CHAPTER XXIX.

The Red Death.

So they were left, these two—the East and the West—alone upon the mighty pyre of the "blackened peaks." Only the forbidding aspect of the Hog Back, running like a great thin blade high between the red putrifying mounds, carried a picture of the roaring death.

Now she turned back to the two men who lay on the ground, silent under the shielding folds of their robes and his robe. Sandy pined upon the earth, his face in the folds of his robe. She passed him and laid her hand on the forehead of the man who lay on the other. Her eyes were fixed on the old look of emotion, she bared the white face and gazed long upon it. The call of blood had ever led her to this man. She had loved him both were ignorant of the vital link between them, the presence because of the dreamy blank in his mind since the tragedy of the fall in the hills. Because Kalarwee, being of his generation, had seen how blood makes to its own, even at its cost. He had loved her mother and had tried to make her his. Then, she was white, a wife of the old frontier, and he had seen her break her heart and die.

Therefore, after silent hours by the Great Waters, he had accepted the mandate of destiny and had taken the fabled of the Broken Star and given her to the only white woman in the land. Trust, his duty who took her with few questions when she said he would not tell her history. So now Sandy looked for the first and last time closely upon her own. Presently she leaned over and kissed him softly, replaced the furs and robes.

Beside Sandy's head, a great, a moment gazing around at the pale holes that looked like fearful sockets in the smoke, and sat down beside him, testing her hand. She moved the motion of the blanket-wearer, and her skirt, so deeply had she absorbed the ways of the dusky people whom she loved.

She did not speak. When at last the man, his face drawn out of all semblance to itself, raised his eyes to her and was calm as the hills before the rain. He lay on his side, raising himself on his elbow, looked long while Kalarwee was born in him.

So this was the West, the land he had once thought no unexplored, this was the wild, the untamed, the crude. His elfin-faced creature who served him without question, he had bought her with his life. He had nothing, who stayed by him to die because she loved him. Who still believed in him despite that "black declaration" that she was his wife. And yet, his culture, polished, had come down to him and safety, but he had forgotten in the face of the desert. He went what he had thought "the best blood of the land."

Nay, he had been wrong. It was here beside him, his feet traced under in its meekness, the softness of its skin black eyes! The last barrier went down in Walter Sandy's, the last strand of prejudice broke with a snap. He realized that he had caught the heart of her ragged girl.

"Little Sister!" he said, brokenly. "Oh, little Sister! What am I that you should have done this thing?"

She looked at him and the rare smile curled up the corner of her lips above the furs.

"You are my man," she said softly. "The king of the only people in the world are the light on the waters, Sandy, the mist in the valleys, the path to the feet of God. Only I have lost my feeling thereon."

A tender wistfulness came in her voice. She felt silent after her fashion when great emotions stirred her. Sandy's eyes were closed under aching tears. His chin was buried in the folds of the blanket, and he looked at her with a burning and his scorned and blackened hands clasp, trembling, to Sister's skirt.

"See, little one! I come at last to you! God above the sea! Take my hand that we may go together, and pray."

But the girl raised a calm face to the unspeakable heavens—a face in which all struggle had been stilled, where there was either hope or fear, only great content.

"No," she said, "I cannot pray for I have no soul. I have lost it at the price of love."

The man could not speak and she answered the look in his face.

"We will go together. You have had no God. I have forgotten mine! We will go to hell. It is in the light, the sure and just way of life, she was falling into the stately Bible language, taking on the simple diction of the preacher's son, and said: "You will go together. I give my soul to you."

Biting his ashon lips Sandy rose on his knees and embraced her last time. He held her to him with all the yearning of his breaking heart and buried his face in her throat.

shrieking hoarsely that two women were lost up there and that he was going after them. As he ran, looking up, something fell from the hidden heavens and splashed upon his face. It stopped him in his tracks. Then another fell and another, big, blashing drops that struck him like hail in their portent. They thickened swiftly, beating up the light ashes in tufts, and from the gathered man, busy with roll and blanket, there came first astounded exclamations and then, as the drops gathered headway, a mighty cheer that rent the cavernous sides, even as a cry of thunder shook the hills!

"The rains! they're heavy, the rains! The rains!"

It was then even so. Nature took a hand and sent Destiny skulking from the havoc of her carnival. The playthings turned to a downpour.

