

BARRINGTON REVIEW

VOLUME 32, NUMBER 39

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1916

$1.50 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

REV. DR. LIBBERTON TO FINISH WORK HERE

Will Preach Last Sermon on Sunday Evening, October 1—Conference Convenes Oct. 3

The annual session of the Rock River conference will be held at Olivet Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago, corner of Adams street and Keeler avenue, next week, beginning Tuesday evening, October 3, and continuing over the following Sunday. This supervision over all the Methodist churches in northern Illinois north of Kankakee and lying between the lake and the Mississippi river.

This fact that Dr. Libberton church and its pulpit will be vacant, as Dr. Libberton has notified Dr. L. F. W. Lesemann, district superintendent, that he is not a candidate for re-appoint-

MORE APPROVAL.

—CARTOON BY BRADLEY IN CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

LECTURE COURSE NUMBER OCT. 4

Ada Roach Company to be First Attraction—Matinee for Children in the Afternoon at 3 O'clock

On the night of October 4, the first number of the high school lecture course will be given in the auditorium. The attraction will be Ada Roach and company. A matinee will be given in the afternoon which begins at 3 o'clock to accommodate children. These matinees will be given for each number of the lecture course.

Season tickets are $1.00; single admission 50 cents; reserved seats at Hawley's drug store. The course this year is given under the auspices of the high school bass ball team.

"The Heart of the Immigrant" is the title of the sketch to be presented by Ada Roach and Company, on this course. This is a musical play, depicting the thoughts, hopes and sorrows of the alien people coming to our shores.

The characters are, an Irish girl, Gretchen, a German girl, Tony, an

ADA ROACH COMPANY.

Italian lad, Rachel, a continental Jewess; Lena, a Scandinavian; Herman, a German; and Rosalie, a Scottish girl.

As the sketch is presented such small numbers are introduced as "The Swedish Emigrant," "I Loved a Lente," "John Wm," "The Four-Girl German," and "The Home Town Band."

The Ada Roach Company in this entertainment express what is seen at a glance in this land. It is a musical program with a patriotic theme, with Miss Roach taking the leading part.

Marriage of Four Young Couples

Rev. H. Tietze of St. Paul's church officiated at four weddings in the past week as follows:

On Wednesday, September 20, George Reuter and Miss Mary Jahnke were married at the home of the bride's parents. They will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. Henry Reuter, of this village.

Alvin Palka and Miss Caroline Koch were united in marriage at the parsonage of St. Paul's church on Friday, September 22, at 6 p. m. Mr. Palka is employed by the Bowman Dairy company.

The marriage of Louis Peterson and Miss Martha Kuhfahl took place at the bride's home, northwest of this village, on Wednesday, September 21, at 4 o'clock.

Frank Felgenhauer and Miss Lillian Thomforde were married at 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, September 27, at the home of the bride, northwest of this village. The young people contemplate making their future home in Cary.

Good Report of Lake Zurich Bank

The State Bank of Lake Zurich, which opened for business at Lake Zurich September 5, with a capital stock of $25,000 and surplus $2,000 made its first report to the state auditor as to its condition at the close of business September 12. The bank had been open for business just one week and makes a very good showing.

The deposits amounted to $18,008.55 divided as follows: savings, subject to notice, $488.89; demand, subject to check, $10,472.84; demand certificates, $1,047.76.

It is said that Lake County has a population of 62,000.

BOWMAN COMPANY OFFERS PRICES

Two Dollars the Average Price Per One Hundred Pounds Meets Approval of the Farmers

The Bowman Dairy company opened its book yesterday morning offering the following price per 100 pounds for milk for the six months commencing October 1 on the basis of 2.5 fat:

| October | $1.90 |
|----------|--------|
| November | 2.10 |
| December | 2.10 |
| January | 2.05 |
| February | 2.00 |
| March | 1.85 |

This price averages $2.00 per 100 pounds and meets the price asked by the Milk Producers' association.

The Bowman Dairy company finds that some of its patrons make an unusual large quantity of milk in December and January and very little during the months of July and August. We are told that only about eight or ten of these taking milk to the local plant will be required to sign special agreement which is as follows:

"It is further agreed that should the second party have more milk to dispose of than the quantity specified in this contract during any particular month and the Bowman Dairy company during that same month be receiving from their patrons as a whole more milk than it needs to satisfy their requirements the Bowman Dairy company reserve the right to pay the party of the second part for such milk as he may deliver in excess of the quantity specified in this contract on a basis of 25 cents per hundred weight less than the price stated herein."

Manager of Mississippi Plantation

Carl E. Billings, who was formerly employed by the Hawthorne Farm company, has been appointed manager of the Bowman Dairy company's plantation in Coahoma county, Mississippi, and will take charge October 1. The appointment came through Stuyvesant Fish of New York, president of the company.

Mrs. and Mrs. Billings and daughters Portia and Mary and son Carl E. arrived here the latter part of last week for a visit with Mrs. Billings' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jahnke. Mr. Billings left for the south Saturday.

Mrs. Billings and children will remain here for some time.

Electrocuted Cleaning Automobile

Details regarding the death of George Nies who was electrocuted at Quora recently are to the effect that he received 2,200 volts of electricity while working in the garage cleaning his automobile. He was using drop cord light with no extension attached and in some manner the cord became overcharged. Mrs. Nies was holding the light previous to the accident, her husband taking it from her and going to the other side of the car.

Mrs. Nies was a carpenter and contractor at Genoa, and family having resided on the C. P. Hawley farm south of Barrington before moving to Genoa.

Oregonian to Sell Through Panama

Mrs. S. E. Howarth of Los Angeles, California, who was formerly a resident of this village, will leave San Pedro, Cal., Tuesday, November 28, on board the steamship "Alaska" for a trip through the Panama canal. She will visit Cuba and several important cities in the east and is scheduled to arrive in Chicago Thursday, December 28. Her many friends in this village hope that she will visit here before taking leave from Chicago on her homeward journey.

Mrs. Howarth is past eighty years of age and usually prefers to travel alone. The itinerary of the tour is as follows: to this office and will be gladly shown to anyone interested.

Bring your job work to the REVIEW.

INTERESTING LOCAL SCHOOL NOTES

Brief Mention of Numerous Occurrences of the Week—Subscribed to by Both Teachers and Pupils

The seventh grade pupils painted golden rods last week. The children of Room Five have been making excellent grades in spelling and arithmetic.

Tuesday the children of the first grade cut out butterflies. They have also been talking about milkweed pods in nature study.

The Barrington high school baseball team defeated the Arlington Heights team here Friday by a score of 5-1.

The school board has elected Edward Peters as trustee officer for the current school year.

In regard to the truancy law for the state, Section 21 of same reads: "Every person having control of any child between the ages of seven and sixteen years, shall annually cause such child to attend some public or private school for the entire time during which the child attended is in session, which shall not be less than six months of actual teaching. Provided, that the child's physical or mental condition renders his or her attendance impracticable or inexpedient, or in case the child is excused for temporary absence for cause by the principal or teacher of the school which said child attends, during the absence the child is between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years and is necessarily and lawfully employed during the hours when the public school is in session. For every neglect of the duty prescribed by this section, the person so offending shall forfeit to the use of the public schools of the city, town or district in which such child resides, a sum not less than five dollars nor more than twenty dollars and cost of suit, and shall stand committed to such fine and costs of suit as paid."

RANK OF THE GRADES

The rank of the grades in attendance is as follows:

| Rank | Room | Per cent |
|------|------------------|----------|
| 1 |7 | 92.03 |
| 2 |4 | 88.50 |
| 3 |3 | 91.81 |
| 4 |High School | 96.45 |
| 5 |2 | 96.13 |
| 6 |6 | 95.70 |
| 7 |1 | 95.00 |
| 8 |5 | 94.41 |

Felgenhauer-Leonard Nuptials

A marriage of two Cuba township young people took place at Waukegan last Thursday noon, September 21, when Miss Flossie Leonard became the wife of August Felgenhauer.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leonard and has always lived on the Leonard farm, west of Vickery Kennels. Mr. Felgenhauer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Felgenhauer who live north of the Kelsey school.

Mrs. Leonard was accompanied to Waukegan by her parents and has now gone with her husband to live in Dundee.

Conductor Dies at Irving Park

Thomas C. Dulan, aged 69 years, died of apoplexy at his home, 3739 North Forty-second avenue, Irving Park, Sunday, September 24. He has been in the employ of the Chicago and North-western railway for more than 40 years and was a resident of this village 20 years. For the past four years he has been conductor on the Green Bay passenger, and has made his home at Irving Park. He was one of the most widely known and best liked conductors on this division of the Northwestern.

He leaves to mourn his early departure, besides his widow, five daughters, Maria, Genevieve, Frances and Mrs. John Duran, all of whom reside at Irving Park, and a brother, William Dulan, of Green Bay, Wisconsin.

The funeral took place yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Viators church, Irving Park. Rev. Father E. A. McCosque of St. Ann's church assisted in the services. A special train carried the funeral party to Woodstock, where burial took place in Calvary cemetery.

EVENTS AT LAKE ZURICH

News of Hustling Neighbor Village and Progressive People Who Reside There.

Bert Seip was a Palatine visitor, for a few days.

Mrs. D. McCarthy was a Chicago visitor Monday.

John Prehm spent the week end at his home here.

Mrs. Phillip Young is spending the week in Chicago.

Mrs. Hokemeyer spent several days visiting in Chicago.

Fred Blau and Albert Prehm are spending a week at Pontiac.

Mrs. S. M. Pagels has been spending several days visiting in Chicago.

Jack Nathan and Miss Anna Frank were Palatine visitors Sunday evening.

A number from here attended the fair at Elkhorn, Wisconsin, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hillman entertained relatives from St. Joseph Sunday.

John Froelich is now attending the Northwestern Business college in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuech entertained relatives from Chicago last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan, and Mr. and Mrs. Garrity were Elgin visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seip spent several days at Springfield while the fair was going on.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dymond entertained relatives from Chicago Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Seip visited her daughter, Mrs. Fred Doolittle, in Waukegan for several days.

Miss Emma Schneider is now at home after working as a telephone operator in Libertyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrity of Highwood are spending the week here with their daughter, Mrs. J. Flanagan.

Mrs. Roy Jackson of Chicago is spending a week at the summer home here of Mrs. George Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Elchman of Chicago visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Elchman Sunday.

Mrs. Chase Deane, Jr., of Palatine is visiting several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Elchman.

William Prehm, Jr., who has been working in Valparaiso, Indiana, returned home Saturday and will help his father.

A large number of men and horses are working for the E. J. & E. railroad, putting in another sidetrack at Lake Zurich.

The Public Service company is still laying gas mains but expect to finish in a short time. They will go to Waukegan from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews are planning to close their summer home here this week and go to California to spend the winter.

Marshall Norton, who is attending high school at Highland Park, spent the week end here with his mother, Mrs. Bessie Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Patten and son Charles have returned to their home in Chicago after spending the summer at their home here.

J. C. Wachter and family who have been spending the summer at their summer residence left Thursday for their home in Chicago.

Fred C. Seip has been drawn as a grand juror from Elia township for the October term of court to convene at Waukegan next month.

Eighteen young ladies who attend Chicago University are spending several days at Lake Zurich, stopping at the Flocke residence. Mr. Lorey, a dean at the university, is also here. He entertained the girls at his summer home Monday. Wednesday was the

ONE $5.00 BILL PAID $290 WORTH OF DEBTS

Marked Five Dollar Bill Used for Payment of Accounts Shows Importance of Pay-Up Week

"Wife, I say, carried on an experiment during the first national pay-up week and demonstrated to the great surprise of the committee, which had in charge, what one five dollar bill will do when it is kept moving paying up debts. This five dollar bill was marked with a slip of paper stating, 'This is a Pay-Up Week five dollar bill. This five dollar bill is to be used only for payment of accounts. Accept it and go to once and pay some one else. Sign your name so we can see how many dollars in accounts it will pay in one week.' At the end of the week the bill was found, the names counted and, to the surprise of the committee, fifty-eight names had been signed, showing that the total debts paid were $290.00. This shows what money will do when it is kept in circulation and also demonstrates the importance of National Pay-Up Week as a time when accounts are squared and states wiped clean for a new start."

Mayor Meyer designates the first week of October as the time to square up debts. It is a national movement. Barrington will pass properly around in an endless chain.

"The thing that strikes me," said Mr. Meyer, in regard to his proclamation issued calling attention of the people to National Pay-Up Week, October 2 to 7, "is how dependent we are upon one another. No one class can gain at the expense of all the others."

"This fact was exhibited in last week's issue and is the object of National Pay-Up Week. You can help and you can be helped if you will pay up during this week. Almost every business man in Barrington has pledged himself to pay up during this week. Let's all work together. Let's all work around."

Don't make any mistake in the plan. The idea is not that you pay me so I can pay the other fellow, but I'll pay you and you'll pay the other fellow. If we all take it upon ourselves to start the ball rolling, we can have a real rousing pay-up week right here. It will be for the other fellow to pay up, it might not be much of a success as it should be. This movement has been taken up in Barrington upon the recommendation of hundreds of towns which engaged in the first National Pay-Up Week in February of this year and the second National Pay-Up Week which is announced for October 2 to 7, is to be truly national in scope, as thousands of communities in every section of the United States, from one coast to another and from the north line to the Gulf of Mexico, will take up the banner. During the pay-up week of millions of people will be centered upon passing fifty dollars around, paying old debts, starting in anew, and prosperity will certainly result from it. Get ready for National Pay-Up Week, October 2 to 7.

day for their house party. They will return to Chicago Thursday for on October 2 school begins.

Don't forget to attend the entertainment which will be given by the Camp Fire Girls at the Lake Shore pavilion Saturday evening, September 30, starting at 8:15 p. m. Madame Justice Wagener, vocal teacher at the Bush Conservatory of Music, Chicago, will sing classic and folk songs in English and German. Admission, adults 25 cents; children 15 cents.

