

LIBRARY TAX LOSES BY BIG MAJORITY

Men and Women Voters Cast 450 Votes
Which Were Divided 324 For and 131 Against the Proposition.

Claim That the Village Is Bonded and Taxed Enough—Will Probably Be Voted on Again in a Few Years.

The special election held Wednesday in this village to vote on the question of establishing a public library here by a levy of a two-mill tax called out 460 voters. They voted against the proposition almost three to one. The women of the town, who are supposed to be most active in the cause of education, opposed this move to provide reading matter for the citizens of Men voters numbered 248, voting 190 against and 58 for the library; women numbered 207, voting 129 against and 78 for the proposition. The election was held at the village hall with J. C. Piaggio, H. J. Lageschulte and H. K.

Mrs. Caroline Els, an old time resident who died a year ago, left $1,000 in trust to be used to aid in starting a library. But the people refuse to pay a small tax to maintain a free library.

Dorsey's Assault Released.

Carroll C. Walker, the man who assaulted and shot James Dorsey of Gillette in a taxicab in Chicago several years ago, was 'released' last Friday afternoon from the penitentiary at Joliet after serving about four years of a ten-year sentence. He could have been released last year on parole, but Mr. Dorsey wanted him pardoned, so in that case he could leave the state. Walker swore at the time of his trial he would "get" Dorsey for testifying against him, but the term in prison has evidently changed his mind as he stated that Dorsey had nothing to fear from him. He said he would not

Boy Hit By Train.

Herbert Peckney, son of Mr. P. Mrs. John Peckney, who reside west of Cuba station, met with a serious accident Sunday morning. While driving from his father's farm to the village the team was struck by the milk train at Fox River crossing, one horse being killed and the other so badly injured that it was necessary to shoot it. The boy was thrown quite a distance and when picked up one arm was broken and had to be amputated. Nearly all of his ribs were broken and at the time he lies in a Chicago hospital in precarious condition with very all chances of recovery.

Harold M. Schmidt Dead.

Harold M., aged three months and days, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Nicke Schmidt, of Chicago, passed away at the home of his parents Sunday morning of gastro enteritis. His remains were brought here Sunday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woodding and services were held Monday from their home, Rev. Louis Hart officiating. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Schmidt was formerly, Mrs. Hazel Woodding of this village. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt have the sympathy of many in the death of their young son.

Dear Editor.—I desire, through columns of your paper, to make grateful acknowledgement to all my friends who voted for me at the recent primary, and I beg to state that next week I expect to make a visit to different parts of the tenth congressional district for the purpose of thanking in person, as many as I can for the splendid expression of renewed confidence.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE EDMUND FOSTER

HURRIED TRAINING OF ENGLISH RECRUITS

Realizing the need of a great many more troops in the field, the British military authorities are hurrying to get the recruits into shape. A detachment of them is shown here being trained in Hyde Park.

RUSSIAN FORCES DRIVE BACK THE AUSTRIAN TROOPS

Advances From Paris Say the Czar Is Complete Master in East Prussia.

HAS ENEMY SURROUNDED

London Looks for the Surrender of the Forces of Francis Joseph—French War Office Confirms to Claim Victory for the Allies in Battle Before Paris.

Austrian and German armies aggregating 100,000 men have been over-whelmingly defeated by Russians in the final assault of a 15-day battle in Poland and Galicia. Besides inflicting enormous casualties on their enemies, the Russian troops captured and captured 120,000 prisoners, including about eight hundred officers.

At the same time the Russians are reported to have driven back the Germans in East Prussia with great losses.

Emperor William, though hurrying reinforcements to his line in East Prussia, is said to have notified Austria that he could and so more help to his forces. In fact, his position in France is reported to be perilous in that he is declared to be withdrawing troops from East Prussia to reinforce his armies operating against the French and British.

German Retreat Before Allies. Every message from the line of battle in France shows that the armies of the allies are pursuing the retreating Germans with great vigor and are giving them no opportunity to reform for an attack.

"Undeniable victory" and "more and more complete" are the terms used by General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, in his messages to Paris and Verdun.

