COMBAT STILL RAGING

Neither Side Able to Claim Decisive Result—Germany Moves Statement of Financial Resources—Can Carry on War Cost—Ing $50,000,000 a Day for a Year, With-out Strain.

London, Sept. 30.—For forty-eight hours the armies of the Germans and the allies have been hammering away at each other at close quarters along the River Aisne, in the climax of the battle of the four rivers, which has been in progress for over a fortnight.

Thus far the struggle has not brought decisive results to either side. But, however, claim, outgaining the slight gains. Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary force, spent his sixty-second birthday in maintaining what his latest communication to the war office describes as "a satisfactory situation."

German Army Is Driven Across the Meuse by Allied Armies.

GERMAN RIGHT IS SMASHED

Gen. Joffre Reported to Have Spurred Von Kluck's Effort to Surrender—Von Boehm and Von See Now Threatened.

On the Battle Front, via Paris, Oct. 1.—In a desperate effort to break through the allied left, repeated counterattacks were directed by the German right wing against the British and French, but each was repulsed. The German were defeated at every point of contact during the day, and the allies were able to make further appreciable progress.

A Paris dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company in London says: "It is stated here that Gen. Joffre has been ordered to make a counterattack on the German right flank."

"All the automobiles in the German army have been requisitioned for the purpose of carrying the wounded to the rear. The German army is also being used to pull the retreating enemy."

"The official communication demonstrates unmistakably that the German army has been surrounded in the Somme department, the French front extending farther east."

GERMAN AVIATOR DESCRIBES BATTLE IN THE AIR OVER HOSTILE ARMY

By RAYMOND H. SWING.

Berlin.—A hero has stepped out of the pages of Field Marshal Werner, one of the hundreds of German aviators, who has the distinction of being one of the first Germans to fly over Paris and to fight a remarkable battle in the air with two of the enemy's aeroplanes. He was a passenger for a short distance in the special car put at the disposal of correspondents on their way to Liege and told us a graphic story of his experiences.

Werner's first assignment was to find the British army near Namur. The army was about 100,000 strong and was retreating before a German force of double its strength.

For hours, it seemed to him, the conflict continued and he saw the German army in the distance. He then saw his car rapidly downward and descended beside his army. The British and the German retired hastily. The battle had covered seventy miles.

On descending Werner found his position on the ground and later witnessed the battle of Le Cateau, the position that he had discovered.

Here again the English, after their resistance, were driven back. The German attacked with the flying movement and a storming advance against the middle of the English position, and through male strength and the extraordinary spirit of the attack, forced the enemy back. The army of 100,000 had in a few days been reduced to 20,000.

NAPOLEON'S ACTION IN 1805

Violated Prussian Neutrality and That Country Suffered as a Result of the French Mistake.

Germany appears to be most anxious to get the "hot end" of the war, for, despite the universal opinion of the civilized world against the violation of the treaty guaranteeing Belgian neutrality, it is by no means the first instance of such violation in modern history, nor has Germany always been the violator.

In 1805 Napoleon Bonaparte, anxious to keep his legions against Austria, marched them over a strip of the Prussian dependency of Austria.

There is strong evidence from the maps of Brussels that something in violation of the treaty guaranteeing Belgian neutrality, it is by no means the first instance of such violation in modern history, nor has Germany always been the violator.

CONRAD'S SLAIN MAJOR DIES A HEROIC DEATH

Anglo-American—The family of Maj. Conrad of the artillery has received news of the heroic death in a recent battle of a young man, a son of one of the most prominent men in the army.

With a regiment of 100 men he was ordered to take a position in a meadow near a town. There was a great deal of fighting, and the Anglo-American forces were killed.

ILLINOIS FAIR IS PAST HISTORY

This Year's Event Has Been Very Successful.

EXPOSITION LASTS TEN DAYS

According to Secretary Dickerson Gate Receipts show an increase of $100—Lincoln Beachey attraction.

Springfield.—According to Secretary J. C. Dickerson, the gate receipts of the Illinois state fair, which closed after a successful two days, were about $100 greater than last year.

How room for cattle is seen as a need for the next fair and an appropriation for another cattle barn will be asked of the next assembly. It will be necessary to house 250 cattle in tents this year.

The International Harvester company, the Deere and Oliver companies and several other big tractor manufacturers did not exhibit at the fair this year, although they were saving their money to show at the Panama-Pacific exposition, but Secretary Dickerson says he believes the companies will be back with the state fair next year.

