HOSE were stirring times on our western frontier just after the War of Independence. Then the name of Simon Girty was the most hated, reviled and feared along the whole border; Hamilton, the British commander at Detroit, was stirring the Indians to revolt, and death lurked in every shadow of the forest.

It's just the setting for a real Pariah story—the kind that only he can write—the swinging, thrilling kind like "Molly McDonald" or "Keith of the Border." When we tell you that "The Maid of the Forest" is every bit as good as these two, we know you'll lose no time in reading it.

Begins This Week

Ball Game Well Attended.
The double header played here Monday afternoon at the Spenser park was well attended considering the weather conditions. The first game between the old Omnis Village club team and Grassy lake was won by the locals 10 to 1. The "old boys" played a star game and some of the spectators claimed that they played a better game Monday than some that they played when they were a regular organization. A triple play in the first inning was easily the feature of the game although the hitting, base stealing and coaching of Leppelt, Hutchison, Bheren, Wasserman and others were good.

The second game was between a team composed of high school and Dupont Athletic club players and the V. Butler Paper company team of Chicago. The game was played until the eighth inning when the Chicago players displayed a decision of Umpire Max Lines and withdrew from the game. The Barrington team was leading at the time by the score of nine to four.

Entertainers Ladies' Aid Society.
Mrs. John Page presented the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church at her home Tuesday afternoon. The matter of holding a bazaar was discussed and it was decided to have one the last part of November or the first of December. A committee was appointed to plan for it. Mr. Page served refreshments to her guests and proved to be a very delightful entertainer. Mrs. Mattison read several selections.

President Detective Stricken.
Lafayette Brown, who is visiting with his sister, Mrs. Adelaide Jones at Barton, Kansas, has been stricken with apoplexy and no hope is extended for his recovery. Mr. Beuthner is a resident of Crystal Lake and has been in the employ of the Chicago & North Western railway for a number of years as a special detective.

COMMERCIAL AND GUNS.

The press and commercial associations of the United States are making much ado over the opportunity afforded for an expansion of the commerce of the United States because of the host new paralysis of Europe.

While pages of the metropolitan dailies are filled with the wonderful opportunities ahead of us as a nation. The association of the United States to a world preponderance of power is hailed from all sides as an accomplished fact.

We are pictured by the optimists as a nation at peace with the world and with not a ripple in the skies.

The possibilities are indeed great provided we approach them with some degree of wisdom.

We must not expect foreign governments to quietly submit to an abrogation of their commerce. They will unquestionably seek means for regaining that which they have lost and we have gained, possibly even to the extent of involving us in war in endeavor to regain it.

And there lies our menace.

We are not in position to face such a war. We have neither the guns nor the ammunition for equipping a large army such as would be required for repelling an invasion by a first class power.

Foreign governments can place millions of troops in the field, but we can arm and equip only a few hundred thousands.

Is it reasonable to suppose that these governments would submit to the loss of their commerce without striking back?

If we are to build up a merchant marine we must have the means of protecting once it is afloat.

We do not need a large standing army but we do need guns and ammunition for use in an emergency, for without these we would be helpless.

Congress should supply arms and equipment sufficient for at least a million men, for with a less number than this we would have no assurance whatever of safety.

Our trade expansion might even prove the boomerang that would eventually plunge us into a long and costly war.

LOOK YOURSELF IN THE FACE.

The reaper of death sweeping over Europe brings to our mind a thought worthy of more than casual consideration.

Let us look ourselves in the face, and think—think for the benefit of humanity, for the good of posterity.

In all parts of the country, schools are opening for the fall and winter terms, and much of the future will be put upon the training of the youth of today.

Never in our history was there a time when it was more imperative that heavy padlocks and vindictive temperaments be quelled and eradicated.

Never was there a time when the incitation of brotherly love and a consideration for others was more urgently required.

The youth of today will be the men of tomorrow, and as we train them now so will they be then.

The burden rests heavily upon us. We expect the teacher in the school to transform our child into a man of learning, and honor and integrity, but do we stop to consider that more depends upon the parent than upon the educator?

The one cannot succeed without the co-operation of the other, but the two working earnestly and jointly will accomplish wonderful results.

We should think before speaking. Harsh words and family jars in the presence of a child gives it its first lesson in unruliness and puts a sharp edge to an awakening temper. It is natural for the infant to copy the example of his parents.

As we expect much from the teacher, let us give equally of our own store of patience and consideration.

Intensely dissatisfied, pretentious and egotistical—not the sincere, selflessness, or the coldness of indifference.

A child is susceptible to training, but when it reaches man's estate opportunity has passed it by.

Shall we heed the lessons of a world's calamity and face the day that confronts all?

Shall we look ourselves in the face?

HER SLIGHT MISTAKE

By CONSTANCE NESLER.

