surety were approved on motion

Trustee Hager.

L. H. Bencet, village clerk, submitted a bond with George J. Hager and George F. Stiefenhofer as sureties.

The village ordinances do not permit of village trustees signing bonds of village officers and the attention of the board was called to this fact by Trustee Plagge. The bond was withdrawn.

F. J. Landwehr made an appeal for the improvement of streets and the division. The board instructed the clerk to notify owners of property on the east side of Division street to build sidewalks. The master of improving the streets was referred to the street commissioner.

Simon Ziegler asked the board what action had been taken in regard to his request for a sidewalk on the east side of Walnut street from Liberty to Main street. He was told that arrangements were made for the necessary dirt to make the fill to bring the walk up to grade and was given to understand that the sidewalk would be built this season.

L. C. Stephens, district manager of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, presented three propositions for the lighting of streets. After considerable discussion the board, on motion Trustee Schwemmen, adopted the plan known as No. 2, and authorized the president and village clerk to enter into contract for a term of ten years.

This plan provides for ninety-two nit-ogen lamps of 60-candle power with service every night until one o'clock a.

m. and morning service from 5 o'clock board adjourned.

present only nine 60-candle power use of the cut-out on automobiles and the thought that the state law requiring

PRETTY HOME WEDDING YESTERDAY

Miss Pomeroy Becomes Wife of Promising Young Stockman Wednesday Afternoon

A pretty home wedding occurred on Wednesday afternoon, June 7, at four o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
F. P. Poncroy on South Hawley street, when their gifted daughter, Miss Genevieve, was happily married to Louis E. Thacher. The wedding ceremony was played by Miss Almeda Plagge, and to the strains of the music the bride and bridegroom took their places in the parlor attended by Harry Thacher, brother of the groom, as best man, and Miss Mabel Grebe as bridesmaid. Rev. H. Thoresen performed the ceremony.

The bride appeared beautifully gowned in white, satin and beaded lace, carrying a large shower bouquet of bridal roses. The congratulations were most hearty, and the young couple started life together.

Mr. Poncroy is a successful farmer.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done, but I did it much better. Dr. E. Bisham's Vegetable Compound that I tried. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you could want. Now I feel well again and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 615 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be most valuable tonic and restorative of the female system.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Bisham Medical Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it will be confidential.

Watch Wasn't Necessary. The colon of a certain regiment in Victoria's army is the model for obedience, instant and complete. "Smith," he said to his orderly recently, "I want you to go down to the railway station and get me the correct time."

Smith shuffled his feet and fidgeted with his fingers.

"Well, man," roared the officer irritably, "why don't you do as you are told?"

"Please, sir," replied the orderly meekly, "I haven't a watch."

"A watch—a watch!" snapped the colonel. "What d'ye want a watch for? Just write it down on a bit of paper."

His Reason.

Moved to pity at the sight of a small boy hugging a monstrous bundle of newspapers, a man stopped and asked: "Don't all those papers make you tired?"

"Nope, the little newsie replied cheerfully. "I can't read."—Path Finder.

The Great Objection. "Don't you realize that the who insist on sharing him out talk?"

"No," replied Miss Cayenne; "pot unless no compels other people to listen."

A man may be lucky because he is married—or because he isn't.

Concentrated Satisfaction

A great many former users of tea and coffee have learned that there is a pure food beverage made from wheat, which has a delightful flavor.

It never exacts of its users the tribute of sleeplessness, heart-flutter, headache and other ills often caused by the drug, caffeine, in coffee and tea.

Instant Postum

suggests the snappy flavor of mild java coffee, but is absolutely free from caffeine or any harmful ingredient. Instant Postum is in condensed, soluble form, and wonderfully convenient for the home—for the picnic—travel—everywhere.

If tea or coffee interferes with comfort or success, as it does for many users, try a shift to Postum.

STYLES IN BLOUSES FRECKLES

WIDE CHOICE BOTH IN MATERIALS AND FASHIONING.

Georgette Crepe Continues a Close Second to Chiffon in Favor—White Silk Not Much Used by Smart Dressmakers.

Ever since the mill people learned to make chiffon cloth that was transparent and serviceable, women have gladly accepted it for blouses. Often they adopt the French "trick" of putting a shoulderless lining of flesh-colored or white lace, and this like many other things found on the French market, is a great success. Many like the garment in better fashion and makes it give longer service. This lining is loose, and is made like a deep girdle, and instead strips, and in the front of fabric, and which is a good idea, which have been so extensively used for neckwear, have been cordially taken up by the makers of blouses.

The plain white organdie vala is embossed with one or more colors, sometimes in the simple and ever-pleasing design of scallops, again in polka dots, and in stripes of brilliant red and blue, green, blue and white.

