN.

Though the lines of this little bodice are simple, there is a deal of work on it, as any dressmaker will attest. It is made of white chiffon, laid over black silk chiffon, and is trimmed with shadow lace, corded piping and rhinestone buttons. It accompanies a sprinkled suit of dove gray lamé, a silk and wool fabric that is graceful and clinging in character.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

The plain skirt is no more. Plaids, drapery, gathers, insets, panels, tucks—every form of self-trimming has been resorted to in the styles for spring and summer. One of the most attractive models is made of flannel cord velvet, with a lining of smoke-gray charmes.

Red, with gray, makes a beautiful color scheme for all enveloping evening wrap. One of the season's most attractive models is made of flannel cord velvet, with a lining of smoke-gray charmes.

The fashionable line is the white with a touch of color. It sometimes comes in a border print or embroidery, again as a girle or color, or as a decorative button. Sometimes the color is in the shape of a yard of bright color intermingling with white.

A Practical Gift.

Her chief, composed of five members besides herself, each gave to the bride a beautiful gown for a skirt. The upper part of the dress is made of a plain material, and arranged so that the flounces could be buttoned on, or taken off, as desired.