From the latter city comes a report telegraphed by Lloyd's Weekly News that the line of communications kept by the Germans has been cut and they cannot make use of the line east of the Argonne forest, owing to the rapid advance of the allies in the center and right.

They may try, through the Meuse valley and Luxembourg.

Victories for the allies on both the left and center before Paris were reported on September 10 in official bulletins from the French war office. Nowhere along the entire line since the battle started has a reverse been suffered by the allied armies.

An official communication issued by the French war office said that the Anglo-French forces crossed the Marne, and after fighting battles with the German right wing at Perthes-lez-Jourdain and Chateau Thierry forced the Germans back until the ground the invaders have lost during the fighting covers 40 miles.

The allies were in pursuit of the enemy. During their advance many prisoners and a number of guns have been taken.

Berlin Tells of Retirement. In official communications issued in Berlin General von Helmuth von Moltke has been announced that the German army, which had advanced across the Marne to the east of Paris, was heavily beaten by the enemy between Paris, Meuse and Montfaucon.

The fighting lasted two days. The German army had checked the enemy and had even succeeded, but stronger hostile columns came to the assistance of the allies and the enemy was the battle, compelling the German troops to retire.

Fifty guns were captured by the allies and some thousands of men made prisoners.

Crowd Won by Russians. Crispin, the Austrian patriot in Paris, who has been already arrested, constructed the advance of the huge Russian army.

Thousands of families throughout the United States are distressed by the destitution and being cared for in poor houses and other charitable institutions as a result of the wage earners of the families having gone to the front in response to the call for men.

Must Care for Families. Dependents of those who have gone to join forces in Europe are in a state of distress.

Thousands of families throughout the United States are distressed by the destitution and being cared for in poor houses and other charitable institutions as a result of the wage earners of the families having gone to the front in response to the call for men.

London center says Breslau, a reported from Petersburg to have fallen before a furious attack of Russian cavalry and infantry under cover of the disastrous fire of heavy siege guns. The forts to the east and north of the city were shelled and the city was surrounded by the Russians.

German Line Up for Battle. The German armies which have been in a general retreat for three days, have returned for a stand against the Russian advance, and London dispatches of September 15.

At a general position along the River Alsace the German right wing has attempted to check the victorious march of French and British troops. On the center, occupying the heights to the north and northwest of Rheims, preparations for another battle are in progress.

Behind the German retreat comes, however, and additional gains have been made by the French in the Vosges district.

An official statement issued by the French war office contains the following: "On our right wing, we have everywhere caught up with the enemy, and even the main body of his army."

"Our troops have recovered almost everywhere and have been able to make a stand against the enemy's advance. The enemy appears to be making a stand on a prepared front along the River Alsace."

"On the center, similarly, it would seem as if the enemy intends to resist on the heights to the northwest and to the north of Rheims."

In the region between Argonne and the Meuse he appears to be retreating. "On our right wing, in the Vosges district, we have succeeded in relieving the fort of Trogny, which has been a stationary target since the beginning of the last few days. (Troop is 12 miles south-southwest of Verdun.)"

"The French army is ready to make a stand against the enemy's advance. The French general staff has always in mind the possibility that though the general victory has been undeniable it is not yet final, and that there is still a possibility that the general retreat may develop into a measure which has for its object the forcing of the allied armies further from their base before making a counter attack."

Where this stand will be, whether on German soil or northeast of the Argonne, it is too early to predict. Certainly it is that the German forces will have to retire to some safe territory to regroup, rest and reassemble before another decided stand can be made.

A Central News Telegram from Copenhagen said that the German headquarters in the west were preserving rigid silence regarding the western operations.

Russian Victory Complete. The Russian victory in Austria against the Austro-German forces gives as more complete reports are received, according to dispatches from London.

Reports of Austrian disaster are admitted in messages from Berlin. German reinforcements are being sent east, but the bulk of them are going into France, a large force being dispatched to Meuse. In the northern part of East Prussia.

A dispatch to the Central News from Rome says information received from Petersburg indicates that 100,000 prisoners were taken by the Russians in the 17-day battle just drawing to a close.