On October 7 the first entertainment of the series of life will be given at Lake Shore pavilion. The Lake Zurich Commercial club has made arrangements for five entertainments to be given during the winter: October 7, November 6, January 20, February 6 and March 10. The first one is by Misses Johnson, Shearer and Bals. Second, the Old Kentucky Jubilee Quartette. Third, MacStevens Concert Company of Chicago. Fourth, Francis Huntley and accompanist. Last number by Charles Howard Plattenberg on "Lays to the Home Town." Do not miss this lecture; it will help us get together and boost for Lake Zurich, the coming town. The lecture courses are a benefit to anyone. Last number at 3 o'clock. It will be free to all school children and to those holding season tickets; all others 25 cents. Get a season ticket and do not miss one of these evenings of pleasure, instruction and fun.

REV. DR. LIBBERTON.

ment. So a new face will be seen in the Methodist pulpit after next Sunday night when Dr. Libberton will preach his last sermon and finish his work here. The officials are up, the lookout for a minister and are hearing the aspirants to such honors as they have to confer, but with what choice, as who is likely to be called, by the church or appointed by the bishop is a query until the appointments are given out on Monday night, October 6.

Dr. Libberton has faithfully served the Methodist congregation here for almost two years, during which time he has proven himself to be a man of God in every phase of life, and has made friends by his faithful labors here who deeply regret to lose him here. He has passed his three-score years and ten, yet one would not realize this fact judging from his activity of body and clearness of mind. With his forty years' experience as a minister, in connection with his extensive travels, he has acquired a fund of knowledge which the average person does not possess, thus making his sermons an inspiration to those who have had the privilege to sit under his ministry. His wonderful, masterly voice and delivery are far ahead of the majority of men of the pulpits today, and throughout northern Illinois he has long been recognized as a forcible speaker. He has for many years been a member of the famous Preachers' quartette of the Rock River conference, whose services have been much in demand.

It is not known where Dr. Libberton will be sent until after conference meets, but we know, if his life is spared, he has much good work yet to perform, and rest assured that with his influence and personality the church so favored will be richly blessed with Dr. Libberton as its pastor.

Malone Thanks Voters

A remarkable tribute was recently paid to the popularity in Park Ridge of William C. Malone, the successful candidate for the republican nomination for member of the Board of Equalization from the seventh congressional district, when a gathering of his friends and neighbors met to congratulate him on his overwhelming victory.

In commenting on his successful campaign and outlining his future plans, Mr. Malone said: "Now that I have been nominated for member of the Board of Equalization from the seventh district, I desire to express my full appreciation of the confidence you have shown by your support and votes and to thank all of you. I promise my best efforts for the people in this district during my term of office and if elected trust I may have your co-operation for a successful administration."

Ford Hit by Truck

A large fruit and vegetable truck backed into Harry Scott's Ford last Saturday night at Arlington Heights and badly damaged the radiator. "Scotty" had parked near the street curbing and before he could give warning or get away the big truck backed square into his machine. He took its number and intends to sue that all damages are made good by the owners of the truck.

SYNOPSIS.

Adèle is Cheesman's, a belle of New France, in forced into marriage with Comte de la Salle. Caslon, a Frenchman, Governor La Barre, who is plotting to oust La Salle and his partner from the frontier Post de la Louis, on the Illinois river. Adèle had been married to a man who had inherited a great fortune from her father and she had been married to her. La Barre and Caslon learned of the girl's knowledge of the plot and the hurried departure of Caslon and a companion. Adèle refused to share sleeping quarters with the man who had been her husband's friend, young René D'Artigny, but she was a charity of helping her. Chevet, the girl's uncle, one of the party, is found murdered.

Her only kin dead by a murderer's hand, Adèle was alone in the world then. Her husband's jealousy and rancor became pronounced, yet she was strangely hopeful of getting away from the man and from her present circumstances in life. Then comes death near to her. How she barely escaped, why she has more reasons than one to be profoundly thankful, is told graphically in this installment.

Following the discovery of Chevet, murdered, Caslon accuses D'Artigny of the crime—but not in D'Artigny's presence.

CHAPTER XII—Continued.

"True, so I did," he said at last. "They were to depart before noon. The villa is yonder—see; well off that farthest point, and 'tis too late to overtake him now. Secret there is sought for us to do, that I see, but to bury Hugo Chevet and go our way—the king's business cannot wait."

On the beach all was in readiness for departure, and it was evident enough that Moulia had already spread the news of Chevet's murder among his comrades. Caslon, however, permitted the fellows little time for discussion, for at his sharp orders they took their places in the canoes and pushed off. The priest was obliged to assume Chevet's former position, and I would gladly have accompanied him, but Caslon suddenly gripped me in his arms, and without so much as a word, made out through the surf, and put me down in his boat, clambering in himself, and shouting his orders to the paddlers.

I think we were all of us glad enough to get away. I know I sat silent and motionless just where he placed me and stared back across the widening water at the desolate, dismal scene. How lonely and heart-breaking it was, those few low houses along the hill, the blackened stumps littering the hillside, and the gloomy forest beyond. The figures of a few men were visible along the beach, and once I saw a black-robed priest emerge from the door of the mission house, and start down the steep path.

The picture slowly faded as we advanced, until finally the last glimpse of the log chapel disappeared in the haze, and we were alone on the mystery of the great lake, glistening above a bare, unhabited shore. I was wound by the touch of Caslon's hand on my arm as it grasped the side of the canoe.

"Adèle," he said, almost tenderly. "Why should you be so nervous? Cannot we be friends?"

My eyes met his in surprise.

"Friends, monsieur! Are we not? Why do you address me like that?"

"Because you treat me as though I were a criminal," he said earnestly. "As if I had done you an evil in making you my wife. 'Twas not I who betrayed the matter, but La Barre. 'Tis not just to condemn me untried. Just I have been patient and kind. I thought it might be that you loved another—in truth I imagined that D'Artigny had cast his spell upon you; yet you surely cannot continue to trust that villain—the murderer of your uncle."

"How know you that to be true?" I asked.

"Because there is no other accounting for it," he explained sternly. "The quarrel last evening, the early departure before dawn—"

"At your orders, monsieur."

"Any but the sergeant tells me the fellow was absent from the camp for two hours during the night; that in the moonlight he saw him come down the hill. Even if he did not do the deed himself, he must have discovered the body—yet he voiced no alarm."

"I was silent, and my eyes fell from his face to the green water."

"'Twill be hard to explain," he went on. "But he shall have a chance."

"A chance! You will question him; and then—"

He hesitated whether to answer me, but there was a cruel smile on his thin lips.

"Faith, I do not know. 'Tis like to be a court-martial at the Rock, if ever we get him there, though the chances are the fellow will take to the woods when he finds himself suspected. No doubt the best thing I can do will be to say nothing until we hold him safe, though 'tis hard to pretend with such a villain."

He paused, as if hoping I might speak, and my silence angered him.

"Doh, if I had my way the young cocked would face a file at our first camp. Aye! and it will be for you to decide if he does not."

"What is your meaning, monsieur?"

"That I am tired of your play-acting; of your making eyes at this forest dandy behind my back. Send Siegfried I am done with all this—do you hear?"

I forced a grimace, and he opened and closed his fingers suggestively, "the life of the lad."

I had one glimpse of his face as he looked forward, and there was a look in it which made me shudder and turn away. His was no idle threat, and whether the man truly loved me or not, his hatred of D'Artigny was sufficient for my cruelty.

I realized the danger, the necessity for compromise, and yet for the moment I lacked power to speak, to question, fearful lest his demands would be greater than I could grant. I had no thought of what I saw, and still that which my eyes rested upon remained forever in my brain, the sparkle of sun on the water, the distant green of the shore, the soldiers huddled in the canoe, the dark shinning bodies of the natives consistently plying the paddles, and beyond to the left, another canoe, cleaving the water swiftly, with two men's faces turned toward us, as though he sought to escape our conversation. I was wound by the grip of Caslon's hand.

"Well, my beauty," he said harshly, "have I waited long enough to learn if it was or wasn't between us?"

I laughed, yet I doubt if he gained any comfort from the expression of the eyes which met his.

"Why I choose peace of course, monsieur," I answered, assuming a carelessness I was far from feeling. "Am I not your wife? Surely you remind me of it often enough, so I am not loath to forget him. I remind me the fact of your words, nor will you ever win favor from me by such methods. I have been friendly with Siegfried D'Artigny. It is true, but there is nothing between us. Indeed, no word has passed my lips in his presence I would not be willing for you to hear. So there is no cause for you to spare him on my account, or to risk his fate on any action of mine."

"You will have thought to do with the fellow?"

"There would be small chance if I wished, monsieur; and do you suppose I would seek companionship with one who had killed my uncle?"

"'Twould seem so, yet I know not what you believe."

"Nor do I myself; yet the evidence is all against the man thus far. I confess I should like to hear his defense, but I make you this pledge in all honor—I will have no word with him, on condition that you file no charges until we arrive at Port St. Louis."

"Ah!" suspiciously, "you think he has friends there to hold him fast?"

"Why should I, monsieur? Indeed, why should I care but to have justice done? It is not wish his blood on your hands, or to imagine that he is condemned because of his friendship for me rather than any other crime. I know not what friends the man has at the Rock on the Illinois. He was no longer in control. La Barre said that De Baugis commanded that post, and he vanished in the distance, and all his men may have departed."

"'Tis not altogether true, and for that reason we are ordered to join the company. De Baugis has the right of the shore, but he does not possess sufficient soldiers to exercise authority. La Salle's men remain loyal to De Tonty, and the Indians tribes look to him for leadership. Mon Dieu! it was reported in Quebec that 12,000 savages were living about the fort—aye! and D'Artigny said he owed it not, for the morning was covered with legends—De Baugis has small chance to rule until he has force behind him. They say this De Tonty is of a fighting breed—the savages call him the man with the iron hand, and so the two rule between them, the one for La Barre, and the other for La Salle, and we go to give the governor's man more power."

"You have sufficient force?"

"Unless the Indians become hostile; besides there is to be an overland party later to join us in the spring and Siegfried de la Danuniquy, of the regiment of Carignan-Salieres, is at the Chicago portage. This I learned at St. Ignace."

"Then it would seem to me, monsieur, that you could safely wait the trial of D'Artigny until our arrival at the fort. If he does not feel himself suspected, he will make no effort to escape, and I give you the pledge you ask."

It was not altogether graciously that he agreed to this, yet the man could not refuse, and I was glad enough to escape the trial, for it was my fear that he might insist on my yielding much more to preserve D'Artigny from immediate condemnation and death. The fellow had the power, and the inclination, and what good fortune saved me, I can never know. I think he felt a certain fear of a doubt of his life, he might presume on my good nature.

Certainly I gave him small encouragement to venture further, and yet he had done so I would have been glad to have a grip now which would make his lips—a demand that I yield to his mastery—but he must have learned in my eyes a defiance he feared to incur, for he was never uttered. "Twas that he might have this very talk that he had found me place alone in his canoe, and I would have respected him had he had the power to do so with his desire. The coward in the man was too apparent, and yet that very cowardice was proof of treachery. Why he hesitated to attack boldly he would obtain otherwise if he could. I could place no confidence in his word, nor reliance upon his honor."

CHAPTER XIII.

The Break of Storm.

We had no more pleasant weather for days, the sky being overcast and the wind damp and chill. It did not rain, nor were the waves dangerous, although choppy enough to make paddling tedious and difficult.

It had obscured the view and compelled us to cling close to the shore so as to prevent becoming lost in the smother, and as we dare not venture to strike out boldly, being, to point, we lost much time in creeping along the curves.

The canoes kept closer together, never venturing to become separated, and the men stationed on watch on the bows continually called to each other across the tossing waters in guidance. Even D'Artigny kept within sight, and we drew up with him, although he made no effort to seek me, nor did I once detect that he even glanced in my direction. The studied indifference of the man made me more than I angered, but I believed it was his consciousness of guilt, rather than any dislike which caused his avoidance. In a way I related to his following this course, as I felt bound by my pledge to Caslon, and had no desire to further arouse the jealousy of the latter, yet I vented a woman, and consequently felt a measure of regret at being thus neglected and ignored.

I had no knowledge of the date, nor a very clear conception of where we were. The night before we came to anchor at the mouth of a small stream, the surrounding forest growing down close to the shore, and so thick as to be almost impenetrable. The men had set up my tent close to the water, the waves broke scarcely a foot away, and the fire which the others clustered for warmth was but a few yards distant.

Wrapped in my blankets I saw D'Artigny emerge from the darkness and approach Caslon, who drew a map from his belt pocket and spread it open on the ground in the glare of the fire. The two men bent over it, tracing the lines with finger tips, evidently determining their course for the morrow. Then D'Artigny made a few notes on a scrap of paper, arose to his feet and disappeared.

They had scarcely exchanged a word, and the feeling of civility between them was apparent. Caslon sat quiet, the map still open, and stared after the younger man until he vanished in the distance. The look upon his face was not a pleasant one.

Impelled by a sudden impulse I arose to my feet, the blanket still wrapped about my head, and crossed the open space to the first canoe, hearing the sound of my approach, glanced around, his frown changing instantly into a smile.

"Ah, quite an advance, my friend," he said, adopting a tone of pleasantry. "The first time I have left your tent, madame?"

"The first time I have felt desire to do so," I rejoined. "I feel curiosity to examine your map."

"And wouldn't it be wise to appreciate the compliment?" and he smiled. "Whether or not he felt some premonition of danger, he certainly spoke words of instruction to his Indian paddlers, and so manipulated his craft as to keep out of sight, although slightly farther from shore, than the canoe in which I sat."

Caslon had already vanished in the mist, which swept in and shut along the surface of the water, the nearer boats becoming more indistinct shadows. Even within my own canoe the faces of those about me appeared gray and blurred, as the damp vapor swept over us in dense clouds. It was a ghastly scene, rendered more awesome by the glare of lightning which seemed to split the vapor, and the sound of thunder reverberating from the surface of the lake.

The water, a ghastly, greenish gray, heaved beneath, giving us little difficulty, yet terrifying in its suggestion of sudden storms, and the shore line was hardly discernible to the left as we struggled forward. What obstacle compelled Caslon to keep us at the back I know not, but he was only able to yield to D'Artigny's advice—but the sergeant swore to himself, and turned the prow of our canoe inward, hugging the shore as closely as he dared, his anxious eyes searching every rift in the mist.