"Have you ever seen such oppressive hot weather in your life?" the lavender girl asked the young woman in white, reclining a wicker chair and pulling it to a position where she would feel whatever breeze came through the window.

"Certainly I have, right here in this city, and so have you," replied the girl in white.

"I suppose you are right," admitted her friend, "but you are most disapplying."

"You interest me strangely."

"You should have adapted yourself to my mood," explained the young woman in lavender, "and assured me that you never had seen such hot weather and that you do not believe there is such hot weather anywhere else on this globe. Instead, you try to convey the impression that it is not hot at all."

"I am trying to help you, my dear. If I haven't told you in your view of the weather it's heat would become more and more intense until your hair frizzled, instead of doing that I suggest that it is no warmer than usual. Presently, I shall mention some ice cream that is coming and the first thing you know you will be comfortable. You are not so warm right now as you were, are you?"

"I couldn't be any warmer—certainly, without melting my watch and my hair frizzles. I am certain that I arrived. I had done the most dreadful thing!"

"It was on the 11," said the young person in lavender, launching boldly into her adventure. "I entered that train at Sheridan road and there were some numbers of people waiting."

"I saw Mrs. Willard sitting by a window and looking out. I determined to stir him up, so I selected the other half of his seat, the car jerked and I shot down like a half-pound sledge with a shoulder bunched up. I collided with the unfortunate man in violent fashion that almost sent him out of the car and sailing over the back yard of his car on the ground."

"Then I turned my head and proceeded to look at the man who had fallen down on the opposite side of the car. I felt him turn to the rear, and I felt his eyes boring into my back, and I hadn't felt so shocked over anything in a long time. I had on this dress and I was quite sure he did not recognize me, so I waited for a dreadful time before I slowly and innocently turned my face to him."

"You were taking an awful chance, Arabella. Suppose he had not been here? You know mistakes sometimes happen."

"You had—then."

"Oh, you surely do not mean—"

"Yes, I do. It was some young man I had never seen before! Imagine that!"

"There has not looking down upon me with the queerest expression, and I shivered and shrank until I wasn't bigger than a peanut. I could feel myself being humiliated slowly in a suit of boiling oil, which began at my toes and went slowly, slowly until it covered the top of my head! And there I sat frozen to my seat with his eyes fixed upon mine."

"That was dreadful!"

"Indeed it was. If he had looked away for a moment I could have apologized or have said how another seat, but his eyes seemed to hold me! And then I saw he was going to speak to me, and I was glad, because I thought I saw a glint of humor in his eyes. I imagined his first word would tell me that he understood. But what do you suppose he said?"

"What?"

"He held his paper up before his face and whispered: 'The careful kid, that lady on the front seat is my wife!' I got over into another seat then, you'd better believe!"

"Arabella, your adventure was classic. I read it in a funny column the other day."

"I need not had read it; but I believe he lied. Anyway the woman got out at the next station and he was still in the seat when I left the car. I have now only one object in life, and that—"

CARDINAL CHIESA IS SUCCESSOR TO POPE PIUS X

Archbishop of Bologna, Italy,
Elected to Papacy at Conclave in Rome.

TAKES NAME OF BENEDICT XV

New Pontiff Was Made a Cardinal,
May 29 Last—Born in Genoa and
Was Formerly Assistant to Papal Secretary of State.

Rome, Italy—Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, Italy, on Thursday was elected successor in succession to Pope Pius X, who died August 20. He will reign under the name of Benedict XV.

The conclave of the sacred college, whose duty it is to elect the pope, was held in the Vatican on Thursday, August 21. The announcement of the outcome of the deliberations was made Thursday morning shortly after eleven o'clock. Nine ballots were taken.

American Cardinals Absent.
Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston were on board the steamer Chicago, which reached Naples the day after the election was held. They were on their way to attend the conclave. Other members of the sacred college, most of whom were in the city, were also present.

Prince Clément, one of the assistants to the throne in the papal household, was notified at 11:15 that Cardinal Della Chiesa had been elected. At 11:15 Mgr. Mistrulli, prefect of the sacred palace and governor of the post office, received a communication from the new pope asking that the privilege of the basilica of St. Peter be opened because he intended in a short time to issue his proclamation.

Cardinal Della Chiesa was born in Genoa, Italy, on May 29, 1851. He was a member of the papal household for many years. He was appointed secretary of state in 1901, and in 1903 he was appointed assistant to the papal secretary of state. He was elected cardinal in 1905.

For seven years he administered the see of Bologna with notable success. He was elected to the papal household in 1901, and in 1903 he was appointed secretary of state. He was elected cardinal in 1905.

Washington, D.C.—The apostolic delegation has just been advised officially of the election of the new pope. Word of the election reached the delegation through press sources and great interest was manifested.