Among the mountains the effect was indescribable. The thing that took place was too big for man to grasp. It was greater than the fires had been. Long sheets of water fell all about the world, slanting down the sides of the infinite. They dashed in among the canyons, played along the ridges, lashed slope and ledge and valley.

The smoke was beaten to the earth in a blanket that spread over hundreds of miles and more. It writhed and twisted and was lost in the clouds of steam that hid, hissing, high above the hills. The cold play with the Coast country. Daily turned his face away from any man and the general went to the little south room in the cook-house for unaccustomed privacy.

The world turned blue with rain as it had been white with smoke. And the pygmies, men, who had followed the trail, dashed their faces in the blackened hands in triumph and shouted with the last of their voices.

For an hour, two, it rained, until the thick, sparkling of the devastated slopes were blotted out.

"It's mighty unusual, a rain's hard's this—especially the first rains," said a man from Toledo, earnestly. "Don't ever remember one's hard. D'you, Bill?"

Presently, in the second hour of the downpour, a strange procession loomed out of the gray-blue mist, strutting the men who were out in it, too glib to shirk its worst, standing like ducks in the ashmud.

It was the long, shining body of a giant dog, still tugging at the reins tied to his collar, a dripping black horse, tired to the point of falling, and the driver who sat astride to the can't with stripes of broadcloth, whose face was not good to look upon. It bore upon its features the brand of "Toledo" horses.

They tucked around her with cheers and eager hands, and questions that tumbled over each other. But John Dally thrust them all aside to seize her wrist and demand word of Sandy and Ellet.

"They're—up behind—the Hog Back," she stuttered as she spoke that last name. "We're hanging back—the fire—with candles."

Here there were awed mutterings. "He—shot that—Preacher. He said—'That Hell dog'—we recorded all right—but that—owned—the recorder."

She seemed dully bent on straightening out some tangle. "Sandy is a man—don't let it kill him—don't let it—his—alive. No, I don't mean—that. He—sent me down. The horse was—near—done." As she slid down into Dally's arms she said with her last ounce of strength but with such commanding spirit that he knew she was in deadly earnest. "Get me—a conveyance—once, I want to be taken to Toledo—for the night train—out."

Thus it came, that, as night closed down, blue with rain over the tortured country, two lines of import to the fortresses of the Dillingworth and its owner were taking place. Poppy Orday stood on the platform of the dreary station at the last little town on the backwater, fought for the outside world and the far cities.

At the same moment yet one more procession was coming slowly down from among the peaks, a line of men—a long line, for weary as they were dozens had followed the forerunners into the wrecked, mud-deep forest—who had gone over to Hampden.

It was a significant fact that scattered along that scarred line was every man of Sandy's old crew who had gone over to Hampden.

In one thing there swung gently the still figure of the Preacher, his Book upon his breast, his martial face beside it, his glimmering of the Past forgotten in his wistful searching eyes.

In the other lay Sandy, his right hand clasping two small dark ones whose owner trudged faithfully beside him, following all orders of assistance.

A boy lay in his heart, his lips moved noiselessly in the rolling Latin of a "To Do." This was the hour for which he had carefully learned it at college.

Unhappily he acknowledged the existence of that Power which he had once denied to Sister.

And the little man who had lost her soul for love lifted wondering eyes toward the west ridge, hidden in the dim distance, where her sanctuary, the gray-foot, red stump, waited in vain for her rites of worship.

There was a wistful pathos in her calm acceptance of the mighty prayer which had been asked of her, and yet she was content. She had offered her soul and body, exalted, glorified, in that she might serve this man.

Where her soul had been there was a screaming, burning, scorching passion which tightened her clasp on Sandy's hand. Neither she nor the young owner realized that they had exchanged places on the path of life.

The procession, headed by John Dally who carried one end of Sandy's a great height, and it bore upon a shroud of drizzle, rain, steam, washed and witnessed by the rain.

Daily halted and sent a cry along the line.

They touched the thing with awed amazement, turning up in the blue dusk

They Do Not Take Time for God's Word, Is Assertion by New York Pastor.

"Pity the poor rich, for they are the poorest of all. They are barricaded against the resurrection power of light after many years. The silver mines of Laurium were abandoned more than 2,000 years ago as unwearable, and were mined for the most part with the slag from the workings of the miners."

So Rev. Joseph W. Kemp, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, explained to the Sunday sermon in which he said that "the crying need of religion in this city is to put Bibles in the homes of the wealthy."

