It is to these eight that the people of this committy owe especial thanks this committy of the series of the committy of the series of the committy of the series of the committy of the committee of the Grebe and F. H. Playe. It is to these eight that the people of this commun-ity owe especial thanks this year for making it possible for them to enjoy the privilege of a first class series of lectures and entertainments twice daily for six days. They are among the leading business men of the village, and having taken time from their own work to derote to this project without any remuneration other than the satisfaction they get from being responsible faction they get from being responsible beind, the satisfaction they get from being responsible for supplying this village with an upfor six days. They are among the to-date chautauqua, they are deserv-ing of particular credit. Hats off to

The Barrington Lincoln Chautauqua is not to be belistled. While the talent may not be the best in the world it is far better than this village could sesure in any other manner very much better than any "one night stand" pany, coming here on its own initia-could afford to supply.

se who have attended even a few Those who have attended even a few of the meetings this year appreciate the fact that the chautauqua has been giving its audiences many times the price of admission fee in amusement, entertainment and instruction, but there are some people who have re-fused to even view the outside of the tent for fear they would be "converted," ething of the kind would be one to them. They think nothing but imperance lectures are delivered, and that it is a "church affair." If they have read the reports of the meetings in the REVIEW carefully they will see In the Review carefully they will see how be'ly they are mistaken. Arabia's Great Desert.

In Arabia it seems that there is a tract of land unexplored which is nearly five times as large as Great Britain. Probably there is no more desolate wakte to be found in the entire globe than that which is called the "dwelling of the void." Not a single river is estimated to flow throughout its entire 400,000 square miles.

In Company.

In mixed company, among acquaint agrees and strangers, endeavor to lear something from all. He swift to hear something from all. He swift to hear something from all. He swift to hear better your taporance and perhaps of fend some who are present.—Isaac Watter.

"Darling," said the count, "I have loved you from the moment I first teasted my eyes upon you." "It is very kind of you to say so," replied the daughter of the Aemrican millionate," but I am compelled to the form you that I wouldn't give ten cents to become a countess." "Well, please don't engage yourself to anybody else until I can communicate with my brother, who is a marquis. We must get you into our family somehow."

Two Sides to the Shleid.

The Cincinnati Raquirer says that married men live longer than bachalors because it is so easy for the tormer to increase their pleasures. When they strike a streak of luck they feel twice as fine as bachelors because they add their wife's joy to their own. A sophistical argument, which sounds well enough as long as you suppress the fact that bad luck goes' double, too.

Ornamenta Lest Longest.

Ornamenta last longer than anything else that man makes. There are brooches and necklaces in museums more than 40 centuries old. Monaments, perhaps, stand second, and houses third. The first for turniture is shorter still. There is very little furshorter still. There is very little furyouth the year 1600. Picture has tonger than furniture, and there are paintings still in fair condition which have weathered six centuries of life.
