Subscriptions aggregating about $600 were received from members of the company for the purchase of uniforms, which will cost, including shoes, about $15 for each man. The uniforms will be purchased as soon as a sufficient amount is saved.

The first company drill was held Monday evening at Catlow's hall. Twenty-six men present were placed in charge of Lieutenant Otis, who gave a splendid demonstration of his ability as an army officer. Everyone seemed anxious to learn all he could. The company will drill each Monday or from 7:30 to 9:30. As long as weather conditions are good, drills will be held out of doors. At the present rate of recruiting the required number for a recognized unit will soon be reached. Those thinking of enlisting should do so immediately in order to be on an even footing with those who are already in summered drilling.

Those who are not in a position to donate such amounts are asked to give to help pay expenses of the organization.

There will soon appear in the Review the first instalment of "Contraband", a serial story of the early days of the present war. It concerns America only, and has been described as "the best tale in ten years." Randall Parrish, the author, former editor, knows what real adventure is, because he tried to be a lawyer, editor and cow-boy in the lawless in the days before that section of the country was tamed.
He subdued Gopher Legman, proponent of the gold and silver mine

CONTRABAND

By RANDALL PARRISH

THE outbreak of the Great War and the attempt by a big speculator to organize a copper pool supplies the motif for this splendid story.
The scene is laid almost entirely the high seas first on the private yacht of the Copper King, then on a big freighter, filled with contraband of war, attempting to run the blockade. With the sinking of this vessel the action passes to a gruesome death ship, laden with treasure and horrors.

From the time Robert Hollis encounters a strange, mysterious young woman on board the "Emerald," until the two have the death ship together, there is a succession of thrilling situations and perilous adventures related as only Parrish can tell them.