Yet, dark and drear as the day was, we had no true warning of the approaching storm, for time vague clinging to the water concealed from our sight the clouds above. When it came it burst upon us with mad ferocity, the wind whirling to the north and striking us with all the force of three hundred miles of open sea. The mist was swept away with that first fierce gust, and we were struggling for life in a wild turmoil of waters. I had but a glimpse of it—a glimpse of wild, raging sea; of black, scurrying clouds, no close above I could almost reach out and touch them; of dimly revealed canoes flung about like chips, driving before the blast.

Our own was hurled forward like an arrow, the Indian paddlers working hard and to keep a stern to the wind, their long hair whipping about. The soldiers crouched in the bottom, clinging grimly to any support, their white faces exhibiting the absence of fear. The sergeant alone spoke, yelling his orders, as he whirled steering paddle, his hat blown from his head, his face brightly with sudden terror. It was but the glimpse of an instant; then a paddle broke, the canoe swung sideways, balanced on the crest of a wave, and went over.

I was conscious of cries, shrill, faint, and then I sank, struggling hard to keep above water, yet borne down by the weight of the canoe. I came up again, choking and half strangled, and sought to grip the boat as it whirled past. My fingers found nothing to cling to, slipping along the wet keel, until I went down again, but this time holding my breath. My water-soaked garments and heavy shoes made swimming almost impossible, yet I struggled to keep face above water. Two men had reached the canoe, and had somehow found hold. One of these was an Indian, but they were already too far away to aid me, and in another moment had vanished in the white crest of waves. Not another of our boat's crew was visible, nor could I be sure of where the shore lay.

"You've had some word you wished to say, monsieur?"

"There are words enough if you would listen."

"I'll not fault of yours if I do not. But not now, monsieur. It is late and cold. We take the boats early and I would rest while I can."

He was on his feet, the map gripped to his hand, but made no effort to stop me, as I dropped him a curtsy, and retreated. But he was there still when I glanced back from out the safety of the tent, his face creased by a frown. When he finally turned away the map was crushed shapely in his fingers.

The morning dawned somewhat warmer, but with every promise of a storm, threatening clouds hanging above the water, sullen and menacing, their edges tipped with lightning. The roar of distant thunder came to our ears, yet there was no wind, and Caslon decided that the clouds would drift southward, and leave us safe passage along the shore. His canoe had been wrecked in making landing the evening before, and had taken in considerable water during the night. This was built out, but the interior was so wet and uncomfortable that I begged to be given place in another boat, and Caslon consented, after I had exhibited some temper, ordering a soldier in the sergeant's canoe to exchange places with me.

We may have proceeded for half a league, when a fog swept in toward the land enveloping us in its folds, although we were close enough to the shore so as to keep safely together, the word being passed back down the line, and as we drew nearer I became aware that D'Artigny's boat had turned about, and he was endeavoring to induce Caslon to go ashore and make camp before the storm broke.

The fog was so dense that we were unable to see the shore, and I claimed we were close enough for safety, and finally, in angry voice, insisted upon proceeding on our course.

D'Artigny, evidently feeling argument useless, made no reply, but I noticed he held back his paddles and permitted Caslon's canoe to forge ahead. He must have discovered that he was not with me, for I saw him stare intently at each of the other canoes, as though to make sure of my presence, shading his eyes with one hand, as he peered through the fog.

This action evidenced the first intimation I had for days of his continued interest in my welfare, and my heart thrilled with sudden pleasure. Whether or not he felt some premonition of danger, he certainly spoke words of instruction to his Indian paddlers, and so manipulated his craft as to keep out of sight, although slightly farther from shore, than the canoe in which I sat."

Caslon had already vanished in the mist, which swept in and shut along the surface of the water, the nearer boats becoming more indistinct shadows. Even within my own canoe the faces of those about me appeared gray and blurred, as the damp vapor swept over us in dense clouds. It was a ghastly scene, rendered more awesome by the glare of lightning which seemed to split the vapor, and the sound of thunder reverberating from the surface of the lake.

The water, a ghastly, greenish gray, heaved beneath, giving us little difficulty, yet terrifying in its suggestion of sudden storms, and the shore line was hardly discernible to the left as we struggled forward. What obstacle compelled Caslon to keep us at the back I know not, but he was only able to yield to D'Artigny's advice—but the sergeant swore to himself, and turned the prow of our canoe inward, hugging the shore as closely as he dared, his anxious eyes searching every rift in the mist.

Yet, dark and drear as the day was, we had no true warning of the approaching storm, for time vague clinging to the water concealed from our sight the clouds above. When it came it burst upon us with mad ferocity, the wind whirling to the north and striking us with all the force of three hundred miles of open sea. The mist was swept away with that first fierce gust, and we were struggling for life in a wild turmoil of waters. I had but a glimpse of it—a glimpse of wild, raging sea; of black, scurrying clouds, no close above I could almost reach out and touch them; of dimly revealed canoes flung about like chips, driving before the blast.

Our own was hurled forward like an arrow, the Indian paddlers working hard and to keep a stern to the wind, their long hair whipping about. The soldiers crouched in the bottom, clinging grimly to any support, their white faces exhibiting the absence of fear. The sergeant alone spoke, yelling his orders, as he whirled steering paddle, his hat blown from his head, his face brightly with sudden terror. It was but the glimpse of an instant; then a paddle broke, the canoe swung sideways, balanced on the crest of a wave, and went over.

I was conscious of cries, shrill, faint, and then I sank, struggling hard to keep above water, yet borne down by the weight of the canoe. I came up again, choking and half strangled, and sought to grip the boat as it whirled past. My fingers found nothing to cling to, slipping along the wet keel, until I went down again, but this time holding my breath. My water-soaked garments and heavy shoes made swimming almost impossible, yet I struggled to keep face above water. Two men had reached the canoe, and had somehow found hold. One of these was an Indian, but they were already too far away to aid me, and in another moment had vanished in the white crest of waves. Not another of our boat's crew was visible, nor could I be sure of where the shore lay.

"You've had some word you wished to say, monsieur?"

"There are words enough if you would listen."

"I'll not fault of yours if I do not. But not now, monsieur. It is late and cold. We take the boats early and I would rest while I can."

He was on his feet, the map gripped to his hand, but made no effort to stop me, as I dropped him a curtsy, and retreated. But he was there still when I glanced back from out the safety of the tent, his face creased by a frown. When he finally turned away the map was crushed shapely in his fingers.

The morning dawned somewhat warmer, but with every promise of a storm, threatening clouds hanging above the water, sullen and menacing, their edges tipped with lightning. The roar of distant thunder came to our ears, yet there was no wind, and Caslon decided that the clouds would drift southward, and leave us safe passage along the shore. His canoe had been wrecked in making landing the evening before, and had taken in considerable water during the night. This was built out, but the interior was so wet and uncomfortable that I begged to be given place in another boat, and Caslon consented, after I had exhibited some temper, ordering a soldier in the sergeant's canoe to exchange places with me.

We may have proceeded for half a league, when a fog swept in toward the land enveloping us in its folds, although we were close enough to the shore so as to keep safely together, the word being passed back down the line, and as we drew nearer I became aware that D'Artigny's boat had turned about, and he was endeavoring to induce Caslon to go ashore and make camp before the storm broke.

The fog was so dense that we were unable to see the shore, and I claimed we were close enough for safety, and finally, in angry voice, insisted upon proceeding on our course.

D'Artigny, evidently feeling argument useless, made no reply, but I noticed he held back his paddles and permitted Caslon's canoe to forge ahead. He must have discovered that he was not with me, for I saw him stare intently at each of the other canoes, as though to make sure of my presence, shading his eyes with one hand, as he peered through the fog.

This action evidenced the first intimation I had for days of his continued interest in my welfare, and my heart thrilled with sudden pleasure. Whether or not he felt some premonition of danger, he certainly spoke words of instruction to his Indian paddlers, and so manipulated his craft as to keep out of sight, although slightly farther from shore, than the canoe in which I sat."

Caslon had already vanished in the mist, which swept in and shut along the surface of the water, the nearer boats becoming more indistinct shadows. Even within my own canoe the faces of those about me appeared gray and blurred, as the damp vapor swept over us in dense clouds. It was a ghastly scene, rendered more awesome by the glare of lightning which seemed to split the vapor, and the sound of thunder reverberating from the surface of the lake.

The water, a ghastly, greenish gray, heaved beneath, giving us little difficulty, yet terrifying in its suggestion of sudden storms, and the shore line was hardly discernible to the left as we struggled forward. What obstacle compelled Caslon to keep us at the back I know not, but he was only able to yield to D'Artigny's advice—but the sergeant swore to himself, and turned the prow of our canoe inward, hugging the shore as closely as he dared, his anxious eyes searching every rift in the mist.

Yet, dark and drear as the day was, we had no true warning of the approaching storm, for time vague clinging to the water concealed from our sight the clouds above. When it came it burst upon us with mad ferocity, the wind whirling to the north and striking us with all the force of three hundred miles of open sea. The mist was swept away with that first fierce gust, and we were struggling for life in a wild turmoil of waters. I had but a glimpse of it—a glimpse of wild, raging sea; of black, scurrying clouds, no close above I could almost reach out and touch them; of dimly revealed canoes flung about like chips, driving before the blast.

Our own was hurled forward like an arrow, the Indian paddlers working hard and to keep a stern to the wind, their long hair whipping about. The soldiers crouched in the bottom, clinging grimly to any support, their white faces exhibiting the absence of fear. The sergeant alone spoke, yelling his orders, as he whirled steering paddle, his hat blown from his head, his face brightly with sudden terror. It was but the glimpse of an instant; then a paddle broke, the canoe swung sideways, balanced on the crest of a wave, and went over.

I was conscious of cries, shrill, faint, and then I sank, struggling hard to keep above water, yet borne down by the weight of the canoe. I came up again, choking and half strangled, and sought to grip the boat as it whirled past. My fingers found nothing to cling to, slipping along the wet keel, until I went down again, but this time holding my breath. My water-soaked garments and heavy shoes made swimming almost impossible, yet I struggled to keep face above water. Two men had reached the canoe, and had somehow found hold. One of these was an Indian, but they were already too far away to aid me, and in another moment had vanished in the white crest of waves. Not another of our boat's crew was visible, nor could I be sure of where the shore lay.

gray and blurred, as the damp vapor swept over us in dense clouds. It was a ghastly scene, rendered more awesome by the glare of lightning which seemed to split the vapor, and the sound of thunder reverberating from the surface of the lake.

The water, a ghastly, greenish gray, heaved beneath, giving us little difficulty, yet terrifying in its suggestion of sudden storms, and the shore line was hardly discernible to the left as we struggled forward. What obstacle compelled Caslon to keep us at the back I know not, but he was only able to yield to D'Artigny's advice—but the sergeant swore to himself, and turned the prow of our canoe inward, hugging the shore as closely as he dared, his anxious eyes searching every rift in the mist.

Yet, dark and drear as the day was, we had no true warning of the approaching storm, for time vague clinging to the water concealed from our sight the clouds above. When it came it burst upon us with mad ferocity, the wind whirling to the north and striking us with all the force of three hundred miles of open sea. The mist was swept away with that first fierce gust, and we were struggling for life in a wild turmoil of waters. I had but a glimpse of it—a glimpse of wild, raging sea; of black, scurrying clouds, no close above I could almost reach out and touch them; of dimly revealed canoes flung about like chips, driving before the blast.

Our own was hurled forward like an arrow, the Indian paddlers working hard and to keep a stern to the wind, their long hair whipping about. The soldiers crouched in the bottom, clinging grimly to any support, their white faces exhibiting the absence of fear. The sergeant alone spoke, yelling his orders, as he whirled steering paddle, his hat blown from his head, his face brightly with sudden terror. It was but the glimpse of an instant; then a paddle broke, the canoe swung sideways, balanced on the crest of a wave, and went over.

I was conscious of cries, shrill, faint, and then I sank, struggling hard to keep above water, yet borne down by the weight of the canoe. I came up again, choking and half strangled, and sought to grip the boat as it whirled past. My fingers found nothing to cling to, slipping along the wet keel, until I went down again, but this time holding my breath. My water-soaked garments and heavy shoes made swimming almost impossible, yet I struggled to keep face above water. Two men had reached the canoe, and had somehow found hold. One of these was an Indian, but they were already too far away to aid me, and in another moment had vanished in the white crest of waves. Not another of our boat's crew was visible, nor could I be sure of where the shore lay.

"You've had some word you wished to say, monsieur?"

"There are words enough if you would listen."

"I'll not fault of yours if I do not. But not now, monsieur. It is late and cold. We take the boats early and I would rest while I can."

He was on his feet, the map gripped to his hand, but made no effort to stop me, as I dropped him a curtsy, and retreated. But he was there still when I glanced back from out the safety of the tent, his face creased by a frown. When he finally turned away the map was crushed shapely in his fingers.

The morning dawned somewhat warmer, but with every promise of a storm, threatening clouds hanging above the water, sullen and menacing, their edges tipped with lightning. The roar of distant thunder came to our ears, yet there was no wind, and Caslon decided that the clouds would drift southward, and leave us safe passage along the shore. His canoe had been wrecked in making landing the evening before, and had taken in considerable water during the night. This was built out, but the interior was so wet and uncomfortable that I begged to be given place in another boat, and Caslon consented, after I had exhibited some temper, ordering a soldier in the sergeant's canoe to exchange places with me.

We may have proceeded for half a league, when a fog swept in toward the land enveloping us in its folds, although we were close enough to the shore so as to keep safely together, the word being passed back down the line, and as we drew nearer I became aware that D'Artigny's boat had turned about, and he was endeavoring to induce Caslon to go ashore and make camp before the storm broke.

The fog was so dense that we were unable to see the shore, and I claimed we were close enough for safety, and finally, in angry voice, insisted upon proceeding on our course.

D'Artigny, evidently feeling argument useless, made no reply, but I noticed he held back his paddles and permitted Caslon's canoe to forge ahead. He must have discovered that he was not with me, for I saw him stare intently at each of the other canoes, as though to make sure of my presence, shading his eyes with one hand, as he peered through the fog.

This action evidenced the first intimation I had for days of his continued interest in my welfare, and my heart thrilled with sudden pleasure. Whether or not he felt some premonition of danger, he certainly spoke words of instruction to his Indian paddlers, and so manipulated his craft as to keep out of sight, although slightly farther from shore, than the canoe in which I sat."

