STATE "MOVIES"

BOOST PURE FOOD

FREE SHOW AND TRAVELING MUSIC ORGANIZED BY CONGRESSMAN MATTHEW FORD

WILL VISIT EVERY CITY

Experts Will Lecture and Inspire Citizens to Help Towns Clean Up and Keep Clean.

Why is the city a pest? Why is it dirty and dead? What should the housewife do to make sure the food she buys is wholesome? What are the danger spots in your community and what can be done to clean them up?

Every resident of Illinois would like to know the answers to the above questions and the state food department is going to tell the answers in a campaign of education just inaugurated as pure food.

A moving picture show and traveling music in new being rehearsed in Chicago in preparation for a pure food crusade covering the entire state, which is intended to place Illinois in the front rank of pure food states.

Matthew's Original Plan. W. Scott Matthews, state food commissioner, has explained the show, with the support of Dr. Wiley and others of the most progressive pure food authorities of the nation. He has engaged Dr. John Owens, former educational secretary of the Indiana state board of health, to be the show director and has enlisted the aid of the United States government and obtained the support of the government experts to travel with the show.

Initiations Being Received. Initiations are now being received from city councils, women's clubs, commercial associations and other organizations that want the pure food show to visit their home cities and point the way to clean up and keep clean the milk supply and foodstuffs of the community.

The only expense borne by the show is the cost of the travel of a car for the lectures and exhibit, driven by the city's own automobile and gasoline. Requests to be put on the itinerary should be sent to W. Scott Matthews, Carbondale, Ill.

Museum Is Complete. The museum exhibits are comprehensive, showing food, good and bad, properly and improperly handled; pictures illustrative of the food industry and better sanitary devices for food shops and the home. Addition will be made to it by food supplies gathered from the locality in which the show is given, to make it interpretative of local conditions. The lecture course will cover such subjects as the perils of the common house fly, the economic loss to the food industry, the value of local food products by women's clubs, industrial sanitation, hygiene of the house, children's diseases in relation to the food supply, and other subjects within the purview of the food commissioner.

The lectures will be illustrated by many fine slides and moving pictures, showing practically how the community house fly grows in filth and carries filthy diseases to the baby's body and to other members of the family.

Another picture shows the food and how it is milk production, and how one day's work learned to his great commercial success that with when produced under unsanitary conditions may carry with it disease and death.

Still another "movie" shows the food actually for the proper care and feeding of little children that they may be safeguarded against disease.

It is proposed to take this work into the various communities of the state on the initiative of some club, organization, or individual, or a head of the school and the community life in general, to make a sanitary survey of the city, address women's clubs and merchants' associations, and to urge the passage of local sanitary ordinances where the need of them is apparent.

Model Ordinances Offered. These proposed ordinances will sit at the elimination of the fly pest, the protection of food products from dust and dirt and the correction of unsanitary conditions of the dairy farms. It is proposed also to look carefully into the character of the milk supply, and is content to cooperate with the local authorities to prevent the sale of pure food, and better sanitation.

Marching Act Organized. The department follows it will be to the interest of those engaged in manufacturing and handling of food products to have these conditions made better. In other words, it is to have the best business in the pure food and sanitary laws of the state and it is to be improved and the action that better health conditions among the people is to be brought about by more careful observation of these laws.

Remember the kids.