In addition to the prisoners, the Russians captured 50,000 guns, 1,000 places of fortress artillery, 4,000 transport wagons and seven aeroplanes.

The most extended list of German casualties yet published has been made public. It comprises 78 killed, 2,100 wounded and 314 missing. The total of all casualties losses to date follows: Killed, 4,132; wounded, 15,541; and missing, 5,070.

SETBACK FOR CZAR

German General Reports Complete and Important Victory Over Enemy.

FRENCH STILL CLAIM SUCCESS

Official Statement Asserts that the Allies Continue to Press Forward—Enveloping Movement Being Pushed to a Conclusion.

London, Sept. 17.—The war office announced from Berlin that General von Hindenburg had telegraphed Emperor William that the Russian army of 174, composed of the Second, Third, Fourth and Tenth Armies, two reserve divisions and five divisions of cavalry, have been completely defeated by the Germans. The Russian casualties, it was declared, were very heavy.

"The number of Russian prisoners is increasing," General von Hindenburg reported. "The Russian army continues to have large spoils of war in enormous quantities."

Austrian Losses Heavy. London, Sept. 17.—A special dispatch from Rome says the Tribune's correspondent writes that it is reported in the Russian capital that their total effective available troops, including 250,000 men taken prisoners by the Russian and Serbian forces, dispatch adds that Austria is being driven back by the Russian and Serbian forces to protect Vienna and Budapest.

German Armies Turn to Fight. London, Sept. 17.—The German army, it may be prepared lines of defense, north of the Alsace river, which extend to the plains north of Strasbourg, Chateau-Thierry and Metz.

The official statement issued by the French government says the allies are in close contact with the German army everywhere and that the forward movement continues between the Meuse and Argonne.

There is reason to believe that this is the beginning of a general retreat. In a retreat line the rear of the army is projected very largely by the enemy.

The retreating force, having just passed through the country, has the advantage of the surprise in knowledge of the terrain. They take up a position from which they can bring artillery to fire at ranges of 3,000 to 5,000 yards, to two miles, on the roads by which the enemy will advance. When such large bodies of troops are in the rear, they are in a position to move across country and to small columns and very slowly. Consequently they will not be able to move forward rapidly to the rear wherever possible. This gives the defender a chance to attack them in a closely massed column, where they are not so well protected.

A British retreat and general contact of the enemy has been reported. The horors of that journey are not to be forgotten. They were the first to be seen from the scene of war in France. Other detachments of the army are in the rear.

Have Hopes of Peace Soon. Washington, Sept. 17.—Officials of the Washington government and dispatches from the front say that the German army is in a position to make a stand against the allies. They were the first to be seen from the scene of war in France. Other detachments of the army are in the rear.

GERMANS SUDDENLY CHANGE PLANS WHEN ALMOST AT GATES OF PARIS

By H. M. TOMLINSON. (Specialist from Paris Service.)

Noted—In this war it was France's diversion has been developed of far greater significance than that worked on the German plan by Lige. Lige only interrupted that plan. Just when it seemed certain of success, the plan had been definitely changed.

Why was it changed? When Paris appeared within reach? After my first journey along the battle line I indicated the rapid advance of the German right wing moving directly on Paris through Amiens. The troops of Amiens were blown up behind the last train of supplies of whom I was one. Saturday, August 22, the enemy seemed irresistible. The northwest coast of France as far as Dieppe was in their hands. But even then I had reason to believe the allies were favorably disposed to check that advance.

"I was immensely surprised on my second journey south to find that at Amiens, south of Amiens, I was actually between the French and German forces."

A rapid and perilous flight from there along the German front brought me to Creil, 20 miles north of Paris. I found the British headquarters and the position of the allies there. That night, September 2, the main armies were in contact. I spoke to British soldiers who engaged that day at Soissons, 12 miles from the Paris fortifications.

A Big Battle Beginning. "Paris was within sound of the German guns. A stupendous battle was beginning."

The German forces were beginning to write as I got into Paris. But the allies were between and raised on either flank of the Germans in the north. The British and French forces were in a position to check that advance.

