REV. T. A. BREWSTER BEGINS PASTORATE

Good Congregations. Greet New Methodist Pastor, Who is Enthusiastic Over Outlook

Rev. T. Atkey Brewster, the new Methodist Episcopal minister, preaching here Sunday both morning and evening, and was greeted by good congregations. His morning sermon was on "Laboring with God," and his evening subject was "Going Forward."

Rev. Brewster has had remarkable success with men in his former parish and seen hopeful signs of a similar work being done in Barrington.

The Crystal Lake Herald of last week in speaking of the appointment said in part:

"The appointment of Dr. Brewster to the Barrington church cannot be considered an advancement for him. While from the standpoint of the size of the two communities there is but little difference, the Barrington Methodist church has a stronger membership, is well organized and is growing."

"During his ministry in Crystal Lake Dr. Brewster, who has filled the Methodist pulpit here for the past five years, has had the satisfaction of seeing the church enjoy substantial growth. Eighteen new members were received into the church during his pastorate, and under his leadership a fine brotherhood class of forty members was organized and has flourished. Dr. Brewster will also carry with him to his new charge the distinction of having held the pastorate of the Crystal Lake church for a longer period of time than any previous minister."

"In commenting upon the appointment of Dr. Brewster to the Barrington church and his departure to our neighboring city, The Herald must needs add a word relative to the esteemed wife of our former clergyman, Mrs. Brewster. An admirable and cultured woman, Mrs. Brewster was devoted to the activities of the church, and an inspiration and help to her husband. She was especially interested in the Ladies Aid society and the Woman's Foreign Missionary society and won the love and respect, not only of the members of the church, but of all who knew her. She, too, will be missed in our community."

Rev. Brewster and family will move here this week and occupy the parsonage on Cook street.

Getting Ready for the Live Stock Show

Whether Hughes or Wilson is elected president in November, there is one thing that is expected to happen in Chicago during the first days of December, says the Daily News. It is the International Live Stock show at the stock yards. Arrangements are now under way to bring off "the greatest show of the kind" ever held in the city. The foot and mouth disease dread this year out of Chicago in 1915 and none have been held since. But this year there is nothing to prevent the assembling of an aggregation of both breeding and fat stock.

Breeders and feeders say they never knew the real value of this show to their business until after it was forced to close its doors to safeguard American herds from the then prevailing disease. Now their desire to get together again has been whetted until they promise to break all records, both in exhibitors and attendance. The live stock show always was relied on to bring the largest number of visitors to the city, and from the widest range of country.

Loop hotels already have booked reservations for the show week and the local hotel at the yards, the Stock yards Inn, is booked up.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. GOULD

Held at Late Home in Barrington Center Last Thursday—Leaves Husband and Three Children

The funeral services of Mrs. Esther Gould were held at the home of the deceased and at Barrington Center church last Thursday. Rev. Lookwood of the Baptist church of Danver officiated.

Esther Westly Gould was born in Barrington January 12, 1853, and passed away at Sherman hospital, Elgin, Tuesday, October 10, 1916, after a brief illness.

She was united in marriage to Ephraim H. Gould at the home of her parents in Barrington October 9, 1893. Four children were born to them, one dying in infancy.

Mrs. Gould spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was educated in a rural school and at Elgin academy. She taught a number of years in the rural schools and was an excellent teacher.

She united with the first Baptist church of Elgin during Dr. H. O. Roseland's pastorate and was always a faithful attendant at church services, for many years she served as organist and a teacher in the Sunday school. She was a social woman of a lovable nature, and is survived by her husband, three children, Harold Emily and Sarah; three brothers and two sisters, Alvin of Galien, Abraham, Charles and Orin, Minnie and Katie of Barrington. Earl and Warren Loomis are nephews. They and many friends mourn their loss keenly.

School Authorities on Inspection Tour

Assistant State Superintendent of Schools N. J. Hoffman visited the schools of Palatine township with C. W. Farr last Wednesday.

At the last session of the legislature the school law was amended so as to require the local, consolidated, lighting, heating, water supply, toilets and safety against fire to be such as to conserve the health and safety of the children attending the public schools. The law makes it the duty of school authorities to inspect public school buildings and report condition of same to boards of directors.

Every school visited had made or was to make soon provision for heating and ventilation. The lighting could in most instances be improved by means of shades. The toilets in a majority of cases were found unsatisfactory both as to construction and location.

The State department issued some time ago a pamphlet entitled "Specifications for Sanitary School Rooms." This sets forth very clearly the requirements necessary to meet the provisions of the law. These have been distributed, but another copy will be sent soon to the clerks of all the districts.

Ford Car Turns Tumble

A Ford touring car, driven by Walter Leonard, a comptant and road contractor of Edison Park, Chicago, turned turtle on the road near the White schoolhouse north of town last Sunday afternoon.

