DANGER IN FALSE ECONOMY

Worse, if possible, than extravagance just at this time would be a false idea of economy. If the people become hysterical over the matter of conservation the very ends aimed at will surely be defeated.

We should bear in mind that, provided our great waste and extravagance is eliminated, there will be plenty of food in the country to supply the necessities of every person.

There is now no call, and probably will not be, for any person to deny himself or herself sufficient good, nourishing food. On the contrary, all should strive to keep themselves up to their belts. Eat plenty and the best you can afford; then you will be able to do your full share of the work that is before us.

Napoleon wisely said that "an army travels on its stomach." And it is equally true that we work on our stomachs. A hungry man or woman is incompetent for any task.

And it will be all too easy for us to develop a false economy in other lines. Miserliness and hoarding of means would be most dangerous to business conditions. Anything that checks the normal volume of exchange unsettles the markets and tends to promote panics. In fact, this is a large factor in all financial panics. Money becomes a little scarce, and we at once imagine that if we turn loose the dollar we have we will never see another. Millions of others imitate the same idea. You know the result.

The sensible economy and the true patriotism, is for each to exert himself to keep the business of the country normal. Buy and sell, earn and spend, as only by such a course can business be kept healthy and on the up grade.

Be economical and prudent, but do not be a miser.

DELIVER US FROM HATRED

There is one vital point upon which we as citizens must guard ourselves in the great contest before us and that is that there grow not up in our hearts a spirit of hatred toward those in our midst with foreign blood in their veins.

We have said that we are not to prosecute a war of revenge, but a contest for right and justice. This sentiment comes easy enough at this time. The danger will come later, when the real shock of war is felt and grim death fans us with his sable wings as he takes a son from this home and a husband or brother from that one.

Americans cannot afford to harbor hatred, and especially can they not afford animosity toward our citizens of foreign descent. If the citizen of Teutonic blood is loyal to our country, though he grieve at the necessity for war with his fatherland, his burden is heavy enough without the added knowledge or suspicion that he is viewed with antagonism and distrust.

If Americans are even approximately true to their ideals they will not permit the loyalty to suffer for the acts of the disloyal. To do so would be to defeat the very aims in view in the struggle before us.

No great cause was ever won without martyrdom. Some must suffer greatly, all must suffer some. It is nature's way in which she works out human redemption.

Let us pray to be delivered from all bitterness, that when the contest is ended even our foes may be brought to the light as we see it.

MAKE LABOR FASHIONABLE

One prominent American editor sounded a vital note when he suggested that our people should "make economy fashionable." That was a wise suggestion and one that should be heeded by our professional high livers.

But to it we wish to add this advice: Make labor fashionable!

Put the two virtues side by side in double harness! All over this country during the days that are coming, and the United States will easily come into being.

Seek to disguise it as we may, our country, when this war began, was fast drifting toward a loafers' paradise. Thousands of our young men have been reared in idleness, with not the faintest conception of the true dignity of manual labor. Starting with sons of wealthy parents, it extended downward in the scale of society, as class after class attempted to imitate those financially above them, until not only was there among all classes a physical aversion to honest toil, but the very idea seemed to carry with it a sense of inferiority and degradation.

Aside from the deplorable causes producing it, the present national campaign of production is the salvation of our country in more ways than just that of providing food for the world. It will make useful citizens of boys who were fast becoming degenerates from the lack of a serious occupation in life. It will give vital force to the academic teaching of the honor and dignity of labor. It will toughen muscles now unaccustomed to exertion, and will transform weaklings into that which the Almighty intended that they should be—men, vital, forceful, red blooded men.

No great forward stride of any people is ever accomplished without great sacrifice. When our revolutionary fathers conceived the vision of a great nation that should exemplify to the world the blessings of peace and liberty, they made great sacrifices, and made them willingly. Until the entrance into this war their descendants were in danger of losing sight of that grand vision through the curse of too great plenty of the creature comforts.

But we are awake at last. True, it took a world-wide calamity to arouse us; but once aroused, we are going to take a different view of man and his mission.

When we come into our own—which we will do when we have won the conflict before us—we will discover that the true glory of man lies in effort and achievement for their own sakes, rather than in the enjoyment of their fruits.