Caslon had already vanished in the mist, which swept in and shut along the surface of the water, the nearer boats becoming more indistinct shadows. Even within my own canoe the faces of those about me appeared gray and blurred, as the damp vapor swept over us in dense clouds. It was a ghastly scene, rendered more awesome by the glare of lightning which seemed to split the vapor, and the sound of thunder reverberating from the surface of the lake.

The water, a ghastly, greenish gray, heaved beneath, giving us little difficulty, yet terrifying in its suggestion of sudden storms, and the shore line was hardly discernible to the left as we struggled forward. What obstacle compelled Caslon to keep us at the back I know not, but he was only able to yield to D'Artigny's advice—but the sergeant swore to himself, and turned the prow of our canoe inward, hugging the shore as closely as he dared, his anxious eyes searching every rift in the mist.

Yet, dark and drear as the day was, we had no true warning of the approaching storm, for time vague clinging to the water concealed from our sight the clouds above. When it came it burst upon us with mad ferocity, the wind whirling to the north and striking us with all the force of three hundred miles of open sea. The mist was swept away with that first fierce gust, and we were struggling for life in a wild turmoil of waters. I had but a glimpse of it—a glimpse of wild, raging sea; of black, scurrying clouds, no close above I could almost reach out and touch them; of dimly revealed canoes flung about like chips, driving before the blast.

Our own was hurled forward like an arrow, the Indian paddlers working hard and to keep a stern to the wind, their long hair whipping about. The soldiers crouched in the bottom, clinging grimly to any support, their white faces exhibiting the absence of fear. The sergeant alone spoke, yelling his orders, as he whirled steering paddle, his hat blown from his head, his face brightly with sudden terror. It was but the glimpse of an instant; then a paddle broke, the canoe swung sideways, balanced on the crest of a wave, and went over.

I was conscious of cries, shrill, faint, and then I sank, struggling hard to keep above water, yet borne down by the weight of the canoe. I came up again, choking and half strangled, and sought to grip the boat as it whirled past. My fingers found nothing to cling to, slipping along the wet keel, until I went down again, but this time holding my breath. My water-soaked garments and heavy shoes made swimming almost impossible, yet I struggled to keep face above water. Two men had reached the canoe, and had somehow found hold. One of these was an Indian, but they were already too far away to aid me, and in another moment had vanished in the white crest of waves. Not another of our boat's crew was visible, nor could I be sure of where the shore lay.

"You've had some word you wished to say, monsieur?"

"There are words enough if you would listen."

"I'll not fault of yours if I do not. But not now, monsieur. It is late and cold. We take the boats early and I would rest while I can."

He was on his feet, the map gripped to his hand, but made no effort to stop me, as I dropped him a curtsy, and retreated. But he was there still when I glanced back from out the safety of the tent, his face creased by a frown. When he finally turned away the map was crushed shapely in his fingers.

The morning dawned somewhat warmer, but with every promise of a storm, threatening clouds hanging above the water, sullen and menacing, their edges tipped with lightning. The roar of distant thunder came to our ears, yet there was no wind, and Caslon decided that the clouds would drift southward, and leave us safe passage along the shore. His canoe

BARRINGTON REVIEW

ESTABLISHED 1885
M. T. LANEY, Editor and Publisher
Published every Thursday afternoon at Barrington, Illinois, and entered as second-class matter at the Barrington postoffice.

Subscription price $1.00 per year in advance.
Advertising rates made known upon application.
All copy for advertisements must be received before Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue.
Careful thought, resolutions of contributors and all notices of correspondence should be primary benefit must be paid for.

All communications should be addressed to the BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILL.
TELEPHONE No. 1, BARRINGTON, ILL.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1916

WAUCONDA

William Tidmarsh has been quite ill during the past week, but is improving.
Earl Colby and wife and his brother and wife visited at the Prior home Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. Brand, her daughter, Mrs. Ives, and children visited Libertyville relatives Saturday.

The village trustees are rebuilding the outlet bridge across Mait street and are to widen the road bed at this point.

Members of the W. R. C. went to Norwood Park Thursday to spend the day with a worthy member, Mrs. E. A. Goding.

William Basely and helpers are erecting a new house for Fred Dowell on the old Oary forty, Fred having purchased the land.

T. B. Richardson of Belvidere is expected to visit P. E. Farr the last of this week. Mr. Richardson is an old friend of the family.

M. C. Basely and family will return to their home in the village soon, the work force on the Belche farm being let down at this time.

Grace Wells returned from Des Moines, Iowa, where she visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Englund and is spending the week with a sister in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Mrs. Lucy Clough and Bert, and Mrs. R. C. Harlock are here from Prairie du Sac, Wisconsin, for a few days this week. Mrs. Clough will remain for a longer stay.

P. L. Carr expects to leave for Iowa Sunday evening to begin work as right of way man for the Iowa Railway & Light company of Cedar Rapids and expects to be away for several weeks or until about Thanksgiving.

In mentioning the automobile accident in a recent communication to the REVIEW, we, by some lapse of memory, wrote the name of Marguerite Lumsphere where Ruth Broncheon's name should have appeared. We regret the error and bid to Miss Marguerite who was not in the car when the spill happened.

Two worthy young people, Archie Jones and Mildred Kirk, were married on the twentieth instant, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Hyde, of Geneva, Kane county. Archie is as well thought of as any young man of the town and Miss Kirk has made many friends since the family came in to our midst to life. That their future may be as happy as is due their smiling courage is our wish.

George Spillers, who had lived in this vicinity for twenty years, passed away at the home of John Gossel where he had been sick for the last two months. George was a bachelor neighbor of the Gossels and when he fell ill was taken into their home and given the best of care until the end came. This was a truly Christian ministrations and Mr. and Mrs. Gossel and their children deserve credit for such trying duty. They are people who would be only a neighbor and they could have avoided caring for him had they so wished. But instead they cared for him faithfully and tenderly day and night through a very trying ailment never seeming to feel that they could do anything too much for the sufferer. Surely they shall be rewarded in some unseen manner by Him Whom they tried to obey.

EMBROIDERY—PLATING—BUTTONS
HEMSTITCHING
10c a yard—all colors
Bring your work in before shopping, ready when you go home.
Mail Orders given prompt attention
Louis J. Woble
125 S. State, cor. Adams, over Peacock's
Phone Randolph 6975

AVICIOUS PEST
Kills every insect
in house or barn
Keeps them off
and keeps them off
and keeps them off

RAT CORN
Kills every rat
in house or barn
Keeps them off
and keeps them off
and keeps them off

W. J. CAMERON
Kills every rat
in house or barn
Keeps them off
and keeps them off
and keeps them off

NEAR-BY NEWS

Dundee will have a National Pay-Up week October 16 to 21.

The Graylake Times and the merchants of that place are planning on a big dollar day sale and free moving picture show to take place October 6, afternoon and evening.

William F. Sylla, city clerk of Elgin, was elected life secretary and treasurer of Thirty-sixth Regiment Veteran Volunteer Association at its annual reunion in Joliet.

Contractors are making estimates on plans for a handsome new business block to be erected by Mrs. Sarah J. Dearty on the Healy lot on the corner of William and Brink streets at Crystal Lake.

The Telene Cheese company will establish a factory in Dundee, which will be capable of turning out 1,700 pounds of cheese per day, according to an announcement made recently by Peter Day, manager.

September 11 is early for snow in this locality, but we have it on good authority that there was a light fall here last Friday morning. It was certainly cold enough that day for snow. —Harvard Independent.

Ralph Stroker and Paul Haas were winners when they drew lots with Robert Long and Harold Brooks for the privilege of attending the agricultural classes at Springfield last week at the state fair. The boys represented Wauconda high school students there and enjoyed the trip. They were entertained and all expenses paid for one week.

At a meeting of the fair committee held in Libertyville the bills were audited and reports of the receipts and expenditures in connection with the recent fair were gone over by the committee. While the committee has not made a statement of its financial affairs it has been learned that the receipts of the fair this year will take care of all expenses, leaving a small balance in the treasury.

Next Saturday at Dean's driving park, Palatine, there will be some exciting automobile races for cash prizes. This track is becoming noted as a mecca for automobile fans and this day's events are sure to attract a large crowd. The races will start at 2 o'clock p. m., for which there will be cash prizes for first, second and third. The day will close with a monster dance in the evening at Selp's auditorium.

State Senator A. J. Olson is a patient in a hospital at Elgin, having been taken there following the city council meeting at Woodstock. The nature of Senator Olson's illness is not generally known, but among many of his friends it has been stated for some time that his health is impaired, the loss of flesh and a general break-down having been apparent for some time. That his illness may be of a minor nature and of only short duration is the hope of his large number of friends.

Unclaimed Letters
The following letters remain at the Barrington postoffice unclaimed for week ending September 27, 1916:

John Gross, A. C. Gross, E. Grace, Mrs. F. A. H. Saffell, C. H. Saffell, When Sammons, Arnold Peterson, G. W. SPUNNER, Postmaster.

Meat Markets to Close on Sunday
Commencing Sunday, October 1, our meat markets will be closed on Sunday during the winter season.

P. J. HAWLEY & SON.
232 N. E. Highway, Chicago.
EDWARD C. GHOFF.

Business Notices

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Modern six-room house on Station street. Mrs. William H. Smith, 2321 N. E. Highway, Chicago.

FOR SALE—At private sale: Single bed, sewing machine, dining table and chairs, kitchen, table, heating stove, cook stove, two bed room sets, chamber sets, center table, book case, parlor set and numerous other articles. —Miss Diana Dornan, Hough street, Barrington.

FOR RENT

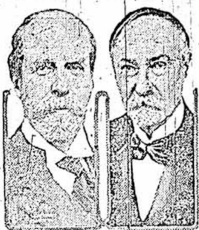

FOR RENT—Automobile by mile or hour. —E. J. PROUTY, telephone Barrington 48-R.

FOR RENT—Commuter tickets. Barrington-Chicago and Chicago-Wauconda. NILES T. LANEY, Barrington.

WANTED

WANTED—Girl for general housework in Chicago with small family. Address, "G. M." care of Barrington Review.

WANTED—Active man. One of the large publishing houses in New York has an opening for an active man in this territory. The opportunity is a splendid one and the right man can acquire complete control of our local business and soon elevate himself to district manager position. Address Publisher, Box 105 N. Times Square Sta., New York City.

HUGHES and FAIRBANKS.

AUCTION SALES.

William Peters, Auctioneer.
Having sold my farm, I will sell my entire farming outfit Monday, October 2, 1916, on my farm situated 1 1/2 miles east of Barrington and 5 1/2 miles north-east of Palatine, formerly known as the Baird farm, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m.

63 Head of Livestock
18 head of Holstein cows, mostly springers; 4 Holstein heifers, some one year old; one 2-year-old Holstein heifer; registered Holstein stock bull; 6 good work horses; 2 yearling colts; 21 shoats; 3 registered Durham brood sows.

Tools
2 walking plows; 2 sulky plow; 2 sets drags; McCormick corn harvester; Big Four grass mower; roller drill; 10 horse power Stover engine; Carpenter's 4 roll shingle; grinder; feed cutter; pump engine; general utility grinder; grind stone; hay rake; pulley; 2 corn planters; sulky cultivator, 5 shovel; service cultivator; disc cultivator; 3 tooth cultivator; shovel plow; 3 truck wagons; 2 sets gravel dumps; wagon box; 2 new hay racks; buggy; 2 sets load sleds; milk wagon; 2 sets double work harness; 5 good milk cows; one 60 gallon gasoline tank; grain boxes.

Feed
40 tons timothy hay in barn; 40 acres corn in shock; stack of straw; 10 bushels spring wheat; 100 bushels of barley; oats.

Poultry
Some full blood White Rock chickens; big Roman ducks; geese.

Terms
All sums of $10.00 and under, cash over that amount 6 months' credit will be given on good approved notes at 6 per cent.

No property to be removed until settled for.
Lunch at noon.
CHRIST HARTZ, Proprietor.

AUCTION SALE

William Peters, Auctioneer.
Having decided to quit the dairy business the undersigned will sell at public auction on the Bauman farm, situated three miles south of Barrington and four miles west of Palatine, on Thursday, October 5, commencing at 1 o'clock, the following property:

21 Head Holstein Cattle
1 with calf by her side, 4 fresh a short time, 6 coming in soon, balance being milking some time. One stock bull. The stock are all home raised, well bred and marked. One heifer 9 years old, weight 1100 lbs. One heavy milk cow in good condition. 1 60 horse sulky cultivator, shovel plow, 1 horse cultivator, 25 tons timothy hay in barn; 100 bushels oats; 15 acres of corn in shock, 3 burner kerosene stove. Usual terms.

BEHOLD L. MINNERS.

STATE OF ILLINOIS

CERTIFICATE OF COOK

We, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have formed a United partnership under the name of "Peters & Gross," and that the same is organized in accordance with the laws of the State of Illinois in such cases made and provided.

PAUL GROSSE
1st. The name under which the firm is to be conducted is: PETER & GROSSE.

2nd. The general nature of the business to be conducted by said firm is that of buying and selling, both at wholesale and retail, plumbing goods and materials and dealing in plumber's supplies in general and maintain one or more supply houses or stores. Also to maintain and operate one or more workshops, to furnish supplies and install plumbing of all kinds, and to do all other work pertaining to the plumbing trade, whether material be furnished by this firm or not.

3rd. Paul Grosse is the general partner and now resides at 1211 Wrightwood avenue, Chicago, Illinois. Charles Rind is the limited or special partner and now resides at 4016 North Leanington avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and has contributed to the capital stock of the firm the sum of six hundred ($600.00) dollars in cash.

4th. The partnership shall begin on the third day of August, 1916, and continue for a period of five years, ending on the third day of August, 1921.

(Signed) PAUL GROSSE. (Seal)
(Signed) CHARLES RIND. (Seal)

Charles Rind and Paul Grosse, by their first duly sworn oath deposes and says that the sum of six ($600.00) dollars above mentioned as having been contributed to the capital stock of said firm by Charles Rind, the special partner, has been by him actually and in good faith contributed in full money and applied to the capital stock of said co-partnership, and further without saying anything.

(Signed) PAUL GROSSE.
(Signed) CHARLES RIND.
(Signed) OLIVER N. SELLERS.
Notary Public.