In the car besides Mr. Leonard were his wife and three other passengers. As the machine turned over Mrs. Leonard was struck in the back by a brace on the top and badly hurt, her injuries being serious enough to require the services of a physician. The other occupants escaped without serious harm.

The car was brought to the Leonard garage, where it is being repaired, after which it will be called for by the owner. It is said that the machine was going at a rapid rate and the accident was due to fast driving.

Kampert Sells Dray Business

The new proprietor will use a truck for transportation and will devote his entire time to the business. Mr. Church has recently purchased a new South Ford-A-Trip, for which he is agent, and has been doing general trucking only. Now he will enter to draying as well.

Mr. Kampert has conducted the dray line in Barrington for the past twenty-one years and was considered an able and industrious man for the business. He will retire from active work and enjoy a well earned rest.

Brief Mention of Numerous Occurrences of the Week—Told by Different Pupils

For the three weeks preceding this Room 6 has held the banner for punctuality and attendance.

The pupils of Room 2 have been painting autumn leaves and making pumpkin booties. Halloween posters, too, are in evidence and one class is making a set of booties in connection with their reading work.

The zoology class has finished the laboratory work on the crayfish and is now having class discussions and study on the same.

The stereopticon lecture for the physiography class Friday afternoon will illustrate plates and plateaus. Next week the class begins work on the glacial district around Fort Sheridan.

The primary children have been making boxes and houses for construction work and have cut out and colored the figures of children for use on backgrounds. On their sand table a Halloween festival will be represented.

The subject of quarrying which the fifth grade has been studying has been made definite by the use of cards and views, some of which Julius Spinner brought from his trip this summer.

Although oak leaves are said to be the most difficult for children to represent, a number of good paintings appear on the walls of Room 3 which gold, turned and sundries. For a special treat a story of the squirrels is being read aloud.

This week's drawings in Room 6 are of thornapples, while the pupils of Room 5 are very busy making wreaths looking black dots, which on brown sticks and golden pumpkins for the Halloween party next week.

Parent-Teacher's Meeting This Evening

New Laboratory Being Used

The science classes are now using the new laboratory which has been established in the southeast basement room. Blackboards and cases have been put in, the workbench attached to each desk, and the room is now ready for use. The only difficulty so far encountered is that at recess time the lower grade children find the laboratory windows so attractive that they do not belong outside those windows.

MRS. DURAND SCORES DEMOCRATS

Says Country Will go to Smash if Wilson is Elected For Another Term of Four Years.

"There is but one salvation for the United States and that is Hughes. If the country does not go republican the nation will go to smash." This was the expression recently uttered with emphasis by Mrs. Scott Durand, society woman, stock fancier and owner of the famous Crabtree farm.

Mrs. Durand, whose political opinions are regarded as highly as her keen judgment of the cattle, sounded the cry for the need of republicanism to her sisters in the state.

"Hughes will be the savior of the state," declared Mrs. Durand. "The greatest financial crisis in history will come to the United States after the war if the democrats are in power. Every right thinking citizen can see the conditions that are menacing the nation."

"The citizen who stands for America first should vote for a republican president and congress. The democratic administration was wished upon us through the selfishness of Roosevelt in one of the most disastrous movements in the history of the nation. I was a great admirer of Roosevelt previous to the last election, but my regard for him has been lessened just 100 per cent, and that is due to his part in abolishing this joke administration on the American people."

Zion Church Notes

Next Sunday will be special day for Zion church. Since all through our Sunday school the cantillation collection is being collected, we shall do likewise.

In the morning the pastor speaks in the German language on our church in general, emphasizing especially the beginning of our work and also reviewing some of the fundamental doctrines of our church.

Since this is also the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Young People's alliance, our young people have prepared a special program for the evening, beginning at 7 o'clock. Our own work in the organization of our congregation 72 years ago, the beginning of our own Y. P. A. twenty-one years ago, shall be especially considered. The program shall be interspersed with solos and quartets. You are all cordially invited.—Rev. William Bouscher, Pastor.

An Appreciation

Having sold my first line, I wish to take this means of thanking the general public for its patronage in past years.—Fred Kampert.

WOMEN CAN VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

At Election November 7—Only One More Day For Registration—Tuesday, October 31

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER—OCTOBER 31

If you did not register October 17, you have one more opportunity, on October 31. On that day see to it that your name is on the registration lists. This applies to women as well as men. Every citizen should regard this as a special duty. Failing to register will mean a tedious affidavit when you vote election day. Be sure to register.

By a legislative act of four years ago women were given the privilege and responsibility of voting for presidential electors, for members of the state board of equalization, for trustees of the state university and for county surveyors. In order to do so, however, they must register with the election judges in the town or voting district in which they reside. Tuesday of this week was registration day, and October 31 another.