Bland's Band and Orchestra

IN 1912 the Lincoln System met circuit. In all the towns where Bland had played during their tour the year before the crowd in the tent on band days were nearly double those of other days. The band is larger and better than ever. In 1913, Mr. Bland will lead his Illinois circuit have been writing to the Lincoln System asking that Bland's band be sent to them again. So he has been put back again this year. The band is larger and better than ever. In 1913, Mr. Bland will lead his min as a band in the afternoon and as an orchestra at night on the fourth day. This is his sixth year with the Lincoln Chautauques. Make the fourth day of your Chautauque a real home coming—Lincoln Chautauque System.

$50,000 Owners' Contest to Follow Maxwell's Economy Triumph of May 23rd

Hundreds of Maxwells on May 23rd made good our claim that a Maxwell will go further on a gallon of gasoline than any other 5-passenger car—now, from June 16th to 30th, we expect 40,000 Maxwells to make on good a better showing than was made on historic May 23rd

May 23rd was Maxwell Gasoline Economy Contest Day all over the United States and Canada.

Fifty Maxwells, each won a total of 1,983.6 miles on a total of 50 gallons of gasoline.

The average gallon mileage of those cars was 39.67. And these were privately owned Maxwells, not rental cars.

Those 892 cars averaged 27.47 miles per gallon of gasoline. More wonderful records are being received daily.

We could rest our laurels on this great triumph—but we don't intend to do that.

$50,000 In U. S. Liberty Bonds To Be Given Away Next Time

Now we're offering $25,000 in U. S. Liberty Bonds as prizes to the 500 Maxwell owners who make the best mileage on one gallon of gasoline. Every Maxwell owner has an even chance to win a bond.

The other half of the $50,000 in Liberty Bonds is to go to dealers for helping us with this stupendous undertaking.

If you own a Maxwell your chance to win a Liberty Bond is as good as anybody's.

The contest is open to women as well as men Maxwell owners.

See us at once for details of the contest.

Enter this history-making competition now. Win a Liberty Bond.

George F. Atkins has opened his hotel and rooming house, Blue Street, at the corner of the State and Franklin streets. The interior of the building presents a very neat appearance, is certainly an improvement to the local business district as well as a needed one.

"Chautauque" Bill divides honors with Dustin Farnum in "The Parson of Panamint," which will be shown Saturday night at Caldwell's theatre. This story brings back the memory of the days when blood ran at fever heat, and when the thrill of the chase, made even slight, ran through the air.

William A. Sommerfeld, who is employed in the mail shipping department of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was one with thirty thousand others employed there who became members of the Red Cross society. Julius Rosenberg, president of the company, has already donated several millions for the country's cause.

National guardmen now daily guard duty, such as protecting factories, railroad bridges and the like, will be ordered to join their comrades when the national guard units are called in July and August.

Everybody likes the Western picture, and "The Parson of Panamint" is a "hooker" in this class. Mrs. Mary and her husband, and even the Parson "a little bit better."

This series story, coming to Catlow's theatre this Saturday, is one of the most uniquely successful photographs ever produced.

The annual B. H. Alverton baseball game will be played at Spangier's park Saturday, June 21, at 2 p. m. This promises to be an interesting game as both the alumni and high school have strong lineups.

A large force of men, probably forty in number, including carpenters, masons, plumbers and painters, are working on the Dunlap farms six miles northwest of this city, erecting the buildings necessary for this up-to-date plant. The farm is now owned by William Van der Burgh of Chicago, who is going to considerable expense in improving each according to his idea of a farm home.

The evening meeting of the Woman's Country Life association which was to have been held at the school house last morning evening is called off, because of the prevailing epidemic.

Mr. Charles W. Alverton, who is the speaker, will address the association some time in September.

The one-way for the evening of July fourth has been postponed until later in the season, and the management has made for all plans plenty on this date.

A dance is announced to be held at Caldwell's auditorium Friday evening, June 20, at 8 o'clock.

New ball are also advertised by a clean cut class of people. The floor is exceptionally good, and the management is succeeding in eliminating all tediousness of the dance.

Dancing, under whose conditions as suitable to our town, only fairly fresh entertainments to the youth of the community, but gives useful training in poise and etiquette. It is a factor in a community not to be despised. Ad-

A Word About Co-operation

TELEPHONE subscribers who co-operate with the telephone operators get the best results from the use of the service.

How you can do this: Speak directly into the transmitter. Be sure you have the right number and see that the operator repeats it back correctly.

Give your name, the full name, or the telephone number when responding to a call. Do not say "Hello."

Do not have a subordinate make your telephone call; keep your own part of the conversation. When you "take time" in beginning the conversation.