True riches are within. They are riches enter into the kingdom of heaven," the divine earnestly quoted. "It is not that the possession of riches is inconsistent with Christianity, but that the rich grow to worship the riches of their own brains—money. They believe that riches may be counted in the palm. This is not so. True riches are within. They are millions of the mind, Rockefeller of the soul, and they are often found in the poorest—the rich poor whose doors and whose intellects are open to the Gospel of Christ."

"To what do you attribute the religious apathy of the rich?" I asked Doctor Kemp.

"The rich are obsessed with materialism," Doctor Kemp answered. "They have all the time in the world to read the latest novel, to go and see the latest play, but they have no time for the word of God."—Nixon Greeley-Smith, in "The World."

Marketing Farm Products. United States Senator Fletcher has called a meeting of the national marketing committee to devise means to aid Representative W. S. Goodwin of Arkansas, a member of the committee.

"The farmer gets 35 cents and the middleman gets 65 cents for each dollar the consumer pays for the farmer's crops. There is an enormous amount of waste, especially in perishable products, because of the lack of some central directing intelligence."

SOME WESTERN CANADA GRAIN REPORTS

In its issue of February 24th, 1916, the Western (Min.) Pioneer journal contains the following letter from Western Canada written by Walter Glendon, who is receiving his subscription to his home paper. "The times we are having up here are very good in spite of the war. I have had very good crops this fall and we are having very good markets for it all. Wheat went from 30 to 60 bu. to the acre, oats from 50 to 100 bu. to the acre. I had an 18-acre field of oats which yielded me 115 bu. per acre by machine measure, so I think this is a pretty prosperous country. I have purchased another quarter section, which makes me now the owner of three-quarters of a section of land. The weather was very nice this fall up to Christmas, then we had quite a severe winter, but so far the present time is very nice again."

"I lived many years in Alberta; lived a homestead in the Edmonton district; owned property in several parts of Alberta. I found it one of the best countries in the world. Its banking system is better than that of the United States; one quarter section 1 own, with $4,000.00 worth of improvements, pays $18.00 a year taxes. All tax is on the land; improvements and persons are not taxed. I was secretary-treasurer of Aspinhead school district for two years. My duties were to assess all the land in the district, collect the tax, expend it ($1,000.00 a year), hire a teacher, etc., for the sum of $25.00 a year. Some economy, oh yes."

"All school and road taxes are expended in the districts where they are collected. There are no other taxes. Land titles are guaranteed by the government and an abstract costs fifty cents. Half of the population of Alberta are Americans or from Eastern Canada. (Sgd.) WILL TRUCKEN-MILLER, Advertisement."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BACK HURTS

Says Too Much Meat Forms Uric Acid Which Clogs the Kidneys and Irritates the Bladder.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the best of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so that no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; takes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which cures you should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

To Reduce Flesh Safely. If one really wishes to reduce the flesh without injury, careful diet is absolutely necessary. Milk, eggs, poultry and fresh fruits are good, and you must have lots of water, air and sunlight. Bicycle riding is better, than walking, and dancing also helps to reduce.

Eat only simple, light foods without fats, greases, oils, starches and gravies. Shun all liquors and hot drinks and eat nothing after six o'clock in the afternoon. Do not sleep over seven hours at night and avoid an afternoon nap as you would the plague. The juice of a lemon, taken in a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of Rochelle salts at night is also good.

BIRD BATHS.

Fig. 1 illustrates a battery of four pan, tubs. Get four saucers five or six inches in diameter, and make a frame for each of just the right size so the rim will rest upon the upper edges (Fig. 2). By lapping the strips as indicated, A, B and C can be cut of equal length. Strip D must be enough longer to provide for nailing the frame to the post support.

Fig. 1 shows the homemade filling device, and Figs. 3, 4 and 5, details of its construction. Side strips A of the framework are 11 inches long, 1 inch thick and 2 inches wide; and the cross blocks B and C are 4 1/2 inches long—B of the width and thickness of strips A, and C a piece of 2 by 4. This framework is to be slipped over the end of a clothespole; therefore, in assembling its parts, fasten strip B to the right distance from C so a clothespole will fit snugly between them. Cut blocks D (Fig. 5) of the proper size to make the opening of the right width for the pole.