In voting for presidential electors women are vested with the same power and authority as men, who vote for electors rather than president or vice president.

Inasmuch as the women can vote at this election for the most important office chosen by the people of the nation, it is urged that all avail themselves of this right.

ACCEPTS CALL OF BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Edgar Woolhouse of Chicago Preaches Two Sermons Sunday as Regular Pastor

Rev. Edgar Woolhouse, having accepted the church's call to become its pastor, occupied the pulpit at both services at the Baptist church Sunday. He comes to Barrington from the Albany Park Baptist church, Chicago, where he served for three years. He has a splendid record of building up the churches of which he has had charge.

When he went to the Albany Park church the congregation was holding its meetings in a portable building, but which now, largely as a result of his efforts, worships in a beautiful new edifice costing $24,000, of which all but about $5,000 has been raised.

Rev. Woolhouse prepared for the ministry at Colgate university and was ordained June 3, 1912. Following his ordination he served as pastor for Baptist churches at Alton, Illinois, Sigourney, Iowa, and Silvis, Danville, Watertown and Grape Creek. In this state, and in each place a new church building was erected during his pastorate. He served the church at Urbana for two years just prior to his Chicago charge.

He has a very genial personality and those who have heard him preach are enthusiastic in their praise of his sermons. Having accepted the call the people of the Baptist church feel that they are exceedingly fortunate in securing a man of such high standing and so much ability.

The services Sunday were rendered more enjoyable because of the vocal solos by Hugh Mattison and W. J. Cameron and a prayer response by Miss Hams.

Record Yield of Oats

P. R. James, who has managed a small farm northwest of Barrington for several years, threshed a record yield of oats last week. He received 200 bushels from sixteen bushels of seed from three acres of ground.

This is a record that will be hard to equal and one of which to be justly proud, the average yield in Illinois being 30 bushels according to U. S. government statistics.

These oats, which are from the Regent, a Swedish Select, Canadian seed, will be sold at auction on Wednesday, October 25, when every farmer will be allowed to purchase a few bushels for seed. These oats were furnished Mr. James by the Olds Seed company, Madison, Wisconsin.

KING OF ROMANIA FEARS NATION WILL BE CRUSHED.

Ferdinand says Country Was Moved to Enter War by Highest Principles of Nationality.

London, Oct. 16.—The Times publishes an interview given to its correspondent by the king of Rumania, in which the monarch appeals to the allies not to permit his country to suffer the fate of Siberia and Belgium.

"The Rumanians will not follow," the king said, "in their allegiance to the cause, nor can the enemy win them from their faith in their allies. Yet the Rumanians pray that, in spite of their existing exigencies and their own huge problems, the allies will not allow the affairs of Rumania, who has asked her all in this conflict, to pass into the hands of their hands and to suffer her to meet the fate of either Belgium or Serbia."

King Ferdinand said that Rumania had not been moved to enter the war by her expediency, but that her decision was based on the biggest principles of nationality.

GERMAN DIVER ON WAY HOME

U-5 Is Sighted by Neutral Vessel at Sea and Exchanges Messages With It.

New York, Oct. 16.—Satisfied with its day's work last Sunday, when five ships were sunk off the New England coast, the German submarine U-53 is on its way home, according to a story brought to this port on Friday by a neutral ship.

According to the ship's officers the submarine was sighted more than 200 miles east of Narragansett lightship on Tuesday. The submarine was moving in an easterly direction. The neutral ship received a wireless from the U-boat asking its name and nationality. This was given and the question asked in turn:

"Who are you?" German submarine from Newport, "pook" was the reply.

RIOTING AT ATHENS

GREEK ROYALISTS ASSAULT FRENCH SAILORS AND ADMIRAL WHO SEIZED FLEET.

AID ASKED OF U. S. MINISTER

Demonstrators Appeal to the American Legation for Protection From Invaders—Drastic Note Handed King by Entente.

London, Oct. 16.—A Reuter's dispatch from Athens says:

"The situation appears to be dangerous. There have been royalist demonstrations in the streets. Vice Admiral du Fourrier, commander of the entente allied fleet in the Aegean, was hissed and a detachment of French sailors was driven back by a hostile crowd."

"A procession of some 4,000 malcontents, headed by the Greek and American flags, stopped outside the American legation, protested against the landing of foreign marines and demanded the protection of the American minister, who was absent."

"The demonstrators then paraded the streets, singing the Greek national anthem."

"Vice Admiral du Fourrier has handed the Greek government a new note of an extremely grave character, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Athens. Following the presentation of the note King Constantine, it is added, came to the capital in haste from the royal residence at Tatoi."

Rioting in the streets of Athens followed the presentation of the latest entente demands upon Greece.