KAISER PROTESTS AGAINST CRUELITIES

London.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Rotterdam has telegraphed the text of the message sent by Emperor William to President Wilson under date of September 4. It is as follows:

"I consider it my duty, sir, to inform you as the most suitable representative of the principles of humanity that after the capture of the French fort of Le Mans, troops found in that place thousands of human beings, which had been manufactured in special works by the French government. Such bodies were found not only on French prisoners, but also on English troops."

"I solemnly protest to you against the way in which this war is being waged by my opponents, whose methods are making it more and more barbarous in history. Besides the use of these cruel weapons the Deluge, which has been a long time in the making, has been organized. The cruellest practices in this terrible warfare, even by women and priests, wounded soldiers, and the sick and hospital nurses—physicians were killed and mutilated for—were seen in the hands of my opponents. They were compelled to adopt the most cruel and most barbarous methods."

"The bloodthirsty population from the cities and villages and even the old town of Louvain, with the exception of the beautiful town hall (Hotel de Ville), had to be destroyed for the protection of my troops."

"My heart bleeds when I see such measures inevitable and when I think of the many innocent people who have lost their homes and property as a result of the misdeeds of the enemy."

"I am sure that the German people will not be able to do this. There were, however, no signs of mercy."

"I have been nothing of that in the whole French war. I was a witness to reinforcements sent round constant and northward continually to build up and strengthen the allies."

"The French and British felt back almost as far as Paris, tempering and resisting with a vigor that must have astonished the Prussians."

Left Paris Exposed. "It became clearer to the German general staff that just when their army was within reach of Paris the strength opposed to them was more than their numbers and shrewdness could penetrate."

"Their last attack was opposed to French army. While that force remained no serious attack on Paris was made."

"So they withdrew as in desperation, as if they had their enemies in their hands. Whether they will eventually succeed is, of course, more than I can say."

"Obviously the French troops held the line of the eastern front are now in a different position."

"No doubt, too, the German expect to soon a way in that their last source army can join them."

The German army will soon be advancing down the west side of the Argonne hills. Chateau-Thierry has been abandoned by the French. British cavalry has been engaged at Nogent-le-Roi.

The German line last Saturday was from La Ferté-Macaire, on the River Marne, fifty kilometers east of Paris, through Chateau-Thierry to some place below Rheims. It is possible a great battle is now raging south of Troyes with the French army of the east.

I have evidence to show that the new German move did not take our military authorities by surprise. Last Thursday a rapid movement of French troops began to the eastward and northward. It was aimed to meet a new enthusiastic move of the German army in towns like Dijon, in the north and southeast of France, large portions of the week ago. They are now empty.

A week ago (Verdun) was an armed camp. The troops had disappeared when I was there on Friday.

For nearly a week a mass of men have been gathering to intercept the defeated Prussian line.

When I left the scene I saw a vast camp to doubt that eventually the allies will be able to find that conflict there."

I have spoken, everywhere with French officers and men. Nowhere at any time have I seen anything but a quiet confidence about the ultimate issue in France."

BARRINGTON REVIEW

BARRINGTON, ILL.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1914

THE DAWN OF PROSPERITY.

The optimism is coming into his own. The dawn of prosperity is in sight, and the reason that lights the way to greater activity becomes brighter day by day.

Manufacturers of the United States are receiving many inquiries from overseas from great firms who are looking to us for the goods which heretofore they have purchased in Europe.

Unless all things go well, they will accumulate and swell and become greater in proportion until our fair land is one alive of burning industry, with work in plenty for all and a spirit of peace and contentment resting upon the people.

In years gone by the allies have bought from the Germans and the Austrians and the latter have purchased from the former and from each other. It was an interchangeable system of commerce.

But the bitterness engendered by war is effecting a vast and mighty change.

All are turning to America for their wants until Europe recovers from its paralysis.

And from South America comes the cry for goods, more goods and plenty of them. This trade in the past has been given to Europe, but the nations at war have practically no merchant ships from the sea and are unable to satisfy the demand. Hence the Latin race turns to its big brother of the north.