It is pointed out that Cardinal Della Chiesa has had wide experience as administrator of the important see of Bologna. He is described as a man of steady and rather quiet and reserved manner.

The pope held his first consistory on Tuesday, when he conferred the red hat on Cardinal Anthony Mendes Bello, patriarch of Lisbon, and Cardinal Guiseppe Menendez, archbishop of Toledo, Spain. Both were created cardinals by Pope Pius X on the consistory last May.

The pope delivered on Tuesday his first allocution, which gives to the world the program of his pontificate. One of the brothers of the pontiff is an admiral in the Italian navy, and another is a captain in the Italian army.

The first appointment made by the pope was that of Monsignor Pellini, nephew of Pius X, to be canon of St. Peter's.

It has been 374 years since the time of the last Pope Benedict. On his election to the papacy in 1740 Cardinal Prospero Lambertini assumed that title. It is an interesting fact that the new pope was archbishop of Bologna, while Pope Benedict XIV was born in Bologna.

Twenty of the present cardinals are from five of the warring nations of Europe. Austria-Hungary has six, Germany two, as against a total of twelve, which might be said to represent the "allies" in the European war.

Facts About the Cardinals.
Cardinal Serafini Vannetti, dean of the sacred college, spent almost a quarter of a century in Mexico, Ecuador, Central and South America, Belgium and Vienna. His brother Cardinal Vincent Vannetti, passed 27 years in Holland, Belgium, Constantinople and Lisbon. Cardinal Agostini spent three years in India and four in Vienna. Cardinal di Piero was for ten years in Argentina, Brazil, Munich and Madrid. Cardinal Gotti lived for three years in Brazil. Cardinal Ferrata has filled diplomatic offices in Switzerland, Belgium and France. Cardinal Martelli was second apostolic delegate to the United States. Cardinal Falcinelli was the chief and became a naturalized American citizen. Cardinals Hualdell, Lercari, Gasparri, Vico, Belmonte and Serafini all had years of experience outside of Italy.

The only cardinals in curia, that is, attached directly to the head of the church in Rome, who have not spent part of their lives abroad are Cardinals De Lai, Casella, Della Volpe, Cagiano, Tiselli, Pomph, Chetani, Lega and Ascoli, all of whom have passed their lives in various offices in the Roman curia.

Takes Title of Benedict.
He has been 74 years since the time of the last Pope Benedict. On his election to the papacy in 1740 Cardinal Prospero Lambertini assumed that title. It is an interesting fact that the new pope was archbishop of Bologna, while Pope Benedict XIV was born in Bologna.

It was at the age of twenty-four that the new pope was ordained in the sacristy. He soon attracted the attention of Cardinal Rampolla, later secretary of state for Pope Leo XIII.

Cardinal Rampolla's return to Rome to become secretary of state for Pope Leo XIII. Cardinal Della Chiesa entered the secretariat of state as one of the "minutemen" or minor officials, with 1891, when he was appointed substitute of the secretariat and also secretary of the epiphany.

Made Bologna Archbishop.
An secretary to the secretary of state, Cardinal Della Chiesa was brought into notable prominence throughout the Catholic hierarchy, but his position was not at that time of cardinal rank. On the accession of Pope Pius X, Mgr. Della Chiesa continued in the secretariat with December 16, 1901, when Pius X gave him a noted promotion to the position of archbishop of the important see of Bologna.

For seven years he administered the see of Bologna with notable success, until on last May Pope Pius X named him as one of the 15 members of the hierarchy to receive the red hat. Archdiocese of Bologna was among the other cardinals named at that time, the others being prelates of Spain, France, Austria, Germany and Italy.

The full title of the new pope, in addition to Benedict XV, will be Pope Bishop of Rome and Successor of St. Peter, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Secretary of the Temporal Dominion of the Holy Roman Church.

GERMAN LOOKOUT TOWER

From this tower on top of one of the mountains in the Yugoslav range, near Hernal, Germany, the Kaiser's lookouts can observe the movements of the French at a great distance. The tower, which was erected after the war of 1870, is about twenty-five miles from Strasbourg. Also called the "Meyer Waldeck".

WHAT'S DOING IN OLD HOME

Summary of the Most Important Happenings in the Land of the Kaiser —Titled Items for the German Readers.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: Let us citizens of the United States underestimate the significance and importance to this country of the demand of Japan upon the Kaiser for the surrender of the German leased territories in China. It means that Great Britain and the Mongolian ally are determined to control the commerce of the Pacific ocean despite the right of any other nation, or any other people. Great Britain and Japan in alliance broke down the naval and military strength of Russia but ten years ago, and the entire British statement plotted the Mongol then against the Slav, as they are now manhandling Slav and Cossack, Latvia and Moscow. In the same line to crush the commercial, political and industrial development of Germany, Great Britain has struck Germany's prestige and German prosperity a great blow, but she has thereby placed Germany's hopes of conquering the world's trade. Russia, France and the United States are the only ones that can be claimed as a commercial competitor of Great Britain.