The railway stations of Athens and Piræus, the city hall at the capital and the city barracks have been occupied by 1,000 French and Italian sailors, while 150 bluejackets with two machine guns have been stationed in the municipal theatre, according to a Reuter dispatch from Athens.

An urgent cabinet council has been summoned.

It is officially explained, adds the dispatch, that the detachments landed will assist the police in stopping demonstrations which threaten to become uncontrollable.

It was the words of the king himself, addressed to the sailors discharged from the Greek warships Kilis, Lander and Averoff, who were seized by the allies, which so inflamed the Athens populace as to lead to an attack on the French marines.

The king pictured Greece prostrate under the heel of stronger powers.

"This day your lips are moistened with a bitter poison," he told his sailors. "Your souls, looking for a united victorious Greece, see her bleeding from fresh wounds."

"My government was compelled to give you orders to quit your ships," he cried, "and, faithful to your vow of loyalty to your king, you obeyed."

Greece is believed to be on the brink of revolution.

The entente allies have taken over the Greek battleship Kilis (formerly the U. S. battleship Idaho), the Lander (formerly the Mississippi) and the Averoff, says Reuter's Athens correspondent.

Enthusiasms of Christianity

By REV. J. H. RALSTON, D.D., Secretary of Correspondence Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—O clap your hands, all ye people; shout unto God with the voice of triumph.—Ps. 47:1.

Whether it is the fault of the age or not, very little counts for much with the ordinary person unless it is connected somehow with a thrill.

The contemplative, the quiet, the mystical, do not seem to be interested in men as they did once. The religion of the day must be a religion of enthusiasm. With quite a small minority the enthusiasm of Christianity, as presenting a system of things to be relieved, has been replaced with another company the consideration of Christianity as presenting a fine code of ethics, something to be done, satisfied; but a larger company is interested in Christianity as presenting that which stirs the soul, which sets it a-quake. Our Christian religion is a religion of enthusiasms. It is full of songs, for musical instruments, for the shout of victory, for the clapping of hands, for the triumphal entry with its nature accompaniment. Christianity is not a dead thing, it is alive, and one of the reasons why it has not accomplished what might be expected is because it has been so often taken by too many in a cold and lifeless way, humanly speaking.

The Natural Body Must Die, But—

The thrill of Christianity does not come in connection with the considerations that belong to the body of man; indeed the opposite effect would naturally follow, as there are few promises to the body. Unless the preacher of the Gospel is unfair he does not control the force that Christianity, properly confessed, means poverty, obscurity, privation and peril of many kinds, even death itself. Its founder met all these things, and his servant cannot be above his Lord. If the Son of Man had not where to lay his head his disciples could not have better fare. Notwithstanding this, the person in his full personality may be filled with joy, may be really hilarious and ecstatic, and still be able to make the world stare with astonishment and possibly criticize. Why is this? Because the spirit of man is that which naturally gladdens him with pleasure, just as the body may have that which depresses him.

Some Things That Thrill the Spirit.

1. The Christian's family connections are of the finest. He is a member of the family of God. This is not a theological dogma, it is fact clearly presented in the word of God. Christians are the children of God, born children partaking of the nature of God. They are not the natural human offspring of God about which Paul spoke to the Athenians, but spiritually born children of God.

2. A Christian has a particular relationship to Jesus Christ, not simply in a potential, but real sense. Jesus Christ is his Savior, Redeemer and glorious King. He has something quite aside from this. He has a personal relationship to the Christian that cannot be gainsaid. He is a brother, a friend, a helper, a comforter, a thought of provision for need, the guarding from danger. He is a brother closer than any earthly brother; he is a friend in the hour of need, an Emmanuel experience continued in the individual life.

3. The Christian not only fears nothing of the future, but he anticipates the future with the greatest joy. While recognizing the body as the temple of the Holy Ghost, he sees another body beyond this mortal one. He sees this body to be the subject of physical corruption, but he knows that after the worms destroy this skin, in his flesh shall he see God. He knows that, in corruption, honor, power, glory and spiritually await him; indeed he longs for a day that he will be delivered from this body of clay. However the body may be defective here—lame, deformed, weak with disease or age, he knows that he is to have a body that will be beautiful, possessing power and eternal youth. With such an anticipation he cannot but clasp his hands and shout with triumph.

4. The Christian is thrilled with the glorious conditions of this earth that are coming. They will not be the realization of the Utopian pictures of the poet and the philosopher of Isaiah 11 and 33. When heaven comes, destroying storms, floods and fire, will not be kept; when persistence will not waste the land, and wars will cease. He knows his King is coming to put his kingdom under his feet and reign in righteousness. The Christian cannot be a pessimist as far as this world, so-cursed though it is, is concerned. He knows that there will be a new heaven and a new earth.