And once this commerce of South America is opened by the United States, it is doubtful if it could be wrested from us by any other means than force of arms, and that of course would not come until the warring nations have recovered from their physical and financial exhaustion, although eventually that is the inevitable with which we will be forced to contend.

But in the meantime we will manufacture goods and ship them to the nations of the world, and gold will pour in to us, and the laborer will have fuller dinner pails, and the farmer will have better markets for his produce, and the business man will feel such prosperity as he has not known for many years.

It will not come in a day, or in a week, or in a month, but it will be a greater, greater proportion step by step until we have reached the pinnacle of a nation's prosperity.

Unless all signs fail.

HUMAN VULTURES.

From all over the land comes a mighty protest against the high prices of foodstuffs.

The national government, state authorities and municipalities are seeking the cause, but without appreciable results.

The government says it is not the fault of the retailer, and unquestionably the government is right. But there the government rests.

THE BEST SECURITY ON EARTH IS EARTH

First Mortgage Real Estate Loan $5,000 to $10,000, secured by First Mortgage on Improved Residence and Business Property in Chicago, are absolutely safe; they are not affected by the war. People must have a place to live; they must have a place to do business; they must have a place to put their money.

Invest through us as little as $100 in such bonds, paying at our own interest, three per cent, every six months. We have specialized for years in bonds of this kind, and of all the different classes of investments, these bonds have given the best satisfaction—no loss of principal or interest. Good for distressed investors.

CHRYSLER BUILDING
300 So. La Salle Street, Chicago

And when the federal government, with all the power and resources at its command, cannot solve the problem or check the robbery it is time for the humble citizen to pause and think. The time may even come when it will become necessary for him to act.

And that action should take the course of devoting some method whereby the foodstuffs may travel from the producer to the consumer without passing through too many hands. Under the present system many hands handle them and many mouths are fed from the profits before they travel the distance from field to consumer, or even to the retailer.

And the consumer pays the bill. There is no question but that the fault lies with the middlemen, wholesalers, cold storage men and speculators, each one of whom must extract a margin of profit before he passes it on to the next.

The retailer and the producer and the consumer should join hands in a determined effort to reduce the cost of living to something within the bounds of reason.

The fact that a war of property seems to be ahead of us is no reason why the citizen should panic about calmly analyzing to bring about the master of his foodstuffs.

Has Lost the Wager.
A man who prided himself on a wonderful imagination that could conceive the biggest lie on record once made a wager that he could tell a greater falsehood than any man in the town where he resided. The stake being deposited, he proclaimed that he once threw a nail with such force that it pierced the moon. "Aye, that is true," exclaimed another man. "I saw him do it, for I stood on the other side and caught the nail."

Moscow's Distinctive Theater.
Appreciation is never accorded the artist at the Moscow Art Theater. Criminals are never allowed. Realism and naturalism, above everything else, are stressed. Friends are not allowed to witness theatrical performances to Russia, but several of the leading churches in Moscow severally do it, for the artists at the Art Theater—Russia behind the scenes.

Remains Eloquent.
So great is the power of reality that when it takes shape and is made to appear in our midst, wearing a well fitted gown, he could easily obtain a position of prominence in a financial corporation.—Detroit Journal.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

TRUTH CRUSHED TO EARTH

By FANNY ELLISON.

"It's queer," said the little stenographer, "but I haven't the least inkling of honor. That is true, at least, as far as this office force is concerned. I mean the men aren't truthful!"

"Excuse me, bookkeeper," whispered the bookkeeper.

"Oh, yes, I didn't include bookkeepers—office boys or clerks. They don't count one way or the other. I had reference to Mr. Gray and his type."

Mr. Gray had a long-distance telephone call from New York today. He was sitting waiting for him, so I overheard what he said. The man at the other end was mad about something and Mr. Gray was trying to pacify him.

"You know," he said to the man in New York, "how clerical errors will creep into letters and get overlooked. I'm sorry I can't offer you that letter more carefully. I'll see that it does."

"Well, I was trembling in my shoes, thinking it was some big mistake I was taking in writing a letter, but when Mr. Gray hung up the receiver he smiled at me."