Fig. 5 shows how a can is fastened on the sides to form a support, for the filling receptacle, and how holes are pierced through opposite sides of a carriage bolt, by which to mount the can. Here holes of the diameter of the bolt, through strips A near their open ends, and through two blocks E. Blocks E form washers to keep the narrow top of the can centered, so the bottom will not strike strips A when being inverted.

Fig. 4 shows how the cord for inverting the can is attached to the upright, passed beneath, and down through a screw-eye screwed into block E.

The duplex bath in Figs. 6 and 7 has a pulley arrangement for raising and lowering it. Fig. 8 shows the framework for holding the pans. The lengths of the strips A and B will be determined by the size of the pans:

and the length of blocks C may fit the size of the post support, which must fit loosely in the center opening covered by them. Screw a screw-eye into the center of the top edge of strip C.

After slipping the framework over the post support, staple a pair of clothesline pulleys to opposite sides of the post, near the top, on the same sides as the screw-eyes in strips C; then tie the ropes to the pulleys, and drive nails into the post near the base to fasten the rope ends to when the framework has been raised.

HARMLESS PRANKS, FOR APRIL FIRST.

Nobody objects to being fooled on April first, providing the prank is free from every element of danger that might result in personal injury or damage of some sort.

During the early morning, the clock is probably the most looked upon object in the house. Therefore, if it develops an extra pair of hands overnight, the abnormality is not likely to escape anyone.

and hour hand are cut out of black paper. Paste the hands in place.

One of the most surprising and annoying things for father or mother to discover is, a fresh crack across the corner of one of the large panes of window glass. You can make a perfect imitation of a broken window pane by gluing a piece of cotton wrapping-twine to the glass in the manner indicated in Fig. 3. Put only a touch of glue here and there, where you make a turn with the string. I have never known this deception to fail, even when the person examining the window has stood but three feet away.

Quite as startling as the "broken" window pane is the sight of an overturned ink bottle upon one's writing-desk. The ink bottle used in this prank must be empty, of course, and the split ink must be represented by a piece of black paper placed so as to extend up to the neck of the bottle.

You will have the job of cleaning up after playing the paper-shower window-shade prank, but never mind the work, you will have had your fun. Take down the window-shade roller from its fixtures, unroll the shade, scatter paper over the unrolled portion (Fig. 6), then roll it up again, and replace the roller in its fixtures.

Father or brother may be greatly excited upon seeing a stick apparently running right through the crown of his everyday hat (Fig. 7). This prank does no damage in the least, because the upper end of the stick is sawed off (Fig. 8), and only a needle runs through the hat crown, to join the two pieces.

"The fatterer shown in Figs. 9, 10 and 11 may be mailed in due time to be received on April first. By having it come by mail no suspicion will be aroused. The fatterer consists of two rolled-up pieces of paper, folded over, and connected by a rubber-band. Twist the papers in opposite directions, until the rubber-band is twisted very tight. Then place between the folds of a sheet of note paper, slip the paper into an envelope, and seal, address, stamp, and mail.

Upon removing the paper from the envelope, the fatterer will jump about very lively until the rubber-band is entirely unwound, when the person receiving it will be able to read the "message."

The Master's Reception Evening

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE

TEXT—Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together.—Heb. 10:25.

I. The ideal prayer meeting never happens. If it is a good meeting, somebody has put prayer and thought and work into it. The laws of grace are as rigid, and as reliable, too, as the laws of nature. "Heaven may be had for the asking," says the poet, but the ideal prayer meeting is not attained, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to give your skin get-clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract.

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexions, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphate hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should try this for a week and notice results.

Backache and Kidneys

Dear Mr. Editor:
For the benefit of others, I gladly give this statement regarding the merits of "Anuric." An acute 70 years of age. I suffered from backache, weak back, rheumatism, and could not control the excretion of the kidneys. I can safely say that "Anuric," the new discovery of Dr. Pierce, of "Lewiston," Buffalo, N. Y., has done me more good than anything I have ever taken for these ailments. Signed—Mrs. N. M. Flint.

NOTE:—A new remedy, called "Anuric," has been discovered by Dr. Pierce. It cures backache, headache and the darting pains and aches of rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles. This "Anuric" is 37 times more potent than lithia, and dissolves uric acid, as hot water does sugar.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is absolutely free from alcohol and injurious drugs. Its ingredients printed on wrapper. It can be certain it is a true blood-maker, tissue-builder, and a restorative nerve tonic and that it will produce no evil after-effects. Thousands—probably many of your neighbors—are willing to recommend "Golden Medical Discovery" because it has made them stronger in body, brain and nerve.