SHORT MEASURE FOR GASOLINE

Motorists of Illinois Mulcted $1,000,000 a Year, Is Government Estimate.

COMPLETE SURVEY IS MADE

Bill Providing for State Department of Weights and Measures to Be Introduced at the Next Session of Legislature.

Springfield.—Eighty-two per cent of the gasoline pumps in use at garages and other gasoline-selling agencies in Illinois have been found to be giving short measure.

A survey completed by the federal bureau of weights and measures reports that at only 18 per cent of pumps does a motor owner get the full amount of gasoline for which he pays. Lewis G. Stevenson, secretary of state, declared that he would have a bill providing for a state department of weights and measures introduced at the next session of the legislature.

The average shortage in the pump was 3.0 cubic inches a gallon in Chicago and seven inches a gallon in the state.

The shortage was estimated at 5,000,000 gallons a year, which at the price of 20 cents a gallon, would mean a loss of $1,000,000 a year to Illinois motorists.

The short measures were not confined to retailers, the government report pointed out, saying: "Garages and station owners complained that they have been led into short measures because the gasoline delivered to them by the wholesalers does not agree with their local sales."

Land for State Building.

The Illinois Centennial building commission, in one of the shortest hearings on record in the circuit court before the possession of a tract of land known as Charles street and the Edwards school property for a total sum of $4,000.

The property transferred has a value that is considerably more than was agreed upon, but the difference in value is donated to the state to insure the erection of the Centennial Memorial building.

Charles street was secured from the city for a consideration of $1, while the old Edwards school grounds were secured from the school board for $4,000.

The property was secured by condemnation proceedings under the right of eminent domain. The case was filed in the circuit court's office and an immediate hearing was held before Judge Cregg, and a jury fixed the value of the property. The Centennial commission in a short time is expected to file further proceedings to secure possession of property needed for the memorial structure.

The city, in addition to transferring Charles street, also made a cash donation of $2,500 to the citizens' fund of $100,000 imposed by a legislative act, so that Springfield would get the new state structure.

Dunne in Proclamation.

Governor Dunne in a proclamation urged full charitable disposal of people to contribute on November 1 to the Red Cross fund for the relief of Lithuanians in the war zone. November 1 has been set aside by President Wilson as a day appropriate for such contributions.

"Whereas, The president of the United States, actuated by humane and philanthropic charitable motives, has set aside November 1, 1910, as a day appropriate for contributions to the Red Cross society, to be used exclusively for the relief of the Lithuanians in the war zone, and

"Whereas, From reliable sources it appears that thousands of unfortunate Lithuanians are destitute of both food and clothing,

"Now therefore, I, Edward F. Dunne, governor of the state of Illinois, do hereby call upon the charitably disposed people of this great state to contribute from their abundance to the Red Cross fund for the relief of these suffering people."

Fergus in Partial Victory.

In the circuit court, Sangamon county Judge James Cregg rendered a decision holding invalid several items in the "omnibus" appropriation bill passed by the last general assembly and introduced in a bill for injunction filed by John B. Fergus of Chicago seeking to restrain Auditor Brady and State Treasurer Russell from paying out the appropriations under fire. The court holds that items already paid out must stand and that action to recover from the state officials is barred. The money cannot be returned.

The items declared invalid by Judge Cregg are:

To the governor's office for costs in the suit against the Economy Light & Power company, instituted during the administration of Governor Deneen, $370.70.

Deficiency appropriation for the attorney general, $200.

To Amos Sawyer, chief clerk of the state board of health, as acting secretary of the board, $1,000.

To the board of examiners of architects, $1,856.60.

To the AP-Madison Insurance-Investing committee, $2,400.00.

J. J. Kulp, $100.

Representative Hubert Killeen, $500.

Representative George C. Hilton, $500.

Representative Thomas A. Boyer, $500.

Representative William M. Brown, $500.

To the Butts voting machine commission, $3,000.

The court, in reference to the AP-Madison and Butts committee items, holds the legislature had no right to make the appropriations, as the committees had no legal existence after the adjournment of the general assembly.

Other items held invalid are:

Edwin G. Young, $118.10.

Elmer F. Hill, $100.

Estate of Campbell S. Hearn, $100.

Thomas E. Coker, $100.

Charles E. Woodward, $2,000.

An appeal to the supreme court at the December term will be taken by the state.

Pension Rule to Aid 50,000.

According to estimate of Grand Army men, nearly 50,000 Illinoisans will benefit by the passage at the last session of congress of the Ashbrook law, which increases the pensions of veterans of Civil war service.

The actual number of widows of veterans is not obtainable at the Grand Army headquarters, but 50,000 was given as the number of the number of beneficiaries of the law.