(Notarial Seal)

Real Estate Transfers
J. C. Beckwith and wife to Henry Blockmans, south 20 acres of north-east 40 acres, Sec. 33, Els Twp., decd $1.00.

J. D. Pabman to Caroline Schneible 33 acres in Sec. 35, Els Twp., Q. C. $1.00.

A Further Reduction

IN

Electric Light Rates

will be made by this Company at the time named as follows:

In Force October 1, 1916

For the first 30 hours' use of the maximum demand, per K. W. H. ... 12c

For the remaining hours' consumption during the month, per K. W. H. 8c

For this rate a discount of 1 cent per K. W. H. will be made for payment of bill by the date specified thereon.

Minimum bill 50c per month

The foregoing rate will be applicable to all meters read after the date of its inauguration

Public Service Co.,
of Northern Illinois

CASTLE, WIL LIAMS
LONG & CASTLE, Attorneys at Law. 805-817 National Life Building, 29 South La Salle street, Chicago.

HOWARD P. CASTLE, Evening Office at residence, Barrington; Telephone number 212-M.

R. L. PECK, Lawyer. Residence, Palatine, Illinois. Office: 1414 American Trust Building, Chicago. Telephone Central 595.

J. HOWARD FURBY, Dentist. Office hours: 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. Phone 57-J. Office in Peters' building, Main street.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

PETERS BUILDING

Books distributed Tuesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings.

Rest and reading rooms always open. Reference books and Magazines.

FOUNDED AND SUPPORTED BY

BARRINGTON WOMAN'S CLUB

The Public is Welcome

Kirmse & Lerch

PAINTING AND DECORATING

ESTIMATES FURNISHED

Telephone: Henry Kirmse, 67-J

Charles Lerch, 41

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS

—Quick Service Well Drilling

R. H. Horrel, Quick Service Well Drilling and Casing. Estimates reasonable. P. O. box No. 8, Barrington, Ill.

Income tax collections this year increased $14,733,493.

FIRST STATE BANK of BARRINGTON

Capital and Surplus $60,000.00

THE BANK HAS PURCHASED AND OFFERS TO its customers, a limited number of drainage assessment bonds of WESTMORELAND DRAINAGE DISTRICT, which is situated near Niles Center, Cook County, Illinois, and contains 1180 acres of land, mostly small tracts used for garden trucking, on which the assessment is a first lien. Maturities 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. Interest, 5% per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. Denominations, $100.00 and $500.00. Price, par and accrued interest.

The Bank recommends these bonds to those desiring a safe investment. These bonds are selling rapidly.

DIRECTORS:

H. K. BROCKWAY H. J. LACHSCHULTE E. W. RILEY
HOWARD P. CASTLE MILES T. LEVY A. L. ROBERTSON
GEORGE J. HAGER J. L. MEYERS JOHN ROBERTSON
R. R. HAMMOND A. W. MEYER G. W. SPUNNER
G. W. LACHSCHULTE JOHN C. PLAGGE

Barrington Mercantile Co.

FARM TOOLS, Cement, Sand, Building Tile, Rock Phosphate and Ground Limestone. Our prices are right.

Barrington Mercantile Co.

READ "REVIEW" ADS

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO LOCAL PEOPLE

happenings of the Week Told in Short Paragraphs—What's Doing in and Near Our Hustling Village.

School books at D. F. Lamey's.
Nothing in the world is so contagious as good humor.
Arthur Marekoff of Elgin was a Barrington caller Sunday.

Emil F. Schaefer, town clerk of Cuba township, was in Waukegan Tuesday on business.

G. W. Spunner and family attended a family reunion at Sycamore the first of the week.

Mrs. Mina Kirsme of Chicago is visiting in the home of her son, Henry Kirsme, and family.

The M. E. Sunday school at the church the second Sunday in October.

Mrs. Ralph Church is on a visit to her parents at Charlotte, Michigan. She will be away two weeks.

The Portia club will hold its first meeting this fall at the home of Mrs. Alta Bennett on Thursday, October 12.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Higley of Ravenswood spent Friday and Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krishner.

A. H. Gleason, local C. & N. W. freight agent, is on a two weeks' vacation. John McCoy, first truck operator, is taking his place.

Mrs. William Wright was called to Odell Monday to be with her sister, Mrs. John Bolen, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Meyer, Mrs. Rhoda Wagerman and Mrs. A. D. Parker motored to Delavan, Wisconsin, Sunday, returning Tuesday evening.

The Lake county board of supervisors is holding its quarterly meeting at Waukegan this week. Fred Kirschen, supervisor of Cuba township, is attending the session.

The Baptist Missionary society will meet Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Cameron. The first chapter of the new study, Worldly Mission and World Peace, will be taken up.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Niss and daughter Florence visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weidt last Sunday. Other guests at the Weidts home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gilly and family.

E. F. Wiseman, a former Barrington resident who resides at Los Angeles, California, informs the Review that he has purchased a home of his own and wishes the address of his paper changed accordingly. Mr. Wiseman's new address is 1014 West Forty-Third street, Los Angeles.

The village board will meet at Village hall next Monday evening in regular session.

Mrs. Gertrude Kirsme was off duty at the postoffice three days last week on account of sickness.

Edward Meister and family of Maywood visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Meister Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hartz, east of the village, had as their guests during the past week Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Doering of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Calkins of Racine, Wisconsin, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Calkins and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Holmes, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frey and son, Edward, of Gilman visited from Saturday until Tuesday at the home of W. N. Landwehr. Mrs. Frey and Mrs. Landwehr are sisters.

The ninth annual convention of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America is in session at Hotel LaSalle, Chicago. School children of Cook county outside of Chicago have an attractive exhibit.

A. L. Scherf has taken the contract to move five ranch factory cottages at Elgin which were sold to employees for $100 each. He will use his $9 horse power tractor engine for doing the work. It will take about seven days to complete the job.

Printers ink lends the world of every business. If a business be worthy and managed well printing is the next greatest factor in its success. The Review can supply your needs in this work. Our prices are right and our work will please you.

Chris Hartz has sold his farm just east of town and will have a big auction sale on Monday, October 2. Mr. Hartz expects to move to Barrington in the spring. This is the first public sale in this section this fall and no doubt will be largely attended.

G. W. Spunner and family, Prof. F. S. Smith and family, Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. G. C. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Brookway and Mr. and Mrs. George Butler composed an automobile party that attended the pageant celebration at Kaneville last week.

The Boy Scouts of Barrington are going on a long hike tomorrow morning. They leave here early in company with Scout Master Lytle for Dundee, from there they go to Cary and then return to Barrington. If plans are carried out in full they will reach home some time Saturday evening.

George A. Smith of Freebourn, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Martha Irene Freebourn of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, were united in marriage Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. H. Nibbel, brother of the bride's mother and a brother, who accompanied the couple to Barrington. Rev. J. Hoerner officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hammond are guests at the Elgin hotel, Excelsior Springs, Missouri.

The interior of St. Ann's church is being redecorated. Kirsme & Lerch are doing the work.

Holy communion will be celebrated at St. Paul's church next Sunday morning at the usual hour.

Miss Charlotte Hanna of Riverbank farm, Geneva, was the guest of Constance Calkins a part of this week.

Mrs. Mary Schlosser of Franklin street has returned from Ohio where she had visited relatives since the first of June.

Mrs. William Peters and Mrs. J. H. Hartz visited Mrs. Edward Peters at the Lakeside hospital, Chicago, last Thursday.

Prayer meeting at the Salem church will be held hereafter on Thursday evening instead of Wednesday evening and will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Brien attended the funeral Wednesday of Mrs. O'Brien's uncle, Thomas C. Dolan, of Irving Park. A number of other Barrington people also attended.

Ensl Mavis paid $335 for the Davenport property on North Hawley street which was offered at public auction yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Davenport declined to sell for less than $2,000.

The Woman's Thursday club opens for its twenty-third year on next Thursday, October 6, with a reception and musicale at the home of the president, Mrs. Sanford Peck, of Lake street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Gavin of Buffalo, New York, are guests of Mr. Gavin's cousin, Rev. Father E. A. McCormick. Mr. Gavin is manager of the Equitable Life Assurance society at Buffalo.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. O. Winters next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. John Schreinem will be the leader.

Mrs. Ella Calkins attended the annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at Broadway church, Chicago, on Tuesday. Over $100,000 have been raised by the Chicago North-western district in the past year for this work.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Horn and daughter Eva and Harry Landwehr returned home Saturday after a week's motoring through Wisconsin. They visited several camps at the home of J. W. Adams at Caledonia Station, Wisconsin.

Harry Scott will go to Fox River the first of next week on a fishing trip. He expects to return to Barrington next Thursday with several pounds of large channel cats, which he intends to sell on the corner of the First State bank building. "Scotty" says he'll have some real good fish.

Rev. Woolhouse of Chicago, twenty years a minister, filled the pulpit Sunday morning and evening at the Baptist church and will be there again on Sunday, October 8. He came Wednesday evening and led the prayer meeting services. Harry Farrell of the Moody Bible institute, who preached here a week ago last Sunday, has been secured to supply this Sunday.

Rev. H. O. Hubbard, brother of Mrs. J. B. Freeman, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday night and gave an able address on "The Right Way to Live." Rev. Hubbard has just recently been married and he and his bride were here on a brief visit before going to their new church at Robert, Indiana.

The Barrington Woman's club will open its work for the year on October 4 in the club room. A fine program has been arranged on "Nature Study" by several members of the club. A large list of new members has been added since last spring, and everything points to a very successful year. The library has been open all summer and so great has been the demand for books that two librarians have been necessary on Saturday.

The choir of St. Ann's church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Nibbel on Wednesday evening. The affair was planned as a farewell for Mrs. Louis Thacher who has been a long member of the organization for several years and is leaving this week for her new home in Ripon, Wisconsin. Another feature was the presentation of a gift to the leader, Miss Myrtle Plugge. The hostess served light refreshments, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

Baptist Sunday School Rally Day

Last Sunday was observed as rally day by the Baptist Sunday school with extra numbers on the program and many beautiful mottoes and banners to create interest. The decorations of the church were large and of yellow, corn, pumpkin, green and yellow squashes, wurtzel mangel and a wealth of flowers, giving a harvest effect to the home coming meeting. The receiving of the new members and an increase of twenty in attendance marked the beginning of the fall quarter's work.

CARY STATION

Rev. H. W. Hills of Algonquin called on Cary friends last week.

Henry Garton is in North Dakota looking after his farm interests in that state.

Mrs. Harvey Gilbertson of Barrington attended the funeral of Mrs. John Dunn last week.

The steady downpour of rain Monday night and Tuesday was of great benefit to the pastures in this vicinity.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church will be entertained today at the home of Mrs. Joseph Tomisky in Crystal Lake.

John Lowe returned last week to his home in Oasco, Wisconsin, after a visit of two weeks with relatives and friends here.

Miss Pearl Abbott has resumed violin work at the American Conservatory, Chicago, and has joined the orchestra there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaster have moved to the flat formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Des Frey, who moved to Barrington last week.

Misses Amelia Blofer and Barbara Traub are spending several weeks at Woodstock with the former's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Kilb, who is ill.

Rev. R. R. Feuell, who has been in Detroit, Michigan, attending conference where he was elected to ordination and also elected to membership in the Detroit annual conference, has returned and services were held in the Methodist church last Sunday evening as usual.

Text books used in Barrington high school at D. F. Lamey's.

The Speech Courteous

TELEPHONE courtesy means more than mere politeness. It means consideration for the feelings and convenience of others.

This is just as important in business as in social intercourse.

It is well to remember that in a telephone conversation the party to whom you are talking forms his judgment of you entirely by what you say and how you say it.

Good manners and amiability never fail to make a favorable impression and greatly facilitate good telephone service.

Chicago Telephone Company
J. H. Conrath, District Manager
Telephone 9903

There will be a song service at the Salem church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Special music will be rendered by members of the Plague families.

Optimistic Thought.
What is acquired without labor, is seldom worth acquiring at all.

"That's The Kind of Clothes I Want"

Ever say that to yourself when you saw a well-dressed man?

Of course you have. A well-dressed man always stands out above the crowd.

And it's so easy to have trim, neat clothes of lastingly good material.

Let us show you how to do it, economically, with

Michaels-Stern
Clothes

A. W. MEYER
BARRINGTON, ILL.

C. F. HALL COMPANY Cash Department Store

| | | | |
|---|---|---|--|
| C. F. Hall Co. Stores at Dundee and Elgin —in the interest of the people —the way you pay they go —Notwithstanding the high prices we are paid, we are giving you the best goods on the old Auto scraps in different colors 25c | Infants' hose, silk-heel and toe, sizes 4 to 6; 15c Heavy outing flannel yd. 9c 35 inch silk poplin, 14c different styles, yd. 60c Heavy Turkish towels 10c Auto vests, full size, 60c Auto scraps in different colors 25c | SHOES Ladies' cloth top patent leather shoes $3.00 Ladies' cloth top shoes, special value $1.29 Men's all leather shoes $2.95 Children's tennis shoes, black or white 60c | Rabbit Sots, etc. at 25c $5.95, $9.00, $12.75 Dresses New line of serge dresses at $5.95 $9.95 Silk poplin dresses, beautifully trimmed, all shades $6.50 $8.87 |
| DRY GOODS SPECIALS 30 lines of hose for men, women and all ages 25c Ladies' flannel hose 10c Ladies' superflannel hose, Silkoline, yd. 10c best yarn, ribbed top hose 10c Rockford style Men's hose, pair 5c Men's wool hose 10c | Make Quilts Samples for quilts, 12 x 17, 24 samples for 20c 48 make a quilt 10c Silkoline, yd. 10c Large Department Devoted to CLOTHING, SHOES AND MEN'S FURNISHINGS 10c, 15c, 18c Special Men's Overcoats $6.50 $7.50 $9.50 Ladies' silk and wool hose, pair 25c | MILLINERY AND LADIES' DEPT. OPENING Thurs., Fri. and Sat., Oct. 6, 7 and 8. Come and see our latest styles trimmed and untrimmed hats for ladies, misses and children, at reasonable prices. LAQIES' DEPT. Fur Sots Electric Seal Red Fox | Coats. Cardigan Coats, pile fabric, fine plush coats trimmed with electric seal fur at $12.50 $14.00 $16.87 Skirts Ladies' Skirts in plaids, black and white and panama, at $2.25 $5.50 $3.75 |

TWO STORES: MAIN STREET, DUNDEE; MILWAUKEE AND RIVER STREETS (ONE BLOCK FROM FOUNTAIN SQUARE) ELGIN.