"My!" he said. "That man has a bad disposition. I promised to meet him in New York for next night, and I forgot it entirely. But I made him think I was only a typographical error in the date I gave him in my letter—so I'll be all right for me to meet him next week. I'll never forget about him having put the blame for his mistake on my innocent shoulders!"

"I'm not the only one. There's poor Mr. Elliot. That man worked nights for two solid weeks getting that new order under system into shape, and when he got it finished he was as proud of it as a peacock. I didn't blame him, a bill—how you know what a really good thing that new index system is going to be."

"But Mr. Gray, who fully appreciated the thing, told the president right in my very presence, that he'd had that little system in mind for some time and with Elliot's help he'd got it out. Talked just as though Mr. Elliot had done the rough work under his supervision, when, in fact, Mr. Elliot was the whole show from beginning to end. Actually it made me angry."

"Then, when Mr. Gray deliberately told Elliot to take a letter down to the printer's and wait for an answer. But when Elliot didn't get back until five o'clock and it was time for another errand run—so what did he do?"

"Had a Long-Distance Telephone Call!"

But say that he had not told Elliot to wait all the afternoon at the printer's, and therefore, Elliot would have to run that other errand before he left, and poor Elliot didn't dare say anything!"

"But what's your own specific particular trouble today that calls forth all these harrowing reminiscences?" asked the bookkeeper.

"Well—the little stenographer wanted in spite of herself—'since you're so anxious to hear, I'll stop the other offences on my list and proceed to the gravest of the lot.'"

"Here I've been sitting over my typewriting machine for hours creating a nice form letter that will make our customers sit up and take notice. It lists their rights and obligations between politeness and friendliness. It is very respectful, and yet it doesn't hesitate to say in good, clear English that we know a lot more about our line than any one else does—and that we are merely waiting for a chance to impart it to the best men in the line. Hasn't it been together in this office in a long while?"

"Well, what do you think? Mr. Gray, after examining it—and telling me to let it rest in our best copy—over-kept a copy on his desk, and he handed it to the specialist, saying: 'What do you think of this letter? I've written it with emphasis on the T. I'd like to—'

"The specialist then pushed his head," sympathized the bookkeeper.—Chicago Daily News.

1515-Buick Cars-1915

The Car I Power, Speed, Dependability and Durability

The Promise

"WHEN BETTER CARS ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM"

The Fulfillment

IS FOUND IN

The Buick Line of Four and Sixes for 1915—the greatest line of Cars the Buick organization has ever built. 1914 Buick success has been the talk of the motor world—a reputation merited by an abundance of power—faultless design—perfect fit—smooth and efficient Buick service. The five splendid models comprising the Buick line for 1915 is up to their promise to buyers of Buick cars—and make certain a continued satisfaction and uninterrupted use.

The 1915 Buick is built on the enormous demand for Buick cars in the live-in-head motor together with the dependability and durability of construction, fuel economy and comfort.

Last season the output of 3,200 cars was completely sold out early in March. This endorsement of the Buick by the buying public has justified this season in increasing the output and made possible the lowering of their prices.

The 1915 Buick actually offers greatly increased value. The reduction of price is possible because of the volume of business, the improved factory methods, specialized labor and one more year's knowledge of experts in this great factory in new economies of construction.

The 1915 Buick has all the fundamental Buick principles with the addition of every improvement that has stood the Buick tests of worth. In fact, the three chassis, while the same in all essential parts, have been improved where improvement was possible.

The new Delco system of starting, lighting and ignition, with an increased generating capacity of 50 per cent and automatic spark advance. Tungsten steel valves. Carburetor supplied by Stewart-Warner gravity feed vacuum system.

Controls conveniently located on instrument board in the cowl. Non-slip floor on rear wheels.

Improved quality of leather for the upholstery and floor finish. High grade stream line bodies, hoods and oval radiators.

These are but few of the Buick improvements, regardless of price, they are giving more value than ever before. They always have and will guarantee the Buick Value-in-head motor to develop more power than any other type of automobile motor of equal size, American or foreign make.