The last Grand Army census gave 11,101 veterans of the Civil war living in Illinois, and members of the G. A. R. According to an official of the organization, there probably is an equal number of Illinois veterans who are not G. A. R. members. Of these 22,000 veterans, it is believed at least half have wives living, and in the majority of these cases it is expected that the wife will survive the husband. In addition to these widows, there also are at least 7,000 widows of veterans now living in the state, it was said.

By the provisions of the Ashbrook law, all widows of veterans, who married prior to June 27, 1905, are eligible to a pension of $12 a month if they are less than seventy years old. Those who have reached seventy years will receive $20 a month.

The previous pension law provided for the payment of $12 a month to all widows of veterans whose marriages occurred prior to July 1, 1890. There was no provision for an increase at the age of seventy years.

The new law, therefore, makes eligible as pensioners all widows of veterans whose marriages occurred between 1890 and 1905, and gives $20 a month to those of them who are seventy years of age or older. Two thousand such women, Grand Army officers say, will be at once affected in Illinois, and will receive pensions of $12 or $20 a month, according to age.

Y. M. C. A. Building Burns.

Urbana.—The railroad men's Y. M. C. A. was destroyed by fire caused by a defective fuse. This is the second time in a period of two years that this institution has been burned. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubs
Their Care and Cultivation

An Attractive Arrangement of Plants in the House.

THE INDOOR GARDEN

By ELIZABETH VAN BENTHUYZEN.

I imagine that most of my readers are now having their joys and sorrows with the indoor garden—that sole substitute for the out-of-door theater of the good months. But as half a loaf is better than no bread, so the pleasure of having a few flowers in the house during the cold months is worth all the time and trouble that it requires, and the added consolation is present that one need not be bothered with color and fragrance even though the winds are blowing a dirge outside.

There is hardly a real lover of flowers in the world who has not at least tried to make an indoor winter garden. Some of us cling with more tenacity than others to the expedient, but sooner or later it comes to every flower lover as either a hope or a disappointment. I am convinced that where the latter is reached it is through either ignorance or lack of patience.

The initiate acknowledgment that one has with the few plants which may be nurtured throughout the winter makes them all the dearer. One becomes better acquainted with them. They become actually members of the family, and they take on the character of children as they are given more and more the sort of solicitude care that a mother might be expected to bestow upon an invalid child.

Light, moisture, warmth, fresh air and protection from insects are the prime essentials of the winter garden. Most flowering plants ought to have the full run for at least a part of the year. A number of the following plants will do very well without the direct rays, if they be plenty of light.

The heat in the room where plants are to be kept must be under control so that a temperature of from 40 to 60 degrees may be maintained overnight. Even where it is only possible to maintain 40 degrees of heat most of the ordinary house plants can be kept, if they can be protected during especially cold weather from frost striking through the windows.

One often finds it possible to cut off a bay window, or other like window space, so that it may be sheltered by screens or curtains running well up to the ceiling. Thus the interior part of the room may be kept warmer at night and in an atmospheric state better suited to the plants.

Generally speaking, the question of proper moisture is the most neglected feature of the winter garden problem. It is a happy sequel that the problem is easily regulated. The greatest trouble is to know just what plants require. Moisture in the air is just as essential as moisture on the soil.

Steam heat and the improved method for supplying winter comfort to people, make the vitalizing element out of the air. It can be remedied by placing vessels of water on radiators, or near stoves where plants are kept in the room. The evaporation of the water tends to this necessary duty quite well.

In providing moisture for the soil it is likely that the amateur will overdo the trick more often than it will be underdone. Many of the plants will take a winter enough through the cold months and will require little soil moisture. Plants in bloom and in active growth, of course, require more. In many cases through drainage may be provided because a water-saturated soil will prove fatal and you must remember that it is quite possible to drown a plant.

Encasing illuminating gas or coal gas will poison your plants. They are very sensitive and must have air to breathe that is not polluted. A flower will discover gas poison before the average person will do so. Keep your plants clean. Insects thrive on dirty plants. They also propagate more rapidly indoors than out. Light spraying is almost a necessity.

Diversified farming may be the watchword of the time, but it is not the principle to follow in house gardens. To have a little of every thing generally means that you will not have much of anything. A number of plants of the same habit and color are much better than a collection.

Decorals will give a touch of color to the winter garden. A temperature of 55 degrees is required for them, and they can be propagated by tubers, leaves or cuttings. The gloxinia requires heat in the early stages. The easiest method of propagation is from the plant. The smurgle, or hippeastrum, makes a handsome pot plant. Its flowers are large and they are in fruit. They require very little water to make a winter success. The banana requires a fairly warm spot for the best results, but it makes a fine plant for winter blooming. The spirea, with its creamy masses and delicate color is always a valuable factor. Good drainage and plenty of moisture are required.