Three strong reasons urge you to buy the Ford car: First, because of its record of satisfactory service to more than fifteen hundred thousand owners; Second, because of the reliability of the Company which makes it; Third, because of its large radiator and enclosed fan, streamline hood, crown fenders front and rear, black finish, nickel trimmings, it is most attractive in appearance. To these must be added its wonderful economy in operation and maintenance—about two cents a mile; likewise the fact that by reason of its simplicity in construction anyone can operate and care for it. Nine thousand Ford agents make Ford service as universal as the car. Touring car $300—Runabout $345—Complet $305—Town Car $395—Sedan $445—F. O. b. Detroit. On sale at

D. C. Schroeder's

INTEREST due on the First of October on First Mortgage Real Estate Gold Bonds bought from us is being paid now on presentation of coupons at our office.

Write for our latest Bond issue in $100, $500, $1,000 denominations yielding 6 per cent payable semi-annually.

Wollenberger & Co.
INVESTMENT BANKERS
105 So. La Salle St., Chicago

30 DIE IN AIR RAID

110 PERSONS INJURED WHEN ZEPPELINS ATTACK LONDON AT NIGHT.

TWO AIRSHIPS SHOT DOWN

Crew of One Dirigible Killed and Twenty-Two of Crew of the Second Were Captured—Many Buildings Are Destroyed by Bombs.

London, Sept. 20.—Twelve Zeppelins, which raided London and the south-east counties of England last night, killed 30 persons and injured 110 others, according to a British official statement issued here. Of the casualties 28 men, women and children were killed and 50 men, women and children were injured in the metropolitan area of London.

Two of the Zeppelins alighted, both of a new pattern, which was down in Essex. The crew of one was killed, but the crew of the other, consisting of 22 men, was captured.

Outside of the London district two persons were killed and 11 injured in an East Midland town and it is feared that two other bodies may be buried in the ruins.

The missiles dropped by the hostile aircraft caused numerous fires and demolished or damaged a large number of residences and stores in London.

The casualties in the metropolitan area, according to an official compilation, are as follows:

Killed, men 17, women 8, children 3. Total, 28.

Injured, men 45, women 37, children 27. Total, 109.

Messages from correspondents at various points between London and the Passey coast describe the delight of watchers when the first raiding airship was brought down in flames about one o'clock in the morning.

People rushed from their houses to points of vantage when the sound of guns was heard and they watched the airship as it proceeded eastward constantly in the glare of concentrated searchlights, with shells bursting around it in such close proximity that watchers were convinced hits must have been scored.

Suddenly there was a flash, then a burst of flame and a stream of smoke as the blazing airship descended slowly, a huge ball of fire still outlined in the rays of the searchlights.

ALLIES ROUTED, SAYS BERLIN

Field Marshal von Mackensen's Enforcing Movement Shattered Line in Dobruja.

London, Sept. 20.—By one of the most brilliant coups in the present war, Field Marshal von Mackensen has turned what looked like overwhelming defeat in the Dobruja district of Rumania into a victory.

Earlier dispatches declared Mackensen's forces were retreating before the onslaughts of the combined Russian and Rumanian forces, which had made a stand along the line from the port of Constanza, on the Black sea, to the Danube.

The text of the Berlin statement issued on Friday, follows:

"In Dobruja strong Rumanian forces attacked southwest of Topral Sari (14 miles southwest of Constanza). By an crushing counter-attack by German-Bulgarian-Turkish troops against the flank and rear of the enemy the Rumanians are being driven back in disorder.

Bucharest official stated that the invaders have been driven back more than five miles and "are still in retreat."

GERMANS SINK A TRANSPORT

Berlin Says Submarine Torpedoed Ship Loaded With Troops—French Diver Sunk.

Berlin, Sept. 20.—An enemy transport, loaded with troops, was sunk in the Mediterranean on Sunday by a German submarine, the admiralty announced.

An Austro-Hungarian naval aeroplane in the southern Adriatic sank by means of bombs the French submarine Foucault. The entire crew of the submarine, comprising two officers and twenty-seven men, were rescued and made prisoner by the naval aeroplane mentioned and another.

British Free 38 Teutons.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The state department was officially notified on Friday in a dispatch from Consul General Brittain at Sydney, of the release of the 38 civilians of the Teutonic powers who were seized illegally while on board the merchant steamer China in the far East months ago. The release resulted from a strong protest by the state department to Great Britain.

War to Last Another Year.

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—That the war in Europe will last at least another year, was the opinion expressed here by Brig. Gen. U. C. N. Sellheim, who has been with the Australian forces in Europe.

"Sweetheart Ship" in Port.

New York, Sept. 27.—The Anchor liner, California, which arrived here, could well be called the "sweetheart ship." On board the vessel were 29 Scotch and one Irish bride-to-be. They were met by their fiancés.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS

BRITISH DRIVE MILE INTO GERMAN LINES ON SIX-MILE FRONT IN FRANCE.

PARIS TAKEN BY FRENCH

Entente Troops Recapture Gigantic Offensive After Three Days and Nights of Incessant Bombardment—Many Prisoners Captured.

London, Sept. 27.—The British troops have captured the villages of Marais and Les Bouffes, together with several lines of trenches on a six mile front between Cambes and Marais, south of the "Ancere river," says the official report from British headquarters issued here on Monday. This front was penetrated to a depth of more than a mile.

Many prisoners were taken, and heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans in this renewal of the great drive on the Somme. The French also gained much ground.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The French made another smashing inroad into 15 miles of the German lines on the Somme front and the important base of Comblis is practically surrounded.

The town of Raucourt was captured and Freycourt was entered. They lie east and northeast of Comblis respectively. The attack swept the French more than half a mile east of the road from Raucourt to Peronne.

The assault came after three days and nights of incessant bombardment of the German trenches, miles of which were shelled into shapeless masses of pulverized earth.

VENIZOS FLEES IN BOAT

Former Greek Premier Picked Up at Sea by Merchant Ship—Will Head Revolt.

Athens, Sept. 27, via London.—M. Venizelos, the former premier, left Athens at five o'clock Monday morning. The merchant ship Hesperia picked him up from a boat in the open sea.

It is said that M. Venizelos will first visit Crete and then proceed to Saloniki.

(The inference from the above dispatch is that M. Venizelos was forced to flee from Athens secretly in order to carry out his plans for a revolution which would put Greece into the war on the side of the allies.

The fact that he was obliged to put to sea in an open boat reveals that the king still controls Athens, though adherents of Venizelos have seized control in most of the country except where the Germans and Bulgarians have military power.)

Thirty thousand armed Cretans now control Crete in behalf of Venizelos. They have turned over all government buildings to the leaders of the separatist movement.

Many of Venizelos' most ardent supporters have been urging him to end the situation at Athens by overthrowing the king.

The complete success of the revolutionists on the island of Crete is said to have inspired him to immediate action.

SIX-CENT BREAD IN CHICAGO

One Company First to Announce Price Increase Effective Thursday—Other Firms to Follow.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—A new scale of bread prices for Chicago predicted ever since the conference of the master bakers in this city more than a week ago, was announced on Thursday by one of the city's great wholesalers, as effective next Thursday, September 28.

A new size loaf, resembling the present five-cent loaf, will be put on the market, but will cost six cents.

When the master bakers were in session here they were advised by a lawyer that they must not agree to raise the price of bread or they could be prosecuted under the anti-trust law, but that one firm might raise the price independently and others follow of their own volition. Other companies have indicated their intention to follow.

250 RESCUED FROM STEAMER

Ship in Danger of Breaking Up on Maine Rocks—Crew Taken Off Vessel.

Commander of U. S. Force in Mexico Will Be Made a Major General Soon.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Secretary Baker announced on Monday that the president would nominate Brigadier General Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces in Mexico, to be a major general to fill the vacancy created by the death of Major General Miles.

British Release U. S. Mail.

London, Sept. 26.—Consul General Sherrin, succeeded in effecting the release from the "prize court" of 120 packages of letter mail from the United States to belligerent countries seized on the steamship Hellig Olav.

U. S. Gunners Set Record.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 26.—Fifty-four hits in 38 shots with 12-inch guns in the target practice of the battleship Florida in the Atlantic fleet's individual target practice off the Virginia coast.

WHO GETS IT?

PUTS TRUST IN U. S. VILLISTAS IN BIG RAID

AUSTRIAN COUNT EXPRESSES FAITH IN AMERICA.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Washington was amazed on Thursday when it received an account of Villa's raid on Chihuahua City last Saturday from Brigadier General Bell at El Paso.

According to General Bell, the fight was anything but a "glorious victory" for the Carranzistas, as reports from Mexico City and Juarez indicated. General Bell says Villa captured a large supply of ammunition and made a speech from the balcony of the Carranzistas' place after this and other buildings had been captured.

Washington is wondering what effect, if any, General Bell's report will have on the negotiations of the joint United States-Mexico commission at New London, Conn.

BOMB DROPS NEAR HOOVER

Leader of Belgian Relief Beside Man Wounded on Seized Dutch Mail Steamer.

London, Sept. 23.—The Dutch mail steamer Prins Hendrik, which was seized by German naval forces while bound from Flushing for London and taken into Zebruggen, was in great danger when the steamer was being escorted toward that port for the second time an extensive aerial bombardment dropped a bomb intended for a convoying German destroyer within twenty feet of the steamer. One Dutch passenger and two sailors were wounded.

This is the story told by passengers of the Prins Hendrik who have landed here.

Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American Committee for Belgian Relief, was standing beside the wounded passenger and narrowly escaped injury.

EIGHT AUTOISTS ARE KILLED

Four Illinoisans Lose Lives When Machine Collides With Train in Indiana.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 20.—Two men, one woman and a child were killed and another woman seriously injured on Sunday when their automobile collided with a Vandalla passenger train at Liggett Crossing.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Ora Lang, Fred E. Conley and his four-year-old son, all of Charleston, Ill. Conley was brought to a local hospital, where it was said she probably would recover.

It is believed the brakes of the automobile failed.

Van Wert, O., Sept. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dimkey of Hume, Allen county, and two of their children were killed when a train struck their automobile near here on Sunday. Their two other children were seriously injured.

Big Fire in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 20.—Fire of unexplained origin practically destroyed nearly $5,000,000 of the largest monthly gain since the system was established. September 1 a total of $21,000,000 deposits had $24,000,000.

Turkish Garrison Gives Up.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 27.—The Turkish garrison of Fort Ettil, consisting of 1,500 men and 50 officers, has surrendered to the British, says an official statement. Guns and military stores also were captured.

WIN GERMAN BASES

ANGLO-FRENCH FORCES CAPTURE COMBLES AND THIEPVAL BY STORM.

1,200 PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

Freycourt and Woods Beyond Seized by Joffre's Troops—100 Machine Guns and Other War Material Found in Stronghold—Berlin Admits Loss.

London, Sept. 23.—Comblis was captured by the allies on Tuesday in a hand-to-hand battle through the ruined streets and maze of defenses. British and French forces share the honor of taking the German base which has been their immediate objective for weeks.

Hardly had the news of the fall of Comblis reached London before General Haig advised the war office that Thiepval, key to Bapaume, one of the other objectives of the drive, had crumbled before the attacks of the British.

The French communiqué says: "The fighting continued successfully during the day north of the Somme; the allied troops extending their gains of yesterday and attaining the objectives set for the day within a few hours."

"Beginning in the morning, the French troops, continuing their offensive, captured all that part of Comblis situated east and south in the three towns of the railway. French patrols then secured contact with the elements of the British right wing, which were clearing up the northern and western section of Comblis. In a short time the entire village was in our hands."

"The booty captured at Comblis is considerable. The Germans having stored in the underground positions an enormous quantity of ammunition and material of all kinds."

"In the afternoon our troops advanced further, capturing a small wood north of Freycourt and still way to Morval, and the greater part of the strongly organized ground between Corne woods and west of St. Vanst woods and the Belgium road."

"The number of unwounded prisoners taken by us since yesterday and so far counted is more than 1,200. Up to now we have been able to count only 100 machine guns."

Berlin by wireless to Sayville, L. I., Sept. 27.—The German statement says:

"Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria—Successes were obtained by the enemy east of Eaucourt l'Abbaye and the capture of the villages on the line of Guedecourt-Bouchevillers must be recognized. But before all we must think of our heroic troops, which faced the united Anglo-French principal forces and the massed onslaught of inferior troops of the whole world's war industry prepared during many months."

"Near Bouchevillers and further southward as far as the Somme the German troops sustained many casualties under the heaviest sacrifices."

ROUMANIANS WIN HEIGHTS

Allies Report Success in Battle for the Carpathian Passes—Berlin Admits Loss.

London, Sept. 23.—The battle for the Carpathian passes turned toward Roumanian success. The Berlin war office admitted on Tuesday that Roumanian troops have again occupied the heights on both sides of Szurdok and Vuluca passes, in Transylvania, the Austro-Hungarian forces had retreated. The report states that although "German forces repulsed all the Roumanian attacks against the passes, the latter were withdrawn, according to army orders."

The Russian attacks on Gellien are growing in force, according to British advice, which state that Russian troops are making successive attacks in strong force against the Austro-German positions near Mannjow, in Galicia, but the attacks failed with heavy losses for the Russians.

65 KILLED IN AIR RAIDS

Bucharest Bombarded by Aeroplanes and Zeppelins in the Afternoon and at Night.

Bucharest, via London, Sept. 23.—Sixty persons were killed and a large number wounded in Bucharest on Monday afternoon by bombs dropped from a squadron of aeroplanes of the Teutonic allies, and five others were killed at night by bombs dropped on the city from a Zeppelin, according to an official communication issued on Tuesday.

Two-thirds of the victims are declared to have been women and children.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

Four sergeants from the First cavalry have been elevated to the rank of second lieutenants and will don the gold but cord some time this week. The commissions of the four men have been signed and forwarded by Governor Dunn. Those promoted are: Walter Nelson, Walter Ross, John Rhoades, Thomas Cochran and Leroy T. Boylan.