The machinery exhibit was greatly damaged this year by the withdrawal of these companies. Lincoln Beachey was the principal attraction at the fair on the closing day. Beachey gave three exhibitions showing methods of dropping bombs and during his famous top-of-the-boy.

Illinoisans who visited the state fair had the best opportunity of their lives to get a notion of the state's efforts toward raising game birds for insect consumption.

The state game farm exhibit this year, probably the best in its history, brought many thousands of birds to the new famous reserve near the main entrance. Phalaropes, ducks and geese were shown. Superintendent W. T. Fossitt of the state game farm and Chief Yeager and Bird Expert James McFarland, with game farm attaches, were in charge of the exhibit.

In the pheasant pens were hundreds of English ring-necked pheasants, several hundred pheasants of the fancy breeds, including the Golden, Silver, Bronze, Lady Amherst, Monarch and Japanese.

Perhaps the ducks, more than four thousand of them, attracted the most general attention. These wild birds were in the large inclosures, set off by its beauty by the pond which forms a natural centerpiece.

The duck enclosures of birds were 4000 English Culls and a number of Huddleston, Canadian and Egyptian geese, with a number of swans and cranes to lend variety to the collection.

The state game farm exhibit attracted thousands of persons, who watched the game birds and their habits.

State Printing Contracts Are Let. Contracts for state printing, binding, stationery and typewriter supplies were let by the state contracts commission at a meeting held in the office of Governor Dummer. All bids on paper were rejected and will be re-advertised on account of the unusual condition of the paper market due to the European war. Stock of the material which goes into print paper comes from abroad. Bids for cost will be opened and the contract will be awarded.

Contracts awarded were: Binding—Jefferson Printing Co., Springfield. Lithographing—Illinois Printing Co., Springfield. Typewriting supplies—Miller, Ryan & Co., Springfield. Printing, Class I—Jefferson Printing Co., Springfield. Printing, Class II—Illinois State Journal. Printing, Class III—Phillips Brothers, Springfield. Printing, Class IV—Schmidt & Brown, Springfield. Printing, Class V—Illinois State Journal.

Closing of the Boys' School. With resignation of the good times they had enjoyed and the valuable education which they had received during the term of schooling, the boys of the state fair agricultural and scientific schools, have traveled to their instructors and associates and began to break camp and depart for their homes.

The principal address on the regular lecture program and the closing lecture of the course was made by President John W. Cook on "Education for Life." Lectures by Lester Lang on "Milk Testing" and by W. P. Miller on "Crops and Soils" were made. A discussion on "Corn Crop" was also held.

FATHERS' CLUB OF STATE MEETS

Not the least of the important state meetings, held in connection with the Illinois state fair in 1914 was the annual conference of the men who have the great distinction of being the fathers of ten or more children.

This organization is known as the Famous Fathers' club of Illinois. At the annual meeting of this association held on the state fair grounds, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year, viz: President—Hon. Edward F. Dineen, father of 13 children.

Vice-President—Hon. Meeker Green Valley, father of nine boys and three girls.

Second Vice-President—Michael Pagan, Ohio, the father of four boys and seven girls.

Secretary—William P. McCoy, Springfield, father of five boys and six girls.

Treasurer—J. H. Blair, Chatham, the father of seven boys and four girls.

The object of this organization is to encourage the raising of large families of healthy and intelligent children and to demonstrate the fact that Illinois is not on the map as the rice suicide land and to emphasize the fact that its race is a great live stock breeding state is not confined to one class of men, but that it is equally common to the fine herds of cattle and swine; its fine flocks of sheep; its fine stock of horses and its fine families of exceptionally fine children.

The secretary reported a large increase in the membership of the club during the past year, as follows: Solon Wright Frye, Virginia, the father of ten girls and four boys.

Charles Anthony Mills, Springfield, father of five boys and six girls.

J. M. Jacobs, Chicago, father of four boys and six girls.

Lawrence Nollath, R. D. Springfield, father of four boys and six girls.

George Washington Montgomery, Charleston, father of seven boys and five girls.

Robert Davidson, Carleton, father of six boys and five girls.

Frank Heisel, Bloomington, the father of six boys and six girls.

William J. Lake, Chicago, father of six boys and five girls.