ROSES FOR NORTHERN LATITUDES

For hardiness, sturdy growth, freedom of bloom, color and beauty of flower and foliage free from disease, Radiance is a glorious extra hardy hybrid tea.

If you can have but one white rose, select Frau Karl Druschki. With its large, full, pure-white flower, it is a thing of beauty that endures.

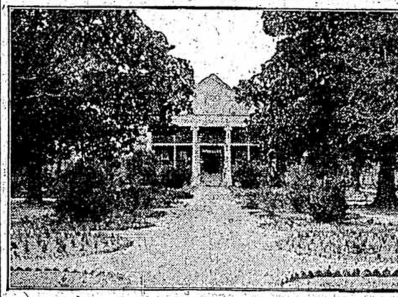

Another hybrid perpetual which is a good one to select is Mrs. John Laing. It is a beautiful soft pink rose, well formed and a persistent bloomer.

For a good red rose Captain Jack, a hybrid perpetual is a good choice.

Then there are many old favorites, such as General Jacquemont, Mme. Plantier, Harrison, George IV, Black rose and the York and Lancaster rose.

Most rose plants stand the cold weather fairly well. It is the melting snows and cold rains with freezing weather overnight in the spring that is most trying to the life of the rose.

To withstand the quick climate changes your rose plants require good winter protection.

7TH MAKING A CAMP RECORD

Illinois Regiment—Perfecting itself in All the Details of Regular Army Life—Major Brady Gets 20-Day Furlough.

Camp Wilton, Fort Sam, Houston, Tex.—With officers and men in good spirits and proud of the compliments given them by regular army officers, the Seventh Illinois has settled down to a program of close order drill that has all the snap of the regular army.

Few, if any, of the Illinois regiments, have had the opportunity accorded the only Chicago infantry regiment now in the border service. The regiment, anxious to become (the model) National Guard organization of the country, has seized the opportunity to give a good account of itself.

With an enviable marching record to its credit and a splendid health record to show, the Seventh is perfecting itself in all the details that mark the regular army soldier.

Maj. P. J. Brady left for Chicago on a 20-day leave to arrange some business affairs. When he returns it is anticipated by the regiment that he will bring recruits with him.

Capt. Dan Morgan Smith has returned from a leave in Chicago and tells of his experience as a civilian. "It was several months before I could get over the army habit of getting up at 5:30 a. m.," he says. "I am glad to be back with the regiment."

Macomb.—A lighted match set fire to a flimsy kimono and fatally burned Miss Beatrice Feinman, twenty-seven, a student at the University of Wisconsin library school at Madison. She was preparing to rest after her class work. Just how the accident happened she does not know.

Chicago.—As the girl who was alone, Mrs. Stinner and Miss Clara Schwegler, a trained nurse, heard her scream, and rushed to her room. Mrs. Feinman was lying on the floor, her head against the wall, her hands clutching her throat. She was unconscious. The fire had been extinguished by the fire department.

Chicago.—Pursued by six automobiles, a huge Illinois touring car containing a man and two laughing women, escaped across the state line. The driver was captured by police and the car was towed to the police station.

Chicago.—The Illinois car, side-swiped the car of Richard Feinman, a driver on the road into the city. The car was driven by a man named Feinman, who was driving at a high rate of speed. Six people, relatives of Feinman, were badly injured. The car was overturned and the driver was killed.

Chicago.—All their machines were driven off the road into the ditch. When the Illinois car turned the Feinman car off the bridge the women in the seat looked back and laughed, but the driver increased his speed.

Dixon.—Fish and clams are public property and therefore may be taken from the various streams of the state in any case, according to the state laws, according to Judge Keit. Thomas Page claimed his right extended to the middle of the river that flowed past his farm, and that he therefore could preserve two clammers from operating there.

Danville.—On whether Charles W. Ream, who was killed by falling from a horse, was a resident of a local hotel was a somnambulist, depends the further holding of Claude Pender, his roommate, on a charge of murder. Acquaintances of the dead man are being sought to support a theory advanced by several detectives. Pender denies any quarrel.

Penn.—At a meeting of business and professional men steps were taken for the organization of a chamber of commerce, and offices will be opened in the Brown building. A number of citizens were named as an advisory board to assist in the furtherance of the work.

Belleville.—William Nelson, while visiting here, fell into the water at Kaskaskia. A MODERN DANTE

By JEAN CRIMMINGS.

When Paul came home from college, he discovered a last of his face—his home town and the home people were deplorably behind the times. Their outlook was so narrow. The mighty problems of the day interested them so little and they seemed not one with whom he might discuss the things he had learned.

His elders smiled indulgently, but Elsa, who had learned to love him when he was just a fickle-faced farm boy, grieved over him sorely.