Because polka-dot frock is so fashion, we will be able to wear separate blouses of polka-dot fabric with the pleased feeling that we are quite in the middle of the picture. Taffeta and satin are not looked upon with any degree of warmth, but taffeta is applied to chiffon and then embroidered with gold and silver, and then up on ornate blouses. White silk not of a thinness of weave that one is caused to mistake it for tulle, has crept downward in the scale of dressing from a ball gown to a blouse. Its acceptance by the smart dressmakers for this purpose leads the way for the now notes that have come over from France for gowns such as the famous "tulle with the air of a dot woven in it." The former is especially attractive for a blouse to be worn with a serif or silk suit.

Everyone knows by this time that the smartest of French blouses drops over the skirt instead of going under the skirt. This is made in many a Russian blouse. Chiffon and silk out in white organdie, and it has led the way for a dozen other conceptions by our own dressmakers.

One of the most successful ways in which it has been copied is in colored silk jersey, touched up with a simple embroidered design in one or more colors, and held in by a wide belt of knitted silk like a man's cravat, fastened with a large, oblong silver brooch.

Some of these blouses are in white with a Pierrot design of black embroidery, but others, intended for country wear, are of yellow, turquoise and blue-colored organdie.

It is a relief to chiffon blouses, because they have proven the most successful fabric. Its predecessors were failure, but it serves the need. It will remain in fashion as far ahead as a picture can see, and yet it is having the honors of the hour with several other fabrics that have been brought to the front.

DECORATION FOR SOFT SILKS

Many Ideas Have Been Put Forward, Some Highly Decorative and Some in Quieter Forms.

Little medallions and bouquets and tiny little baskets of flowers are scattered over the surface of soft silks. Rings of several colors and of irregular sizes are scattered over the surface at widely spaced intervals over either silk or on others highly decorative patterns are used.

Loosely crepe have baskets of flowers scattered over the surface.

A fine taffeta brooch which combines crispness and softness in just the right degree is ornamented with a little flower which never grows old.

Striped are very fashionable and are cleverly used. Day-patterned silks are used in coats and suits. Delicate organdie embroideries are used in a number of dainty ways; many are lightly touched in color, especially old blue and delicate rose. Embroidered nets touched in color are used for entire frocks as well as for trimmings.

MAKE WORK FOR LAUNDRESS

Tub Petticoat With Colored Ruffles Are to Be the Correct Things for the Summer Garments.

Six yards is the correct width for a summer petticoat this season and one cannot help pitying the poor laundress who has had a long and blessed rest from starching and fluting crisp petticoat ruffles. Some petticoats can be made to the laundress' taste, but there are the most inexpensive and humble models. As the price advances the width advances, and the number of ruffles also. Four ruffles of embroidery, overlapping from knee to hem, is a pretty trimming; especially when the embroidery is in the fine scallop-and-dot kind, which is in great taste. A new ruffle, which is a recent very popular, has four ruffles of fine hem edged with narrow handkerchief hem in some pretty color; and the ruffles are stitched to the petticoat with colored threads to match. With pink or blue

Evening gowns for the young miss will be a gorgeous blending of luminous colors.

This charming gown for evening wear is modeled especially for the budding debutante. The gown has a bodice of heavy taffeta in rich tones of red, purple and yellow, which create a mingling of color pleasing to the eye. The bodice of pale yellow chiffon and is supported by hoops.

Band of silver over the shoulders and from the waist give the gown a dainty finish.

LATEST TOUCH OF FASHION

Tight, Pointed Silk Bodice, With Voluminous Organdie Skirt, Is One of the Season's Successes.

Marie Tempest was among the first women to adopt the tight, pointed silk bodice with the voluminous organdie skirt, and she has had many followers ever since she exhibited it.

Women have found in the fashion a reversal from the commonplace that pleased them.

Even if one has a large waist, this tight bodice does not dislodge it in an unattractive manner, for the significant artistic reason that it dips itself into the outstanding drapery of the skirt. It is slightly pointed in front, and often at the back, or the entire lower edge is cut into battements—a touch of the Elizabethan era that was brought out with the Sir Walter Raleigh ruff, the queen's farthingale, and the Amy Robace sleeve.

PUBLIC NEWS PROBLEM

Public school news belongs to the public. Everything about the social life, the studies, the equipment, the business and even, the troubles between teachers and pupils, or teachers and the public, belongs to the public. Those who support the schools have the right to know all about the schools.

There should be no tendency to keep even the smallest detail secret. All information should be gladly and freely given by educators. Continuous censoring of what the public should be allowed to know is wrong.

This newspaper is willing to give dollars worth of time and space to publication of school masters when such information can be obtained without constant bargaining for it.