W. L. Shuler, Springfield, the father of seven boys and five girls.

H. A. Maxwell, Randolph, father of seven boys and five girls.

A. J. Bates, formerly of Illinois, now residing in Pittsburgh, Pa.; the father of five boys and ten girls.

Veterans Enjoy Reunion. The twenty-eighth annual reunion of the survivors of the Seventy-third regiment of Illinois Volunteer Infantry was held at the statehouse with about fifty of the veterans in attendance.

The meeting was opened by Chaplain Cassidy by a prayer, in which he voiced the thankfulness of the veterans that the United States was now a member of the people of a country.

The annual address was read by Capt. R. J. Ingalls of Company G. Captain Ingalls' address was a slight departure from the usual run of such addresses, and was more along the line of the services rendered to the country by former soldiers who had risen from the ranks to the highest offices in the gift of the nation. He also dealt upon the contrast between the life and the war now prevailing in Europe, and the treatment accorded prisoners in the Andersonville and other prisons of the Confederacy during the Civil war.

Report of Chicago Banks. The statement of the condition of the state banks of Chicago at the commencement of business on September 14, 1914, shows 31 banks doing business on that date.

An compared with 90 on July 1, 1914, the ratio of the last statement, the total resources on September 14 were $29,252,722, a decrease of $21,003,000 from July 1.

Loans and discounts on September 14 aggregated $17,653,000, a decrease of $12,051,568. Baring deposits subject to notice amounted to $37,500,000, a decrease of $15,040,981.

The demand deposits subject to check were $22,842,129, a decrease of $1,686,608.

The total capital surplus, contingent fund and undivided profits on September 14 were $99,339,491, an increase of $17,250,101.

The total deposits, including due to banks on September 14, were $15,447,038, a decrease of $10,039,109. Total cash and due from banks on September 14 was $12,235,077, a decrease of $783,000. The per cent of reserve to deposits, including due to banks, is 24.74.

Dinner Appointed New Judge. Governor Dummer appointed Charles C. Edwards of Washington Judge of the circuit court in the Seventeenth judicial district to succeed Charles White, who was appointed Judge of the circuit court in the Seventeenth judicial district.

Edwards is a Republican.

Quilting was selected for next year's meeting place of the United Brothers conference of Illinois. Rev. D. R. Sher, Canton, was elected recording secretary and Rev. Fowler, Bayreuth, treasurer.

Illinois Brevities

Pana.—Thomas Frost, seventy-five years old, for 45 years druggist and 15 years postmaster of Sycamore, southeast of here, died after a few hours' illness. He resigned as postmaster a week ago.

Herrin.—Biller Freeman, who shot and killed Mrs. Lottie Brown at Freeman's Spar, a mining settlement north of here, Sunday morning, has been captured after a several hour hunt, and was taken to jail in Marion. The body of the woman is in the morgue.

Waukegan.—The palatial Lake Forest residence of Charles B. Pike, wealthy banker, was destroyed by fire. Mr. Pike had filled his house with valuable furniture and paintings worth probably $500,000. There were all destroyed.

Paga.—Charles Wakefield, seventy-five years old, a retired farmer, was found dead in a corn field by his son. Wakefield was on his way from one son's home to that of another when stricken. It is presumed with heart disease.

Bloomington.—In leaving out of a city window near Strawn, Freeman Henry Bartsch of the Wabash railroad was fatally injured, being almost decapitated when the head struck the mail car. His home is in Decatur.

Aurora.—Charles Devereaux, a National farmer, was killed in a head-on collision near Sugar Grove while racing with other farmers in an auto bound for the annual live stock show match. Devereaux leaves a wife and three children.

Alton.—Daniel H. Davidson, more than fifty years a surveyor of wooded country, and with a nationwide reputation as a mathematician and author of books upon civic engineering, is dead here aged eighty-eight years.

Caroka.—The annual Woodford county convention of the W. C. T. U. was held here. The following officers were chosen: President, Mrs. Frank Goodrich, Alton; vice-president, Mrs. Gertrude Miller, El Paso; treasurer, Mrs. Roy L. Moore, Caroka; secretary, Mrs. Nease, El Paso; and recording secretary, Mrs. Clara Hann, El Paso.

El Paso.—William Norvick of Batavia prefers to go to jail rather than $200 or any part of the sum to North Davens of Batavia, who claims that she spent that much in preparing for their expected wedding. The claim he decreed her by herself a wedding ceremony was not necessary.