With Villa again active here is little likelihood of the city council voting to increase the compensation of aldermen from $3 per meeting to $5 per meeting. An effort to make the salary $10 for each session failed.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

Four sergeants from the First cavalry have been elevated to the rank of second lieutenants and will don the gold but cord some time this week. The commissions of the four men have been signed and forwarded by Governor Dunn. Those promoted are: Walter Nelson, Walter Ross, John Rhoades, Thomas Cochran and Leroy T. Boylan.

With Villa again active here is little likelihood of the city council voting to increase the compensation of aldermen from $3 per meeting to $5 per meeting. An effort to make the salary $10 for each session failed.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

ILLINOIS NEWS

BRIEFLY TOLD

Wire Reports of Happenings From All Parts of the State.

LIST OF LABOR NOMINATIONS

State Federation of Labor Gives Out Names of Successful Candidates—Election to Take Place Next Month at Quincy.

Springfield—Results of the nominations of candidates for offices of the State Federation of Labor were made known here. In several instances the name of one candidate appears for several offices. The election will take place at Quincy next month. Following is a list of the nominations:

For President—John H. Walker, Danvers; Matthew Well, John L. Lewis, John Fitzpatrick, Robert F. McElroy, Ed Carbine, Chicago; Frank Farrington, Streator; Adolph Geyer, Mount Olive.

First Vice President—Robert Fitchie, Ed Carbine, Chicago; John M. Irish, Peoria.

Second Vice President—Ed Carbine, Chicago; John M. Irish, Peoria; Theodore Blissett, Quincy.

Third Vice President—Michael J. Whalen, Kane; St. Louis; Thomas Kelly, Streator; James Daughton, Springfield.

Fourth Vice President—Thomas Kelly, Streator; Joseph W. Morton, Chicago.

Fifth Vice President—Joseph Morton, Chicago; Albert Towers, Belleville; James Daughton, Springfield.

Sixth Vice President—Albert Towers, Belleville; James Daughton, Springfield.

Seventh Vice President—James Daughton, Springfield; George B. Jenkins, Urbana; Albert Towers, Belleville.

Eighth Vice President—George B. Jenkins, Urbana; Albert Towers, Belleville; Duncan McDonald, Springfield.

Ninth Vice President—Albert Vincent, Springfield; Walter Cross, Decatur.

Secretary—Theodore A. Olander, incumbent, and Duncan McDonald, Springfield.

Auditor—William Jampel, Belleville; J. A. Kahn, Chicago; Tilden Hearn, Staunton.

Tellers—Agnes Johnson and Agnes Nester, Chicago; Bernard Farrelet and Richard Whennan, Oglesby; R. E. Woodmansee, Springfield; Peter Zink, Belleville; Tilden Hearn, Staunton, and James Mason, Belleville.

Peoria.—O. T. Dwyer, pastor of the First Methodist church of Rock Island, was appointed superintendent of the Diocesan hospital in Peoria by the central Illinois conference. Samuel Van Pelt succeeded A. Apollonatus in other principalities were announced as follows: Peoria district, T. E. Newland, superintendent; Peoria First church, W. E. Shaw, Greenup and Missouri, A. S. Kelly; Hiale, A. H. Smith; Pontiac, L. M. O'Hara; Streator, S. P. Archer; Rock Island district, I. T. Jones, superintendent; Moline, First, E. C. Moore; Second, J. F. Patton; Rock Island, Spencer Memorial, David Andreadartha; Kankakee, John H. Ryan, superintendent; Ciana park, A. H. Coleman; Dwight, J. H. McQuinn; Gilman, S. S. Langdon; Kankakee, First, N. B. Lewis; Trinity, J. L. Miller; Galesburg district, C. F. W. Smith, superintendent; Bushnell, P. J. Giddings; Galesburg, L. P. Dittman; Abreu W. Gordon; East Galesburg to be supplied; Monmouth, W. N. Crane; Lexington, V. A. Crumaker.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

Four sergeants from the First cavalry have been elevated to the rank of second lieutenants and will don the gold but cord some time this week. The commissions of the four men have been signed and forwarded by Governor Dunn. Those promoted are: Walter Nelson, Walter Ross, John Rhoades, Thomas Cochran and Leroy T. Boylan.

With Villa again active here is little likelihood of the city council voting to increase the compensation of aldermen from $3 per meeting to $5 per meeting. An effort to make the salary $10 for each session failed.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

Four sergeants from the First cavalry have been elevated to the rank of second lieutenants and will don the gold but cord some time this week. The commissions of the four men have been signed and forwarded by Governor Dunn. Those promoted are: Walter Nelson, Walter Ross, John Rhoades, Thomas Cochran and Leroy T. Boylan.

With Villa again active here is little likelihood of the city council voting to increase the compensation of aldermen from $3 per meeting to $5 per meeting. An effort to make the salary $10 for each session failed.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

Four sergeants from the First cavalry have been elevated to the rank of second lieutenants and will don the gold but cord some time this week. The commissions of the four men have been signed and forwarded by Governor Dunn. Those promoted are: Walter Nelson, Walter Ross, John Rhoades, Thomas Cochran and Leroy T. Boylan.

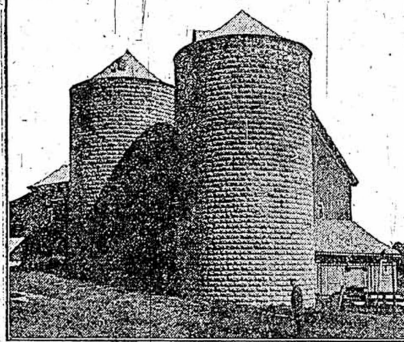

With Villa again active here is little likelihood of the city council voting to increase the compensation of aldermen from $3 per meeting to $5 per meeting. An effort to make the salary $10 for each session failed.

Quincy—County superintendent of Highways Boyer has received from Knox county a request for information upon the matter of organizing the county for the purpose of voting bonds for highway building. Knox county's advent into the good roads field brings the total of Illinois counties actively campaigning for good roads bonds by the bonding system up to 33. Vermilion county is far in the lead of all others in vetting road bonds.

Brownsville, Tex.—The first Illinois cavalry machine gun troop took the long trail again and marched overland to Harlingen for a two weeks' instruction in the manipulation of the Lewis machine gun and a course of the target range.

MAKING the FARM PAY

By PROF. P. G. HOLDEN, Former Dean of the Iowa Agricultural College.

Two Good Silos, Well Located.

BILLIONS WASTED ON FARMS

Many of us fail to appreciate our real blessings, because we regard them as just common everyday things. If some mysterious power were to suddenly change winter into summer, it would be recorded as a miracle. In reality, this is what the silo does—changes winter into summer. The silo makes June grass out of the waste products of the farm. Silage is the winter pasture for the farm animals. The silo is the cow's kitchen. No man can get the best out of the business of farming without a silo.

It combines more good things and brings greater profits than any other building on the farm. It provides a cheap and convenient place to store all of the crop; helps utilize cheap roughage, makes it possible to keep more stock on the farm, which means more manure for the land. The silo insures succulent feed in the winter and in dry spells when pastures fail; provides a balanced ration when fed with alfalfa, clover, bran, cottonseed meal and other protein or muscle-building feeds. The silo takes care of the crop and clears the land for early fall plowing, prevents waste in feeding, keeps stock in good condition, makes cheap beef and milk.

Waste With Corn Crop.
The greatest waste in any one industry in America occurs with the corn crop. The grain of the corn crop of the United States every year is worth on the farms about $1,700,000,000; 60 per cent of the feed value in matured corn is contained in the kernels, and 40 per cent in the stalk and leaves. With the grain worth nearly three-a silo—but you can't afford to be without one.

It is not necessary to construct an expensive one to start with—a cheaper kind will do. There is no best silo, generally speaking. The best silo for you is the one which can be constructed on your farm at the lowest cost and pay you the greatest profit.

A pit silo or a bank silo may be the best for you. They are adapted to many sections. Regions which are passing through the pioneer stage of their development, where the cost of material, labor and transportation is high, need not be without a silo. Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado farmers have constructed more than three thousand pit silos in the past two years. In Montana, the Dakotas and other northern states, where the winters are severe, the pit silo is in general use. They cannot blow down nor freeze up, and they are cheaply constructed.

Prove Value of Silo.
A good proof of the value of the silo is a record of some work done in a co-operative association at Albert Lea, Minn., under the direction of the United States department of agriculture. In this association 12 herds, or 230 cows were fed silage and 10 herds, or 230 cows were not fed silage. It seems to me that when a man will examine these data carefully he cannot but feel that he is the loser if he does not have a silo.

The results show that it cost $8.02 more per cow to feed the silage herd than it did to feed the herd which had no silage, but the silage-fed cows produced 59 pounds more butterfat per cow, giving a net profit of $10.94 more quarters of a billion dollars, the feed value of the rest of the crop is nearly a billion dollars. At least 20 per cent of the feed value of the stalk is lost under the present system of farm management—a waste with this crop alone of a billion dollars annually. No other business but farming could stand such an enormous loss.

Silage Makes Cheap Beef.

Contrast This Waste by the Corn Growers with the Practices of Large Business Organizations. For years the great packing houses have sold dressed meat for less than they have paid for the live weight of the animals. Yet every year these packing houses return millions of dollars' profit because they utilize to the fullest extent the value of their by-products. At the same time the corn growers are wasting most of 40 per cent of the feed value of over one hundred million acres of corn.

Great Value of Silo.
The results of hundreds of feeding experiments conducted in the past ten years with silage as a part of the ration given proof of the great value of the silo to the farmer. There will always be more or less of the corn crop shocked in the field, but corn left exposed to the weather loses the greater part of its feeding value. Why waste the crop after you have grown it, when you can put it in a silo and preserve it with all its succulence? Have a silo—no matter what kind—but have one.

You may say that you cannot afford

YOU CAN HAVE A SILO
YOU MAY THINK YOU CAN'T
BUT YOU CAN

SAVES THE WHOLE CROP
PREVENTS WASTE IN FEEDING
COWS KEEP MORE STOCK
MAKES CHEAP MILK
SAVES STORAGE SPACE
SILAGE UTILIZE CHEAP WASTE
INSURES SUCCULENT FEED
WINTER AND SUMMER
CLEARS THE FIELD
FOR PLOWING

SILAGE THE WINTER PASTURE
proved by using ensilage than they could when using hay. A like difference was found in milk production. The Indiana station found the silo the most economic means of producing both beef and milk in three well conducted experiments. They also found corn ensilage to be worth from $5.50 to $8.50 per ton when fed to fattening steers and sheep. This is in the light of the fact that corn ensilage will cost the farmer more than $2 a ton and should be convincing argument.

Pennsylvania station found good results in feeding steers silage and realized a value of $9.00 a ton when used in this way. They also found silage superior to hay and much more economic in the raising of young stock.

Ontario experiment station found they could save $65 on every $239 invested in feed if they used corn ensilage in preference to hay in feeding cattle.

Kansas experiment station not only produced beef cheaper with ensilage in the ration but also the silage-fed steers sold at a higher price on the market than did the hay-fed steers. They found corn ensilage when put in the silo would keep for five and six years and retain its feeding value.

Michigan experiment station has been using silos since 1881, and has found in several experiments ensilage to be the most economic form of feeding the corn plant to live stock.

Silage, when fed in conjunction with alfalfa, produced mutton more cheaply than when hay was used.

Many other stations have tested out the economic value of the silo, and all have endorsed it as the most economic equipment for the stock farmer.

Thousands of farmers and stockmen all over the country have been demonstrating for the last quarter of a century the economic use of the silo, and all who now have such equipment are strong in its praise.

Ensilage vs. Grain.
In a test conducted recently the Ohio experiment station endeavored to answer the question, Can ensilage be made to take the place of a considerable portion of the grain ration usually fed to dairy cows?

Ten cows, representing five different breeds, were fed these rations from

| | Barr. Brundage | |
|----------------------------|----------------|---------|
| Downtone | 70,150 | 31,218 |
| City and Cicero (official) | 17,330 | 62,145 |
| Cook county (annual) | 3,106 | 8,035 |
| Totals | 90,642 | 102,098 |
| Brundage's plurality | 90,642 | 90,642 |

Digging Corn Fodder Out of Snow—Not a Pleasant Occupation on a Cold Winter's Day.

two to four months, two cows taking the test the full four months.

The cows fed the silage ration produced 80.7 pounds of milk and 5.05 pounds of butterfat per 100 pounds of dry matter.

The cows fed the grain ration produced 81.3 pounds of milk and 3.9 pounds of butterfat per 100 pounds of dry matter.

The average net profit per cow per month over cost of feed was $3.32 with the silage ration and $2.49 with the grain ration.

Fodder or Silage.
At the Nebraska experiment station two groups of calves nine months old were fed from March 25 to August 15. In one lot each animal received an average daily ration of: Corn, 7.5 pounds; alfalfa hay, 4.1 pounds; shredded stover (without ears), 3.5 pounds. The animals in the other lot received an average daily ration of: Corn, 6.1 pounds; alfalfa, 3.4 pounds; and corn silage, 15 pounds.

The larger amount of corn was fed to the stover lot to offset the grain contained in the silage. The two rations, therefore, were practically identical, except that to one lot of animals the cornstems were fed as shredded stover, while to the other they were fed as silage.

The silage-fed calves made an average daily gain of 1.8 pounds, each, which was about one-third of a pound more than the average daily gain in the stover-fed lot. The silage ration was 12 per cent more efficient than the stover ration. On that basis the same amount of corn, at the same kind, when fed in the silo would make 12 per cent more beef than when cut for fodder and fed dry.

There was a time when silage was considered entirely as a dairyman's feed. It is just as good for the production of beef. One experiment may be quoted, though hundreds have been made with practically the same result. At the Indiana experiment station four lots of steers were fed as follows:

Lot 1—Shredded corn, clover hay, cottonseed meal. Average profit per head when sold, $3.37.

Lot 2—Shredded corn, cottonseed meal, clover hay and silage, half and half. Profit per head, $10.61.

Lot 3—Shredded corn, cottonseed meal, and all the clover hay and silage they would eat, given separately. Under this method of feeding the steers ate ten times as much silage as clover hay. Profit per head, $10.60.

Lot 4—Shredded corn, cottonseed meal and silage only. Profit per head, $20.80.