A member of the Board of Education recently told us that the Board wishes publicity for school masters.

conventional way and on a screen,

by Prof. Herman S. Popoff, Professor were exhibited by the gentleman who taught each flower scientifically and gave many amusing incidents connected with the gathering of flowers.

A prize was to have been bestowed last night upon the club member who had mounted the most wild flowers

this spring, but the time was extended until fall.

LORD KITCHENER LOST WITH SHIP

GOES DOWN WITH CRUISER HAMPSHIRE OFF SCOTTISH COAST, OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED.

WAS ON HIS WAY TO RUSSIA

BRITISH ADMIRALITY REPORTS THE LOSS OF THE CRUISER WITH ALL ON BOARD.

SUNK BY MIKE OR GERMAN SUBMARINE.

LONDON, June 8.—K. of K. Drawn, Official, flashed newspaper placards here. Ten minutes later all London knew of the tragic death of Lord Kitchener on the Orkney Islands.

"This is the second shock the country has suffered within a week. The writer was when the newspapers announced Friday evening with the first intelligence of the naval battle in the North sea. In the form of a list of the ships lost, with virtually no intimation that there was any consideration in the way of enemy bases."

All Believed in Kitchener.

The bulletin telling of the death of Kitchener gave the country even a greater shock.

Kitchener was the one outstanding personality whom the people talked and believed in as a great man, notwithstanding newspaper attacks, which were part of the war intended to undermine his popularity and the public confidence in him.

A telegram from Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the fleet, giving the bare facts, was received at the admiralty about eleven o'clock in the afternoon.

The first official announcement was issued at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Rumor at First Denied.

Such a rumor had been kept entirely secret, even for an hour. Before now rumors were spreading, and the telephones in the newspaper offices were busy with inquirers anxious to know whether this—no one of the many reports circulating in these days of telegraphy—had any foundation. They were told there was nothing in it.

Admiral Jellicoe reported to the Admiralty that he had been given out that the Admiralty had been given out.

Earl Kitchener was on his way to Russia. Admiral Jellicoe reported there were little hope that there were any survivors.

Four boats were seen to leave the Hampshire, but a heavy sea was running. Only a capsized boat and some natives had been seen.

High Tribute by Asquith.

Premier Asquith paid high tribute to Earl Kitchener in his speech at the recent commencement of parliament, and visited him at his residence in the morning.

Admiral Jellicoe, his private military secretary, Brigadier General Ellershaw and Sir Frederick Donaldson. There also were a number of minor army officers aboard.

Robertson May Got Post.

Robertson May, the successful successor to Earl Kitchener as the head of the British army, already had taken over the war secretary's duties temporarily when the secretary started on his ill-fated voyage. On Saturday and again on Monday he had audiences with King George to report the progress of the war in India, in which the Canadians have so distinguished themselves.

Wind was north northwest and heavy seas were running. Patrol vessels and destroyers at once proceeded to the spot and a party was sent along the coast to search, but only scarp bodies and a capsized boat have been found up to the present. As the whole shore has been searched from the seaward I greatly fear that there is little hope of finding any survivors.

"No report has yet been received from the search party on shore. "H. M. S. Hampshire was on its way to Russia."

Think Mine Sank Ship.

Navy officers express the opinion that the cruiser Hampshire must have struck a mine, as it would have to be an exceedingly lucky shot for a torpedo to sink with its speed and under the conditions of the sea, which was very rough.

The Hampshire, while an old boat and not fit for fleet action, was fast enough for patrol and blockade work. It carried a crew of between 400 and 500 men.

When news of the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire with Earl Kitchener and his staff on board, was received in London, the meeting of the British war council was called immediately.

Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, who probably will become the head of the war office, Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, and Sir Thomas McKeown, chancellor of the exchequer and David Lloyd George, minister of munitions, were present at the council.

Political Reserves Called.

Convention Begins.

Mr. Hiller, who had come to speak when he stood before the throng in Whitehall, was succeeded by Mr. Parker, who had been elected in the constituency of Cottenham, in Cambridgeshire, in a seat in the House of Commons.

Other orators gathered around the newspaper offices. When the hour came out with an array of extra editions of the papers and the thousands of spectators who had been fortunate to obtain admission tickets.

REPUBLICANS GREAT QUADRENNIAL SHOW GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS AT CHICAGO.

IMMENSE STRUCTURE FILLED

Delegates Elect Senator Harding of Ohio Temporary Chairman Who Delivers Keynote Speech—Committees Named.

Chicago, June 7.—There was not a vacat seat in the great Coliseum when Chairman Charles D. Hilles took up his gavel to open the Republican quadrennial. People flocked to the hall by the thousand and poured through the many entrances in solid streams for hours, despite the fact that the proceedings of the first session were only preliminary formalities.