Lincoln.—Four jurors have been accepted in the trial of Carl Peters. Four peremptory challenges have been used by both state and defense. The jurors are: Ellis Dillon, attorney, clerk; Thomas Baird, lawyer; James H. Humber, thirty-five, farmer; Stephen Powers, forty-six, farmer. Seventy-five, vintner of the 12th remain.

Shelbyville.—R. S. Filmer, member of a wealthy family which maintains a home on a farm in this county, and a resident in Charleston, was sent to the county jail for refusal to pay a judgment of $50 rendered against him in the county court by a statutory charge. Filmer's father stationed a settlement for $100, but failing in this declared the boy would have to go to jail.

Aurora.—Addie Brown, twenty, a half-breed negro, Indian girl, committed from Chicago at the Geneva State Home for Girls, terminated the whole school when the rain struck armed with a butcher knife. She drove all the girls from Fifth cottage, the colored department of the schools. The girls' scream finally attracted the attention of matrons and the girl was overpowered and disarmed before she had seriously injured anybody, but not until she had set fire to the cottage, which was considerably damaged. The girls placed her in the county jail to await the return of Superintendent Carrie O'Connor of the home, who is at Springfield.

Springfield.—The sixth annual convention of the Illinois State League of Building and Loan associations opened here. One hundred and thirty-five local associations, with combined assets of $16,000,000, are represented. The speakers were P. H. Griffiths of St. Joseph, president of the league, and Morris Gordon of Jefferson City, state supervisor of building and loan associations. Interchange of funds between different associations, with good security and at good rates of interest, was suggested in the report of Burton McMinn of St. Louis, state secretary.

An investigation of the financial condition of Missouri associations, he said, has revealed that many associations are able and willing to loan funds, and willing to pay reasonable interest. A committee was named to draft resolutions in memory of W. J. Lewis of St. Louis.

Pekin.—Michael D. Conaghan, prominent lawyer, died, aged fifty-five. One sister, Mrs. Mary Danegher, Chicago, survives.

Urbana.—While watching a dress parade from the top of a telephone pole, Earl Kennedy fell 20 feet into a passing automobile. He landed on the rear seat cushion and was unhurt.

Bathington.—Beginning the first week of October, Rock river will be entered for carp under the supervision of game wardens. Deputy Game Warden Harb, last will have charge of the work from Oregon to South Bend.

1915-Buick Cars-1915

The Car of Power, Speed, Dependability and Durability

The Buick Line of Pumps and Sires for 1915—the greatest line of Cars the Buick organization has ever built. 1914 Buick success has been the talk of the motor world—a reputation merited by an abundance of power—faultless design—perfect performance and efficient Buick service. The five splendid models comprising the Buick line for 1915 is up to their promise to all buyers of Buick cars—and make certain a continued satisfaction and uninterrupted use.

The 1915 Buick models actually offer greatly increased value. The reduction of price is possible because of the volume of business, the improved factory methods, specialized labor and one more year's knowledge of experience in this great factory in new economies of construction. The new Buick system of styling, lighting and ignition, with an increased generating capacity of 35 per cent and automatic spark advance. Turbine steel valves. Carburetor supplied by Stewart-Warner gravity feed vacuum system.

Control conveniently located on instrument board in the coil. New cylinders on rear wheels. Improved quality of leather for the upholstery and floor finish. High grade stream line bodies, hoods and oval radiators. These are but a few of the Buick improvements, regardless of price, they are giving more value than ever before. They always have and will guarantee the Buick value—first motor to develop more power than any other type of automobile motor of equal size, American or foreign make.

POLITICS ON THE 7:35

By JOSEPH BARNHART.

The members of the Committee on the 7:35, who were comfortably seated in the fast train on the 7:35 and were at work on their papers or hats, were, as Mary insisted, the finest artists might be used in either capacity.

"My sister used to have a frame for a picture," she said, "and it was the nicest thing because whenever it got into the shop just take a crocheted cushion and cover the whole thing over and it looked as good as new again."

The other members decided that it added greatly to the interest of their work to have the results so varied in its line. If you liked to think you were making a masterpiece you might, or if you preferred a hat crown, you could think of it in that way. The majority in any case. Mabel was the only one of the group who was not altogether absorbed in the work at hand. Hidden behind a newspaper in a corner by the window, she had just taken out her crocheting.

"What has news?" asked Sadie, looking up from her city paper.

