Good and Sufficient Reasons Why Man-ried Man Lives Longer Than the Bachelor.

ried Man Lives Longer Than the Bachelor.

It is a good thing for a man to have a wife to look after his ingoings and outcomings—to enforce requiarity in his mode of living—to see that he is clothed according to the requirements of the temperature, and takes his understanding to the temperature, and takes hours, and gets good means at stated hours, and gets good means at stated hours, and gets good means at stated hours, and gets good means the same that is under more of less supervision as under more of less supervision as under more of less supervision as under more of less supervision filt, and in which he is surrounded by influences tending to prevent distances and douclary of the same that the same influence to marriage and family life. The married man is supervised for his own good, and, having added incentives to self-restraint and to the care of his health, he has a lower mortality than the bachelor—Journal of the American Medical Association.