Circumstances had not offered her the same advantages, but Elsa was no gullible and her quick wit, perseverance and a good practical course of home study in spare hours, about which she had said not a word to anyone, had given her also something to show for the years they had been separated. But, somehow, in the presence of this new Paul she felt so shy and tongue-tied that he in his endearing superiority saw only what she should be expected to find—a really pretty but commonplace little country girl who blushed a good deal and seemed to find it difficult to discuss even the weather and the changes around town intelligently with him.

Paul had had uncomfortable misgivings whenever, during his college days, he had remembered her quick wit, perseverance and a good practical course of home study in spare hours, about which she had said not a word to anyone, had given her also something to show for the years they had been separated. But, somehow, in the presence of this new Paul she felt so shy and tongue-tied that he in his endearing superiority saw only what she should be expected to find—a really pretty but commonplace little country girl who blushed a good deal and seemed to find it difficult to discuss even the weather and the changes around town intelligently with him.

Paul had had uncomfortable misgivings whenever, during his college days, he had remembered her quick wit, perseverance and a good practical course of home study in spare hours, about which she had said not a word to anyone, had given her also something to show for the years they had been separated. But, somehow, in the presence of this new Paul she felt so shy and tongue-tied that he in his endearing superiority saw only what she should be expected to find—a really pretty but commonplace little country girl who blushed a good deal and seemed to find it difficult to discuss even the weather and the changes around town intelligently with him.

AT THE CHICAGO THEATRES

STUDEBAKER

Jules Verne's most picturesque hero, Captain Nemo, and his submarine that terrorized the ocean fifty years ago are told in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." It is being shown on a screen at the Studenbaker Theatre, Chicago.

Chicago papers speak of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" as the Universal's wonder picture. It was filmed at the bottom of the ocean by the marvelous inventions of the Williamson brothers who have solved the secret of ocean photography. President Carle Laemmle of the Universal with J. Ernest Williamson saw the first performance.

There is a thrill in almost every foot of the 900 scenes in the play. Captain Nemo proves to be the mighty wizard of the deep that Jules Verne made him and the wonders of ocean depths viewed through the magic in his submarine "Nautilus" reveal an enchanting panorama which the Chicago Post says defies the "most superlative adjective to describe."

Everybody will want to see the terrifying combat under the ocean where Captain Nemo slays a monster octopus and rescues a pearl diver, caught in his giant tentacles. There is a hunting trip through the ocean forest, battles with man-eating sharks and countless beautiful scenes from the marine gardens in the tropic ocean, more weird and wonderful than anything ever shown in pictures.

Cause for Hissiness of Air. Pure air is blue, because, as Newton tells us, the molecules of the air have the thickness necessary to reflect blue rays. When the air is not perfectly pure the atmosphere is blended with perceptible vapors, and the diffused light is mixed with a large proportion of white.

VALUABLE LEMON.

There are few places where one is unable to procure a lemon, and there are worse things than "being handed a lemon."

Thompson says: "The antiseptic value of lemons is illustrated particularly by certain varieties which contain potent salts as well as lime and magnesia. Among these are to be mentioned apples, lemons, limes and oranges."

Lemon juice is a well-known remedy for scurvy and nausea and as a cooling and refreshing drink in fevers it does more to diminish the craving of thirst than any other form of beverage.

Lemons are most delightful as flavor for various dishes as appetizers, or as fruit desserts. An eighth of a lemon with a bit of fish is an accompaniment altogether indispensable. The color is of value, appealing to the eye, thus adding to the value of the food thus garnished.

Lemon Pie—Make a rich crust and fill with the following: mix together two tablespoonsful of cornstarch, one and a half cupsful of sugar, a pinch of salt, two cupsful of water, the yolks of three eggs, the juice of two and a half of one lemon, and two tablespoonsful of butter; cook until smooth, all the crust and cover with a meringue made of the three whites of eggs, using three tablespoonsful of sugar. Brown in a moderate oven.

Queen of Lemon Pie—This is a pie especially for the fastidious who do not like a meringue. The crust for this pie is not previously baked, and the mixture is poured into the shell and baked. Take a cupful of sugar and two tablespoonsful of butter, mix well, then add a cupful of milk and mix four tablespoonsful of flour in a little of the milk, or it may be added to the sugar and butter; add the juice and rind of a lemon, a pinch of salt and yolks of two eggs, slightly beaten; then fold in the whites of three eggs, beaten stiff, stir until lightly mixed, pour into the uncooked pastry and bake until firm. It will have a spongy top much like sponge cake, and very delicious.

To begin a telephone conversation, it is first necessary that both parties should properly introduce themselves.

When answering a telephone call say "Smith & Jones, Jones talking." The caller says "Brown & Robinson, Brown talking"—a complete introduction, when the identity of both parties is fully established.

"Hello, who is this?" and other similar salutations are simply a waste of time, made unnecessary by this simple form of telephone introduction.