Mabel sighed and lowered the paper, showing a pained face for which there of worry were apparent. "It's more than I can do to follow these summer clothes," she explained. "They are getting so involved that even the ordinarily intelligent woman who wants to have a working knowledge of what she is going to do in New York city can hardly make head or tail of them."

"I know," said Sadie. "I've only heard the headlines lately and I don't believe I'll ever get the situation straight in my mind. You tell us what it is for as you understand it."

"Well," said Mabel, sitting on the edge of her seat and speaking with great deliberation. "First this way. Bulver and Whitman and Hennessey and Roosevelt and Hennessey all want to be governor of New York. I think that's right but I don't quite sure whether Roosevelt wants to be as much as the others. He'd rather be a president, I think."

"Five of them," said Sadie, counting them off on her fingers. "I shouldn't think Mr. Bulver would want to be governor again. He didn't have a very good time when he was governor before, did he?"

"Alley, yes," said Mabel, "but he says the people call him and he can't refuse to run."

"That shows a fine spirit, anyway," said Mabel. "It's not as hard for me to get the candidates in mind even if there are several new ones every day," said Mabel. "As it is to keep the parties straight. It must have been simple when there were just the Republicans and Democrats, or even when the Progressives started, but now there are the Progressives, Democrats and Progressives and even so many combinations it seems to me I can't quite make out how they are different from each other."

"Isn't there something they call 'Political' too?" asked the round-faced girl timidly.

"Oh, no," said Mabel, "that's only the city politics and they don't count this year. It's only state."

"I wouldn't be so sure if they both came at the same time some years," said Sadie.

"Perfectly terrible," said Mabel. The train stopped and the girls rolled up their work.

"I hope they don't nominate any more candidates or make up any new parties before next," said Sadie, with a sigh. "It's such a mess now that I keep well informed."

This Matter of Love Letters. Any man may be pardoned for asking to be saved from his love letters. And females love letters, if a shade less inconspicuous, are equally distressing when exposed to the public gaze. Several batches are just now being read out in court to the public and justice, and we think the protest against the placing of intimate emotions in the gallery will be universal.

The following letters established a respectable precedent for this sort of publicity, and recently Mrs. Parnell has chosen to follow this example. Some defense can be made for this kind of a great mind and heart, already in large degree, the possession of the public. Yet a feeling of distaste is aroused in many readers even in such cases.

When we pass to the reading in court of love letters written by unscrupulous private citizens, the feeling of distaste comes immediately close to home. Such a procedure may seem necessary in the course of a litigation. But every collector, nearby and afar, feels a sense of outrage, and the respect of the world suffers by just so much.

How Immigrants Carry Money. Immigrants that enter New York from Ellis Island all have different ways of carrying their money. The Irish immigrant carries a canvas bag in which notes and coins are crumpled together. The Germans wear a money belt, say French and Italians carry their money in their high boots, and the Chinese keep their cash in tin boxes.

The French is sure to have an immense pocketbook of coins that has been handed down from father to son for generations. The Spaniards carry their money in their high boots, along with a fork and spoon.

To Clean Walls.

An excellent wash for cleaning painted walls is made by dissolving two ounces of borax in two quarts of water. Add one teaspoonful of soda, use half of this mixture to a pint of water and wipe with each until the Chicago Journal. After washing the walls rub them with clean cloths until dry.

Where He Drew the Line. Senator President—He simply has to wake up in the morning and hear the leaves whispering outside your window. City Man—It's all right to hear the leaves whisper, but I never could stand hearing the grass move.—Tribune.

A Secret-keeper.

One of the first secret-keepers on record was an Irishman, a prisoner of 78, who was captured with a comrade. He told the officer in command that he could make very important disclosures, but that he dared not do so as long as the other man lived, since his life would not be worth a day's purchase if that other managed to escape. The officer promptly ordered that difficult out of the way; whereupon the prisoner said: "Now shoot me as soon as you please; I have no more to say."

For Nods Wield. Take common white beans, roast until a good brown, then grind them fine and take as snuff.

Birds Don't Like Bright Colors.

Marine, bluebird and vireo do not take kindly to houses made of new, bright wood. Their instincts lead them to prefer the places which more easily resemble the trunks of decayed trees, in which their ancestors have nested from time immemorial. Build your birdhouse to suit the birds rather than to please your own tastes.—Farm and Poultry.

Quick at Repairs. Teacher—"Williams, after selling merchandise, where do you put it, on the debit side or the credit side?" Williams (after a half second's thought)—"You put it on the truck."