Now is the time to bring to your aid Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (in tablet or liquid form). This wonderful remedy helps to restore stomach to its normal health and strength, to secure proper flow of the digestive juices, a good appetite and full digestion of the food you eat. It invigorates the liver, regulates the bowels and purifies and enriches the blood.

Bad Cough? Feverish? Grippy?

These Ailments Weaken Your System. Your Body Then Needs the Help of Dr. King's New Discovery.

Colds are annoying. They interfere with our duties. In one weakened condition they may lead to a spell of sickness or even more serious ailments. Fear, however, should be overcome, for in Dr. King's New Discovery you have an effective remedy.

The pupils of the second room have been painting daffodils this week and they have done their work so well that the teacher has used them for a blackboard display.

The following letter, dated at Anderson, Ind., March 23, from the American Playground Device company, has just been received by Superintendent E. S. Smith, which fully explains itself.

"Your favor of recent date received. Your letter is a strange one to us and to be frank with you, the second one of its kind to be received by this company. We have had in our five years experience, very few accidents and regret very much that you have had two of them, but do you think that your school building would tear down the school building, if some boy fell down the steps and broke his arm or leg, or do you think that you would be liable for damage if some child would fall down stairs and injure himself? We do not believe there is danger of liability suits being charged against you for an injury that might take place by using the playground equipment."

The equipment is just as much a part of the education of the child as is the school book, as it is just as important to train the body of the child as it is the mind. We have just finished equipping sixty schools in the city of Chicago, and about the same number in Cincinnati last year, also Milwaukee and many other large schools in large cities.

"We put a model playground on the Exposition grounds in California, and this equipment, there, was used by many hundred thousand children without a single accident of any kind."

"We do not think that your school board need worry about the equipment you have in your school. It is just the remedy needed. Get a bottle to-day. Take at once. You will feel much better to-morrow. All druggists."

Because a number of complaints have come to the Board of Education concerning the play ground apparatus, installed west of the building, blanks have been sent to parents reading like the notice published elsewhere in this paper. The purpose in doing this is to enable the board to know more fully the wishes of the parents. It is hoped the parents will take this opportunity to express themselves on a question of interest to every one.

The Standard of Value and Quality

COME, brother—wake up. Sniff the air and you will find that the thrilling breath of spring is already there.

Look about you. Sense the newest—the freshness—of it all. See how the lagging step of the crowd has quickened into a full swinging stride.

See those cars "break" at the traffic officer's whistle—watch them come down three or four abreast at the "getaway"—hear the shrill merry note of the sirens and the good natured chaff of the drivers.

This means Spring. This means the "open season." This means Touring at its best.

Surely, you are not going to be "left behind" this year. Surely, you are not going to keep the wife and kiddies indoors when all the world is hiking far afield.

Perhaps, you already know it—but what you need is a big, handsome, sturdy Paige "Six-40".

Nothing less will completely satisfy you—nothing more is necessary for any man no matter how wealthy he may be. So, don't hesitate—don't procrastinate.

Tell the stenographer that you will be "out" for a short spell and hustle right over to the Paige dealer. Tell him your troubles—and let him prescribe.

Happenings of the World Tensely Told

Mexican Revolt

Villa is flying southward toward the foothills of the Sierras. According to army reports received at Columbus, N. M., the rapidity of his flight is precipitating the American pursuit. All arms of the service are being used in an attempt to force the band into a corner.

Threatened complications in the Mexican situation developed at Washington when the senate Republicans declined to accept the administration's assurance that sufficient troops were on the border to protect American interests and not to carry the agitation for more troops further to the south.

Elias Miles, the Villa lieutenant shot through the head in battle, died at Columbus, N. M., March 21, after a long illness. He was 34 years old and was a son of a pioneer settler.

A telegram to San Antonio, Tex., from Mexico City made public by the Mexican consulate states that the governor of Sonora has issued an order expelling all priests.

"Not a pound of war material of any sort has gone through this port into Mexico for many weeks," said Collector of Customs Colburn at El Paso, Tex.

Villa has escaped from the Mexican troops that have checked him near Nahuatla, and three columns of American cavalry are pursuing him. Villa defeated the Carranzas troops. Already they are 200 miles south of the border. Villa's success was related in a detailed report by General Pershing that reached General Funston at San Antonio, Tex.