Badaguet has been visited by a destructive gale. In the course of half an hour terrible damage was done. All the parks of the city were devastated, roofs were torn away, and a great number of buildings were damaged. The roof of the royal opera was wrecked. Two planes weighing 4,000 pounds were torn off from the roof of the building. Two spires of the Cathedral Church of Matthew were hurled to the ground. Immediately after the storm it was ascertained that eleven persons had been killed, but the number of deaths is supposed to have been much larger. The fine weather that before the storm had lured many people to take boat rides on the Danube, and some of them were no doubt lost. After the storm the streets were strewn with window lights, bricks and other objects. Many trees were uprooted, and those that remain standing had many of their branches torn off.

Prin. Franciscus, the opera singer, had an unpleasant experience while staying at the Pyramid watering place. On her way from the railway station to her lodging she saw a butcher's hired man peering at her with an effort to make him get living looked at him for a little while she said: "That's enough!" At the same moment the butcher himself came on his wheel and ran against her. She could hardly see that he did this intentionally, and she was about to strike her umbrella when he turned her and began to choke her. She managed to scream, "Hah! Hah!" Soon there was a crowd of people at the scene. The butcher ran to a street car and got away. But she saw both the butcher and his hired man in order not to appear to be a coward the butcher used the opera singer for calling him abusive and disrespectful names.

Hugo Kohler and Georg Pommern, from Chemnitz, took a trip to the "Kaiser's mountain" peak in Gerdorf without a guide, and both of them lost their lives. Hugo Heinrich, a teacher from Chemnitz, fell 200 feet from a precipice in the Tannenberg mountains and was dashed to pieces. Herr Jakob and Herr Mann, businessmen from Stuttgart, were lost in the Allgauer mountains, and a few days afterward they were both found dead. Everything indicated that they had been surprised by a snowstorm, and that they had perished from exposure. The watchman at the mountain cabin in the Tannenberg mountains in the Gerdorf Alps found parts of the equipment of one Hermann Wilke of Gerdorf, Chemnitz, who is supposed to have perished among the mountain last year.

Climbing among the central Alps is among the things forbidden by the military law which Swissers must observe. The Swiss mountains paths were among the first to be sealed to the colors. Many American amateur mountain climbers who were not aware of this regulation found themselves in the early days of the excitement attending the opening of winter, stopped by armed sentinels in the St. Gotthard region, and at all points near the frontier.

Prof. Leopold Holsky was one of the most beautiful women of Budapest. The beauty to breed over the lines that she was going to lose her beauty, and so great did her mental depression become that her mind was unbalanced. She was sent to a hospital for nervous people at Graz. While staying at that institution she began to suffer from nocturnal. When the doctor told her that one of her teeth had to be pulled she suddenly became so terrified that she broke loose from him, was caught through a window and was killed in the fall.

1915-Buick Cars-1915

The Car of Power, Speed, Dependability and Durability

The Promise

"WHEN BETTER CARS ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM"

The Fulfillment

IS FOUND IN the Buick Line of Pairs and Sixes for 1915—the greatest line of cars the Buick organization has ever built. 1914 Buick success has been the talk of the motor world—a reputation merited by an abundance of power—faultless design—perfect performance and efficient Buick service. The five splendid models comprising the Buick line for 1915 is up to their promise to all buyers of Buick cars—and make certain a continued satisfaction and uninterrupted use.

The vital factor that built up the enormous demand for Buick cars is the Valve-in-Head motor together with the dependability and durability of construction, fuel economy and comfort.

Last season the output of 33,200 cars was completely sold out early in 1914. This achievement of the Buick by the buying public has justified them this season in increasing the output and made possible the lowering of their prices.

The 1915 Buick models actually offer greatly increased value. The reduction of price is possible because of the volume of business, the improved factory methods, specialized labor and one more year's knowledge of expert in the great factory in new economies of construction.

The 1915 Buick has all the fundamental Buick principles with the addition of every improvement that has stood the Buick tests of worth. In fact, the three changes while the same model eventually as last year, have been improved where improvement was possible.

The new Buick system of steering, shifting and braking, with an increased generating capacity of 35 per cent and automatic spark advance, Tupperman valves. Carburetor supplied by Stewart-Warner recently filed patent system.

Controls completely located on instrument board in the cowl. Non-slip floor on rear wheels. Improved quality of leather for the upholstery and floor finish. High grade stream line bodies, hood and oval radiators.

There are but few of the Buick improvements, representation of price, they are giving more value than ever before. They always have and will guarantee the Buick Valve-in-Head motor to develop more power than any other type of automobile motor of equal size, American or foreign make.
