Daylight at All Moura.

Daylight at All Moura.

Dr. Herbert E. Ives of London has invented daylight, he says. Scientific men have worked for year trying to accompilab this task. Doctor Ives has been at work for at least a dozen, and he asserts he has finally produced a light which is in every way equal to accompilab this task. Doctor Ives has been at work for at least a dozen, and he asserts he has finally produced a light which is in every way equal to a special minendescent lamp with a special minendescent through a series of delicately colored screens, so a firanged that the average rays which are not found in the north lighter eliminated, and the effect, it is said, is that of a perfect harmony of light similar in every way to the rays of the sun.

Waid Had Helped.
Young Van Winkin waited nervously in the parior for Julia to appear.
He had seen string there, wideling his tunnibus man had an hour. Finally a step was breakful and hour rose to his feet expectantly.
But it was not Julia. It was her maid.
"Marie." said the impatient young man, "what keeps your mistress so long! Is she making up her mind whether shell seen so nort." "No. str." answered the maid with a wise sunisk, "It un't her mind she's making up."

Bhe Scored.

He was trying to make up their quarrel and came home with a package held behind him. "Look bere, dearest." he said. "Tregot something here for some one I think more of than anyone eise in the world."

"A box of cigara, I presume," she said. sweetly.