It was a fine setting for an important event. The Coliseum was decorated as never before, with flags and bunting draped the galleries and galleries all decked out in solid colors. The windows of the hall were filled with the portraits of the presidents, and the great hall was a picture of a great national convention.

PROGRESSIVE MEET ON AT CHICAGO

Raymond Robins Elected Temporary Chairman of Convention Held at Auditorium.

LAUDS THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Declares the Dominant Problem Today Is to Protect and Preserve Our Government—More Than Thousand Delegates Present.

Chicago, June 7.—The Progressives on Wednesday opened their national convention in the Auditorium. The big theater was beautifully decorated and the presence of many handomely garbed women in the galleries, and even among the delegates, made the scene especially gay.

Through the authorized number of delegates, 1,023, so many states obtained partial representation that the delegate body consisted of 1,015 men and women, and the alternates numbered 176. Ohio, Michigan and New York sent the largest delegations with Illinois next. Pennsylvania was fifth with 45. While the Auditorium was filling up with delegates and spectators, there were patriotic songs by a band and the great pipe organ.

Promptly at twelve o'clock Victor Murdoch, chairman of the Progressive national committee, called the convention to order and Bishop William F. McDowell of Chicago invoked the divine blessing on its deliberations. The reading of the call followed and Raymond Robins was then elected temporary chairman and introduced by Mr. Murdoch.

Address by Chairman Robins.

Mr. Robins reviewed first the origin and progress of the Progressive movement and declared the need of progressive thought and leadership and courage is even greater in America today than it was in 1912. The dominant progressive idea is to protect and preserve our government, and the people cannot be roused to protect and preserve a government that is not and of all the people.

"In this critical hour of our history," continued the speaker, "only men who are the vanguard of a nation that shall be true to its people and government, who can speak for the welfare of all the people, we the wrangling voices of selfish narrow groups, to spokesmen of geographic divisions, race, nation, color and creed divisions of people, who seem to have forgotten that they have common destiny, that they have common goals, common aims, common ideals—that their first and necessary allegiance was to the common welfare of a single citizenship protecting and protecting all under one flag."

Chairman Harding launched at once into his "keynote" speech and did not keep his reputation for eloquence and depth of phrase. He began with a warm plea for harmony in the party ranks, coupled with the confident assertion that the party had won its cause. He spoke of the need for the public to support the reading of the call for the convention that he skillfully oiled the way for the smooth return of those who left the party four years ago to follow the Bull Moose standard.

Mr. Hiller, in his address took up the subject of the reorganization of the party, and then turned to the topic of Americanism. He spoke once more in his eloquent manner and with his call for patriotic devotion to his country and to the United States on the part of every one of its citizens was answered by a roar of cheers.

"Verily, it is good to be an American. And we may rejoice to be Republicans," he concluded.

Routine Business Transacted.

When the band music that burst forth at the end of Senator Harding's speech was over and the assembly quieted down again, the other temporary officers were nominated and the permanent organization and order of business was adopted. The permanent organization of the convention was then adjourned until Thursday morning.

Peculiar Way to Find Out.

At the beginning of the session, a man approached the speaker and said: "Sir, I am a reporter for the Century Magazine. I would like to know if you are going to speak at the opening session of the convention."

The Lake Zurich ball team played Palatine Sunday. Lake Zurich won, the score being 6 to 5. This Sunday, June 1, the local team will play "Birthington." Come and see the game.

Mr. David Durrell of Mendon, visited his sister, Mrs. James Davidson for a few days last week before entering the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, for an operation on Monday of this week.

While the sewer is being put in gas will be installed also. Lake Zurich is certainly booming; there is no other village in Lake county that can compare with Lake Zurich, for it has every advancement possible and the new improvements are water works, the building of a theater, the starting in of gas and the state bank building which is being erected. It certainly shows that the Commercial club is working.

The Commercial club held an open meeting last Thursday evening which attracted a large crowd. It was a real community affair and "get together" idea. Supervision of Ela township, Elia Fields presided and introduced the speakers, two Wanigan lawyers, who gave a split talk.

James Welch spoke on home trade, loyalty, working for good roads and working harmoniously with one another for the good of the village. Attorney Alice Beauwin presided the club and pointed out many things it can do for Lake Zurich. S. C. Herren, a Chicago lawyer who lives here, gave an interesting and inspiring talk, too, along these lines. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Snelling and William Smith of Waukegan were also present.

GRADUATION PROGRAM

An excellent program was rendered at the graduating exercises here on Saturday evening. Pounds of Ela and Cato township district schools and our village school were given eighth grade diplomas by Lake County Superintendent of Schools Arthur Simpson of Waukegan. The program follows and it was heard by a large audience from several towns and many farms.