BRUNDAGE VICTOR OVER R. J. BARR

Chicago Man Wins Republican Nomination for Attorney General by 2,656 Votes.

COUNT AS GOOD AS OFFICIAL

Vote Cast in Cook County Not Officially Tabulated, but It Is Not Expected to Reverse Standing of Two Candidates.

Springfield—Edward J. Brundage, on the face of the official count of the vote cast in Chicago and Cicero and the unofficial count in Cook county at the primary election September 15, defeated Richard J. Barr for the Republican nomination for attorney general by 2,656 votes.

The vote cast in Cook county outside of Chicago has not been officially tabulated, but it is not expected to reverse the standing of the two candidates. The vote on the official follows:

| | Barr. Brundage | |
|----------------------------|----------------|---------|
| Downtone | 70,150 | 31,218 |
| City and Cicero (official) | 17,330 | 62,145 |
| Cook county (annual) | 3,106 | 8,035 |
| Totals | 90,642 | 102,098 |
| Brundage's plurality | 90,642 | 90,642 |

The result in Cook county of the county at large it was not decided until the last precincts had been canvassed, as follows:

| | Barr. Brundage | |
|--------|----------------|--------|
| Ward 1 | 1,410 | 302 |
| 2 | 1,404 | 1,855 |
| 3 | 628 | 2,653 |
| 4 | 113 | 702 |
| 5 | 228 | 712 |
| 6 | 607 | 3,213 |
| 7 | 708 | 3,422 |
| 8 | 409 | 1,749 |
| 9 | 620 | 1,670 |
| 10 | 610 | 189 |
| 11 | 98 | 909 |
| 12 | 131 | 707 |
| 13 | 903 | 2,218 |
| 14 | 183 | 1,270 |
| 15 | 410 | 1,334 |
| 16 | 203 | 305 |
| 17 | 492 | 207 |
| 18 | 147 | 2,140 |
| 19 | 80 | 456 |
| 20 | 350 | 448 |
| 21 | 2,803 | 273 |
| 22 | 100 | 865 |
| 23 | 700 | 3,620 |
| 24 | 127 | 1,538 |
| 25 | 1,117 | 4,551 |
| 26 | 480 | 2,981 |
| 27 | 731 | 2,973 |
| 28 | 512 | 1,420 |
| 29 | 268 | 1,109 |
| 30 | 145 | 928 |
| 31 | 290 | 2,150 |
| 32 | 671 | 4,015 |
| 33 | 812 | 3,005 |
| 34 | 612 | 1,450 |
| 35 | 548 | 2,303 |
| City | 17,093 | 61,761 |
| Cicero | 297 | 381 |
| Totals | 17,330 | 62,145 |

Body Drafts Budget.
The Illinois legislative reference bureau, unique among similar bodies in the country, will play a more and more important part in legislation during the coming winter. Already the bureau is at work on one of its most important duties—the preparation of a comprehensive budget to present to the legislature which meets in January.

The bureau is different from all others in the Union in that it is composed of the governor and members of the legislature. Thirty-four other states have established such bureaus, but they are in most instances independent of the legislature.

The Illinois bureau was established by the forty-eighth general assembly and was organized in September, 1913. Finley W. Bell was appointed secretary.

Besides the governor, it is composed of the chairman of the committee on appropriations of the senate and house and the chairman of the committees on judiciary in the senate and house. The present members are Governor Dumas, Senators Edward C. Curtis and Richard J. Barr and Representatives Edward J. Smekal and William P. Holladay.

Illinois Ranks With Leaders.
This is the season of state fairs. Enormous sums of money are being expended for the purpose principally of benefiting the agricultural pursuits of the various states.

Illinois ranks among the leaders in the magnitude of its fair and the money expended on it. The Illinois fair is third in the amount of receipts, expenditures and state appropriation; fourth in the sum given for premiums, fifth in money collected from concessions and eighth in the amount spent on entertainment to attract visitors.

Last year the state fair receipts were $125,550, and the expenditures were $125,453.30. The fair received $58,000 from the state legislature.

Iowa and Minnesota alone surpassed the Illinois fair in the amount of receipts. The Iowa fair took in $164,604.45 with no state appropriation, and the Minnesota fair $205,835.45.

Only New York and Ohio surpass this state in the amount of state appropriation. The New York fair last year was given $53,500 by the New York legislature, and the Ohio fair $55,500 by the Ohio legislature.

Illinois paid out $43,922 in premiums and $12,945.62 for entertainment. The general attendance last year was 278,583. The number of paid admissions was 145,375.

The Illinois fair is under the direction of the state board of agriculture. The board is composed of the president, vice president, at large and 25 vice presidents, one from each congressional district.

Casualties Fewer in State.
Casualties in Illinois, resulting from railroad disasters, accidents and carelessness are on the decline.

This information is brought to the public through the columns of the public utilities commission bulletin.

The bulletin contains the following on the subject:

"The annual report of the accident division of the engineering department of the public utilities commission for the year ending June 30, 1915, shows a substantial decrease in the number of casualties, both in regard to persons involved and as to causes of accidents."

"A comparative statement of casualties on steam railroads for the years ending June 30, 1914 and 1915, is as follows:

Total—1914.....1,095
Total—1915.....709
Decrease—1915.....382
This is a decrease in 1915 in killed of 20 1/2 per cent and injured of 10 1/2 per cent.

"A comparative statement of casualties on electric railroads for the years ending June 30, 1914 and 1915, is as follows:

Total—1914.....1,187
Total—1915.....1,176
Decrease—1915.....11
This is a decrease in 1915 in killed of one per cent and injured of 67 per cent.

"These decreases are attributed largely to the manner in which the reports of accidents and investigations have been handled by the commission, particularly in reference to requiring common carriers to observe the 'safety first' principle and to install proper safety devices, etc."

"The accident division of the engineering department was created February 1, 1915. Prior to that date, on account of limited staff, accident reports were handled without regard to the reporting utility and a great deal of time and work was required in checking up these reports and tracing them for the missing one, in securing a list of the proper names and addresses of the official to communicate with, and proceed to organize the office. This has now been accomplished and the department is in a position to give the accident reports the attention which is required."

"Despite there was a substantial decrease in all kinds of accidents, the attention of the commission is lavished to the fact that of the total number of persons killed 90 per cent were trespassers and 10 per cent at highway crossings. The chief engineer's report expresses the opinion that particular attention should be given to these kinds of accidents and thereby reduce the number of casualties to a minimum."

Pensions Mandatorily.
The provisions of the police and firemen's pension law are mandatory and all cities are compelled to make provisions for pensioning members of the two departments, the Illinois supreme court held. The decision is given in the case of John B. Koroner and Joseph Hildebrand against Mayor William Abbott of Quincy. They filed a petition for mandamus to compel the mayor to make provisions for a pension fund.

Private G. B. McDermott of Company H of the First Infantry has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. The next hike he wants to take with the enlisted men.

A fourteen-year-old Chicago boy, Owen Kennedy, 2333 Washington boulevard, sent 200 packages of smoking tobacco to Rev. J. O'Hearn, chaplain, for distribution among the men of the Seventh. Rev. John Gilligan, a Chicago priest, sent the same regiment, through its chaplain, 300 packages of tobacco and 25 pounds of candy.

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—"Four years ago I was very sick."

"I was so weak and spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to my operation and got some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave long ago if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."

"Mrs. BLANCHETTE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa. Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has saved many women from surgical operations."

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

Sterilize raisins, currants, figs and dates before using, by putting in a strainer over a steaming kettle.

FOR ITCHING SCALP

And Falling Hair Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trial Free.

When the scalp is itching because of dandruff and eczema a shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water will be found thoroughly cleansing and soothing, especially if shampoo is preceded by a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment to the scalp skin.

Free sample each by mail with book. Address postpaid to Cuticura Dept. L, Boston. Sold everywhere—Adv.

WIFE IN PATHETIC PLAIN

Evidently Good Lady. Was Not a Strong Believer in the Principle of Respectability.

"Oh, George," said Mrs. Bridge, "on your way downtown this morning will you stop at the grocer's and order two pounds of butter and a half pound of tea and some crackers?"

"Yes, my dear."

"And would you mind leaving my skirt at the tailor's as you go by?"

"Yes, my dear."

"And when you get to your office will you call up my sister and tell her I'll be over Tuesday? They don't charge you for calls there."

"Yes, my dear, and my wife, would you mind sewing up this little rip in my coat before I start?"

"Good hand, aren't you most terrible? You're always wanting something done!"—Exchange.

The Coy Amateur.
"How is your daughter progressing with her music?"

"First rate," replied Mr. Cunnors. "She's getting as now she doesn't have to grab the first violin. She can take a chance on secondly saying, 'Please do sing two and sometimes even three times.'"

Brightens One Up

There is something about Grape-Nuts food that brightens one up, infant or adult, both physically and mentally.

What is it?

Just its delightful flavor, and the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including their whole grain, body and nerve building mineral elements!

A crisp, ready-to-eat food, with a mild sweetness, all its own distinctive, delicious, satisfying!

Grape-Nuts

"There's a Reason"

Just its delightful flavor, and the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including their whole grain, body and nerve building mineral elements!

A crisp, ready-to-eat food, with a mild sweetness, all its own distinctive, delicious, satisfying!

Grape-Nuts

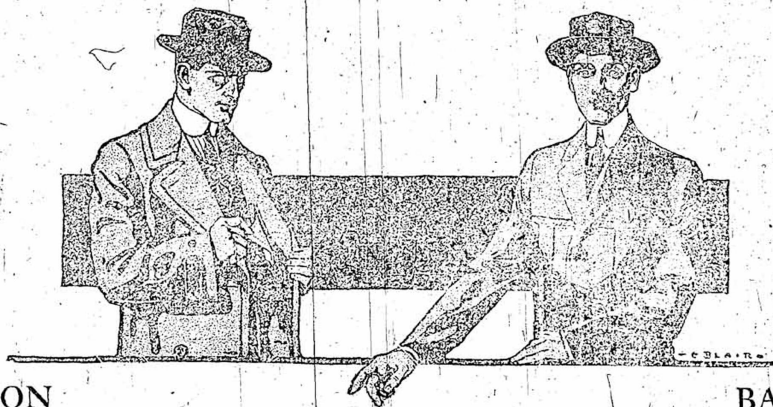

"There's a Reason"

October
2 to 7

National Pay
Up Week

—in—
BARRINGTON

October
2 to 7

National Pay
Up Week

—in—
BARRINGTON

NATIONAL PAY-UP WEEK IS BARGAIN WEEK TOO IN BARRINGTON

—Our merchants will offer some attractive bargains next week as an evidence of their intention to make National Pay-Up Week a success. When you call to pay your bills, you can also save enough money to make it a big object to take advantage of Bargain Week. Read the offers the merchants are making—take advantage of them; help our community to pass prosperity around and get a slice of it yourself by way of these bargains, which are good one week only.

J. C. PLAGGE

Special Bargains
Quart of Olives 24c
Select Will pickles in jar 12c
Club House peas, 2 cans 25c
Country Gentleman corn, 2 cans 25c
Seven lbs best rolled oat meal 25c
Fancy comb honey 25c
Big bottle strained honey 15c
New 1916 crop English walnuts in shell, lb 25c

Immediate Delivery

Overland Sixes and Willys-Knight Cars,
Tires, Accessories and Supplies

P. C. Leonard

J. A. McLeister

Home Made Candies, Gibbs' Special,
Ice Cream for all Occasions
High grade Cigars, Tobacco and Confections

J. D. Williams

Dentist
Phones—Office 21, Res. 23-R

A. Weichelt, M. D.

Phone 50-J

The Ideal Garage

Service Station

Repairing and Supplies

Your Patronage Solicited. Prompt Service

A. W. MEYER

5c—Special Grocery Sale All Week—5c
2 lbs 50c tea 55c 2 lbs 30c coffee 35c
2 cans 35c Salmon 40c
2 pkgs. 10c Jello 15c
10 per cent off on all Men's Furnishings

Chas Lipofsky

General
Merchandise

Where Your Dollars Do Double Duty
A Bargain Every Day

L. F. Schroeder

Hardware, Plumbing and Heating
American Fence

Special Sale on House Furnishings

G. F. Stiefenhoefer

General Blacksmithing and Horseshoeing

Good Work at Reasonable Prices
Your Patronage Solicited

Ed. C. Groff

Market and Grocery; Special Beef Prices
Two Cent Discount on the Pound
Round steak 23c Sirloin steak 24c
Porter House 26c Pot Roast 18c
Rib Roast 20c

J. C. Cadwallader

The Main Street Jeweler

We've got Plenty of Bargains for You

E. G. ANKELE

Barrington Home Bakery

Special Bargains for Pay-Up Week:
3 large loaves of fresh bread 25c
Rolls and cookies, per dozen 10c
(instead of 12c) See Other Bargains

Cameron's Pharmacy

Dr. Hess' Poultry Padlocks 70c
25c pkg. 2 for 35c 50c pkg. 2 for 70c
Dr. Hess' Stock Tonic
100c pkg. 2 for 60c $1.60 pill 2 for $1.70
Hess' Worm Powder 25c pkg. 2 for 50c
Hess' Roup Remedy 25c pkg. 2 for 50c
Calox Tooth Powder 25c box 2 for 50c

Edw. Rieke

Quality Cigars and Tobacco
Pure Candies
Confectionery, Etc.
Pool Room in Connection

D. C. Schroeder

FORD
Motor Cars, Accessories and Supplies

"The Universal Car"

The Barrington Laundry

J. F. Gieske, Prop.

Once a Customer, Always One

E. F. Wichman

Horseshoer
Blacksmithing and Woodwork

Barrington, Ill.

W. N. LANDWER & COMPANY

Special Sugar Sale All Week

10 lbs. sugar for 50c with every $2 purchase

W. A. Shearer, M. D.

Phone 23
Office and Residence

J. H. Hatje & Son

General Blacksmiths
All work given prompt attention
Prices Right

Phillip Pries

Meat Market and Grocery
If you want to buy your meats and groceries where it will pay you—
This store is your market place. Try us.

M. Pecak, Tailor

Suits made to order $15.00 and up
Good Styles and Materials
Dependable Workmanship

J. Howard Furby

Dentist

Phone, Barrington 57-J