Air scouts are proving invaluable to the American expeditionary force in Mexico, according to Lieut. T. S. Down, who reached Columbus, N. M., He has been invaluable to San Antonio as the result of a fall.

Janos, 40 miles northwest of Casas Grandes, Mex., and on the route taken by the American expeditionary force, was set on fire, presumably by a band of Mexican bandits. Four large fires were reported by Americans.

Three Americans, two women and one man, were killed in a battle near the border. The Mexican expeditionary force, eight miles west of Columbus, N. M., presumably by Mexicans.

Lieut. Edgar S. Gorrell of the United States army corps, who has been missing since last Sunday, was found three miles south of Asencion by a motorized train. According to reports made to military headquarters at Columbus, N. M., Lieut. Gorrell was unharmed.

Juan Sanchez and Pablo Sanchez, two of the Mexicans arrested after the Villa raid on Columbus, were held at Columbus, N. M., without bail for the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Domestic

American citizenship was refused to Takao Ozawa, a Japanese, in a test case at Honolulu, H. I. The court ruled that Japanese are Mongolians and that the word "white" does not include the Mongolian race. Judge Charles F. Clemens of the United States district court denied Ozawa citizenship papers.

Chicago faces a milk famine beginning April 1. A strike has been called for that date by the Milk Producers' association, which takes in the territory of northern Illinois and Indiana and southern Wisconsin. A strike from $13.13 to $15.50 per hundredweight is demanded.

Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, editor of the Los Angeles Times, continues to improve in his fight against pneumonia. He passed a good night without the aid of stimulants.

Six persons were drowned when a gasoline launch was run aground and sunk by the Steamer "Columbia" near San Francisco.

In the presence of Miss Grace Hartman, a high school student, Hardy Robinson, twenty-four, shot and killed Alvin Phillips, seventeen, a rival for the girl's favor, at Miss Hartman's home in Lexington, Ind.

Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, governor of the Panama Canal Zone, called from New York for Panos on the steamship Patroca. He said he was confident that the canal would be opened on April 15, as had been the expectation.

Detectives sent to New York to arrest Dr. Arthur Warren White in connection with the death of John B. Beck, a millionaire druggist of Grand Rapids, Mich., found him in a condition of stupor as a result of an opiate, self-administered.

The crews were taken prisoners. Bombs did no damage, says the statement. London says two German patrol vessels were sunk by British destroyers.

The Hamburg-American liners Prinz Adalbert and Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which were seized at Falmouth at the outbreak of the war, were contained in prize court as prizes, according to a dispatch from London.

Foreign

Lieut. Sir Ernest Shackleton, the polar explorer, was delayed a year when one of his vessels broke from his moorings at the Ross sea base, said a dispatch from Sydney, N. S. W., leaving the expedition party ashore and unable to embark for another year.

Washington

The house at Washington voted, 225 to 82, to retain the literacy test in the Burnett immigration bill.

It was authoritatively stated at Washington that the president would communicate the situation fully to congress before taking any definite steps which might lead to rupture of diplomatic relations as a result of the attacks on the steamers Sussex and Englishman. It was stated that should it be shown that a German submarine attacked the Sussex, Germany would disavow the act.

The senate bill designed at Washington to increase the number of cases at West Point was ordered favorably reported by the house military committee with a few minor changes.

More than half a dozen of the American survivors have sworn to affidavits at the United States embassy declaring their belief that the ship was torpedoed by a submarine.

Fears for the safety of Professor and Mrs. Baldwin and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, were set at rest by a telegram from Boulogne stating that all had been landed on the French coast.

WAITE KILLED PECKS

"THE MAN FROM EGYPT MADE ME DO IT," HE DECLARES TO GOTHAM OFFICIALS.

RAVES OF JEKYL-HYDE

Dentist Says He Gave Both Victims Gums and Fed Poison Also to His Father-in-Law—Police Seek Under-taker Who Embalmed Body.

New York, March 30.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite confessed on Tuesday that he killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hannah Peck, with disease germs and murdered his father-in-law, John B. Peck, with arsenic.

In making the confession he laid the groundwork for his defense on the plea of mental irresponsibility. He attributed two natures to himself—a good and an evil one—and said that the evil nature, a stranger to his real self, dominated him when he committed the crimes.

The essential part of the dentist's confession was made to District Attorney Swann and District Attorney Atorney's Mancuso and Brothers in the presence of former Assistant Attorney General R. Deuel, who has been engaged counsel for Dr. Waite.

The lawyers walked into the private room of the alcoholic ward, to which Dr. Waite had been removed, and found the man lying on a bed rubbing his hand across his forehead, seemingly in a shaken and uncertain condition. "Don't you remember me?" asked Mr. Deuel. "You talked to me last Friday."

"Did I?" asked Dr. Waite. There was a moment's pause before Dr. Waite spoke again.

"Oh, but that doesn't matter," he said. "It's all over now. I did it all. I killed Mrs. Peck and Mr. Peck. The man from Egypt made me do it. He was after me for a long time. I couldn't shake him off. I wasn't able to get rid of him until last night."

"He's gone now, but I couldn't get away from him for a long time. I don't know what his name was. I asked him and he didn't tell me. I was afraid of him. I told Clara about him."

By "Clara" Dr. Waite meant his wife, who now is in Grand Rapids. Representatives of the district attorney's office are searching for the undertaker who embalmed the body of Peck. Mr. Swann declared Waite had told him that he had made an agreement with the undertaker that for a consideration of $9,000 the latter would testify that he had used arsenic in the fluid with which he embalmed Peck's body.

Earlier in the day Dr. Waite talked freely to his brother and Raymond C. Schneider, the private detective employed by the Peck family.

He described himself as a personification of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, saying that for many years he had struggled with a good nature, against an evil personality that many times dominated him and drove him to acts of which his better self, the self known in tennis clubs and to his friends, was utterly ashamed.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are sure to use it."

—Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 625 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

City Without Private Houses. In one respect a point not so flattering to metropolitan complacency—New York is unique among great cities: Manhattan is a city without private houses. In the last fifteen years few private dwellings have been built, except those of millitaries. In that same period thousands of the old brownstone fronts of a previous generation have been dismantled to make way for tenements and apartments. Forty years the city has been undergoing a process of "tenementization."

New York is a city almost exclusively of tenements and apartments—that is its most striking architectural and social characteristic.

Prying Cow Storms Trench. The New York Herald has a picture with a caption when he is digging hereafter.

He was playing pick and shovel in an excavation at Thirty-fifth and Lyndale avenues N. when a large object lurched to the edge of the hole and dropped in.

It was a cow.

She stuck so tight that it took two fire companies to hoist her out and release the workmen.

Skongard resumed his labor—nineteenpence Journal.

Miss Unkind. "Miss Seroloff says she is going to marry one man in a thousand."

"The last one?" asked Miss Cutten.

At the Ball. He (to his dancing partner)—"This is the floor."

She—"Then why dance on my feet?"

Ever Eat Grape-Nuts?

There's a vast army of physical and mental workers who do.

One reason—its delicious nut-like flavor.

Another—it is easily and quickly digested generally in about one hour.

But the big reason is—Grape-Nuts besides having delicious taste, supplies all the rich nutrients of whole wheat and malted barley, including the "vital" mineral salts necessary for building brain, nerve and muscle.

Always ready to eat direct from the package, Grape-Nuts with cream or good milk is a well balanced ration—the utmost in sound nourishment.

PRICE and QUALITY

When you part with the amount of cash necessary to buy a manure spreader, you have a right to expect a good deal. When you invest your money in a Litchfield Spreader, you get a good deal. We guarantee value received for every dollar you pay. It is impossible to put the best of everything into anything and sell it at a low price for quality and price go hand in hand. The Litchfield Spreader is constructed from the standpoint of value. A low price means cheap construction and cheap construction means repair bills.

The first cost is not the test of cheapness. In buying a manure spreader you must not forget to take into consideration the cost of repairs and the length of time it will last. Do not allow the penny near your eye to hide the dollar in the distance. Remember that the best is always the cheapest in buying a manure spreader or anything else.

The secret of success in the Litchfield Spreader which was especially designed for us by The Litchfield Mfg. Company, lies in the patented points which no one else can use. Come in and examine the Self-Cleaning Apron, No-Choke Box and Bull Dog Cylinder. We want you to investigate these points which are really the only new principles in spreader building in the last twenty years.

The written contract which every purchaser of a Litchfield Spreader can get guaranteeing his machine for five years is substantial evidence of the strength, durability and value of this machine. Other spreaders are guaranteed for one year. If the Litchfield Spreader wasn't better, the manufacturers couldn't guarantee it for five times as long.
